Dividend, Was anciently uſed for indenture. Clauſ. 6 Ed. 2. in Dorſo. M. 24, and ſtat. de Eſcaetoribus 29 Ed. 1.

Diviſa, Signifies a deviſe of goods by a laſt will, and ſometimes a will itſelf. Gervaſ. Dorob. writing of the will of Hen. 2. Anno 1182. tells us, Notum facio quod apud Waltham feci diviſam meam de quadam parte pecuniæ meæ in hunc modum, &c. Sometimes 'tis taken for a charity given by a laſt will; as in Eadmerus, lib. 1. p. 8. Huic quadam vice ſolidi quinque de illis (nam diviſæ per temporum vices conferebantur) ex precepto ejus dati ſunt, &c. Sometimes it ſignifies a parcel or portion of land deviſed by a laſt will; or ſet apart, Diviſis Limitibus. Leg. Inæ, cap. 44. Ceorli habeant herbagium in communi, vel aliam compaſcualem terram vel diviſam claudendam. Sometimes 'tis taken for the bounds of a place or farm, as in Leg. H. 1. cap. 57. Si inter compares vicinos utrinque ſint quæralæ, conveniant ad diviſas terrarum. And ſometimes it ſignifies an award, as in Leg. H. 2. cap. 9. Omnis cauſa terminetur vel in comitatu vel diviſis parium. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Diviſæ, Diviſes or bounds, Deviſas perambulare, to walk the bounds of a pariſh.——Ut ſupra terram unde calumpniata fuit, ipſa cum ſuis, ego vero cum meis ad diviſas perambulandas convenerimus. Cartular. Rading. MS. f. 108. b. So is diviſæ uſed for the borders or limits of diviſion between lands, pariſhes, or counties,—Sic uſque Hetheneburne inter Akemanſtrete inter deviſas inter Com. Oxon. & Buck. Paroch. Antiq. pa. 324. Hence the Deviſes, or Divizes, a town in Wiltſhire, ſituated on the confines of the Weſt-Saxon and Mercian kingdoms.

Diviſe. See Deviſe.

Divorce, (Divortium, a divertendo) Is a ſeparation of two de facto married together; of which there are two kinds; one a vinculo matrimonii; the other a menſa & thoro. The woman divorced a vinculo matrimonii, receives all again that ſhe brought with her. This only ariſes upon a nullity of the marriage, through ſome eſſential impediment, as conſanguinity or affinity within the degrees forbidden, pre-contract, impotency, &c. of which impediments the Canon law allows fourteen, comprehended in theſe verſes.

Error, conditio, votum, cognatio, crimen,
Cultus, diſparitas, vis, ordo, ligamen, honeſtas,
Si ſis affinis, ſi forte coire nequibis,
Si parochi & duplicis deſit præſentia teſtis,
Raptave ſit mulier, nec parti reddita tuta.

Divorce is a judgment ſpiritual; wherefore, if there be occaſion, it ought to be reverſed in the ſpiritual court. See Coke, lib. 7. Kenne's caſe. Idem, lib. 5. fol. 98. and on Litt. fol. 235.

In the old law, the woman divorced was to have of her huſband a writing (as St. Jerome and Joſephus teſtify) to this effect, I promiſe, that hereafter I will lay no claim to thee; which was called a bill of divorce.

By the Canon law a divorce is not permitted without ſufficient cognizance had of the cauſe. But by the Civil law, divorces were often made through heat of anger, where the Romans had a mind to put away their wives, by ſending them a bill of divorce by one of their freedmen, who was to acquaint the wife with the purpoſe and intention of her huſband. Ayl. Par. 225.

Dr. Ayliffe ſays, By the Papal Canon law there are only five cauſes of divorce; to wit, adultery, impotency cruelty, infidelity, and entring into religion. Ayl. par. 226. unto which ought to have been added conſanguinity.

There be two kinds of divorces: The one that diſolveth the marriage a vinculo matrimonii, as for conſanguinity; and the other a menſa & thoro, as for adultery, becauſe that divorce by reaſon of adultery cannot diſſolve the marriage a vinculo matrimonii, for that the offence is after the juſt and lawful marriage. 3 Inſt. 88.

Cauſes for ſeparation a vinculo, are conſanguinity or affinity within the degrees prohibited, alſo impuberty or frigidity; where the marriage was merely void ab initio, and the ſentence of divorce only declaratory of its being ſo. Inſomuch that in debt upon an obligation, though the defendant pleaded that at the time of the bond ſhe was wife to a perſon there named; yet the plaintiff ſhewing that a former wife was alive at the time of his marrying the defendant, and that thereupon her marriage with him had been adjudged null and void in the ſpiritual court, judgment was given againſt her, becauſe the marriage being merely void, ſhe was always ſole: And it was further ſaid, that in ſuch caſe the divorce was only declaratory, and there needed not any ſuch ſentence. Cro. El. 857. Gibſ. 446.

The effects of that original voidance and nullity are, that the wife is barred of dower, and the iſſue are illegitimate; and that the perſons ſo divorced may marry any others. Gibſ. 446.

Concerning a divorce a vinculo in caſe of impuberty, or the male or female's marrying under the marriageable years, that is, the firſt under fourteen, or the ſecond under twelve; the books of Common law do confirm and ratify this nullity; not only by declaring, that in caſe of ſuch divorce, the woman may have an aſſiſe for the land given in frank-marriage, but alſo in affirming further, that though the man hath iſſue by ſuch marriage, and is divorced, and marries again, and hath iſſue, and dies, the iſſue of the ſecond wife ſhall be his lawful heir; nor will any averment of conſenting, and living together after the marriageable years be received or admitted in the temporal court, after a divorce in the ſpiritual court made upon the original nullity, and unrepealed. Gibſ. 446.

In like manner, do the books of the Common law reſolve, in the caſe of divorce a vinculo for frigidity, after three years trial and examination, and ſentence in the ſpiritual court, for the perpetual impotency of generation. As it was in Bury's caſe, M. 40 & 41 El. who was ſo divorced, but afterwards married another wife, and had children by her: Upon which it was urged, that the church being evidently deceived as to his perpetual impotency, the divorce thereupon was null; and if ſo, that the ſecond marriage was unlawful, and the iſſue illegitimate. But the court reſolved, that ſince there had been a divorce for frigidity or impotency, it was clear that each of them might lawfully marry again, and though it ſhould be allowed, that the church appearing to have been deceived in the foundation of their ſentence, the ſecond marriage was voidable, yet till it ſhould be diſſolved, it remained a marriage, and the iſſue during the coverture lawful. Gibſ. 446.

But tho' a ſentence of divorce, given in the ſpiritual court, may be repealed after the death of the parties, yet if any of the parties be dead before ſuch ſentence given, ſuit cannot be in the ſpiritual court to declare the marriage void, and baſterdize the iſſue; the marriage being already diſſolved by death, and the trial whether legitimate or not, in order to inheritance, originally belonged to the King's court; and the ſentence in the ſpiritual court being given only pro ſalute animæ, it comes too late. Gibſ. 446. Viner. Baſt. G. 4.

Divorce a thoro et menſa is, when the uſe of matrimoney, as the uſe of cohabitation of the married perſons, or their mutual converſation, is prohibited for a time, or without limitation of time. And this is, in caſes of adultery, cruelty, or the like; in which caſe the marriage having been originally good, is not diſſolved, nor affected as to the vinculum or bond. And this is ſo by the Common as well as by the Canon law; inſomuch that the wife ſo divorced, having ſued for a legacy left to her, and the huſband having given a releaſe hath been adjudged good, notwithſtanding the divorce. Nor doth this kind either bar the wife of her dower, or baſtardize the children; but intitles her to alimoney, which the eccleſiaſtical court aſſigns, in proportion to the circumſtances and condition condition of her husband; and no prohibition will lie. But as to the having again the goods she brought, or so much as is not spent; that, in the law books, is meant only of divorce a vinculo, or when there was a nullity of marriage ab initio, so as to be really no marriage. Gibs. 535.

But the children which she hath after the divorce, shall be deemed bastards; for a due obedience to the sentence will be intended, unless the contrary be shewed. 1 Salk. 123.

By Can. 107. In all sentences pronounced only for divorce and separation a thoro & mensa, there shall be a caution and restraint inserted in the act of the said sentence, that the parties so separated shall live chastly and continently; neither shall they, during each other's life, contract matrimony with other persons. And for the better observation of this last clause, the said sentence of divorce shall not be pronounced, until the party or parties requiring the same, have given good and sufficient caution and security into the court, that they will not any way break or transgress the said restraint or prohibition.

And this doctrine, that neither of the parties shall contract matrimony during each other's life, hath been confirmed by the temporal judges in the case of Foliambe, who having been divorced from his wife for incontinency on her part, married again during her life; and the second marriage was declared to be void, because it was only a divorce a thoro & mensa. And the same is the doctrine of the Canon law; and of the same tenor are the ancient constitutions of the English church. Nevertheless divers acts of parliament for the divorce of particular persons in the case of adultery, agreeable to what the reformatio legum did propose in general, have allowed a liberty to the innocent person of marrying again. Gibs. 446. Mo. 683.

And by Can. 108. If any judge give sentence of divorce or separation, and shall not fully keep and observe the premisses; he shall be, by the archbishop of the province, or by the bishop of the diocese, suspended from the exercise of his office for the space of a whole year; and the sentence of separation so given, contrary to the form aforesaid, shall be held void to all intents and purposes of the law, as if it had not at all been given or pronounced.

A divorce for adultery was anciently a vinculo matrimonii; and therefore in the beginning of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, the opinion of the church of England was, that after a divorce for adultery, the parties might marry again; but in Foliambe's case aforesaid, H. 44 El. in the Star-chamber, that opinion was changed; and archbishop Bancroft, by the advice of divines, held that adultery was only a cause of divorce a mensa & thoro. 3 Salk. 138.

Can. 105. Forasmuch as matrimonial causes have been always reckoned and imputed amongst the weightiest, and therefore require the greater caution when they come to be handled and debated in judgment, especially in causes wherein matrimony, having been in the church duly solemnized, is required upon any suggestion or pretext whatsoever to be dissolved or annulled; we do straitly charge and injoin, that in all proceedings to divorce and nullities of matrimony, good circumspection and advice be used, and that the truth may (as far as is possible) be sifted out by the deposition of witnesses and other lawful proofs and evictions, and that credit be not given to the sole confession of the parties themselves, howsoever taken upon oath, either within or without the court.

The rule of the Canon law upon this head, is in a decretal epistle of pope Celestine the Third, who injoineth; that the parties be not seperated by their own confession only, or by the rumour of the neighbourhood: For if they did believe that the ecclesiastical judge would concur with them, some persons would collude together, and confess incest, for the avoiding of their marriage: And the rumour of their neighbourhood ought not so far to be judged valid, as to disannul marriages; unless other reasonable and probable evidence do occur. Gibs. 445. See Dr. Gibs. Cod. and Dr. Burn's Ecclesiastical Law.

Diurnalis, As much land as can be ploughed in a day with an ox; an acre of land. In some authors 'tis wrote diuturna. Similiter concedi duas diuturnas telluris. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Do. To do law, is the same as to make law. Stat. 23 Hen. 6. c. 14. See Make.

Dobuni, Gloucestershire and Oxfordshire, or the inhabitants of that part of Oxfordshire next Gloucestershire.

Docket, or Doget, Is a brief in writing, on a small piece of paper or parchment, containing the effect of a larger writing. Symbol. part 2. tit. Fines sect. 106. And when rolls of judgment are brought into C. B. they are docketted, and entered on the docket of that term: So that upon any occasion you may soon find out a judgment, by searching these dockets. See Attorn. Pract. in C. B. 219—221.

Doctor and student, Is a book containing certain dialogues between a doctor of divinity, and a student of the Common law; wherein are contained questions and cases, as well of the equity and conscience used in the Common law, as also a comparison of the Civil, Canon, and Common law together, very worthy the reading. The author is said to be one Saint German, and the book was written in the time of Henry the Eighth.

Doctors. Doctors and bachelors of divinity and law may have a dispensation for non-residence, 21 Hen. 8. c. 13. sect. 23. Doctors of the Civil law may exercise ecclesiastical jurisdiction although laymen, 37 Hen. 8. c. 17. sect. 4.

Doctors Commons, Is the college of Civilians in London, which was purchased by doctor Harvey, dean of the arches, for the professors of the Civil law. Here commonly reside the judge of the arches court of Canterbury, the judge of the admiralty, and the judge of the prerogative court of Canterbury, with divers other eminent Civilians; who there living (for diet and lodging) in a collegiate manner, and commoning together, it is known by the name of Doctors Commons. It was burnt down in the fire of London, and rebuilt at the charge of the profession. Camberl. Present State.

Dog-days, Are sixty-four in all, a tertio idus Julii usque in idus Septembris. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Dog-draw, Is an apparent deprehension of an offender against venison in the forest. There be four of these mentioned by Manwood in his Forest Law, cap. 18. num. 9. Stable-stand, dog-draw, back-bear, and bloody-hand; where he saith, That dog-draw is where any man hath stricken or wounded a wild beast, by shooting at him either with cross-bow, long-bow, or otherwise, and is found with a hound, or other dog drawing after him to receive the same.

Dogger, A kind of little ship. 31 Ed. 3. stat. 3. c. 1. All the ships called doggers and landships, &c.

Dogger-fish, Seems to be fish brought in those ships to Blackness-Haven, &c. Ibid. c. 2.

Dogger-men, Fishermen that belong to dogger-ships. 25 Hen. 8. c. 4.

Dogget. See Docket.

Dogs. The law takes notice of a greyhound, mastiff dog, spaniel and tumbler; for trover will lie for them. 1 Cro. 125. 2 Cro. 44. A man hath a property in a mastiff: and where a mastiff falls on another dog, the owner of that dog cannot justify the killing the mastiff, unless there was no other way to save his dog, as that he could not take off the mastiff, &c. 1 Sound. 48. 3 Salk. 139. The owner of a dog is bound to muzzle him if mischievous, but not otherwise: And if a man doth keep a dog that useth to bite cattle, &c. if after notice given to him of it, his dog shall do any hurt, the master shall answer for it.

Doitkin, A base coin, prohibited by 3 H. 5. cap. 1. Hence probably we retain that phrase when we would undervalue a man, to say, He is not worth a doit or doitkin.

Dole, (Dola, Sax. dœl, pars, portio, from delan, dividere, distribuere) Is a part or portion most commonly of a meadow, so called to this day; as dole-meadow, anno 4 Jac. c. 11. where several persons have shares. In le Suthmede

Suthmede (i. e. prato australi) habet prior per sortem illam quæ vocatur crumdpreſt, tres dolas, ſicut ſors illa cadit. Et in qualibet dola, habet 4 polas ſive octo andenas (i. e. ſwaths) jacentes ſimul. Lib. Priorat. Dunſtable, cap. 5. We ſtill retain the word to ſignify a ſhare, as to deal a dole: He dealt his dole among ſo many poor people, that is, he gave every one a ſhare or part. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Dole-fiſh, ſeems to be that fiſh, which the fiſhermen yearly employed in the North ſeas, do of cuſtom receive for their allowance. See the ſtat. 35 H. 8. cap. 7.

Dolg-bote, A recompence made for a ſcar or wound, Sax. Diction. inter Leg. Aluredi Regis, cap. 23. legitur dolg bot.

Doom and Doom, Words uſed in ancient charters, ſignifying a power of judging, and ſecurity in poſſeſſing. See Doom.

Domboc, A Saxon word, ſignifying Liber judicialis, as appears by the laws of King Edward the Elder, cap. 8. This was probably a book of ſtatutes, proper to the Engliſh Saxons, wherein perhaps the laws of former Saxon Kings were contained; that chapter ſeeming to refer to the laws of King Ina, c. 29.

Dome or Deom, (Saxon dom) A judgment, ſentence, ordinance, or decree. The homage's oath in the Black Book of Hereford, fol. 46. ends thus,——So help me God at this holy dome, and by my trowthe. See Doom.

Domesday, (Liber judiciarius, vel cenſualis Angliæ, from the Saxon dom, i. e. cenſus vel æſtimatio, not domeſdei, nor domus dei as ſome authors writes it,) Is a moſt ancient record, made in William the Conqueror's time, and now remaining in the Exchequer fair and legible, conſiſting of two volumes, a greater and a leſs; the greater comprehending all the counties in England, except Northumberland, Cumberland, Weſtmorland, Durham, and part of Lancaſhire, which were never ſurveyed; and except Eſſex, Suffolk, and Norfolk, which three are comprehended in the leſſer volume, which concludes with theſe words; Anno milleſſimo octogeſſimo ſexto ab incarnatione Domini, vigeſimo vero regni Williellmi, facta eſt iſta deſcriptio non ſolum per hos tres comitatus, ſed etiam alios. It is called Liber judicarius, quia in eo totius regni deſcriptio diligens continetur, ſingulorumque fundorum valentia exprimitur. And Domeſday, (as Gerv. Tilb. ſays,) Non quod in eo de præpoſitis aliquibus dubiis feratur ſententia, ſed quod a prædicto judicio non liceat ulla ratione diſcedere. It was begun by five juſtices, aſſigned for the purpoſe in each county, in the year 1081, and finiſhed in 1086. Camden calls it Gulielmi librum cenſualem, The tax-book of King William. See more of it in Spelm. Gloſſ. and 4 Inſt. fol. 269. The dean and chapter of York have a regiſter called alſo Domeſday; ſo has the biſhop of Worceſter: And there is an ancient roll in Cheſter-caſtle called Domeſday-roll.

Our anceſtors had many doom-books. We are told by Ingulphus, pag. 870. and 908. that King Alfred made Talem Rotulum qualem Gulielmus Nothus, which is called Domeſday; and ſometimes the Wincheſter-roll becauſe it was kept there.

The Domeſday-book made by Will. 1. referred to the time of Edward the Confeſſor, as that of King Alfred did to the time of Æthelred: For the entries are thus made, C. tenet Rex Willielmus in dominico & valet, &c. ibi carucate, &c. T. R. E. Valebat, &c. i. e. It was worth ſo much, tempore Regis Edwardi. And this book is called Magna Rolla Winton.

The third book, which differs from the other in form more than in matter, was made by the command of the ſame King. The one being large, and in folio, but this leſſer, and in quarto; it ſeems to be the more ancient of the two; 'tis fairer written, and hath very few raſures. See Monaſticon, 8 tom. p. 272.

'Tis probable Ingulphus, though he lived near thoſe days, never ſaw theſe books; for he writes of incorporating theſe rolls, as if at that time they had not been made up in two volumes: of both which the Hon. Sir John Trevor, Maſter of the Rolls, had a very fine and exact copy.

There is a fourth book kept in the Exchequer, which is called Domeſday; and though a great volume, is only an abridgment of the other two. It hath many pictures and gilt letters in the beginning, which refer to the time of Edward the Confeſſor. And this led him, who made notes on Fitzherberi's Regiſter, into a miſtake, who in fol. 14. tells us, that Liber Domeſday factus fuit tempore Regis Edwardi.

There is a fifth book in the Remembrancer's office, which is the very ſame with the fourth before mentioned.

'Tis generally known that the queſtion, whether lands are ancient demeſne or not, is to be decided by the Domeſday of Will. 1. from whence there is no appeal; nor is there any averment to be made againſt it: And 'tis a book of that authority, that even the Conqueror himſelf ſubmitted ſome caſes, wherein he was concerned, to be decided by it. What is contained in this book appears by theſe old verſes:

Quid deberetur fiſco, quæ, quanta tributa,
Nomine quid cenſus, quæ vectigalia, quantum
Quiſque teneretur feodali ſolvere jure,
Qui ſunt exempti, vel quos Angaria damnat,
Qui ſint vel glebæ ſervi, vel conditionis,
Quove manumiſſus patrono jure ligatur.

Domeſmen, Judges, or men oppointed to doom and determine ſuits of quarrels.——Qui infra libertatem ſeu hundredum de Irchenfeld com. Heref. faciunt ſectam ad curiam hundredi, ut minores lites dirimant, vocantur domeſmen, i. e. Judices ſeu homines judiciarii. See Sil. Taylor of Gavelkind, p. 110. Hence falling of domes is the Scotch phraſe for reverſing of judgments, or annulling of decrees. Hence domer, judicium, and æg-deme, I deem or judge. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Domicellus and Domicella, John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaſter, had by Catherine Swinford before marriage, four illegitimate children, viz. Henry, John, Thomas, and Joan; and becauſe they were born at Beaufort in France, they were vulgarly called Henry de Beaufort, &c. John, before 20 Ric. 2. was knighted, and Henry became prieſt. At the parliament holden 20 Rich. 2. the king by his charter did legitimate theſe children. Rex,——Chariſſimis conſanguineis noſtris nobilibus viris Johanni Militi, Henrico Clerico, Thomæ Domicello ac dilectæ nobis nobili mulieri Johannæ Domicellæ, Germanis præchariſſimi avunculi noſtri, Joh. Ducis Lanc. natis ligeis noſtris, ſalutem, &c. Teſte Rege apud Weſtm. 9. die Febr. per ipſum Regem in parliamento. In this act (ſays Sir Edward Coke, 4 Inſt. fol. 37.) the ſaid Thomas could not be called Eſquire, and therefore had the addition Domicello, which, (ſays he) ſignifies a young ſoldier not yet knighted, or nobly born, &c. which is a miſtake. For there is no ſuch French word as Domoicell, but Demoiſel; nor can Domicellus properly be derived from thence, but is an abſolute Latin word, anciently given as an appellation or addition to the King's (natural) ſons in France, and ſometimes to the eldeſt ſons of noblemen there; whence doubtleſs we borrow the words. See Spelm. Gloſſ. verbo Domicellus: Tidemannus permiſſione divina Wigorn. epiſcopus dilecto in Chriſto filio Johanni de Fulwode noſtræ diæc. Domicello. ſalutem.—Dat. 7 Febr. 19 Rich. 2. Here it is uſed to a private gentleman as lord of a manor,——Sed nos indiſcrete de pluribus dominis, quia Barones vocamus Domicellos, Angli vero nullum niſi natos Regum, &c. Hov den, f. 347. n. 50.

But Domicelli are only the better ſort of ſervants, as appears by Thorn. fol. 1748. Domicellus abbatis, and Domicelli & ſervientes monaſterii, pag. 1990.

Domigerium, Damage, danger,——Vitam ſuam in laboribus variis ducens cum domigerio magno mendicando. Hiſt. Elien. apud Whartoni Angl. Sac. p. 1. p. 652.. Credebant Londinenſes quod per hæc dona domigerium evaſiſſent. Walſingh. 1392. Emolumentum Regi accrevit & domigerium ad populum. Knighton, anno 1352. In another place 'tis taken for power over another; Sub domigerio alicujus vel manu eſſe. Bract. lib. 4. tract 1. cap. 19. par. 2.

Domina, A title given properly to thoſe honourable women, who in their right of inheritance held a barony. So Maud the daughter of Robertus de Oilly ſen. who inherited the honour of Walingford, was therefore ſtiled Matildis domina de Walingford. Paroch. Antiq. p. 78.

Dominica in Ramis palmarum, Is Palm Sunday, ſo called, becauſe on that day they uſed to diſtribute branches of palm and other green boughs in commemoration of our Lord's riding to Jeruſalem, and the people cut palm boughs, &c. to ſtrew in the way, crying Hoſanna. Md. quod ego Henricus de Erdington feci homagium & fidelitatem domino Will. de Stafford apud Bromſhulf in com. Staff. die Mercurii prox. ante Dominicam in Ramis palmarum, anno regni Regis Edw. xxviii. pro terris & tenementis quæ teneo in villa de Hunſtanſeot in com. War. &c.

Dominicum, Demain or demeſne, terra dominicalis. Lands not rented to tenants, but held in demeſne, or in the lord's own uſe or occupation. Antiquum dominicum Regis, the King's ancient demeſne, are ſuch royal manors as were reſerved to the crown, to yield proviſion for the King's houſhold, and ſo let out in ſocage for farms or victuals, or in ſerjeanty for ſome domeſtic ſervices: but not diſpoſed of to barons or knights to be held by any feudatory or military ſervice. See Demain.

Dominium, Right or legal power.——In ſilva dicti manerii ſive dominii de Pidingtona, aut infra præcinctum ejuſdem, non habent aliqui extranei dominium aliquo modo in parte vel in toto ſe intromittere. Paroch. Antiq. p. 498.

Dominus, In ancient times being prefixed to a name, uſually denoted him a knight, or a clergyman: for ſo we find it often in charters, with His teſtibus Domino Edwardo de Sancto Mauro, Willielmo——, &c. It ſeems, however, that title was given to a gentleman of quality, tho' not a knight, eſpecially if he were lord of a manor.

Domo reparanda, Is a writ for one againſt his neighbour, by the fall of whoſe houſe he feareth hurt to his own. Reg. Orig. fol. 153. In this caſe the Civilians have the action de damno infecto.

Domus converſorum. See Rolls.

Domus Dei, The hoſpital of St. John in Jeruſalem; ſo called in Mon. Angl. 2 part. fol. 440.

Dona, Any ſort of property, or goods. Cowell edit. 1727.

Donatio cauſa mortis, Is a gift in proſpect of death; where a perſon moved with the conſideration of his mortality, doth give and deliver ſome thing to another to be his in caſe the giver die, but if he lives he it to have it again. Law of Teſt. 179. See Wills.

Donative, Is a benefice merely given and granted by the patron to a man, without either preſentation to the ordinary, or inſtitution by the ordinary, or induction by his commandment. F. N. B. fol. 35. Of this Petr. Gregor. de benefic. cap. 11. n. 1. hath theſe words, Si tamen capellæ fundatæ per laicos non fuerint a diœceſano approbatæ & (ut loquuntur) ſpiritualizatæ, non cenſentur beneficia, nec ab epiſcopo conferri poſſunt, ſed ſunt ſub pia diſpoſitione fundatoris. Cowell, edit. 1727.

A donative is a ſpiritual preferment, be it church, chapel, or vicarage, which is in the free gift or collation of the patron, without making any preſentation to the biſhop; and without admiſſion, inſtitution, or induction by any mandate from the biſhop or other; but the donee may by the patron, or by any other authorized by the patron, be put into poſſeſſion. Deg. p. 1. c. 13.

And this right in the donor (together with the exemption of the church from eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction) ſeemeth to have come from the conſent of the biſhop in ſome particular caſes: As when the lord of a manor in a great pariſh, having his tenants about him at a remote diſtance from the pariſh church, did offer to build and endow a church there, provided that it ſhould belong intirely to his family, to put in ſuch perſons as they ſhould think fit, if they were in holy orders. It is very poſſible that the biſhops at that time, to encourage ſuch a work, might permit them to enjoy this liberty; which being continued time out of mind, is turned into a preſcription. And they are to be diſtinguiſhed from thoſe called ſine-cures, and exempt juriſdictions: For ſine-cures in truth are benefices preſentable; but by means of vicarages endowed in the ſame places, the perſons who enjoy them have by long cuſtom been excuſed from reſidence: And exempt juriſdictions are not ſo called, becauſe they are under no ordinary; but becauſe they are not under the ordinary of the dioceſe, but have one of their own; and are therefore called peculiars. 1 Still. 335.

There is not any one particular ſort of eccleſiaſtical preferments, that are peculiarly ſaid to be donatives; for ſome of all ſorts may be donative, as well as preſentative, or elective. For biſhopricks were donative in England, after the conqueſt, until the time of King John. And a deanry may; for thoſe deanries that were tranſlated from priories and convents, or which were founded after the diſſolution of abbies and monaſteries by King Henry the Eighth, or other Kings of this realm, are donative, and conferred by the King's letters patent. So a prebend may be donative, as at Windſor and Weſtminſter, in the chapels of the King, where the prebend being void, it is ſaid, that the King ſhall make collation of his clerk by patent, and by force thereof he ſhall take poſſeſſion without any inſtitution or induction. Alſo a benefice with cure of ſouls may be a donative; as the rectory of Briery or Burien in Cornwall: And ſo the church of the Tower of London is a cure of ſouls, and the King's donative. Watſ. c. 15.

Yet ſome of theſe inſtances, and other ſuch like, may be ſaid to reſemble donations, rather than to be donations, properly ſo called; ſuch as the grant of the King to prebends without inſtitution; ſo alſo, the collation of a biſhop without preſentation; and the nomination to perpetual curacies, which is without either preſentation, inſtitution, or induction. For theſe differ from donatives properly ſo called, which are given and fully poſſeſſed by the ſole donation of the patron in writing; inaſmuch as collations and royal grants are to be followed by induction and inſtalment; and perſons nominated to curacies are to be authorized by a licence from the biſhop, before they can legally officiate, whereas poſſeſſion by donation is not ſubject to any of theſe conſequents, but receives its full eſſence and effect from the ſingle act and ſole authority of the donor as aforeſaid. Watſ. c. 15.

By the ſeveral ſtamp acts; for every ſheet or piece of vellum or parchment, or ſheet of paper, upon which any donation which ſhall paſs the great ſeal of England, or upon which any donation to be made by any patron whatſoever, of or to any benefice, dignity, or eccleſiaſtical promotion, ſhall be ingroſſed or written, ſhall be paid a double forty ſhilling ſtamp duty. Provided, that ſuch benefice, dignity, or promotion be of the yearly value of 10*l.* or above in the King's books.

The grant of a donative being once made, creates a right as full and laſting as inſtitution and induction; that is, a right not to be taken away, but by the reſignation or deprivation of the donee; the reſignation to be made to the donor, and the deprivation to be made by the donor likewiſe; both the church and the clerk being exempt from ordinary juriſdiction. To this purpoſe it is, what we find in the reports of Sir John Davis, that a donative cannot be granted for years or at will only, becauſe this great inconvenience would follow, that the freehold might be in perpetual obeyſance; which is an inconvenience that the law will not ſuffer. Gibſ. 819.

The form of a donation may be thus: To all to whom theſe preſents ſhall come. Know ye, that I A. B. of——— in the county of —— eſquire, have given and granted, and by theſe preſent do give and grants to my beloved in Chriſt C. D. clerk, the office of or place of curate [or as the caſe ſhall be] of the chapel of ——— in the county of ——— now lawfully vacant, and to my donation and free diſpoſition in full right belonging, and by theſe preſents do make, conſtitute, and appoint him the ſaid C. D. curate of the ſaid chapel, to have, hold, and enjoy the ſaid office or place of curate in the chapel aforeſaid to him the ſaid C. D. during his natural life, with all and every the ſalaries, ſtipends, rights and appurtenances to the ſame office or place of curate aforeſaid in any wiſe belonging or appertaining, as fully, freely, and perfectly, and in as ample manner and form, as any other hath or ought to have, hold and enjoy the ſame. In witneſs whereof I have hereunto ſet my hand and ſeal, the ——— day of —— in the year of our Lord.—— Ecton. 459.

Or thus: To all to whom these presents shall come, A. B. of ——— in the county of ——— esquire, lord of the manor of ——— in the county of ——— sendeth greeting. Whereas the chapel of ——— aforesaid, is now vacant, and to my donation in full right belongeth; know ye that I the aforesaid A. B. have given and granted to my beloved in Christ C. D. clerk, the aforesaid chapel of ———, with all its rights and appurtenances, and by the tenor of these presents do induct him the said C. D. into corporal possession of the said chapel, with all its apturtenances. In witness whereof, &c. Ecton. 461.

For other matters, see Dr. Gibson's Cod. and Dr. Burn's Ecclesiastical Law.

Donor and Donee. Donor, is he who gives land or tenements to another, and he to whom the same is given is the donee.

Doom or Dome, Sax. Dom, A judgment, sentence, ordinance or decree; also sense or signification. Substantiva quædam (says Mr. Somner) exeunt in dom, ubi compositionis gratia videtur oppositum, et quandoque munus denotat vel officium, item ditionem & dominium, ut in Kingdom, Earldom, &c. — Habeat girthbriche & forfial, & dom, & som, & wreche in Mari. Mon. Angl. 1. par. fol. 284. a. See. Doth.

Dorchester. The burgesses shall have their weighing twelve miles round, 9 Hen. 6. c. 6.

Dorick. See Dorlok.

Dorit. To what duties liable, 4 Will. & Ma. c. 5. sect. 2.

Dorobernia. Canterbury.

Do sale. A cloth or curtain, hanging in the choir, so called, because sedenti ad dorsum appenditur.

Tresque dedit cappas, dorsalia plura, tapetas.

Dorsile. See Dorsale.

Dorture. Dormitorium, Anno 25 H. 8. cap. 11. Is the common room, place, or chamber, where all the friars of one convent slept and lay all night.

Dosens, Straight cloths made in Devonshire, and so called in Rot. Par. 2 Hen. 5.

Dossale, Dorsale, Hangings, tapestry.———Dederat ei duo dorsalia honesta. Rog. Hoveden sub Ann. 954. —Dossale sive tapesium—Mat. Par. in vit. Abb. S. Albani.

Dote allignanda, Is a writ that lay for a widow, where it was found by office, that the King's tenant was seised of tenements in fee or fee-tail, at the day of his death, and that he held of the King in chief, &c. in which case, the widow came into the Chancery, and there made oath, that she would not marry without the King's leave. Anno 15 Ed. 3. cap. 4. and hereupon she had this writ to the escheator, for which see Reg. of Writs, fol. 297. and F. N. B. fol. 263. These widows are called the King's widows. See Widow.

Dote unde nihil habet, Is is a writ of dower, that lieth for the widow against the tenant, which bought land of her husband in his life-time, whereof he was seised solely in fee-simple or fee-tail, in such sort as the issue of them both might have inherited it. F. N. B. fol. 147. Regis. fol. 170.

Dotis admensuratione. See Admeasurement, and the Reg. orig. fol. 171.

Double plea, (Douplex placitum) Is that wherein the defendant allegeth for himself two several matters in bar of the plaintiff's action, whereof either is sufficient to effect his desire, which shall not be admitted for a plea. As, if a man allege several matters. the one nothing depending upon the other, the plea is accounted double, and not admissible; but, if they be mutually depending on each other, then it is accounted single. Kitchen fol. 233. See Brook, hoc tit. And Sir Thomas Smith gives this reason why such double plea is not admitted by our law; because the trial is by twelve rude men, whose heads are not to be troubled with too many things at once. Lib. 2. de Rep. Angl. cap. 13.

By stat. 4 Ann. c. 16. sect. 4. It shall be lawful for any defendant or tenant in any action or suit, or for any plaintiff in replevin, in any court of record, with the leave of the same court, to plead as many several matters thereto, as he shall think necessary for his defence.

Plaintiff brings a writ of error to reverse a common recovery. Defendant moved for liberty to plead double. The motion was opposed, because the act for the amendment of the law, whereby a defendant, by the leave of the court first obtained, may plead double, was not to be understood of a defendant in a writ of error, but a defendant in an orginal action; but it was insisted upon by the counsel on the side with the motion, that this act did extend to the defendant in a writ of error, as well as an original action; that the one might have as great occasion of pleading double as the other; that it had lately been resolved, that a writ of error did not abate by the death of one of the plaintiffs, whereas, as the law stood before that act of parliament, it would; that by the same reason by which the word plaintiff, in that part of the act of parliament, was to be extended to a plaintiff in error, the word defendant should likewise. It was further urged, that the pleading double was at their own peril; for if the court had not power by this act of parliament to grant them leave to plead double, the other side may demur; and to this opinion the court inclined; but the court made their motion fruitless, by declaring, that one of the things they desiged to plead, did upon the record appear to be false. 10 Mod. 326. Pasch. 2 Geo. B. R. Hurtson v. Aglionby.

The court was moved to plead and demur, but refused the same; for demurring is not pleading. 10 Mod. 280. Hill. 1 Geo. B. R. Hayson & al' (assignees) v. Jeffreys.

An heir shall not have leave to plead riens per descent with an other plea, except he make affidavit that he has riens per descent; nor shall an administrator have leave to plead plene administravit, and no assets, without an affidavit that he has no assets. 10 Mod. 334. Trin. 2. Geo. B. R. Carrington v. Warren.

Double plea was allowed on a promise of marriage, viz. non assumpsit and infancy. Gilb. 175. pl. 23. Pasch. 3 G. B. R. Holt. v. Ward.

A motion was made for liberty to rejoin double, as being with the equity of the act, which allows pleading double. But the court said, that they thought that this would be intirely inconvenient, and out of the reason of the act, and therefore refused it. 2 Barnard. Rep. 6. Trin. 5 Geo. 2. Anon'.

A rule to plead double, viz. non assumpsit, and a general release was discharged, because these pleas are contradictory. Notes in C. B. 228. Hill. 6. Geo. 2. Gibson v. Cole.

In trespass for entring of plaintiff's close and pulling down a weare; defendant moved to plead double, viz. liberum tenementum and a justification of pulling down the weare as a nusance, and rule nisi was obtained; but was afterwards on hearing counsel on both sides discharged by the court, the matter prayed to be pleaded being inconsistent. Notes in C. B. 229. Trin. 6. &. 7 Geo. 2. Halsey v. Feltham.

Defendant obtained a rule nisi to plead double, non assumpsit and non assumpsit infra sex annos. Plaintiff shewed for cause, that the rule to plead was expired before the motion to plead double was made: but the court held, that defendant was proper to move to plead double any time before judgment signed. Notes in C. B. 229. Mich. 7 Geo. 2. King v. Boswell.

Action was brought against an innkeeper, for detaining two horses of the plaintiff's; it was moved to plead double, viz. Not guilty, and an accord and satisfaction, and would have compared it to non assumpsit infra sex annos. The court denied to make any rule, the matter prayed to be pleaded being contradictory. Notes in C. B. 230. Hill. 7 Geo. 2. Dursley v. Cole.

A rule was made for plaintiff to shew cause why defendant should not plead, viz. non assumpsit and non assumpsit infra sex annos. Plaintiff on shewing cause, produced an affidavit, that defendant had not appeared, and consequently not being in court, was not proper to make the motion, and the rule was discharged. Notes in C. B. 233. Mich. 8 Geo. 2. Benn v. Geary.

It was moved to plead double, non assumpsit and plene administravit, which was denied by the court, no affidavit being being produced that defendant had fully administered. Notes in C. B. 234. Mich. 8 Geo. 2. Heathfield v. Allen.

On motion to plead double, solvit ad diem and riens per descent, it was objected that an affidavit of the fact as to riens per descent ought to be produced from the heir, as from executor or administrator in a plene administravit, and the objection was held good. Notes in C. B. 234. Mich. 8 Geo. 2. The Burgesses of Wisbetch v. Frier.

Defendant pleaded non assumpsit infra sex annos and plaintiff demurred to the plea; the matters in question being actions between merchant and merchant, and defendant thereupon moved to add to his former plea a general non assumpsit upon payment of costs; but this was denied. Notes in C. B. 234. 8 Geo. 2. Parson. v. Ives.

A motion to plead double, viz. non assumpsit, and several matters set off against plaintiff's demand, was denied per cur. as contradictory. The general issue must be pleaded with notice to set off pursuant to statute. Notes in C. B. 236. Pasch. 8 Geo. 2. Jarrat v. Robinson.

A motion to plead double, viz. nil debet and nil habuit in tenementis, was refused. Per. cur. The latter may be given in evidence upon the former. Notes in C. B. 236. Trin. 8 & 9 Geo. 2. Marshal v. Lawrence.

In a prohibition it was moved to plead double, viz. That J. C. &c. named in the declaration at a meeting, &c. did not make up a true and just account, &c. and that the account mentioned in the declaration was not examined, allowed and approved by the vestry; and the same was granted on hearing counsel on both sides. Cases of Practice in C. B. 122. Mich. 9. Geo. 2. Coats v. Smith and Midgely.

In trespass it was moved for defendant for leave to plead doubly, viz. non cul' and liberum tenementum of the liberty of St. Catherine's, and obtained a rule to shew cause, which was afterwards made absolute upon an affidavit of service, no cause being shewn. Notes in C. B. 241. 10. Geo. 2. Stibbs v. Neeves.

In replevin the court gave leave to plead doubly, viz. that plaintiff in replevin had not property, and a justification as a distress for rent. Notes in C. B. 244. Mich. 10. Geo. 2. Bird v. Spinks.

After a judge's order for time to plead, pleading an issuable plea, defendant moved to plead double matter, and the question was, whether a rule for that purpose ought to be granted or not? the court took time to consider, and after conferring with the judges of other courts, gave defendant leave to plead doubly, pleading issuable pleas, and taking short notice of trial. Notes in C. B. 244. Mich. 10. Geo. 2. Leighton v. Leighton.

Defendant had pleaded non assumpsit infra sex annos, and moved to add to that plea non assumpsit generally, which was denied. After defendant had pleaded a single plea, he cannot have leave to plead doubly. Notes in C. B. 245. Hill. 10 Geo. 2. Nevil v. Fisher.

In trespass it was moved to plead doubly, Not guilty and justification, which was denied as contradictory. Notes in C. B. 245. Hill. 12. Geo. 2. Barnett v. Greaves.

Assumpsit. Defendant paid 10*l. on the common rule*, and afterwards obtained a rule to plead double, non assumpsit and non assumpsit infra sex annos. Plaintiff moved to set aside the double plea with costs, and had a rule to shew cause, which was made absolute. Plaintiff by the rule to pay money into court is confined to plead the general issue, and no other plea. The motion afterwards to plead double, is an imposition on the court. Notes in C. B. 245, 246. East. 10. Geo. 2. Buck v. Warren, Attorney in case.

It was moved to plead double, viz. damage-feasant, and under a demise from defendant to plaintiff. Ch. J. said, he thought them inconsistent; but as defendant obtained a rule to shew cause, and plaintiff did not oppose it, it must be absolute. Notes in C. B. 246. East. 11. Geo. 2. Church v. Feudall.

The court gave defendant leave to plead doubly, viz. a distress for damage-feasant and for rent in arrear. This is not stronger than Not guilty and liberum tenementum, solvit ad diem, and a mutual debt, which have been granted. Notes in C. B. 247. Trin. 11 & 12 Geo. 2. Baynes v. Lutwidge.

Defendant having obtained a rule to plead doubly (non assumpsit and non assumpsit infra sex annos) plaintiff moved to discharge it, insisting that defendant who was a prisoner in the Fleet at the time of his being charged with the declaration, before this rule obtained, was discharged at the sessions of the peace, by the compulsory clause in the insolvent debtors act 10 Geo. 2. and being at large, could regularly apply for the rule to plead doubly without first entring a common appearance; which was not done. The question was never determined, but by consent the plaintiff had leave to discontinue without costs. Notes in C. B. 274. Trin. 11. & 12 Geo. 2. Cock. v. Kerridge.

Rule made absolute to plead double, non assumpsit and defendant's discharge under the insolvent debtors act 10 Geo. 2. Notes in C. B. 252. East. 12. Geo. 2. Jones v. Body.

A rule the same term in case of Lisle v. Jenyns, had been made to shew cause, and made absolute on affidavit of service (no case being shewn), to plead non est factum and defendant discharged under the said act. Notes in C. B. 252. Jones v. Body.

For more learning on this subject, see 9 Vin. Abr. tit. Double Plea.

Double quarrel, (more properly Double querele, Duplex querela) Is a complaint made by any clerk, or other, to the archbishop of the province against an inferior ordinary, for delaying of justice in some cause ecclesiastical; as to give sentence, to institute a clerk presented, or the like: The effect whereof is, that the said archbishop taking knowledge of such delay, directeth his letters under his authentick seal, to all and singular clerks of his province, thereby commanding and authorizing them, and every of them, to admonish the said ordinary, within a certain number of days, namely, nine days, to do the justice required, or otherwise to cite him to appear before him or his official at a day, in the said letters prefixed, and there to alledge the cause of his delay. And lastly, To intimate to the ordinary, that if he neither perform the thing enjoined, nor appear at the day assigned, he himself will without delay proceed to perform the justice required: And this seemeth to be termed a double quarrel, because it is most commonly made against both the judge, and him at whose petition justice is delayed. Cowell.

Doubles, Signify as much as letters patent, being a French word made of the Latin diploma. Stat. 14. Hen. 6. c. 6.

Dover. What pleas to be held by the constable, 28 Ed. 1. st. 3. c. 7. For paying of the rents to Dover castle, 32 Hen. 8. c. 48. What offenders may be committend to Dover castle, 32 Hen. 8. c. 48. sect. 6.

Douglas, alias Afland, (River) See Rivers.

Doulas and lockeram. Under what penalty the contents of every piece or half piece put to sale, must be set upon the cloth, 28 Hen. 8. c. 4. sect. 2.

Douze peers, Were twelve peers in Henry the Third's time, who were appointed at the instance of the barons, to be as privy counsellors to the King, or rather conservators of the Kingdom. Cowell, edit 1727.

Dow. To give, from the Latin Do.

Dowager, (Dotissa) A widow endowed, or that hath a jointure; a title or addition, applied to the widows of princes, dukes, earls, and persons of honour only.

Dowcates, The same with Dovecotes.

Dower, (Dos and Dotarium) The first (dos) properly signifies that which the wife brings her husband in marriage, otherwise called maritagium, marriage goods: The other (dotarium or doarium) that portion of lands or tenements which she hath for term of her life from her husband, if she out-live him. Glanville, lib. 7. cap. 1. Briton, lib. 2. cap. 101. in princip. Some authors have for distinction, called the first a dowry, and the other a dower, but they are often confounded. Of the former our law books speak little, this only may be noted; that whereas by the Civil law, instruments are made before marriage, which contain the quantity of the wife's dowry, or substance brought to her husband, that he, having the use of it during marriage, may, after certain deductions, ductions, reſtore it again to the wife's heirs or friends, after the marriage diſſolved. The common law of England, whatſoever chattels, moveable or immoveable, or ready money ſhe brings, makes them forthwith her huſband's own, to be diſpoſed of as he will, leaving her at his curteſy, to beſtow any thing or nothing upon her at his death: only if ſhe be an inheritrix, the huſband holds her land but during her life, except he have iſſue by her; and then he holds it by the curteſy of England, during his own life. See Curteſy. Of dower there are five kinds.

1. Dower per legem communem.
2. Dower per conſuetudinem.
3. Dower ex aſſenſu patris.
4. Dower ad oſtium eccleſiæ.
5. Dower de la plus belle.

Dower by the Common law is a third part of ſuch lands, as the huſband was ſole ſeiſed of in fee, during the marriage, which the wife is to enjoy during her life; for which there lies a writ of dower. Dower by cuſtom gives the wife, in ſome places, half her huſband's lands, ſo long as ſhe lives ſole, as in gavelkind: And as cuſtom may enlarge, ſo may it abridge dower, and reſtrain it to a fourth part: Ex aſſenſu patris, ad oſtium eccleſiæ, the wife may have ſo much dower, as ſhall be ſo aſſigned or agreed upon, but it ought not to exceed a third part of the huſband's lands. Glanv. lib. 6. cap. 1. And if it be done before marriage, it is called a jointure. Dower de la plus belle, is when the wife is endowed of the faireſt or beſt part of her huſband's eſtate. See Coke on Littl. fol. 33. b. Romanis non in uſu fuit uxoribus dotes retribuere, ideo verbo genuino carent quo hoc dignoſcitur; & rem ipſam in Germanorum moribus miratur Tacitus, dotem (inquit) non uxor marito, ſed uxori maritus affert. Spelman.

To the conſummation of dower, three things are neceſſary, viz. Marriage, ſeiſin, and the huſband's death. Bingham's caſe, 2 Rep. If the wife be paſt the age of nine years at the death of her huſband, ſhe ſhall be endowed. If a woman elope, or go away from her huſband with an adulterer, and will not be reconciled, ſhe loſeth her dower, by the ſtat of Weſt. 2. cap. 34. 2 part. Inſt. 433.

Camden, (in his Brit. tit. Suſſex) relates this memorable caſe, (out of the Parl. Records, 30 Edw. 1.) Sir John Camois, ſon of the Lord Ralph Camois, of his own free will, gave and demiſed his own wife, Margaret, daughter and heir of John de Gateſden, unto Sir Will. Panell, knight; and unto the ſame William, gave, granted, releaſed and quit-claimed all her goods and chattels, &c. So that neither he himſelf, nor any man elſe in his name, might make claim, or ever challenge any intereſt in the ſaid Margaret, or in her goods and chattels, &c. by which grant, when ſhe demanded her dower in the manor of Torpell, part of the poſſeſſion of Sir John Camois, her firſt huſband, then deceaſed, there grew a memorable ſuit in law, but wherein ſhe was overthrown, and judgment pronounced (in parliament 30 Edw. 1.) That ſhe ought to have no dower from thence, upon the ſtat. of Weſtm. 2. Quia receſſit a marito ſuo in vita ſua, & vixit in adulterio cum prædicto Gulielmo, &c. This caſe is cited alſo in 2 Inſt. fol. 435.

Dower, at Common law, is the third part of all the lands whereof the huſband has been ſeiſed during the coverture, of ſuch an eſtate as the children might, by poſſibility, have inherited, and to which, by the death of the huſband, the wife is intitled for her life. Co. Litt. 33. b. 39. b.

Dower, by the Civil law, was the portion the wife brought to her huſband, either in land or money, whereof the naturale dominium belonged to the wife, and the dominium civile to the huſband; ſo that the huſband had only the uſufructus during his life in things immoveable, but could not alien them; in things moveable, he might alien them, but muſt reſtore to the value: theſe, upon the diſſolution of the marriage, by the death of the huſband, or divorce, came back to the wife. See Vin. 249. Corvin, lib. 23. tit. 3. Honorius 114, 115. Donations inter ſponſum & ſponſam propter nuptias began about the time of Conſtantine, and were made before marriage; but by the Juſtinian conſtitution they were good after marriage, and were gifts from the huſband to the wife, which, upon the diſſolution of the marriage, came back to the huſband, as the dower did to the wife. Vin. 245. Inſt. of Imperial Law 43, 117, 118, 119. Among the Feudiſts, the rule was, non uxor marito, ſed uxori maritus affert; and the reaſon was, that the huſband and eldeſt ſon in the family being brought up in military exerciſe, the wife and youngeſt ſons tilled and improved the land, and in their expeditions found proviſions for the army; and having the third in labour, ſhe had the third part of the feud for the maintenance of her and her younger children during her life. Spelman tit. Doarium 175.

Under this head is conſidered,

1. What woman ſhall be endowed.
2. Of what eſtate a woman may have dower.
3. Of the things requiſite to the conſummation of dower, namely, marriage, ſeiſin, and the death of the huſband.
4. Of the aſſignment of dower.
5. Where the wife ſhall have her election to be endowed of one thing or another; and where of both; and of endowment de novo, and the dos de dote.
6. What ſhall be a bar of dower, and what not.
7. Of the proceedings and damages in dower unde nihil habet.
8. Of the admeaſurement of dower.
9. Of dower by cuſtom, dower ad oſtium eccleſiæ, dower ex aſſenſu patris, and dower de la plus belle.

1. What woman ſhall be endowed.

If the wife be of the age of nine years or more at the death of her huſband, ſhe ſhall have dower, tho' her huſband be then but four years old: The reaſon they would not allow women before this age to demand dower ſeems to be from their incapacity of having iſſue ſooner. Lit. ſect. 36. Co. Lit. 33. a. F. N. B. 149. 1 Rol. Abr. 675.

The ſupport of her children is part of the conſideration whereon this allowance of dower is founded; for as on the one hand it would be unreaſonable to extend it to ſuch women who are incapable of performing the conditions; ſo on the other hand it would not be reaſonable to exclude women of that age, by reaſon of the incapacity of their huſband's; ſince it was the act of God interpoſed to prevent their attaining a capacity, which ought in no ſort to prejudice the wife; much leſs can the huſband by his own act prevent his wife of dower, if ſhe attains the age of nine years during the coverture; and therefore tho' he aliens his land before, yet if ſhe after arrives to nine years of age, her title is now conſummate ab initio, and over-reaches his alienation; for dower being intended a proviſion for the wife and children, whenever ſhe attains ſuch an age, as the law adjudges her capable of children, nothing farther is required; and therefore tho' the huſband die before he or his wife are of age of conſent; yet if ſhe be nine years old, this is a ſufficient marriage to intitle her to dower, and ſo ought to be certified by the biſhop. 13 Co. 22. Co. Lit. 33. a. Dyer 313. pl. 92. 369. pl. 48.

If a man marries a woman of 100 years old, and dies, ſhe ſhall be endowed; for the law cannot determine the preciſe time of the failure of her capacity to have iſſue, which may vary according to the ſtrength and other circumſtances of the woman. Co. Lit. 40. 1 Rol. Abr. 675. S. P.

If a woman alien, be ſhe friend or enemy, marry a ſubject, ſhe ſhall not be endowed, becauſe by the policy of the law all aliens are diſabled from acquiring any freehold amongſt us; but for this vide head of Aliens, 7 Co. 7. Co. Lit. 31. a.

If a Jew born in England marry a Jew born alſo here, and the huſband is converted to the Chriſtian faith, and after purchaſe lands and enfeoffeth the other, and dieth, the wife ſhall not have dower. Co. Lit. 31. For Rich. 1.

erected a court where all the real and perſonal eſtate of the Jews was regiſtred, and upon the death of any Jew, ſuch eſtate came to the King, tho' it was redeemable by their children paying a fine; and in this court ſhe could not demand dower but againſt a Jew, and ſhe could not demand it at Common law againſt a Chriſtian; and for this reaſon it ſhews, if the huſband had not aliened, yet ſhe could not recover againſt the heir of a Chriſtian. Hollingſhead, vol. 3. p. 15.

If a woman be attainted of treaſon or felony, ſhe ſhall not have her dower, but if pardoned ſhe ſhall be received to demand it, tho' the huſband has aliened in the mean time, becauſe by the marriage and ſeiſin of her huſband ſhe was intitled to dower, and when the impediment is removed, her capacity is again reſtored. Co. Lit. 33. a. 13 Co. 23.

At Common law, if the huſband was attainted of treaſon, murder, or felony, the wife loſt her dower, becauſe it was a condition annexed to all feuds, that the feudiary ſhould not commit ſuch crimes. Co. Lit. 40. b. Plow.. 262.

But afterwards the ſtatute of 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. ordained, that in all caſes where the huſband was attainted of treaſon or felony, that their wives ſhould notwithſtanding have their dower; but 5 Ed. 6. cap. 11. repeals that in all caſes of treaſon; the words of which act being general, exclude the wife as well in caſe of petit treaſon as in caſe of high treaſon; but in caſe of miſpriſion of treaſon, or attainder of felony only, the other act ſtands in force, and therefore they ſhall have dower in all ſuch caſes. Stanf. 195. Co. Lit. 37. a. 392. b. 13 Co. 19. 3 Inſt. 216. Finch 71.

If the huſband ſeiſed of lands in fee makes a feoffment, and then commits treaſon, and is attainted of it, the wife ſhall not recover dower againſt the feoffee. Bendl. 56. Dyer 140. Co. Lit. 111. a. S. P.

The wife of a felo de ſe ſhall have dower. Plow. 261. a. 262. a.

So if the huſband be outlawed in treſpaſs, or any civil action, for this works no corruption of blood, or forfeiture of lands. Bro. 82. Perk. 388. Co. Lit. 31. a.

After the making of the ſtatute 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. it ſeems to have been doubted whether the wife ſhould not loſe her dower in caſe of any new felony made by act of parliament; and therefore where ſeveral offences have been made ſince, care has been taken to provide for the wife's dower: As in ſtat. 5 Eliz. cap. 14. which makes a ſecond forgery felony without clergy. So 3 Eliz. cap 3. which makes it felony to tranſport ſheep, &c. So alſo in 31 Eliz. cap. 4. which makes it felony to imbezel the King's armour to the value of 20 s. So in 3 Jac. 1. cap. 4. which makes it felony to ſerve foreign Princes without firſt taking the oath of obedience. So alſo in 1 Jac. 1. cap. 31. which makes any one's going abroad with the plague upon him, felony; and this loſs of dower being only part of the judgment by implication, may well be ſaved by an expreſs proviſo, without any repugnancy. 3 Inſt. 47, 48, 80, 81, 90.

If a woman being a lunatick kill her huſband, or any other, yet ſhe ſhall be endowed, becauſe this cannot be felony in her who was deprived of her underſtanding by the act of God; ſo though ſhe be of ſound mind, and refuſed to bring an appeal of his death, when he is killed by another, yet ſhe ſhall be endowed; for this is only a waver of that privilege the law has given her to be avenged of her husband's murderer; ſo it ſeems if ſhe refuſes to viſit and aſſiſt her husband in his ſickneſs, yet ſhe ſhall be endowed, for this is only undutifulneſs, which the law does not puniſh with the loſs of her intire ſubſiſtence. Perk. 364, 365.

If an idiot or lunatick marry, and die, his wife ſhall be endowed, for this works no forfeiture at all, and the King has only the cuſtody of the inheritance in one caſe, and a power of providing for him and his family in the other; but in both caſes the freehold and inheritance is in the lunatick, and therefore the wife dowable. Co. Lit. 31. a.

Widow of a mortgager not barred of her dower, if ſhe did not join in the mortgage, 14 Will. & Ma. c. 16. ſect. 5.

2. Of what eſtate a woman may have dower.

Of an annuity to a man and his heirs, after a writ of annuity brought, a woman ſhall not be endowed; but if a rent-charge be granted to a man and his heirs, and before any diſtreſs made the husband die, and the wife brings her writ of dower, the heir cannot, by claiming it to be an annuity, defeat her of her dower thereof; but if he brings an annuity, and recovers judgment before the wife, then it is become an annuity in perpetuum, and the wife ſhall be barred. Co. Lit. 32. a. 144. b. Pop. 87. Perk. 341.

Of copyhold lands a woman ſhall not be endowed, unleſs there be a ſpecial cuſtom for it; but if there be a cuſtom to be endowed thereof, then ſhe ſhall have the aſſiſtance of ſuch laws as are made for the more ſpeedy recovery of dower in general, being within the ſame miſchief, and therefore ſhall recover damages within the ſtatute of Merton. 4 Co. 22. Hob. 216. 5 Co. 116.

Of tithes women were not dowable till 32 H. 8. for before that ſtatute tithes were not a lay fee, but now they are dowable of them. Style's P. R. 122. 11 Co. 25. Co. Lit. 32. a. 159. a. 1 Rol. Ab. 682. And the beſt way to aſſign dower of tithes is the third ſheaf, or the third part of the tithes generally, becauſe it is uncertain what part of the land will be ſown; and therefore if the garbs of any third part of the land in certain ſhould be aſſigned, the tenant may perhaps not ſow that part at all, and ſo defeat the dower. How dower of wool and lambs is to be aſſigned, ſee 1 Brownl. 126. 2 Brownl. 143.

Of common of paſture in groſs, which is certain, a woman ſhall be endowed, but not of common without number, becauſe it cannot be divided without ſurcharging the common by two, which before was only in the power of one by the grant; and when one has power by the grant to put in as many cattle as he pleaſes; he alone is made judge of the number, which to divide, or delegate to another, would be unjuſt. Perk. 341, 342. F. N. B. 142. Co. Lit. 30. 1 Rol. Abr. 675. 11 Co. 45.

Dower of ſeveral lands, meadow, and paſture, and common of paſture cum pertinentiis in D. and upon ne unques ſeiſie que dower pleaded, and verdict for the demandant; it was moved in arreſt, &c. that of common in groſs without number a woman could not be endowed, which the court agreed; but here it being after verdict ſhould be intended common appendant, ſince otherwiſe the judge could not have directed the jury to find for the demandant, though it be not ſaid eiſdem ſpectant', and though if appendant, it was included in the cum pertinent', yet it is not bis petitum, but only an enumeration of the ſeveral things demanded. Cro. Car. 300. 1 Jones 315. S. C. 1 Rol. Abr. 675. S. C.

In dower the demand was de tertia parte liberæ faldæ, and held not good for want of ſetting out in certain, for what cattle, as to their number and kind, and ſo like common without number. Godb. 21.

A woman intitled to dower of a manor, in which were copyholders, demanded her dower by the name of certain meſſuages, certain acres of land, and certain rents, and not by the name of the third part of the manor, and recovered, and kept courts, and granted copyholds, which the whole court held to be void, becauſe ſhe had no manor, having made her demand, as of a thing in groſs; but if the demand had been of the third part of the manor, then ſhe had a manor, and might have kept courts, and granted copies. Godb. 135. See Perk. 341, 343, 344. Cro. Jac. 621. Palm. 264. Co. Lit. 32, 165.

Of an advowſon, be it appendant or in groſs, a woman ſhall be endowed, for this may be divided as to the fruit and profit of it, viz. to have the third preſentation. See Perk. 343, 344. F. N. B. 148, 150. Co. Lit. 32. Cro. Jac. 621. Cro. Eliz. 360. 1 Rol. Abr. 683. Co. Lit. 379. 3 Leon. 155. Cro. Jac. 691.

Of a mill a woman ſhall be endowed, though it cannot be divided, and therefore ſhe ſhall have the third toll diſh, diſh, or integrum molendinum per quemlibet tertium menſem. Co. Lit. 32. a. 11 Co. 25. Perk. 342, 415. 2 Brownl. 143. Bendl. 202. F. N. B. 149.

Dower was brought de tertia parte of a mill, a kiln-houſe, &c. and judgment to recover the third part in ſeparalitate per metas & bundas; and this judgment was reverſed upon error brought, for it ought to have been of the third part generally, and if per metas & bundas, none of them can make any uſe of it. 1 Lev. 182. 2. Keb. 8. S. C.

Of a bailiwick a woman ſhall be endowed, as to have the third part of the profits; ſo of a fair or market, the third part of the ſtallage; ſo of an office, as of the office of the Marſhalſea, to have the third part of the profits, and in ſuch caſes ſhe ſhall be contributory to the third part of the charge; ſo ſhe may be endowed de tertia parte exituum provenient' de coſtodia gaolæ abbatiæ Weſtmon. Or of the third part of the profits of courts, fines, heriots, &c. Perk. 342. Co. Litt. 32. 1 Rol. Abr. 676. F. N. B. 149. Plow. 379.

A woman may be endowed of the third part of the profits of a park-keeper, or of the third part of the profits of a dovehouſe, or of the third part of the profits of a piſcary, as the third fiſh, or tertium jactum retis. Co. Lit. 32. a. Plow. 379. b.

Dower; the tenant pleads, that Sir Thomas Gerrard was ſeiſed of the meſſuage now in demand, called B. in his demeſne as of fee, and being ſo ſeiſed, Jac. 1. by his letters patent under the great ſeal of England, created the ſaid Sir Thomas Gerrard, baron of B. and ſo the meſſuage in demand became caput baroniæ, and he prays judgment, if the demandant ought to be endowed thereof. The demandant demurred, and judgment was given for her in C. B. tenant aſſigns for error, that the demandant ought not to have dower of this meſſuage, being caput baroniæ; that would tend to the diſhonour of the dignity, to have the capital meſſuage divided and diſmembered, but it would be more for the honour of the realm that it be kept intire; and for authority cited Co. Lit. 31. b. Fitzh. Dower 180. Bracton, lib. 2. 170. b. Paſch. 4 H. 3. rot. 7. but Serjeant Wright and Mr. Northy contra, of which opinion was the whole court; for theſe authorities muſt be intended of feodal baronies, of which there are none at this day except Arundel; and this privilege was allowed to them, becauſe they ought upon neceſſity to defend the realm, to which they are bound by tenure; for the King at the creation of the barony gave to the baron lands and rents, to hold of him by the defence of the realm; but then this cannot be a feodal barony, for it was in the ſeiſin of the Gerrards before, and therefore was not given to the Gerrards by the King at the creation of the barony, to hold of him; and Rokeby J. ſaid, that this was the reaſon of the judgment in C. B. Lord Raym. Rep. 72. Hill. 7 W. 3. C. B. Gerrard v. Gerrard.

The eſtate of which the huſband muſt be ſeiſed, muſt be an eſtate in fee-ſimple, fee-tail general, or where the huſband is ſeiſed as heir of the ſpecial tail, which neceſſarily excludes deſcendible freeholds; therefore if a man makes a leaſe for life, rendring rent to him and his heirs, and after marry, and die, his wife ſhall not be endowed of this rent, becauſe it is but a deſcendible freehold; nor of the land, becauſe not ſeiſed during the coverture. 1 Rol. Abr. 676. Plow. 256. 10 Co. 98.

But if tenant in tail bargains and ſells his lands to the huſband, and his heirs, the wife of the bargainee ſhall be endowed againſt his heir, but not againſt the iſſue in tail; ſo if tenant in tail grant all his eſtate to one and his heirs, though it be of things which lie merely in grant, as rents, common, advowſons, &c. yet the wife of the grantee ſhall be endowed till the grant be avoided by the iſſue in tail; the reaſon of which difference between theſe deſcendible freeholds, and theſe eſtates made by tenant in tail, ſeems to be, that in the firſt caſe, the eſtate in its creation ſeems to be no greater than a freehold; but in the other nothing appears to the contrary, but that it may be an abſolute fee, and till the iſſue comes in to ſhew it otherwiſe, and claim his right, it ſhall, to all intents, be regarded as ſuch; and by conſequence the wife of ſuch grantee or bargainee is well dowable thereof, till the contrary appears. 1 Saund. 261. Plow. 556. 1 Bulſt. 163. 3 Co. 84. 10 Co. 96, 98.

If tenant in tail be attainted of treaſon, and the King grant the land to one and his heirs, the wife of the grantee ſhall be endowed; for the King had a qualified fee, ſo long as the tenant in tail had iſſue; and this qualified fee paſſed to the grantee. Plow. 557.

But if tenant in tail covenant to ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of his eldeſt ſon in tail, and after marries, and dies; yet his wife ſhall be endowed, becauſe when he limits an eſtate for his own life, he hath executed all the power he had over the eſtate by ſuch manner of conveyance, and the remainder is merely void; and he continues tenant in tail, as he was before; ſo if he had covenanted that the land ſhould deſcend, remain, or come to his ſon after his death; yet his wife ſhould be endowed; for this is only a covenant to permit his ſon to have what he ought not to hinder him of, and makes no alteration of the father's eſtate. Cro. Eliz. 279. 2 Co. 72. S. C. Moor pl. 105. S. C. Yelv. 51.

If tenant in ſpecial tail, remainder to him in general tail or fee be, and his wife die without iſſue, and he marries again, and dies, his wife ſhall be endowed, for by the death of his firſt wife without iſſue, he was become tenant in tail after poſſibility, &c. which being but an eſtate for life, was merged by the acceſſion of the remainder in tail or fee; and ſo his ſecond wife dowable. 1 Rol. Abr. 677. Brook 25. Perk. 338.

If A. ſeiſed in fee covenants to ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of himſelf and his heirs, till C. his middle ſon take wife, and after to the uſe of C. and his heirs; and after A. dies, and this deſcends to B. his heir, who dies, and then C. takes wife; it ſeems the wife of B. ſhall loſe dower, becauſe the eſtate of the huſband ended by expreſs limitation made before her title of dower began; and therefore her dower, which is derived out of it, cannot continue longer than the original eſtate. 1 Rol. Abr. 676.

Of an eſtate to a man and his wife, and the heirs of their two bodies; if ſuch wife die, and he marry a ſecond wife, and die, ſuch ſecond wife ſhall not be endowed, becauſe the iſſue by her cannot inherit per formam doni. See Bro. 19, 36. Cro. Jac. 615. Lit. ſect. 53. 8 Co. 36. 1 Inſt. 19. a. 2 Inſt. 336. Co. Litt. 31. 1 Leon 66. 3 Leon. 80. Noy 66.

The huſband muſt have the freehold and inheritance in him ſimul and ſemel, otherwiſe ſhe ſhall not be endowed; therefore if lands are given to the huſband for life, remainder to B. in tail, remainder to the huſband in fee or in tail, and he dies, living B. or any of his iſſue, his wife ſhall not be endowed. 1 Rol. Abr. 677. Perk. 335. Br. 6. See Cro. Eliz. 564.

If a leaſe be made for life, rendring rent; the leſſor marries, and dies, his wife ſhall not be endowed either of the rent or of the land; not of the land, becauſe her huſband was not ſeiſed of the freehold during the coverture, and the rent was but a freehold for life; but if a leaſe be made for years, rendring rent, and the leſſor marries, and dies, his wife ſhall have dower of the third part of the reverſion, and of the third part of the rent, as incident to it; becauſe he had the freehold in the land ſimul & ſemel, but ſhe ſhall not be endowed of the rent per ſe, merely becauſe her huſband was not ſeiſed of any freehold or inheritance in it; but if no rent be reſerved on the leaſe for years, then ceſſet executio during the term; and therefore if a leaſe be made for years, remainder to J. S. and his heirs, the wife of J. S. ſhall be endowed; but ceſſet executio during the term. Perk. 348. Bro. 44, 60, 89. Co. Lit. 32. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 678.

In dower upon ne unques ſeiſie que dower pleaded, the caſe was thus: A. tenant for life, remainder to B. and his heirs for the life of A. remainder to the heirs male of the body of A. remainder over; A. marries, and dies without iſſue; and if the remainder to B. and his heirs, during the the life of A. was such an interposing estate for life to A. and the remainder to him in tail, that his wife should not be endowed, was the question. And for the demandant it was said, that all the estate was really in A. and the remainder to B. for the life of A. was but a possibility, that if A. should commit a forfeiture, then B. might take advantage of it to preserve the remainders; and though by reason of this possibility, the estate for life of A. is not merged, yet the tail is executed to such purpose, that his wife shall be endowed; but the court on the first argument, gave judgment against the demandant; the reason seems to be, because the husband was not seised of the freehold and inheritance simul & semel. 3 Leo. 430, 437.

If the husband be seized of a joint estate, and dies, his wife shall not be endowed; as if lands are given to two men and their heirs, or the heirs of their two bodies, and one of them dies, his wife shall not be endowed, but shall go to the survivor, who is then in form the first feoffor or donor, and may plead it as an original feoffment or gift to himself; and so is paramount her title of dower, which is not complete till her husband's death. 3 Co. 27. Co. Lit. 30. a. 37. b. Bro. 4, 84. Cro. Car. 191.

So if lands are given to two men, and the heirs of the body of one of them, and he who hath the tail marries, and dies, leaving issue; yet his wife shall not be endowed, but the survivor shall take place, and though he die after, yet shall not the wife be endowed, because the husband, during the coverture, was not seised of an estate whereof she was dowable. Perk. 334.

Father and son joint-tenants, to them and the heirs of the son, were both hanged in one cart, for felony, (as it must be); the wife of the son brought dower, and upon ne unques seisie que dower pleaded, this matter was given in evidence; and further, that the son survived, as appeared by shaking his legs; and adjudged she would be dowable. Cro. Eliz. 503. Noy 64. S. C.

Of a tenancy in common a woman shall be endowed, for there no survivorship takes place, but each moiety descends to the respective heirs of the respective tenants in common; and in such case the dower shall be assigned in common too, for she cannot have it otherwise than her husband himself had. Co. Lit. 34. b. 37. a. Lit. sect. 44, 45.

3. Of the things requisite to the consummation of dower, namely, marriage, seisin, and the death of the husband.

If a man make a contract of matrimony with a woman, and die before the marriage be solemnized between them, she shall have no dower, because she never was his wife. Perk. 306. It was formerly held, that a woman married in a chamber should not have dower, 16 Hen. 3. and that the marriage should be celebrated in facie ecclesiæ; but the law is now altered, and marriages in private houses, if all circumstances are complied with, held good; and that God is not less present in such houses than in the most sanctified places. Perk. 306. F. N. B. 150.

If a woman make a contract of matrimony with J. S. and then marrieth with J. D. who is seised of lands, and dieth, she shall have dower of the lands of J. D. But if a man marry a second wife, living the first, and die, such second wife shall have no dower; so if a woman marry a second husband, living the first, and die, she shall have no dower. Perk. 304—5. Moor 226.

Upon issue of ne unques accouple en loyal matrimony, the bishop ought to certify, that they were accoupled in lawful marriage, though the man be under fourteen, or the wife above nine, and under twelve years of age at his death, because it was a good marriage till avoided, which now cannot be after his death; but if either disagree to the marriage at their age of consent, then it is avoided ab initio, and the wife shall have no dower. Co. Lit. 33. a. Dyer 305, 313, 369.

In dower upon ne unques accouple en loyal matrimony, and issue thereupon; a writ was awarded to the bishop, who certified, that she was accoupled in vero matrimonio cum prædict' B. sed clandestino, & quod B. & E. (demandant) thori & mensæ participatione mutuo cohabitaverunt usq; ad mortem prædict' B. and judgment thereon given for the demandant, and error brought and assigned (inter alia) that there was neither day, nor place of the marriage mentioned in the bishop's certificate; but the court held it not material nor issuable, because the certificate from the bishop is concluding; 2. That the certificate is not good, because it does not answer to the words of the issue, ne unques accouple en loyal matrimony; for that it was a true matrimony, and that they lived together at bed and board, is but argumentative, that they were legitimo matrimonio copulati; but the court disallowed this exception; for vero matrimonio, though clandestino, copulati fuerunt, is as good as legitimo matrimonio, and have all one intendment; and though it be clandestine, yet it doth not vitiate the marriage; and when it is added, that thori & mensæ participatione cohabitaverunt, &c. This proves they continued as husband and wife during his life, and therefore it is not to be questioned now; and the judgment affirmed. Cro Car. 351. See Bro. 64. Dyer 313. pl. 92. 368. pl. 48—9. 305. pl. 60. Co. Lit. 33. b. 9 Co. 19.

If there be a divorce causâ adulterii; yet the wife shall be endowed, for this does not dissolve the marriage, but only separates the parties a mensa & thoro, and the marriage still so continues in force, that if either of them marry any other, such marriage is void. Noy 108. Godb. 145. Co. Lit. 32. a. 33. b. 2 Leon. 171. Cro. Car 463. 7 Co. 70. 1 Rol. Abr. 680. cont.

So a divorce propter sævitiam or metum, is of the same nature, and does not dissolve the bond of matrimony, but is only a provision for the woman's safety, that she may avoid her husband's cruelty and ill usage, and therefore the wife in such case shall be endowed the rather. Cro. Car. 462.

But if there be a divorce causâ præcontractus, causâ consanguinitatis, causâ affinitatis, or causâ frigiditatis, the wife shall not be endowed, for these dissolve the vinculum matrimonii, and leave the parties at liberty to marry again; but if either of the parties die before such sentence of divorce be actually pronounced, it cannot be pronounced after; and therefore if the husband die before such divorce, his wife de facto shall have dower, for it was legitimum matrimonium quoad dotem, and the bishop ought to certify that they were legitimo matrimonio copulati. 1 Rol. Abr. 681. Co. Lit. 32. a. 33. b. 7 Co. 70. 5 Co. 98. 2 Leon. 169.

In dower the writ was præcipe A. quod reddat B. rationabilem dotem suam of the lands, &c. dudum C. quondam viri sui; and for not saying præcipe quod reddat B. quæ fuit uxor C. &c. that so she might appear to have title of dower as his wife, it was held ill; and that quondam viri sui would not sufficiently help it. Cro. Car. 217.

The husband must be seised either in fact or in law, to intitle his wife to dower; but a seisin in law is sufficient for that purpose, because otherwise it would be in the husband's power to defeat his wife of a subsistence after his death, by his own negligence or malice, and she cannot enter to gain a seisin in his right, as he may do into lands descended to her; which is the reason, that of a seisin in law a man shall not be tenant by the curtesy; and therefore if the ancestor die seised, and before that the husband enter into the land, he dies; yet his wife shall be endowed, though he had but a possession or seisin in law. Perk. 304. Co. Lit. 31, 358. Lit. sect. 681. 8 Co. 34, 36. F. N. B. 149. Stamf. Prerog. 41.

So if a lease be made for life, remainder to J. S. in fee, who marries, and the lessee dies, and then a stranger enters and intrudes upon the possession, and J. S. dies before any entry made by him, yet his wife shall have dower. Perk. 372.

If the husband purchase rent, and die before the day of payment, yet the wife shall be endowed; nay, tho' the day of payment be come, and the rent is tendred to the husband, who will not receive it, but utterly refuses it, and dies before any receipt thereof by him, or any other for for him, and before any thing paid in the name of ſeiſin thereof. Bro. 35, 66, 71. Perk. 373.

But if there be neither ſeiſin in fact nor ſeiſin in law in the huſband, during the coverture, but only a right of entry or action, then his wife ſhall not have dower; and therefore if a man be diſſeiſed, and then marries, and dies before any entry made by him, his wife ſhall not be endowed of that land. Perk. 366.

So if exchange be of lands between A. and B. and A. enters into the lands of B. and then B. marries, and dies before any entry into the lands of A. his wife ſhall not have dower of thoſe lands. Perk. 369.

If one infeoff a ſtranger, upon condition to be performed on the part of the feoffee, and after marries, and then the condition is broken, and the feoffor dies before any entry made, his wife ſhall not have dower; becauſe there was no ſeiſin at all in the huſband, during the coverture. Perk. 368.

So if a man makes a bargain and ſale to one and his heirs by indenture inrolled, with a proviſo, that if ſuch act be done, that the bargain and ſale ſhall be void; and after the bargainor takes a wife, and then the condition is broken; and before entry the bargainor dies, his wife ſhall not have dower; for though the eſtate of the bargainee veſted by 27 H. 8 of uſes; yet becauſe the huſband did not re-enter, the eſtate of inheritance in the bargainee was not deveſted, nor had the huſband any ſeiſin during the coverture. 6 Co. 34.

In ſome caſes, though the huſband be ſeiſed in fact, yet his wife ſhall not have dower, as of an inſtantaneous ſeiſin; and therefore if two joint-tenants are, and one of them makes a feoffment of his part, and dies, his wife ſhall not be endowed, becauſe he was ſole ſeiſed but for an inſtant, when he made the livrey; ſo if ceſtui que uſe after the ſtatute 1 Rich. 3. and before 27 Henry 8. had made a feoffment in fee, and died, his wife ſhould not be endowed, becauſe her huſband was ſeiſed but for an inſtant. Co. Lit. 31. F. N. B. 150. 1 Rol. Abr. 676. Moor 56.

If leſſee for life makes a feoffment in fee, or a leaſe pur auter vie, and die, his wife ſhall not have dower, becauſe he gained the fee but for an inſtant, and parted with it again, and this was no diſſeiſin. 1 Rol. Abr. 676. Bro. 30. Cro. Jac. 615.

If tenant in ſpecial tail marries a ſecond wife, who is not dowable of the tail, and after makes a feoffment in fee, and dies, his wife ſhall not have dower, becauſe he gained the fee but for an inſtant. Cro. Jac. 615. 1 Rol. Abr. 676. S. C.

So if connuzee of a fine grant and render the land by the ſame fine to the conuzor, and die, his wife ſhall not be endowed, becauſe he had ſeiſin but for an inſtant. Co. Lit. 31. Vaugh. 41. Cro. Car. 191. 3 Leon. 11.

As to the death of the huſband, this is either a natural or a civil death; but upon a civil death the wife ſhall not be endowed; as if the huſband entred into religion, and be profeſſed, his wife ſhall not have dower till he be naturally dead, for though upon ſuch profeſſion his heir may enter, and a writ of mordanceſtor lies; yet becauſe he could not enter into religion without the aſſent of his wife, and if ſhe had diſſented, his profeſſion would be void; therefore if ſhe does aſſent, ſhe in a manner vows chaſtity as well as her huſband, and ſhall have no dower during his natural life. F. N. B. 150. 1 Rol. Abr. 678. Perk. 307. Co. Lit. 33. b.

In dower of the lands of A her late huſband, the tenant pleads in bar that A. the huſband, was in full life at ſuch a place, Et hoc paratus eſt verificare qualitercunq; curia, &c. the defendant replies, that her huſband obiit at ſuch a place, &c. Et eſt in eccleſia ibidem ſepultus, & hoc parat' eſt verificare qualitercunq; curia, &c. Ideo conſiderat' eſt quod prædict' M. (demandant) doceat de morte, and dictus R. (tenant) de vita viri, & ſuper hoc dies datus eſt. At which day the demandant examined two witneſſes who did not ſpeak directly to his death, but only of their great intimacy with him, and his being gone beyond ſea for his religion, and that they had not heard of him in ſeven years, and concluded that in their conſcience they rather think him dead; and the tenant examining no witneſſes to prove him living, the demandant had judgment. Bendl. pl. 131. Dyer 185. S. C. Moor pl. 55. S. C.

4. Of the aſſignment of dower.

If a diſſeiſor, abator, or intruder aſſign dower, this is good, and ſhall not be avoided, unleſs they be in of ſuch eſtates by fraud and covin of the woman, to the intent ſhe may be endowed by them, or recover dower againſt them; and then this ſhall be avoided by the entry of him who hath right, though the aſſignment be indifferently made by the ſheriff after judgment of an equal third part. Perk. 394, 395, 398. Co. Lit. 35. a. 2 Co. 67. 3 Co. 78. 5 Co. 30. 6 Co. 58. Plow. 54. b.

If there be two or more joint-tenants of land, whereby a woman is dowable, and one of them aſſign her dower thereof, this is good, and ſhall bind the others, becauſe they were compellable to aſſign it in ſuch manner; but if one of them had aſſigned her rent thereout in lieu of dower, this ſhall not bind the reſt, becauſe they could not be compelled to it by ſuit. Perk. 397. Co. Lit. 35, 2 Co. 67.

If the huſband makes ſeveral feoffments of his lands to ſeveral perſons, and one of them endows the wife of the feoffor of his part in ſatisfaction of all that ſhe ought to have of the other feoffees, and ſhe accepts it, this is good; but yet they cannot take benefit of it, becauſe ſtrangers thereto, and cannot plead it, nor have any means to bring the other into court to plead it; but if the heir aſſigns her dower in ſatisfaction of dower out of his own lands, and the lands of the feoffees; then if a writ of dower be brought againſt the feoffees, they may vouch the heir who may plead this for his own ſafety, leſt they recover in value againſt him. Co. Lit. 35. 9 Co. 18. Perk. 400, 402.

If the huſband, ſeized of lands in right of his wife, or jointly with his wife, of lands whereof a woman is dowable, aſſigns the third part of the ſame lands to the woman for her dower, this is good, and ſhall bind the wife, although ſhe ſurvives him, becauſe they might be compelled to do it by ſuit. Perk. 399. Co. Lit. 38. 1 Rol. Abr. 681.

None can aſſign dower but thoſe who have a freehold, or againſt whom a writ of dower lies; therefore a tenant by ſtatute merchant, ſtatute ſtaple, or elegit, or leſſee for years cannot aſſign dower, for none of theſe have an eſtate large enough to anſwer the plaintiff's demand. Perk. 403, 404. Co. Lit. 35. Bro. 63, 94. 1 Rol. Abr. 681. 6 Co. 57.

If a woman be dowable of land, meadow, paſture, wood, &c. and any of theſe be aſſigned in lieu of dower of all the reſt, it is good, though it be againſt common right, which gives her but the third part of each, for the heir's enjoyment of the reſidue ſufficiently accounts for her title to what ſhe has. 1 Rol. Abr. 683. Moor, pl. 47, 66.

If a woman be dowable in three manors, and accepts of the heir one of thoſe manors in lieu of dower in all the reſt, this is good, though againſt common right, which gives her but the third part of each manor. 1 Rol. Abr. 683.

If lands whereof a woman has no right to be endowed, or a rent out of ſuch lands be aſſigned in lieu of her dower, yet this is no bar to her to demand her dower, for ſhe having no manner of title to thoſe lands, cannot without livery and ſeiſin be any more than tenant at will, which is no ſufficient recompence for an eſtate for life, which her dower was to be. Perk. 407. Co. Lit. 34. 4 Co. 1. Co. Lit. 169. Bro. 3.

In dower the tenant pleads that he hath aſſigned to her in recompence of her dower twenty buſhels of wheat yearly out of the ſame land for her life, and held a good bar, and in the nature of a rent; but ſheep, horſes, &c. aſſigned in recompence of dower are no bar, becauſe they neither iſſue out of land, nor are of the nature of land. Moor, pl. 167. Dyer 91.

A woman recovers dower, and hath a writ to the ſheriff, who returns that he hath delivered eighty-four acres to the demandant of the land mentioned in the writ, and after a ſcire facias is brought, ſuggeſting that ſixty of eighty-four aſſigned to her by the ſheriff are a ſtranger's not mentioned in the record, and therefore ſhe ought to have a new diviſion; the tenant ſays, that the other twenty-four acres were parcel of the land recovered, and that ſhe had entred and accepted the twenty-four acres; and upon demurrer it was adjudged, that ſhe was barred by her acceptance, and entry into the twenty-four acres. Moor. pl. 928.

A woman intitled to dower cannot enter till it be aſſigned to her, and ſet out either by the heir, tertenant or ſheriff in certainty. 1 Rol. Abr. 681. Dyer. 343. Plowd. 529. Bro. 16. Co. Lit. 34. b. 37. a. b. And the reaſon ſeems to be from the partiality every one is preſumed to have for themſelves and their own intereſt; and therefore the law will not allow her in ſuch caſe to be her own carver: Another reaſon may be for the better direction of ſtrangers, that they might more certainly know againſt whom to bring their præcipe, which they cannot be ſo well appriſed of, if ſhe might enter privately, and take what part ſhe pleaſed; but ſhe need not ſtay for the return of the writ of habere facias ſeiſinam, nor for the ſecond judgment. Palm. 265, 266. And tho' ſhe once refuſes to accept the part aſſigned her by the ſheriff, yet may ſhe afterwards enter into it. Dyer 278.

An aſſignment of dower by commiſſion De dote aſſignanda out of the court of wards was held no bar of dower at Common law, but it ought to have been by writ De dote aſſignanda out of Chancery; the juriſdiction of which court is not given to the court of wards in ſuch caſe by 32 Henry 8. Cro. Eliz. 364.

Sir Thomas Arundell being attainted of felony, and his wife's dower ſaved by act of parliament, ſhe brought her writ of dower againſt the Earl of Pembroke, and he making default after appearance, a termor prays to be received, and ſhews his leaſe after the coverture, &c. and the attainder, &c. and that Ed. 6. granted a commiſſion under the ſeal of the court of augmentations, to aſſign the third part of the land of the ſaid Sir Thomas Arundell to his wife in dower, and ſhews further that, by virtue of the commiſſion, the third part of the rent reſerved on the ſaid leaſe was aſſigned to her, and this aſſignment confirmed by letters patent under the Great ſeal, and ſhews her agreement and acceptance thereof, and ſaid that this ſuit was by colluſion to defraud him of his term; and in this caſe it was held, Firſt, That the court of augmentations had no power to aſſign dower to the demandant, or any other woman, but it muſt be in Chancery. Secondly, That the aſſignment of the rent was not warranted by the commiſſion, and then the confirmation could not make that good which was merely void; and it was adjudged for the demandant. Dyer 363. Co. Ent. 173. 2 Mod. 18.

As to endowments in chancery, it appears by our books that in former times the widows of tenants which held of the King in capite, whoſe heir was in ward to the King, were to ſue in Chancery by petition for their dower; and after office found that ſhe was the tenant's widow, then ſhe was to make oath in Chancery that ſhe would not marry again without the king's licence; and upon that there went a writ out of the Chancery De dote aſſignanda, to the eſcheator, to aſſign her dower of the third part of all the lands whereof her huſband was ſeiſed, &c. but if the heir were of full age at the time of the tenant's death, and the King had the lands only for his primier ſeiſin, then could ſhe not ſue in Chancery, becauſe the King was not then guardian, but had the lands only to ſuch ſpecial purpoſe; and therefore to remedy this, was the ſtatute De prærogativa Regis cap. 4. made, which gives power to the King to aſſign dower to them, though the heir were of full age at the time of the tenant's death; but this power was not ſo abſolutely lodged in the King, as to exclude them from ſuing at Common law for their dower, by reaſon of the words ſi viduæ illæ voluerint, which left them at liberty in ſuch caſe, either to ſue to the King in Chancery, or if they thought fit, to ſue the heir in the Common Pleas; but if the King had committed the wardſhip to another durante minore ætate of the ward; then alſo at Common law the widow had election to ſue either to the King in Chancery, becauſe notwithſtanding ſuch commitment he ſtill continued guardian; or ſhe might ſue the committee at Common law, and recover againſt him; without making the King a party by ayde prier, or otherwiſe, which was ordained by the ſtatute of Bigamis, cap. 3. for avoiding of delays in ſuch caſes, and when ſhe recovered againſt the committee, ſhe took no ſuch oath as when ſhe ſued to the King in Chancery; but yet nevertheleſs ſhe could not marry without the King's licence, it being againſt the policy of thoſe times to permit ſuch widows to marry whom they pleaſed, ſince then they might have brought in enemies or foreigners into the King's feud, and in the King's caſe the fines for alienation ſtill continue. Stanf. Prær. 16. F. N. B. 164. Bro. 66, 76. 2 Inſt. 18. Kelw. 133. 1 Brownl. 126. Co. Lit. 38. b. 9 Co. 16, 17. Fareſ. 43.

Another prerogative the King had in thoſe times was, that if the heir of his tenant in capite entred before livery ſued, this was looked upon as an intruſion, and his wife loſt her dower by it, by the expreſs proviſion of Prærog. Regis, cap. 13. but this was meant only of intruſion after office found, which gave the King a title; for if he entred before office found, and died, his wife ſhould be endowed. Stanf. Prer. 41. Bro. 66. Co. Lit. 30. b. F. N. B. 149.

5. Where the wife ſhall have her election to be endowed of one thing or another; and where of both; and endowment de novo, and the dos de dote.

If the huſband, ſeiſed of lands in fee, exchange the ſame lands with a ſtranger for other lands, and die, the wife hath election to be endowed of the lands given or taken in exchange, becauſe her huſband was ſeiſed of both during the coverture, but ſhe ſhall not have dower of both; for that would be unreaſonable. Perk. 318, 319. F. N. B. 149. Co. Lit. 31. b.

Husband ſeiſed of lands in the right of his wife, they both join in exchange of thoſe lands with a ſtranger for other lands, which exchange is executed; then the husband and wife alien the lands taken in exchange by fine; and two judges held the wife after the husband's death might well enter into his own lands, notwithſtanding the fine which was of the other lands, and reſembled it to the caſe in Dyer 385. where the husband after marriage made a jointure to his wife, and then they both levied a fine come ceo, &c. thereof to a ſtranger and his heirs; and this was adjudged no bar of her dower, becauſe the election to claim jointure, or dower, is not till after the husband's death; and in the principal caſe judgment was given for the wife. 1 Leon. 285.

If lord and tenant are by fealty, and 12 d. rent, the lord takes a wife, and after purchaſe the tenancy in fee, and dies, his wife hath election to be endowed either of the ſegnory or the tenancy, becauſe her husband was ſeiſed of both during the coverture; ſo for the ſame reaſon if the husband ſeiſed of a rent-charge in fee purchaſe the land whereout the rent is iſſuing, and die, his wife at her election may be endowed either of the land, or of the rent, and the husband being ſeiſed of both, during the coverture, cannot by his own act alter the wife's dower. Perk 320.

If the husband ſeiſed of lands in fee makes a feoffment thereof to a ſtranger in fee, rendring to him and his heirs 3*s.* rent, with clauſe of diſtreſs, and dies, and the feoffee endows the wife of the feoffor of the third part of the land for her dower, ſhe ſhall hold it diſcharged of any rent, and the whole rent ſhall iſſue out of the reſidue of the land, becauſe the wife ſhall be endowed of the beſt poſſeſſion of her husband during the coverture; and the husband had the land diſcharged of the rent after the coverture; and yet becauſe he had alſo an eſtate in the rent during the coverture, it ſeems ſhe may be endowed of that, if ſhe think fit, and waive her dower of the land; but the rent reſerved on the feoffment is no more a bar to her to demand dower of the land, than if none at all had been reſerved, if ſhe chuſes the land. Perk. 324.

In

In ſome caſes a woman ſhall be endowed anew; as where the lands, &c. aſſigned to her for dower, are lawfully evicted by elder title; and therefore if one be ſeiſed of two acres by good title, and another by diſſeiſin, and marries, and dies, and his wife is endowed of the acre had by diſſeiſin, and after the diſſeiſee enters into the ſaid acre, now ſhe ſhall be endowed of the third part of the two remaining acres; ſo if the diſſeiſee in ſuch caſe had recovered the acre againſt the wife, ſhe ſhould have been endowed of what remained, and the entry or recovery being by title paramount her title of dower, it is as if her huſband had never been ſeiſed thereof; ſhe ſhall only recover the third part of what is left, and not a full recompence for the acre loſt. Perk. 419. F. N. B. 149. 1 Rol. Abr. 684. 4 Co. 122.

If one ſeiſed of two acres in one county marries, and enfeoffs a ſtranger of one acre with warranty, and hath iſſue, and dies, and the iſſue enters into the other acre, and the wife brings dower againſt the feoffee, who vouches the iſſue as heir, and he loſes by default; and thereupon the wife hath a conditional judgment, viz. againſt the vouchee; if &c. and the demandant ſues execution againſt the heir, and after is evicted by the elder title, ſhe ſhall have a ſcire facias upon the firſt recovery againſt the tenant, to be endowed of the two parts left; upon eviction ſhe may be endowed de novo againſt the heir; and the ſame law, if the endowment was in Chancery. Perk. 321. 1 Rol. Abr. 684. Br. 65. 9 Co. 17.

As to the Dos de Dote, if there be grandfather, father, and ſon, and the father, or after his death, the ſon endows the grandmother, the mother ſhall not be endowed of the grandmother's thirds after her deceaſe, becauſe the grandmother's dower defeats the deſcent to the father; and by conſequence the father was ſeiſed of no more than two thirds of that land, and therefore the wife of the father was intitled to a third of theſe two thirds only, and no more; but if the grandfather had enfeoffed the father of the whole land, and died, and the grandmother had been endowed, either by recovery, or aſſignment, there the mother ſhould be endowed of the grandmother's third after her deceaſe, becauſe by the feoffment the father was ſeiſed of the whole eſtate, which gave a title to his wife to be endowed of that whole eſtate; and though the grandmother recovered one third out of that eſtate during her life, yet ſuch recovery doth not defeat the operation of the livery, ſince by that conveyance the reverſion of that third is claimed; and by conſequence the mother ſhall be endowed of that third when it falls in poſſeſſion, ſince the father was actually ſeiſed of it during the coverture, by virtue of ſuch livery. If there be grandfather, father, and ſon, and the two firſt die, and the mother is endowed by the ſon of a third part of the whole, either by aſſignment en pais, or upon a recovery in a writ of dower, and the grandmother brings a writ of dower againſt the mother, and recovers, ſhe leaves the reverſion in her; for the dower was veſted in the mother by the aſſignment, or recovery, and is only defeated during the life of the grandmother, whoſe eſtate as to the mother is leſs than her own eſtate; and therefore the reverſion is in the mother, and ſhe after the grandmother's death may enter into that third recovered from her; and by conſequence the heir may re-enter into the ſecond dower aſſigned to the mother, upon ſuch recovery againſt her by the grandmother; for ſhe cannot have both. Perk. 315, 316. 4 Co. 122. F. N. B. 149. 1 Rol. Abr. 677. Co. Lit. 31, 42. a.

If A. ſeiſed of lands marries B. and aliens to C. who marries D. and then aliens to E. and dies, and after D. is endowed, and then B. hath dower aſſigned to her of the third of all the lands, and brings a præcipe thereof againſt D. who vouches to warranty E. who counterpleads upon the matter, and ſays that D. ought not to be endowed, quia non poteſt habere dotem de dote; and adjudged accordingly. 1 Rol. Abr. 677.

6. What ſhall be a bar of dower, and what not.

If a recovery be had againſt the huſband by colluſion, this ſhall not bar the wife of dower; as if the recovery be by confeſſion, or reddition, which are always underſtood to be by colluſion, the huſband always acting and concurring in obtaining of them; but it ſeems to have been a very great doubt, whether a recovery by default ſhould not be a bar: and the better opinion being that ſuch recovery was a bar at Common law; therefore the ſtatute of W. 2. cap. 4. was made, which ordains that notwithſtanding ſuch recovery by default, &c. pleaded, the tenant ſhall moreover in bar of the dower ſhew his right to the tenements recovered; and if it be found that he had no right, then ſhall the demandant recover her dower, notwithſtanding ſuch recovery by default againſt her huſband. 2 Inſt. 349. Perk. 376.

By the ſtatute of W. 2. cap. 4. it appears that if the recoverer had right, then the wife is barred; therefore if the heir of the diſſeiſor be by deſcent, and the diſſeiſee enters upon him, and marries, and the heir of the diſſeiſor recovers by default, or reddition, in a writ of entry, in nature of an aſſiſe, and the huſband dies, his wife ſhall not have dower, becauſe he, who recovered, had right to the poſſeſſion by the deſcent; aliter, if this diſſeiſin, deſcent, &c. were after marriage, becauſe the huſband was ſeiſed before of a rightful eſtate during the coverture, whereof his wife had title of dower, which cannot be defeated by the diſſeiſin, deſcent and recovery, which all happened during the coverture. Perk. 379, 380.

If a recovery be againſt the huſband by verdict, the wife ſhall not falſify in the point tried; but ſhe may ſay that he might have pleaded a better plea, viz. a releaſe of all actions, or of all the right of the demandant; or ſhe may confeſs and avoid the recovery, but cannot falſify in the point tried againſt her huſband. 2 Inſt. 349. Perk. 382. Br. 24. See Perk. 383. which ſeems cont'.

If in a præcipe, brought againſt the huſband, he loſes upon a dilatory plea, as upon non-tenure, jointenancy, miſnomer of the town, &c. the wife may falſify upon a writ of dower brought, by ſhewing that the demandant had no right; but if he had right, ſhe cannot falſify the recovery, by ſhewing that her huſband might have pleaded jointenancy, miſnomer, &c. for this would have been only in abatement of the writ, and make nothing to the right; but if ſhe ſhews that her huſband was tenant of the land recovered, and that the demandant had no right nor cauſe of action, but jointly with a ſtranger, which ſtranger by deed in cur' prolat' releaſed all his right to the huſband before the action brought; this is a good falſification of the recovery for one moiety of the land recovered. Bro. 26. Perk. 381, 385, 386.

If the huſband levy a fine with proclamation of his lands, and dies, his wife is bound to make her claim within five years after his death; otherwiſe ſhe ſhall be barred of her dower; for though her title of dower was not conſummate at the time of the fine levied; yet it being initiate by the marriage and ſeiſin of the huſband, the fine begins to work upon it preſently after the huſband's death; and if ſhe does not claim it within five years after, ſhe ſhall be barred. 2 Co. 93. 10 Co. 49, 99. 3 Inſt. 216. Hob. 265. Mo. pl. 154, 879. Dyer 224. 13 Co. 20.

If the huſband and wife join in levying a fine, or ſuffer a common recovery, this ſhall bar her of her dower totally, becauſe in both caſes ſhe is examined upon record by the judges, as to her conſent; and ſhe having nothing in the lands in her own right, her joining in ſuch acts can be to no other purpoſe, but to bar her dower; but if the huſband be ſeiſed in fee, and a ſtranger levies a fine to him and his wife ſur conuzance de droit come ceo, &c. of theſe lands, and the huſband and wife grant and render the ſame land to the ſtranger and his heirs; it ſeems the wife ſhall not be barred of her dower, becauſe ſhe is not examined in this caſe, as ſhe is in the other; and therefore if this fine ſur grant and render be pleaded in bar, ſhe may ſay that ſhe had nothing in the land at the time of the fine levied. Plowd. 515. 10 Co. 49. Cro. Eliz. 129. Br. 77.

If a jointure be made to the wife during the coverture, and after the huſband and wife levy a fine thereof; yet this

this is no bar to her dower of any other lands of her husband's, because the jointure being made after the marriage, she had election after the death of the husband to refuse it, and claim dower, and not before; and then the fine levied of the jointure before her time for election of dower was come, can be no bar for electing of dower when it is come. 1 Bulst. 173. 1 Leon. 285. Dyer 358.

If a woman takes a lease for life of her husband's lands after his death, she shall have no dower, because she cannot demand it against herself; and if she takes a lease for years only, yet she shall not sue to have dower during these years, because it was her own act to suspend the fruit and effect of her dower during that time. Perk. 350. F. N. B. 149. Mo. pl. 103.

If lands are given to the husband and wife, and to the heirs of the husband, who dies, the wife may disagree to this estate made during the coverture, and then it will be an estate to the husband, and his heirs ab initio, and so she shall have her dower thereof; but if the estate be made to the husband and wife for the life of the husband, remainder to the right heirs of the husband, it should seem she cannot in this case disagree, because the estate upon the husband's death is determined and gone. Perk. 352, 353. 3 Co. 27.

7. Of the proceedings and damages in dower Unde nihil habet.

Before the statute of Marlb. cap. 12. in dower unde nihil habet, [see title Dote unde nihil habet.] there were days of common return, as in other real actions, which was mischievous to the wife, by reason of the long delay, she claiming but an estate for life; but this is now remedied by that act, and four days of return in the year are given at least, and that act extends likewise to the vouchee, but not to a writ of dower, nor to dower ad ostium ecclesiæ, nor ex assensu patris, unless it be unde nihil habet, but 32 Hen. 8. cap. 21. extends to, and gives the same return in every writ of dower. 2 Inst. 124.

In dower the tenant at the day of taking the inquest, after the jury had appeared, and before they were sworn, made default, and a petit cape was awarded, and the tenant at the day in banco informed the court that he was but tenant for life, and the reversion in one A. who at the day in B. ought to be received, and the court appointed him to plead his plea at the return of the petit cape before which time his appearance seems idle. 1 Brownl. 126.

In dower of lands in L. M. and N. the sheriff returns plegii de pros. A. B. C. D. and the names of the summoners E. F. G. H. and that after the summons made, and 14 days, and more before the return of it, at the most usual church-door of L. where part of the lands lay, such a sunday after sermon ended, he publickly proclaimed all and singular the things contained in the writ, to be proclaimed according to the form of the statute in that case made, and indorses his name to the return; and exception was taken to this return, because proclamation was not made at all the church-doors; but per cur' proclamation at any of the church-doors is sufficient; but the return was held ill, because he says he had proclaimed all and singular the things in that writ contained, without saying what. Hob. 133.

Error to reverse a judgment in dower at the grand sessions at Wales; it appeared by the record that the tenant appeared at the return of the summons, and day was given over & adtunc venit per attornat' & nihil dicit in barram; whereupon considerat' est quod tertia pars terrar' & tenement' capiatur in manus D'ni regis; and upon day given ad audiend' judicium, judgment was given quod recuperet, and error assigned that they ought not to have awarded a petit cape because the defendant appeared, and then they ought to have given judgment upon the nihil dicit; for the petit cape is always upon default after appearance, and is only to answer the default, as the grand cape is before appearance to answer the default, and demand; but it was held no error, being only an awarding of more process than needs be, and it was an advantage to the tenant by delaying of the demandant; and per Twisden, if erroneous, they might now give judgment upon the nihil dicit in this court. 1 Vent. 60. 2 Saund. 46. S. C. 2 Keb. 450, 551, 605. S. C.

Error of a judgment in dower in Newcastle court; because the proceeding was by plaint, and no special custom certified to maintain it; and it was held error, because pleas of frank tenement cannot be held without original writ, unless there be a special custom for it. 1 Vent. 267. 2 Lev. 98, 123. S. C. 3 Keb. 277, 326, 421. S. C.

In dower if tenant makes default, by which grand cape issues, the demandant shall make her demand, for no certainty appears before the demand made. Bro. 96.

In dower one appears upon the grand cape, who in truth was but lessee for years, and so might plead non-tenure, and if now he might wage his law of non-summons, and the writ be abated, was the question, because it was said that by wager of his law he affirms himself to be tenant; but two justices only in court held that he would be at no mischief, for being but lessee for years, if judgment and execution were against him, he might, notwithstanding, enter upon the demandant; another matter was, that where the writ of dower was de tertia parte rectoriæ de D. and the grand cape made upon it accordinly; yet the sheriff by colour thereof took the tithes severed from the two parts, and carried them away; and per cur', This is not such a seisure as is by the writ intended, for he ought only to have seized generally, but not carry them away; and the court had a mind to have committed him for a misdemeanor. 1 Leon. 92.

In dower tenant demands the view; demandant counterpleads the view; because her husband died seised, Et hoc parat' est verificare & petit judicium & dotem suam de tenement' prædict' sibi adjudicari; tenant protestando, that the husband did not die seized, demurs, and shews for a cause that the counterplea male concludit, for it ought to have been & petit judicium, and quod tenens de visu excludatur, and the counterplea is but dilatory, and ought not to conclude peremptorily for final judgment; and of this opinion was Levinz, but two other justices held it not ill; also the demand was of three messuages, &c. where it ought to have been only of the third part of them; and if this might be amended was doubted, 3 Lev. 169.

In dower unde nihil, &c. tenant demands the view, demandant counterpleads it, because the husband alienavit tenement' prædict' to the tenant & hoc, &c. and it was demurred, because alienavit does not shew what estate he aliened, for it may be a lease for years; but per cur', Alienation implies all the estate which he had, and the statute W. 2. 48 ousts the view, where the husband aliens to the tenant, or any of his ancestors; and this is in the very words of the statute, and a respondeas ouster awarded, but no notice taken whether the view was allowable in dower unde nihil habet. 3 Lev. 220.

At the Common law, before the statute of W. 1. c. 39. if a woman had accepted any part of her dower, though never so small, of any one tenant in any one county or town, she had no other remedy for the residue, but by a writ of right of dower; for if she brought a writ of dower unde nihil habet, it was a good plea in abatement, that she had accepted such a part of such a tenant, in such a town or county; which being a great mischief to the women is remedied by that statute, which provides that it shall be no plea in abatement, to say that she hath received part of her dower of any other person before the writ purchased; and this extends as well to guardian in chivalry as to the tenant of the land, because such guardian is to render her dower. 2 Inst. 261.

In dower the tenant pleads, that after marriage the husband had settled other lands on the demandant for life, for her jointure, and that she after his death agreed thereto, and entred accordingly; the demandant replies, that it was a voluntary settlement of her husband, and traverses, that it was not for her jointure; and issue thereupon; and at the nisi prius the tenant made default, and a petit cape awarded, and returned, and judgment that the demandant have seisin; and the demandant suggests that her husband died seised, and prays a writ to inquire quire of the damages, returnable ſuch a day; the ſheriff returns that he hath delivered ſeiſin of the lands particularly, and alſo an inquiſition which finds that the lands are worth 114*l.* 11*s.* per annum, and that her huſband had been dead ſix years and three quarters, and that ſhe had ſuſtained damages occaſione detentionis dotis ultra valorem præd' & ultra miſas & cuſtag' ſua 195*l.* & pro miſis & cuſtag' 20*s.* and upon this the demandant gratis releaſes the 195*l.* and demands judgment only for the 20*s.* and judgment is given that the demandant recover tam valorem tertiæ partis prædict' from the death of her huſband which came to 257*l.* quam the 20*s.* and 11*l.* de incremento, in toto 295*l.* and the tenant brings error, for that the damages being releaſed by the demandant, there ought to have been no judgment againſt him for the value of the land; but the whole court reſolved, that the releaſe was only of the damages ſuſtained occaſione detentionis dotis, and not of the meſne profits of the lands, for they are two diſtinct things, as appears by Co. Litt. 33. a. Raſt. Entr. 237. where the writ is to inquire not only of the value of the land, but alſo of the damages ratione detentionis; and the judgment is always entred accordingly, and a fieri facias lies for the damages; and therefore the judgment was affirmed. Raym. 366.

As to damages in dower they are given by the ſtatute of Merton, c. 1. but that ſtatute extends only to the poſſeſſory action of dower unde nihil habet, and not to the writ of right of dower, becauſe they are intended to be given for the detention of the poſſeſſion; and on writs of right where the right itſelf is queſtionable, no damages are given, becauſe no wrong done till the right be determined; alſo that ſtatute extends only to lands, whereof the huſband died ſeiſed; and therefore judgment for the damages was reverſed, becauſe the jury did not find that the huſband died ſeiſed; for otherwiſe ſhe ſhall have no damages; as if the huſband aliens and takes back an eſtate for life, the wife ſhall recover dower, but no damages; becauſe this dying ſeiſed was only of an eſtate of freehold, but if he makes a leaſe for years only, rendring rent, ſhe ſhall recover a third part of the reverſion with a third part of the rent and damages, becauſe there he died ſeiſed as the ſtatute ſpeaks. Co. Lit. 32. Dyer 284. pl. 33. Yelv. 112. Dr. and Stud. lib. 2. c. 13. f. 166. 2 Inſt. 80.

Damages muſt be after demand of dower, for the heir is not bound to aſſign this proviſion till demanded, becauſe the law caſts the freehold of the whole upon him, which he cannot divide without the concurrence of the wife; but a demand in pais before good teſtimony is ſufficient; and if the heir appear the firſt day on ſummons, and plead that he hath been always ready, and ſtill is, to render her dower; ſhe may plead ſuch requeſt; and iſſue may be taken upon it, but the feoffee of the heir cannot plead tout tempt priſt, becauſe he had not the land all the time ſince the death of the anceſtor, and therefore ſhe ſhall recover the meſnes profits, and damages againſt him, and if he hath not provided his indemnity and recompence againſt the heir, it is his own folly. Co. Lit. 32.

If the heir or feoffee aſſign dower, and the wife accepteth thereof, ſhe loſeth her damages, becauſe having the dower, which is the principal, ſhe cannot ſue for the damages, which are but conſequential or acceſſory. Co. Lit. 33. a.

8. Of the admeaſurement of dower.

If the heir within age aſſign to the wife more land in dower than ſhe ought to have, he himſelf ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement of dower at full age by the Common law; ſo if too much be aſſigned in dower by the heir within age, or his guardian in chivalry; and the heir dies, his heir ſhall have ſuch writ to rectify the aſſignment; but the heir, in whoſe time the aſſignment of too much was by the guardian, cannot have ſuch writ till his full age, becauſe till then the intereſt of the guardian continues; and if any wrong be done, it is to the guardian himſelf, and not to the heir; if a diſſeiſor aſſigns too much, the heir of the diſſeiſee ſhall have admeaſurement by the Common law. F. N. B. 148. Co. Lit. 39. a. 2 Inſt. 367.

If the heir within age, before the guardian enters, aſſigns too much in dower, the guardian ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement of dower by the ſtatute of W. 3. c. 7. before which ſtatute the guardian had no remedy, becauſe the writ of admeaſurement being a real action, lay not for the guardian, who had but a chattel; alſo by the ſame ſtatute it is proved, that if the guardian purſue ſuch writ feintly, or by colluſion with the wife, the heir at full age ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement, and may allege the feint pleading or colluſion generally. 2 Inſt. 367.

If the wife after aſſignment of dower improves the lands, ſo as thereby they become of greater value than the other two parts, no writ of admeaſurement lies; ſo if they be of greater value, by reaſon of mines open at the time of the aſſignment, no writ of admeaſurement lies, becauſe the land in quantity was no more than ſhe ought to have; and then 'tis lawful to work the mines, which were open at the time of ſuch aſſignment. F. N. B. 149. 2 Inſt. 368. 5 Co. 12.

If the ſheriff aſſigns too much in dower, by one book it ſeems that the heir ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement; but Q. Whether he ſhall have that, or a ſcire facias upon the recovery, which was of no more than the third part. Palm. 266. Bro. 83.

Theſe writs of admeaſurement of dower are vicontiel, and not returnable; and the parties may plead before the ſheriff in the county, if they think fit; but if they are removed in C. B. by a pone, as the plaintiff may, without ſhewing any cauſe, and the defendant upon ſhewing cauſe; and thereupon proceſs goes out, viz. ſumons, attachment, and diſtringas; then the ſheriff cannot make admeaſurement, but ought to extend all the lands particularly, and return it in C. B. and upon that admeaſurement ſhall be made. F. N. B. 148.

9. Of dower by cuſtom, dower ad oſtium eccleſiæ, dower ex aſſenſu patris, and dower de la plus belle.

Dower by the cuſtom. This kind of dower varies according to the cuſtom and uſage of the plea, and is to be governed accordingly; and where ſuch cuſtom prevails, the wife cannot waive the proviſion thereby made for her, and claim her third at Common law, becauſe all cuſtoms are equally ancient with the Common law itſelf. Co. Lit. 33. b. Cro. Eliz. 825. 1 Leon. 62, 133.

By the cuſtom of gavelkind in Kent, the wife ſhall have the moiety ſo long as ſhe keeps herſelf chaſte and unmarried, and the reaſon of this proviſion for the wife ſeems to be founded on the equal diſtribution, which is obſerved in this kind of inheritance in the ſame family for their equal ſupport; and therefore when ſhe proves unchaſte, or marries again, and thereby contracts a new alliance, this proviſion as to her ceaſes, and returns again into the family; but the preſumption is to continue till it be proved ſhe was delivered of a child, begotten during her widowhood, which may be in any action brought by or againſt her. Co. Litt. 33. b. 111. a. F. N. B. 150. Stanf. Prer. 44. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 558. Bro. Dower 70. Bro. tit. Cuſtom 67, 69, 72. 2 Jon. 6.

Dower, and demands the third part of the lands of A. her late huſband lying in Kent, &c. defendant pleads that the cuſtom there is, that wives ſhall have the moiety of their huſband's lands in dower, ſo long as they live chaſte and unmarried, and non aliter, or non ſecundum curſum communis legis, and that the demandant after the death of her firſt huſband had married the other demandant, &c. & per cur', The cuſtom is good, and is the law in Kent; and therefore ſhe can claim no other dower, nor in any other manner, and the rather by reaſon of the negative concluſion. Cro. Eliz. 121. 1 Leon. 62. Moor 260. pl. 408. S. C.

By the cuſtom of Borough-Engliſh the widow ſhall have the whole of her huſband's lands in dower, which is called her free-bench. Co. Lit. 33. b. 110. b. F. N. B. 150. Cro. Eliz. 415. Moor, pl. 566. The reaſon of this is no bar to her dower of any other lands of her husband's, because the jointure being made after the marriage, she had election after the death of the husband to refuse it, and claim dower, and not before; and then the fine levied of the jointure before her time for election of dower was come, can be no bar for electing of dower when it is come. 1 Bulst. 173. 1 Leon. 285. Dyer 358.

If a woman takes a lease for life of her husband's lands after his death, she shall have no dower, because she cannot demand it against herself; and if she takes a lease for years only, yet she shall not sue to have dower during these years, because it was her own act to suspend the fruit and effect of her dower during that time. Perk. 350. F. N. B. 149. Mo. pl. 103.

If lands are given to the husband and wife, and to the heirs of the husband, who dies, the wife may disagree to this estate made during the coverture, and then it will be an estate to the husband, and his heirs ab initio, and so she shall have her dower thereof; but if the estate be made to the husband and wife for the life of the husband, remainder to the right heirs of the husband, it should seem she cannot in this case disagree, because the estate upon the husband's death is determined and gone. Perk. 352, 353. 3 Co. 27.

7. Of the proceedings and damages in dower Unde nihil habet.

Before the statute of Marlb. cap. 12. in dower unde nihil habet, [see title Dote unde nihil habet.] there were days of common return, as in other real actions, which was mischievous to the wife, by reason of the long delay, she claiming but an estate for life; but this is now remedied by that act, and four days of return in the year are given at least, and that act extends likewise to the vouchee, but not to a writ of dower, nor to dower ad ostium ecclesiæ, nor ex assensu patris, unless it be unde nihil habet, but 32 Hen. 8. cap. 21. extends to, and gives the same return in every writ of dower. 2 Inst. 124.

In dower the tenant at the day of taking the inquest, after the jury had appeared, and before they were sworn, made default, and a petit cape was awarded, and the tenant at the day in banco informed the court that he was but tenant for life, and the reversion in one A. who at the day in B. ought to be received, and the court appointed him to plead his plea at the return of the petit cape before which time his appearance seems idle. 1 Brownl. 126.

In dower of lands in L. M. and N. the sheriff returns plegii de pros. A. B. C. D. and the names of the summoners E. F. G. H. and that after the summons made, and 14 days, and more before the return of it, at the most usual church-door of L. where part of the lands lay, such a sunday after sermon ended, he publickly proclaimed all and singular the things contained in the writ, to be proclaimed according to the form of the statute in that case made, and indorses his name to the return; and exception was taken to this return, because proclamation was not made at all the church-doors; but per cur' proclamation at any of the church-doors is sufficient; but the return was held ill, because he says he had proclaimed all and singular the things in that writ contained, without saying what. Hob. 133.

Error to reverse a judgment in dower at the grand sessions at Wales; it appeared by the record that the tenant appeared at the return of the summons, and day was given over & adtunc venit per attornat' & nihil dicit in barram; whereupon considerat' est quod tertia pars terrar' & tenement' capiatur in manus D'ni regis; and upon day given ad audiend' judicium, judgment was given quod recuperet, and error assigned that they ought not to have awarded a petit cape because the defendant appeared, and then they ought to have given judgment upon the nihil dicit; for the petit cape is always upon default after appearance, and is only to answer the default, as the grand cape is before appearance to answer the default, and demand; but it was held no error, being only an awarding of more process than needs be, and it was an advantage to the tenant by delaying of the demandant; and per Twisden, if erroneous, they might now give judgment upon the nihil dicit in this court. 1 Vent. 60. 2 Saund. 46. S. C. 2 Keb. 450, 551, 605. S. C.

Error of a judgment in dower in Newcastle court; because the proceeding was by plaint, and no special custom certified to maintain it; and it was held error, because pleas of frank tenement cannot be held without original writ, unless there be a special custom for it. 1 Vent. 267. 2 Lev. 98, 123. S. C. 3 Keb. 277, 326, 421. S. C.

In dower if tenant makes default, by which grand cape issues, the demandant shall make her demand, for no certainty appears before the demand made. Bro. 96.

In dower one appears upon the grand cape, who in truth was but lessee for years, and so might plead non-tenure, and if now he might wage his law of non-summons, and the writ be abated, was the question, because it was said that by wager of his law he affirms himself to be tenant; but two justices only in court held that he would be at no mischief, for being but lessee for years, if judgment and execution were against him, he might, notwithstanding, enter upon the demandant; another matter was, that where the writ of dower was de tertia parte rectoriæ de D. and the grand cape made upon it accordingly; yet the sheriff by colour thereof took the tithes severed from the two parts, and carried them away; and per cur', This is not such a seisure as is by the writ intended, for he ought only to have seized generally, but not carry them away; and the court had a mind to have committed him for a misdemeanor. 1 Leon. 92.

In dower tenant demands the view; demandant counterpleads the view; because her husband died seised, Et hoc parat' est verificare & petit judicium & dotem suam de tenement' prædict' sibi adjudicari; tenant protestando, that the husband did not die seized, demurs, and shews for a cause that the counterplea male concludit, for it ought to have been & petit judicium, and quod tenens de visu excludatur, and the counterplea is but dilatory, and ought not to conclude peremptorily for final judgment; and of this opinion was Levinz, but two other justices held it not ill; also the demand was of three messuages, &c. where it ought to have been only of the third part of them; and if this might be amended was doubted. 3 Lev. 169.

In dower unde nihil, &c. tenant demands the view, demandant counterpleads it, because the husband alienavit tenement' prædict' to the tenant & hoc, &c. and it was demurred, because alienavit does not shew what estate he aliened, for it may be a lease for years; but per cur', Alienation implies all the estate which he had, and the statute W. 2. 48 ousts the view, where the husband aliens to the tenant, or any of his ancestors; and this is in the very words of the statute, and a respondeas ouster awarded, but no notice taken whether the view was allowable in dower unde nihil habet. 3 Lev. 220.

At the Common law, before the statute of W. 1. c. 39. if a woman had accepted any part of her dower, though never so small, of any one tenant in any one county or town, she had no other remedy for the residue, but by a writ of right of dower; for if she brought a writ of dower unde nihil habet, it was a good plea in abatement, that she had accepted such a part of such a tenant, in such a town or county; which being a great mischief to the women is remedied by that statute, which provides that it shall be no plea in abatement, to say that she hath received part of her dower of any other person before the writ purchased; and this extends as well to guardian in chivalry as to the tenant of the land, because such guardian is to render her dower. 2 Inst. 261.

In dower the tenant pleads, that after marriage the husband had settled other lands on the demandant for life, for her jointure, and that she after his death agreed thereto, and entred accordingly; the demandant replies, that it was a voluntary settlement of her husband, and traverses, that it was not for her jointure; and issue thereupon; and at the nisi prius the tenant made default, and a petit cape awarded, and returned, and judgment that the demandant have seisin; and the demandant suggests that her husband died seised, and prays a writ to inquire

quire of the damages, returnable ſuch a day; the ſheriff returns that he hath delivered ſeiſin of the lands particularly, and alſo an inquiſition which finds that the lands are worth 114*l.* 11*s.* per annum, and that her huſband had been dead ſix years and three quarters, and that ſhe had ſuſtained damages occaſione detentionis dotis ultra valorem præd' & ultra miſas & cuſtag' ſua 195*l.* & pro miſis & cuſtag' 20*s.* and upon this the demandant gratis releaſes the 195*l.* and demands judgment only for the 20*s.* and judgment is given that the demandant recover tam valorem tertiæ partis prædict' from the death of her huſband which came to 257*l.* quam the 20*s.* and 11*l.* de incremento, in toto 295*l.* and the tenant brings error, for that the damages being releaſed by the demandant, there ought to have been no judgment againſt him for the value of the land; but the whole court reſolved, that the releaſe was only of the damages ſuſtained occaſione detentionis dotis, and not of the meſne profits of the lands, for they are two diſtinct things, as appears by Co. Litt. 33. a. Raſt. Entr. 237. where the writ is to inquire not only of the value of the land, but alſo of the damages ratione detentionis; and the judgment is always entred accordingly, and a fieri facias lies for the damages; and therefore the judgment was affirmed. Raym. 366.

As to damages in dower they are given by the ſtatute of Merton, c. 1. but that ſtatute extends only to the poſſeſſory action of dower unde nihil habet, and not to the writ of right of dower, becauſe they are intended to be given for the detention of the poſſeſſion; and on writs of right where the right itſelf is queſtionable, no damages are given, becauſe no wrong done till the right be determined; alſo that ſtatute extends only to lands, whereof the huſband died ſeiſed; and therefore judgment for the damages was reverſed, becauſe the jury did not find that the huſband died ſeiſed; for otherwiſe ſhe ſhall have no damages; as if the huſband aliens and takes back an eſtate for life, the wife ſhall recover dower, but no damages; becauſe this dying ſeiſed was only of an eſtate of freehold, but if he makes a leaſe for years only, rendring rent, ſhe ſhall recover a third part of the reverſion with a third part of the rent and damages, becauſe there he died ſeiſed as the ſtatute ſpeaks. Co. Lit. 32. Dyer 284. pl. 33. Yelv. 112. Dr. and Stud. lib. 2. c. 13. f. 166. 2 Inſt. 80.

Damages muſt be after demand of dower, for the heir is not bound to aſſign this proviſion till demanded, becauſe the law caſts the freehold of the whole upon him, which he cannot divide without the concurrence of the wife; but a demand in pais before good teſtimony is ſufficient; and if the heir appear the firſt day on ſummons, and plead that he hath been always ready, and ſtill is, to render her dower; ſhe may plead ſuch requeſt; and iſſue may be taken upon it, but the feoffee of the heir cannot plead tout tempt priſt, becauſe he had not the land all the time ſince the death of the anceſtor, and therefore ſhe ſhall recover the meſnes profits, and damages againſt him, and if he hath not provided his indemnity and recompence againſt the heir, it is his own folly. Co. Lit. 32.

If the heir or feoffee aſſign dower, and the wife accepteth thereof, ſhe loſeth her damages, becauſe having the dower, which is the principal, ſhe cannot ſue for the damages, which are but conſequential or acceſſory. Co. Lit. 33. a.

8. Of the admeaſurement of dower.

If the heir within age aſſign to the wife more land in dower than ſhe ought to have, he himſelf ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement of dower at full age by the Common law; ſo if too much be aſſigned in dower by the heir within age, or his guardian in chivalry; and the heir dies, his heir ſhall have ſuch writ to rectify the aſſignment; but the heir, in whoſe time the aſſignment of too much was by the guardian, cannot have ſuch writ till his full age, becauſe till then the intereſt of the guardian continues; and if any wrong be done, it is to the guardian himſelf, and not to the heir; if a diſſeiſor aſſigns too much, the heir of the diſſeiſee ſhall have admeaſurement by the Common law. F. N. B. 148. Co. Lit. 39. a. 2 Inſt. 367.

If the heir within age, before the guardian enters, aſſigns too much in dower, the guardian ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement of dower by the ſtatute of W. 3. c. 7. before which ſtatute the guardian had no remedy, becauſe the writ of admeaſurement being a real action, lay not for the guardian, who had but a chattel; alſo by the ſame ſtatute it is proved, that if the guardian purſue ſuch writ feintly, or by colluſion with the wife, the heir at full age ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement, and may allege the feint pleading or colluſion generally. 2 Inſt. 367.

If the wife after aſſignment of dower improves the lands, ſo as thereby they become of greater value than the other two parts, no writ of admeaſurement lies; ſo if they be of greater value, by reaſon of mines open at the time of the aſſignment, no writ of admeaſurement lies, becauſe the land in quantity was no more than ſhe ought to have; and then 'tis lawful to work the mines, which were open at the time of ſuch aſſignment. F. N. B. 149. 2 Inſt. 368. 5 Co. 12.

If the ſheriff aſſigns too much in dower, by one book it ſeems that the heir ſhall have a writ of admeaſurement; but Q. Whether he ſhall have that, or a ſcire facias upon the recovery, which was of no more than the third part. Palm. 266. Bro. 83.

Theſe writs of admeaſurement of dower are vicontiel, and not returnable; and the parties may plead before the ſheriff in the county, if they think fit; but if they are removed in C. B. by a pone, as the plaintiff may, without ſhewing any cauſe, and the defendant upon ſhewing cauſe; and thereupon proceſs goes out, viz. ſumons, attachment, and diſtringas; then the ſheriff cannot make admeaſurement, but ought to extend all the lands particularly, and return it in C. B. and upon that admeaſurement ſhall be made. F. N. B. 148.

9. Of dower by cuſtom, dower ad oſtium eccleſiæ, dower ex aſſenſu patris, and dower de la plus belle.

Dower by the cuſtom. This kind of dower varies according to the cuſtom and uſage of the plea, and is to be governed accordingly; and where ſuch cuſtom prevails, the wife cannot waive the proviſion thereby made for her, and claim her third at Common law, becauſe all cuſtoms are equally ancient with the Common law itſelf. Co. Lit. 33. b. Cro. Eliz. 825. 1 Leon. 62, 133.

By the cuſtom of gavelkind in Kent, the wife ſhall have the moiety ſo long as ſhe keeps herſelf chaſte and unmarried, and the reaſon of this proviſion for the wife ſeems to be founded on the equal diſtribution, which is obſerved in this kind of inheritance in the ſame family for their equal ſupport; and therefore when ſhe proves unchaſte, or marries again, and thereby contracts a new alliance, this proviſion as to her ceaſes, and returns again into the family; but the preſumption is to continue till it be proved ſhe was delivered of a child, begotten during her widowhood, which may be in any action brought by or againſt her. Co. Litt. 33. b. 111. a. F. N. B. 150. Stanf. Prer. 44. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 558. Bro. Dower 70. Bro. tit. Cuſtom 67, 69, 72. 2 Jon. 6.

Dower, and demands the third part of the lands of A. her late huſband lying in Kent, &c. defendant pleads that the cuſtom there is, that wives ſhall have the moiety of their huſband's lands in dower, ſo long as they live chaſte and unmarried, and non aliter, or non ſecundum curſum communis legis, and that the demandant after the death of her firſt huſband had married the other demandant, &c. & per cur', The cuſtom is good, and is the law in Kent; and therefore ſhe can claim no other dower, nor in any other manner, and the rather by reaſon of the negative concluſion. Cro. Eliz. 121. 1 Leon. 62. Moor 260. pl. 408. S. C.

By the cuſtom of Borough-Engliſh the widow ſhall have the whole of her huſband's lands in dower, which is called her free-bench. Co. Lit. 33. b. 110. b. F. N. B. 150. Cro. Eliz. 415. Moor, pl. 566. The reaſon of which which ſeems to be, that in theſe boroughs the eldeſt ſon was introduced into the trade of his father, and therefore the youngeſt ſon inherited the land, and conſequently the wife that was intruſted with the younger children of her huſband had the whole during her life.

Upon a ſpecial verdict, the caſe was this: A cuſtom of a manor was found to be, that if a copyholder in fee died ſeiſed, his wife ſhould hold it during her life as frank bank; the lord infeoffs the copyholder, who died ſeiſed; and adjudged, that her cuſtomary eſtate was gone, becauſe by the acceſſion of the freehold the copyhold eſtate was extinguiſhed, and ſo her huſband did not die ſeiſed thereof; ſecus if the lord had enfeoffed a ſtranger, for then the copyhold remained ſo ſtill, and the cuſtom with it Cro. Jac. 127.

Cuſtom of a manor was, that the wives of copyholders for life ſhould enjoy their huſbands eſtates during widowhood; and the caſe was, that A. a copyholder for life, purchaſed the freehold and inheritance of his copyhold, but took the conveyance to B. and his heir during the life of A. remainder to A. in fee, and then A. dies; adjudged, that his wife ſhould have her cuſtomary eſtate, becauſe the cuſtomary eſtate of A. her huſband continued during his life, and was not extinct, nor altered by the purchaſe of the freehold, which during his life was in B. and then all cuſtomary incidents to ſuch cuſtomary eſtate remain, whereof this is one, and grows out of it as an excreſcence or fruit, and ſhe may enter without admittance. Hob. 181. Cro. Jac. 573. S. C.

Cuſtom of a manor was, that the copyholders wives ſhould have their free bench of all copyholds, whereof their huſbands died ſeiſed; and a copyholder, being married, ſurrenders to A. in fee, by way of mortgage, for ſecuring ſeventy pounds, and this ſurrender was preſented to be inrolled; but before admittance the ſurrenderer dies, and after his death A. is admitted; and if the wife ſhould have her free bench, was the queſtion. For the wife it was ſaid, that till admittance the copyhold remained in the huſband, and then he died ſeiſed, and ſo his wife within the cuſtom; and though the admittance after his death has relation to the time of the ſurrender; yet that is only by fiction of law between the parties, but ſhall not prejudice the wife who is a ſtranger; alſo though the admittance hath relation to the marriage, which was before, and is perfected by the death of the huſband; and ſo her title was begun and perfected too, before the title of the ſurrendree; but the court denied that the wife had any initiate title by the marriage in this caſe, as women have to their dower at Common law; but ſhe hath only conditional inception of a title ſubject to the huſband's power of preventing it by alienation, as here he might have done; for ſhe is not to have her free bench but where the huſband died ſeiſed; and this by the relation of the ſurrender he did not; and adjudged accordingly. 3 Lev. 385. 4 Mod. 251. S. C. 1 Salk. 185. S. C. Carth. 275. S. C. Skin. 406.

The cuſtom of a manor was, that the wife of acopyholder dying ſeiſed ſhould have her widow's eſtate; a commiſſion of bankruptcy is taken out againſt the copyholder, and his eſtate ſold by the commiſſioners; but before the vendee was admitted the copyholder dies; and yet adjudged that the widow's eſtate was gone, becauſe her huſband did not die ſeiſed, his eſtate and right being bound by the ſale, to which the admittance after has relation, and deveſts the widow's eſtate. Cro. Car. 569.

If the cuſtom of a manor be, that if any of the tenants marry a widow ſhe ſhall have no dower, this is good; but a cuſtom, that the wife of tenant in fee ſhall not be endowed, is not good. 1 Rol. Abr. 562. Dav. 30. b.

If there be a cuſtom, that where the huſband ſells his lands, and his wife receives part of the money, or it be expended in the family, that his wife ſhall be barred of her dower, this may be good. 1 Rol. Abr. 562. Bro. tit. Cuſtom 53, 78.

Ancient rent, or common in borough-engliſh, gavelkind, &c. is of the nature of the land there; and women ſhall have dower accordingly; and ſo it ſeems to be of rent, common, &c. newly granted, though ſome have held the contrary; and in all theſe caſes, whether it be of land, or rent, the cuſtom muſt be ſhewn ſpecially Bro. tit. Cuſt. 44, 58, 65, 69.

If the cuſtom be, that the wife ſhall have for her dower the moiety of the lands and tenements of her huſband, &c. ſhe ſhall not be endowed of a fair, or bailiwick, becauſe the cuſtom ſhall be taken ſtrictly, and theſe are no tenements; Secus if they were appendant to a manor, whereof ſhe is dowable; for then ſhe ſhall have a moiety of the profits as appendant to a moiety of the manor. Perk. 435, 436. 2 Sid. 139.

Dower ad oſtium eccleſiæ, is where a man of full age, ſeiſed of lands in fee, after marriage endows his wife at the church-door of a moiety, a third or other part of his lands, declaring them in certainty; in which caſe, after her huſband's death, ſhe may enter into ſuch lands without any other aſſignment, becauſe the ſolemn aſſignment at the church door is equivalent to the aſſignment in pais by metes and bounds; but this aſſignment cannot be made before marriage, becauſe before ſhe is not intitled to dower. Lit. ſect. 39. Co. Lit. 34. a. 36. b. 37. a.

If this dower be aſſigned, with a clauſe, that notwithſtanding any divorce that ſhall happen, that the wife ſhall hold it for her life, this is good, becauſe modus & conventio vincunt legem. Co. Lit. 32. a. Co. Lit. 38.

If tenant in tail aſſign ſuch dower, this ſhall not bind his iſſue againſt the ſtatute de donis, nor him in the reverſion after the eſtate ended. Co. Lit. 38.

Dower ex aſſenſu patris is where the father is ſeiſed of lands in fee; and his ſon and heir apparent after marriage endows his wife by the father's aſſent, ad oſtium eccleſiæ, of a certain quantity of them; in which caſe, after the death of the ſon, his wife may enter into ſuch parcel, without any other aſſignment, though the father be living; but this aſſent of the father's muſt be by deed, becauſe his eſtate is to be charged in futuro, and this may likewiſe be of more than a third part. Lit ſect. 40. Co. Lit. 35, 36. Perk. 444. Br. 7. 80. Plowd. 304. b. Cro. Jac. 169.

Theſe dowers ad oſtium eccleſiæ, or ex aſſenſu patris, if the wife enters and aſſents to them, are a good bar of her in Common law, but ſhe may if ſhe will waive them, and claim her dower at Common law, becauſe being made after the marriage, ſhe is not bound by them. 4 Co. 1. Co. Lit. 36. Br. 97. 3 Leon. 272.

Theſe dowers follow the nature of dower at Common law, and the wife may have a writ of dower for them, though they are certain, as well as for her dower at Common law, and as well againſt the guardian as the ter-tenant. Co. Lit. 35. F. N. B. 150.

Theſe dowers are good, though the wife be under the age of nine years at the time of her huſband's death, being made by conſent. Co. Lit. 33. a. 37. a.

Theſe dowers are forfeited for high or petit treaſon in the huſband; and ſo they were anciently, if he were attainted of felony, or murder; but now in theſe laſt caſes they are ſaved by the ſtatute, 1 Ed. 6. c. 2. and 5 Ed. 6. c. 11 and remain forfeitable by his attainder of high or petit treaſon. Co. Lit. 37. a. 41. Stanf. 195. a.

Dower de la plus belle is where there is a guardian in chivalry, and the wife occupies lands of the heir as guardian in ſocage; if the wife brings a writ of dower againſt ſuch guardian in chivalry, he may ſhew this matter, and pray that the wife may be endowed de la plus belle of the tenements in ſocage; and it will be adjudged accordingly; and the reaſon of this endowment was to prevent the diſmembring of the lands holden in chivalry, which are pro bono publico, and for the defence of the realm. Lit. ſect. 48.

After judgment given, the wife may take her neighbours, and in their preſence endow herſelf of the faireſt part of the tenements, which ſhe hath in ſocage, for her life. Lit. ſect. 48. Co. Lit. 38, 39. a b.

If the lands, which the wife hath as guardian in ſocage, are not of value ſufficient for her dower, or if a rentcharge be iſſuing out of them, upon her ſhewing thereof, ſhe ſhall recover of the guardian in chivalry to make it up. Lit. ſect. 49. Perk. 451.

If all the lands which the huſband had were holden in ſocage, and his wife hath them as guardian in ſocage, ſhe ſhall be allowed the third part of the profits upon her account in allowance of dower; but ſhe cannot endow herſelf of the third part thereof; becauſe that would be to make herſelf judge in her own cauſe; neither can the heir, in a writ of dower brought againſt him, plead that ſhe is guardian in ſocage, and may endow herſelf. Perk. 451.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 9. Vin. Abr. and 2 Bac. Abr. tit. Dower.

Dowry, (Dos mulieris) was in ancient time applied to that which the wife brings her huſband in marriage; otherwiſe called maritagium, or marriage goods: but theſe are termed more properly, goods given in marriage, and the marriage portion. 1 Inſt. 31.

Dowry-Bill. Among the Jews, the bridegroom at time of the marriage gave his wife a dowry-bill. See Moſes and Aaron, p. 235. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Dozein, Decenna, in the ſtatute for view of frankpledge, made 18 Ed. 2. One of the articles for ſtewards in their leets to enquire of, is, if all the dozeins be in the aſſiſe of our Lord the King, and which not, and who receive them. Art. 3. ſee deciners. There is alſo a ſort of Devonſhire kerſeys called dozens, 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 6.

Draca, A Drain.——Cum triginta acris prati juxta dictum novum locum ex parte occidentali in dracca juxta foſſatum de Redeclos jacentibus——Contin. Hiſt. Croyland. p. 479.

Draco Regis, The ſtandard, enſign, or military colours bore in war by our former kings, having the figure of a dragon upon them.—Cum rex Angliæ fixiſſet ſignum ſuum in medio, & tradidiſſet draconem ſuum Petro de Portellis ad portandum----Rog. Hoved. ſub anno 1191. See Wattes's gloſſary.

Dragium, Drag, A coarſer ſort of bread-corn.——Item reddit computum de duobus quarteriis avenæ de toto exitu grangiæ trituratis per ſummam, & de xvii. quarteriis & tribus buſſellis dragii ſupra mixtis—& triturabit buſſellos ordei vel dragei avenæ—Conſuetud. domus de Farendon MS. fol. 11. In Staffordſhire they now uſe a ſort of malt made of oats mixed with barley, which they call dreg malt. And in Eſſex, &c. they have a grain called dreg, of which ſee Tho. Tuſſer's Huſbandry, p. 32.

Drags, Seem to be wood or timber ſo joined together, that ſwimming or floating upon the water, they may bear a burden, or load of other wares down the river. Stat. 6 H. 6. c. 5.

Drana, A drain or water-courſe to ſew and empty wet places.——Conceſſimus humum illam quæ eſt juxta dranam quam Walterus filius Amfridi tenuit. Cartular. Abbat. Galſton. MS. fol. 29.—Illud pratum in Thiſtlemor quod eſt intra vetus foſſatum & nemus de Godeſhall, & inter dranam & riperiam de Avene cum tota criſta dicti foſſati. Cartular. Abbat. Radinges. MS. fol. 10. a.

Drapery, The meaſure and aulnage of cloths, 2 Ed. 3. c. 14. 47 Ed. 3. c. 1. 4 Ed. 4. c. 1. 1 R. 3. c. 8. 3 H. 8. c. 6.

The wearing of foreign cloths prohibited, 11 Ed. 3. c. 2.

Importation of foreign cloths prohibited, 11 Ed. 3. c. 3. 4 Ed. 4. c. 1.

Foreign clothiers may ſettle in England. 11 Ed. 3. c. 5.

Penalties of defective cloths, and of neglects in the aulnager, 25 Ed. 3. ſt. 4. c. 1. 3 R. 2. c. 2. 7 R. 2. c. 9. 12 R. 2. c. 14. 11 H. 6. c. 9. 4 Ed. 4. c. 1.

Subſidy on cloths ſold, 27 Ed. 3. ſt. 1. c. 4. certain cloths exempted for three years, 1 H. 4. c. 19.

Allowance to be made to buyer for defective cloths, 27 Ed. 3. ſt. 1. c. 4.

Cloths ſhall not be exported before they be fulled, &c. 5 Ed. 3. c. 7. 3 H. 8. c. 7.

Friſe free of ſubſidy, 50 Ed. 3. c. 8.

Cogware and Kendal cloths may be of leſs aſſiſe, as uſual, 13 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 10. 9 H. 4. c. 2.

Cloths ſhall be opened in the counties of Somerſet Dorſet, and Glouceſter, before they be ſold, as in Eſſex, 13 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 11.

None ſhall buy Guilford cloths before they be fulled and ſealed, 15 R. 2. c. 10.

Cloths may be made of any length and breadth, 17 R. c. 2.

The penalty of making deceitful cloths, or ſelling them without the aulnager's ſeal, 17 R. 2. c. 2.

The aulnager ſhall have no aſſured eſtate in his office, 17 R. 2. c. 5. 31 H. 6. c. 5.

Cloths made in London ſhall be ſealed before ſale, as formerly, 4 H. 4. c. 6. 17 Ed. 4. c. 5.

Aulnage of cloths may be let to farm, 4 H. 4. c. 24. 17 Ed. 4. c. 5.

The aſſiſe of cloths eſtabliſhed, 7 H. 4. c. 10. Repealed, 9 H. 4. c. 6. Confirmed, 13. H. 4. c. 1. 8 Ed. 4. c. 1. 4 Ja. 1. c. 2.

Cloths not to be tacked or plaited before they be ſealed, 11 H. 4. c. 6.

Cloths cut into ſmall garments to pay cuſtom according to the rate, 11 H. 4. c. 7.

How the word cloth ſhall be interpreted, 11 H. 6. c. 9.

Wages to be paid in money, 4 Ed. 4. c. 1. ſ. 5. 10 Ann. c. 16. ſ. 6. 1 Geo. 1. c. 15. ſ. 12.

Liberty to put flocks in certain cloths in Devonſhire, 7 Ed. 4. c. 2.

Woollen yarn and cloths unfulled not to be exported, 7 Ed. 4. c. 3. 3 H. 8. c. 7.

The length and breadth of cloths, and the order of dying of them, 1 R. 3. c. 8.

Italian merchants prohibited to occupy drapery, 1 R. 3. c. 9. ſ. 8, 10.

Woollen cloths not to be exported till they are rowed, barbed and ſhorn, 3 H. 7. c. 11. 3 H. 8. c. 7. 5 H. 8. c. 3.

Certain cheap cloths excepted, 3 H. 8. c. 7. ſ. 2.

The price of cloth limited, the fineſt to 16 s. a yard, &c. 4 H. 7. c. 8.

Where cuſtom ſhall be paid when cloths are packed in one port, and ſhipped in another, 11 H. 7. c. 6.

For ſealing of cloth of gold and ſilver, 4 H. 8. c. 6.

For making of Devonſhire white ſtreits, 5 H. 8. c. 2. 6 H. 8. c. 8. 7 Ed. 6. c. 9. 27 El. c. 18.

Regulations to prevent deceits in making cloth, 6 H. 8. c. 9. 27 H. 8. c. 12. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 2. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 6. 4 & 5 P. & M. c. 5. 4 Jac. 1. c. 2. 21 Jac. 1. c. 18.

The ſelling of white cloths to ſtrangers reſtrained, 14 & 15 H. 8. c. 1. 27 H. 8. c. 13.

Veſſes and ſet cloths made in Suffolk, not to be within the aſſiſe, 14 & 15 H. 8. c. 11.

Regulations of the clothing trade in Worceſterſhire, 25 H. 8. c. 18.

Rents of houſes not to be raiſed in the clothing towns in Worceſterſhire, 25 H. 8. c. 18. ſ. 3.

Clothier to weave his mark and ſet his ſeal, 27 H. 8. c. 12.

Worceſterſhire cloths to be ſealed by the ſearchers, 27 H. 8. c. 12. ſ. 5. Packing of Welſh whites, 33 H. 8. c. 3.

Cloths of ſmall value may be exported unrowed, 27 H. 8. c. 13.

The aſſiſe of the breadth of kerſeys repealed, 33 H. 8. c. 18.

Exportation of cloths unrowed, &c. of the value of 3*l.* prohibited, 33 H. 8. c. 19.

For the making of coverlets in Yorkſhire, 34 & 35 H. 8. c. 10.

For Welſh friſes and cottons, 34 & 35 H. 8. c. 11. 34 & 35. H. 8. c. 26. ſ. 121. 1 Ja. 1. c. 25. ſ. 28.

Length to be marked on the ſeal, 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 2.

Shrinking cloth not to be ſold, 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 2. ſ. 3.

Meaſure and weight of cloth in Kent and Suſſex, 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 6. ſ. 3.

Of long Worceſters and ſhort Worceſters, Ibid. ſect. 5 & 7.

The meaſure in Suffolk, Norfolk, Eſſex, Wiltſhire Glouceſter and Somerſet, Ibid. ſect. 8 & 10.

Of Devonſhire kerſeys, Taunton and Bridgewater cloths, Welſh friſes, Cheſhire cottons, &c. Ibid. ſect. 14, 17 & 21.

Who may make broad cloth, 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 8.

The

The uſe of gig-mills prohibited, 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 22.

Inhabitants of cities, &c. may make cloth though they have not been apprentices, 1 M. ſt. 3. c. 7.

A clothier ſhall keep but one loom, 2 & 3 P. & M. c. 11. ſ. 2.

Where woollen cloth may be woven, 2 & 3 P. & M. c. 11. ſ. 6. 4 & 5 P. & M. c. 5. ſ. 32.

For viewing and ſealing Bridgewater cloths, 2 & 3 P. & M. c. 12.

None to make woollen cloths unleſs they have been apprentice, 4 & 5 P. & M. c. 5. ſ. 33.

Where woollen cloth may be made, 1 El. c. 14.

Clothiers not to hire workmen for leſs than a year, 5 El. c. 4. ſ. 3.

Suffolk and Kentiſh cloths not to be exported unwrought, 8 El. c. 6.

Regulations of the drapers, cottoners and friſers of Shrewſbury, 8 El. c. 7. Repealed 14 El. c. 12.

Drapers where diſabled, 8 El. c. 7. ſ. 6.

The duty of the aulnager in the county of Lancaſter, 8 El. c. 12.

Kerſeys not to be above the length of 18 yards, 14 El. c. 10. Repealed 3 Jac. 1. c. 16.

Inhabitants of Somerſet, Gloceſterſhire and Wilts, may make cloth out of market towns, 18 El. c. 16.

The breadth of weſt country cloths, 27 El. c. 17. Made perpetual, 35 El. c. 7.

For the making of woollen cloths in Devon and Cornwall, called plain white ſtraights, &c. 27 El. c. 18.

For the clothiers in Boxſtead in Eſſex, 27 El. c. 23.

The aſſiſe of coloured cloths in Somerſetſhire, &c. 35. El. c. 9.

Of Devonſhire kerſeys, &c. 35 El. c. 10. 3 Jac. 1. c. 16.

Forfeitures, &c. to be recovered with coſts, 35 El. c. 10. ſ. 6, 10.

The lord mayor and maſter and wardens of the clothworkers, may ſearch the work of all perſons occupying the broad ſhears in London, 39 El. c. 13.

Againſt tentering northern cloth, 39 El. c. 30.

Cloths not to be wrought deceitfully, nor ſtretched, 43 El. c. 10.

Penalty on clothiers, &c. refuſing to obey the order of wages, 1 Ja. 1. c. 6. ſ. 7.

Clothier, being juſtice of peace, not to rate wages of weavers, 1 Jac. 1. c. 6. ſ. 9.

None to incur penalty for want of length, breadth, &c. of Welſh cottons under 15 d. per yard, 1 Jac. 1. c. 25. ſ. 28. 21 Ja. 1. c. 28. ſ. 5.

Welſh cottons not to be ſearched or ſealed, 3 Jac. 1. c. 17. 3 Car. 1. c. 5. ſ. 26.

Cloth ſealed to be ſearched only by the buyer, 4 Ja. 1. c. 2. ſ. 22.

Buyer to have half the penalty of faults not certified, 4 Ja. 1. c. 2. ſ. 23.

Cogware and other coarſe cloths made in the northren counties, need not be ſearched, 7 Ja. 1. c. 16.

For the free vending of Welſh cloth, 21 Jac. 1. c. 9.

Hot-preſſing of cloth prohibited, 21 Ja. 1. c. 18.

Regulatings of bay-making in the Dutch bay-hall at Colcheſter, 12 Car. 2. c. 22. 1 Geo. 1. c. 41.

For the making of cloth in the weſt-riding of Yorkſhire, 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 32. 11 Geo. 1. c. 24. 7 Geo. 2. c. 25. 11 Geo. 2. c. 28. 14 Geo. 2. c. 35.

For the making of Kiderminſter ſtuffs, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 8.

The market of Blackwell Hall regulated, 8 W. 3. c. 9.

The duty on exportation taken away, 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 20. ſ. 1.

The aulnage duty taken away, 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 20. ſ. 2.

A duty on broad cloths exported white, 6 Ann. c. 8. 9 Ann. c. 6. ſ. 18.

White woollen cloth may be exported by any perſon, 6 Ann. c. 9.

For the true making of Yorkſhire cloth, 7 Ann. c. 13. 1 Geo. c. 15. ſ. 14. 11 Geo. 1. c. 24.

For the true making of medley broad cloth, 10 Ann. c. 16. 1 Geo. 1 c. 15.

Penalties to be recovered with coſts, 1 Geo. 1. c. 15. ſ. 16.

Who may be bay-weavers at Colcheſter, 1 Geo. 1. c. 41.

Inſpectors to be elected for the weſtern counties, 13 Geo. 1. c. 23.

Penalty of millman, &c. not ſtamping the true length, &c. of broad cloth before it goes to the mill, 7 Geo. 2. c. 25. ſ. 1.

Regulation of the manufacture of narrow woollen cloth in the weſt riding of Yorkſhire, 11 Geo. 2. c. 28.

Juſtices to chuſe additional number of meaſurers and ſearchers of cloth, 14 Geo. 2. c. 35.

See Woollen manufacture.

Draſcus, Grains or the refuſe of malt after brewing, called ſtill in ſome places drains and draff—Et prebendam quotidianam ad duos equos de granario noſtro ſumendam, unum cribrum furfuris, & majorem cuvam de Draſco, i. e. a great baſket of grains. Matt. Paris in vit. Abb. S. Albani.

Draw-gere, Any harneſs, or other furniture of cart-horſes for drawing a waggon, or other carriage—Profactura de Draw-gere per Walterum Carpenter de Langton. Paroch Antiq. p. 549. See Kennet's Gloſſary.

Drawbacks. The remedy againſt fradulently landing goods which have had a drawback, 8 Ann. c. 13. ſ. 16.

Drawlatches, Were thieves and robbers: Lambert in his Eiren. lib. 1. c. 6. calls them thieves, waſters, and roberd's-men; words grown out of uſe. They are mentied in ſtat. 5 Ed. 3. c. 14. and 7 R. 2. c. 5.

Drays and Carts. See Carts.

Dredgermen. See Oyſters.

Dreit-Dreit, ſignifies a double right, that is, jus poſſeſſionis & jus dominii. Bract. lib. 4. c. 27. & lib. 4. tract. 4. c. 4 & 5. tract. 5. c. 5. Co. on Litt. fol. 266.

Drenched, Is an abſolete word, and ſignifies to overcome, from the Germ.

Drenches, or Drenges (Drengi) Were tenants in capite, ſays an ancient MS. Domeſday tit. Leſtreſc. Roger. Pictavienſ. Neuton. Hujus manerii aliam terram 15 homines, quos drenches vocabant, pro 15 maneriis tenebant. They were (ſays Spelman) e genere vaſſallorum non ignobilium, cum ſinguli qui in Domeſd. nominantur, ſingula poſſiderent maneria. Such as at the coming in of the conqueror, being put out of their eſtates, were afterwards upon complaint unto him reſtored thereunto; for that they being before owners thereof were neither in auxilio, or conſilio againſt him: of which number were Edwyne, a Dane, Sharneburne of Norfolk, and others. Sir Edward Coke on Littl. fol. 5. b. ſays drenchs are free tenants of a manor: miſprinted doubtleſs for drenches, and not well interpreted. See Baron. Angliæ, fol. 118. a. In Cukeney manebat quidam homo, qui vocabatur gamilbere, & fuit verus dreynghe ante conqueſtum, tenuit duas carucatas terræ de domino rege in capite, pro tali ſervitio, de ferrando palifridum dom. regis, ſuper quatuor pedes de cluario dom. regis, quotieſcunque ad manerium ſuum de Mansfield jacuerit, & ſi inclaudet palefridum domini Regis, dabit ei palefridum quatuor mercarum. Mon Angl. 2 tom. fol. 598. a. In Newtone T. R. E. (i. e. in the time of King Edward) fuerunt quinque hidæ, modo ſunt ibi ſex drenghs. Domeſd. tit. Derby. Gale 773.

Drengage, (Drengagium, vel ſervitium Drengarii,) The tenure by which the drenches held their lands. Of which ſee Trin. 21 Ed. 3. Ebor. and Northumb. Rot. 191. Notandum eſt, eos omnes eorumve anteceſſores, qui e drengorum claſſe erant, vel per drengagium tenuere, ſua incoluiſſe patrimonia ante adventum Normannorum. Spelman.

Drift of the Foreſt (Agitatio animalium in foreſta) Is an exact view or examination what cattle are in the foreſt, that it may be known whether it be overcharged, or not, and whoſe the beaſts are; and whether they are commonable beaſts, &c. When, how often in the year, by whom, and in what manner this drift is to be made, ſee Manwood, part. 2. cap. 15. and 4 Inſt. fol. 309.

Drinklean (Sax. Drinc-lean; in ſome records written potura drinklean) is a contribution of tenants towards a potation, or an ale provided to entertain the lord or his ſteward; a Scot-ale.

Droſdennes,—Quod dominus debet habere droſdennes arbores de creſcentia xl. annorum & infra. Knac. Paſch. 44 Edw. 3. quære. Droſdenn, droſ and drotten, among our Saxons ſignified a grove, or woody place, where cattle were kept; and the keeper of them was called Droſman. Domeſday.

Droſland, or Dryſland, (from the Sax. dryfene, i. e. driven) Was anciently a quit-rent, or yearly payment made by ſome tenants to the King, or their landlords, for driving their cattle through the manor to fairs, or markets, Mr. Philip's Miſtaken Recompence, fol. 39.

Droit, (Fr. Droit) Right: In law there are ſix kinds of it, viz.

1. Jus recuperandi.
2. Jus intrandi.
3. Jus habendi.
4. Jus retinendi.
5. Jus percipiendi.
6. Jus poſſidendi.

All theſe ſeveral ſorts of rights, following the relations of their objects, are the effects of the Civil law. Vide Coke on Littl. fol. 266. and 345. b.—Of meer droit, and very right, ſtat. 27 H. 8. cap. 26.

Droit de Avowſon. See Recto de advocatione eccleſiae.

Droit-cloſe. See Recto clauſo.

Droit de Dower. See Recto dotis.

Droit-patent. See Recto patens, and Calthorp's Rep. fol. 132.

Droit ſur diſclaimer. See Recto ſur diſclaimer.

Droſſen, Dru, Druit, Druſten, } All according to the book of Domeſday, ſignify a thicket, or wood, in a valley.

Dromones, Dromos, Dromunda, At firſt theſe words ſignified high ſhips, but afterwards thoſe which we now call men of war, and in this ſenſe 'tis uſed in Walſingham, anno 1292, in Knighton, lib. 3. cap. 14, &c. Tres majores naves ſubſequuntur; quas vulgo dromones appellant: galeæ vero leviores, & ad quælibet aptanda agiliores præcedunt. Gaufrid. Vineſauf. Ric. Regis Iter. Hieroſol. c. 60. Quum proſpere verſus Achon velificaret, 8 idus Junii, apparuit ei navis quædam permaxima, quam dromundam appellant, miſſa a Saladino. Matt. Pariſ. ſub anno 1191.

Drova, A drove, a drift way, or common road for driving cattle.—Walterus Cantuar. archiepiſcopus conceſſit ad vitam magiſtro Michaeli de Bercham paſturas de la Rede & Haute juxta Bercham, cum omnibus ſuis juribus & pertinentiis, drovis, viis, ſemitis & foſſatis. Dat. 10 kal. Sept. 1319. Ex regiſt. eccleſiæ Chriſti Cantuar. MS.

Drovers, Are thoſe who buy cattle in one place to ſell in another; they are to be married men and houſholders, and be licenſed, by ſtat. 5 Eliz. c. 12. and if they drive their cattle on the lord's day, they ſhall forfeit 20 s. by 1 Car. 1. c. 1. drovers not to be deemed bankrupts, 5 Geo. 2. c. 30. ſect. 40. See Cattle.

Druggeria, Drogeria, A place of drugs, a druggſter's ſhop.—Quoddam meſſuagium ſitum in vico Northlode inter tenementum quod fuit Wilhelmi de Scheſteſbury capellani & tenementum proxime druggeriam, quod quidem tenementum, &c. Cartular. Abbat. Glaſton. MS. fol. 125. a.

Drugs. Drugs rated, or unrated, to what duties liable on importation, 2 W. & M. ſeſſ. 2. c. 4. ſ. 12. 3 & 4 Ann. c. 4. ſ. 8.

Drugs for dying excepted, 3 Ann. c. 4. ſ. 8. 8 Geo. 1. c. 15. ſ. 10.

Drugs imported in Engliſh ſhipping were to pay the full value mentioned in the book of rates, and thoſe otherwiſe imported, treble the value, 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 34. Made perpetual, 7 Ann. cap. 7. ſ. 26.

What time allowed for exportation, 2 & 3 Ann. c. 9. ſ. 13. 7 Geo. 1. ſt. 1. c. 21. ſ. 10.

American drugs may be imported from any of the Britiſh plantations, 7 Ann. c. 8. ſ. 12.

The value of drugs how to be aſcertained in order to fix the duty, 10 Ann. c. 2. ſ. 33. 11 Geo. 1. c. 7. ſ. 1, 2, 3.

The duties how to be managed, 10 Ann. c. 26. ſ. 77.

In what caſes to be repaid on exportation, 10 Ann. c. 26. ſ. 41.

Senna, charged as a medicinal drug, 1 Geo. 1. c. 43. ſ. 3.

Drugs, &c. how to be ſearched and examined, 10 Geo. 1. c. 20.

Duty on drugs repealed, 11 Geo. c. 7. ſ. 9.

Borax and camphire refined in Great Britain, intitled to a drawback, 17 Geo. 2. c. 31. ſ. 3.

Gum Senega may be imported from any part of Europe, 25 Geo. 2. c 32.

Drunkenneſs. See Alehouſes.

Dry exchange. (Cambium Siccum) Is a term invented in former times for the diſguiſing and covering of uſury; in which ſomething was pretended to paſs on both ſides, whereas in truth nothing paſſed but on one ſide, in which reſpect it was called dry. Stat. 3 Hen. 7. c. 5.

Dry rent, A rent reſerved without clauſe of diſtreſs. See Rent Seck.

Duarium, Doarium, Dotarium, The dowry, or jointure of a wife ſettled on her in marriage, to be enjoyed after her huſband's deceaſe. The word dowrie is by Fr. Junius, rightly referred to the old Engliſh, to dowe, i. e. to give, as Chaucer, to whom for evermore my heart I dowe. See Kennet's Gloſſary.

Dublin. Sea-town annexed to the archbiſhoprick of Dublin, 4 Ann. c. 26.

Dubris. Dover.

Duces tecum; Is a writ commanding one to appear at a day in the Chancery, and to bring with him ſome evidence, or other thing that the court would view. See the New book of entries, verbo Duces tecum. There is alſo another kind of duces tecum directed to a ſheriff, upon return that he cannot bring his priſoner without danger of death, he being adeo languidus; then the court grants a habeas corpus in the nature of a duces tecum licet languidus.

Duel, (Duellum) according to Fleta, Eſt ſingularis pugna inter duos ad probandam veritatem litis, & qui viceſit, probaſſe intelligitur, &c. Stat. de Finibus levatis, 27 Edw. 1. The trial by duel, combat, or camp fight, in doubtful caſes, is now diſuſed; though the law on which it was grounded be ſtill in force. See 3 part. Inſt. fol. 221. and ſee Combat. Per libertatem habere duellum, Johannes Stanly arm. clamat, quod ſi aliquis placitaverit aliquem de libero tenemento in curia ſua de Alford per breve domini comitis de recto patent. tenere & terminare prædictum placitum per duellum, prout jus eſt per communem legem. Plac. in Itin. apud Ceſtriam, 14 Hen. 7.

Stephanus de Nerbona omnibus — Sciatis me dediſſe Willielmo filio Radulphi de Filungele pro homagio & ſervitio ſuo, & propter duellum quod fecit pro me,—Duas virgatas terræ—Sine dat. MS. Will. Dugdale, Mil.

Duel, ſignifies likewiſe a fighting between two, upon ſome quarrel precedent. See Homicide.

Duke, Dux, In ancient times among the Romans ſignified ductorum exercitas, ſuch as led their armies; who if by their proweſs they obtained any famous victory, they were by their Soldiers ſaluted imperatores, as Hotoman de verb. feudal verb. Dux, proveth out of Livy, Tully, and others: ſince that time thoſe were called duces, to whom the King committed the government of any province, Id. In ſome nations to this day the ſovereigns of the country are called by this name, as Florence, or the Great Duke of Tuſcany, Duke of Milan. In England, duke is the next ſecular dignity to the Prince of Wales. And (as, Camden ſays) heretofore in the Saxon times they were called dukes without any addition, being mere officers and leaders of armies. After the coming in of the Conqueror, there were none who bore this title till Edward the Third's days, who made Edward his ſon Duke of Cornwal. Since that there have been ſeveral made, whoſe titles have deſcended by inheritance to their poſterity; they were created with ſolemnity per cincturam gladii, cappæq; & circuli aurei in ca- pite impoſitionem. See Camden Brit. pag. 166. Zazium de feudis, pag. 4. num. 7. Caſſan. de conſuet. Burgund. p. 6. 10. and Fern's Glory of Generoſity, 139. At this day we have many of theſe created Dukes in England, whoſe titles are very well known to every body. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Dumfries. A duty of exciſe granted to that town, 3 Geo. 1. c. 6. 10 Geo. 2. c. 7.

Dum fuit infra aetatem, Is a writ which lies for him, that before he came to his full age, made a feoffment of his land in fee, or for term of life, or in tail, to recover them again from him, to whom he conveyed them. F. N B. fol. 192.

Dum non fuit compos mentis, Is a writ that lieth againſt the alienee, or leſſee, for him that not being of ſound memory, did alien any lands or tenements in fee-ſimple, fee-tail, for term of life, or for years. F. N. B. fol. 202.

Dun, Dune, A mountain or open place: Therefore the names of towns which end in dun, were either built on hills, or near hills in open places.

Duna, A bank of earth caſt up, the ſide of a ditch ——Faciet foſſatum adeo forte & bonum prout voluit, ita quod fundum a retro dunae utriuſq; foſſati ſit in fundo 14 pedum. Cartular. Glaſton. MS. f. 75.

Dunbar, A duty of exciſe granted to that town, 5 Geo. 1. c. 16. 10 Geo. 2. c. 4. 4 Geo. 2. c. 11. 20 Geo. 2. c. 17.

Dundee. A duty of exciſe granted to that town, 4 Geo. 2. c. 11. 20 Geo. 2. c. 17.

Dunio, A ſort of baſe coin leſs than a fathing, a double.—— Nec denarios invenerunt præter octo duniones qui ſterlingos duos non valebant.——Girald. Cambr. apud Whartoni Angl. Sacr. p. 2. p. 595.

Dunjon, A little caſtle; In illa villa rex habet caſtellum quoddam, ſupra caſtellum autem unum dungeonem. Du Freſne.

Dunnarium, —— Pateat —— quod ego Johannes de Mohun miles dedi abbati & canonicis de Nutle paſturam in omnibus brueris ſeu dunnariis meis. Dat. 29 Ed. 3. penes decan. & capit. Eccl. Cath. Chriſti Oxon. It ſeems to ſignify a down, a hill, or heathy ground.

Dunſetts, Thoſe who dwell on hills or mountains, from the Sax. dun, a hill, and Sax. data, an inhabitant.

Dunſtable. See Magiouinium.

Dunum finus, The creek at Dunſby near Whitby in Yorkſhire.

Dunum and Duna, A down, in which termination (in ſome, a little varied into don) many names of our towns end, as Aſhdown, Cleydon, &c. Domeſday.

Duodena, A jury of twelve men. Robertus Treſilian Juſticiarius——apud S. Albanum convocari fecit duodenam quam pridie averraverat ad indictandum & prodendum malefactores. Tho. Walſingham, p. 276.

Duodena manu. See Friburgh and Oath.

Duplicate is uſed by Crompton, for the ſecond letters patent, granted by the Lord Chancellor in a caſe wherein he had formerly done the ſame, and was therefore thought void. Cromp. Juriſdict. fol. 215. Alſo a ſecond letter written and ſent to the ſame party and purpoſe as a former, for fear of a miſcarriage of the firſt, or for other reaſon, is called a duplicat. Alſo any copy or tranſcript of a writing is called a duplicat. The word is uſed 14 Car. 2. cap. 10.

Duplodes. See Gambezon.

Duplum, A ſort of bread ſo called, made for the monks.

Durden, A thicket of wood in a valley.

Dureſs (Duritia) Is where one is kept in a priſon, or reſtrained of his liberty, contrary to the order of law, or threatned to be killed, maimed or beaten: And if ſuch perſon ſo in priſon, or in fear of ſuch threats, make any ſpecialty or obligation by reaſon of ſuch impriſonment or threats, ſuch deed is void in law: And in any action brought upon ſuch ſpecialty, the party may plead, that it was made by dureſſe; and ſo avoid the action. Broke, in his Abridgment joineth dureſs and manaſſe together, i. e. duritiam & minas; hardſhip and threatnings. Cowell.

Every legal contract muſt be the act of the underſtanding, which they are incapable of uſing, who are under reſtraint and terrors; and therefore the law requires the free aſſent of the parties as eſſential to every contract, and that they be not under any force or violence. 2 Bac. Abr. 155.

It ſeems clearly agreed, that where a perſon is illegally reſtrained of his liberty by being confined in a common goal, or elſewhere, and during ſuch reſtraint enters into a bond, or other ſecurity, to the perſon who cauſes the reſtraint, that he may avoid the ſame for dureſs of impriſonment. Co. Lit. 253. Jenk. 166.

But if a man be impriſoned by order of law, the plaintiff may take a feoffment of him, or a bond for his ſatisfaction, and for the deliverance of the defendant, notwithſtanding that impriſonment; for this is not by dureſs of impriſonment, becauſe he was in priſon by a courſe of law; for it is not accounted in law dureſs of impriſonment, but where either the impriſonment, or the dureſs that is offered in priſon, or at large, is tortious or unlawful; for executio juris non habet injuriam. 2 Inſt. 482.

Lord Coke ſays, that for menaces, in four inſtances a man may avoid his own act. Firſt, For fear of loſs of life. Secondly, Of loſs of member. Thirdly, Of mayhem. Fourthly, Of impriſonment. 2 Inſt. 483.

But menacing to commit a battery, or to burn his houſe, or ſpoil his goods, is not ſufficient to avoid the act; for if he ſhould ſuffer what he is threatned, he may ſue and recover damages in proportion to the injury done him. 2 Inſt. 483.

If a man is taken by virtue of a proceſs, iſſuing out of a court that hath no power to grant ſuch proceſs, and for his enlargement gives bond to appear in the ſaid court, this may be avoided, becauſe taken by dureſs; adjudged in an action upon ſuch bond, given by one who was taken upon an attachment under the Privy ſeal of the court of requeſt; for that court had no power to grant ſuch proceſs; and therefore it was no warrant to the ſheriff to take his body. Cro. Eliz. 646. 4 Inſt. 97. S. C. Cro. Car. 596.

If A. falſely charges B. with felony for ſtealing his horſe, and procures a warrant from a juſtice of peace to a conſtable, whereby he is taken, and being in cuſtody, upon A.'s promiſe to diſcharge him, ſeals a bond for 10 l. to A. and is thereupon immediately diſcharged; this bond may be avoided by dureſs; and ſo ruled, it appearing that the horſe was B.'s own horſe, and that theſe proceedings were only to cover the deceit. Allen 92.

Alſo in equity, if a man by compulſion enters into a bond, though the terror and force are not ſufficient to make it dureſs at Common law, yet it may be relieved againſt. 2 Vern. 497.

But in this, every caſe muſt depend on its own circumſtances; for where A. being taken by the huſband going to bed to his wife, gave ſecurities for payment of 500 l. and a bill being brought to be relieved againſt the ſecurities, ſuggeſting a plot to catch him; and that the defendant with an ax threatned to cut him in pieces; but there being no proof of a plot, and it appearing that the ſecurities were entred into at three ſeveral times, and when the plaintiff was in cool blood, and that he joined in concealing the conſideration thereof, the court refuſed to relieve. Preced. Chan. 266.

Alſo by a rule of the Common law courts, all warrants for confeſſing judgments, taken by any ſheriff or bailiff from any perſon in his or their cuſtody by arreſt, if not executed in the preſence of ſome ſworn attorney of either court, and his name ſet or ſubſcribed thereto as a witneſs, ſhall not be good, or of any force; and upon oath made that the ſame was done, the ſame ſhall be ſet aſide, and the ſheriff or officer may be puniſhed for ſo doing; and if judgment be entred thereon, the ſame on motion will be vacated and ſet aſide; and if the execution thereon be executed, the party will have reſtitution awarded him. 2 Bac. Abr. 156, 157.

The dureſs that will avoid a deed muſt be done to the party himſelf; therefore if A. and B. enter into an obligation, obligation, by reaſon of dureſs done to A. B. ſhall not avoid this obligation, though A. may, becauſe he ſhall not avoid it by dureſs to a ſtranger. 1 Rol. Abr. 687. 1 Brownl. 66.

But a ſon ſhall avoid his deed for dureſs to his father; ſo ſhall the father his deed, by reaſon of dureſs to his ſon. 1 Rol. Abr. 687. 2 Brownl. 276.

Alſo the huſband ſhall avoid a deed made by dureſs to his wife. 1 Rol. Abr. 687. 2 Brownl. 276. S. P.

But a ſervant ſhall not avoid a deed made by dureſs to his maſter, nor vice verſa. 1 Rol. Abr. 617. 2 Brownl. 276. S. P.

If a man makes a leaſe by dureſs, and the leſſee enters, the leſſor ſhall have an aſſiſe againſt him as a diſſeiſor, for the free conſent of parties being eſſential to all contracts, where either of the parties is under force and violence, his free aſſent cannot be ſuppoſed, and therefore ſuch contracts is void, and the perſon who enters by virtue of it is a wrong-doer. Bro. tit. Diſſeiſin 63.

But if a man by dureſs make a feoffment and livery in perſon, he ſhall have no aſſiſe againſt the feoffee, becauſe ſuch dureſs ſhall not be preſumed, for then the power of the pais, who was preſent at the ſolemnity, would have been ſuppoſed to have come unto his reſcue. Bro. tit. Diſſeiſin 63. See 2 Inſt. 483.

So if a man acknowledges and enrolls a deed, he cannot afterwards plead dureſs. Moor 42. Cro. Eliz. 88. S. P.

But a ſtatute merchant may be avoided by audita querela, becauſe it was made by dureſs of impriſonment. 1 Rol. Abr. 687. Owen 142. S. C.

In debt, for the arrears of an account, the defendant may ſhew that the plaintiff of his own wrong impriſoned the defendant, and aſſigned auditors to him, being in priſon, and that ſo the account was by dureſs. 1 Leon 13.

A will ſhall be avoided by dureſs or menace of impriſonment. Dyer 143. b.

If a man takes A. S. to wife by dureſs, though the marriage be ſolemnized in facie eccleſiæ, yet it is merely void, and they are not huſband and wife, for without a free conſent there can be no marriage. Kelw. 52. b. 1 Sid. 65.

If a man executes a deed by dureſs, he cannot plead non eſt factum, for it is his deed, tho' he may avoid it by ſpecial pleading judgment ſi actio, &c. 5 Co. 119. 2 Inſt. 483. S. P. See 9 Vin. Abr. and 2 Bac. Abr. tit. Dureſs. See alſo Gaolers, Impriſonment, and Eccleſiaſtical Courts.

Durham. Its biſhop and chancellor to be juſtices of peace as uſual, 27 H. 8. c. 24. ſ. 21.

Proclamations how to be awarded in exigents, 31 El. c. 9. ſ. 2.

The biſhop to have a deputy in the King's Bench and Common Pleas for receiving writs of proclamations, 31 El. c. 9. ſ. 3.

The forfeiture for not returning them, 31 El. c. 9. ſ. 4.

Saving of other franchiſes belonging to the biſhoprick of Durham, 31 El. c. 9. ſ. 5.

Writs of ſpecial capias utlagatum, &c. to whom to be directed, 31 El. c. 9. ſ. 6.

One fee only to be taken on awarding a proclamation, 31 El. c. 9. ſ. 7.

The knights and burgeſſes for parliament how elected, 25 Car. 2. c. 25. ſ. 9.

The chancellor, &c. of the county palatine may grant commiſſions for ſwearing affidavits in the courts of Durham, 4 Geo. 3. c. 21.

Durnobarium, Dorcheſter.

Durobrovae, Rocheſter.

Durolenum, Lenham in Kent.

Durolitum, Oldford upon Lee in Eſſex.

Durotriges, Dorſetſhire.

Durſley, Blows without wounding or blood; vulgo dry-blows, from the Germ. Durre, ſiccus, and Sax. Slege, ictus.

Duſty-foot, or Duſty-fatt, A foreigner, trader, pedlar, or travelling merchant, who has no ſettled habitation. So called becauſe their feet in travelling are covered with duſt. Si quis extraneus mercator tranſiens per regnum, non habens terram, vel manſionem infra vicecomitatum, ſed vagans, qui vocatur pie poudreux, hoc eſt Anglice Duſty-foot, &c. Hence the court of piepowder erected for the relief of ſuch foreigners. See Piepowder.

Dutchy-court, Is a court wherein all matters appertaining to the dutchy or county palatine of Lancaſter are decided by the decree of the chancellor of that court: The original of it was in Henry the Fourth's days, who, obtained the crown by depoſing Richard the Second, and having the dutchy of Lancaſter by deſcent, in right of his mother was ſeiſed thereof as King, and not as Duke; ſo that all the liberties, franchiſes and juriſdictions of the ſaid dutchy, paſſed from the King by his great ſeal, and not by livery or attornment, as the poſſeſſions of Everwick, the earldom of March and ſuch others did, which had deſcended to the King by other anceſtors than the King's; but, at laſt, Henry the Fourth, by authority of parliament, paſſed a charter, whereby the poſſeſſions, liberties, &c. of the ſaid dutchy were ſevered from the crown; yet Henry the Seventh reduced it to its former nature, as it was in Henry the Fifth's days. Crom. Jur. fol. 136.

The officers belonging to this court, are, the chancellor, attorney, receiver general, clerk of the court, meſſenger: Beſides which, there are certain aſſiſtants, as one attorney in the Exchequer, one attorney of the dutchy in Chancery, four perſons learned in the law retained of counſel with the King in the ſaid court; whereof Gwin (in the Preface to his Reading) ſpeaks thus; It grew out of the grant of King Edward the Third, who gave that dutchy to his ſon John of Gaunt, and endowed it with ſuch royal rights, as the county palatine of Cheſter had. And foraſmuch as it was afterwards extinct in the perſon of King Henry the Fourth, by reaſon of the union of it with the crown, the ſame King, (ſuſpecting himſelf to be more rightfully Duke of Lancaſter than King of England) determined to ſave his right in the dutchy, whatever ſhould befal the kingdom; and therefore he ſeparated the dutchy from the crown, and ſettled it ſo in the natural perſons of himſelf and his heirs, as if he had been no King or politick body at all; in which condition it continued during the reign of Henry the Fifth and Henry the Sixth, that deſcended from him; but when Edward the Fourth had (by recovery of the crown) recontinued the right of the houſe of York, he feared not to appropriate that dutchy to the crown again; yet ſo, that he ſuffered the court and officers to remain as he found them; in which manner it came, together with the crown, to Henry the Seventh, who, approving of Henry the Fourth's policy, (by whoſe right alſo he obtained the kingdom) made a like ſeparation of the dutchy, and ſo left it to his poſterity, who ſtill enjoy it.

Commiſſioners of ſewers how appointed for the dutchy, 31 H. 8. c. 5. ſ. 14.

Leaſes of Dutchy lands to paſs the Dutchy ſeal, 27 H. 8. c. 11. ſ. 6.

What lands ſhall be parcel of the Dutchy, and how to paſs, and what new ones may be annexed, 27 H. 8. c. 11. ſ. 6, 7. & c. 16. 2 & 3 Ph. & Ma. c. 20.

Grant of any office whereof the fees do not exceed 2*d.* per day, may be paſſed by the chancellor of the dutchy, &c. 27 H. 8. c. 11. ſ. 7.

Debts due to the King in the dutchy ſhall be ſued for there, 33 H. 8. c. 39. ſ. 7.

The ſame fees for the commiſſion as in Chancery, 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 8.

The ſame benefice ſhall be under its ſurvey as anciently, 1 El. c. 4. ſ. 38.

Decrees of the dutchy court concerning the King's copyhold land how confirmed, 7 Ja. 1. c. 21.

Chancellor of the dutchy impowered to take affidavits, 16 & 17 Car. 2. c. 19.

For other matters, See Lancaſter, and County Palatine.

Duty, Any thing that is known to be due by law, and thereby recoverable, is a duty before it is recovered; becauſe the party intereſted in the ſame hath a power to recover it. 1 Lill. 495.

Dwined.

Dwined, i. e. consumed; thus we say, to dwindle.

Dyer, Was a learned lawer, and lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas in Queen Elizabeth's time: he wrote a book still much esteemed, called his Commentaries, or Reports.

Dyers, Dying, and Dying Drugs. Penalty of dying cloth with orchel, or cork, called jarcock. 1 R. 3. c. 8. s. 15.

Farther directions for dying cloth, 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 2. s. 4.

Searchers in every borough to inspect dying, 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 6. s. 37.

Provisions for abolishing deceitful materials, and other frauds in dying, 23 El. c. 9. 13 Geo. 1. c. 24.

Penalty on using logwood, 23 El. c. 9. s. 2.

Every dyer to fix a seal of lead to his cloth, 23 El. c. 9. s. 5.

Dying wood of the growth of the English plantations not to be transported but to English plantations, 12 Car. 2. c. 18. s. 18.

To be put on shore in England, &c. before it is carried from thence, 15 Car. 2. c. 7. s. 9.

Logwood may be imported and used in dying, 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 11. s. 26 & 27.

Dying wood, to what duties liable on importation, 4 W. & M. c. 5. s. 2. 3 & 4 Ann. c. 4. s. 8.

And what to pay on exportation, 8 Geo. 1. c. 15. s. 11.

And within what time to be exported, 2 & 3 Ann. c. 9. s. 13. 7 Geo. 1 st. 1. c. 21. s. 10.

Dying goods in general where exempt from duties on importation, 8 Geo. 1. c. 15. s. 10.

Penalty of deceitful black dying, 13 Geo. 1. c. 24.

Penalty of using logwood in dying blue, 13 Geo. 1. c. 24. s. 3.

Masters, &c. of dyers company in London to appoint searchers, 13 Geo. 1. c. 24. s. 4.

Dyke-reeve, An officer that hath the oversight of the dykes and drains in Deeping fens, &c. mentioned 17 & 18 Car. 2. cap. 11.

Dynge-thrift, An old play, or sport, of which it is hard to derive the name, or to define the thing. There is a letter directed to the official of the archdeacon of Richmond, for censuring one William Baker, chaplain of Ripon, upon several articles exhibited against him, of which one runs thus——Item fuit inventor principalis cujusdam ludi pestiferi & a jure reprobati, qui in vulgari dicitur Dynge-thrift, qui se magistrum & abbatem illius ordinis fecerat nominari, & pro tali se gessit, & quamplurimos tam clericos quam laicos apud Ripon illo ludo noxio & damnoso informavit.——Dat. 16 kal. Nov. 1311. Collectan. Matth. Hutton S. T. P. ex Reg. Grenefeld Archiepis. Ebor. MS.

Dysart. A duty of excise granted to that town, 26 Geo. 2. c. 44.

Dyteuum, Dictenum, A dittany, ditty, or song. Whence venire cum toto ac pleno dyteno, was to sing Harvest home. Homines de Heayngdon ad curiam domini singulis annis inter festum S. Michaelis & S. Martini venient cum toto ac pleno dyteno sicut hactenus consueverunt. Paroch. Antiq. p. 320.

E.

EAHALUS, From the Saxon Eale, cervisia, and Hus, domus, now called an ale-house; a word which we often find in the laws of King Alfred.

Eahtayn, In the Saxon laws of King Ethelred, cap. 6. —— Et si Eahtayn occidatur, pertineat infractio pacis intra curiam, vel adjacentias ejus, Eahtayn persolvatur plena wera. Mr. Somner interprets Eahtayn to be eight men, or such a number slain; but the word seems rather to be a contraction of heath-tean, a high thane, or superior lord, the penalty on whose murder was augmented in proportion to his quality. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Ealderman, or Ealdoman, Aldermanus, Among the Saxons was as much as Earl among the Danes, Camd. Brit. pag. 107. It is as much as an Elder, or statesman, called by the Romans, Senator, who were rather counsellors at large, than employed in any particular office, as Comites were. See Countee. And that signification we retain at this day almost in all our cities and boroughs, calling those Aldermen that are associates to the chief officer in the common council of the town. 24 H. 8. cap. 13. Or sometimes the chief officer himself, as in Stamford. See Alderman.

Eallehorda, The privilege of assising and selling ale and beer. As among the liberties granted by Henry the Second to the abbey of Glastenbury—Habeat quoque eadem ecclesia socam & sacam, on Stronde and on Streme, on Wode, and on Felde, on Grithbriche, on Burchbrich Hundred. Sotene, Adda and Ortelas, Ellehordas, busa, herden, &c. Cortular. Abbat. Glaston. MS. fol. 14.

Earle, Sax. Eorle, Lat. Comes and Consul; This was a great title among the Saxons, and is the most ancient of any of the peerage, there being no other title of honour used among the present nobility, which was likewise in use among the Saxons except this title of Earl. The titles of honour among the Saxons were originally three, viz. Ætheling, Ealderman, and Disen, or Dean; the first comes from the word Æthel, which signifies noble, and was usually applied to the first of the Royal line; the other two words were applied to the rest of the nobility; only the Thani were afterwards distinguished into majores and minores; the former were equal to our peers, and the later to our knights: but the title Earl, in Lat. Comes, in antient times was given to those who were associates to the King in his councils and martial actions: And the manner of their investure into that dignity was, per cincturam gladii comitatus; without any formal charter of creation. See Dugdale's Warwickshire, fol. 302. But the Conqueror (as Camden notes) gave this dignity in fee to his nobles, annexing it to this or that county, or province; and allotted them for their maintenance, a certain proportion of money arising from the prince's profits, for the pleadings and forfeitures of the provinces: For example, he brings an ancient record in these words; Henricus 2. Rex Angliæ his verbis Comitem creavit; Sciatis nos feciſſe Hugonem Bigot comitem de Norf. &c. de tertio denario de Norwic. & Norfolk; ſicut aliquis Comes Angliæ liberius comitatum ſuum tenet. About the reign of King John, and ever since, our Kings have made Earls by their charter, of this or that county, province, or city; but of late, giving them no authority over the county, nor any part of the profits arising by it; only some annual fee out of the Exchequer, &c. The manner of their creation is by girding them with a sword. Cam. p. 107. but see the solemnity described more at large in Stow's Annals, p. 1121. Their place is next to a marquess, and before a viscount. Comitatus a comite dicitur, aut vice versa. See more on this subject in Spelman's Gloss. verbo Comites; and in Selden's titles of Honour, fol. 676. and see Countee, Consul and Eorl.

Earthen ware, to what duties liable, 2 Will. & M. sess. 2. c. 4. sect. 48.

Easement (Aisiamentum, from the French Aise, i. e. Commoditas) Is a service, or convenience, which one neighbour has of another by charter, or prescription, without profit; as a way through his ground, a sink, or such-like. Kitchin, fol. 105. this, in the Civil law, is called servitus prædii.——Præcipias R. quod juste & sine dilatione permittat habere H. Aisiamenta sua in bosco & in pastura de villa, &c. Breve Regium vetus apud Glanvil, lib. 12. cap. 14. A person may prescribe to an easement in the freehold of another, as belonging to some ancient-house, or to land, &c. and a way over the land of another; a gateway, water-course, or washing place in another's ground, may be claimed by prescription as easements: But a multitude of persons cannot prescribe; tho' for an easement they may plead custom. Cro. Jac. 170. 3 Leon. 254. 3 Mod. 294. To allege an easement by consuevit only is the best way; and things of necessity shall not be extinguished by unity of possession; but a way of ease may be there extinguished. Lill. Abr. 496. See Prescription.

Easter,

Easter, From the Saxon Eaſter; which was a goddeſs the Saxons worſhipped in the month of April; and ſo called, becauſe ſhe was the goddeſs of the Eaſt.

East-India Company. This corporation was originally formed towards the latter end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, as appears by their charter, which bears date in 1599: their privileges were renewed by King James I. and alſo by Charles the Second in 1662, and confirmed by James II.

The ſubſcriptions, or ſhares, in this company, were only of 50*l.* originally; and the directors having a conſiderable dividend to make in 1676, it was judged eligible to add the profits of the ſtock, inſtead of withdrawing them; whereby the ſhares were doubled, and from 50*l.* advanced to 100*l.* and it appears by ſtat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 15. ſect. 10. that in the year 1692, their joint-ſtock was 744,000*l.*

The company ſuſtaining loſſes by the Dutch in India, and by the Great Mogul, began to decline at the Revolution.—The war with France, put it into ſo deplorable a condition, that, apppearing ſcarce poſſible to be ſupported, a new one was erected.

The riſe of this new company was occaſioned by the great caſe of the old one being taken into conſideration by the parliament, which caſe had been depending ſome years. On account of its intricacy, it had been firſt referred by the parliament to the King, and by him back to the parliament, in the year 1698; when the old company offering to advance 700,000*l.* at 4 per cent. for the ſervice of the government, in caſe the trade to India might be ſettled on them, excluſive of all others; the parliament ſeemed inclined to embrace their propoſals.

In the interim, however, another body of merchants, of whom Mr. Shepherd was the chief, and who were ſupported by Mr. Montague, chancellor of the Exchequer, propoſed to the houſe of commons to raiſe two millions, at 8 per cent. upon condition that the trade to India, might be ſettled on the ſubſcribers, excluſive of all others. They propoſed alſo, that theſe ſubſcribers ſhould not be obliged to trade in a joint ſtock; but, if any members of them ſhould afterwards deſire to be incorporated, a charter ſhould be granted to them for that purpoſe.

The parliament judged this new overture not only more advantageous to the government, but alſo very likely to ſettle this controverted trade on a better foundation than it was on before: wherefore a bill was brought in for ſettling the trade to the Eaſt-Indies, according to thoſe limitations, and ſome further reſolutions.——In conſequence of which, the old Eaſt-India company preſented a petition againſt this bill; which notwithſtanding, was paſſed in favour of the new company, who obtained a charter of incorporation, dated September 5, 1698, by the name of, 'The general ſociety intitled to the advantages given by an act of parliament, for advancing a ſum not exceeding two millions, for the ſervice of the crown of England.' Whereby the ſum total of all the ſubſcriptions was made the principal ſtock of the corporation; and the new company became inveſted with the ſame privileges, as were granted to the old company, by the charter of King Charles II. However, the old company was by the act, indulged with leave to trade to the Indies until Michaelmas 1701.

The fund of this new company became ſo conſiderable, and ſubſcriptions were carried on with ſuch facility, that, in leſs than two years, the company put to ſea 40 ſhips, equipped for its commerce; which was double the number employed by the old company, in the moſt flouriſhing times of its traffic; and they ſent annually, at leaſt a million ſterling in ſpecie to the Indies, whereas the old company had never ſent above 500,000*l.*

The two companies ſubſiſted a few years in a ſeparate ſtate, when having a due regard to their common intereſt, and for preventing ſeveral inconveniencies that might otherwiſe have happened, both to themſelves and the nation in general, they agreed upon ſeveral articles for their union.

Accordinly, in the year 1702, a new charter of union was granted the two companies by Queen Anne, under the name of 'The united company of merchants trading to the Eaſt-Indies,' which was eſſentially the ſame with thoſe of King Charles, and King William, becauſe, by the union, they adopted all the regulations made for the government of the old company: So that the united company ſhould rather be deemed the old company continued, than a corporation erected upon a different eſtabliſhment. This charter being ſince expired, another with new powers, was granted them, till 1730; and, the 17th year of King George II. was continued until the 25th of March 1780; when, on three years notice, and repayment of the capital ſtock borrowed by the government, and the annuities, the company's right to the ſole and excluſive trade to the Eaſt-Indies is to ceaſe and determine.

To the 2,000,000*l.* advanced by the new company to William III. the united company, in the 6th year of Queen Anne, lent the government 1,200,000*l.* which made their whole loan amount to 3,200,000*l.* more; being what may properly be called the capital ſtock of the company: the firſt loan of 2,000,000*l.* was ſecured by the government, out of the duties upon ſalt, and the additional ſtamp duties, granted in the 9th and 10th year of William III. chargeable with the payment of 160,000*l.* as a yearly fund for paying the intereſt at 8 per cent. But by the act of 3d of George II. this annuity of 160,000*l.* was reduced to 128,000*l.* and transferred as a charge upon the aggregate fund; and, in 1749, it was reduced to 3 and a half per cent. until Chriſtmas 1757, and after that to 3 per cent. But beſides this 3,200,000*l.* there is a million more due by the public to this company, being lent by them at 3 per cent. in the ſaid 17th year of his late Majeſty.

In regard to the œconomy and policy of this company, all perſons without exception, are admitted members thereof, as well foreigners as natives, men and women; with this circumſtance, that 500*l.* in the ſtock of the company, gives the owner a vote in the general courts, and 2000*l.* qualifies him to be choſen a director. The directors are 24 in number, including the chairman and deputy chairman, who may be re-elected for four years ſucceſſively. They have ſalaries of 150*l.* a year each, and the chairman 200*l* The meetings, or courts of directors are to be held, at leaſt, once a week; but are commonly oftner, being ſummoned as occaſion requires.

Out of the body of the directors are choſen divers committees, who have the peculiar inſpection of certain branches of the company's buſineſs; as the committee of correſpondence, committee of buying, committee of the treaſury, committee of ware-houſe, committee of ſhipping, committee of accounts, committee of private trade, committee of the houſe, and committee to prevent the growth of private trade.

This company is not only granted an excluſive privilege of trade to the Indies, and other extraordinary conceſſions from the government, by their charter, but there are ſeveral acts of parliament made in its behalf. See the Merchant's Lawyer, vol. 1.

Eaſt-India goods excepted out of the navigation act, 12 Car. 2. c. 18. ſ. 13.

Five per cent on Eaſt-India ſtock, how to be anſwered to the government, 4 W. & M. c. 15. ſ. 10.

The Eaſt-India company's fund eſtabliſhed, 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. 3 Geo. 2. c. 14.

Limits of their trade, 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. ſ. 61.

Security to be given that goods laden in India be brought to England, 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. ſ. 69.

Their ſtock a perſonal eſtate, and exempt from taxes. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. ſ. 71, 72.

Duty of 5 per cent. to be paid to the company, 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. ſ. 76.

Excluſive trade granted to the company, 9 & 10 W. c. 44. ſ. 81. 3 Geo. 2. c. 14.

The proportions of Saltpetre to be delivered by the companies when united, 1 Ann. ſt. 1. c. 12. ſ. 113.

Security to be given that their goods ſhall not be unladen out of Great Britain, 6 Ann. c. 3.

Their capital increaſed, and their term enlarged, 6 An. c. 17.

Officers of the cuſtoms ſhall take bond for the cuſtoms, 6 Ann. c. 17. ſ. 11.

Their trade to be ſecured notwithſtanding that their fund be redeemed, 10 Ann. c. 28.

The company's ſecurity to be given for the cuſtoms, 10 Ann. c. 29.

His Majeſty's ſubjects reſtrained from going to India without leave of the company, or from taking commiſſions from foreign ſtates for that purpoſe, 5 Geo. 1. c. 21. 7 Geo. 1. c. 21.

Not to prejudice the right of the South Sea company, 5 Geo. 1. c. 21. ſ. 5.

Impowered to lend money on bottomry to their captains, &c. 6 Geo. 1. c. 18. ſ. 26.

Regulations of their power of borrowing upon bond, 7 Geo. 1. c. 5. ſ. 32.

Defendant on acquittal intitled to coſts, 7 Geo. 1. c. 21. ſ. 1.

Contracts and loans on foreign ſhips bound to the Eaſt Indies void, 7 Geo. 1. c. 21. ſ. 2.

Bills in the Exchequer may be filed for diſcovery of unlawful trade, 7 Geo. 1. c. 21. ſ. 5.

May export ſtores of war free, 7 Geo. 1. c. 21. ſ. 13.

Penalty on joining in any India company in the Auſtrian Netherlands, 9 Geo. c. 26.

A miſdemeanor for any ſubject to be in India, &c. without authority, 9 Geo. 1. c. 26. ſ. 6. 17 Geo. 1. c. 17. ſ. 11.

Annuity of 160,000*l.* reduced to 128,000*l.* 3 Geo. 2. c. 14. ſ. 4.

Reſtrained from purchaſing more than the yearly value of 10,000*l.* 3 Geo. 2. c. 14. ſ. 14.

The reduced annuity of 128,000*l.* charged on the aggregate fund, 3 Geo. 2. c. 20. ſ. 22.

An annuity of 30,000*l.* granted to the Eaſt India company out of the ſurplus of the duty on ſpirituous liquors, 17 Geo. 2. c. 17.

Excluſive trade not be determined till after the 25th of March 1780, 17 Geo. 2. c. 17. ſ. 13.

Commiſſioners of inland duties to attend ſales of Eaſt India company, and take account of lots of tea, &c. 18 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 6.

Offences againſt 5 Geo. 1. c. 21. Excepted out of general pardon, 20 Geo. 2. c. 52. ſ. 40.

Inſurance of ſhips and goods trading to India under new foreign commiſſions prohibited, 25 Geo. 2. c. 26.

The troops of the company made ſubject to martial law, 27 Geo. 2. c. 9.

Miſdemeanors of their preſidents and council may be tried in England, 27 Geo. 2. c. 9. ſ. 13.

His Majeſty may impower directors to authorize their governor and council to hold courts martial at Fort Marlborough, 1 Geo. 3. c. 14.

Eaſtintus, An eaſterling, Sax. Eaſt-Tyne, eaſterly coaſt or country. In the laws of King Edward the Elder, ——Si ſit eſtintus, ſi ſit nortintus, emendat ſicut ſcriptura pacis continet——Where it ſeems eaſtintus was rather meant eaſtinus, and nortintus, nordtinus, i. e. whether he lived on the eaſt ſide of the river Tine, or on the north. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eaſtland trade. All the King's ſubjects may uſe the Eaſtland trade, or be admitted of the Eaſtland company, 25 Car. 2. c. 7. ſ. 5.

Eaton college, How diſcharged from firſt fruits and tenths, 1 Eliz. c. 4. ſ. 34. and its maintenance provided for, 18 El. c. 6.

Ebba, Ebb, or low tide.—Si extra regnum in peregrinatione fuerit,—dilationem habebit 40 dierum, & duorum ſioddorum & unius ebbæ, quia de ultra mare, &c. Bracton, lib. 4. tract. 1. cap. 5. In quibus eſſoniis dabitur dilatio ad minus 40 dierum & unius ſlud. & unius ebbæ. Ib. lib. 5. tract. 2. c. 2.

Ebdomadarius, An officer in cathedral churches, appointed weekly to ſuperviſe the regular performance of Divine ſervice and other duties, and to preſcribe the particular office of each perſon attending in the choir, what part he is to bear for that week in reading, ſinging, praying, &c. To which purpoſe the ſaid ebdomary or weeks-man, at the beginning of his week, drew up a form or bill of the reſpective perſons and their ſeveral allotted duties, called tabula, and the perſons there entred were called Intabulati.—This appears particularly in the ſtatutes of the church of St. Paul's, digeſted by Ralph Baldock, dean, Anno 1295. MS. penes Joh. Epiſc. Norwic.

Ebedin, A relief.

Eberemurder, Sax. Ebere mord, apertum murdrum, Was one of thoſe crimes which, by Henry the Firſt's Laws, c. 13. emendari non poſſunt. Hoc ex ſcelerum genere fuit nullo pretio, (etiam apud Saxones noſtros) expiabilium, cum alia licuit pecuniis commutare. Spelman. Ex his placitis quædam emendantur centum ſolidis, quædam were, quædam wita, quædam non poſſunt emendari, quæ ſunt huſbreeh, i. e. burglary, bernet, i. e. ſetting a houſe on fire, open theft, i. e. robbery, & eberemurder. Leg. H. 1. c. 12. See Aberemurder.

Ebozacum, York.

Eccleſia (Lat.) Is moſt commonly uſed for the place where almighty God is ſerved, commonly called a church. But Fitzherbert ſays, by this word eccleſia is meant only a parſonage; and therefore if a preſentment be made to a chapel, as to a church, by the name eccleſia, this does change the nature of it, and make it preſently a church. Nat. Brev. 32. When the queſtion was, Whether it were eccleſia aut capella pertinens ad matricem eccleſiam? The iſſue was, whether it had baptiſterium & ſepulturam? For if it had the adminiſtration of the ſacraments and ſepulchre, it was in law judged a church. Trin. 20 Ed. 1. in Banco, Rot. 177. 2 Inſt. fol. 363. Eccleſia is alſo ſometimes taken for the image or ſculpture of a church, which was often cut out or caſt in plate or other metal, and preſerved as a religious treaſure or relick. As in the viſitation of the treaſury of the church of St. Paul, Anno 1295.——Duo turribala argentea, exterius totaliter deaurata, cum opere gravato & levato, cum eccleſiis, & turribus & ſexdecim campanellis argenteis appenſis, & catenis albis argenteis, ponderis 11 marc. 20 den. &c. Mong. Angl. tom. 3. p. 309.

Eccleſiaſtical Courts, Perſons and Poſſeſſions. No waſte ſhall be in church lands during vacation, M. C. 9 H. 3. c. 5. 14 Ed. 3. ſt. 4. c. 4.

Eccleſiaſtical perſons ſhall be amerced after their lay tenement, M. C. 9 H. 3. c. 14.

Patrons ſhall have the cuſtody of abbeys in time of vacation, M. C. 9 H. 3. c. 33.

The ſucceſſor ſhall have a remedy for a treſpaſs done to his houſe in the time of his predeceſſor, St. Marleb. 52 H. 3. c. 28.

None ſhall reſort to religious houſes, and put them to expences, &c. St. Weſtm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 1. Lit. pat. ſuper priſ. bonor. Cler. 3 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 11.

Elections ſhall be free, St. Weſtm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 5. Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. c. 14.

Biſhops ſhall hold pleas in matters merely ſpiritual for correction of deadly ſin, as fornication, &c. Circumſp. agatis, 13 Ed. 1. ſt. 4.

Alſo pro cœmeterio non clauſo, & pro eccleſiâ non decenter ornatâ, Ibid.

For penſions, Circumſp. agatis, 13 Ed. 1. ſt, 4.

Alſo for diſputed tithes not exceeding a fourth of the church, Ibid. Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 1 & 2.

For violent laying hands on a clerk, or defamation, Ibid. Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 3 & 4.

No tax ſhall be laid on the religious orders, to be carried out of the realm, Stat. De apportis relig. 35 Ed. 1. ſt. 1. c. 2 & 3. 4 Ed. 3. c. 6. 5 Ed. 3. c. 3.

None ſhall buy goods of the clergy againſt their will, 3 Ed. 2.

Where ſpiritual and temporal courts may both proceed, 9 Ed. 2. c. 6.

Clerks in the King's ſervice ſhall be corrected by their ordinary, but are excuſed reſidence, Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 8.

Diſtreſſes for the King ſhall not be made in poſſeſſion of the church, Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 9.

The ability of a perſon preſented to a church ſhall be examined by the ordinary, Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 13.

The temporalties of biſhops ſhall not be unduly ſeized, 1 Ed. 3. ſt. 2. c. 2. 14 Ed. 3. ſt. 4. c. 3. but they ſhall be admitted to a fine for a contempt, 25 Ed. 3 ſt. 3. c. 6.

Purveyance ſhall not be made in the fees of Holy church without the owner's conſent, 14 Ed. 3. ſt. 4. c. 1. nor of their goods, 18 Ed. 3. ſt. 3. c. 4. 31 Ed. 3. ſt. 4. c. 4. 1 Rich. 2. c. 3.

During vacation the temporalties of a biſhoprick ſhall be leaſed to the dean and chapter, 14 Ed. 3. ſt. 4. c. 5.

Miniſters of holy church ſhall not be anſwerable in the King's courts for matters touching their juriſdiction, 15 Ed. 3. ſt. 1. c. 6.

New purchaſed lands of the clergy taxed to the ſubſidies granted by the commons, 15 Ed. 3. ſt. 3. c. 6.

A biſhop not to be impeached for cauſe or crime without the King's ſpecial command, 18 Ed. 3. ſt. 3. c. 1.

Commiſſions to inquire of eccleſiaſtical judges not to be granted, 18 Ed. 3 ſt. 3. c. 6.

Voidance of a benefice ſhall be tried by the eccleſiaſtical judge, 25 Ed. 3. ſt. 3. c. 8.

Indictments againſt ordinaries, &c. to ſet forth the fact, 23 Ed. 3. ſt. 3. c. 9.

The wages of chaplains and curates limited, 36 Ed. 3. c. 8.

Liberties of the church confirmed, 50 Ed. 3. c. 1.

Prieſts ſhall not be arreſted while they are attending on Divine ſervice, 50 Ed. 3. c. 5. 1 R. 2. c. 15.

Shall have their action of treſpaſs againſt purveyors offending, as they cannot purſue by way of crime, 1 R. 2. c. 3.

The penalty of procuring perſons to be unduly indicted for proceeding in the eccleſiaſtical courts, 1 R. 2. c. 13.

If an eccleſiaſtical perſon is ſued for tithes taken away, and excepts, &c. the plaintiff ſhall ſhew in ſpecial how it was lay chattel, 1 R. 2. c. 14.

Whether a prior is perpetual or removeable, ſhall be tried by the ordinary, 9 R. 2. c. 4.

Prieſts taken in the Marſhalſea ſhall pay ſuch fees as others, 9 R. 2. c. 5.

Abbots may make attornies in the courts of Staincliffe and Frendles, 3 H. 5. ſt. 2. c. 2. 9 H. 6. c. 10. 15 H. 6. c. 7.

Abbots not to be appointed collectors of tenths out of their county, 9 H. 5. c. 9.

Members of the convocation ſhall have the ſame privilege as members of parliament, 8 H. 6. c. 1.

A pardon to the clergy of all felonies, of rape, and of offences in taking exceſſive ſalaries, 27 H. 6. c. 6.

The abbot of Fountain permitted to wage his law by attorney, and to perform it by a commoigne, 33 H. 6. c. 6.

The collectors of the Diſmes, while they are acounting in the Exchequer, ſhall not be liable to ſuits there, 1 R. 3. c. 14.

The ordinaries may impriſon their clerks for incontinency, 1 H. 7. c. 4.

Patents of diſcharge of Diſmes repealed, 4 H. 7. c. 5. Reſtrained 7 H. 7. c. 6.

Eccleſiaſtical perſons reſtrained trom taking farms and merchandizing, 21 H. 8. c. 13. and from keeping a tanhouſe or brewhouſe, ſ. 32.

Not to hold two benefices with cure, 21 H. 8. c. 13. ſ. 9.

Penalty of procuring diſpenſations from Rome, 21 H. 8. c. 13. ſ. 12, 27.

Who may have diſpenſations for pluralities, Ibid. ſ. 13.

Citation out of the dioceſe prohibited, except in caſe of hereſy, probate of wills, &c. 23 H. 8. c. 12. ſ. 5. &c. 25 H. 8. c. 19. ſ. 3, 4, 5, 6.

No penſion to be reſerved out of any living above the value of the third part, 26 H. 8. c. 3. ſ. 22.

Penſions not to be exacted in Richmond, 26 H. 8. c. 15.

The King impowered to appoint thirty-two perſons to examine the canons and conſtitutions, 25 H. 8. c. 19. 27. H. 8. c. 15. 35 H. 8. c. 16. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 11.

Fruits taken in time of vacation ſhall be reſtored to the next incumbent, 28 H. 8. c. 11.

Incumbents may bequeath the corn ſown upon their glebe, 28 H. 8. c. 11. ſ. 6.

The puniſhment of prieſts for incontinency, 32 H. 8. c. 10.

Doctors of the Civil law, though married, may exerciſe eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction, 37 H. 8. c. 17. 1 El. c. 1. ſ. 12.

The marriage of prieſts lawful, 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 21. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 12. and their children legitimate, 1 Ja. 1. c. 35. ſ. 50.

The Queen authorized to appoint commiſſioners for exerciſe of eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction, 1 El. c. 1. ſ. 18. Repealed 16 Car. 1. c. 11.

Fradulent deeds to prevent remedy for dilapidations made void, 13 El. c. 10.

Leaſes by ſpiritual perſons for more than 21 years or three lives, made void, 13 El. c. 10. ſ. 3.

None ſhall retain any benefice not being a deacon at the leaſt, 13 El. c. 12. 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 4. ſ. 13.

Leaſes of benefices with cure ſhall endure no longer than while the leſſor is reſident, 13 El. c. 10. (made perpetual, 3 Car. 1. c. 4.) 14 El. c. 11. ſ. 15, 16.

Charges made upon benefices with cure ſhall be void, 13 El. c. 20.

Bonds and covenants for the enjoyment of ſuch land of no more validity than leaſes, 14 El. c. 11. ſ. 15. 18 El. c. 11. ſ. 3.

The ſtatute of 13 El. c. 10. not to extend to houſes in market-towns, &c. 14 El. c. 11. ſ. 17.

Money recovered in dilapidations ſhall be employed in repairs, 14 El. c. 11. ſ. 18.

Reſtriction to be obſerved in leaſes made by eccleſiaſtical perſons, 14 El. c. 11. ſ. 19.

Former leaſes muſt expire, or be ſurrendered within three years after granting a new leaſe, 18 El. c. 11.

Sequeſtration to go againſt an incumbent that has leaſed his benefice contrary to 13 El. c. 20. 18 El. c. 11. ſ. 7.

The power of biſhops to inflict fines or corporal puniſhment taken away, 16 Car. 1. c. 2.

Diſabled to exerciſe temporal juriſdiction, 13 Car. 1. c. 27. Repealed, 13 Car. 2. ſt. 1. c. 2.

Miniſters reſtored and confirmed, 12 Car. 2. c. 17.

The ordinary juriſdiction of biſhops, &c. reſtored, 13 Car. 2. ſt. 1. c. 12.

The oath ex officio ſhall not be adminiſtered, 13 Car. 2. ſt. 1. c. 12. ſ. 4.

None to hold any living, or adminiſter the ſacrament, unleſs epiſcopally ordained, 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 4. ſ. 13 & 14.

No diſability to be incurred by any church cenſure in Scotland, 10 Ann. c. 7. ſ. 10.

Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction. The doctors of the Civil law, although laymen, &c. may exerciſe eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction, by ſtat. 37 Hen. 8. c. 17.

Eccleſiaſtical Laws. See Canon and Eccleſiaſtical Courts, &c.

Eccleſiaſtical Perſons, Are either regular or ſecular; regular, are ſuch as lead a monaſtick life, under certain rules, and have vowed obedience, perpetual chaſtity, and wilful poverty: When a man is profeſſed in any of the orders of religion, he is ſaid to be a man of religion, a regular or religious; of this ſort are abbots, priors, monks, friars, &c. Secular are thoſe whoſe ordinary converſation is among thoſe of the world, and profeſs to take upon them the cure of ſouls, and live not under any rule of religious orders: Such are biſhops, pariſh-prieſts, &c. Cowell, edit. 1727. See Eccleſiaſtical Courts, &c.

Eden. See Eluna, Rivers.

Eder, A hedge. Eder-breche, the treſpaſs of hedge-breaking. Sax. Eader-bryce, which occurs in the laws of King Alfred, c. 45.

Edeſtia,——Sciant quod ego Adam de Mohaut commiſi Domino Johanni de Barker pro ſervitio ſuo totam terram cum edeſtiis, & cum omnibus pertin. ſuis. Ex Regiſter. Priorat. de Wormley. Perhaps from Ayſiamenta, eaſements. Blount imagines that this word comes from ædes, and is uſed for buildings.

Edia,——Qualiter quoque onera incumbentia Regi & Regno levias ad Ediam communitatis ſupportari poterunt. Henr. Knighton, lib. 5. The learned Du Freſne interprets prets it aid, auxilium. But it is indeed meant of eaſe, from the Saxon eath; and in Weſtmorland they ſtill ſay eathy for eaſy. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Edict, (Edictum) An ordinance or command; a ſtatute. Lat. Law-Dict.

Edinburgh. A duty of exciſe continued to the town, 3 Geo. 1. c. 5. 9 Geo. 1. c. 14. 1 Geo. 2. c. 22. 25 Geo. 2. c. 9. A charitable fund for inſurance from fire at Edinburgh eſtabliſhed, 1 Geo. 2. c. 22 ſect. 4. The murder of Porteous cenſured, 10 Geo. 2. c. 34 & 35. For erecting publick buildings, and improving the ſtreets there, 26 Geo. 2. c. 36. For ſupplying the city with water, 29 Geo. 2. c. 74.

Edmund's Bury. See Villa Faustini.

Edyſtone rock, Its light-houſe, how rebuilt, 4 Ann. c. 20. 8 Ann. c. 17.

Eele-fares, alias Eele-bare, 25 H. 8. is the fry or brood of eels.

Effoꝛcialiter, With military force. Tu ita efforcialiter venis cum equis & armis. Mat. Pariſ. anno 1213.

Effoꝛciamentum, (Afforciamentum,) A diſtreſs or inquiſition. Abbas veniat per aliquem liberum hominem attornatum ſuum, qualem præſentare voluerit ad efforciamentum curiæ tantum, Monaſt. tom. 1 p. 280. So in a charter of Edward 3. p. 832. Et tribus virgatis terræ quietis de ſectis curiæ & adventibus & afforciamentis.

Effractoꝛes, (Lat.) Burglars, that break open houſes to ſteal. Qui furandi cauſa domos effringunt, vel ſeſe carcere proripiunt; etiam qui ſcrinia expoliant. MS.

Effuſio ſanguinis, The mulct, fine, wite, or penalty impoſed by the old Engliſh laws for the ſhedding of blood, which the King granted to many lords of manors. As among the privileges granted to the abbey of Glaſtonbury. ——Abbas & conventus habent namia vetita, hutesium levatum, & effuſionem ſanguinis.———Cartular. Abbat. Glaſton. MS. fo. 87. a.

Eſtꝛes, Ways, entries, walks, or hedges; from the Sax. Efter, poſt.

Eggs. Penalty for taking eggs of ſwans or hawks, 11 Hen. 7. c. 17. See Game.

Egilde, The ſame with Gildum.

Egyptians, (Egyptiani,) We commonly call them gypſies, and by our ſtatutes, and the laws of England, they are a counterfeit kind of rogues, that being Engliſh or Welſh people, accompany themſelves together, diſguiſing themſelves in their habits, blacking their faces and bodies, and framing to themſelves an unknown language, wander up and down, and under pretence of telling fortunes, curing diſeaſes, and ſuch like, abuſing the ignorant common people, by ſtealing all that is not too hot or too heavy for their carriage. Stat. 1 & 2 P. & M. c. 4. and 5 Eliz. c. 20. Theſe are like thoſe whom the Italians call cingari, ſpoken of by Franciſcus Leo in ſuo Theſauro fori Eccleſiaſtici, part. prim. c. 13. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Egyptians, To be puniſhed as vagabonds and ſturdy beggars, 39 Eliz. c. 4. ſect. 2. Perſons pretending to be gypſies, or wandering in the habit of Egyptians, &c. to be deemed rogues and vagabonds, 17 Geo. 2. c. 5. ſect. 2 See Felonies without clergy, and Vagrants.

Eia, An iſland, an eyt, Sax. eage. Hence the names of places which end in ey, as Ramſey, is the iſland of rams; Sheppey, is the iſland of ſheep. Mat. Pariſ. anno 833. Herſey, the iſland of harts. Hence the French borrow their eau, water. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Ejecta, A woman raviſhed or deflowered. Ejectus, a whoremonger. Rex fundavit dictum hoſpitale ſuper decem leproſis, & dicunt quod dicti leproſi erant de ejectibus civitatis Lincoln. Mon. 2. tom. pag. 388.

Ejectione cuſtodiæ, (Ejectment de garde,) Is a writ which lieth properly againſt him who caſteth out the guardian from any land during the minority of the heir. Reg. Orig. fol. 227. F. N. B. 139. Termes de la ley, verbo Gard. There are two other writs not unlike this; the one is termed Droit de gard, or right of ward; the other Raviſhment de gard, which ſee in their places.

Ejectione firmæ, Is a writ that lieth for the leſſee for term of years, that is caſt out before his term expired, either by the leſſor or a ſtranger. Reg. Orig. fol. 227. F. N. B. fol. 220.

Ejectment. An ejectment is an action for a leſſee for years to recover a term when he is ouſted, and this is now generally made uſe of to recover the poſſeſſion of lands. Gilbert's Law of Eject. 1.

An ejectment is a mixed action, in which a leſſee for years, when ouſted, ſhall recover his term, as alſo his damages. 5 Co. 105. 9 Co. 77.

By the ancient law, lands and tenements were never recovered in any perſonal action, but anciently the writs of entry and aſſize were the uſual means for the recovery of the poſſeſſion, and theſe lay only againſt the freeholder, becauſe the eſtate for years was heretofore only a precarious poſſeſſion; and therefore to have actions againſt ſuch perſons was to no purpoſe, becauſe ſuch terms were generally defeated or determined before any intricate title could be decided; and were ſuch precarious poſſeſſions with reſpect to the power that the owner of the freehold and inheritance had over them, that every ſuch leſſee was looked upon only as his bailiff; and if ouſted, could only have recovered damages for the loſs of his poſſeſſion; and if ouſted by his leſſor, he could only ſeek a remedy from his covenants.

Thus the law continued till the 14 Hen. 4. and then it began to be reſolved, that an habere facias poſſeſſionem would lie to recover the term itſelf. It ſeems that the long terms about this time had their beginning, which to ſecure to themſelves, the leſſees uſed, when moleſted, to go into equity againſt the leſſors for a ſpecific performance, and againſt ſtrangers, to have perpetual injunctions to quiet their poſſeſſions; which drawing the buſineſs into the courts of equity, was probably one reaſon which obliged the courts of law to come to a reſolution, that they ſhould recover the land itſelf in an habere facias poſſeſſionem.

As this reſolution brought on a new method of trial unknown before to the Common law, it became uſual for a man that had a right of entry into any lands, to ſeal leaſes of ejectment on the land, and then any perſon that next entred on the freehold was an ejector; but as this was a means of turning any man out of poſſeſſion, becauſe leſſee would recover his term without any notice to the tenant in poſſeſſion, therefore the courts of juſtice would not ſuffer that they ſhould loſe their poſſeſſions without any opportunity to defend them; wherefore the court made it a ſtanding rule, that no plaintiff ſhould proceed in ejectment to recover his lands againſt ſuch a feigned ejector, without delivering the tenant in poſſeſſion a declaration, and making him an ejector and proper defendant if he pleaſed.

This was a proper rule of court, and in its power to form, or otherwiſe the court would be made inſtrumental in doing an injury to a third perſon, becauſe a declaration might otherwiſe be delivered to a ſtranger, a feint defence be made, and a verdict, judgment, and execution obtained without the tenant's having any notice of it; but it is not to be doubted, but that ſuch actions were brought at firſt againſt the real ejector that reſided in the poſſeſſion; but becauſe any perſon that came into the land animo poſſidendi, was equally an ejector with him that reſided, the action in ſtrictneſs of law might be brought againſt him; but becauſe this, as has been ſaid, turned to the injury of the reſiding poſſeſſor, the rule was made, that he ſhould have notice of it, and therefore they would not give judgment in ejectment, unleſs an affidavit was made that the tenant in poſſeſſion was ſerved with a copy of the declaration. But the ancient cuſtom was, that ſuch leaſes were actually to be ſealed and delivered, becauſe otherwiſe the plaintiff would maintain no title to the term, and were alſo obliged to be ſealed on the land itſelf, becauſe it was maintenance to convey out of poſſeſſion, and therefore in relation to the quickneſs of the remedy, the aſſiſe had the advantage, becauſe none of this preparation was required beforehand; for the writ of aſſize came down to the aſſizes, and the jury was there warned, the cauſe tried and judgment given; yet the method in ejectment, from the conveniency of the repeated trials, notwithſtanding the previous preparations, was generally preferred.

Thus it ſtood till the time of the Lord Chief J. Rolls, and he invented the rule now in uſe, which is, that if defendant comes into the room of the caſual ejector, he ſhould

ſhould enter into a rule to confeſs leaſe, entry and ouſter, and ſhould ſtand upon the title only. This rule was reaſonable, becauſe when the plaintiff had made his leaſe upon the land, any third perſon that came upon the land animo poſſidendi in ſtrictneſs of law was an ejector; therefore, when any other ejector was placed in his ſtead, it was very reaſonable in the court to impoſe terms upon him, and therefore the proper terms were, that he ſhould not ſtand on the proof of an actual entry, demiſe, and actual ouſter, becauſe as this was no more than a form of bringing the title in queſtion, it was not fit that the plaintiff ſhould be nonſuited for want of proving the formal demiſe ſet forth in the declaration, when the caſual ejector would have let judgment go by default. Ld. Ch. Bar. Gilb. Law of Eject. 1, 2.

Under this head is conſidered,

1. Of what things an ejectment will lie, and what ſhall be a ſufficient deſcription of them.

2. Of the demiſe and right of entry in the leſſor of the plaintiff, and of the ouſter.

3. Of ſerving the declaration; notice to the tenant in poſſeſſion, entring into the common rule, adding proper parties, and paying coſts.

4. Of the plea and general iſſue, verdict, judgment and writ of execution in ejectment.

5. Of recovering the meſne profits, and of bringing a new or ſecond ejectment.

1. Of what things an ejectment will lie, and what ſhall be a ſufficient deſcription of them.

An ejectment does not lie for a rent or common appendant, or other things that lie merely in grant, becauſe theſe being incorporeal things are in their nature inviſible, quæ neque tangi nec videri poſſunt, and therefore not in their nature capable of being delivered in execution. Cro. Car. 202. Cro. Jac. 146. Co. Lit. 9. a.

So an ejectment does not lie de quodam rivulo, & aquæ curſu, called Locar in L. for rivulus ſive aquæ curſus lies not in demand; for non moratur, but is always flowing; nor can execution by habere facias ſeiſinam be made thereof, and therefore the action ought to have been of ſo many acres of land aqua coopert': but if the land under the river does not belong to the plaintiff, but the river only, then upon a diſturbance, the remedy is by action upon the caſe only. Yelv. 143. 1 Brownl. 142. S. C. Poph. 167. S. C. cited, and ſee Godb. 257. which ſeems contrary.

So an ejectment does not lie de pannagio, becauſe this is only the maſts that fall from the trees which the ſwine feed on, and not part of the ſoil itſelf, as the herbage is, and is no more than the fruit which falls from the trees, which the ſwine have a right to feed on. 1 Lev. 212. 1 Sid. 416. S. C. adjudged.

But an ejectment lies of a boilary of ſalt, that is, where a man hath no inheritance in the ſoil in which there is a well of ſalt water, but only a leaſe or grant of ſo many buckets of the water, as will ariſe (which are called the boilaries) and theſe are withheld from him, he may bring his ejectment for ſo many boilaries as his grant was. Cro. Jac. 150.

So an ejectment lies for a coal-mine, becauſe it is not to be conſidered as a bare profit apprender; but a coal-mine comprehends the ground or ſoil itſelf, which may be delivered on the execution; and though a man may have a right to the mine without any title to the ſoil, yet the mine itſelf being fixed in a certain place, the ſheriff has a thing certain before him, to deliver execution. Cro. Jac. 150. Noy 121. S. C. 1 Rol. Rep. 483. S. C. cited, Hard. 57. S. C. cited to be adjudged, Carth. 277. 4 Mod. 143. Comb. 201.

An ejectment lies pro prima tonſura, that is, if a man hath the grant of the firſt graſs that grows on the land every year, he may recover it in ejectment of him that withholds it from him; for the graſs, or prima tonſura, is the beſt profit and grant of the property; and therefore he that hath it ſhall be eſteemed the proprietor of the land itſelf till the contrary be proved; for the after-graſs or ſeeding is in the nature of commonage; as therefore he, that hath the firſt graſs or tonſura, has the moſt ſignal profits of the land, and may keep it longer or ſhorter on the land, according to the ſeaſonableneſs of the year, it is but reaſonable to give him this remedy againſt the perſon that ouſts him of it, eſpecially when it is a fixed determinate thing, which the ſheriff may put him in poſſeſſion of; which diſtinguiſhes it from a right of common or other profit apprender; for the commoner cannot aſſign any one acre which he hath a right to ſeparate from the reſt of the commoners, whereas the grantee of the firſt graſs has in reality a right to the land itſelf till the crop be taken of; for no man can enter on the land till that be off, without being a treſpaſſer. Cro. Car. 262.

So an ejectment lies pro herbagio, becauſe the herbage is the moſt ſignal profit of the ſoil, and the grantee hath at all times a right to enter and take it. Hard. 303. 401.

So an ejectment lies pro paſtura centum ovium, that is, for ſo much land as will feed one hundred ſheep. Dal. 95.

Although tithes are eſteemed part of the incorporeal inheritance, and by the Common law were only of eccleſiaſtical conuſance; yet being in the hands of lay proprietors are now conſidered as a temporal eſtate, for by the 32 H. 8. cap. 7. it is provided, that every lay perſon having any eſtate of inheritance, freehold, right, term, or intereſt in tythes, and being thereof diſſeiſed, ouſted, wronged, or otherwiſe kept from the ſame, ſhall have his remedy in the courts of law for them in like manner as for lands; and hence it is that an ejectment lies for tithes. Cro. Car. 301. 1 Jon. 321.

An ejectment lies pro rectoria, becauſe a rectory conſiſts of a church, glebe-lands and tithes. Latch. 62.

It was formerly held, that an ejectment did not lie pro capella, becauſe it was res ſacra, which was not demiſable; but now ſince they are become lay inheritances, they are recoverable in ejectment, as other lay eſtates; but it muſt be demanded by the name of a meſſuage, or it is not formal. 11 Co. 25. Style 101. Doct. Pl'it. 191. 1 Salk. 256.

An ejectment lies pro communia paſturæ generally, if joined with other lands. Stran. 54.

Ejectment lies for mountain in Ireland. Stran. 71.

Ejectment lies de parte domus. Stran. 695.

Ejectment lies not for a tenement. Stran. 834.

Ejectment lies for Alder Carr in Norfolk. Stran. 1063.

Ejectment lies for a beaſt-gate in Suffolk. Stran. 1084.

Ejectment lies de minutis decimis. Ld. Raym. 784.

In this action the law requires, that the thing demanded be ſo particularly ſpecified, that the ſheriff may certainly know what to give the poſſeſſion of, if the plaintiff ſhould recover; for the judgment is in order to execution, and the judgment would be vain, if execution could not be had of the thing ſpecifically demanded; but in this action the judges did not confine themſelves to thoſe rules which govern the præcipe, but allowed ſome things to be recovered in this action, which could not be demanded in a præcipe; becauſe ſince the eſtabliſhment of that real action, many things have been added and improved by art, and acquired new apellations that are perfectly underſtood now by the law, which are not found in the ancient law-books; and as men begun to contract by new names which were not known in the old law, ſo it was reaſonable to ſuffer the remedy to follow the nature of ſuch contracts. 2 Bac. Abr. 168.

But the judges did not extend this action as far as they went in an aſſiſe, becauſe the recognitors having the view of the thing demanded in the aſſiſe, muſt have more certain knowledge of the thing demanded than could be given in ejectment. Dyer. 84. pl. 85.

An ejectment lies for an orchard, becauſe it is a word of a certain ſignification, though in a præcipe it muſt be demanded by the name of a garden; and it being well enough underſtood, the ſheriff may with certainty deliver it upon an execution. Noy 37. Cro. Eliz. 854. S. C. adjudged, becauſe but a perſonal action, wherein damages.

the principal. 1 Rol. Rep. 55. S. C. Cro. Jac. 654. Palm. 337. S. P. adjudged, Hard. 55. S. P. arg. 1, Lev. 58. S. P. per Twiſden.

So an ejectment lies of a ſtable, becauſe it is a word of a determinate ſignification, and may be delivered by the writ of execution. 1 Lev. 58.

An ejectment of an houſe is good, tho' in a præcipe it ought to be demanded by the name of a meſſuage; becauſe the ejectment is an action of treſpaſs in its nature; as a treſpaſs, wherefore he broke into the houſe, has been allowed; ſo they allowed it good in ejectment, and the important and certain ſignification of the word domus, or houſe, is well enough underſtood in the law; for in waſte the thing itſelf is recovered, beſides damages, and yet the action of waſte is given de domibus. Cro. Jac. 654. Palm. 337. S. C. adjudged, and ſee 3 Leo. 97. Hard. 76.

So an ejectment of a chamber in the ſecond ſtory of ſuch a houſe was held good, there being certainty enough to direct the ſheriff in the execution. 3 Leon. 210. Noy 109. Hard. 57. S. P.

But an ejectment de coquina, Anglice, a kitchen, is naught; for tho' the word is well enough underſtood, yet becauſe any chamber in the houſe is applicable to that uſe, the ſheriff hath not certainty enough to direct him in the execution, in regard the kitchen may be changed between the judgment and execution. Noy 109.

An ejectment lies not for a cloſe, becauſe it is of an uncertain extent, nor will it mend the declaration, tho' the cloſe be called by a particular name, becauſe that alſo leaves the extent of it uncertain, ſo that the ſheriff cannot tell what quantity of land to deliver in execution; and though the number of acres contained in the cloſe ſhould be mentioned in the declaration, and be ſet forth to belong to a meſſuage, for which the ejectment was alſo brought; yet even that hath been held too general, becauſe the nature and quality of the land is thereby left uncertain, ſo that the ſheriff is ſtill at a loſs what to deliver the poſſeſſion of, as whether meadow, paſture, &c. Godb. 53. 11 Co. 55. 1 Rol. Rep. 55. Bridg. 56.

But an ejectment for a cloſe called D. containing three acres of land, is good, becauſe the quality of the land is mentioned, the word terra ſignifying in law arable land. Cro. Jac. 435. Palm. 102. 4 Mod. 98.

An ejectment does not lie for a meſſuage and 40 acres of land, meadow and paſture thereto belonging, without diſtinguiſhing how much of one ſort, and how much of the other. Cro. Car. 573.

An ejectment de uno meſſuagio ſive tenemento is naught for the uncertainty of the word tenemento, being of a more extenſive ſignification than the word meſſuage, and conſequently uncertain what is demanded by the ejectment. Cro. Eliz. 186. 3 Leon. 228 S. C. Poph. 197, 203. Noy 86. Cro. Jac. 125. Style 364. S. P. 1 Sid. 295. S. P.

But an ejectment for a meſſuage or tenement called the Black Swan is good, becauſe the addition reduceth it to a certainty of a dwelling-houſe. 1 Sid. 295. 3 Mod. 238. 4 Mod. 136.

So an ejectment for a meſſuage or burgage in H. is good, becauſe both ſignify the ſame thing in a borough. Hard. 173. See Poph. 203.

An ejectment does not lie de repoſitorio, becauſe it ſignifies a voider or cupboard as well as warehouſe, and therefore uncertain what is demanded; but if it had been with an Anglice, a warehouſe; this had confined it to that particular thing. Cro. Car. 555. 1 Jon. 454.

An ejectment for one hundred acres of waſte, or pro centum acris montis, was held naught for the uncertainty, becauſe both waſte and mountain comprehended ſeveral ſorts of land; but for one hundred acres of bogg is good, in Ireland, becauſe the word there hath but one ſignification, and comprehends but one ſort of land. Hard. 57.

The plaintiff in an ejectment declared upon the leaſe of a houſe, ten acres of land and twenty acres of meadow, by the name of a houſe and ten acres of meadow, be the ſame more or leſs, and had a verdict, but the judgment was arreſted; for the declaration was ſo repugnant and uncertain, that even the verdict could not help it, in regard the land mentioned in the declaration is of a different nature from that mentioned in the per nomen; beſides the number of acres is ſo different, that the words more or leſs cannot reduce it to any certainty, for it were unreaſonable to extend them to twenty acres more than was mentioned in the per nomen. Yelv. 166. 4 Mod. 143.

An ejectment for a manor ſeems ill, without deſcribing the quantity and ſpecies of the land contained therein. Hetl. 146. Lit. Rep. 301. Latch 61.

An ejectment brought for ten acres of wood, and ten acres of underwood; this was inſiſted upon as a bis petitum in error, but diſallowed, becauſe plainly they are of different natures; and thoſe who argued for the error ſeemed by their argument to have admitted it themſelves, becauſe they inſiſted that no ejectment lay of underwood, which muſt ſhew it muſt be of a different nature from wood; but that objection was diſallowed, becauſe the nature of underwood is ſo well underſtood in the law, ſo that the ſheriff will have certainty enough to direct him in the execution. 2 Rol. Rep. 482.

An ejectment was brought de caſtro, villa & terris, without expreſſing the number and certainty of acres; and it was held ill on a verdict, and a writ of error brought thereon, becauſe it was too generally demanded, and it was impoſſible for the ſheriff to know what quantity of land he muſt deliver upon the habere facias poſſeſſionem. Yelv. 118.

An ejectment de omnibus & omnimodis decimis in decem acris in D. without ſaying garbarum fœni, lanæ agnellorum, or ſome other certainty of the nature or quality of the tithes, is ill, as it would be for one hundred acres of land, without expreſſing the ſeveral natures and qualities of the land; for in this action the plaintiff muſt be as particular and certain in his demand of them as he would be of land. 11 Co. 25. Moor 837. 1 Rol. Rep. 68.

But in this action the plaintiff is not obliged to ſet forth the quality of every ſort of tithe, as he muſt do of every ſort of land, becauſe it is in its nature uncertain, the quantity depending intirely on the goodneſs and fruitfulneſs of the land and ſeaſons; and therefore an ejectment pro quadam portione granorum & fœni was held good, becauſe impoſſible to ſay how much the quantity would be. 11 Co. 25. Hard. 57. Dyer 116.

An ejectment for a certain place called The veſtry in D. is well enough, becauſe that place belonging to a church called a veſtry is perfectly known, and therefore the thing demanded is ſufficiently deſcribed to have execution thereof. 3 Lev. 96.

In ejectment in the county palatine of Durham, the plaintiff declared upon a demiſe de mineriis carbonum in parochia de D. generally, not ſaying how many mines, and had a verdict, and judgment, upon a writ of error brought in B. R. the error aſſigned was in the declaration, becauſe the uncertainty thereof; for not ſetting forth the the number of coal-mines, ſo as the ſheriff might know of how many to give poſſeſſion; and for this reaſon the court inclined, that the judgment was erroneous; but then the plaintiff produced ſeveral precedents in Durham, and alledging that all the entries there in ejectments for coal-mines were the ſame as in this caſe, the judgment was affirmed. Carth. 277. 4 Mod. 143. Comb. 201. 1 Show. 364. 1 Salk. 255. S. C.

2. Of the demiſe and right of entry in the leſſor of the plaintiff, and of the ouſter.

Although by the modern practice the plaintiff is not obliged to prove the leaſe mentioned in the declaration, for that is confeſſed by the rule of leaſe, entry, and ouſter, which he is obliged to enter into; yet that being only deſigned for expedition in the trial of the right, and not to give the plaintiff a right of action which he had not at law, therefore it muſt appear by the declaration, that the plaintiff had actually the poſſeſſion, and was ouſted thereof by the defendant; hence it is that if A. a leſſee for years, makes a leaſe to B. at will, and B. is ejected, A. cannot have this action upon that ouſter, becauſe though the poſſeſſion of B. was in law the the poſſeſſion of A. yet the treſpaſs vi and armis, which is complained of in this action, muſt be againſt the actual poſſeſſion, and that was in B. 2 Bac. Abr. 171.

So if A. be a leſſee for years, the remainder to B. for years, and A is ejected, and then his term expires, B. ſhall not have an ejectment on the ouſter of A. becauſe the poſſeſſion was not actually in him, and therefore he cannot complain of a treſpaſs done to another. 2 Bac. Abr. 171.

Alſo the leſſor of the plaintiff muſt have a right of entry when this action is brought; for if his entry were taken away he is a diſſeiſor, and cannot enter to make a leaſe to try the title; and therefore where tenant in tail makes a diſcontinuance, the iſſue in tail is put to his formedon, and cannot have his ejectment, becauſe his entry by the diſcontinuance is taken away. 2 Bac. Abr. 171.

Alſo by the ſtatute of limitations, 21 Jac. 1. cap. 16. none ſhall make an entry into lands, but within twenty years after their right or title, which ſhall firſt deſcend or accrue to them; but this action hath the uſual ſavings for infants, feme coverts, &c. which ſee under title Limitations.

If a rent be granted in fee, or otherwiſe to A. with a clauſe of proviſo, in caſe it be in arrear, to enter and hold the land till this arrear be ſatisfied out of the profits thereof, if the rent be in arrear, A. may recover the poſſeſſion in an ejectment; for this proviſo creates an intereſt in the land to anſwer the rent; and regularly, whoever hath an intereſt may demiſe the ſame to another, and conſequently the perſon claiming under ſuch demiſe may maintain an ejectment; and this is now a ſettled point where the rent is created by grant at Common law, or by way of uſe; but in caſe there muſt be an actual entry made, becauſe the title of the land accrues by the grantee's entring Cro. Jac. 511. 1 Lev. 170. 1 Sid. 223, 262, 344. 1 Saund. 112. Raym 135.

A. covenanted to ſtand ſeiſed of land to the value of 100*l. per annnm*, to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of his daughters, who ſhould be unmarried at the time of his death, till they ſeverally ſhould receive and levy 500*l.* apiece, the remainder to his ſon; A. died the 30 Eliz. and the eldeſt ſon entred 42 Eliz. the eldeſt daughter (there being four of them) brought an ejectment, but did not recover the lands, becauſe her entry was taken away, ſhe having paſſed the time allowed her to enter and receive the profits; otherwiſe ſhe might keep the other daughters out of the perception of the profits; for if the eldeſt daughter lets the ſon enjoy during the time the profits may be levied, ſhe lapſes time, and muſt therefore have remedy againſt the ſon who received the profits in her prejudice, and cannot charge the land with her portion which is then onerated with portions to be raiſed for the younger ſiſters. Cro. Eliz. 800. Noy. 33.

The plaintiff muſt lay the commencement of his ſuppoſed leaſe in his declaration to have been preceding the ouſter and ejectment by the defendant; for though ſuch ouſter be a wrong, yet it can be no wrong to the plaintiff if it was done before his title commenced, as where the plaintiff declared on a leaſe made the 27th of April, Anno primo Regis, and laid the ouſter by the defendant to be the 26th of April, Anno primo prædict', this was held bad, becauſe it was plain the plaintiff had no title till the 27th, and therefore that ouſter the 26th was no treſpaſs or injury to him. Law Ejectm. 76. Yelv. 182.

So if the leaſe had been made 27 April', habend. a. dict' 27 April', virtute cujus the plaintiff entred, and was poſſeſſed till the defendant poſtea eodem 27 die Aprilis did eject him, this is bad, becauſe the ejectment was before the plaintiff's title commenced, for the leaſe did not commence till the 28th of April. 1 Sid. 8. 3 Mod. 198. Cro. Jac. 135, 258. Cro. Jac. 96. cont'.

But if the leaſe be made the 27th, habend. from thenceforth, there the ejectment may be laid the 27th, becauſe the leaſe commences the 27th, and an ejectment may be the ſame day the plaintiff's title commences. Cro. Jac. 258. 5 Co. 1.

But the law doth not neceſſarily oblige the plaintiff expreſsly to mention the day of the ouſter, ſo it appears to be after the term commenced, and before the action brought; for where the declaration was on a demiſe the 25th of March primo Regis for three years, by virtue whereof the plaintiff entred, and was poſſeſſed, until the defendant poſtea, viz. anno ſupradict', entred and ejected him, without ſpecifying the day of the ejectment; this was held good in error; the action being commenced ſecundo Regis, and the ejectment laid to be primo, it was plain from the declaration, the ouſter and ejectment was after the plaintiff's title commenced, and before the action brought, and confeſſes the plaintiff had good cauſe of complaint, though he did not ſwear to the day the injury was done. Cro. Jac. 311.

Neither is the plaintiff, as it ſeems, neceſſarily obliged to allege the particular day of his entry in the declaration; and therefore where the plaintiff declared on a leaſe to commence at a future day, virtute cujus he entred, and was poſſeſſed till ejected by the defendant; this was held good on a writ of error, becauſe it is ſaid he entred by virtue of the leaſe, which could not be before it commenced, for he could not enter by virtue of the leaſe till the leaſe commenced; aliter if the declaration had been prætextu cujus he entred, for the plaintiff might enter unlawfully, or before his time, under a pretence of the leaſe. 1 Rol. Rep. 466. Latch 199.

The plaintiff declares in ejectment in the Common Pleas, and if after an imparlance (as the courſe of the court is) makes a ſecond declaration, in ſuch caſe if the plaintiff by the firſt declaration ſhould lay the ejectment and ouſter before the commencement of his term, or omit any matter of ſubſtance in the firſt declaration, though the ſecond were right, and the ouſter were laid after his term commenced; yet the plaintiff ſhall not recover, becauſe the declaration on the imparlance roll is the material one on which the action is grounded, and muſt be ſupported by it, and the plea roll is but a recital of the other, and therefore ought to begin with an alias prout patet, &c. Law Ejectm. 78. Cro. Jac. 311.

And though the declaration in law relates to the firſt day of the term, becauſe the term is in law conſidered as one day, yet the plaintiff may declare on a leaſe made ſome time after the firſt day of the term, and ſhall recover thereon, but then it muſt appear to the court that the declaration was filed after the day of the commencement of the ſuppoſed leaſe; for otherwiſe the plaintiff, complains of an ejectment before he had title; and if the time of filing a bill were not examinable, the act of law, which makes the relation of bills to the firſt day of the term, would be an act of injury to the plaintiff, and delay his right; for then a man ejected out of a leaſe made in term-time could not complain till term was over. 2 Vent. 174. 1 Sid. 432.

A declaration on a leaſe made the 6th of May, Anno 7° of the King &c. ſetting forth, that the plaintiff was poſſeſſed quouſque poſtea the defendant the 18th day ejuſdem menſis anno ſexto ſupradict' ejected him; this was objected in arreſt of judgment, becauſe the ejectment, as was inſiſted, was laid to be anno ſexto, which was a year before the commencement of the leaſe, that being laid to begin the 6th of May, anno ſeptimo, but the declaration was allowed to be good to the court, becauſe the ejectment was laid to be 18 ejuſdem menſis, which could not be, if it were done in the ſixth year, and therefore they rejected the word ſexto as inconſiſtent and void. Law Ejectm. 79, 80. See Carth. 401, 402.

So where the declaration was of a leaſe 22d of May, habendum a primo die Maii for three years, virtute cujus the plaintiff entred, and was poſſeſſed quouſque poſtea, viz. eodem die & anno, the defendant ejected him; this on a writ of error was allowed a good declaration, tho' it was inſiſted, that eodem die & anno muſt refer to the firſt day of May, which was the laſt antecedent, and then the ejectment was laid to be twenty-one days before the leaſe was made. Cro. Jac. 662.

The plaintiff in ejectment declared, that whereas J. S. by indenture the 9th day of June, (without ſaying when it was made or delivered) did demiſe, &c. habend. a die dat. ſigillationis & deliberationis indenturæ prædict', virtute cujus the plaintiff entred, and was poſſeſſed till the the defendant the ſame day ouſted him; it was moved in arreſt of judgment, that it was uncertain by the declaration when the term began, neither the day of the date, nor of the ſealing and delivery being mentioned in the declaration; yet judgment was given for the plaintiff, becauſe after a verdict it ſhall be intended not only to bear date, but alſo be ſealed and delivered the day mentioned in the declaration, which was the 9th, for all deeds are preſumed to be delivered the day that they bear date till the contrary appear. Law Ejectm. 81.

But where the limitation of the leaſe is altogether uncertain, the plaintiff cannot recover, becauſe where the commencement of the leaſe is uncertain, the leaſe is void in itſelf, and then the plaintiff cannot have a title; beſides the court cannot poſſibly perceive whether the ejectment was before or after the plaintiff's title accrued, if ſuch uncertain leaſe could give him one; otherwiſe it is where the limitation or commencement is impoſſible; for in ſuch caſe the leaſe commences from the delivery, as if it had no date, and then the court may judge whether the ejectment is laid to be before or after the commencement; but there is this further reaſon for the difference; for the impoſſible limitation is rejected, becauſe it could not be part of the agreement or contract; but an uncertain limitation is part of the contract, but vitiates the whole agreement, becauſe the court cannot reduce it to any certainty. Law Ejectm. 81.

Thus were the plaintiff declared on a leaſe, habend. a die datus indenturæ predict. without mentioning an indenture before; this was held bad for the uncertainty when the leaſe commenced. Hetl. 63.

But if the plaintiff had declared on a demiſe to him per quoddam ſcriptum obligat' habend. a die datus indent. prædict. this had been good, becauſe the ſcriptum obligatorium ſhall be intended an indenture. 1 Vent. 137. 2 Keb. 796.

The plaintiff declared on a leaſe of the fourth part of a houſe, in four parts to be divided, by force of which he entred in tenement. prædict. and was poſſeſſed till the defendant ejected him de tenementis prædictis; this was objected in error, and the plaintiff laid the ouſter to be of more than by his leaſe he had a title to, for the ouſter was de tenementis prædict. which at leaſt muſt be underſtood of the whole houſe, and the leaſe was only of the fourth part; but the objection was over-ruled, becauſe de tenementis prædict. ſhall be intended only of the fourth part of which the leaſe was made; beſides it was but juſt he ſhould recover as much as he had title to, though he laid his ejectment for more. Law Ejectm. 82, 83.

The plaintiff declared on a demiſe the 16th day of January, by an indenture dated the ſecond day of January, without ſaying primo deliberat. the ſixteenth, yet the declaration was held good; for though all indentures ſhall be preſumed to be delivered the day they bare date, unleſs the contrary be ſhewn; and that therefore this leaſe muſt commence the ſecond day of January, which, if true, would be a different leaſe from what the plaintiff declared upon; yet in regard it declared on a demiſe the ſixteenth, it muſt neceſſarily be intended that it was delivered on the ſixteen, becauſe it cannot poſſibly be a demiſe before the delivery, and therefore the delivery muſt neceſſarily be intended the day the demiſe is ſaid to have been made, and not the day of the date of the indenture. Cro. Eliz. 890. Law Ejectm. 83.

But where the plaintiff does not make mention of any particular day when the demiſe was made, but only in general ſays, that J. S. by his indenture bearing date the firſt of January did demiſe to him, ſo that it doth not appear by the plaintiff's own ſhewing, when the leaſe commenced, law in ſuch caſes conſtrues the delivery to have been the day it bears date; and ſo the declaration was held to be good, and not void for the uncertainty of the commencement of the leaſe, as was objected. Cro. Eliz. 773. Law Ejectm. 83, 84.

Though by the modern practice the plaintiff is not obliged to prove the leaſe mentioned in the declaration, for that is confeſſed by the rule, and by that means the miſchief of any variance between the leaſe decleared on and the leaſe produced, and proved on the trial, is avoided, which was a danger the plaintiff was expoſed to, and often miſcarried in by the old method of proceeding; yet in the modern practice the plaintiff muſt take care to declare on ſuch a leaſe as ſuits with his leſſee's title; and therefore if there be ſeveral leſſors, and you lay the declaration quod demiſerunt, you muſt ſhew in them ſuch a title that they might demiſe the whole, for the word demiſerunt muſt be taken in pleading, according to the legal ſenſe it bears; and therefore, if any of the leſſors have not a legal intereſt in the whole premiſſes, he cannot in law be ſaid to demiſe them; for it is only his confirmation where he is not concerned in intereſt, and therefore the confeſſion of this joint leaſe doth not help, becauſe you do not confeſs the title by the rule. Law Ejectm. 84. Cro. Jac. 613. 2 Keb. 376.

So where the plaintiff declared on a leaſe made by A. and B. and it appears on the trial that A. was tenant for life, remainder to B. in fee; this on a ſpecial verdict was adjudged againſt the plaintiff, becauſe it could not be the leaſe both of A. and B. to paſs the land in præſenti to the plaintiff, for during the life of A. it could be his leaſe only, becauſe he was the tenant in poſſeſſion, and B.'s joining in the leaſee mounted only to a confirmation, but could paſs no intereſt during the life of A. and therefore the allegation of the plaintiff, that A. and B. did demiſe was not proved. 6 Co. 14. b. 15. a. Poph. 37. Co. Lit. 42. 1 Jon. 305. 1 Rol. Rep. 299. Raym. 142. 2 Jon. 137.

If the plaintiff declares on a leaſe made by A. and B. and on the trial it appears that they are tenants in common, the plaintiff cannot recover; but if A. and B. had been jointenants, a joint leaſe to the plaintiff had been good, and he might have declared quod demiſerunt; and the reaſon of the difference is, that tenants in common are of ſeveral titles; and therefore the freehold is ſeveral; and if they be diſſeiſed, they ſhall be put to their ſeveral actions; as therefore the lands of tenants in common are to be conſidered as different eſtates depending upon different titles, the plaintiff ſhall not recover, becauſe that were to allow the plaintiff to try two ſeveral and different titles in one iſſue at the ſame time; and therefore the plaintiff to make out his title muſt ſhew and prove that each demiſed the whole to him, or elſe he doth not prove the declaration, whereas the diſcovery of the tenancy in common proves the contrary; and as they have different titles to a moiety only, ſo they could not each of them demiſe the whole; but jointenants are ſeiſed per my & per tout, and they demiſe by one and the ſame title, and therefore each may be ſaid to demiſe the whole; and as they muſt join in an action for any violation of their poſſeſſion, ſo for the ſame reaſon too their leſſee on their joint demiſe; and coparcenets ſeem to ſtand on the ſame foundation and reaſon, becauſe both coming in as one heir, the poſſeſſion muſt be joint as that of jointenants. 1 Show. Rep.

In ejectment the plaintiff declared upon two demiſes of ſeveral lands by ſeveral parties, but laid only one habendum, viz. habendum tenementa prædicta ſo demiſed by the aforeſaid ſeveral parties for ſeven years, and lays in his declaration, that the defendant entred into all the aforeſaid tenements, & ipſum (the plaintiff) a firma ſua prædicta (in the ſingular number) ejecit & amovit; and it was aſſigned for error, that the declaration was ill for want of another habendum. for that the verdict is general, and 'tis uncertain to which demiſe the ſingle habendum relates; but the court held, that reddendo ſingula ſingulis, it was well enough. Carth. 224. Comb. 190. 2 Vent. 214.

If the heir brings an ejectment, and pending the ſuit his anceſtor dies, yet he ſhall not recover, beeauſe every man muſt recover according to the right he had at the time of the action brought; but during the life-time of the anceſtor the ejectment was done, to him only, and therefore to be puniſhed by the anceſtor; for one man connot complain in a court of juſtice of an injury done to another. Raym 463.

A leaſe made by a guardian to try the title of an infant ſeems good; for though ſuch leaſe may be voidable as to the infant, yet a ſtranger cannot defeat it; and if the leſſee leſſee ſhould not be allowed to maintain his ejectment on ſuch leaſe, the infancy would deprive the minor of that remedy of puniſhing the treſpaſſer, which perſons of full age are intitled to, which were to deny the minor the common right and privilege of other ſubjects. Hard. 330.

A man may bring an ejectment on a joint leaſe made by baron and feme, of the lands of the wife, ſo the leaſe be made by herſelf in perſon, whether it be by parol or indenture; for the contracts of the wife relating to her own eſtate are but voidable during the coverture, that ſhe may have the benefit of them after the death of her huſband, if they ſhall be for her intereſt to confirm them; and the huſband ought to join in the leaſe, becauſe they are conſidered in the law but as one perſon, and he having, during the coverture, an intereſt in the property of his wife, both muſt join, and on ſuch joint leaſe each may be ſaid to demiſe the whole, and the leſſee may maintain his ejectment on ſuch demiſe, becauſe during the coverture he hath the power of her property; and therefore all his contracts relating to it are good during his life, becauſe his pleaſure muſt determine her who hath reſigned her will to him, but after his death ſhe may avoid the leaſe. 2 Co. 61. Cro. Jac. 332, 417, 617. Cro. Eliz. 470, 488.

But if the plaintiff declares on a joint leaſe by baron and feme, and the leaſe appears on the evidence to have been executed by a third perſon, by virtue of a letter of attorney from the huſband and wife, ſuch evidence will not maintain the declaration, becauſe ſhe cannot delegate a power to a third perſon to act for her, who hath already devolved all power and authority on her huſband; and therefore the letter of attorney being void as to the wife, it muſt remain as to the huſband only; and hence it hath been held, that the leſſee might in this caſe declare on that leaſe as the leaſe of the huſband only. Cro. Jac. 617.

3. Of ſerving the declaration, notice to the tenant in poſſeſſion, entring into the common rule, adding proper parties, and paying coſts.

According to the modern practice there is regularly no neceſſity of ſealing and delivering leaſes on the lands; but the party who claims a title feigns a leaſe, and in the name of the feigned leſſee delivers a declaration to the tenant in poſſeſſion in the name of the caſual ejector, who is alſo now ſome feigned perſon; on this declaration there is notice to the tenant in poſſeſſion in the caſual ejector's name. 2 Bac. Abr. 161.

It hath been holden, that the ſervice of the declaration ought to have been on the tenant himſelf, or his wife, and that ſervice on any of his children or ſervants was not good (1 Salk 255, 256.) but now by the 4 Geo. 2. cap. 28. it is enacted, "That in all caſes between landlord and tenant, as often as it ſhall happen, that one half year's rent ſhall be in arrear, and the landlord or leſſor, to whom the ſame is due, hath right by law to re-enter for the non-payment thereof, ſuch landlord or leſſor ſhall and may without any formal demand or re-entry, ſerve a declaration in ejectment for the recovery of the demiſed premiſſes; or in caſe the ſame cannot be legally ſerved, or no tenant be in actual poſſeſſion of the premiſſes, then to affix the ſame upon the door of any demiſed meſſuage; or in caſe ſuch ejectment ſhall not be for the recovery of any meſſuage, then upon ſome notorious place of the lands, tenements or hereditaments compriſed in ſuch declaration in ejectment; and ſuch affixing ſhall be deemed legal ſervice thereof, which ſervice or affixing ſuch declaration in ejectment, ſhall ſtand in the place or ſtead of a demand and re-entry, &c."

By ſtat. 11 Geo. 2. cap 12. ſect. 19. Every tenant, to whom any declaration in ejectment ſhall be delivered, ſhall forthwith give notice thereof to his landlord, or his bailiff or receiver, under penalty of forfeiting the value of three years improved rent of the premiſſes in the poſſeſſion of ſuch tenant, to the perſon of whom he holds; to be recovered by action of debt in any of his Majeſty's courts of record at Weſtminſter, or in the counties palatine of Cheſter, Lancaſter, and Durham, or in the courts of grand ſeſſions in Wales.

Sect. 13. It ſhall be lawful for the court where ſuch ejectment ſhall be brought, to ſuffer the landlords to make themſelves defendants, by joining with the tenants to whom ſuch declaration ſhall be delivered, in caſe they appear; but in caſe ſuch tenants neglect to appear, judgment ſhall be ſigned againſt the caſual ejector; but if the landlord of any part of the tenements deſire to appear by himſelf and enter into the rule the court ſhall permit ſuch landlord ſo to do, and order a ſtay of execution upon ſuch judgment againſt the caſual ejector.

A landlord made defendant without his tenant may bring error and ſtay execution. Stran. 1241.

After the declaration delivered, the plaintiff's attorney (except as is above excepted by the ſtatute) is obliged to make oath that he delivered to J. D. tenant in poſſeſſion of the premiſſes in queſtion, a true copy of the annexed declaration, with the beforementioned indorſement or ſuperſcription thereon, which ſaid indorſement, &c. the deponent did then read to the ſaid J. D. and acquainted him with the contents thereof. 2 Bac. Abr. 162.

This affidavit is to be poſitive, that J. D. was tenant in poſſeſſion, or that the defendant acknowledged himſelf to be ſo, becauſe no man ſhould be turned out of poſſeſſion without a poſitive affidavit, on which he might charge the defendant with perjury. 2 Bac. Abr. 162.

Upon this affidavit the plaintiff moves for judgment againſt the caſual ejector, which is always granted, unleſs the defendant in due time enters into the common rule of confeſſing leaſe, entry, and ouſter; this rule being made with aſſent of parties, an attachment lies for non-performance of it, as for all other rules of court that are diſobeyed; and this is all the remedy which the parties on both ſides have for their coſts. 2 Bac. Abr. 162. 1 Salk. 259.

If there be ſeveral perſons that claim title, the rule may be drawn generally or particularly; generally, that J. H. who claims title to the premiſſes in queſtion in his poſſeſſion, ſhould be admitted defendant for ſuch meſſuage; and this puts a neceſſity on the plaintiff at the aſſizes, to diſtinguiſh by proof, what tenements are in each defendant's poſſeſſion, becauſe by the rule he is to confeſs leaſe, entry, and ouſter, only for the lands in his poſſeſſion; and if the plaintiff cannot diſtinguiſh by proof what tenements are in each defendant's poſſeſſion, he can have no verdict againſt him, and conſequently no judgment. 2 Bac. Abr. 162.

Or the rule may be drawn ſpecially, that J. H. who claims title to ſuch lands, expreſſing them particularly, ſhould be admitted defendant, and that ſuperſedes the neceſſity of proof, that the lands are in his poſſeſſion; and if the defendant's attorney will not give a note of the particulars of the land for which he was admitted defendant, the plaintiff may ſummon him before a judge, who will order the rule thus ſpecially to be drawn up, in caſe the party in poſſeſſion will admit himſelf to be defendant. 2 Bac. Abr. 162.

The declaration againſt the caſual ejector ought to be delivered before the eſſoin-day of the iſſuable term, when the cauſe is deſigned to be tried, and if one delivers an ejectment before the eſſoin-day of either of the two iſſuable terms, the party is bound to plead without further notice, within eight days in that term; but if the declaration be delivered before the eſſoin-day of Michaelmas or Eaſter term, which are no iſſuable terms, the party is not bound to plead without motion made, and a rule obtained in thoſe reſpective terms; and if that rule be pleaded before the common time in the iſſuable term, then there muſt be notice given of the rule, otherwiſe not. 2 Bac. Abr. 162.

Alſo where the declaration was delivered after the eſſoin-day of Michaelmas term, and the plaintiff let that term paſs without doing any thing, and alſo till the laſt day of Hilary term in like manner, when he moved for a rule to plead, and for want of a plea ſigned judgment; the court held this to be a ſurprize upon the defendant, for when he let all Hilary term ſlip without doing any thing, within which time he might have had a trial, he ought to have given freſh notice; as in caſe a man lets an aſſizes paſs in a country cauſe without proceeding; and for this reaſon will not appear; the judgment was ſet aſide. 1 Salk. 257.

If on the trial the defendant will not appear and confeſs leaſe, entry and ouſter, the courſe is to call the defendant and his attorney, if he be within the rule, and then to call the plaintiff himſelf and nonſuit him, and then upon the return of the poſtea, judgment will be given againſt the caſual ejector. 2 Bac. Abr. 162, 163.

If the plaintiff in ejectment, who is but a nominal perſon, dies, yet the action ſhall not abate, becauſe if there be any other perſon of the ſame name, the court will intend him to be the perſon mentioned in the declaration, becauſe he is only nominal, and therefore, while there is any perſon of the name living, the leſſor of the plaintiff, who is only concerned in the intereſt, may proceed in the ſuit. 3 Keb. 772.

Alſo if the plaintiff, who is only a truſtee for the leſſor, releaſes the action, he may be committed for the contempt. 1 Salk. 260.

The rule in the common pleas is, that the tenant in poſſeſſion ſhall forthwith appear and receive a declaration; and this ſuperſedes the neceſſity of an original writ, becauſe the tenant is to appear and receive a declaration, and therefore cannot take any advantage for want of an original, unleſs in a writ of error; but when a writ of error is brought, they muſt file an original, unleſs it be after a verdict, when it is helped by the ſtatute 18 Eliz. Carth. 288, 289.

Alſo in the King's Bench, where a perſon may proceed as well by original as by bill, there is no need of an original, nor of a latitat, or bill of ejectment; but before there be any proceedings, common bail muſt be filed for the caſual ejector; alſo in caſe of writ of error, the party muſt file a bill of ejectment, beſides the plea roll, before the errors are aſſigned. 2 Show. Rep. 249. 5 Mod. 333.

The court hath changed the plaintiff in ejectment after the declaration delivered, and hath enlarged the term where the cauſe hath been long in agitation, and judgment entred againſt the plaintiff after he is dead. 2 Bac. Abr. 163.

No perſon is admitted to defend in ejectment, unleſs he be tenant, and is or hath been in poſſeſſion, or receives the rent, becauſe it is an act of champerty for any perſon to interpoſe to cover the poſſeſſion with his title; and if the party would make any perſon defendant with another, who was not concerned in the poſſeſſion of the tenements, this was a miſchief at Common law, becauſe recovering againſt one of the defendants, there was conſequently no remedy for the ſtranger for his coſts; but that is remedied by 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 10. whereby coſts are given to ſuch ſtranger who is made defendant, unleſs the judge certifies immediately on the trial, that the plaintiff had a probable cauſe for making ſuch ſtranger defendant. 2 Bac. Abr. 163, 164.

In ejectment, where there are two defendants for the ſame premiſſes, and one appears and confeſſes leaſe, entry and ouſter, and the other does not, the plaintiff cannot proceed againſt the other, but he muſt be nonſuited, becauſe both the defendants not admitting the demiſe, and the plaintiff not proving an actual entry and demiſe, he cannot maintain his declaration; but if there appeared any covin between ſuch perſon not appearing, and the leſſor of the plaintiff, the court will ſtop the judgment againſt the caſual ejector, for the part of him who appeared, and oblige him who did not, to releaſe the coſts, becauſe a declaration was delivered to each of them for their reſpective parts; and therefore where one does not pay obedience to the rule, the plaintiff has judgment againſt the ejector for his part only. 1 Vent. 255. 2 Vent. 195.

And where there are ſeveral defendants to whom the plaintiff delivers declarations that are ſeverally concerned in intereſt, and the plaintiff moves to join them all in one declaration, yet the court will not do it; but the plaintiff muſt deliver ſeveral declarations to each of them, becauſe each defendant muſt have a remedy for his coſts, which he could not have if they were joined in a declaration, and the plaintiff prevailed only againſt one of them; and by this means the plaintiff might have a tenant of his own defendant with others, in order to ſave the coſts. 2 Keb. 524.

The parties by entring into the common rule are under the power of the court, by virtue whereof the court awards coſts, which being taxed by the maſter, if demanded of the party, and he refuſes to pay them, the court on affidavit thereof will grant an attachment. 1 Salk. 259.

And although the plaintiff in ejectment be but a nominal perſon, yet if he be not to be found, or if he be not able to pay the coſts, the attorney or ſolicitor is liable, or may be committed until he pay the coſts, or produce a plaintiff that is liable to pay them. 2 Lev. 66. 6 Mod. 309.

Alſo if a ſtranger carries on a ſuit in another's name, who has a title, and yet is ſo poor that he cannot pay coſts, in caſe he fails; upon affidavit of this matter, the court will order ſuch perſon, who carries on the ſuit, to pay coſts to the defendant. 1 Keb. 827.

If an infant delivers a declaration to the defendant, ſome friend or guardian muſt be ſet up as plaintiff to anſwer the defendant's coſts; but if ſuch perſon dies inſolvent, ſo that the defendant has no remedy by this rule, the infant himſelf muſt anſwer the coſts, becauſe the rule was entred into for the infant's benefit; and even infants muſt not diſturb the poſſeſſion of others by unlawful entries, without being puniſhed with coſts. 2 Bac. 164.

If there be baron and feme leſſors in ejectment, and one dies after entring into the rule, the ſurviving perſon is liable to pay coſts. 2 Bac. Abr. 164.

If ejectment be brought to be tried at bar to bring a matter in queſtion, as the validity of a will, and a parcel of land is inſerted in the declaration, which is not concerned in the queſtion, but to which the plaintiff hath undoubted right, and the defendant confeſſes leaſe, entry, and ouſter for the whole, not obſerving this part; the plaintiff ſhall not on this account be excuſed from the coſts; but the court will give the defendant leave to retract his confeſſion as to this parcel; and ſo it was done in a caſe where a parcel of copyhold land being inſerted in the declaration, which was not touched by the will, no ſurrender being made to the uſe of the will. 2 Bac. Abr. 164, 165.

Leſſor of plaintiff may pay the coſts to which of the defendants he pleaſes. Stran. 516.

4. Of the plea and general iſſue, verdict, judgment and writ of execution in ejectment.

The general rule in the iſſue in this action is, that whatſoever bars the right of entry is a bar to the plaintiff's title; therefore the plaintiff muſt prove ſeiſin within twenty years in himſelf or his anceſtors, or you muſt prove a deed or ſeiſin in the perſon that has a particular eſtate in the land, and that you claimed within twenty years after the reverſion accrued; or that you was an infant, feme covert, non compos, impriſoned, or beyond the ſea, at the time when the title accrued. Law Eject. 89.

Fine and nonclaim, which take away the entry, are good pleas in this action in bar of the plaintiff's right of entry. 2 Bac. Abr. 177.

Accord is a good plea in ejectment, as is alſo ancient demeſne. 9 Co. 77.

No relief againſt a tenant's refuſing to appear and make defence in ejectment. Stran. 830.

As the verdict is the ground of judgment, it ought not to be entred for more land or different parcels than the defendant was found guilty of by the verdict; but a variance between the verdict and judgment, occaſioned by the miſpriſon or default of the clerk in entering judgment, is not fatal, but hath been amended by the court after a writ of error brought; as where the plaintiff had judgment quod recuperet terminum of a meſſuage and ten acres of land, and the verdict acquitted the the defendant quoad the land, here the judgment was larger than the verdict, becauſe it appeared to be the miſpriſon of the clerk, who had not purſued the verdict, which ought to have been his guide in making up the judgment, and no miſtake in point of law in giving the judgment; therefore the party ought not to ſuffer for this miſpriſon, ſince the ſtatute of 8 H. 6. cap. 12. gives the judges, in affirmance of their judgment, power to amend and reform what in their diſcretion ſeems to be the miſpriſon of the clerks. 2 Bac. Abr. 177.

If the plaintiff hath a verdict for all, the entry of the judgment is, that the plaintiff recuperet termini verſus def' de & in tenementis præd', & quod def' capiatur. F. N. B. 220. Cro. Eliz. 144.

But if the judgment in ejectment be entred quod recuperet poſſeſſionem termini prædict', this is as well as if it had been recuperet terminum præd', becauſe both ſignify the ſame thing, the poſſeſſion itſelf being to be recovered on the habere facias poſſeſſionem. Law Ejectm. 94.

And hence it is, that if the term expires pending the ſuit, the plaintiff cannot recover the poſſeſſion, becauſe the court cannot give the plaintiff judgment for the land, when it appears upon the face of the record, that his title to it is determined; yet he ſhall have his judgment for damages, becauſe the treſpaſs ſtill remained. Sav. 28.

In ejectment againſt baron and feme, the huſband was acquitted, and the wife found guilty; the judgment was quod capiantur; and held good; becauſe that is only for the fine, which the huſband muſt pay, for the wife cannot. Cro. Car. 406.

If the defendant be acquitted in part, and judgment be entred quod def. ſit quietus quoad, &c. that part whereof he is acquitted; this is error, becauſe the judgment in this action is not final, as in the writ of right, and the judgment in this action doth not protect the defendant from any further ſuit, but only quits againſt the title ſet up by the plaintiff in that action; but ſince it appears that the plaintiff's demand was groundleſs as to that part whereof the defendant was acquitted, the judgment as to that part muſt be ſet down to be quod def' eat inde ſine die, the plaintiff as to that having no farther cauſe to detain him longer in court. Cro. Eliz. 763.

If one of the defendants die after a verdict, the plaintiff ſhall have judgment againſt the ſurvivors, on his ſuggeſting the death of one on the roll; but then the judgment muſt be entred as to the perſon deceaſed, quod quer' nil capiat, &c. 2 Bac. Abr. 178.

If an ejectment be brought againſt baron and feme, and the plaintiff hath a verdict againſt both, and before judgment the huſband dies, the plaintiff may on the ſuggeſtion have a judgment againſt the wife, not only becauſe this is a treſpaſs committed by the wife, and that therefore ſhe is puniſhable for her own act, which is injurious to another; but becauſe where the wife is found guilty of the ejectment, ſhe muſt have obtained that unlawful poſſeſſion, either jointly with her huſband, and then it ſurvives, or elſe ſhe had the whole poſſeſſion in her own right, and in either caſe the plaintiff may puniſh her, and recover the poſſeſſion, which is wholly in her on the death of her huſband. 1 Rol. Rep. 14. Cro. Jac. 356.

Although after judgment the plaintiff is intitled to, and may ſue out the writ of Habere facias poſſeſſionem; yet if he neglects to ſue out execution within a year after the judgment, he muſt bring a ſcire facias, as on all other judgments, otherwiſe the court will award a writ of reſtitution quia erronice emanavit. 2 Bac. Abr. 178.

But if the plaintiff hath a judgment, with ſtay of execution for a year, he may, after the year, take out his execution without the ſcire facias, becauſe the delay is with the conſent of parties, and in favour of the defendant; and the indulgence of the plaintiff ſhall not turn to his prejudice, nor ought the defendant to be allowed any advantage of it, when it appears to be done for his advantage, and at his inſtance. 6 Mod. 288. 1 Rol. Rep. 104.

But it ſeems this delay of execution, being only the compromiſe or agreement of the parties, is never entred on the roll; and therefore after the year the plaintiff ought to move the court for the ſcire facias, leſt the execution ſhould be ſuſpended quia erronice emanavit after the year, without the ſcire facias. 1 Keb. 785. 6 Mod. 288.

So if the defendant brings a writ of error, and thereby hinders the plaintiff from taking his execution within the year; and the plaintiff in error is nonſuit, or the judgment affirmed, the defendant in error may proceed to execution after the year without a ſcire facias, becauſe the writ of error was a ſuperſedeas to the execution, and the plaintiff muſt acquieſce till he hears the judgment above; beſides, while the cauſe is depending on the writ of error, the cauſe is ſtill ſub judice, whether the plaintiff ſhall recover the land, or not. 5 Co. 88. Cro. Eliz. 416. 2 Inſt. 471.

The words of the writ are, Quod habere facias poſſeſſionem, ſo that there muſt be a full and actual poſſeſſion given by the ſheriff, and conſequently all power neceſſary for this end muſt be given him; and therefore if the recovery be of a houſe, the ſheriff may juſtify breaking open the door, if he be denied entrance by the tenant, becauſe the writ cannot be otherwiſe executed. 5 Co. 91. b. Law Eject. 108.

If the plaintiff recovers ſeveral meſſuages in the poſſeſſion of different perſons, the ſheriff muſt go to each houſe, and deliver the poſſeſſion thereof; and this is done by turning the tenants out of each of the houſes; for the delivery of the poſſeſſion of one meſſuage, in the name of all, is not a good execution of the writ, becauſe the poſſeſſion of one tenant is not the poſſeſſion of the other, but each hath his ſeveral poſſeſſion. Law Eject. 108.

But it ſeems by Rolls, that if all the meſſuages had been in poſſeſſion of one tenant, it had been ſufficient to give poſſeſſion of one in the name of all; but without doubt the ſureſt and beſt way is for the ſheriff to remove all the tenants intirely out of each houſe, and when the poſſeſſion is quitted, to deliver it to the plaintiff. 1 Rol. Abr. 886.

If the ſheriff turns out all perſons he can find in the houſe, and gives the plaintiff, as he thinks, quiet poſſeſſion, and after the ſheriff is gone there appears ſome perſons to be lurking in the houſe; this is no good execution, and therefore the plaintiff ſhall have a new habere facias poſſeſſionem, becauſe he never had execution. 1 Leon. 145.

Where the recovery is of land, and there was more demanded than recovered, as ſuppoſe the demand had been for 500 acres, and a verdict and judgment only for 100 acres, it ſeems doubtful how the ſheriff is to give execution. Rolls ſays, It is ſufficient to give the plaintiff poſſeſſion of two or three acres in the name of the whole; and this indeed ſeems the ſafeſt way for the ſheriff, becauſe he does at his peril execute the writ; and if he gives poſſeſſion of any land not recovered, and not in the habere facias poſſeſſionem, he is a treſpaſſer, and ſhall be puniſhed in an action of treſpaſs; but in regard the habere facias is to give the plaintiff the benefit of his judgment, and that cannot be done without an actual poſſeſſion be given of the whole quantity, it hath been held by others, that the ſheriff does not diſcharge his duty by giving one acre in the name of all; but he ought in ſuch caſe to ſet forth all the acres particularly; for to have it otherwiſe would be to leave the execution uncertain, and conſequently not to give the plaintiff the full benefit and advantage of his judgment; but note, at this day the practice is for the plaintiff to give the ſheriff ſecurity to indemnify him from the defendant, and then the ſheriff to give execution of what the plaintiff demands. 2 Bac. Abr. 179.

If the execution goes to the ſheriff for twenty acres, it ſeems the ſheriff muſt give twenty acres, according to the common eſtimation of the county where the lands lie. 1 Rol. Rep. 410.

And here it is further obſervable, that this writ of execution is only returnable at the election of the plaintiff; and the court, at the inſtance of the defendant, will not direct the writ to be returned; this ſeems to be left to the choice of the plaintiff, and he may take what is moſt for his advantage, in order to have the full benefit of his judgment; and the way to that is, to ſuffer him to renew the execution at his pleaſure till a new execution be had; but the plaintiff cannot renew execution after one habere facias is returned and filed, becauſe it then appears on record, that the plaintiff hath had the benefit of his ſuit; and then the new execution is but actum agere, and conſequently ſuperfluous; and therefore the court will not oblige the ſheriff to make any return, but at the deſire of the plaintiff. 1 Rol. Abr. 886. 2 Keb. 245. 1 Rol. Rep. 353. Palm. 289. 2 Brownl. 253. 6 Mod. 27.

for

If a writ be returned by the ſheriff, though not filed, it ſeems no new habere facias ſhall iſſue, becauſe when the return is made, it becomes a record, which the court then becomes intitled to. 2 Brownl. 216.

But where the writ is neither returned nor filed, there is no act of record, by which it appears to the court that the plaintiff hath had any benefit by his judgment; and there upon a ſuggeſtion, that vic' non miſit breve, the plaintiff is intitled to a new writ, becauſe the omiſſion of the officer ſhall not turn to the plaintiff's delay or prejudice; but the new writ cannot iſſue till the return of the firſt writ be out; becauſe till the return be paſt non conſtat to the court but the ſheriff may do his duty, and the plaintiff thereby have the full benefit of his judgment, and then there can be no occaſion for a new habere facias. Palm. 289.

If the officer be diſturbed in the execution of the writ, on an affidavit the court will grant an attachment againſt the party, whether he be the defendant or a ſtranger, becauſe the writ is the proceſs of the court, and any diſturbance given to the execution of it, is a contempt to the authority of the court from whence it iſſues, and as ſuch will be puniſhed by the court. The proceſs is not underſtood to be executed, nor the execution compleat, till the ſheriff and his officer be gone, and the plaintiff left in quiet poſſeſſion. 6 Mod. 27.

But after the poſſeſſion given, either on habere facias poſſeſſionem, or agreement of the parties, the law ſeems to make a difference where the plaintiff is turned out of poſſeſſion by the defendant, and where by a ſtranger; where it is done by the defendant himſelf, the plaintiff may have either a new habere facias or an attachment, becauſe the defendant himſelf ſhall never by his own act keep poſſeſſion, which the plaintiff received from him by due courſe of law; but where a ſtranger turns the plaintiff out of poſſeſſion after the execution fully executed, the plaintiff is put to his new action upon an indictment of forcibly entry, where the force will be puniſhed, becauſe the title was never tried between the plaintiff and the ſtranger; and he may claim the land by title paramount the plaintiff, or he may come in under him, and then the recovery and execution in the former action ought not to hinder the ſtranger from keeping that poſſeſſion which he may have a right to; and if the law were otherwiſe, the plaintiff might by virtue of a new habere facias turn out even his own tenants, who come in after the execution executed; whereas the poſſeſſion was given him only againſt the defendant in the action, and not againſt others not parties to the ſuit. 1 Keb. 479.

Thus in the caſe of Fortune and Johnſon, the court was moved for an attachment againſt Johnſon, for ejecting one who had been put into poſſeſſion by an habere facias; but becauſe it appeared that Johnſon claimed under an elder judgment, the court would not make any rule in it, becauſe it was title againſt title, and therefore left them to take their courſe at law. Style 318.

The plaintiff had judgment in ejectment, and by agreement afterwards, the defendant was to hold the land for the reſidue of his term, and held it accordingly for ſome time; and the plaintiff took an habere facias and executes it; the defendant moved the court for reſtitution on the agreement, but the court would not grant it, but left the defendant to his action on the caſe on the agreement, for the judgment was entred abſolutely; but if the judgment had been entred a ceſſet executio for ſuch a time, there, if the plaintiff takes execution within the time the defendant ſhall have reſtitution; becauſe the judgment was entred with this limitation, that the plaintiff ſhould not have the fruit of it till ſuch a time; but quære, how this appears to the court, ſince it ſeems the ceſſet executio is not entered on the roll; the difference ſeems to be between a judgment by confeſſion, and a judgment on verdict, where the former is given with a ceſſet executio; if the execution be afterwards taken contrary to the agreement, the court will ſet it aſide, and lay the the attorney by the heels; but where judgment is given on verdict, there the verdict is the foot and ground of the judgment, and the court will not take notice of the ſubſequent agreement of the parties, but leave them to their remedy. Style 408. Law Ejectm. 113.

5. Of recovering the meſne profits, and of bringing a new or ſecond ejectment.

Although in ejectment, the plaintiff, if he prevails, is to recover damages; yet the damages that he hath ſuſtained by being kept out of the meſne profits, are not recoverable in this action, becauſe it is never laid with a continuando, and therefore comprehends only the damages ſuſtained in that particular act of ouſter complained of, but does not extend to the meſne profits that were taken during the whole ouſter, ſince every act is a new treſpaſs. 2 Bac. Abr. 181.

But where a perſon recovers in ejectment, he may bring an action of treſpaſs for the meſne profits, and recover the ſame from the time of the defendant's entry laid in the declaration; and at the trial it is ſaid not to be neceſſary to prove any entry of the defendant, becauſe the defendant doth in the rule confeſs leaſe, entry and ouſter; alſo the entry of the defendant is found by the recovery in ejectment againſt him. 2 Bac. Abr. 181.

If treſpaſs be brought for the meſne profits, and the action is brought againſt a ſtranger to the former verdict, it muſt be brought in the leſſor's name, and the title may be ſtood upon, for there was no leaſe, and no reaſon for an eſtoppel; but if it be brought againſt the defendant in ejectment in the leſſee's name, there the verdict ſhall be concluſive evidence, and ſhall bind the leſſor of the plaintiff, though no party to the record; and in this caſe it is ſufficient to prove the value of the meſne profits, without entring into the title. 1 Sid. 293. 1 Keb. 944.

One of the advantages attending this action is, that a man may have a remedy toties quoties, in being allowed to bring as many ejectments as he pleaſes; which has ſometimes proved a very great miſchief, but is yet without remedy; for though it has been ſometimes attempted in Chancery, after three or four ejectments, by a bill of peace, to eſtabliſh the prevailing party's title; yet it hath been always denied to alter the courſe of the law, for that every termor may have an ejectment, and every new ejectment ſuppoſes a new demiſe; and the coſts in ejectment are a recompence for the trouble and charge to which the poſſeſſor is put; but where the ſuit begins in Chancery for relief touching pretended incumbrances on the title of lands, and the court has ordered the defendant to purſue an ejectment at law, there, after one or two ejectments tried, and the title ſettled to the ſatisfaction of the court, the court hath ordered a perpetual injunction againſt the defendant, becauſe there the ſuit is firſt attached in that court, and never began at law; and ſuch precedent incumbrances appearing to be fradulent and inequitable againſt the poſſeſſor, it is within the compaſs of the court to relieve againſt it. 2 Bac. Abr. 182.

If a man has a verdict in ejectment, and coſts taxed, and an attachment iſſues for non-payment of the coſts, the defendant ſhall not have an ejectment againſt the plaintiff in the ſame court till he hath paid coſts; but he may proceed in ejectment in another court without coſts paid; the reaſon is, becauſe the ſame court will ſee an obedience paid to their rules before they will ſuffer the diſobedient perſon to proceed in a cauſe of the ſame kind; but another court cannot take cognizance of the rules of a diſtant court; but every court can inforce obedience to its own rules. 1 Sid. 379.

Where

Where judgment is obtained againſt the caſual ejector, the party in poſſeſſion may controvert the title in an action for the meſne profits. Stran. 960.

No new ejectment ſhall be brought by the defendant after recovery againſt him, till he has quitted the poſſeſſion, or the tenants have attorned to the plaintiff; ſo that he be in poſſeſſion, and the defendant out. 1 Salk. 258.

No new ejectment ſhall be brought till coſts paid of the firſt. Stran. 548.

Where there is judgment for the defendant in ejectment, coſts ſhall be paid before a new one brought. Stran. 554.

Proceedings not ſtayed till payment of coſts, in a former ejectment, unleſs there has been vexation. Stran. 681, 1099.

Proceedings ſtayed in a ſecond ejectment, &c. the leſſors not being liable to the former coſts. Stran. 1152.

For more matter on this ſubject, ſee 9 Vin. Abr. and 2 Bac. Abr. tit. Ejectment.

Proceedings on an action of treſpaſs in ejectment, by original, in the King's Bench.

1. The original writ.

GEORGE the Third, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, and ſo forth; to the ſheriff of Berkſhire, greeting. If Richard Smith ſhall give you ſecurity of proſecuting his claim, then put by gage and ſafe pledges William Stiles, late of Newbury, gentleman, ſo that he be before us on the morrow of All-Souls, wherefoever we ſhall then be in England, to ſhew wherefore with force and arms he entred into one meſſuage, with the appurtenances, in Sutton, which John Rogers, eſquire, hath demiſed to the aforeſaid Richard, for a term which is not yet expired, and ejected him from his ſaid farm, and other enormities to him did, to the great damage of the ſaid Richard, and againſt our peace. And have you there the names of the pledges, and this writ. Witneſs Ourſelves at Weſtminſter, the ——— day of ———, in the ——— year of our reign.

Pledges of proſecution, { John Doe. / Richard Roe.

Sheriff's return.

The within named William Stiles is attached by pledges, { John Den. / Richard Sen.

2. Copy of the declaration againſt the caſual ejector; who gives notice thereupon to the tenant in poſſeſſion.

———, the ——— of King George the Third.

Berks, to wit. } WIlliam Stiles, late of Newbury, in the ſaid county, gentleman, was attached to anſwer to Richard Smith, of a plea, wherefore with force and arms he entred into one meſſuage, with the appurtenances, in Sutton, in the county aforeſaid, which John Rogers, eſquire, demiſed to the ſaid Richard Smith, for a term which is not yet expired, and ejected him from his ſaid farm, and other wrongs to him did, to the great damage of the ſaid Richard, and againſt the peace of the Lord the King, &c. And whereupon the ſaid Richard, by Robert Martin his attorney complains, that whereas the ſaid John Rogers, on the ——— day of ———, in the ——— year of the Lord the King that now is, at Sutton aforeſaid, had demiſed to the ſame Richard the tenement aforeſaid, with the appurtenances, To have and to hold the ſaid tenement, with the appurtenances, to the ſaid Richard and his aſſigns from the feaſt of Saint Michael the Archangel then laſt paſt, to the end and term of five years from thence next following, and fully to be complete and ended, by virtue of which demiſe the ſaid Richard entred into the ſaid tenement, with the appurtenances, and was thereof poſſeſſed; and, the ſaid Richard being ſo poſſeſſed thereof, the ſaid William afterwards, that is to ſay, on the ſaid ——— day of ———, in the ſaid ——— year, with force and arms, that is to ſay, with ſwords, ſtaves, and knives, entred into the ſaid tenement, with the appurtenances, which the ſaid John Rogers demiſed to the ſaid Richard in form aforeſaid, for the term aforeſaid, which is not yet expired, and ejected the ſaid Richard out of his ſaid farm, and other wrongs to him did, to the great damage of the ſaid Richard, and againſt the peace of the ſaid Lord the King; whereby the ſaid Richard ſaith, that he is injured and damaged to the value of twenty pounds; and thereupon he brings his ſuit, &c.

Martin, for the plaintiff. } pledges of proſecution, { John Doe. / Richard Roe.
Peters, for the defendant. }

Mr. George Saunders.

I AM informed that you are in poſſeſſion of, or claim title to, the premiſſes mentioned in this declaration of ejectment, or to ſome part thereof; and I, being ſued in this action as a caſual ejector, and having no claim or title to the ſame, do adviſe you to appear next Hillary term in his Majeſty's court of King's Bench at Weſtminſter, by ſome attorney of that court, and then and there, by a rule to be made of the ſame court, to cauſe yourſelf to be made defendant in my ſtead; otherwiſe I ſhall ſuffer judgment to be againſt me, and you will be turned out of poſſeſſion.

Your loving friend,

William Stiles.

3. The rule of court.

———term, in the ———year of King George the Third.

Berks, to wit. } IT is ordered by the court, by the aſſent of both parties, and their attorneys, that George Saunders gentleman, may be made defendant in the place of the now defendant William Stiles, and ſhall immediately appear to the plaintiff's action, and ſhall receive a declaration in a plea of treſpaſs and ejectment of the tenements in queſtion, and ſhall immediately plead thereto, Not guilty. And, upon the trial of the iſſue, ſhall confeſs leaſe, entry, and ouſter, and inſiſt upon his title only. And if, upon trial of the iſſue, the ſaid George do not confeſs leaſe, entry, and ouſter, and by reaſon thereof the plaintiff cannot proſecute his writ, then the taxation of coſts upon ſuch non-proſs ſhall ceaſe, and the ſaid George ſhall pay ſuch coſts to the plaintiff, as by the court of our Lord the King here ſhall be taxed and adjudged for ſuch his default in non-performance of this rule; and judgment ſhall be entred againſt the ſaid William Stiles, now the caſual ejector, by default. And it is further ordered, that, if upon the trial of the ſaid iſſue a verdict ſhall be given for the defendant, or if the plaintiff ſhall not proſecute his writ, upon any other cauſe, than for the not confeſſing leaſe, entry, and ouſter as aforeſaid, then the leſſor of the plaintiff ſhall pay coſts, if the plaintiff himſelf doth not pay them.

Martin, for the plaintiff.
Newman, for the defendant. By the Court.

4. The record.

Pleas before the Lord the King at Weſtminſter, of the term of Saint Hillary in the ——— year of the reign of the Lord George the Third, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c.

Berks, to wit. } GEORGE Saunders, late of Sutton in the county aforeſaid, gentleman, was attached to anſwer Richard Smith, of a plea, wherefore with force and arms he entred into one meſſuage, with the appurtenances, in Sutton, which John Rogers, eſquire, hath demiſed to the ſaid Richard for a term which is not yet expired, and ejected him from his ſaid farm, and other wrongs to him did, to the great damage of the ſaid Richard, and againſt

the peace of the lord the King that now is. And whereupon the ſaid Richard by Robert Martin his attorney complains, that whereas the ſaid John Rogers on the ——— day of ——— in the——— year of the reign of the lord the King that now is, at Sutton aforeſaid, had demiſed to the ſame Richard the tenement aforeſaid, with the appurtenances, to have and to hold the ſaid tenement with the appurtenances to the ſaid Richard and his aſſigns, from the feaſt of Saint Michael the archangel then laſt paſt, to the end and term of five years from thence next following and fully to be compleat and ended; by virtue of which demiſe the ſaid Richard entred into the ſaid tenement, with the appurtenances, and was thereof poſſeſſed; and the ſaid Richard being ſo poſſeſſed thereof, the ſaid George afterwards, that is to ſay, on the ——— day of ——— in the ſaid ——— year, with force and arms, that is to ſay, with ſwords, ſtaves, and knives, entred into the ſaid tenement, with the appurtenances, which the ſaid John Rogers demiſed to the ſaid Richard in form aforeſaid, for the term aforeſaid, which is not yet expired, and ejected the ſaid Richard out of his ſaid farm, and other wrongs to him did, to the great damage of the ſaid Richard, and againſt the peace of the ſaid lord the King; whereby the ſaid Richard ſaith that he is injured and endamaged to the value of twenty pounds; And thereupon he brings ſuit, [and good proof.] And the ſaid George Saunders, by Charles Newman his attorney, comes and defends the force and injury, when [and where the court ſhall award;] and ſaith that he is in no wiſe guilty of the treſpaſs and ejectment aforeſaid, as the ſaid Richard above complains againſt him; and therefore he puts himſelf upon the country; and the ſaid Richard doth likewiſe the ſame: Therefore let a jury come thereupon before the lord the King on the octave of the purification of the bleſſed virgin Mary, wheresoever he ſhall be then in England; who neither [are of kin to the ſaid Richard, nor to the ſaid George;] to recognize [whether the ſaid George be guilty of the treſpaſs and ejectment aforeſaid;] becauſe as well [the ſaid George as the ſaid Richard, between whom the difference is, have put themſelves on the ſaid jury.] The ſame day is there given to the parties aforeſaid. Afterwards the proceſs therein, being continued between the ſaid parties of the plea aforeſaid by the jury, is put between them in reſpite, before the lord the King, until the day of Eaſter in fifteen days, wheresoever the ſaid lord the King ſhall then be in England; unleſs the juſtices of the lord the King aſſigned to take aſſizes in the county aforeſaid, ſhall have come before that time, to wit, on Monday the 8th of March, at Reading in the ſaid county, by the form of the ſtatute [in that caſe provided,] by reaſon of the default of the jurors [ſummoned to appear as aforeſaid.] At which day before the lord the King at Weſtminſter, come the parties aforeſaid by their attornies aforeſaid; and the aforeſaid juſtices of aſſize, before whom [the jury aforeſaid came,] ſent here their record before them had, in theſe words, to wit: Afterwards, at the day and place within contained, before ——— ——— eſquire, one of the barons of the Exchequer of the lord the King, and Sir John Eardly Wilmot knight, one of the juſtices of the ſaid lord the King, aſſigned to hold pleas before the King himſelf, juſtices of the ſaid lord the King, aſſigned to take aſſizes in the county of Berks by the form of the ſtatute [in that caſe provided,] come as well the within named Richard Smith, as the within written George Saunders, by their attornies within contained; and the jurors of the jury whereof mention is within made being called, certain of them, to wit, Charles Holloway, John Hooke, Peter Graham, Henry Cox, William Browne, and Francis Oakley, come, and are ſworn upon that jury: And becauſe the reſt of the jurors of the ſame jury did not appear, therefore others of the by-ſtanders being choſen by the ſheriff, at the requeſt of the ſaid Richard Smith, and by the command of the juſtices aforeſaid, are appointed anew, whoſe names are affixed to the pannel within written, according to the form of the ſtatute in ſuch caſe made and provided; which ſaid jurors ſo appointed anew, to wit, Roger Bacon, Thomas Small, Charles Pye, Edward Hawkins, Samuel Roberts, and Daniel Parker, being likewiſe called, come; and, together with the other jurors aforeſaid before impannelled and ſworn, being elected, tried, and ſworn, to ſpeak the truth of the matter within contained, upon their oath ſay, that the aforeſaid George Saunders is guilty of the treſpaſs and ejectment within written, in manner and form as the aforeſaid Richard Smith within complains againſt him; and aſſeſs the damages of the ſaid Richard Smith, on occaſion of that treſpaſs and ejectment, beſides his coſts and charges by him put unto about his ſuit in that behalf, to twelve pence; and, for thoſe coſts and charges, to forty ſhillings. Whereupon the ſaid Richard Smith, by his attorney aforeſaid, prayeth judgment againſt the ſaid George Saunders, in and upon the verdict aforeſaid by the jurors aforeſaid given in the form aforeſaid: And the ſaid George Saunders, by his attorney aforeſaid, ſaith that the court here ought not to proceed to give judgment upon the ſaid verdict, and prayeth that judgment againſt him the ſaid George Saunders, in and upon the verdict aforeſaid, by the jurors aforeſaid given in the form aforeſaid, may be ſtayed, by reaſon that the ſaid verdict is inſufficient and erroneous, and that the ſame verdict may be quaſhed, and that the iſſue aforeſaid may be tried anew by other jurors to be afreſh impannelled. And, becauſe the court of the lord the King here is not yet adviſed of giving their judgment of and upon the premiſſes, therefore day thereof is given as well to the ſaid Richard Smith as the ſaid George Saunders, before the lord the King, until the morrow of the aſcenſion of our Lord, wheresoever the ſaid lord the King ſhall then be in England, to hear their judgment of and upon the premiſſes, for that the court of the lord the King is not yet adviſed thereof. At which day before the lord the King at Weſtminſter, come the parties aforeſaid by their attornies aforeſaid: Upon which, the record and matters aforeſaid having been ſeen, and by the court of the lord the King now here fully underſtood, and all and ſingular the premiſſes having been examined, and mature deliberation being had thereupon, for that it ſeems to the court of the lord the King now here, that the verdict aforeſaid is in no wiſe inſufficient or erroneous, and that the ſame ought not to be quaſhed, and that no new trial ought to be had of the iſſue aforeſaid: Therefore it is conſidered, that the ſaid Richard do recover againſt the ſaid George his term yet to come, of and in the ſaid tenements, with the appurtenances, and the ſaid damages aſſeſſed by the ſaid jury in form aforeſaid, and alſo twenty-ſeven pounds ſix ſhillings and eight pence for his coſts and charges aforeſaid, by the court of the lord the King here awarded to the ſaid Richard, with his aſſent, by way of increaſe; which ſaid damages in the whole amount to twenty-nine pounds, ſeven ſhillings and eightpence. And let the ſaid George be taken, [until he maketh fine to the lord the King.] And hereupon the ſaid Richard by his attorney aforeſaid prayeth a writ of the lord the King, to be directed to the ſheriff of the county aforeſaid, to cauſe him to have poſſeſſion of his term aforeſaid yet to come, of and in the tenements aforeſaid, with the appurtenances: And it is granted unto him, returnable before the lord the King on the morrow of the Holy Trinity, wheresoever he ſhall then be in England, at which day before the lord the King, at Weſtminſter, cometh the ſaid Richard by his attorney aforeſaid; and the ſheriff, that is to ſay, Sir Thomas Reeve, knight, now ſendeth, that he by virtue of the writ aforeſaid to him directed, on the ——— day of———laſt paſt did cauſe the ſaid Richard to have his poſſeſſion of his term aforeſaid yet to come, of and in the tenements aforeſaid, with the appurtenances, as he was commanded.

Ejectum, Ejectus maris, quod e mari ejicitur. Jet, jetſom, wreck.——Et ſi de navi taliter periclitata aliquis homo vivus evaſerit, & ad terram venerit, omnia bona & catalla in navi cum iſta contenta remaneant, & ſint eorum quorum prius fuerant, & eis non depereant nomine ejecti— Si vero infra prædictum terminum nullus venerit ad exigenda catalla ſua, tum noſtra ſint, & hæredum noſtrorum nomine ejecti, vel alterius qui libertatem habet ejectum habendi. Cart. Henrici Reg. Angl. anno 1226.

Eigne. (French ainé, maximus natu,) The firſt-born, as baſtard eigne, and mulier puiſne. Lit. ſect. 399. See Mulier.

Einecia, Is borrowed of the French ainé, primogenitus, and ſignifies in Common law elderſhip. Stat. of Ireland, 14 H. 3. Skene de verbor. ſignificatione, verbo Eneya, ſays, that in the ſtatute of Marlbridge, cap. 9. made in the time of H. 3. it is called Enitia pars hæreditatis: And likewiſe likewiſe in another place of the ſame King, Jus eſniciæ, that is, in proper Latin, Jus primogenituræ. See Enitia pars, and Eldery. Eyniciam filiam ſuam maritare, to marry his eldeſt daughter. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eire, alias Eyre, From the old French word eire, that is, iter, a journey, as a grand eire, that is magnis itineribus. It ſignifies in Britton, cap. 2. the court of juſtice itinerant. And juſtices in eyre are thoſe only which Bracton in many places calleth Juſticiarios itinerantes, of the eyre, and lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 1, 2. ſaith, the eyre alſo of the foreſt is nothing but the juſtice-ſeat otherwiſe called, which is, or ſhould by ancient cuſtom be held every three years by the juſtices of the foreſt, journeying up and down for that purpoſe. Cromp. Jur. fol. 156. Manwood's Foreſt Laws, cap. 24. Read alſo Skene de verb. ſignif. verbo Iter, whereby, as by many other places, you may ſee great affinity between theſe two kingdoms in the adminiſtration of juſtice and government. See Juſtice in eyre.

Election, Is, when a man is left to his own free will to take or do one thing or another, which he pleaſes; as if A. covenants to pay B. a pound of pepper or ſaffron before Whitſuntide, it is at the election of A. at all times before Whitſuntide, which of them he will pay; but if he pays it not before the ſaid feaſt, then afterwards it is at the election of B. to have an action for which he pleaſes. Dyer fol. 18. pl. 104. 21 H. 7. 19. Co. lib. 5. fol. 59. and lib. 11. fol. 51. In caſe an election be given of ſeveral things, he who is the firſt agent, and ought to do the firſt act, ſhall have the election. As if a man make a leaſe, rendring a rent, or a robe, the leſſee ſhall have the election. (as being the firſt agent) by payment of the one, or delivery of the other. Coke on Littl. p. 144. b.

1. In what caſes an election is given, and who is to do the firſt act.

2. In what caſes an election ſhall be deemed to continue, or be determined, and what ſhall be deemed a ſufficient election.

1. In what caſes an election is given, and who is to do the firſt act.

If a man grants twenty acres, parcel of his manor, without any deſcription of them; yet the grant is not void, for an acre is a thing certain, and the ſituation may be reduced to a certainty by the election of the grantee. But if a man ſells 20*l.* worth of his land, parcel of a manor, this is void, it being neither certain in itſelf, nor reducible to a certainty; for no man is made judge of the value. 2 Co. 36. Kelw. 84.

So if one, being ſeiſed of a great waſte, grants the moiety of a yard-land lying in the waſte, without aſcertaining what part, or the ſpecial name of the land, or how-bounded; this may be reduced to a certainty by the election of the grantee: but it is otherwiſe in caſe of the King's grant, for there can be no election in his caſe; and therefore the grant is void for incertainty. 1 Leon. 30. Noy. 29. 1 Co. 86.

So if a man levies a fine come ceo que il ad de ſon done of an houſe and an hundred acres of land in D. where he hath there an houſe and 118 acres, the conuſee may elect which 100 acres he will have, for the election is given to him by the fine. 1 Rol. Abr. 725.

If a man grants 600 cords of wood out of a large wood, the grantee hath election to take them, when, and in what part of the wood he pleaſes, without any appointment of the grantor, and conſequently may aſſign his intereſt in them to a third perſon, and he ſhall have the like election. 5 Co. 24.

But if one grants to me 1000 cords of wood, to be taken at my election, and the grantor or a ſtranger cuts down part of the wood, I can take no part of that which is cut down, but muſt ſupply myſelf out of the reſidue ſtill remaining. 5 Co. 24.

But if A. covenants with B. that he ſhall have twenty of the beſt trees in the wood of A. to be taken at the election of B. within ſuch a time, 'tis a breach of the covenant in A. to cut down any trees within that time, becauſe the latitude of election which B. had is thereby abridged. 1 Vent. 271.

If rent be reſerved payable at the church of S. or D. upon conſideration, &c. the leſſee hath his election to pay it at either place; and therefore to take advantage of the condition, the leſſor muſt demand it in ſuch places, where, by his own agreement, he has permitted the tenant to pay it. 2 Rol. Abr. 428.

It is laid down as a general rule, that in caſe an election is given of two ſeveral things, he that is the firſt agent, and which ought to do the firſt act, ſhall have the election. Co. Lit. 145. 2 Co. 37. a.

As if a man grants a rent of 20*s.* or a robe, to one and his heirs, the grantor ſhall have the election, for he is the firſt agent by payment of one, or delivery of the other. Co. Lit. 145. a.

So if a man makes a leaſe, rendring a rent or robe, the leſſee ſhall have the election. Co. Lit. 145. a.

But if I contract with you to pay you a robe, or twenty ſhillings, at Eaſter, you may, after the feaſt, bring debt for the one or the other. Co. Lit. 145. a.

So if a man leaſes lands for years, reſerving weekly nine quarters of wheat, or the value thereof, as it ſhall then be ſold in the market of W. if the leſſee pay neither of theſe at the time appointed, the leſſor may have his action, at his election, for the wheat only; for though the leſſee might have paid any of them, at his election, at the day, yet after the day the law gives the election to the leſſor. 1 Rol. Abr. 725.

If A. gives one of his horſes in his ſtable to B. B. hath the election which horſe to take, for he is the firſt agent by taking the horſe. Co. Lit. 145. Moor 82. Dyer 91.

If one grants to another twenty loads of maple, to be taken in his wood of D. there the grantee ſhall have the election; for he ought to do the firſt act, viz. fell and take the ſame. Co. Lit. 145. a.

If one ſeiſed in fee of a manor, aliens the manor, except the cloſe called N. part of the manor, and there are two cloſes called N. which are part of the manor, and one contains nine acres, and the other but three acres, the alienee ſhall not chuſe which of the ſaid cloſes he will have; but the alienor ſhall have the election which of the ſaid cloſes ſhall paſs. 1 Leon. 268.

If I have three daughters, and I covenant that J. S. ſhall diſpoſe of one of them in marriage, it is at my election of which; and after requeſt I am bound to deliver her to him. Moor 72. pl. 197. Dal. 73. S. C.

If an obligation be conditioned to pay B. or his heirs annually, 12*l.* at Midſummer and Chriſtmas, or to pay him or his heirs, at any time of the ſaid feaſts, 150*l.* the obligor hath election to pay the 12*l.* or the 150*l.* but he ought to continue the payment of the twelve pound annually, until he pays the 150*l.* though he may at any time determine the payment of the 12*l.* by payment of the 150*l.* Cro. Jac. 594.

If A. covenants with B. that A. or his ſon C. or either of them, ſhall work with B. at the grinding and poliſhing of glaſs, B. paying to each of them ſo much, &c. and B. requeſts C. to work with him, &c. if he doth not, the covenant is broke, for B. had the election to require both, or any of them to work with him. 2 Sid. 104.

In debt on an obligation, that if a ſhip put to ſea, and either the goods or the obligor come ſafe, he ſhould pay ſuch a ſum over and above the uſe allowed by the ſtatute; the defendant pleads, that the obligor died before he returned, and inſiſted that he, as his executor, had an election to pay at which time of the contingencies he pleaſed, and that therefore the teſtator never returning, no action accrued: but it was reſolved, that the payment ſhould ariſe on either of the contingencies, and that this being agreeable to the intention of the parties, the law ſupplies the words, which ſhould firſt happen. 1 Lev. 54, 55.

2. In what caſes an election ſhall be deemed to continue, or be determined, and what ſhall be deemed a ſufficient election.

Where the things granted are annual, and to have continuance, the election (where the law gives it him) remains to the grantor, as well after the day as before, otherwiſe when to be performed unica vice. Co. Lit. 145. a. 2 Co. 37. Moor 85. Kelw. 78.

As if I grant another for life an annuity or robe at Eaſter, and both are behind, the grantee ought to bring his writ of annuity in the disjunctive; for if he ſhould bring for the one only, and recover, this judgment would determine the election for ever; for he ſhould never have a writ of annuity afterwards, but a ſcire facias upon the judgment; which reaſon Fitzherbert in his Natura Brevium not obſerving, held an opinion to the contrary. Co. Lit. 145. a.

When nothing paſſes to the feoffee or grantee before election to have the one thing or the other, there the election ought to be made in the life-time of the parties; and the heir or executor cannot make the election. Co. Lit. 145. a. 2 Co. 37. a.

But where an eſtate or intereſt paſſes immediately to the feoffee, donee, or grantee, there the election may be made by them, or their heirs or executors. Co. Lit. 145. 2 Co. 36. a. 37. a.

When one and the ſame thing paſſeth to the donee or grantee, and the donee or grantee hath election in what manner or degree he will take this; there the intereſt paſſeth immediately, and the party, his heirs or executors, may make election when they will. Co. Lit. 145. a.

If A. being ſeiſed in fee of a manor, part in demeſne, and part in a leaſe for years, rendring rent, and part in copyhold, in conſideration of a ſum of money, by indenture grants, bargains and ſells it to B. to hold for ſeventeen years from the death of A. and after A. covenants to ſtand ſeiſed thereof to the uſe of himſelf and the heirs of his body, and dies, and B. enters, he may elect whether he will take by the Common law, or by bargain and ſale, for A. had power to paſs it either way; and if he ſhould be obliged to take by demiſe at Common law, then B. would loſe the rents reſerved upon the leaſes for years for want of an attornment; and it was alſo held, that this election remained notwithſtanding the alteration of the eſtate by the ſecond indenture, and the death of the leſſor. 2 Co. 35. 2 And. 202. S. C.

If a man levies a fine come ceo, &c. of an houſe and 100 acres of land in D. where he hath there 118 acres, and the conuſee renders to the conuſor for 100 years, and after the conuſor dies, his executor may elect which of the 100 acres he will have, becauſe this was a thing in intereſt in the teſtator. 1 Rol. Abr. 725.

There was a compoſition between the prebend of A. and the abbot and convent of B. that the prebend of A. and his ſucceſſors, for all time to come, ſhould have this election yearly, either to receive tithes in kind of corn or grain, ariſing within certain lands of the abbey, or elſe to receive five marks to be paid by the ſaid abbot and convent in lieu thereof, ſo as ſuch election was notified to the abbot, or any of the monks or porter of the abbey, &c. and the lands came to the King by the 31 Hen. 8. and from him to the defendant; and the prebendary came to the King by the 1ſt of Ed. 6. of chanteries, &c. and from him to the plaintiff. Upon admitting the compoſition good, it was adjudged that the power of election was gone, becauſe it cannot now be made according to the compoſition; but in this caſe it was ſaid by Hale Ch. Baron, that in one Southwell's caſe, (which ſee in Dyer. 91.) in the 44 Eliz. where an abbot had a quantity of wood, to be taken yearly in ſuch a wood, or a ſum of money at his election; it was held, the election was transferred to the King by the ſtatute of diſſolution of monaſteries. Hard. 381.

If one enfeoffs another of two acres, to hold the one for life, and the other in tail, and he before election makes a feoffment of both; in this caſe the feoffor ſhall enter into which of them he will, for the feoffee, by this wrongful act, hath loſt his election. Co. Lit. 145. a. 2 Co. 37. a.

If a man gives two acres to another, to hold the one for life, and the other in fee, and the donee after makes a feoffment of one acre; this is an election to have the fee in that. Plow. 6. 1 Rol. Abr. 726.

If a man leaſes two acres for life, the remainder of one acre in fee; this is an election that he ſhall have the fee in the other acre. Plow. 6. 1 Rol. Abr. 736.

When the election is given to ſeveral perſons, there the firſt election made by any of the perſons ſhall ſtand: As if a man leaſes two acres to A. for life, the remainder of one acre to B. and of the other acre to C. B. or C. may elect which of the acres they will have, and the firſt election by one binds the other. Co. Lit. 145. a 2 Co. 37. a.

Election of Biſhops, &c. Elections ſhall be free, St. Weſt. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 5. Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſtat. 1. c. 14. 9 Hen. 4. c. 9. Granted on condition to have the royal aſſent, otherwiſe the King to collate, 25 Ed. 3. ſt. 6. ſect. 3. The King's prerogative in election ſaved, 9 H. 4. cap. 9.

Election of a clerk of the ſtatutes merchant, Electione Clerici, Is a writ that lieth for the choice of a clerk aſſigned to take and make bonds called ſtatute-merchants, and is granted out of the Chancery, upon ſuggeſtion made, that the clerk formerly aſſigned is gone to dwell in another place, or hath hindrance to let him from following that buſineſs, or hath not land ſufficient to anſwer his tranſgreſſion, if he ſhould deal amiſs, &c. F. N. B. fol. 164.

Election of eccleſiaſtical perſons. There is to be a free election for the dignities of the church, by 9 Ed. 2. c. 14. and none ſhall diſturb any perſon from making free election, on pain of great forfeiture. If any perſon that hath a voice in elections, take any reward for an election in any church, college, ſchool, &c. the election ſhall be void: And if any of ſuch ſocieties reſign their places to others for reward, they incur a forfeiture of double the ſum; and the party giving it, and the party taking it, is uncapable of any place. Stat. 31 Eliz. c. 6.

Election of members of parliament. See Parliament.

Election in London. See London.

Eleemoſyna, Alms. Dare in puram & perpetuam eleemoſynam, to give in pure and perpetual alms, or in frank-almoigne, as lands were commonly given to religious uſes, and ſo diſcharged from military ſervices, and other ſecular burdens. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eleemoſyna carucarum pro aratris, i. e. eleemoſyna aratri, (viz.) A penny which King Æthelred ordered to be paid for every plough in England towards the ſupport of the poor. Leg. Æthelred, cap. 1. Ut detur de omni caruca denarius vel denarium valens. So in Leg Canuti, ca. 11. Sometimes 'tis called eleemoſyna Regis, becauſe it was at firſt appointed by the King. Thus Simeon Dunelm. Ann. 887, writes (viz.) Æthelelm comes Wintonienſis eleemoſynam Regis Æthelfredi detulit Romam.

Eleemoſynae, i. e. The poſſeſſion belonging to churches. Quid eſt quod das quando honores eccleſiarum, &c. quod ſi res Domino jure eleemoſynarum legitime conſecratæ ſint, eccleſiarum ejus ſunt. Du Cange. Hanc eccleſiam dedi Æthelwaldo quiete tenere ſicut decet eccleſiaſticam eleemoſynam. Mon. 3 tom. p. 46.

Eleemoſynaria, The place in a religious houſe, where the common alms were repoſited, and thence by the almoner diſtributed to the poor. In old Engliſh the aumere, aumbry, ambry, which in the North they now uſe for a pantry or cupboard, as the Welſh do almari; yet the word eleemoſynaria was ſometimes taken for the office of almoner, to which, as to other offices, there were peculiar rents allotted, as——Decima prædicti molendini eleemoſynariæ ſancti Auguſtini ſolvatur. Will. Thorne inter x. Scriptor. ſub anno 1128.

Eleemoſynarius, The almoner or peculiar officer who received the eleemoſynary rents and gifts, and in due method diſtributed them to pious and charitable uſes. There was ſuch a chief officer in all the religious houſes.

Th-

The greateſt of our Engliſh biſhops had their peculiar almoners, as in the council of Oxford, anno 1122. Stat. cap. 2. and Lindewood's Provincial, lib. 1. tit. 12. The dignity and duty of lord almoner to the Kings of England, is deſcribed in Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 23.

Elegit, (ſo called from the words in it elegit ſibi liberari) Is a writ judicial, and lieth for him that hath recovered debt or damages in the King's court, or upon recognizance in any court, againſt one not able in his goods to ſatisfy the ſame, and directed to the ſheriff, commanding him that he make delivery of half the party's lands or tenements, and all his goods, oxen and beaſts for the plough excepted. Old Nat. Brev. fol. 152. Reg. Orig. 299 & 301. And the table of the Regiſter Judicial, which expreſſeth divers uſes of this writ: In the New terms of the Law it is ſaid, that this writ ſhould be ſued within the year. The creditor ſhall hold the moiety of the land ſo delivered unto him, till his whole debt and damages are ſatisfied, and during that term he is tenant by elegit. Weſtm. 2. cap. 18. See Co. on Litt. fol. 289. b.

An elegit is a judicial writ given by ſtatute Weſt. 2. c. 18. or 13 Ed. 1. c. 18. either upon a recovery of any debt or damages, or upon a recognizance in any court which had authority to take the ſame. The words of this law are: "When debt is recovered or ackowledged in the King's court, or damages awarded, it ſhall be from henceforth in the election of him that ſueth for ſuch debt or damages, to have a writ of fieri facias unto the ſheriff for to levy the debt of the lands and goods; or that the ſheriff ſhall deliver to him all the chattels of the debtor (ſaving only his oxen and beaſts of his plough) and the one half of his land, until the debt be levied upon a reaſonable price or extent. And if he be put out of that tenement, he ſhall recover by a writ of novel diſſeiſin, and after by a writ of rediſſeiſin, if need be."

When a perſon has judgment in an action of debt, or any other action in which he has damages, and he chuſes to take out execution by elegit, the entry is, Quod elegit ſibi executionem fieri de omnibus catallis & medietate terræ, and from this election either to have a fieri facias or capias ad ſatisfaciendum, or this writ, it is called an elegit, the form of which being firſt given by this ſtatute (for there was no execution againſt the lands of a debtor at Common law) is Ac cum idem J. S. juxta ſtatutum inde editum elegerit ſibi liberari pro prædict' 20 libris omnia catalla & mediatatem terræ ipſius J. D. 2 Inſt. 395. Reg. 299. Co. Lit. 189. b.

But tho' by this ſtatue the lands of the debtor are made liable, as well as his perſonal eſtate; yet if the creditor takes out an elegit, and it appears to the ſheriff, that there are goods and chattels ſufficient of the debtor's, to ſatisfy the debt, he ought not to extend the lands. 2 Inſt. 395. But an elegit executed upon goods only, is not a fieri facias, for a fieri facias is executed by ſale by the ſheriff; but the elegit by the appraiſement of the goods by a jury, and delivery to the party. 1 Sid. 184. 1 Lev. 92. 1 Keb. 105, 261, 465, 556, 692.

Upon this writ the ſheriff is to impanel a jury, who are to make inquiry of all the goods and chattles of the debtor, and to appraiſe the ſame, and alſo to inquire as to his lands and tenements; and upon ſuch inquiſition the ſheriff is to deliver all the goods and chattels (except the beaſts of the plough) and a moiety of lands to the party, and muſt return his writ, in order to record ſuch inquiſition in that court out of which the elegit iſſued: And when the jury have found the ſeiſin and value of the land, the ſheriff, and not the jury, is to ſet out and deliver a moiety thereof to the plaintiff, by metes and bonds. Cro. Car. 319.

If the ſheriff, on an inquiſition upon an elegit, return the defendant to have twenty acres in Dale and twenty acres in Sale, and delivers the twenty acres in Sale for the moiety of the whole, all is void, for he ought to deliver a moiety of the twenty acres in each vill, and this might be avoided in evidence in ejectment brought for the lands. 1 Lev. 160. But ſee 1 Sid. 239.

If A. and B. recover ſeverally againſt C. and A. ſues out execution, and has a moiety of C.'s land delivered to him on an elegit, and then B. ſues out an elegit, he can only have a moiety of the lands which remained with C. after the firſt extent, and not the whole delivered to him. Cro. Eliz. 482.

But if A. acknowledges two judgments to B. and in the ſame term he takes out two elegits, on the one he may have a moiety of A.'s lands delivered to him, and on the other, the other moiety, and is not reſtrained to a moiety of a moiety, for in judgment of law the whole term is but one day. Hard. 23.

If upon an inqueſt taken upon an elegit, the jury find that the party was poſſeſſed of a term, which commenced the 2 & 3 Ph. & Mar. when in truth it commenced the 3 & 4 Ph. & Mar. and the ſheriff ſells the term according to the value found by the jury, the execution is void, for the ſheriff has only authority to ſell or extend ſuch things as are found to be the party's; but in this caſe the inqueſt finding one thing and the ſheriff another, the inqueſt does not warrant the ſale. Cro. Eliz. 584. 4 Co. 74. S. C.

But if the inqueſt had found that he was poſſeſſed of ſuch land for term of divers years adhuc vent', which they had appraiſed at ſo much, without ſhewing the certain beginning or determination therof, it had been well enough; for they ſhall not be compelled to find a certainty, not having means to be informed thereof. Cro. Eliz. 584.

Upon an elegit the ſheriff may either extend a term of years, that is, may deliver a moiety thereof to the plaintiff as part of the lands and tenements of the defendant, or may ſell it abſolutely as part of his perſonal eſtate. 2 Inſt 395. 8 Co. 171. Dalt. Sh. 137.

Alſo it ſeems that a rent-charge may be extended on an elegit, for the word land, which is made ſubject to the execution, includes all hereditaments extendable, and in this caſe the party may diſtrain and avow for the rent, though the tenant never attorned; for the law creating his eſtate gives him all means neceſſary for the enjoyment of it. Moor 32. pl. 104.

Lands in ancient demeſne upon an elegit may by the ſheriff be delivered in execution, becauſe the title of the land is not directly put in plea in the King's court. Hob. 47. 4 Inſt. 270. 2 Inſt. 397. Moor 211. pl. 351. 1 Brownl. 234.

But the ſtatute of Weſtm. 2. which gives the elegit, extends not to copyhold lands, for then the lord would have a tenant brought in upon him without his admittance or conſent. 3 Co. 9. Co. Cap. 149.

Form of a writ of elegit.

GEORGE the Third, &c. to the ſheriff of S. greeting Whereas A. B. lately in our court, before us at Weſtminſter, by bill without our writ, and by the judgment of the ſame court, hath recovered againſt C. D. 100 l. of debt, and alſo 50 s. for his damages, which he hath ſuſtained, as well by occaſion of the detention of that debt, as for his expences and coſts laid out by him about his ſuit in that behalf, whereof the ſaid C. D. is convicted, as appears to us of record: And afterwards the ſaid A. came into our court before us, and hath elected to be delivered to him all the goods and chattels of the ſaid C. except the oxen and heifers of his cart, (beaſts of his plough,) and in like manner one moiety of all and ſingular the lands and tenements of the ſaid C. in our bailiwick, according to the form of the ſtatute in that caſe made and provided, until the debt and damages aforeſaid be fully levied thereof: Therefore we command you, that all the goods and chattels of the ſaid C. within your bailiwick, except the oxen and heifers of his cart (plough,) and likewiſe a moiety of all the lands and tenements of the ſaid C. in your baliwick, whereof the ſaid C. the day, &c. in the year of our reign &c. on which day the judgment aforeſaid was rendered, or at any time afterwards, was ſeiſed, you cauſe to be delivered without delay to the ſaid A. by a reaſonable price and extent; to hold to him the ſaid goods and chattels as his own proper goods and chattels, and alſo to hold the ſaid moiety of the lands and tenements aforeſaid as his freehold, to him and his aſſigns, according to the form of the ſtatute aforeſaid, until the debt and damages aforeſaid ſhall be thereof levied: And how this writ you ſhall have executed, make certainly known to us at Weſtminſter, on the day, &c. (after ſuch a return) under your ſeal, and the ſeals of thoſe by whoſe oath you ſhall have made that extent and appraiſement: And have you then there this writ. Witneſs, &c.

Elephants teeth, To what duties liable, 4 Will. & M. c. 5. ſect. 2.

Elf-arrows, Flint-ſtones, ſharpened and jagged at each ſide, in ſhape of arrow-heads, made and uſed in war by the ancient Britons, of which ſeveral have been found in England, and greater plenty in Scotland, where they call them elf-arrows, and do imagine they dropt from the clouds.

Elgine. A duty of two pennies Scots on ale there, 8 Geo. 1. c. 7.

Eliſors. To impanel juries, &c. See Elliſors.

Elke, A kind of ewe to make bows of. B. 2. H. 8. c. 9.

Elmsfeah, Charitable money, or money given in charity.

Eloine, (from the French eſloigner,) To remove, baniſh, or ſend away. So the word is uſed 13 Ed. 1. cap. 15. viz. If ſuch as be within age be eloined, ſo that they cannot ſue perſonally, their next friends ſhall be admitted to ſue for them.

Elopement, Is when a married woman departs from her huſband, and dwells with an adulterer; for which, without voluntary reconcilement to the huſband, ſhe ſhall loſe her dower by the ſtatute of Weſtm. 2. c. 34. according to theſe old verſes:

Sponte virum mulier fugiens & adultera facta,
Dote ſua careat, niſi ſponſo ſponte retracta.

A woman thus leaving her huſband is ſaid to elope, and her huſband in this caſe ſhall not be compelled to allow her any alimony. See Alimony.

Tho' the wife be ever ſo lewd, yet while ſhe cohabits with her huſband, he is bound to find her neceſſaries, and to pay for them; for he took her for better for worſe: So if he runs away from her, or turns her away. But if ſhe goes away from him; when ſuch ſeparation becomes notorious, whoever gives her credit, doth it at his own peril; for the huſband is not liable, unleſs he takes her again: for then it is as if a woman had eloped at Common law, ſhe thereby loſt her dower; but if ſhe came again, and the huſband received her, the right of dower is revived. 1 Salk. 119. By Holt Ch. J.

The plaintiff was an apothecary, and ſerved the defendant's wife with phyſick, who lived ſeparate from her huſband, and had a ſeparate allowance of 20*l.* a year. And by Holt Chief Juſtice: If huſband and wife ſeparate by conſent, and ſhe hath a ſeparate allowance, it is unreaſonable ſhe ſhould have it ſtill in her power to charge him; and it is not to be preſumed, but tradeſmen that deal with her truſt her on her own credit, and not on the credit of her huſband; and a perſonal notice is not neceſſary; it is ſufficient that it be publickly and commonly known. 1 Salk. 116. Ld. Raym. 444.

It was ruled by Holt Chief Juſtice, that if a huſband turn away his wife, and afterwards ſhe takes up neceſſaries upon credit of a tradeſman; the huſband ſhall be liable to the tradeſman; to pay for them. But if the wife elopes, tho' the tradeſman hath no notice of the elopement, if he gives credit to the wife, the huſband is not liable. If the wife tells the huſband that ſhe will buy ſuch a thing which is neceſſary, and the huſband tell her that he will not allow of it, and forbids the tradeſman to give his wife credit for it, and afterwards the wife takes up that thing of the ſame tradeſman, upon credit given her by him; the huſband is not liable. It is ſufficient for the huſband to give general notice, that people do not give credit to his wife. L. Raym. 444.

If a huſband turns away his wife, he gives her credit wherever ſhe goes, and muſt pay for neceſſaries for her.

But if ſhe runs away from her huſband, he ſhall not be bound by any contract ſhe makes. On the other ſide, while they cohabit, the huſband ſhall anſwer all contracts of hers for neceſſaries; for his aſſent ſhall be preſumed to all neceſſary contracts, upon the account of cohabiting, unleſs the contrary appear. But if the contrary appear, as by notice, there is then no room for ſuch a preſumption. 1 Salk. 118. By Holt Ch. J.

In aſſumpſit for goods ſold and delivered to the defendant's wife, the caſe appeared to be, that the defendant and his wife had formerly lodged at the plaintiff's houſe, and the plaintiff furniſhed her with goods; and the defendant finding the plaintiff had helped her to pawn her watch, and ſuſpected he confederated with her, left the lodgings, after paying the plaintiff his bill, and forbidding him ever to truſt her again. After this, the defendant and his wife cohabited together for a year; when, without any cauſe appearing he left her, locked up her cloths, and upon her finding him out refuſed to admit her, and ſtruck her, and declared he would not maintain her, or pay any body that did. In this diſtreſs, ſhe borrowed cloaths of her friends, and applied to the plaintiff, who furniſhed her with neceſſaries according to the defendant's degree; which the defendant refuſing to pay for, this action was brought: and upon trial the jury found for the plaintiff. Upon motion for a new trial, the court held the verdict was right; for whilſt they were at the plaintiff's there was a particular reaſon for the particular prohibition; yet the cauſeleſs turning her away deſtitute afterwards, gave her the general credit again: and if a huſband ſhould be allowed, under the notion of a particular prohibition to deſtroy her obtaining credit in one place, he may in the ſame manner prevent it with all people ſhe is acquainted with. He appears to be a wrongdoer, and therefore has no right to prohibit any body. Str. 1214.

Action for linen ſold to the defendant's wife. Upon non aſſumpſit, the delivery was proved. And the defendant proved that ſhe had lived in a very lewd manner; one Mr. Nott frequently coming to her at her huſband's houſe, and they were locked up together in a bedchamber; and other indecencies paſſed between them. And it was alſo proved, that ſhe ſeveral time went to the houſe of this Nott, a gentleman in Wiltſhire, who lived within three miles of the gentleman's houſe. It did not appear farther, than that he diſliked her going and ſtaying at Mr. Nott's. But under theſe circumſtances, the husband and wife continued to live together. Afterwards ſhe went away from him, and went to Marlborough, where ſhe reſided ſome time; but after the leaving her husband's houſe, it did not appear that ſhe ever ſaw Mr. Nott, or lived in a lewd manner. After ſome time, ſhe ſent Lucas an attorney to her husband, to deſire that he would receive her again; the husband told him, that if ſhe came again, ſhe ſhould never ſit at the upper end of his table, nor have the government of the children; but ſhould live in a garret. Then Lucas propoſed to him, to make her an allowance, and propoſed about 80*l.* or 100*l.* a year, he being worth about 5 or 600*l.* a year. But that was not complied with; and afterwards ſhe came to London, and bought the linen to the amount of 35*l.* By Raymond Chief Juſtice: If a woman elopes from her husband, though ſhe does not go away with an adulterer, or in an adulterous manner; the tradeſman truſts her at his peril, and the husband is not bound. And this hath been adjudged in two or three caſes. Indeed if he refuſe to receive her again, from that time it may be an anſwer to the elopement. In this caſe he doth not abſolutely refuſe to receive her again; but that ſhe ſhould neither ſit at his table, nor have the government of the children; but ſhould be kept in a garret; and ſhe deſerved no better uſage. And the plaintiff was nonſuit. Str. 875.

By ſtat. 13 Ed. 1. ſt. 1. c. 34. If a wife willingly leave her huſband; and go away and continue with her adulterer, ſhe ſhall be barred for ever of action to demand her dower that ſhe ought to have of her huſband's lands, if ſhe be convicted thereof; except that her huſband willingly, and without coercion of the church, reconcile her, and ſuffer her to dwell with him, in which caſe, ſhe ſhall be reſtored to her action.

Willingly

Willingly leave her husband, and go away and continue] Albeit the words of this branch be in the conjunctive, yet if the woman be taken away not willingly, but againſt her will, and afterwards conſent, and remain with the adulterer without being reconciled, ſhe ſhall loſe her dower; for the cauſe of the bar of her dower is not the manner of the going away, but the remaining with the adulterer in avowtry without reconciliation, that is the bar of the dower. 2 Inſt. 435.

And continue with her advowterer] Albeit ſhe do not continually remain in avowtry with the adulterer, yet if ſhe be with him, and commit adultery, it is a tarrying within this ſtatute. 2 Inſt. 435.

And if ſhe once remain with the adulterer in avowtry, and afterwards he keepeth her againſt her will; or if the avowterer turn her away, yet ſhe ſhall be ſaid to continue with the advowterer within this ſtatute. 2 Inſt. 435.

To demand her dower] In this caſe of elopement, and remaining with the adulterer, the wife could not be barred of her dowry by the Common law, although a divorce were ſued or had for the ſame adultery: but by a divorce a vinculo in the life-time of her husband, ſhe loſeth her dower by the Common law. 1 Inſt. 33.

Thomas Hyat prayed a prohibition to the Conſiſtory court of London, for that he was ſued there by his wife to be ſeparated from him propter ſævitiam; and ſentence was there given againſt him, that his wife ſhould live from him, and that he ſhould allow her 5*s.* 6*d.* weekly, altho' the husband offered reconciliation, and deſired cohabitation, and proffered caution to uſe her fitly. But it was denied by the court to grant a prohibition; becauſe the court of the ordinary is the proper court for allowance of alimony, and may take order for ſeparation or divorce, if ſhe be cruelly uſed. Cro. Jac 364.

Action for meat and other things provided for the defendant's wife. The defendant proved ſhe went away from him with an adulterer. Raymond Ch. Juſtice held, that the husband ſhould not be charged for neceſſaries for her, though the plaintiff who provided for her had no notice; and he ſaid, Chief Juſtice Holt always ruled it ſo. Str. 647.

In an action againſt the husband for a laced head ſold to the wife, it was proved, that the wife lived from her husband in adultery, and that ſhe told the plaintiff ſhe had a husband, but that ſignified nothing, for ſhe would pay him herſelf. Raymond Chief Juſtice held the defendant not chargeable, and ſaid he ſhould have ruled it ſo if there had been no actual notice, which only ſtrengthned the caſe. Str. 706.

Ely. Its biſhop and his ſteward to be juſtices of peace, as uſual, 27 H. 8. c. 24. ſect. 20.

Emanſores, Thoſe who go out of the monaſtry. Transfugæ, & emanſores, a clauſtro effrænes, vagi & ſarabaitæ. Pet. Bleſenſis Ep. 11. 142.

Emballadors. See Amballadors.

Emblements, (from the Fr. Emblavence de bled, i. e. corn ſprung, or put up above ground) Signify ſtrictly the profits of land ſown: but the word is ſometime taken more largely for any profits that ariſe and grow naturally from the ground, as graſs, fruit, hemp, flax, &c. Cowell, edit. 1727. If tenant for life ſow the land, and afterwards die, the executor of the tenant for life ſhall have the emblements. and not he in reverſion: but if tenant for years ſow the land, and before he hath reaped, his term expires, there the leſſor, or he in reverſion, ſhall have the emblements. See Co. lib. 11. fol. 51. And although it is commonly held, that if a man leaſes land at will, and after the leſſee ſows the land, and then the will is determined, that the leſſee ſhall have the emblements; yet if the leſſee himſelf determines the will before the ſeverence of the corn, he ſhall not have the emblements. See Co. lib. 5. fol. 116.

If leſſor at will be outlawed in a perſonal action, the King ſhall have the profits after, but the leſſee ſhall have the emblements; but if leſſee is outlawed in a perſonal action, the King ſhall have the emblements. 5 Rep. 116. Hill. 44 Eliz. B. R. Oland's caſe.

A man deviſed land, which was ſowed, for life, the remainder in fee, and the deviſor died, and the deviſee for life alſo died before the ſeverance; and it was adjudged, that the executor of the tenant for life ſhall not have that, but he in remainder. Win. 51. cited to be ſo adjudged 18 Eliz. Allen's caſe.

A. gives bond that B. ſhall enjoy a leaſe of Black-Acre immediately after his death; the corn on the death of A. belongs to A.'s executors. 4 Le. 1. pl. 1. Hill. 20 Eliz. Lauton's caſe.

A. lets land at will to B. and afterwards B. agreed to ſurrender the land, and his intereſt to A. A. entred, and let it to defendant, who took the corn. The queſtion was, If this was a ſurrender, (I agree to ſurrender my land) if it imports an act to be done in futuro, or in the preſent time? Judgment pro quer'. Cro. E. 156. pl. 39. Mich. 31 & 32 Eliz. B. R. Sweeper v. Randall.

A. and B. are joint-tenants; A. by conſent of B. occupies the land alone, and takes the profits to his own uſe. A. by this is tenant at will to B. and if A. dies, the emblements ſhall go to the adminiſtrator of A. But if B. had only ſaid to A. I will not occupy it, this would be no aſſent that A. ſhould have all, nor would it give any thing to A. Cro. E. 314. pl. 7. Hill. 36 Eliz. B. R. Geanes v. Portman.

If a leaſe be made for ſeven years upon a condition on the part of the leſſee, at the end of the ſeven years to be performed, to have it for life, the leſſee the laſt year ſows the land, and performs not the condition, it was ſaid, that he ſhall have the emblements; but Popham and Fenner denied it; and judgment was given for the defendant. Cro. E. 461. (bis) pl. 10. Paſch. 38 Eliz. B. R. in the caſe of Oland v. Burdwick.

A man ſeiſed for life, or in fee, or tail in his wife's right or his own, and ſows it with corn, or any manner of grain, and dies before harveſt, it ſhall go to the executor of the huſband, and not to the wife or heir that ſhall have the land; but graſs ready to cut, apples, pears, &c. upon the trees, ſhall go to the wife or heir. Went. Off. Ex. 59.

If land ſow'd with corn, ſaffron, hemp, &c. or planted with hops, or having graſs ready to be cut, be ſold or conveyed, it ſhall all go to the purchaſer of the land, unleſs excepted, tho' never ſo near reaping or cutting, or gathering. Went. Off. Ex. 59.

Roots of carrots, parſnips, turnips, ſkirrets, &c. ſown by him that had the inheritance of the garden or land, it ſeems, ſhall go to the heir, and not to the executors; for the profitable part is the root which is hidden within the ground, and cannot be come at without breaking the ſoil, which the executors cannot lawfully do: but as for melons which are above ground, the executors may take them; yet as for artichokes, though the fruit be above the ground, yet it ſeems they have not ſuch yearly ſetting or manurance as ſhould ſever them in intereſt from the ſoil, therefore they ſhall go with it to the heir. Went. Off. Ex. 63.

Albeit the leſſor determines his will before the corn, &c. be ripe, yet becauſe the ſtate of the leſſee is uncertain, and therefore leſt the ground ſhould be unmanured, which ſhould be hurtful to the commonwealth, he ſhall reap the corn which he ſowed in peace. Litt. S. 68. and Co. Litt. 55. a. b.

A man after judgment given againſt him, ſowed the land, and afterwards brought a writ of error to reverſe the ſaid judgment; but it was affirmed; he ſhall not take the emblements. Adjudged per. tot. cur. 2 Bulſt. 213. Paſch. 12 Jac. Wicks v. Jordan.

If A. ſeiſed of land ſows it with corn, and then conveys it to B. for life, remainder to C. for life, and B. dies before the corn is reaped, now C. ſhall have it, and not the executors of B. though his eſtate was uncertain. Agreed per. Cur. Hob. 132. pl. 174. Trin. 13 Jac. in caſe of Grantham v. Hawley.

The leſſor covenanted with the leſſee, his executors, &c. that he ſhould carry away to his own uſe ſuch corn as ſhall be growing on the land at the end of the term; afterwards he conveyed the reverſion to the plaintiff, and the executors of the leſſee ſowed the land, and ſold the corn growing on it at the end of the term to the defendant: it was objected, that the leſſor had never any property in this corn, and therefore could not grant it away; but adjudged that the very right was paſſed when it ſhould happen; for though the leſſor had not any actual property in the corn, yet he had a right in poſſe, becauſe of the lands out of which it proceeds, and the words in the leaſe are ſufficient to paſs the property, as ſoon as the corn is growing on the land. Nelſ. Abr. 702. pl. 9. cites Hob. 132. [pl. 174. Trin. 13 Jac.] Grantham v. Hawley.

the

A man was ſeiſed of land in fee, and ſowed the land, and deviſed that to J. S. and before ſeverance he died; and whether the deviſee ſhall have the corn, or the executor of the deviſor, was the queſtion. And by Hobart, Winch, and Hutton, the deviſee ſhall have that, and not the executor of the deviſor. Win. 51. Mich. 20 Jac. C. B. Spencer's caſe.

If a man deviſe land, and after ſows it and dies, in this caſe the deviſee ſhall have the corn, and not the executor of the deviſor. Winch. J. ſaid it had been adjudged. Win. 52. Mich. 20 Jac. C. B. in Spencer's caſe.

Hops growing out of the old roots ſhall go to the executors or adminiſtrator, becauſe they grow by the manurance and induſtry of the owner, and ſo are like emblements. Cro. C. 515. pl. 13. Mich. 14 Car. B. R. Latham v. Atwood.

If ſheriff on a fieri facias ſells corn growing, the vendee cannot juſtify an entry on the land to reap it, till ſuch time as the corn is ripe. Per Twiſden J. Vent. 222. Trin. 24 Car. 2. B. R. in caſe of Perrot v. Bridges.

Tenant at ſufferance ſows the land, and afterwards judgment is recovered againſt him, and the corn ſeized thereupon, and ſold by the ſheriff (ſtanding,) then the treſpaſs lies for the landlord againſt the ſheriff and his officers. L. P. R. 612. cites 32 Car. 2. Sir John Banks's caſe.

Baron and feme jointenants for life, baron ſows the land, and dies before ſeverance; the court propoſed to each to take a moiety. Per Lord Somers. 2 Vern. 322. pl. 311. Mich. 1694. Rowney's caſe.

But where ſtrangers are jointenants, the emblements will go to the ſurvivor; it was admitted, Arg. 2 Vern. 323. pl. 311. Mich. 1694. Rowney's caſe.

A. tenant for life, remainder to B. his wife for life for jointure, remainder to A. in fee. A. deviſes his remainder in fee to B. and died in May, leaving hops in the ground, which were cultivated at great charge in February, and gathered in Auguſt. Quære, Whether they belonged to B. the wife, or to the executor of A.? The Maſter of the Rolls at firſt inclined to think the hops belonged to B. in right of her rent and emblements; but in regard of caſes cited as adjudged, that in caſe of dower ſhe ſhall have the emblements, becauſe dower is conſidered as an excreſcence or continuance of the eſtate of the husband, but a jointure is not, he afterwards declared, that the hops and corn growing at the teſtator's death were emblements, and ought to be accounted for as part of the teſtator's eſtate. MS. Rep. Trin. 1734. Canc. Fiſher v. Forbes.

Embleys de gentz, This word occurs in Rot. Parl. 21 Ed. 3. n. 62. where divers murders, emblers de gentz, robberies, &c. It comes from the French embler, to ſteal, and ſeems to ſignify ſtealing from or robbing the people.

Embracer or Embraſour, Is he, who, when a matter is in trial between party and party, comes to the bar with one of the parties (having received ſome reward ſo to do) and ſpeaks in the caſe, or privily labours the jury, or ſtands there to ſurvey or overlook them, thereby to put them in fear and doubt of the matter; the penalty whereof is 20 l. and impriſonment at the juſtices diſcretion. But perſons learned in the law may ſpeak in the caſe for their clients. Stat. 19 Hen. 7. c. 13. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Embracery, Is the act or offence of embraceors. To inſtruct the jury, or promiſe reward for or before appearance, is embracery. Noy's Rep. fol. 102.

Embracery is defined in general to be any attempt by either party, or a ſtranger, to corrupt or influence a jury, or to incline them to favour one ſide by gifts or promiſes, threats or perſuaſions, or by inſtructing them in the cauſe, or any other way, except by opening and enforcing the evidence by counſel at the trial, whether the jurors give any verdict or not, and whether the verdict be true or falſe. Co Lit. 369. Moor 815. 2 Hawk. P. C. 259.

Alſo it is an offence of this kind for a ſtranger barely to labour a juror to appear and act according to his conſcience, or for any perſon to labour a juror not to appear; but 'tis no offence for the party himſelf, or for any perſon, who can juſtify an act of maintenance, to labour a juror to appear and give a verdict according to his conſcience. 2 Hawk. P. C. 259, 260.

Alſo it is an offence to give money to a juror after the verdict, unleſs it be openly and fairly given to all alike, in conſideration of the expences of their journey and trouble of their attendance. 2 Hawk. P. C. 259, 260.

So the bare giving of money to another, to be diſtributed among the jurors, ſavours of embracery, whether any of it be diſtributed or not; and it is an offence of the like kind for a perſon, by indirect means, to procure himſelf, or another, to be ſworn of the tales, in order to ſerve one ſide; alſo it is as criminal in a juror, as in another perſon, to endeavour to prevail on his companions to give a verdict on one ſide, by any other arguments beſides the evidence produced, and the general obligations of conſcience. 2 Hawk. P. C. 260.

The offence of embracery is puniſhable at Common law by indictment or action; and if it were not known before the trial, it will be a good cauſe to ſet aſide the verdict. 2 Hawk. P. C. 260.

Abuſes by others, in relation to juries, are puniſhable by fine and impriſonment; and if a man aſſault or threaten a juror for having given a verdict againſt him, he may be indicted as a diſturber of the adminiſtration of juſtice, and one who is guilty of a contempt of the King's court. 1 Hawk. P. C. 58, 59.

Embre or Embring-days, (from embers, cineres,) Either becauſe our anceſtors, when they faſted, ſat in aſhes, or ſtrewed them on their heads. Stat. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 19. They are thoſe the ancient fathers called quatuor tempora, and of great antiquity in the church, being obſerved on the Wedneſday, Friday, and Saturday next after Quadrageſima Sunday, Whit-Sunday, Holy-Rood-day in September, and Saint Lucy's day in December. Our Saxons called this faſt imbren. Et jejunia quatuor tempora (quæ imbren vocant) & cætera omnia, prout S. Gregorius genti impoſuit Anglorum, conſerventur. Spelm. de Concil. t. 1. f. 518. They are mentioned by Briton, cap. 53. and others. Co. in his Inſt. part. 3. fol. 203. ſaith, Theſe Embring-days are the week next before Quadrageſima; which muſt needs be a great miſtake in the printer, for it is not poſſible that learned men could be ignorant in any thing ſo well known. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Embroidery. Deceits in embroidery prohibited, 2 Hen. 6. c. 9. Foreign embroidery prohibited, 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 13. By the ſtat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 36. No foreign embroidery, or gold or ſilver brocade, ſhall be imported, upon pain of being forfeited and burnt, and penalty of 100 l. for each piece. No perſon ſhall ſell or expoſe to ſail any foreign embroidery, gold or ſilver thread, lace, fringe, brocade, or make up the ſame into any garment, upon pain of having it forfeited and burnt, and penalty of 100 l. All ſuch embroidery, &c. found, may be ſeized and burnt, and the mercer, &c. in whoſe cuſtody it was found, ſhall forfeit 100 l.

Emendals. Emenda, Is an old word ſtill uſed in the accounts of the Inner Temple, where ſo much in emendals at the foot of an account, ſignifies ſo much in bank in the ſtock of the houſe for the ſupply of all emergent occaſions: Spelman ſays it is that, Quod tribuitur in reſtaurationem damni.

Emendare, Emendam ſolvere, To make amends or ſatisfaction for any crime or treſpaſs committed.——Domino Regi graviter emendare debent. Legis Ed. Confeſſ. cap. 35. Hence a capital crime, not to be attoned by fine, or pecuniary compoſiton, was ſaid to be inemendabile. Leges Canuti, cap. 2.

Emendatio, The power of amending and correcting abuſes, according to ſtated rules and meaſures. As emendatio panni, the power of alnage, aulnage, ulnage or looking to the aſſiſe of cloth, that it be of the juſt ell or due due measure. Emendatio panis & cervisiæ, the assising of bread and beer, or the power of supervising and correcting the weights and measures of them; a privilege granted by the King to lords of manors, which gave occasion to the present office of ale-taster, appointed in every court-leet, and sworn to look to the assise of bread, ale, or beer, within the precincts of that lordship.——Ad nos spectat emendatio panni, panis & cervisiæ, & quicquid Regis est excepto murdredo & latrocinio probato.——Paroch. Antiq. pag. 196.

Emeralds, Exempt from duties, 6 Geo. 2. c. 7.

Emissarius, A steed, a stallion. De emissario, cui insederat, cecidit. Matt. West. sub. anno 1014. —— Ab ipso vulneratus in brachio de suo dejectus est emissario. Ib. sub anno 1079.

Empanel, Impanellare, vel ponere in assisis, & juratis, (from the French panne, i. e. pellis, or of paneau, which denotes as much as pane with us, as a pane of glass, or of a window,) Signifieth the writing and entring the names of a jury into a parchment schedule, or roll of paper, by the sheriff, which he hath summoned to appear for the performance of such publick service as juries are employed in. Cowell. See Impanel.

Emparlance, (Licentia interloquendi) Cometh from the French parler, to talk, and in the Common law signifieth a desire or petition in court, of a day to pause what is best to do. The Civilians call it petitionem induciarum. And Kitch. fol. 200. interprets it in these words, If he imparl, or pray continuance; when praying continuance is spoken interpretative. And fol. 201. he mentions emparlance general and emparlance special; emparlance general seemeth to be that which is made only in one word, and in general terms. Emparlance special, where the party requires a day to deliberate, adding also these words, Salvis omnibus advantagiis tam ad jurisdictionem curiæ quam ad breve & narrationem,——or such like. Britton, cap. 53. useth it for the conference of a jury upon the cause committed to them. And an emparlance or continuance is thus entred, Et modo ad hunc diem, scilicet diem Veneris, &c. isto eodem termino usque ad quem diem prædictus A. habuit licentiam interloquendi, &c. See Imparlance.

Emperor, Is an ancient title of the Kings of England. This appears by a charter of King Edgar, viz. Ego Edgarus Anglorum Basileus, omniumque Regum insularum oceani quæ Britanniam circumjacent, &c. Imperator & Dominus.

Empetit. See Impetit.

Empowement. See Impowement.

Enbrever, (Fr) To write down briefly. Brit. 56.

Encænia, i. e. The dedication of churches, which was always on a Sunday. Encæniare, i. e. To begin a thing, or to put on a new thing, viz. Encæniavit in Wintoniæ urbe arduam turrim. Du Fresne.

Encaustum, i. e. Ink. Quæ propter encausti & chartæ vitium aboleri incipiebat. Fleta, lib. 2 c. 27. par 5.

Encheson, A French word much used in our law books, as in the statute 53 Ed. 3. cap. 3. and signifies as much as the occasion, cause or reason for which any thing is done. So it is used by Staundf. lib. 1. cap. 12. in his description of a dredland. Skene de verb. signif. verbo Encheson, says, That Edward, the first King of England, Westm. 1. c. 6. statutes and ordains, That no man shall be amerced, without reasonable encheson.

Encroachment, or Accroachment, (from the French word accrocher, to pull or draw to) signifies an unlawful gaining upon the rights or possessions of another: For example, If two mens grounds lying together, the one presseth too far upon the other; or if a tenant owe two shillings rent-service to the lord, and the lord taketh three. See Co. 9 Rep. f. 33. Bucknal's case. So it is said, That Hugh Spencer the father, and Hugh Spencer the son, encroached unto them the Royal power and authority. Stat. 1 Ed. 3. in proœm. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Endeavour. Where one who has the use of his reason endeavours to commit felony, &c. he shall be punished by our laws, but not to that degree as if he had actually committed it. As if a man assault another on the highway, in order to a robbery, but takes nothing from him, this is not punished as a felony, because the felony is not accomplished; though as a misdemeanor, it is liable to fine and imprisonment. 3 Inst. 68, 69, 161. 11 Rep. 98. But in this case the offender shall be transported, by stat. 7 Geo. 2. c. 21.

Enemy. (Inimicus,) Is poperly an alien or foreigner, who in a public capacity, and in an hostile manner, invades any kingdom or country; and whether such persons come hither by themselves, or in company with English traitors, they cannot be punished as traitors, but shall be dealt with by martial law. H. P. C. 10, 15. 1 Hawk. 35. But the subjects of a foreign Prince coming into England, and living under the protection of the King, if they take up arms, &c. against the government, they may be punished as traitors, not as alien enemies. 1 Hawk. ib. If a prisoner be rescued by enemies, the goaler is not guilty of an escape; as he would have been if subjects had made the rescue, when he might have a legal remedy against them. 2 Hawk. 130. See Treason.

Endictment. See Indictment.

Endowment, (Dotatio,) Signifieth the giving or assigning of dower to a woman; for which see more in Dower. But it is sometimes by a metaphor used for the setting or severing of a sufficient portion for a vicar towards his perpetual maintenance, when the benefice is appropriated; and so it is used in the statutes, 15 Rich. 2. c. 6. and 4. Hen. 4. c. 12. See Appropriation.

Endowment de la plus belle part, Is where a man dying seised of some lands holden in knight-service, and other some in socage, the widow is assigned her dower rather in the socage lands than those holden in knight-service, as being la plus belle part, the fairer part; of which read Littleton at large, lib. 1. cap. 5.

Energumeni, i. e. Demoniacks, who despising the catholick doctrine, where seduced by the illusions of the Devil. Concil Carthag. 4. c. 91.

Enfant. See Infant.

Enfranchise, Is to make free, to incorporate a man into a society or body politick, or to make one a denizen.

Enfranchisement, (from the French word franchise, libertas,) Signifies the incorporating of a man into any society or body politick: For example, He that by charter is made denizen of England, is said to be enfranchised; and so is he that is made a citizen of London, or other city, or burgess of any town corporate, because he is made partaker of those liberties that appertain to the corporation, whereinto he is enfranchised: So a villain is enfranchised, when he is made free by his lord, and made capable of the benefits belonging to freemen. And when a man is thus enfranchised into a city or borough, he hath a freehold in his freedom for his life; wherefore, whatever shall be the cause of his disfranchisement, ought to be a fact, and not only an endeavouring or enterprizing. What shall be sufficient cause to disfranchise a freeman, and what not; see in Co. lib. 11. Rep. f. 91. Bagg's case.

Englecery, Englechery, Englechire, or Englesherv, in Latin engleceria, Is an old word, signifying nothing more than to be an Englishman. For example; If a man were privily slain or murdered, he was in old time accounted francigena, which word comprehended every alien, until englecery were proved, that is, until it was made manifest that he was an Englishman. Bract. lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 15. fol. 134. The original whereof was this, Canutus the Dane being King of England, having settled his estate in peace, at the request of his lords, discharged the land of his armies, upon condition, that whoever should kill an alien, should be liable to justice; and if the manslayer escaped the town where the man was slain should forfeit sixty-six marks to the King, and if the town was not able, then the hundred should pay: And further, that every man murdered should be accounted francigena, except englecery were proved: And the manner of proving him to be an Englishman was before the coroner, by two men or witnesses who knew the father, and by two women who knew the mother; and this was called englecerie. See Horn's Mirrour of Just. lib. 1. cap. Of the office of coroners, and Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 30. This englecery, for the abuses and troubles that were afterwards perceived to grow by it, was utterly taken away by 14 Ed. 3. c. 4. See Co. lib. 7. fo. 16. Calvin's case.

English. All pleas to be entred in Latin, and debated in Engliſh, 36 Ed. 3. c. 15.

All pleas, records, bonds and proceedings in courts of juſtice in England or Wales, or in the Exchequer in Scotland, ſhall be in Engliſh, and writ in words at length, and in a commmon hand, 4 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 1.

Except known abbreviations and technical words, 6 Geo. 2. c. 14. ſ. 5.

Penalty for writing otherwiſe, 4 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 1. 6 Geo. 2. c. 14. ſ. 4.

Exceptions as to proceedings in the Admiralty certified beyond ſea, 4 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 3. and proceedings in the court of receipt of the Exchequer in Scotland, 6 Geo. 2. c. 6.

Miſtranſlations, variances, and other defects in form, amendable, 4 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 2.

And helped by the ſtatutes of jeofails, 4 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 4.

Engliſhmen, The names of, to be certified into the Chancery who are abroad in Holland and Flanders, &c. and ſhall pay ſuch impoſitions as aliens do. Stat. 14 & 15 Hen. 8. c. 4.

Engravers, Who ſhall invent, deſign and engrave prints, to have the ſole right of printing them for fourteen years, and they ſhall be engraved with the names of the proprietors; and others copying, and ſelling ſuch prints, tho' by varying, &c. without their conſent, ſhall forfeit 5*l.* for every print, and alſo the plates and ſheets, &c. Stat. 8 Geo. 2. c. 13.

Enhance, To raiſe the price of goods or merchandize. See Foreſtalling.

Enheritance. See Inheritance.

Enitia pars. See Eſnecy.

Enpleet was anciently uſed for implead ——May enpleet, and be enpleeted in all courts. Mon. Angl. vol. 2. f. 412. b.

Enquelt. See Inquelt.

Enterver. See Juſervire.

Enſigne, French, Saigne, blooded, let blood.—— Si vicarius enſignè fuerit, duas noctes ſolummodo habebit quietas, communionem non omittat. Stat. Eccleſiæ Litchfield. in Mon. Angl. tom. p. 244. The word was likewiſe uſed ſubſtantively for bleeding, or blood-letting, as——Quod ſolum quatuor vicarii, videlicet duo ex utraque parte chori, quolibet menſe ſolum enſignè recipient in feſtis tam trium quam novem lectionum.——Ib.

Entail, Feodum talliatum, (from the French entail, i. e. ineiſus,) In the Common law is uſed as a ſubſtantive abſtract, ſignifying fee-tail, or fee intailed: Littleton, in the ſecond chapter of his book, deriveth fee-tail, from the verb talliare, (an obſolete and ſuperannuated word, I am ſure, if any,) whereas in truth it muſt come from the French taillie, ſectura, or tailler, ſcindere; and the reaſon is manifeſt, becauſe fee-tail in the law is nothing but fee abridged, ſcanted or curtailed, or limitted, or tied to certain conditions. Taille in Frante is metaphorically taken for a tribute or ſubſidy. Cowell, edit. 1727. Lupanus de magiſtratibus Francorum, lib. 3. cap. Talea. See Eſtate, Fee, Tail.

Entendment. See Intendment.

Enterpleder, (Fr. Enterplaider, Interplacitare,) Signifies in the common law as much as cognitio prejudicialis in the Civil, that is, the diſcuſſing of a point incidentally falling out before the principal cauſe can be determined: for example, two ſeveral perſons being found heirs to land, by two ſeveral offices in the county, the King is brought in doubt to which of them livery ought to be made, and therefore firſt they muſt interplede, that is, formally try between themſelves who is the right heir. Staundf. Prærog. cap. 12. and 11 Bro. tit. Enterpleder, and Co. lib. 7. fol 45.

The cauſe of enterpleader is, for that the defendant ſhall not be charged to two ſeverally where no default is in him. 39 Hen. 6. 36. b. If a ſtatute be acknowledged to a dean and chapter, and delivered to B. till certain conditions performed, though this B. is one of the chapter, yet if the conuſor brings detinue againſt him, he may ſay that it was delivered upon condition, and garniſhment ſhall be granted againſt the dean and chapter. 13 Hen. 4. 8. See Garniſhment.

In detinue of goods, the defendant ſaid, that they were delivered to him upon condition, that if A. performed certain conditions to the plaintiff, that they ſhould be delivered to A. and otherwiſe to the plaintiff, and prayed garniſhment to A. and had it, notwithſtanding that A. be a ſtranger, and had no writ pending thereof. Br. Garniſh. pl. 38. cites 14 Ed. 4. 2.

Detinue of a writing, the defendant alleged delivery to him upon condition, and prayed garniſhment, and had it, and the garniſhee confeſſed the condition, but ſaid, that accord was made between them that he ſhould make eſtate of the manor of D. for life, the remainder to the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff ſhould be there, and then the deed ſhould be delivered to him, and ſaid, that he was always ready, and the plaintiff did not come, and prayed livery of the writing, and becauſe it was accorded in another matter than the condition pleaded by the defendant, and he did not ſhew writing of this accord; and alſo he might have made the eſtate the remainder to the plaintiff, though the plaintiff did not come, therefore the plaintiff recovered by award; for he did not ſay in the negative, that if the plaintiff did not come that no eſtate ſhould be made. Br. Garniſhe, pl. 12. cites 40 Ed. 3. 11.

In detinue of an obligation, the defendant ſaid, that it was delivered by the plaintiff and T. B. upon certain conditions, and he did not know if the conditions were performed or not, and prayed garniſhment againſt T. B. who came upon the ſcire facias, and ſaid, that it appeared by the obligation that he and three others were bound who are not warned; judgment if he ſhall anſwer; & non allocatur; for it may be that the garniſhee only ſealed and delivered the deed, and the other three not, and therefore he was awarded to anſwer. Br. Garniſhe, pl. 16. cites 49 Ed. 3. 13.

In detinue of charters the defendant prayed garniſhment againſt J. N. and had it, and the garniſhee came, and ſaid, that J. P. gave the land to the feme, now plaintiff, and her firſt baron, and to the heirs of the baron, and the baron died without iſſue, and the garniſhee is heir to him, and the donor delivered the evidences to the baron in ſalvation of his inheritance, after whoſe death his feme got the evidences, and took another baron, now plaintiff, who aliened in fee, and delivered the evidences to the defendant, and the garniſhee as couſin and heir of the firſt baron, and ſhewed how couſin, entered for alienation to his diſinheritance, and ſo it belonged to him to have the evidences, &c. And per Laken, the feme ſhall have the charters for term of her life; but Littleton contra; and that by the alienation they belonged to the heir; Laken ſaid, No, Sir, for we cannot have cui in vita after the death of the ſecond baron; but Littleton ſaid, Yet we may have them during the life of the ſecond baron; but by him in this caſe, becauſe the eſtate was made to her and her firſt baron, and to the heirs of the baron without deed, and the ancient charters delivered to the baron alone in ſalvation of his inheritance, the feme can have none of them. Contra of the deed of the ſame eſtate, though it had been delivered to the baron alone; for all that touches his eſtate ſhe ſhall have, and no more. Br. Charters de Terre, pl. 11. cites 34 Hen. 6. 1.

The garniſhment iſſued againſt baron and feme upon ſurmiſe, that both were parties to the bailment, and the baron came, and prayed judgment of the writ of ſcire facias brought againſt him and his feme, &c. yet he was put to anſwer, but with a ſaving to them. Thel. Dig. 200. lib. 13. cap. 12. ſ. 8. cites Mich. 8 Ed. 4. 16.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 9 Abr. tit. Enterpleader. See Interpleader.

Enthera, A cheſt or coffin. Venerabilis Odo corpus B. Wilfridi in editiori (hoc eſt) in majori altari, quod in orientali preſbiterii parte parieti contiguum de impolitis lapidibus & cæmento extructum erat, digniter collocaverit. Eadmerus de æde ſacra Cantuarienſi.

Entierty or Intierty, A kind of French word, ſignifying entireneſs; it is contradiſtinguiſhed in our books from moiety, and denoting the whole. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Entire tenancy, Is contrary to ſeveral tenancy, ſignifying a ſole poſſeſſion in one man, whereas the other ſignifieth joint or common in more. See Bro. Several Tenancy, Tenancy, and the New Book of entries, verbo Entire Tenancy.

Entruſion. See Intruſion.

Entry, (Fr. Entrée, i. e. Introitus, Ingreſſus,) Properly ſignifies the taking poſſeſſion of lands or tenements. See Plowden, Aſſiſe of freſh Force in London, fol. 93. b. It is alſo uſed for a writ of poſſeſſion; for which ſee Ingreſſus: and read Weſt, p. 2. Symbol. tit. Recoveries, ſect. 2, 3. who there ſhews for what it lies, and for what not. Of this Briton, in his 114th chapter, writes to this effect: The writs of entry ſavour much of the right of property; as for example: ſome are to recover cuſtoms and ſervices, in which are contained theſe two words (ſolet & debet,) as the writs Quo jure, Rationabilibus diviſis, Rationabili eſſoverio, with ſuch like. And in this plea of entry there are three degrees: The firſt is, where a man demands lands or tenements of his own ſeiſin after the term expired: The ſecond is, where one demands lands or tenements, let by another, after the term expired: The third, where one demands lands or tenements of that tenant who had entry by one, to whom ſome anceſtor of the plaintiff did let it for a term now expired. According to which degrees the writs are varied. And there is yet a fourth form, which is without degrees, and in caſe of a more remote ſeiſin, whereunto the other three degrees do not extend. The writ in the ſecond degree is called a writ of Entry in le per: The third degree a writ of Entry in le per & cui: and in the fourth form, without theſe degrees, it is called a writ of Entry in le poſt, that is, after diſſeiſin, which ſuch a one made to ſuch a one. And if any writ of entry be conceived out of the right caſe, ſo that one form be brought for another, it is abatable. In theſe four degrees are comprehended all manner of writs of entry, which are without certainty and number. Thus far Briton, by whom you may perceive that theſe words, ſolet & debet, and theſe other, in le per, in le per & cui, and in le poſt, which we meet with many times in books ſhortly and obſcurely mentioned, ſignify nothing but divers forms of this writ applied to the caſe whereupon it is brought; and each form taking its name from the words contained in the writ. Of this read Fitz. Nat. Brev. fol. 193.

This writ of entry differs from an aſſiſe, becauſe it lies for the moſt part againſt him who entred lawfully, but holds againſt law, whereas an aſſiſe lies againſt him who unlawfully diſſeiſed: yet ſometimes a writ of entry lies upon an intruſion. Reg. of Writs, fol. 233. b. See the New Book of Entries, verbo Entre Brevis, fol. 254. col. 3. There is alſo a writ of entry in the nature of an aſſiſe. Of this writ in all its degrees, ſee Fleta, lib. 5. ca. 34. & ſeq. There are five things which put the writ of entry out of the degrees, viz. Intruſion, ſucceſſion, diſſeiſin upon diſſeiſin, judgment, and eſcheat. 1. Intruſion is where the diſſeiſor dies ſeiſed, and a ſtranger abates. 2. Succeſſion is when the diſſeiſor is a man of religion, and dies, or is depoſed, and his ſucceſſer enters. 3. Diſſeiſin upon diſſeiſin is when the diſſeiſor is diſſeiſed by another. 4. Judgment is when one recovers againſt a diſſeiſor. 5. Eſcheat is when the diſſeiſor dies without heir, or doth commit felony, whereby he is attainted, by which the lord enters as in his eſcheat. In all theſe caſes the diſſeiſee or his heir ſhall not have a writ of entry within the degrees of the per, but in the poſt; becauſe in thoſe caſes they are not in by deſcent, nor by purchaſe. Cowel, edit. 1727.

An entry is where a man enters perſonally, or another by his order, into any lands, tenements or hereditaments to which he has a title of entry, and takes poſſeſſion of them. Terms de la Ley, tit. Entry. Lil. Conv. 131.

A property gained by entry, is where a man finds a piece of land that no other poſſeſſes, or hath title unto, and he that ſo finds enters; this entry gaineth a property. Bac. L. Tracts, p. 126.

This law ſeems to be derived from this text, Terra dedit filiis hominum, which is to be underſtood of thoſe who will till and manure it, and ſo make it yield fruit. Ibid.

But this manner of gaining lands was in the firſt days, and is not now of uſe in England; for that by the conqueſt, all the lands of this nation were in the Conqueror's hands, and appropriated unto him; except religious and church lands, and the lands in Kent, which by compoſition were left to the former owners, as the Conqueror found them; ſo that no man, but the biſhopricks, churches, and the men of Kent, can at this day make any greater title than from the conqueſt, to any lands in England; and lands poſſeſſed without any ſuch title, are in the crown, and not in him that firſt enters, as it is by land left by the ſea; this land belongs to the King, and not to him that has the land next adjoining, which was the ancient ſea-banks. This is to be underſtood of the inheritance of lands, viz. that the inheritance cannot be gained by the firſt entry. Bac. L. Tracts, p. 126.

But an eſtate for another man's life by our law may at this day be gotten by entry: As a man called A. having land conveyed unto him for the life of B. dieth without making any eſtate of it, there, whoſoever firſt enters into the land after the deceaſe of A. getteth the property in the land for the time of the continuance of the eſtate which was granted to A. for the life of B. which B. yet liveth, and therefore the ſaid land cannot revert till B. dies. And to the heir of A. it cannot go, for that it is not any eſtate of inheritance, but only an eſtate for another man's life; which is not deſcendible to the heir, except he be ſpecially named in the grant, viz. to him and his heirs. As for the executors of A. they cannot have it, for it is not an eſtate teſtamentary, that it ſhould go to the executors as goods and chattels ſhould; ſo as in truth no man can intitle himſelf unto thoſe lands; and therefore the law preferreth him that firſt enters, and he is called occupans, and ſhall hold it during the life of B. but muſt pay the rent, perform the conditions, and do no waſte, and he may by deed aſſign it over to whom he pleaſes in his life-time; but if he dies before he aſſign it over, then it ſhall go again to whomſoever firſt entreth and holdeth; and ſo all the life of B. ſo often as it ſhall happen. Ibid. 126, 127.

Likewiſe, if any man does wrongfully enter into another man's poſſeſſion, and put the right owner of the freehold and inheritance from it; he thereby gets the freehold and inheritance by diſſeiſin, and may hold it againſt all men, but him that hath right, and his heirs; and is called a diſſeiſor. Bac. L. Tracts, p. 127.

Or if any one dies ſeiſed of lands, and before his heir doth enter, one that has no right does enter into the lands, and holds them from the right heir, he is called an abator, and is lawful owner againſt all men but the right heir. Ibid.

And if ſuch perſon, abator or diſſeiſor (ſo as the diſſeiſor has quiet poſſeſſion five years next after the diſſeiſin) do continue their poſſeſſion, and die ſeiſed, and the land deſcend to his heir, they have gained the right to the poſſeſſion of the land againſt him that hath right, till he recover it by fit action at the Common law. And if it be not ſued for at the Common law within ſix years after the diſſeiſin, or abatement committed, the right owner has loſt his right by that negligence. Bac. L. Tracts, p. 127.

And if a man has divers children, and the elder, being a baſtard, does enter into the land, and enjoyeth it quietly during his life, and dies thereof ſo ſeiſed, his heirs ſhall hold the land againſt all the lawful children, and their iſſues. Ibid.

1. In what caſes entry is congeable, or lawful; and what ſhall be deemed an entry to reduce an eſtate.

2. Of entry for a forfeiture, and for the breach of a condition.

1. In what caſes entry is congeable, or lawful; and what ſhall be deemed an entry to reduce an eſtate.

If the conuſee of a ſtatute ſues an extent, by which the lands of the conuſor are ſeiſed into the hands of the King, the conuſee after a liberate is ſued (but not before) may enter into the land before the liberate executed, for this liberate is a ſufficient warrant for his entry. 2 Danv. Abr. 785.

After

After an extent upon a ſtatute-merchant, ſtaple or recognizance returned, the conuſee may enter without any delivery by the ſheriff, by force of the liberate. 2 Inſt. 678. but by 1 Vent. 41. in an execution upon a ſtatute-merchant there is no need of a liberate, as there is upon a ſtatute-ſtaple, for in caſe of a ſtatute-ſtaple the conuſee can bring no ejectment before the liberate.

A liberate made to the ſheriff to deliver the land to himſelf is void, and an entry in that caſe is void. 2 Danv. Abr. 785.

If the King ſeiſes certain lands, upon which an ouſter le mayn is ſued to the eſcheator to deliver this land to the party again, he may after enter into the land before any execution of the writ, becauſe there is a judgment given before, that the hands of the King ſhall be removed. Ibid.

Upon an elegit, if the ſheriff takes an inquiſition, tho' the ſheriff does not deliver the land to the party plaintiff, yet the plaintiff may enter preſently after the inquiſition taken, before the return to the court, without any liberate to him directed. Ibid. 786.

If a judgment be reverſed in a writ of error againſt the heir of the recoverer, the demandant may enter upon him without more, though he be in by deſcent, but he cannot upon the tertenant without a ſcire facias. 3 Danv. Abr. 298, 299.

If a man recovers in a real action, and the tenant dies before execution, yet the demandant may enter upon the heir, becauſe the record binds his title: So though it be of lands in tail. Ibid. 299. Otherwiſe in a falſe or feint action. Co. Litt. 361. b.

So if a man recovers in a real action, though there be two, three or four deſcents before his entry, yet he may enter upon thoſe to whom deſcended, becauſe the recovery binds the blood, and diſproves the title. 3 Danv. Abr. 299.

So if after a recovery in a real action, and before execution, a ſtranger enters and dies ſeiſed, yet the recoveror may enter upon his heir. Ibid.

If a man recov . in a writ of right of advowſon, and after, at an avo.ance, a ſtranger preſents, yet when the church is void again, the recoverer may preſent. Ibid.

If there be a recovery in an ejectment, the plaintiff may enter and execute his judgment, and the aſſiſtance of the ſheriff is only to keep the peace. Far. 66, 69.

He that recovers may as well enter after the year as within the year againſt him, upon whom the recovery was had. 3 Danv. Abr. 299.

But he cannot enter upon a ſtranger to the recovery after the year. Ibid.

He cannot enter after a deſcent caſt. Ibid. and Fitz. Entry Congeable 35.

In all caſes where the writ demands lands, rent, or other thing in certain, the demandant after judgment may enter, or diſtrain before any ſeiſin delivered to him by the ſheriff. Co. Litt. 34. b.

But in dower where the writ demands nothing in certain, the demandant, after judgment cannot enter or diſtrain till execution ſued, upon which the ſheriff delivers the third part in certain. Ibid.

So where the wife of one tenant in common demands the third part of a moiety, ſhe cannot, after judgment, enter till the ſheriff has delivered her the third part, though it is thereby reduced to no more certainty than it was. Ibid.

If one recovers in aſſiſe, or aſſiſe of mort d'anceſtor, he may enter and execute the judgment without being put in ſeiſin by the view of the jury. Moor 54. pl. 156. But it was ſaid in this caſe, that if he be again diſſeiſed, he ſhall not have a redisſeiſin but a poſt diſſeiſin. Ibid.

An entry ſhall be intended to be a good execution of a recovery without a writ of ſeiſin. T. Jones 20.

There is a difference between a feoffment and an entry; for a man may make a feoffment of lands in another county, and make livery within the view, although he might enter peaceably to make livery. Pollex 47. But a man cannot make an entry into the lands, within the view, where he may actually enter without fear; for it is one thing to inveſt, and another to deveſt. Co. Litt. 252. a. b.

If the diſſeiſee enters into the land, and continues in it with the diſſeiſor, and manures it with him, claiming nothing of his firſt eſtate, yet this is an entry that will reduce his firſt eſtate. 2 Danv. Abr. 790.

And if he enters and takes the profits as leſſee at will of the diſſeiſor, or in any manner, this is an entry, and reduces his eſtate. Ibid.

And if he commands a ſtranger to put the cattle of ſuch ſtranger into the land to feed them, this is an entry in law into the land. Ibid.

If A. leaſes to B. for years, the remainder to C. in fee, and A. comes upon the land to make livery, and B. to take it, this ſhall not be ſaid any entry of B. to veſt the actual poſſeſſion in him till livery made, for then the remainder would be void, which would be againſt the intention of the parties. Co. Litt. 49. b.

If an entry is made to a ſpecial purpoſe, ſuch entry ſhall be guided by the intent, and tied up to that ſpecial purpoſe: As if it is agreed between diſſeiſor and diſſeiſee, that the diſſeiſee ſhall releaſe all his right to the deſſeiſor upon the land, and accordingly the diſſeiſee enters into the land, and delivers a releaſe; there this is a good releaſe; and the entry of the diſſeiſee being for this purpoſe, does not avoid the diſſeiſin. Co. Litt. 49. b. Lil. Conv. 131.

But if the diſſeiſor makes a feoffment to the diſſeiſee and others, there, though the diſſeiſee comes to take the livery, yet when the livery is made, the diſſeiſee is remitted. Co. Litt. 49. b.

If the diſſeiſee comes upon the land and puts his foot in, but takes no profits, but the diſſeiſor ouſts him, this entry does not ſettle any eſtate in him (at the election of the diſſeiſee, as it ſeems) for the diſſeiſee may have an aſſiſe of the firſt diſſeiſin. 2 Danv. Abr. 791.

If I have a houſe and land adjoining to a plot of land in queſtion between me and another, and I ſtand upon one piece of the ſtone wall, which is my own ſoil, and put my hand through a wall made of lime and laths which ſtands upon the land in queſtion, and there deliver a leaſe ſealed to try the title, this is a good entry, though I do not come within the plot in queſtion. Ibid.

If a baſtard eigne after his father's death enters, and invites the mulier puiſne to ſee the houſe, pictures, &c. or to dine, hunt, hawk or ſport with him, or the like, upon the land accordingly, this is no interruption of the poſſeſſion of the baſtard, becauſe he came by his conſent, ſo that the coming upon the land could be no treſpaſs. Co. Litt. 245. b. 368. a.

But if the mulier of his own head comes upon the ground, and cuts down a tree, or digs the ſoil, or takes the profits, theſe are interruptions; for rather than the baſtard ſhall puniſh him in an action of treſpaſs, theſe acts ſhall amount to an entry in law. Ibid. 245. b.

So if a mulier puts his beaſts into the grounds, or commands a ſtranger to put in his beaſts, theſe acts without words amount to an entry, for acts without words may make an entry, but words without an act, viz. entry on the land, &c. cannot. Ibid. See 3 Leon. 144.

If the diſſeiſor requeſt the diſſeiſee to go to the cellar, and ſee the antiquity of, &c. this is no entry to abate an aſſiſe brought by the diſſeiſee. Pl. Com. 93.

So if the diſſeiſee, ſeeing ſeveral cut wood upon the land, goes upon the land and admoniſhes them at their peril to deſiſt; this is no entry to abate his writ. Ibid. Bulſt. 9. 2 Brownl. 231, 239.

Such entry as will abate a writ ought to be unto the thing demanded, and with an intent to have the thing demanded. 2 Bulſt. 9. 2 Brownl. 231, 235.

Where the beaſts of him that had a right ſtrayed of their own accord into the land, and it was held no entry. See Leon. 110.

If the office of a keeper of a park is granted to one, who is thereof diſſeiſed, and he brings an aſſiſe, and, pending his aſſiſe, enters into the park, kills a ſtag, and takes a ſhoulder of it for his fee; this is no ſuch entry as to abate his writ, for that his entry was not as an officer ad cuſtodiend', but as a wrong-doer to kill, &c. Bulſt. 4, 8, 9.

If

If a man has common in J. S.'s lands, between 25th of March and 29th of September, and he brings an aſſiſe for it, and at Chriſtmas puts in his beaſts, this is no entry to abate his writ; for it cannot be intended for the ſame common. 2 Brownl. 238.

Entry ſhall not be of force to avoid a fine, &c. unleſs an action be commenced within a year, &c. Stat. 4 Ann. c. 16. ſect. 16.

2. Of entry for a forfeiture, and for the breach of a condition.

If leſſee for life aliens for life, the remainder over, and he in remainder enters after the death of the leſſee, the firſt leſſor may enter on him for the forfeiture; for by agreement to the remainder, he agreed to the whole, and ſo a party. 3 Danv. Abr. 227.

If the leſſor may enter on the alienee of his leſſee, or any who is party to the forfeiture. Ibid.

So he may enter on the alienee of the alienee, or any that has the land, altho' he be not party to the forfeiture. 3 Danv. Abr. 228.

If a leſſee for life gives in tail, the remainder in fee to another, and afterwards he in remainder dies, and afterwards the donee dies without iſſue, the leſſor may enter on the heir of him in remainder; for by his entry he agrees to the diſinheritance made by the alienation. Ibid.

If tenant for life gives it in tail, and the donee dies, the leſſor may enter on the donor for the forfeiture. Ibid.

Where a tenant for life makes a feoffment in fee, a ſtranger may enter for a forfeiture in the name of the reverſioner, and thereby the eſtate ſhall be in him. Co. Litt. 245. a.

If a leſſee for life aliens in fee and dies, he in remainder or reverſion may enter after the death of the leſſee. 3 Danv. Abr. 228.

If tenant for life of an advowſon in groſs levies a fine come ceo, &c. of it, and before any claim made by him in reverſion,, the church becomes void; afterwards he in reverſion ſhall not have advantage of the forfeiture as to the preſent preſentation, becauſe before election made by him in reverſion, the eſtate of the leſſee was not defeated nor deſtroyed, which election ought to be by claim; and then it was a chattel veſted in the leſſee before the election made by him in reverſion, which cannot be defeated afterwards by the preſentation of him in reverſion. Ibid.

If A. being tenant for life, leaſes to B. for his life, and B. dies, and A. re-enters; yet the forfeiture remains, and the firſt leſſor may enter. Co. Litt. 252. a.

If tenant for life ſuffers a common recovery, and execution is thereupon had, yet he in remainder may enter; for being a forfeiture, the ſuing execution will not prevent him. Hill. 32 Eliz. Co. 14, 15. adjudged; though it appeared the recovery was ſuffered before the ſtatute of 14 Eliz.

If a man leaſes two mills, upon condition that if the leſſee leaſes them, or aſſigns either of them to another, it ſhall be lawful for him to re-enter; if he leaſes one, the leſſor may enter into both, for the condition goes to both. 2 Danv. Abr. 121.

If A. leaſes a meſſuage for years, rendring rent, with a condition of re-entry for non-payment; and the leſſee aſſigns his term in part to one, and in another part to another, and retains part himſelf, and after A. by fine grants the reverſion of the whole: if rent be in arrear, afterwards the grantee may enter into all the meſſuage; for the leſſee, by apportionment of the land, cannot deſtroy the condition, as the leſſor may by grant of part of the reverſion Palm. 382.

If there be two leſſees for years, upon condition that they, nor either of them, ſhall not alien without aſſent of the leſſor, and they make partition; and afterwards one aliens without aſſent of the leſſor; this is a forfeiture of the whole. Cro. El. 163.

Where an actual entry ought to be made to avoid a condition, &c. the confeſſion of leaſe, entry, and ouſter will not do. Vent. 332. Saund. 319. Sid. 223. Mod. 10. Vent. 42. 3 Keb. 218. Salk. 246. Skin. 424.

The confeſſion of leaſe, entry and ouſter, confeſſes an entry for condition broken. Ld. Raym. 750.

The ſucceſſor of a biſhop, for a breach of condition in time of his predeceſſor, or in time of vacation, may enter. Moor. 52. pl. 152.

If a feoffment be made upon condition to enfeoff a ſtranger, and the feoffee does not perform it, the ſtranger cannot enter for the breach of it, becauſe he is a ſtranger to the condition; but in this caſe the feoffor himſelf may enter for the condition, broke. 2 Danv. Abr. 122.

If the condition of a feoffment be to enfeoff J. S. and his heirs, and he refuſes, the feoffor may re-enter; for by the expreſs intent of the condition, the feoffee ſhould not have any benefit, but only an inſtrument to convey over the land. Co. Litt. 209. a. Leon. 266. 2 Leon. 222. Roll. Abr. 452. pl. 4.

But if the condition had been to make a gift in tail, or to grant a rent-charge to J. S. and he refuſed, the feoffor ſhould not re-enter, becauſe the feoffor was to retain the land. Co. Litt. 209. a. Leon. 266. 2 Leon. 222. Roll. Abr. 452.

He in remainder cannot enter for a condition broke by the particular eſtate. 2 Danv. Abr. 122.

If the King's tenant aliens upon condition, and dies, his heir in ward to the King for other land, the King may enter in the right of the heir for the condition broke. Ibid.

If a man leaſes for years, upon condition if the rent be in arrear, that the leaſe ſhall ceaſe, and after grants over the reverſion; and after the condition is broke, the grantee of the reverſion may enter into the land, for the leaſe is determined before entry, by the breach of the condition. Ibid.

Otherwiſe, if a leaſe for life, becauſe a freehold cannot ceaſe before entry. Co. Litt. 214. b. 2 Leon. 134. Roll. Rep. 360.

If a man ſeiſed of lands in right of his wife makes a feoffment in fee upon condition, and dies; and after the condition is broke, the heir of the huſband ſhall enter; for tho' no right deſcended to him, yet the title of entry by force of the condition, which was created upon the feoffment, and reſerved to the feoffor and his heirs, deſcended. 8 Co. 43. b. 44. a.

So if a man makes a feoffment in fee of lands in Borough-Engliſh, &c. the heir at Common law ſhall enter. Godb. 3. Q. If the younger ſon after ſhall enter upon him.

If a man ſeiſed in fee makes a leaſe for life, rendring rent, and for default of payment, a re-entry, &c. and after dies without heir, living the tenant for life: though the lord by eſcheat ſhall have the rent, as incident to the reverſion, and may diſtrain for it, yet he cannot enter, &c. Litt. ſ. 348. Co. Litt. 215. b.

A bailiff, without particular authority for that purpoſe, cannot enter for non-payment of rent. Heb. 154. 5 Rep. 76. a.

An entry by a ſtranger without authority is good to take advantage of a condition, if it be aſſented to afterwards. 2 Stran. 1128.

If A. makes a feoffment of land to J. S. in fee, upon condition that if he pays 10*l.* to J. S. the firſt of May, 6 Car. that it ſhall be lawful for him to re-enter, and after he pays the 10*l.* before the day, viz. the firſt of April, and J. S. accepts it: though this is a good performance of the condition, inaſmuch as payment before the day is payment at the day, yet A. cannot re-enter and reveſt his old eſtate by force of the condition, till the firſt of May, becauſe the condition does not give him power to re-enter till the ſaid day. 2 Danv. Abr. 121.

A rent-charge is not a perſonal duty to be demanded of the perſon, but upon the land, and a diſtreſs is both a demand and a diſtreſs; and the party may demand it at any time. Lil. Conv. 137.

Where a rent is granted, payable at a certain day, if it be behind and unpaid, the grantee ſhall diſtrain for it; the grantee need not demand it at the day, but at any time after it is due, which will be ſufficient; for the

After an extent upon a ſtatute-merchant, ſtaple or recognizance returned, the conuſee may enter without any delivery by the ſheriff, by force of the liberate. 2 Inſt. 678. but by 1 Vent. 41. in an execution upon a ſtatute-merchant there is no need of a liberate, as there is upon a ſtatute-ſtaple, for in caſe of a ſtatute-ſtaple the conuſee can bring no ejectment before the liberate.

A liberate made to the ſheriff to deliver the land to himſelf is void, and an entry in that caſe is void. 2 Danv. Abr. 785.

If the King ſeiſes certain lands, upon which an euſter le mayn is ſued to the eſcheator to deliver this land to the party again, he may after enter into the land before any execution of the writ, becauſe there is a judgment given before, that the hands of the King ſhall be removed. Ibid.

Upon an elegit, if the ſheriff takes an inquiſition, tho' the ſheriff does not deliver the land to the party plaintiff, yet the plaintiff may enter preſently after the inquiſition taken, before the return to the court, without any liberate to him directed. Ibid. 786.

If a judgment be reverſed in a writ of error againſt the heir of the recoverer, the demandant may enter upon him without more, though he be in by deſcent, but he cannot upon the tertenant without a ſcire facias. 3 Danv. Abr. 298, 299.

If a man recovers in a real action, and the tenant dies before execution, yet the demandant may enter upon the heir, becauſe the record binds his title: So though it be of lands in tail. Ibid. 299. Otherwiſe in a falſe or feint action. Co. Litt. 361. b.

So if a man recovers in a real action, though there be two, three or four deſcents before his entry, yet he may enter upon thoſe to whom deſcended, becauſe the recovery binds the blood, and diſproves the title. 3 Danv. Abr. 299.

So if after a recovery in a real action, and before execution, a ſtranger enters and dies ſeiſed, yet the recoveror may enter upon his heir. Ibid.

If a man recov . in a writ of right of advowſon, and after, at an avo ance, a ſtranger preſents, yet when the church is void again, the recoverer may preſent. Ibid.

If there be a recovery in an ejectment, the plaintiff may enter and execute his judgment, and the aſſiſtance of the ſheriff is only to keep the peace. Far. 66, 69.

He that recovers may as well enter after the year as within the year againſt him, upon whom the recovery was had. 3 Danv. Abr. 299.

But he cannot enter upon a ſtranger to the recovery after the year. Ibid.

He cannot enter after a deſcent caſt. Ibid. and Fitz. Entry Congeable 35.

In all caſes where the writ demands lands, rent, or other thing in certain, the demandant after judgment may enter, or diſtrain before any ſeiſin delivered to him by the ſheriff. Co. Litt. 34. b.

But in dower where the writ demands nothing in certain, the demandant, after judgment cannot enter or diſtrain till execution ſued, upon which the ſheriff delivers the third part in certain. Ibid.

So where the wife of one tenant in common demands the third part of a moiety, ſhe cannot, after judgment, enter till the ſheriff has delivered her the third part, though it is thereby reduced to no more certainty than it was. Ibid.

If one recovers in aſſiſe, or aſſiſe of mort d'anceſtor, he may enter and execute the judgment without being put in ſeiſin by the view of the jury. Moor 54. pl. 156. But it was ſaid in this caſe, that if he be again diſſeiſed, he ſhall not have a redisſeiſin but a poſt diſſciſin. Ibid.

An entry ſhall be intended to be a good execution of a recovery without a writ of ſeiſin. T. Jones 20.

There is a difference between a feoffment and an entry; for a man may make a feoffment of lands in another county, and make livery within the view, although he might enter peaceably to make livery. Pollex 47. But a man cannot make an entry into the lands, within the view, where he may actually enter without fear; for it is one thing to inveſt, and another to deveſt: Co. Litt. 252. a. b.

If the diſſeiſee enters into the land, and continues in it with the diſſeiſor, and manures it with him, claiming nothing of his firſt eſtate, yet this is an entry that will reduce his firſt eſtate. 2 Danv. Abr. 790.

And if he enters and takes the profits as leſſee at will of the diſſeiſor, or in any manner, this is an entry, and reduces his eſtate. Ibid.

And if he commands a ſtranger to put the cattle of ſuch ſtranger into the land to feed them, this is an entry in law into the land. Ibid.

If A. leaſes to B. for years, the remainder to C. in fee, and A. comes upon the land to make livery, and B. to take it, this ſhall not be ſaid any entry of B. to veſt the actual poſſeſſion in him till livery made, for then the remainder would be void, which would be againſt the intention of the parties. Co. Litt. 49. b.

If an entry is made to a ſpecial purpoſe, ſuch entry ſhall be guided by the intent, and tied up to that ſpecial purpoſe: As if it is agreed between diſſeiſor and diſſeiſee, that the diſſeiſee ſhall releaſe all his right to the deſſeiſor upon the land, and accordingly the diſſeiſee enters into the land, and delivers a releaſe; there this is a good releaſe; and the entry of the diſſeiſee being for this purpoſe, does not avoid the diſſeiſin. Co. Litt. 49. b. Lil. Conv. 131.

But if the diſſeiſor makes a feoffment to the diſſeiſee and others, there, though the diſſeiſee comes to take the livery, yet when the livery is made, the diſſeiſee is remitted. Co. Litt. 49. b.

If the diſſeiſee comes upon the land and puts his foot in, but takes no profits, but the diſſeiſor ouſts him, this entry does not ſettle any eſtate in him (at the election of the diſſeiſee, as it ſeems) for the diſſeiſee may have an aſſiſe of the firſt diſſeiſin. 2 Danv. Abr. 791.

If I have a houſe and land adjoining to a plot of land in queſtion between me and another, and I ſtand upon one piece of the ſtone wall, which is my own ſoil, and put my hand through a wall made of lime and laths which ſtands upon the land in queſtion, and there deliver a leaſe ſealed to try the title, this is a good entry, though I do not come within the plot in queſtion. Ibid.

If a baſtard eigne after his father's death enters, and invites the mulier puiſne to ſee the houſe, pictures, &c. or to dine, hunt, hawk or ſport with him, or the like, upon the land accordingly, this is no interruption of the poſſeſſion of the baſtard, becauſe he came by his conſent, ſo that the coming upon the land could be no treſpaſs. Co. Litt. 245. b. 368. a.

But if the mulier of his own head comes upon the ground, and cuts down a tree, or digs the ſoil, or takes the profits, theſe are interruptions; for rather than the baſtard ſhall puniſh him in an action of treſpaſs, theſe acts ſhall amount to an entry in law. Ibid. 245. b.

So if a mulier puts his beaſts into the grounds, or commands a ſtranger to put in his beaſts, theſe acts without words amount to an entry, for acts without words may make an entry, but words without an act, viz. entry on the land, &c. cannot. Ibid. See 3 Leon. 144.

If the diſſeiſor requeſt the diſſeiſee to go to the cellar, and ſee the antiquity of, &c. this is no entry to abate an aſſiſe brought by the diſſeiſee. Pl. Com. 93.

So if the diſſeiſee, ſeeing ſeveral cut wood upon the land, goes upon the land and admoniſhes them at their peril to deſiſt; this is no entry to abate his writ. Ibid. Bulſt. 9. 2 Brownl. 231, 239.

Such entry as will abate a writ ought to be unto the thing demanded, and with an intent to have the thing demanded. 2 Bulſt. 9. 2 Brownl. 231, 235.

Where the beaſts of him that had a right ſtrayed of their own accord into the land, and it was held no entry. See Leon. 110.

If the office of a keeper of a park is granted to one, who is thereof diſſeiſed, and he brings an aſſiſe, and, pending his aſſiſe, enters into the park, kills a ſtag, and takes a ſhoulder of it for his fee; this is no ſuch entry as to abate his writ, for that his entry was not as an officer ad cuſtodiend', but as a wrong-doer to kill, &c. Bulſt. 4, 8, 9.

If

If a man has common in J. S.'s lands, between 25th of March and 29th of September, and he brings an aſſiſe for it, and at Chriſtmas puts in his beaſts, this is no entry to abate his writ; for it cannot be intended for the ſame common. 2 Brownl. 238.

Entry ſhall not be of force to avoid a fine, &c. unleſs an action be commenced within a year, &c. Stat. 4 Ann. c. 16. ſect. 16.

2. Of entry for a forfeiture, and for the breach of a condition.

If leſſee for life aliens for life, the remainder over, and he in remainder enters after the death of the leſſee, the firſt leſſor may enter on him for the forfeiture; for by agreement to the remainder, he agreed to the whole, and ſo a party. 3 Danv. Abr. 227.

If the leſſor may enter on the alienee of his leſſee, or any who is party to the forfeiture. Ibid.

So he may enter on the alienee of the alienee, or any that has the land, altho' he be not party to the forfeiture. 3 Danv. Abr. 228.

If a leſſee for life gives in tail, the remainder in fee to another, and afterwards he in remainder dies, and afterwards the donee dies without iſſue, the leſſor may enter on the heir of him in remainder; for by his entry he agrees to the diſinheritance made by the alienation. Ibid.

If tenant for life gives it in tail, and the donee dies, the leſſor may enter on the donor for the forfeiture. Ibid.

Where a tenant for life makes a feoffment in fee, a ſtranger may enter for a forfeiture in the name of the reverſioner, and thereby the eſtate ſhall be in him. Co. Litt. 245. a.

If a leſſee for life aliens in fee and dies, he in remainder or reverſion may enter after the death of the leſſee. 3 Danv. Abr. 228.

If tenant for life of an advowſon in groſs levies a fine come ceo, &c. of it, and before any claim made by him in reverſion,, the church becomes void; afterwards he in reverſion ſhall not have advantage of the forfeiture as to the preſent preſentation, becauſe before election made by him in reverſion, the eſtate of the leſſee was not defeated nor deſtroyed, which election ought to be by claim; and then it was a chattel veſted in the leſſee before the election made by him in reverſion, which cannot be defeated afterwards by the preſentation of him in reverſion. Ibid.

If A. being tenant for life, leaſes to B. for his life, and B. dies, and A. re-enters; yet the forfeiture remains, and the firſt leſſor may enter. Co. Litt. 252. a.

If tenant for life ſuffers a common recovery, and execution is thereupon had, yet he in remainder may enter; for being a forfeiture, the ſuing execution will not prevent him. Hill. 32 Eliz. Co. 14, 15. adjudged; though it appeared the recovery was ſuffered before the ſtatute of 14 Eliz.

If a man leaſes two mills, upon condition that if the leſſee leaſes them, or aſſigns either of them to another, it ſhall be lawful for him to re-enter; if he leaſes one, the leſſor may enter into both, for the condition goes to both. 2 Danv. Abr. 121.

If A. leaſes a meſſuage for years, rendring rent, with a condition of re-entry for non-payment; and the leſſee aſſigns his term in part to one, and in another part to another, and retains part himſelf, and after A. by fine grants the reverſion of the whole: if rent be in arrear, afterwards the grantee may enter into all the meſſuage; for the leſſee, by apportionment of the land, cannot deſtroy the condition, as the leſſor may by grant of part of the reverſion Palm. 382.

If there be two leſſees for years, upon condition that they, nor either of them, ſhall not alien without aſſent of the leſſor, and they make partition; and afterwards one aliens without aſſent of the leſſor; this is a forfeiture of the whole. Cro. El. 163.

Where an actual entry ought to be made to avoid a condition, &c. the confeſſion of leaſe, entry, and ouſter will not do. Vent. 332. Saund. 319. Sid. 223. Mod. 10. Vent. 42. 3 Keb. 218. Salk. 246. Skin. 424.

The confeſſion of leaſe, entry and ouſter, confeſſes an entry for condition broken. Ld. Raym. 750.

The ſucceſſor of a biſhop, for a breach of condition in time of his predeceſſor, or in time of vacation, may enter. Moor. 52. pl. 152.

If a feoffment be made upon condition to enfeoff a ſtranger, and the feoffee does not perform it, the ſtranger cannot enter for the breach of it, becauſe he is a ſtranger to the condition; but in this caſe the feoffor himſelf may enter for the condition, broke. 2 Danv. Abr. 122.

If the condition of a feoffment be to enfeoff J. S. and his heirs, and he refuſes, the feoffor may re-enter; for by the expreſs intent of the condition, the feoffee ſhould not have any benefit, but only an inſtrument to convey over the land. Co. Litt. 209. a. Leon. 266. 2 Leon. 222. Roll. Abr. 452. pl. 4.

But if the condition had been to make a gift in tail, or to grant a rent-charge to J. S. and he refuſed, the feoffor ſhould not re-enter, becauſe the feoffor was to retain the land. Co. Litt. 209. a. Leon. 266. 2 Leon. 222. Roll. Abr. 452.

He in remainder cannot enter for a condition broke by the particular eſtate. 2 Danv. Abr. 122.

If the King's tenant aliens upon condition, and dies, his heir in ward to the King for other land, the King may enter in the right of the heir for the condition broke. Ibid.

If a man leaſes for years, upon condition if the rent be in arrear, that the leaſe ſhall ceaſe, and after grants over the reverſion; and after the condition is broke, the grantee of the reverſion may enter into the land, for the leaſe is determined before entry, by the breach of the condition. Ibid.

Otherwiſe, if a leaſe for life, becauſe a freehold cannot ceaſe before entry. Co. Litt. 214. b. 2 Leon. 134. Roll. Rep. 360.

If a man ſeiſed of lands in right of his wife makes a feoffment in fee upon condition, and dies; and after the condition is broke, the heir of the huſband ſhall enter; for tho' no right deſcended to him, yet the title of entry by force of the condition, which was created upon the feoffment, and reſerved to the feoffor and his heirs, deſcended. 8 Co. 43. b. 44. a.

So if a man makes a feoffment in fee of lands in Borough-Engliſh, &c. the heir at Common law ſhall enter. Godb. 3. Q. If the younger ſon after ſhall enter upon him.

If a man ſeiſed in fee makes a leaſe for life, rendring rent, and for default of payment, a re-entry, &c. and after dies without heir, living the tenant for life: though the lord by eſcheat ſhall have the rent, as incident to the reverſion, and may diſtrain for it, yet he cannot enter, &c. Litt. ſ. 348. Co. Litt. 215. b.

A bailiff, without particular authority for that purpoſe, cannot enter for non-payment of rent. Heb. 154. 5 Rep. 76. a.

An entry by a ſtranger without authority is good to take advantage of a condition, if it be aſſented to afterwards. 2 Stran. 1128.

If A. makes a feoffment of land to J. S. in fee, upon condition that if he pays 10*l.* to J. S. the firſt of May, 6 Car. that it ſhall be lawful for him to re-enter, and after he pays the 10*l.* before the day, viz. the firſt of April, and J. S. accepts it: though this is a good performance of the condition, inaſmuch as payment before the day is payment at the day, yet A. cannot re-enter and reveſt his old eſtate by force of the condition, till the firſt of May, becauſe the condition does not give him power to re-enter till the ſaid day. 2 Danv. Abr. 121.

A rent-charge is not a perſonal duty to be demanded of the perſon, but upon the land, and a diſtreſs is both a demand and a diſtreſs; and the party may demand it at any time. Lil. Conv. 137.

Where a rent is granted, payable at a certain day, if it be behind and unpaid, the grantee ſhall diſtrain for it; the grantee need not demand it at the day, but at any time after it is due, which will be ſufficient; for the grantee may demand it when he will, to enable him to diſtrain. Co. Litt. 202. a.

But where a penalty or re-entry is joined to the thing, you cannot take advantage of the pain or forfeiture without a demand at the very time preſixt. Hob. 207, 331. Hutt 13, 24, 42, 114. 7 Co. 56. b. 2 Roll. Abr. 42. Moor 883. Dyer 51. Plowd. 70.

Where a feoffment is made reſerving a rent upon condition, that if the rent is behind, it ſhall be lawful for the feoffor and his heirs to enter: Now, if the rent be behind, the feoffor or his heirs may enter and ouſt the feoffee. Lit. ſ. 335. Co. Lit. 201. b. 202. a. Hob. 207, 331. 5 Co. 56. Dyer 51.

If the words of a leaſe for years be, that the leaſe ſhould be void, yet non-payment is no avoidance without a demand and re-entry. Lil. Conv. 137. For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 9 Vin. Abr. tit. Entry, and Wood's Conv. part 1.

Entry ad communem legem. The writ of Entry ad communem legem lieth, where tenant in dower, or tenant by the curteſy, or for life, do alien in fee, or for the life of another, or in tail, the lands which they hold, &c. after their death he in the reverſion, who hath it in fee or for life, ſhall have this writ againſt whomſoever is in poſſeſſion of the land. N. N. B. 477.

Entry ad terminum qui præteriit. A writ of Entry ad terminum qui præteriit lieth, where a man leaſeth lands or tenements for term of life, or years, and afterwards the term expireth, and he to whom the leaſe was made, or a ſtranger entereth upon the lands, and occupieth the ſame, and deforceth the leſſor, the leſſor or his heirs ſhall have the writ. And this writ lieth in the per, cui and poſt. For if the leſſee hold over his term, and afterwards maketh a feoffment, the leſſor or heirs may have that writ againſt the feoffee in the per; and if the feoffee maketh a feoffment over, he may have it againſt the ſecond feoffee in the per and cui, and againſt the third feoffee in the poſt. N. N. B. 464.

Entry in caſu conſimili. A writ of entry in caſu conſimili lieth where tenant by the curteſy, or for life, or for another's life doth alien in fee, or in tail, or for life, now he in the reverſion, who hath an eſtate there for life, or in fee-ſimple, or in tail, ſhall have that writ during the life of the tenant for life, who aliened, and that writ is not given by the ſtatute of Glouceſter, which gave the writ of in caſu proviſo, but it is formed and granted upon the ſtatute of Weſtminſter 2. cap. 14. which wills, that as often as it ſhall happen in the Chancery, that in one caſe a writ is found, and in the like caſe falling, wanting the ſame remedy not, the clerks of the Chancery ſhall agree in the making the writ, and that appeareth, H. 3 Ed. 2. N. N. B. 474.

Entry in caſu proviſo. The writ of Entry in caſu proviſo is given by the ſtat. of Glouceſt. cap. 7. And that writ lieth where tenant in dower doth alien in fee, for life, or in tail, the land which he holdeth in dower; he who hath the reverſion in fee, or in tail, or for life, ſhall maintain that writ againſt the alienee; and againſt him who is the tenant of the freehold of land during the life of the tenant in dower, &c. and the writ may be made in the per, cui and poſt. N. N. B. 473.

Entry cauſa matrimonii prælocuti, Lies where lands or tenements are given to a man, upon condition, that he ſhall take the donor to his wife within a certain time, and he does not eſpouſe her within the limited time, or eſpouſes another; or otherwiſe diſables himſelf, that he cannot take her according to the ſaid condition, then the donor and her heirs ſhall have the ſaid writ againſt him, or againſt whoever elſe is in the ſaid land. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Envoice. See Invoice.

Enure, Signifieth to take place or effect, to be available. As a releaſe ſhall enure by way of extinguiſhment. Littleton, cap. Releaſe. And a releaſe made to a tenant for term of life, ſhall enure to him in the reverſion.

Eodorbrice, Is a Saxon word, from Eodor, a hedge, and brice, ruptura. It ſignifies hedge-breaking. 'Tis mentioned in the laws of King Alfred, cap. 45.

Eorle; It hath been a queſtion whether this word is of Saxon or Daniſh original. Wormius tells us, that the ancient Danes called their barons by the name of earls: but Somner, in Gloſſ. Saxonico, is rather of opinion, that it is derived from the Saxons. Æthelward, lib. 4. c. 3. Conſules ruunt quos ille eorlas ſolent nominare, &c.

Epiacum. Papcaſtle in Cumberland.

Epimenia, i. e. Expences, tributes, or gifts. 'Tis mentioned in Gildas de Excidio Britanniæ, viz. item queruntur non aſſidue ſibi epimenia contribui, &c.

Epiphany, The day when the ſtar appeared to the wiſe men at Chriſt's nativity, generally called Twelfth day.

Epiſcopalia, Synodals, pentecoſtals, and other cuſtomary payments from the clergy to their dioceſan biſhop; which dues were formerly collected by the rural deans, and by them tranſmitted to the biſhop. As in the charter of Walter, biſhop of Coventry and Litchfield, to the abbey of Derley——Concedimus etiam ut prædictus abbas aut quiſque ſucceſſorum ejus ſit decanus de omnibus eccleſiis ——& teneat capitulum——& epiſcopalia reddat, vel reddere faciat de eccleſiis diaconatus ſui. Mon. Angl. tom. 3. f. 61. Theſe cuſtomary impoſitions were called onus epiſcopale, and were by ſpecial privilege remitted to thoſe free chapels that were built upon the King's demeſne, and exempt from epiſcopal juriſdiction. See Kennet's Gloſſary in Epiſcopale onus.

Epiſcopus puerorum. It was a cuſtom formerly that ſome layman about the feaſt of Epiphany would plait his hair, ſo that he might ſeem to have the tonſure, and to put on the garment of a biſhop, and in them to exerciſe epiſcopal juriſdiction, and to do ſeveral ludicrous actions; for which reaſon he was called the biſhop of the Boys, This cuſtom obtained here long after ſeveral conſtitutions were made to aboliſh it: For in an inventory of the ornaments of a church in York, Anno 1530. we read, Item una parva mitra cum petris pro epiſcopo puerorum. Mon. 3 tom. pag. 169.

Equality. The law delights in equality; ſo that when a charge is laid upon one, and divers ought to bear it, he ſhall have relief againſt the reſt. 2 Rep. 25. And where a man leaves a power to his wife, to give an eſtate among three daughters, in ſuch proportions as ſhe ſhall think fit, it hath been held that ſhe muſt divide it equally; unleſs good reaſon be given for doing otherwiſe. Preced. Chan. 256. See Contribution.

Eques Auratus, Is taken to ſignify a knight, and termed auratus, becauſe anciently none but knights might beautify and gild their armour, or other habiliments of war. Fern's Glory of Generoſity, pag. 102. yet in law we never uſe eques auratus, but miles, and ſometimes chivalier. Co. 4. Inſt. fol. 5.

Equilocus, i. e. An equal. 'Tis mentioned in Simeon Dunelm. Anno 882, viz. Elfred Rex Saxonum, audaciſſimus ducum, navali prælio ſuffultus, contra paganicas naves congreſſus eſt, ex quibus ipſe equilocus duas pitentes virtute naves exſuperavit, &c.

Equitatura, ——— Sicunt —— quod ego Stephanus de Ebroicis dedi eccleſiæ S. Leonardi de Pyonia——molendinum meum de Froma——& prædicti fratres habeant equitaturam & ſaccum cum blado vel farina, &c. Reg. Priorat. de Wormley, fol. 22. a. penes Ed. Harley, Mil. Baln. And it ſeems to ſignify here, the liberty of riding, or carrying griſt and meal from a mill on horſeback. Miles cum equitatura, is taken for a knight, with his horſe, arms, and furniture. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Equity, Æquitas, Is of two ſorts, and thoſe of contrary effects, for the one doth abridge and take from the letter of the law, the other doth inlarge and add thereto. The firſt is thus defined, Æquitas eſt correctio legis generatim lata, quæ parte deficit. Equity is the correction of the law generally made in that part wherein it fails, which correction is much uſed in our law: As for example, when an act of parliament is made, that whoſoever doth ſuch a thing ſhall be a felon, and ſuffer death; yet if a madman, or an infant that hath no diſcretion, do the ſame, they ſhall not be felons, nor ſuffer death for it; breaking of priſon is felony in the priſoner himſelf, by the ſtatute De frangentibus priſonam; yet if the priſon be on fire, and they within break priſon to ſave their their lives, this ſhall be excuſed by the law of reaſon. So to ſave my life I may kill another that aſſaults me. The other equity is defined to be an extenſion of the words of the law to caſes unexpreſſed, yet having the ſame reaſon; ſo that when one thing is enacted, all other things are enacted that are of the like degree: as the ſtatute which ordains, that in an action of debt againſt executors, he that doth appear by diſtreſs, ſhall anſwer, doth extend by equity to adminiſtrators; for ſuch of them as ſhall appear firſt by diſtreſs, ſhall anſwer by equity of the ſaid act, qui ſunt in æquali genere. See Chancery.

Equity of redemption, or mortgages. If where money is due on a mortgage, the mortgagee is deſirous to bar the equity of redemption, he may oblige the mortgagor either to pay the money, or be foreclоſed of equity; which is done by proceedings in the court of Chancery. But the Chancery cannot ſhorten the time of payment of the mortgage money, where it is limited by expreſs covenant; though it may lengthen it: and then upon non-payment, the practice is to foreclоſe the equity of redemption of the mortgagor. 2 Vent. 364. To foreclоſe the equity, a bill in Chancery is exhibited; to which an anſwer is put in, and a decree being obtained, a maſter in Chancery is to certify what is due for principal, intereſt and coſts, which is to be paid at a time prefixed by the decree, whereupon the premiſſes are to be conveyed to the mortgagor; or in default of payment, the mortgagor is ordered to be foreclоſed from all equity of redemption, and to convey the premiſſes abſolutely to the mortgagee. Law of Securities, p. 129, 133.

A fine or non-claim will bar an equity of redemption: but in a common mortgage, a covenant to reſtrain it ſhall not be regarded in chancery. 2 Vent. 365. If the condition of a mortgage is, that the mortgagor only ſhould redeem during life, or that he and the heirs of his body ſhall do it; yet the general heir ſhall have the equity of redemption, for if the principal and intereſt be offered, the land is free. 1 Vent. 33, 190. And it is held, though a bond be conditioned, that if the money be not paid at ſuch a time, then for a further ſum the mortgagee ſhall have the land abſolutely, as a purchaſer, &c. in ſuch caſe a man may redeem. Ibid. 488.

A perſon who has mortgaged land with ſome others to another, and this appears to be a contrivance to evade the ſtatute, the mortgagee ſhall not take advantage thereof. 2 Vern. Rep. 589. See Barnadiſt. 101.

Where perſons have once mortgaged lands, mortgage the ſame a ſecond time, without diſcovering the firſt mortgage, they forfeit their equity of redemption, and the ſecond mortgagee may redeem, &c. And it is the ſame where any perſons borrowing money, enter a judgment, &c. for ſecurity, and afterwards borrow more money, and mortgage lands to the ſecond lender, without giving notice of the judgment, or paying the ſame off in ſix months, &c. by ſtat. 4 & 5 W. & M. cap. 16. See Mortgage.

Equivalent. Commiſſioners are appointed by ſtatute to examine and ſtate the debts due to Scotland on the union by way of equivalent; and proviſion is made for payment of the ſame, &c. by ſtat. 1 Geo. 1. c. 27. 5. Geo. 1. c. 20. Application of the equivalent money 6 Ann. c. 24. 12 Ann. c. 13. 1 Geo. 1. c. 27. 3 Geo. 1. c. 14. 13 Geo. c. 30. Equivalent charged upon the cuſtoms and exciſe in Scotland, 23 Geo. 2. c. 21. ſect. 5.

Equus coopertus, A horſe with ſadle and furniture on him. ——— Inveniendo pro quolibet feodo unum equum coopertum, vel duos diſcoopertos —— Inqu. 16 Ed. 1. de Baronia de Dunham Maſſey. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Er, The ſayllable er, in the middle of a word, is contracted from the Saxon ware, which ſignifies inhabitants. Thus Canterbury was anciently called Cantwara-Burgh, i. e. the inhabitants of a borough in Kent. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eremitorium, A hermitage, or deſert place, for the retirement of hermits.——— Eremitorium in boſco D. ducis petiit, ubique domum hanc aliquanto tempore voluit. Henr. Knyghton. lib. 5. locus heremitorius—— Radulphus heremita locum heremitorium de Muſſewelle edificavit.——Mon. Angl. tom. 3. p. 18. a.

Erius, alias Iris, Is the flower de lys, whoſe divers kinds you may read in Gerrard's Herb. lib. 1 cap. 34. The root of this is mentioned among merchandiſe, or drugs to be grabled, by ſtat. 1 Jac. c. 19.

Ermdii, This word is mentioned in our hiſtorian Randulphus de Diceto, and others. Mr. Somner did not underſtand the meaning of it; but 'tis very probable it ſignifies the people called Armenians. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Ermins, Seemeth to come from the French word ermine. It ſignifieth a fur of great price.

Ermin-Street. See Watling-Street.

Ern, The names of places ending in ern, ſignify a melancholy ſituation: from the Saxon ern, locus ſecretus. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Ernes, The looſe ſcattered ears of corn that are left on the ground after the binding or cocking of it. ——— Conductо ad præparandum uſque ad carectam xxix ſeliones ordei cum les ernes viii den. Parochial Antiq. p. 576. From the old Teuton. abre, an ear of corn, ernde, harveſt, ornden, to cut or mow corn. Hence to ern, is in ſome places to glean. See Kennet's Gloſſary, in Ernes.

Errant, Itinerant, may be derived from the old word erre, i. iter: it is attributed to juſtices that go the circuit. Staundf. pl. cor. f. 15. and to bailiffs at large. See Juſtices in Eyre and Bailiff. See alſo Eyre.

Erraticum, A waif or ſtray, erring or wandring beaſt. ———Si erraticum quod vulgo dicitur weredriff, in curiam ſacerdotis vel clerici qui in atrio manent, venerit, vel in eleemoſynam ejuſdem eccleſiæ, vel in atrium epiſcopi erit. Conſtitut. Norman. A. D. 1080.

Error, (from the French Erreur) Signifieth eſpecially an error in pleading, or in the proceſs. Bro. tit. Error. And thereupon the writ which is brought for remedy of the overſight, is called a writ of error, in Latin Breve de errore corrigendo, thus defined by Fitz. in his Nat. Brev. fol. 20. A writ of error is that properly which lieth to redreſs a falſe judgment given in a court of record, as in the Common Bench, London, or other city having power, by the King's charter or preſcription, to hold plea of debt, or treſpaſs, above twenty ſhillings. Cowell.

A writ of error is a commiſſion to judges of a ſuperior court, by which they are authorized to examine the record, upon which a judgment was given in an inferior court, and on ſuch examination to affirm or reverſe the ſame, according to law. Jenk. Rep. 25. 2 Inſt. 40. Yelv. 209.—But yet if by the writ of error the plaintiff therein may recover, or be reſtored to any thing, it may be releaſed by the name of an action. Co. Lit. 288. b. —In a writ of error to reverſe a fine as couſin and heir of the conuſor, it need not be ſhewed in the writ of error, how he is couſin; for it is but a commiſſion to examine errors, and needs not ſuch certainty as other writs. Cro. Jac. 160.

This writ lies where a man is grieved by any errors in the foundation, proceeding, judgment, or execution of a ſuit. Co Lit. 288. b.

Under this head is conſidered,

1. In what caſes, and on what judgments a writ of error will lie.

2. Who may bring a writ of error; againſt whom, and at what time it muſt be brought.

3. Of writs of error into parliament, into the Exchequer chamber, into the King's Bench, and into the Common Pleas, and other courts.

4. Of reverſing judgments in the court of Exchequer; where a writ of error lies in the ſame court in which the record is, and of quaſhing writs of error.

5. Of removing the record or a tranſcript; and of alledging diminution, and granting a certiorari.

6. Of the ſcire facias; proceedings after the record removed; amendment and abatement of the writ of error, and how far it is a ſuperſedeas.

7. Of aſſigning errors.

8. Of pleading in bar of a writ of error, and of the judgment to be given thereon.

1. In what caſes, and on what judgments, a writ of error will lie.

Regularly an erroneous judgment given in a court of record can only be reverſed by a writ of error; therefore if the tenant in a cui in vita dies ſeiſed pending the writ, and after judgment is given againſt him, which is erroneous, and after the recovery ſues execution againſt the heir, and he brings an aſſiſe, he ſhall not avoid this judgment againſt his father, by ſaying, that his father died pending the writ; for the judgment is not void, but only voidable. 28 Aſſ. 17. 1 Rol. Abr. 742. S. C. 2 Bulſt. 242. S. P.

If an infant ſuffers a common recovery, in which he comes in as a vouchee in his proper perſon, and not by attorney or guardian; tho' this ſhall not bind him, but that he may in a writ of error avoid it becauſe it is error in law; yet at his full age he cannot enter into the land, and avoid it by his entry, before he has reverſed it in a writ of error, becauſe he himſelf is privy to the judgment, and may reverſe it by ſuch means, and he is not a ſtranger to the judgment; for judgments ought not to be ſubverted by matter in pais, without matter of record, as a recognizance or fine by an infant where he appears by attorney, and not by guardian. 1 Rol. Abr. 742. Style 246. S. C.

In an action upon the caſe, if the plaintiff be nonſuit, and after it is entred, that, reliquit actionem, & fatetur ſe nolle ulterius proſequi, upon which coſts are aſſeſſed, though it be admitted, that this judgment is erroneous, becauſe this is not any nonſuit, as it is entred; yet in an action of debt for the coſts, the defendant ſhall not avoid it by plea with a writ of error; for it is a judgment de facto not void, but only voidable by writ of error. 1 Rol. Abr. 742.

If a man recovers againſt the principal, and ſues a ſcire facias againſt the bail, they cannot ſay the principal died before the judgment, and ſo avoid the judgment by plea, for it is againſt the record. 1 Rol. Abr. 742. Cro. Eliz. 199. S. C. 1 Leon. 101. S. C.

If a fine is levied without an original, or of more than is contained in the original, it is not void, but only voidable by a writ of error. 2 Inſt. 513.

If A. levies a fine to B. who grants and renders to A. and his wife, and the heirs of the body of A. this is not void as to the wife, though ſhe is no party to the original, but only voidable by writ of error. 3 Co. 5. a.

By the practice of the court of Common Pleas, a defendant coming in by capias utlagatum the ſame term in which an exigent is returnable, may avoid the outlawry without a writ of error, by ſhewing that he purchaſed a ſuperſedeas out of the ſame court, and delivered it to the ſheriff before the quinto exactus, &c. or by ſhewing any other matter apparent on record, which makes the outlawry erroneous, as the want of an original, or the omiſſion of proceſs, or want of form in a writ of proclamation, &c. or a return by a perſon appearing not to be ſheriff, or a variance between the original and exigent, or other proceſs, or the want of ſuch addition as is required by the 1 H. 5. 2 Hawk. P. C. 458—9 1 Rol. Abr. 742—3.

In debt upon a bond againſt an adminiſtrator, he pleads a judgment recovered againſt the inteſtate, and that he hath not aſſets ultra, &c. the plaintiff may reply, that an action was brought againſt the inteſtate, and that he died before the judgment; and that after his death, judgment was given; for being a ſtranger to the judgment, he can neither bring error nor deceit, and has no way to avoid it but by plea. 2 Mod. 308.

If a man is found guilty upon an indictment of felony, and prays his clergy, and it is allowed him, and he is burnt in the hand, he cannot avoid this by a writ of error, becauſe he is convicted only, and not attainted; but the record being removed by certiorari into the crown office, if there be a fault in the indictment, it may be diſcharged, and reſtitution awarded to the party of his goods ſeized for that cauſe. Cro. Eliz. 489.

If a man had been indicted upon the ſtatute of 3 Jac. 1. c. 4. for abſenting from his pariſh-church, and thereupon proclamations had been made, that he ſhould render his body, &c. which nor being done, he had been convicted according to that ſtatute, yet no writ of error would have lain thereupon; for by the ſtatute, after proclamations made, and the default recorded, the ſame was a conviction of the offence, as if the ſtatute gave proceſs for the forfeiture; and if there was a fault in the record, the party's remedy was in the Exchequer to quaſh it there. Raym. 433.

If one be attainted upon an erroneous indictment, he cannot be relieved but by writ of error, for the judgment being quod ſuſpendatur, &c. which is the judgment of law due for the offence, it muſt be preſumed to have been given, for that he was guilty of the offence; but if judgment of acquittal is given upon ſuch indictment, the King need bring no writ of error; but the offender may be newly indicted, for the judgment being quod eat ſine die, &c. may be given as well for the inſufficiency of the indictment, as for the party's innocency. 3 Inſt. 214.

Alſo any judgment whatſoever, given by perſons who had no good commiſſion to proceed againſt the perſon condemned, may be falſified, by ſhewing the ſpecial matter, without writ of error, becauſe it is void; as where a commiſſion authorizes to procced on an indictment taken before A. B. C. and twelve others, and by colour thereof the commiſſioners proceed on an indictment taken before eight perſons only. 3 Inſt. 231. Hawk. P. C. 459.

If one is attainted of felony, and after by relation of a general pardon, the felony is pardoned, he ſhall be diſcharged, for he hath no remedy by writ of error, to reverſe the attainder. 6 Co. 5. a.

By the common law, in favorum vitæ, an outlawry of treaſon or felony might be avoided by plea, that the defendant was in priſon, or in the King's ſervice beyond the ſea, &c. at the time of the outlawry pronounced againſt him; but it ſeems that no outlawry for any other crime againſt a party rightly deſcribed, can be avoided by the plea of any matter of fact whatſoever. Co. Lit. 259. 2 Hawk. P. C. 460.

One who purchaſes land of a perſon who afterwards is outlawed for felony, or condemned upon his own confeſſion, may falſify the record, not only as to the time wherein the felony is ſuppoſed to have been committed, but alſo as to the point of the offence; but where a man is found guilty by verdict, a purchaſer cannot falſify any more than the party, as to the point of the offence, but only as to the time. 2 Hawk. P. C. 450.

No writ of error can be brought but on a judgment, or an award in nature of a judgment, for the words of the writ are, Si judicium redditum ſit, &c. Co. Lit. 288. b.

If the plaintiff be nonſuit at the niſi prius, upon which coſts are taxed by the ſame jury, by the ſtatutes of H. 8. and Jac. 1. and judgment given for them againſt the plaintiff, the plaintiff may have a writ of error upon this judgment. 1 Rol. Abr. 744.

If a man brings a writ of falſe judgment in the Common Pleas, upon a judgment given in ancient demeſne, and reverſes the judgment there, a writ of error lies upon the judgment, for this is a matter of record. 1 Rol. Abr. 744.

If a man is indicted for felony, and thereupon a capias and exigent are awarded, but he dies before attainder, his adminiſtrators may have error upon this award of the exigent, becauſe by the award of the exigent, his goods were forfeited; and this is ad grave damnum, &c. tho' the principal judgment can never be given. 11 Co. 41. b.

If one be outlawed upon an indictment of treaſon, felony, or treſpaſs, but the proceſs and order preſcribed by the ſtatute of 6 Hen. 8. c. 4. and 8 Hen. 6. c. 10. are not obſerved, the outlawry may be reverſed by writ of error, which ex merito juſtitiæ ought to be granted. 3 Inſt. 31.

A writ

A writ of error lies to reverſe an attainder of high treaſon, though ſome have held the contrary, by reaſon of 33 H. 8. c. 20. which enacts, that every attainder of treaſon by the Common law ſhould be as effectual as if by authority of parliament; for the ſtatute is to be intended of lawful attainders by due courſe of law, and not of erroneous or void attainders; and ſo it was held in a parliament held the 28 Eliz. when it was enacted, that no attainder of high treaſon, where the party was executed for the ſame, ſhould be avoided by plea of error; but this act extended only to attainders before that time, where the party had been executed, not to attainders after. 3 Inſt. 215. See 3 Bulſt. 71. Raym. 1, 2.

If one be convicted upon an indictment of recuſancy for abſenting from church for one month, upon which judgment is given, that he ſhall forfeit 20*l.* but it is not ideo capiatur; this omiſſion being apparently to the prejudice of the King, it was held a writ of error would lie notwithſtanding the words of 3 Jac. c. 4. that no ſuch indictment ſhall be avoided, diſcharged, or reverſed, for want of form or other defect whatſoever, other than by direct traverſe to the point of not coming to church. Cro. Car. 504.

If it be entred in an inferior court, that the plaintiff recuperare debeat, whereas it ought to be recuperet; this is no judgment; ſo no writ of error lies thereupon, for the words of the writ are, Si judicium redditum ſit. Style 265.

In an aſſiſe of darrein preſentment, if the parties demurr upon the title, and it is adjudged for the plaintiff, and that he ſhall have a writ to the biſhop; a writ of error lies upon this judgment before the damages inquired of, becauſe there were no damages at the Common law, and then the writ would lie preſently; and the addition of damages given by the ſtatute, to be inquired of by the ſheriff, ſhall not ſtay the writ of error; and if it be affirmed, it may be inquired of the damages where it is affirmed. 1 Rol. Abr. 749.

If a man recovers by default in a writ of coſenage or aiel, a writ of error lies upon this before the damages are inquired of, becauſe the damages are but an addition to the Common law given by the ſtatute; and ſo the judgment for the principal continues at it was at Common law. 1 Rol. Abr. 749—50.

In a writ of partition, if the judgment be given quod partitio fiat, and thereupon a writ is directed to the ſheriff to make a partition, no writ of error lies hereupon, for the judgment is not complete till the ſheriff return; and the ſecond judgment, which the law requires herein, viz. quod partitio præd' foret firma & ſtabilis in perpetuum, for before that the plaintiff may be nonſuit, or he may, upon the return of the ſheriff, ſuggeſt to the court, that the partition is not equal, and ſo have a new partition, and may alſo releaſe before the laſt judgment. 1 Rol. Abr. 750. Cro. Eliz. 635. Moor 643. Noy 71. S. C.

So if in an action of account, judgment is given quod computet, and thereupon the defendant brings a writ of error; yet the record ſhall not be removed till the intire matter of the account be determined, Ne curia Domini Regis deficeret in juſtitia exhibenda. 11 Co. 39. b. Cro. Eliz. 636. 2 Leon. 68. 2 Bulſt. 119, 120. 3 Bulſt. 233. Cro. Jac. 224. 2 Rol. Rep. 125.

But if a woman recovers in a writ of dower, a writ of error lies before the writ of inquiry of damages awarded, and before the third part aſſigned by metes and bounds, for the judgment is perfect as to the reality, and the damages are given by the ſtatue by way of addition. 1 Rol. Abr. 750. 1 Brownl. 127. 11 Co. 40. 1 Rol. Abr. 760. Style 290. March 88.

So if the plaintiff recovers in an ejectione firmæ by confeſſion nihil dicit, non ſum informatus, or demurrer, a writ of error lies before a writ of inquiry of damages executed; for the judgment, quod recuperet poſſeſſionem is perfect, and the plaintiff may preſently have execution thereupon; and therefore if the defendant were to be hindred from bringing a writ of error before a writ of inquiry executed, it might be in the plaintiff's power, by refuſing to bring or execute the writ of inquiry, to delay the plaintiff for ever. 1 Rol. Abr. 751. Cro. Eliz. 235. 1 Leon. 309. Latch 212. Noy 95. 1 Leon. 193. Dyer 291. 3 Bulſt. 233. Palm. 6. 2 Rol. Rep. 126. Latch 133. Style 109.

So if a man recovers in a quare impedit upon a demurrer, the defendant may have a writ of error before the writ of inquiry of damages returned, for ſuch writ may be awarded out of the King's Bench, if the judgment be affirmed there. 1 Rol. Abr. 750. See March 89. Noy 66.

If a man recovers in a quare impedit, and after brings a writ quare non admiſit againſt the biſhop, a writ of error lies on the judgment in the quare impedit, and the record ſhall be removed, tho' the other writ of quare non admiſit be not yet diſcuſſed. 1 Rol Abr. 751. Godb. 439.

If a quare impedit is brought againſt two, and one pleads to iſſue, and the other confeſſes the action, upon which judgment is given, he ſhall not have a writ of error till the matter is determined as to the other; for the writ of error muſt rehearſe all that are parties to the original, and as to one, judgment is not given; and if the record is removed before the intire matter is determined, there would be a failure of right. 11 Co. 39. a.

If in a formedon the tenant has judgment for part, no writ of error lies until the intire matter in demand is determined, for the judgment is, Si judicium inde redditum ſit, which word inde goes to the intire demand. 11 Co. 39. b. Dyer 291.

If debt be brought againſt divers by ſeveral præcipes, and judgment given againſt one, he may have error before determination of the matter as to the others; for there being ſeveral counts, the record of his count and the pleading ſhall be ſeveral from the original, and removed in B. R. and yet the original ſhall remain in C. B. for otherwiſe the court of Common Pleas could not proceed to determine the reſidue without the original; and my Lord Coke ſays it ſeems to him that in this caſe, if there be error in the original upon a certiorari, the Chief Juſtice ſhall only certify the tenor of it. 11 Co. 41. a. 2 Rol. Rep. 125. Dyer 291. March 89.

If in a quo warranto, judgment be given as to part of the liberties claimed, and they ſhall be ſeiſed, and that the defendant capiatur pro fine, and as to the other part, curia adviſare vult, a writ of error lies before any judgment given for the other part. Palm. 1, 2.

No writ of error will lie of any judgment that is not given in a court of record; nor of a judgment given in an inferior court, as the County-court, &c. Co. Lit. 288. b. Nor of a decree or ſentence in Chancery proceeding according to equity. 37 Hen. 6. Bro. Error 95. 1 Rol. Abr. 744, But of a judgment given in the limited court of Chancery, called the Petty-bag, which proceeds according to the Common law, and holds plea of ſcire facias for repeal of the King's letters patent, &c. a writ of error lies in B. R. 1 Rol. Abr. 744. Dyer 315. 4 Inſt. 80. Plow. 393.

The authority of the juſtice of Trailbaſton was by act of parliament; and therefore, by the general rule of law, if they erred in judgment, a writ of error lay in B. R. to reverſe the judgment. 2 Inſt. 540. 4 Inſt. 186.

If a man be convicted upon the ſtatute of 7 Jac. 1. c. 11. by two juſtices of the peace, for killing of partridges, upon proof or confeſſion of the party, without indictment; this judgment may be reverſed in B. R. being removed there by certiorari, without any writ of error; ſo if the conviction had been on the ſtatute againſt ſhooting, or ſuch like. 1 Rol. Abr. 743—4.

But if an erroneous judgment be given upon an indictment of barretry at the ſeſſions of the peace, and the party fined thereupon, and committed till he pays it, and he removes the indictment and proceedings by certiorari, and himſelf by habeas corpus, yet he cannot be relieved unleſs he brings a writ of error. Cro. Jac. 404.

But a record of force made by juſtices of peace upon the view, may be quaſhed, upon motion, without a writ of error. 1 Leo. 113.

Wherever a new juriſdiction is erected by act of parliament, and the court or judge, that exerciſes this juriſdiction, acts as a court or judge of record, according to the courſe of the Common law, a writ of error lies on heir judgments; but where they act in a ſummary method, or in a new courſe different from the Common law, there a writ of error lies not, but a certiorari. 1 Salk. 263.

A writ of error does not lie on refuſing a prohibition. Stran. 591, 537.

Writ of error will not lie on the award of a peremptory mandamus. Stran. 536.

Error lies not on allowing the return of a mandamus. Str. 628.

Error lies on the award to remand where the court refuſes to bail. Stran. 536.

If the plaintiff be nonſuit, and judgment againſt him for coſts, error lies in camera ſcaccarii. Stran. 235.

Where the judgment is againſt two, a writ of error ad damnum of one only will not lie. Stran. 606.

Error coram vobis lies not after affirmance in the Exchequer Chamber. Stran. 690.

After affirmance error coram vobis cannot be allowed without leave. Stran. 949.

No writ of error coram vobis lies after affirmance. Stran. 975.

Error does not lie in the Exchequer-Chamber on an award of execution only. Stran. 1192.

2. Who may bring a writ of error; againſt whom, and at what time it muſt be brought.

No perſon can bring a writ of error to reverſe a judgment, who was not party or privy to the record, or who was not injured by the judgment, and therefore to receive advantage by the reverſal thereof. 1 Rol. Abr. 747. Dyer 90.

So a writ of error does not lie againſt any but him, who is party or privy to the firſt judgment, his heirs, executors or adminiſtrators. 1 Rol. Abr. 747. Dyer 90.

And therefore on a judgment for recovery of land, the writ muſt be brought againſt him who was party to the judgment, although he hath nothing in the land, and not againſt the tenant, and on ſuch writ the judgment may be reverſed; but there muſt go a ſcire facias againſt all the tertenants. 1 Rol. Abr. 749. 1 Rol. Rep. 302.

Upon this rule, that none ſhall have a writ of error to reverſe a judgment, but he who is privy to and hath ſome prejudice thereby; it hath been reſolved, that if one hath lands on the part of his mother, and loſeth them by erroneous judgment, and dies, the heir of the part of the mother ſhall have the writ of error. 1 Leon. 261. 2 Sid. 56. See Owen 68. Godb. 377.

So the younger ſon, when intitled to the land by the cuſtom of Borough-Engliſh, ſhall bring the writ of error, and not the heir at Common law; for this remedy deſcends with the land. Owen 68. 1 Leon. 261. 4 Leon. 5.

So if there be an erroneous judgment, tenant in tail female, the iſſue female, and not the ſon, ſhall bring a writ of error. Dyer 90. 1 Leon. 261. 1 Rol. Abr. 747.

So if a man ſettles land to the uſe of himſelf and the heirs of his body, the remainder to his own right heirs, and dies, leaving iſſue only a daughter, who levies a fine, and dies without iſſue, and J. S. brings a writ of error as couſin and collateral heir of the daughter, yet he ſhall never reverſe the fine; for there could no right deſcend to him from the daughter, becauſe ſhe had but an eſtate tail, which determined by her death without iſſue; and it does not appear, that the remainder in fee was in the daughter as right heir, wherefore J. S. ſhall not reverſe the fine, quia de non apparentibus & non exiſtentibus eadem eſt ratio, eſpecially in a court of judicature, where the judges can take notice of nothing that does not come judicially before them, and appear in the pleading. Dyer 89. Cro. Eliz. 469. 3 Lev. 36.

If there be tenant in tail, the remainder in fee, and in a præcipe brought againſt tenant in tail, an erroneous judgment is given againſt tenant in tail, and he after dies without iſſue, he in remainder may have a writ of error; for when the ſtatute De donis gave liberty to limit a remainder after an eſtate tail, the law gave ſuch actions to him in remainder as belonged to privies in eſtate. 3 Co. 3.

If tenant in tail male hath iſſue a ſon and a daughter by one venter and a ſon by another, and dies, and the eldeſt ſon makes a feoffment, and a common recovery is had againſt the feoffee, in which the eldeſt is vouched, and he vouches over the common vouchee, and after the eldeſt dies, the youngeſt ſon may have a writ of error; for tho' the eldeſt ſhould have rendred a fee ſimple to the feoffee, according to his loſs, yet he ſhould have recovered but an eſtate-tail, viz. ſuch an eſtate as he had when the warranty was made, which would have deſcended to the youngeſt, and conſequently the writ of error ſhall be brought by him. 1 Leon. 261. Owen 68. Godb. 377.

If there be ſeveral parties to an erroneous fine, they ſhall all join with the party that is to enjoy the land, though they themſelves can have nothing; and this is ſaid to be neceſſary only by way of conformity. 1 Rol. Abr. 747. Dyer 89.

But if a tenant for life, and he in remainder in fee, (being an infant) join in a fee, the infant alone may bring error for the error in reſpect of the perſon of the infant, which is the cauſe of the action for him and for no other. 1 Leon. 317. Cro. Eliz. 115.

A writ of error may be brought by him that is made party by the law, though he was not originally party to the ſuit, as he who comes in as a vouchee. 1 Rol. Abr. 748, 755.

If tenant in tail within age comes in as vouchee by attorney in a common recovery, he in remainder may aſſign this for error, for he is party in intereſt to the recovery; and where a man's intereſt is bound by another's act, 'tis but reaſonable he ſhould be allowed to free himſelf from the miſchief of it, by taking advantage of any error in it. 1 Rol. Abr. 755, 796.

If A. be tenant in tail, the remainder to B. and A. ſuffers an erroneous recovery, and the common vouchee releaſes to the recoveror; yet if A. dies without iſſue, B. may, notwithſtanding the releaſe, reverſe it by writ of error, for the common vouchee is only called in for form; as he really has no intereſt in or title to the land, ſo really neither does he make any recompence to the perſon that loſes the land, and therefore it were unreaſonable to carry the notion of the imaginary recompence ſo far as to ſuppoſe him a real ſufferer, and thereby give him the privilege of ſetting aſide a conveyance which he is no way affected by. Cro. Eliz. 2. 3 Co. 4.

If he in the remainder be made privy to the record by aid prier, he ſhall have a writ of error during the life of the tenant for life; ſo if he be received by default of the tenant for life. 3 Co. 4. Bro. Error, 39.

So if a feme be received by the default of her baron, and loſes the land by judgment, the baron and feme ſhall have a writ of error thereupon. 1 Rol. Abr. 748.

If baron and feme levy a fine, they may by error reverſe the fine, for non-age of the feme, during the life of the baron. 2 Co. 57. Cro. Eliz. 129.

It was formerly holden, that a writ of error could not be brought before the judgment given; and if it bear teſte before, it was no ſuperſedeas, for the words of the writ are, Si judicium redditum ſit, &c. 1 Rol. Abr. 749. But it ſeems now agreed, that a writ of error that bears teſte before the judgment is good; and this is the uſual courſe for preventing and ſuperſeding execution; but the judgment muſt be given before the return of it. March 140. 1 Vent. 255. Moor 461. 3 Keb. 308. 1 Vent. 96. Latch. 133.

But a writ of error that bears teſte before any plaint entred, is not good. March 140.

So where the defendant, upon an indictment of barretry brought a writ of error bearing teſte before the aſſiſe, and it was diſallowed, becauſe if ſuch practice ſhould obtain, it would diſappoint all proceedings there. 1 Vent. 255. 3 Keb. 308.

By the 10 & 11 W. 3. cap. 14. it is enacted, "That no fine or common recovery, nor any judgment in any real or perſonal action ſhall, from and after the firſt day of May 1699, be reverſed or avoided for any error or defect defect therein, unleſs the writ of error, or ſuit for the reverſing ſuch fine, recovery or judgment be commenced or brought, and proſecuted with effect, within twenty years after ſuch fine levied, or ſuch recovery ſuffered, or judgment ſigned or entered of record:" Note, in this ſtatute, are the uſual ſavings as to infants, feme coverts, perſons non compos, in priſon, or beyond ſea.

3. Of writs of error into parliament, into the Exchequer Chamber, into the King's Bench, and into the Common Pleas, and other courts.

The court of parliament is the ſupreme court, where anciently cauſes of great conſequence, as between the Magnates Regni, were heard and determined; hence the lords is the dernier reſort, to which a writ of error lies; and therefore if a writ of error be brought of a judgment in the King's Bench into the Exchequer-Chamber, and there the judgment is reverſed; yet a writ of error lies of ſuch judgment into parliament, and the lords may reverſe ſuch ſecond judgment. Show. Parl. Ca. 24, 110. 1 Vent. 334. Raym. 330. 2 Jon. 99. 2 Lev. 232.

So a writ of error lies into parliament, upon a judgment in B. R. either in a cauſe brought there by writ of error, or originally commenced there. 1 Rol. Abr. 745.

And tho' upon a judgment in the King's Bench, ſince the 27 Eliz. cap. 8. the party may elect either to bring a writ of error into the Exchequer-Chamber, or in parliament; yet if the cauſe commenced in the King's Bench by original writ there lies no writ of error but into parliament; alſo if he elects to bring error in the Exchequer-Chamber, regularly he cannot after bring error in parliament upon the firſt judgment. 1 Saund. 346. Carth. 180. S. P.

And therefore it ſeems, that if a writ of error be brought upon a judgment in the Exchequer-Chamber, where the judgment is affirmed, and after error is brought upon the ſame judgment in the parliament; this writ of error is no ſuperſedeas; but if the writ of error be brought upon the judgment in the Exchequer-Chamber, it is a ſuperſedeas. See 2 Rol. Abr. 492. 2 Lev. 232.

As no writ of error lay of a judgment in the King's Bench, but in parliament, and as the ſubjects were often diſappointed of their writ of error by the not ſitting of parliament, or by their being employed in public buſineſs when they did ſit; therefore, by the ſtatute 27 Eliz. cap. 8. reciting that erroneous judgments in the King's Bench were only to be reformed in parliament, it was enacted, "That where judgment ſhould thereafter be given in B. R. in debt, detinue, covenant, account, caſe, ejectment, or treſpaſs firſt commenced there, other than ſuch where the Queen ſhall be party, the plaintiff or defendant, againſt whom ſuch judgment ſhall be given, may at his election ſue out a writ of error directed to the Chief Juſtice, commanding him to cauſe the record, and all things concerning the ſaid judgment to be brought before the judges of the common Pleas and Barons of the Exchequer, which being of the degree of the coif, or ſix of them, ſhall examine the errors aſſigned or found, and thereupon reverſe or affirm the judgment, other than for errors concerning the juriſdiction of the court of King's Bench, or for want of form in any writ, &c. or proceeding, and after the ſame ſhall be brought back in B. R. that further proceedings may be had thereupon, as well for execution as otherways."

And by the ſaid act is is further enacted, "That ſuch reverſal or affirmation ſhall not be final, but the party grieved may bring error in parliament."

Writ of error does not lie in the Exchequer-Chamber on an award of execution of a judgment of B. R. affirmed in the Exchequer-Chamber; nor of a judgment in ſcire facias againſt bail. Ld. Raym. Rep. 97, 98.

The court of King's Bench ſuperintends the proceedings of all other inferior courts, and being the King's own court, in which he formerly ſat in perſon, by the plenitude of its power corrects the errors of thoſe courts; hence it is, that a writ of error lies in this court of a judgment given in the King's Bench in Ireland. 1 Rol. Abr. 745. F. N. B. 22. but for this ſee 4 Inſt. 356. Kelw. 202. 5 Co. 18. a. Calvin's caſe. 1 Leon. 55. Yelv. 118. Style 386. Vaugh. 290, 402.

So a writ of error will lie of a judgment given in Chancery on the Common law ſide, called the Petty-Bag, as upon a ſcire facias upon a recognizance, altho' both courts were before the King himſelf, and to ſome purpoſes are the ſame. 1 Rol. Abr. 744—5. 1 Rol. Rep. 287. 29 Aſſ. 47. 4 Inſt. 80. Dyer 315. And ſee Moor 570. pl. 778.

If a peer be attainted before the Lord High Steward, a writ of error lies in the King's Bench of ſuch attainder, and the party has no other remedy. 1 Sid 208. 1 Lev. 149.

A writ of error lies of a judgment in the Common Pleas into the King's Bench, which can only correct the errors of that court, and from thence into parliament. 4 Inſt. 22.

A writ of error lies into the King's Bench of a judgment in a county palatine, for tho' theſe are ſuperior courts and have jura regalia, yet their juriſdiction is derived from the crown. 4 Inſt. 214, 223. 1 Rol. Abr. 745.

If an erroneous judgment be given in Durham in the Chancery, upon proceedings according to the Common law, or before the juſtices of the biſhop, a writ of error lies before the biſhop himſelf, and if he gives an erroneous judgment, error lies in B. R. 4 Inſt. 218.

If the juſtice in eyre gives an erroneous judgment at a juſtice ſeat in a foreſt, a writ of error lies thereupon in B. R. 4 Inſt. 297.

By the ſtat. 34 & 35 H. 8. cap. 26. par. 113. Errors in judgments in pleas real and mixt, before the juſtices in their great ſeſſions in Wales, ſhall be redreſſed by error in B. R. in England; but errors in pleas perſonal ſhall be reformed before the preſident and counſel. Moor 248. pl. 391. Cro. Eliz. 104. adjudged.

If an erroneous judgment be given in London, or other place, which is a court of record, the party grieved ſhall have a writ of error, and this writ may be returned into the Common Pleas, or into the King's Bench, at the pleaſure of him who ſueth the ſame. F. N. B. 44.

No writ of error lies in Banco or Banco Regis, upon a judgment given within the five ports; but by cuſtom ſuch judgment is examinable by bill in nature of a writ of error coram domino cuſtode ſeu gardiano quinque portuum apud curiam ſuam de Shepway. 4 Inſt. 224.

If a judgment be given in the court of ſtannaries of the dutchy of Cornwall, no writ of error lies upon this in Banco or Banco Regis, becauſe it hath not been uſed; but of this there may be an appeal to the guardian of the ſtannaries, and from him to the Prince; and when there is no Prince, to the King's counſel. 1 Rol. Abr. 745.

A writ of error lies in the Common Pleas upon a judgment given before the judges of aſſize. 1 Rol. Abr. 745. But ſee 1 Leon. 55. 3 Leon. 55. 3 Leon. 159. Dyer 250. Moor 78. 1 And. 12. Cro. Eliz. 26. Carter 222.

Upon a judgment given in the Huſtings in London, a writ of error lies at St. Martin's before certain juſtices, 1 Rol. Abr. 745. 1 Lev. 309. 2 Saund. 253. S. P. and that upon a judgment of the ſaid juſtices, a writ of error lies in parliament. See 2 Leon. 107.

4. Of reverſing judgments in the court of Exchequer; where a writ of error lies in the ſame court in which the record is, and of quaſhing writs of error.

Before the ſtatute of 31 Ed. 3. Errors in the Exchequer were ſometimes examined in parliament, and ſometimes before commiſſioners, by force of the King's writ under the great ſeal. 4 Inſt. 72. Moor 566.

By ſtat. 31 Ed. 3. cap. 12. In all caſes touching the King, or other perſon, upon complaint of error in proceſs in the Exchequer, the Chancellor and Treaſurer ſhall cauſe the record to be brought before them, and taking to them the judges and other ſage perſons, ſhall call before them the barons to hear the cauſe of their judgment; and, and, if upon examination error be found, ſhall amend the Rolls, and ſend them into the Exchequer to have execution.

By ſtat. 31 Eliz. c. 1. The not coming of the Lord Chancellor or Lord Treaſurer, or either of them, at any day of adjournment, ſhall be no diſcontinuance, ſo as one of them, or both Chief Juſtices come and are preſent.—But this ſtatute not providing remedy where they came not at the return of the writ of error, (ſee 2 Leon. 59.) it was enacted by 16 Car. 2 c. 2. that if the Chief Juſtices or either of them, or the Chancellor or Treaſurer ſhall not come at the return of the writ of error, it ſhall be no abatement or diſcontinuance; but no judgment ſhall be given, unleſs both Chancellor and Treaſurer ſhall be preſent.

And in the Bankers caſe adjudged in the Exchequer, which came before the Lord Keeper, &c. purſuant to the above ſtatute of 31ſt Ed. 3. the Lord Chancellor and three of the judges were of opinion, that the judgment of the Exchequer ſhould be reverſed; and then the queſtion was, whether the judgment of the court ſhould purſue the opinion of the majority of the judges, or that of the Lord Keeper and the three judges; and three of the judges were of opinion, that the majority of the judges ſhould govern this judgment; but the others being of a contrary opinion, the judgment was reverſed, which was pronounced by my Lord Keeper Somers.

If upon a judgment in B. R. there be error in the proceſs, or through the default of the clerks, it ſhall be reverſed in the ſame court by writ of error ſued there before the ſame juſtices. F. N. B. 21. Poph. 181 1 Pol. Abr. 746.

So if one is indicted of treaſon or felony in B. R. or being indicted elſewhere, the indictment is removed in B. R. and by proceſs of that court he is erroneouſly outlawed, and ſo returned; a writ of error may be brought in B. R. for the reverſal thereof. 3 Inſt. 214.

Alſo if an erroneous judgment in point of law be given in B. R. upon an indictment in London, a writ of error may be brought in the ſame court; for though in civil caſes error does not lie in the ſame court, unleſs for a matter of fact; yet in criminal caſes it lies as well for an error in law as fact. 1 Sid. 208.

In Fitz. N. B. 21. it is ſaid, that a judgment cannot the ſame term it is given be reverſed in B. R. without a writ of error, though ſuch judgment may in the Common Pleas; but it does not ſeem that there is any foundation for this diſtinction, for during the term in which any judicial act is done, the record remains in the breaſt of the judges of the court; and therefore the Roll is alterable during the term, as they ſhall direct. Moor 186. pl. 332. Yelv. 157. Poph. 181. But when the term is paſt, the Roll is the record, and admits of no alteration. Co. Lit. 260. a. See Amendment.

But if an erroneous judgment be given, and the error lies in the judgment itſelf, and not in the proceſs, a writ of error does not lie in B. R. of ſuch judgment. 1 Rol. Abr. 746.

If two bring a writ of error in B. R. upon a judgment in an aſſize, and pending the writ one of the plaintiffs dies, and after, the court not knowing of the death of one of them, reverſes the judgment; and after he, againſt whom the judgment was reverſed, brings a writ of error in the ſame court de B. R. and aſſigns the death of one of the plaintiffs in the firſt writ of error, which was the act of God, not the error of the court, it ſeems the writ well lies. Rol. Abr. 747. Cro. Eliz. 105. 4 Leon. 60. S. P.

If a record is removed by writ of error out of the Common Pleas into the King's Bench, and the writ of error for inſufficiency is quaſhed in the King's Bench, the plaintiff in error may have a writ coram vobis reſiden'. But ſuch new writ is not a ſuperſedeas in itſelf as the firſt writ was, and therefore he muſt move the court for a ſuperſedeas, and put in bail thereon. Carth. 368—9.

So if ſuch ſecond writ be quaſhed for inſufficiency, yet the court will grant a new or ſecond writ of error coram vobis reſiden'. As alſo a ſuperſedeas on putting in bail; for ſuch ſecond writ being void, as if there had been none before. Carth. 369, 370.

Writ of error quaſhed by means of the defendant in error, to be without coſts. Stran. 139.

Writ of error quaſhed being by one defendant only of a judgment againſt two. Stran. 233.

Coſts on quaſhing writs of error are to be given in all caſes. Stran. 606.

If a writ of error be quaſhed for any other fault than variance, error coram vobis lies. Stran. 607.

Court will not quaſh writ of error for being twenty-nine years after judgment. Stran. 837.

Judgment againſt the inhabitants of part of three pariſhes, and a writ of error of a judgment againſt the inhabitants of the three pariſhes quaſhed. Stran 1110.

Where a writ of error is ſpent by the plaintiff's in error moving in arreſt of judgment, he ſhall pay coſts on quaſhing it. Stran. 834.

Writ of error quaſhed, becauſe all the proper parties are not plaintiffs. Ld. Raym. 71.

Writ of error coram vobis, reciting the former writ to be returnable coram nobis, where it was before the King and the late Queen, quaſhed. Ld. Raym. 151.

Error tam quam may be quaſhed as to one judgment, and ſtand good as to another. Ld. Raym. 328.

Writ of error not to be quaſhed till the tranſcript returned and filed. Ld. Raym. 329.

Writ of error of a judgment on a recognizance quaſhed, becauſe it was in adjudicatione executionis judicii. Ld. Raym. 553.

Writ of error quaſhed for a variance in the ſtile of the court. Ld. Raym. 704.

One of the defendants brings a writ of error without the other; though the writ ſhall be quaſhed, the record is removed. Ld. Raym. 1403.

What coſts ſhall be given on quaſhing a writ of error. Ld. Raym. 1403.

Coſts given on quaſhing a writ of error. 4 Ann. c. 16. ſect. 25.

5. Of removing the record or a tranſcript, and of alledging diminution, and granting a certiorari.

On a writ of error of a judgment in the Common Pleas, or other inferior court, in every adverſary ſuit, the record itſelf ſhall be removed, that it may remain as a precedent and evidence of the law in the like caſes. 1 Rol. Abr. 753. 5 Co. 39.

But in the caſe of a fine the tranſcript only is removed, for fines are only a more ſolemn acknowledgment or contract of the parties, and therefore are no memorials of the law, and need only be affirmed or vacated; if the former, the contract ſtands as it was, if the latter, the juſtices of B. R. may ſend for the fine itſelf, and reverſe it, or they may ſend a writ to the Treaſurer and Chamberlain to take it off the file; beſides, ſhould the record itſelf be removed and affirmed, it could not be ingroſſed for want of a Chirographer in B. R. 1 Rol Abr. 752. 1 Bendl. 51. Dyer 89. Godb. 248. 2 Rol. Rep. 233. F. N. B. 20.

Alſo if a writ of error be brought in parliament of a judgment in B. R. the chief Juſtice muſt go in perſon into the houſe with the record itſelf, and a tranſcript, which is to be examined and left there, and then the record to be brought back again in B. R. and if the judgment be affirmed, the court of B. R. may proceed on the record to grant execution; and therefore if the record itſelf ſhould be removed, and judgment affirmed, and the parliament diſſolved, there could not be any proceedings thereupon to have execution. 4 Inſt. 21. Cro. Jac. 341. 1 Bulſt. 166. 1 Rol. Abr. 753. Godb. 249.

So if a writ of error be brought in B. R. here of a judgment in B. R. in Ireland, the record itſelf is not ſent, but a tranſcript only, by reaſon of the danger of the ſeas; but when it is come ſafe, and entred in the rolls here, then it ceaſes to be a record in Ireland, and is a perfect record here; yet if the judgment be affirmed, the King's Bench in England ſhall not award execution, but ſhall ſend a ſpecial mandate to the Chief Juſtice in Ireland to do it. 2 Bac. Abr. 203.

ſend

If a writ of error be brought in B. R. to reverſe a judgment given in B. the original ſhall not be removed, if it be not by ſpecial matter, as if error be aſſigned in the original. 1 Rol. Abr. 753.

If a writ of error be brought in B. R. upon a judgment in an inferior court againſt the plaintiff, there the court may reverſe the judgment, though the original be not removed, no error being aſſigned in the original; for this is removed but to ſue here upon the ſame original. 1 Rol. Abr. 753.

In an action of waſte brought in the Huſtings in London, there was a verdict for the plaintiff, which being after quaſhed for the inſufficiency, and a new venire awarded, whereupon a verdict was given for the defendant, and judgment for him, and a writ of error being thereupon brought before ſpecial commiſſioners, it was reſolved, that the firſt verdict ſhould be certified in the record, becauſe it was not ſet aſide, for that the jurors had found againſt evidence, or for any undue practice or misfeaſance of the parties, but only for the inſufficiency thereof in point of law, which the court had adjudged upon the verdict appearing before them upon record. 2 Saund. 254. 1 Lev. 309. S. C.

If a writ of error be brought in B. R. upon a fine levied in the Huſtings of Oxford, the record itſelf ſhall be removed. 1 Rol. Abr. 753.

If there be ſeveral records between the ſame parties with which the deſcription in the writ of error agrees, the inferior court may remove which of the records they pleaſe. 1 Vent. 96. 1 Sid. 466. Raym. 189. 2 Keb. 684.

If the Judges of the Common Pleas, or other Judges, upon a writ of error, will not certify all the record, the party that ſues the writ of error may alledge diminution of the record, and pray a writ to the juſtices that certified the record before, to certify the whole record. F. N. B. 25. a.

But diminution cannot be alledged upon a writ of error brought upon a judgment in any inferior court. 1 Sid. 40.

And therefore where in a borough-court a plaint was entred as the plaint of A. B. and the declaration was by A. B. executor of J. S. and on a writ of error in B. R. this variance was aſſigned for error: the court held, 1. That want of a plaint in an inferior court is the ſame as want of an original in the court of Common Pleas, and that this could not be a plaint in this action. 2. If ſuch variance had been in a record of the Common Pleas, diminution might have been alledged, and a good writ certified; but in records out of inferior courts, no diminution can be alledged, and the court muſt take them as they find them. 1 Salk. 266.

A man cannot alledge diminution contrary to the record which is certified. 1 Rol. Abr. 764.

As if in a writ of error it be certified, that the judgment was quod defend. ſit in miſericordia, the defendant in the writ of error cannot alledge diminution: ſſ. that the record is quod capiatur, becauſe this is contrary to the record certified. 1 Rol. Abr. 764.

If upon a writ of error the record be certified, that a challenge was to the ſheriff for coſenage, and after thereupon a venire facias was awarded to the coroner upon diminution, it cannot be certified, that the challenge was after the return of the venire facias, becauſe this is contrary to the record before certified, for nothing can be certified but that which ſtands with the firſt record. 1 Rol. Abr. 764. 1 Rol. Rep. 200.

In a writ of error brought in B. R. upon a judgment in the Common Pleas, the want of a warrant of attorney being aſſigned for error, the plaintiff prayed one certiorari to the Chief Juſtice, and another to the cuſtos brevium, both which returned non inveni aliquod warrant', and the defendant dying, the plaintiff by journeys accounts brought a new writ of error againſt the ſon and heir of the defendant, who appearing alledged diminution, in that the warrant of attorney was not certified, and prayed another certiorari to the cuſtos brevium; and it was urged, the return was not quod non habetur aliquod warrant', but quod non inveni, &c. ſo that if upon the ſecond, a warrant ſhould be returned, it would not be repugnant; but it ſeemed to Wray Chief Juſtice, that it would be hard to grant a new certiorari in this caſe; though if any variance could be alledged, it would be otherwiſe, as adjudged in the caſe of one Laſſels; where it was certified there was no warrant of attorney; and becauſe the original was inter Laſſels executor' teſtamenti, &c. where he was not named executor in the firſt certiorari; and upon the matter a new certiorari was granted. 1 Leon. 22. See Cro. Jac. 277. 1 Bulſt. 21.

After in nullo eſt erratum, the court to inform their conſciences, may award a certiorari to amend the record. 5 Co. 37. 1 Rol. Abr. 764. Style 352. 2 Rol. Rep. 471.

If after in nullo eſt erratum pleaded, another part of the record is brought in by certiorari, and made of record there, the court ought to reverſe the judgment, if the matter ſo requires. 5 Co. 37. 1 Rol. Abr. 764.

After in nullo eſt erratum pleaded, if one party alledge upon record, a diminution of the record to reverſe it, and prays a certiorari to certify it, and thereupon a writ of certiorari is ſued out, and the record thereupon is certified; but before it is entred of record, the court is informed of this matter, this ſhall not be received; becauſe it comes in by the prayer of the party after in nullo eſt erratum pleaded, which is not to be allowed; but upon information to the court, the court may grant it. 1 Rol. Ab. 764—5. 1 Jon. 139. S. C.

In treſpaſs in B. R. judgment was given for the plaintiff by default, and a writ of error brought in camera ſcaccarii, and there aſſigned for error, that there was not any writ of inquiry of damages filed; and upon a writ of certiorari certified, that there was not any ſuch writ; yet after another certiorari granted, and upon this the writ of inquiry was certified, upon which the judgment was affirmed. 1 Rol. Abr. 765.

So where in a writ of right in B. R. after judgment, a writ of error was brought in cameri ſcaccarii, and the want of continuances aſſigned for error; and upon a certiorari, the want of continuances certified; yet after, upon another certiorari, the continuances were certified, and upon this the judgment affirmed. 1 Rol. Abr. 765.

If error be aſſigned in the original, and upon a certiorari granted an erroneous original is returned; and upon this in nullo eſt erratum is pleaded, and after the court ad informandam conſcientiam grant another certiorari for another original, and upon this a good original is certified; the court ought to intend that this is the original, upon which the judgment was given, in favour of judgments, which ought to be intended to be good. 1 Rol. Abr. 765. Godb. 407. 2 Rol. Rep. 352. Cro. Car. 91. Style 176.

If a writ of error be brought upon a judgment in B. R. in Ireland, in a writ of falſe judgment, upon a judgment in the Toulſel (which is the court of the mayor and aldermen of Dublin;) and it is aſſigned for error, that there was no plaint entered in the Toulſel, and that theſe words, per quod actio accrevit were omitted in the concluſion of the declaration; if the defendant alledge diminution, yet he ſhall not have a certiorari to the Chief Juſtice de B. R. in Ireland, to certify the reſidue of the record, &c. and that if any part of the record be not before him, that he ſhould write to the mayor and aldermen to certify it, and that he ſhould certify it to this court; for by this plea of in nullo eſt erratum in B. R. in Ireland, he hath admitted the record well certified by the mayor and aldermen; and this court hath no authority to require the court de B. R. in Ireland to write to the mayor, &c. and the judgment de B. R. in Ireland, is only here in queſtion; and ſuch writ being iſſued, a ſuperſedeas was granted to the whole, though it was prayed that the ſuperſedeas ſhould go as to the inferior court only; but at another day it being moved, that there might go a certiorari as to the words per quod, &c. it was granted. Palm. 285.

If in a writ of error, upon a fine, an error be aſſigned in the proclamations, upon which a certiorari goes to the cuſtos brevium, and upon his certificate it appears, that two of his proclamations were made in one day; but it appears in the Chirograph-Office, that the proclamations were duly made; and he making and being the principal officer as to them, and the cuſtos brevium having only an abſtract thereof; upon the prayer of the defendant a new certiorari was directed to the Chirographer, who having certified the proclamations duly made, after examination of the clerks of the Common Pleas by the Juſtices in B. R. they awarded that the proclamations with the cuſtos brevium ſhould be amended according to thoſe in cuſtody of the Chirographer. 3 Leon. 106.

A writ of error was brought upon a judgment in debt by confeſſion in C. B. and the want of an original was aſſigned for error; the defendant, before a certiorari returned, came in gratis, and pleaded a releaſe in bar, to which there was a demurrer; and it being agreed that the plea was ill for want of a venue, the queſtion was, Whether the court ex officio might award a certiorari; and it was held by three judges, that though the party had concluded himſelf by relying on his releaſe, that yet the court was not bound thereby, but may award a certiorari; and if upon the return thereof it appeared that all the proceedings were right, they were obliged to give judgment on the whole record, according to conſcience and right; but Holt Chief Juſtice held, that the court in this caſe could not award a certiorari, becauſe the queſtion was not, whether error or not, but whether barred or not by the releaſe; which being the point referred to their judgment, they were not at liberty to depart from it. 1 Salk. 268. 6 Mod. 113, 206. S. C.

In a writ of error in the Exchequer-Chamber upon a judgment in B. R. it was aſſigned for error, that in the bill, the plaintiff declared on a leaſe for three years; but in the plea-roll, upon which the iſſue was joined, and the record of niſi prius, it was upon a leaſe for five years, ſo that the bill and declaration vary; and diminution being alledged by the plaintiff, a bill was certified, in which it was only for three years; upon which the defendant had another certiorari, and thereupon a bill was certified, wherein he declared upon a leaſe for five years, which warranted the declaration upon the roll and the niſi prius; and it was held by all the Juſtices and Barons, that the ſecond certificate, upon diminution alledged by the defendant, ſhould be received, for that warranting the roll and the record of niſi prius ſhall be intended the true bill, and the other a fictitious one. Cro. Car. 91.

If the court may award a certiorari ad informandum conſcientiam of a releaſe of errors ill pleaded. Ld. Raym. 1005.

The court will not reverſe a judgment as not being by original bill, without having it returned to a certiorari, that there is no bill. Ld. Raym. 1442.

Where it is returned upon a certiorari, that there is no writ of inquiry, the defendant in error may have another certiorari, and get a writ of inquiry returned. Ld. Raym. 1476.

If a certiorari to verify errors bear teſte before the errors aſſigned, the judgment ſhall be affirmed. Ld. Raym. 1554.

A record returned to a certiorari contrary to the record returned before, cannot be received. Stran. 1122.

An attorney and his wife ſue by writ of privilege, and have judgment by default; the judgment was affirmed, becauſe the writ of privilege was not returned before the court of B. R. on a certiorari. Stran. 1398.

6. Of the ſcire facias; proceedings after the record removed; amendment and abatement of the writ of error, and how far it is a ſuperſedeas.

After the record is removed, and the plaintiff in error has aſſigned his errors, which may be either errors in fact or in law, he ſhall have a ſcire facias ad audiendum errores againſt the defendant, who thereupon may plead In nullo eſt erratum, a releaſe, &c. F. N. B. 44.

The Exchequer-Chamber doth not award a ſcire facias ad audiendum errores, but notice is given to the parties concerned. 1 Vent. 34. See Palm. 186.

After a writ of error brought the defendant dies, yet the plaintiff in error may ſue out a ſcire facias, &c. againſt the executor. 1 Vent. 34.

If a man condemned in an aſſiſe be outlawed for the fine of the King, and he brings a writ of error to reverſe the outlawry only, there ſhall not be any ſcire facias againſt the recoverer, becauſe the outlawry is at the ſuit of the King only. 1 Rol. Abr. 763.

The attainder of felony of a perſon who had any lands, ſhall never be reverſed by writ of error without a ſcire facias againſt all the tertenants, and lords mediate and immediate; but it is ſettled that ſuch ſcire facias is not neceſſary in the caſe of high treaſon; alſo it is ſaid, that it is not neceſſary in the caſe of felony, when it is ſuggeſted on the Roll, that the party had no lands, and the Attorney general confeſſes it. 2 Bac. Abr. 207.

Upon a writ of error againſt the heir of him that recovers, a ſcire facias lies againſt the heir and tertenants. 1 Rol. Abr. 763.

If a writ of error is brought to reverſe a common recovery, the court, before reverſal thereof, ought to award a ſcire facias againſt the tertenants; and this is not merely diſcretionary, but ex neceſſitate juris; for they may have a matter to plead in bar, as a releaſe, &c. Hill. 2 & 3 Jac. 2. between Kingſton and Herbert. 3 Mod. 119. per cur. but adjornatur. 1 Leon. 290. like point.

But this matter was fully debated in the caſe of Wynn and Lloyd, where in a writ of error to reverſe a judgment given in a common recovery againſt the vouchee, after in nullo errat. eſt pleaded, the court awarded a ſcire facias (upon a ſurmiſe of the defendant, that there were tertenants) to the tertenants; the ſheriff returned, that A. is tertenant, and a ſcire feci, and A. comes in and ſays that there are other tertenants, and prayed a ſcire facias to them, and had it; the ſheriff returned, that B. is tertenant, and ſcire feci, and B. coming in, ſays there are other tertenants, and prayed ſcire facias to them; it was inſiſted, that the tertenant was not a party concerned in the reverſal of the judgment, but only as to his poſſeſſion, and therefore could not otherwiſe plead than as concerning his poſſeſſion; that by this means the delay might be infinite, for he that comes in upon this ſcire facias might as well plead that there is another tertenant, and ſo the plaintiff might be ſtaved off from ever having the benefit of his writ of error; beſides, this ſurmiſe is contrary to the return of the ſheriff. On the other ſide it was urged, 1. That the ſcire facias ought to go out againſt the tertenants, and had in all caſes, where it ever was controverted, been awarded, as appears by Dyer 321. Cro. Jac. 392. Owen 157. Bridg. 69, 70. 21 E. 5. 56. Cro. Car. 295, 313. Moor 524. Cro Eliz. 739. Co. Ent. 233. 2. That it ought to go out againſt them all, becauſe any one of them may have a releaſe to plead which may diſcharge or advantage the other. 3. That if it cannot be pleaded by the tertenant, yet it may be ſuggeſted to the court as amicus curiæ, and awarded ex officio; for it may be, he that is not ſummoned can plead in bar of the writ of error, which will go to the whole, and eaſe the court of examining errors; and in that reſpect it may be awarded, and the proceedings ſtay; but the court held, that the awarding a ſcire facias to the tertenants was not ex neceſſitate juris; and therefore when it is once out, and the tertenants are warned, there is no reaſon to grant it a third time, and here the delay was apparent; but if he could make it out, that he that is not warned has a releaſe of errors to plead, it being in their breaſts and diſcretions, it ſhould be granted, otherwiſe not. 1 Lev. 72, 130, 146. 1 Sid. 213. 1 Keb. 54, 351, 388, 459, 717, 748. Raym. 16, 55, 70, 96. S. C.

But where a writ of error was brought to reverſe a common recovery, and a ſcire facias ſued out againſt him that was the nominal demandant in the writ of entry, and a ſcire facias was moved for to the tertneant, but oppoſed, becauſe the tertenant was an infant, and therefore the parol may demur during her nonage, which would greatly delay the plaintiff; beſides, if this infant ſhould die, the lands may remain to another, but notwithſtanding this, the court awarded a ſcire facias; and it was held by Holt Ch. Juſt. that though the granting a ſcire facias in ſuch caſes againſt the tertenants is diſcretionary, and not ſtricti juris; yet it hath been the conſtant courſe of this court to grant it; therefore he was of opinion, not to depart from that which had been the uſual courſe of the court. Carth. 111.

it

If the plaintiff in error aſſigns an error in fact, if the defendant will put in iſſue the truth of the fact, he ought to rejoin by denial of the fact, and ſo join iſſue thereupon, and ſhall not ſay in nullo eſt erratum, for by this he acknowledges the fact alledged to be true. 1 Rol. Abr. 763. Br. Error 93.

But when an error in fact is aſſigned, if the defendant will acknowledge the fact to be ſo as alledged, and yet that by law this is not error, he ought to rejoin in nullo eſt erratum, for by this he acknowledges the fact, and yet that by law it is not error. 1 Rol. Abr. 763.

Alſo if a man who is outlawed brings a writ of error to reverſe the outlawry, and aſſigns his errors, the King's attorney ſhall not plead in nullo eſt erratum, which amounts to a demurrer, as is done between common perſons; but upon the aſſignment of the error, the court ſhall give a day to the King's counſel to maintain the outlawry; and it is entred curia adviſare vult, till the outlawry is reverſed or affirmed. 1 Rol. Abr. 763.

If error be alledged in the body of the record, in nullo eſt erratum is a good rejoinder, for this ſhall put the matter in the judgment of the court, the Record being agreed to be ſo. 1 Rol. Abr. 763.

So if error be alledged in a matter of record, which is not of the body of the record, but in a collateral thing, as quod non habetur aliquod recordum, of reſummons, in nullo eſt erratum is a good rejoinder; for if the plaintiff in the writ of error does not pray diminution, and therefore procure a certificate from the inferior court, that there is not any reſummons before the rejoinder entred, this aſſignment is of no effect, but void, inaſmuch as this is to be tried by the record itſelf, and no diminution can be alledged after rejoinder entred; for if the defendant will confeſs the error, yet the court ought not to reverſe the judgment, till they are aſcertained of the error by the record itſelf. 1 Rol. Abr. 764. 1 Leon. 22.

If a writ of error abates or diſcontinues by the act and default of the party, a ſecond writ of error ſhall be no ſuperſedeas; otherwiſe if it abates or diſcontinues by the act of God or the law. 1 Keb. 658.

The ſcire facias in error muſt be returnable as the original proceſs was. Stran. 694.

How the entry ſhall be where a releaſe of errors is found. Stran. 683.

The court will take no notice of the recital of a writ in a declaratſon, but will require the writ itſelf to be produced. Stran. 225.

Return of a certiorari that no writ civitatis London is found, allowed. Stran. 309.

The court may award a certiorari before errors aſſigned. Stran. 440.

In nullo eſt erratum a proper plea to an error not aſſignable. Strau. 685.

No ſecond certiorari to reverſe a judgment. Stran. 765, 819.

If there be warrant of attorney any time pendente lite, it is ſufficient. Stran. 807, 526.

Errors are not verified by a certiorari, teſted before the writ of error. Stran. 819.

A certiorari lies to affirm a judgment after in nullo eſt erratum. Stran. 907.

The recital of the writ may aid a defect in the court. Stran. 1023.

Writs of error may be amended, ſtat. 5 Geo. 1. c. 13.

Writ of error amended without coſts. Stran. 863.

Amendment of writ of error by ſtriking out a plaintiff. Stran. 892.

The court may ex officio amend a writ of error. Stran. 902.

Writ of error is abated by death of one of the plaintiffs, but not by the death of a defendant. Stran. 244.

Where error abates by the act of the plaintiff in error, execution ſhall go. Stran. 880, 1015.

After the writ of error ſhewn, the plaintiff ought not to take out execution, but the defendant ſhall have four days time to get it allowed, and four days time more to put in bail, if the caſe require it; and if he paſſes that time, the writ of error ſhall be no farther a ſuperſedeas. 2 Keb. 129.

If judgment in a formedon be pronounced 16 Novemb. and a writ of error is brought by the tenant bearing teſte 27 Novemb. and then allowed, and in majorem cautelam a ſuperſedeas made out againſt executions, and the demandant obtains a writ of ſeiſin, bearing teſte 9 Octob. before, by warrant of the judgment, which was afterwards entred but as of Octob. Mich. being the laſt continuance, which being made appear to the court, and they being ſatisfied that the judgment was pronounced 16 Novemb. before which time the defendant could not have a writ of ſeiſin, nor the plaintiff a writ of error, they held this ſuch a trick as would defeat any writ of error; and therefore a new ſuperſedeas was awarded againſt that writ of execution, quia erronice emanavit. Hob. 329. See 3 Lev. 312.

If a writ of error is taken out to remove a record between ſuch and ſuch perſons, and ſome of the parties are omitted; ſo that in ſtrictneſs the writ does not agree with the record, yet it is notwithſtanding a ſuperſedeas, and no execution can be taken out, for the court below cannot judge of the fitneſs of it, tho' it may be quaſhed in the court out of which it iſſues. 1 Mod. Hughes and Underwood.

If A. recovers in debt or damages againſt B. and ſues out a capias ad ſatisfaciendum againſt B. which is returned non eſt inventus, upon which a ſcire facias is awarded againſt the bail and returned, and after a ſecond ſcire facias awarded but not returned, B. brings a writ of error on the principal judgment; this is no ſuperſedeas as to the proceedings againſt the bail, but the ſecond ſcire facias may well be returned, and the plaintiff may proceed thereon, notwithſtanding the writ of error, which affecting only the principal judgment, is diſtinct from the proceedings againſt the bail. 2 Rol. Abr. 491.

If a man recovers againſt J. S. and on a ſcire facias hath judgment againſt the bail, and the bail bring a writ of error of the judgment on the ſcire facias; this ſhall be no ſuperſedeas as to the principal judgment, and therefore the plaintiff may take out execution againſt the principal. 2 Rol. Abr. 491.

If a man brings a writ of error on a judgment, but does not remove the record within ſix days, this ſhall be no ſuperſedeas, but execution may well be taken out, for it appears that the writ of error is merely for delay. 2 Rol. Abr. 491.

If a writ of error be brought returnable into the Exchequer Chamber, which is allowed by the clerk of the errors, and a ſuperſedeas granted thereupon; but the record is not marked by the clerk of the errors, as the uſage is, nor notice thereof given to the attorney of the other ſide; but theſe matters are omitted becauſe the attorney was not known, nor the number roll of the record; yet this is a good ſuperſedeas in law, ſo that if execution be awarded and executed, it is erroneous, and a ſuperſedeas ſhall be awarded quia erronice emanavit; but it is no contempt in the attorney in taking out execution, he having no notice of the writ of error, and the roll not being marked. 1 Rol. Abr. 492.

It ſeems clearly agreed, that an action of debt may be brought upon a judgment in B. R. notwithſtanding a writ of error brought in the Exchequer-Chamber; for tho' ſuch a writ be a ſuperſedeas to the execution, yet the duty remains upon record; and it is but reaſonable the party ſhould have this remedy for his damages for forbearance. 2 Rol. Abr. 490.

A writ of errer ſuperſedes the taking out a capias ad ſatisfaciendum in order to charge the bail. Stran. 867.

Writ of error ſued out before judgment is a ſuperſedeas. Stran. 632.

Plaintiff cannot call for the return of a capias ad ſatisfaciendum pending error. Stran. 1186.

Writ of error brought by one defendant ſuperſedes execution. Ld. Raym. 405.

7. Of

7. Of aſſigning errors.

Upon a writ of error for want of aſſigning errors, judgment is not affirmed, but execution goes upon the firſt judgment, ſo that the party can have no coſts; but his remedy muſt be upon the recognizance, by which he is bound to proſecute with effect. 1 Sid. 294. 2 Keb. 52, 71, 75, S. C.

The parties upon the removal of the record by the writ of error, have no day in court given to either of them; wherefore if the plaintiff in error delay to ſue forth his ſcire facias ad audiendum errores, the defendant hath no way to compel him, but by ſuing out a ſcire facias quare executionem non, &c. and if upon ſuch a ſcire facias, the plaintiff in error doth not plead, that errors are aſſigned, but ſuffer judgment to paſs upon two nihils, no errors afterwards aſſigned ſhall prevent execution. Carth. 40, 41.

And by a rule of the King's Bench, if the plaintiff in error doth not aſſign his errors, and give a copy of them to the defendant's attorney in error, by or before the time given by the rule on the ſcire facias is out, the defendant's attorney in error may enter judgment on the ſcire facias, and take out execution thereon, but can have no coſts, unleſs he gives a rule for the plaintiff to aſſign error on record; which if he doth not do, he may be non proſ', and then the defendant in error ſhall have his coſts.

Alſo by another rule of the ſame court, when the plaintiff in error hath aſſigned the general errors, he muſt give a copy of them to the defendant's attorney, who may plead in nullo eſt erratum to it immediately, and enter both on the roll, paying the plaintiff's attorney 2*s.* 4*d.* for the ſame. See Att. Pract. in K. B.

If the defendant in error ſues out a ſcire facias quare executionem non debet; this is merely collateral to the record removed, and yet by matter ex poſt facto may become a record; as if the plaintiff upon the return of the ſcire facias appears and pleads a releaſe or other matter, as he well may, then this is a record annexed to the firſt record removed; but if upon the return of the ſcire facias, the plaintiff appears, and aſſigns errors, or hath a day given him to aſſign them, and upon this record aſſigns his errors inſufficiently; this ſcire facias is but a piece of paper filed to the record, no proceeding being thereupon. Yelv. 6, 7.

In a writ of error, it is no good aſſignment of error, quod in omnibus erratum eſt, for the court is not bound to inquire of the errors, if the party does not ſhew them. 1 Rol. Abr. 761.

In a writ of error to reverſe an outlawry, errors cannot be aſſigned by attornatum, but the party muſt appear in perſon. 2 Leon. 22. Cro. Eliz. 611.

If two bring ſeveral writs of error, and ſeveral ſcire facias's to reverſe a judgment in an aſſiſe againſt them, they may aſſign errrors jointly. 1 Rol. Abr. 761. Bro. Error 50.

If a writ of error upon a judgment in an aſſiſe be brought by four and only one appears, and the other makes default, he cannot aſſign errors alone till the other is ſummoned and ſevered. Yelv. 3, 4. Cro. Eliz. 891.

So if upon a judgment in a quare impedit, a writ of error be brought by the biſhop and incumbent, the incumbent only without ſummons and ſeverance cannot aſſign errors. Cro. Jac. 94.

If two are outlawed in an appeal of murder, and they bring a writ of error to reverſe it, and one appears, but the other does not, he ſhall not aſſign errors till the other does, becauſe he hath joined with him in the writ of error. 1 Sid. 316.

Two brought a writ of error, and made two attornies; upon the ſcire facias, the one attorney aſſigned error, to which the defendant took iſſue, and then the other would plead in abatement of the writ; and it was held per cur', if one of the plaintiffs had made default, he ſhould be ſevered; but if they go on, they muſt proceed jointly; and if one attorney will aſſign error, &c. without authority from both, we cannot help it, let him take his remedy againſt the attorney. 6 Mod. 40.

The plaintiff in error cannot aſſign error in fact, and error in law together, for theſe are diſtinct things, and require different trials. 1 Rol. Abr. 761. 1 Sid. 147. 1 Leon. 105.

If the plaintiff in error aſſigns errors in fact, and errors in law, which are not aſſignable together, and the defendant in error pleads in nullo eſt erratum; this is a confeſſion of the error in fact, and the judgment muſt be reverſed, for he ſhould have demurred for the duplicity. Style 69. 1 Lev. 76. Salk. 268. 6 Mod. 113, 206.

Alſo if an error in fact be well aſſigned, in nullo eſt erratum is a confeſſion of it, for the defendant ought to have joined iſſue upon it, ſo as to have it tried by the country. 1 Sid. 93. Raym. 59.

But if an error in fact be ill aſſigned, in nullo eſt erratum is no confeſſion of it; as if it be aſſigned, that ſuch a one at the time of the return of the venire was not ſheriff, and the record be removed into B. R. by certiorari, there in nullo eſt erratum is no confeſſion of that error, becauſe the record is not in court, that being no part of the record, for the plea is in nullo eſt erratum in recordo. Cro. Jac. 12, 29, 521. Raym. 231. Cro. Car. 421. 1 Rol. Abr. 758.

So if the plaintiff in error aſſigns an error in fact, viz. that the defendant, who was an infant, did not appear by guardian, but by attorney, and concludes with hoc paratus eſt verificare, inſtead of concluding to the country, as he ought to do, though the defendant in error pleads in nullo eſt erratum; yet it ſhall not amount to a confeſſion, but ſhall be taken only for a demurrer. Yelv. 58.

Alſo if an error in fact, that is not aſſignable, be aſſigned, and in nullo eſt erratum be pleaded, it is no confeſſion; as if it be aſſigned, that ſuch a day there was no court of Common Pleas ſitting, becauſe that is againſt the record, and in ſuch caſe in nullo eſt erratum is only a demurrer; ſo if a man ſays he did not appear, and the record ſays he did, in nullo eſt erratum is no confeſſion, but a demurrer, becauſe it is againſt the record. Cro. Car. 12, 29, 52. Yelv. 58. Raym. 231. 1 Vent. 252. 3 Keb. 259. 1 Lev. 76.

After errors aſſigned, and the defendant had pleaded a releaſe, the plaintiff diſcontinued; and becauſe there was manifeſt error in part of the record remaining in B. he obtained a writ out of Chancery to the Chief Juſtice to remove the reſidue of the record, which being removed in B. R. he would aſſign errors upon the new part removed; and it was ruled per cur', that inaſmuch as the firſt writ was diſcontinued, and this a new writ, the plaintiff is not tied to the former errors, but may ſhew others at his pleaſure, for it is now as if one were aſſigned before, and he may aſſign other errors out of the record; and the removing the record in this manner was held allowable; but this being entered upon another roll, it was held a miſ-entry, and the plaintiff was put to a new writ of error. Cro. Eliz. 155, 281. 2 Leon. 2. S. C.

In error from Ireland, rules are given to aſſign errors, otherwiſe non proſ. Stran. 417.

Plea to the ſcire facias quare executio non, ſet aſide. Stran. 679.

A rule muſt be given on the ſcire facias quare executio non, before a rule to aſſign errors. Stran. 917.

Where the plaintiff in error pleads to the ſcire facias, there ſhall be execution if it goes againſt him. Stran. 390.

Aſſignment of errors ſet aſide as vexatious. Stran. 141.

Errors aſſigned by attorney againſt the crown. Stran. 443.

On affidavit of the want of a warrant of attorney, it may be aſſigned for error from Ireland. Stran. 545.

No error to be aſſigned contrary to the record. Stran. 684.

Where two join in a writ of error, and one will not aſſign errors, the court will give the other time to ſummon and ſever. Stran. 783.

Aſſigning for error the death of the plaintiff in ejectment is a contempt. Stran. 899.

Error in the act of the court may be aſſigned by the party who has advantage by it. Stran. 973.

Defendant in ejectment not allowed to aſſign infancy in himſelf. Stran. 33.

Matter aſſignable for error by the principal, not aſſignable by the bail. Stran. 197.

Matter omitted to be pleaded not aſſignable for error. Stran. 197.

In miſericordia, &c. in actions againſt peers is not error. Stran. 197.

Judgment on indictment reverſed for errors in the award of the venire. Stran. 309.

Entry of capiatur, where there ſhould be no capiatur, nor miſericordia, aided by verdict. Stran. 313.

Appearance of infant by attorney not amendable. Stran. 445.

Leaving out ſuper ſe aſſumpſit ill on a judgment by default. Stran. 793.

Where error is brought on a judgment that the parol ſhall demur, the non-age cannot be pleaded again. Stran. 861.

The jury on an indictment muſt appear to be ſworn in the county. Stran. 901.

A ſham plea to a ſcire facias quare executio non, to compel the plaintiff to aſſign errors ſhall be ſet aſide. Ld. Raym. 1414.

Error cannot be aſſigned both in fact and in law. Ld. Raym. 883.

It is not aſſignable, that the original was returned by one who was not ſheriff. Ld. Raym 884.

It is not aſſignable, that the perſon by whom judgment was given was not judge. Ld. Raym. 885.

Granting oyer is not aſſignable for error, but denying it is. Ld. Raym 970.

Giving judgment of reſpondeas ouſter, where it ought to be final, is no error aſſignable by the defendant. Ld. Raym. 1018.

It is not aſſignable, that a juror who gave his verdict was not returned upon the venire, where the venire is not returned to a certiorari, becauſe againſt the record. Ld. Raym. 1414.

It is not aſſignable, that the defendant died before the day of niſi prius, where he is recorded to have appeared. Ld. Raym. 1415.

Judgment of reſpondeas ouſter where it ought to be in chief, is not aſſignable for error by the defendant. Ld. Raym. 594.

Miſdirecting the jury is not aſſignable for error. Ld. Raym. 470.

8. Of pleading in bar of a writ of error, and of the judgment to be given thereon.

The defendant in error may plead a releaſe of all errors, or a releaſe of all ſuits, and theſe pleas, if found for him, will for ever bar the defendant in error. 1 Rol. Abr. 788.

So where by a writ of error the plaintiff ſhall recover, or be reſtored to any perſonal thing, as debt, damage, or the like, a releaſe of all actions perſonal is a good plea; and when land is to be recovered or reſtored in a writ of error, a releaſe of all actions real is a good bar; but where by a writ of error the plaintiff ſhall not be reſtored to any perſonal or real thing, a releaſe of all actions real or perſonal is no bar. Co. Lit. 288. b. 8 Co. 152. 1 Rol. Abr. 788. 2 Rol. Abr. 405.

Alſo if a man loſes in a real action, and he releaſes all his right to the land, this ſhall bar him of his writ of error, for no perſon can bring a writ of error to reverſe a judgment that is not intitled to the land, &c. for the courts of law will not turn out the preſent tenant, unleſs the demandant can make out a clear title; poſſeſſion always carrying with it the preſumption of a good title, till the right owner appears. 1 Rol. Abr. 747, 788. Dyer. 90. a. 3 Leo. 36.

Hence it is, that if a man releaſes all his right of the land of which a fine was levied, he has thereby barred himſelf of his writ of error; for his releaſe having for ever excluded him from the land, he can have no writ of error, becauſe nobody is intitled who cannot have the land, of which the fine was erroneouſly levied. Cro. El. 469. 1 Rol. Abr. 789.

So it is if a fine be levied of 120 acres of land, and he, that hath right to a writ of error, makes a feoffment of the whole, he ſhall never reverſe the fine; but if the feoffment had been made, or a releaſe had been given of 20 acres only, he might yet have writ of error to reverſe the fine as to 100 acres, becauſe he has not transferred his right as to thoſe, and therefore may be reinſtated if the fine be erroneous. 1 Rol. Abr. 788. Cro. Eliz. 46. Moor. 413. Owen. 22. S. C.

If an infant brings a writ of error to reverſe a fine for his non-age, and his non-age after inſpection is recorded by the court; but before the fine reverſed, he levies another fine to another; this ſecond fine ſhall hinder him from reverſing the firſt, becauſe the ſecond having intirely barred him of any right to the land, muſt alſo deprive him of all remedies which would reſtore him to the land. 1 Rol. Abr. 788.

But if tenant in tail levies an erroneous fine, with proclamations, and then levies a ſecond fine, which is alſo erroneous, and dies; if the iſſue in tail brings a writ of error to reverſe the firſt fine, the defendant may plead in bar the ſecond fine; for though there be error in the ſecond, yet till that appears judicially to the court, it muſt be looked upon as a fine duly levied, and conſequently a bar to the plaintiff, becauſe while the ſecond, ſtands in force, he cannot have the land; but if in this caſe the plaintiff brings a writ of error to reverſe the ſecond fine, and the defendant pleads in bar the firſt fine, the plaintiff may reply on the firſt writ of error, that the ſecond fine was erroneous, and ſo be relieved againſt both, for here the examination of both fines comes judicially before the court; and if there appears any error the court will ſet them aſide, and not ſuffer them to ſtand in the way of the plaintiff's right. 1 Rol. Abr. 788. Cro. Eliz. 151.

But in a writ of error to reverſe a fine, the defendant cannot plead the ſame fine now endeavoured to be reverſed, and five years in bar of the writ of error, no more than in a writ of error to reverſe an outlawry, can that outlawry be pleaded in bar of the writ of error, Quia non valet exceptio iſtius cujus petitur diſſolutio. 2 Jon. 181. Raym. 461. 1 Vent. 353. 2 Sid. 92.

So if a fine be levied of land in ancient demeſne the lord may reverſe it after five years expired; but if a ſecond fine had been levied, the lord ſhould be barred of his writ of deceit after five years from the ſecond fine, for a fine of ancient demeſne is not originally within the courts of Weſtminſter, and the ſtatute in relation to the bar does not extend their juriſdiction; but when a fine is levied of ancient demeſne, it comes within the conuſance of the King's courts till the fine be reverſed, and by conſequence they have a juriſdiction of it, and ſo the fine becomes a bar. 2 Inſt. 518. 2 Bulſt. 244. Cro. Jac. 333. 1 Rol. Rep. 36. Raym. 462. 1 Jon. 181.

If a man outlawed upon a rediſſeiſin releaſes all actions to the recoverer, yet he may have a writ of error of the outlawry, becauſe that this does not belong to the party, but to the King in intereſt, and he may aſſign error in the judgment of the rediſſeiſin to reverſe the outlawry. 1 Rol. Abr. 788.

If the tenant, pending a præcipe againſt him, aliens in fee, and after judgment is given againſt him, and he brings a writ of error; this feoffment is not any bar to the writ, becauſe he was privy to the judgment after. 1 Rol. Abr. 788. Bridg. 77. 1 Rol. Rep. 306.

In a writ of error to reverſe a common recovery, it is no good plea, that the plaintiff pending the writ of error hath entred into part, for before the poſſeſſion was taken from him, he might have error to reverſe the judgment, though not to have reſtitution. 1 Lev. 72.

In a ſcire facias againſt a tertenant, he may plead a releaſe of error, though he be not privy to the judgment. 9 Hen. 6. 48. Bro. 9. S. C.

But the tertenants cannot plead in abatement of the writ of error, but only in bar as a releaſe, &c. in maintenance of their title. 1 Lev. 72.

In writ of error againſt the heir of the recoverer within age, and a ſcire facias againſt the tertenants; if the parol demurs for the heir, and the judgment is reverſed againſt the tertenant; yet at full age the heir may plead the releaſe of the demandant of the right, or of the errors, and bar him. 9 Hen. 6. 48. 1 Rol. Abr. 766.

A judgment being an entire thing cannot regularly be reverſed for part, and affirmed for part, as in formedon de uno croſto, meſſuage, &c. if the demandant recovers; and in a writ of error it is adjudged, that a formedon does not lie of a croſt, the judgment for the reſidue ſhall be reverſed alſo, becauſe the writ is not good, inaſmuch as there cannot be a good judgment upon a bad writ. See Moor 366. Noy 117. 2 Leon. 178. Cro. El. 425. 2 Sid. 57, 94. 2 Rol. Rep. 136. 1 Sid. 357. 2 Jon. 374. Carth. 235. 1 Rol. Rep. 2. 2 Bulſt. 214. Allen 74.

So in an action of treſpaſs againſt three, if one dies pending the writ, and yet judgment is given againſt all three, in a writ of error upon this judgment, the whole judgment ſhall be reverſed, becauſe it is intire, though the writ by the death abates but againſt one. 1 Rol. Abr. 775. See Allen 43. Yelv. 209.

In a writ of error upon a judgment in treſpaſs againſt ſeveral, if the judgment be erroneous, becauſe one of the defendants was within age, and appeared by attorney, the judgment ſhall be reverſed in toto againſt all. 1 Rol. Abr. 776. Cro. Jac. 289. S. C. and 303. S. P. adjudged. Allen 74, 75. S. C. and S. P. adjudged. Style 121, 125, 406. S. P. adjudged.

If an action be brought againſt A. as a feme ſole, where ſhe is covert, and againſt B. and C. and they all plead to iſſue, and A. as a feme ſole, and judgment is given againſt them all accordingly; in this caſe the baron of A. with A. B. and C. may join in error, and aſſign for error the coverture of A. and thereupon the judgment ſhall be reverſed for all, becauſe it is intire. 1 Rol. Abr. 776.

If in debt for rent on two ſeveral demiſes, and on the firſt the demiſe and reſervation are laid right; but as to the ſecond, the demiſe is with a reſervation of rent ſecundum ratam 18*l. per ann.* which is a void reſervation, becauſe no certain time or day being appointed for payment, it would ſubject the leſſee to an action of debt every hour, though the error be only in the ſecond demiſe; yet the judgment being intire, muſt be reverſed in toto. Carth. 234—5.

But in a writ of dower, if the plaintiff recovers by default, and upon this a writ is awarded to the ſheriff or bailiff, where the recovery is, to deliver to the plaintiff tertiam partem per metas, and to inquire of the value by the year; and how much time is paſt after the firſt demand of dower, and what damages ſhe hath ſuſtained; and upon this the ſheriff or bailiff returns, that he had delivered the third part of the lands, and the value found by the jury to 30*l. per ann.* and that two years are paſt after the firſt demand, and damages 50*l.* and therefore judgment is given accordingly, to hold in ſeverally the ſaid third part, and to recover the ſaid damages. In this caſe, tho' the judgment is not good as to the damages, inaſmuch as it is not averred, that the huſband of the plaintiff died ſeiſed (as the uſe is,) nor is it ſo found by the jury; nor was it ſo commanded by the writ to be inquired, by which the judgment as to this is erroneous, yet it ſhall be reverſed only as to this, and ſhall ſtand as to the recovery of the third part of the land. 1 Rol. Abr. 776.

So in an action of account, if judgment be given quod computet, and after auditors are aſſigned, and upon the account, judgment is given againſt the defendant alſo, and damages and coſts, and after a writ of error is brought upon both judgments, and thereupon the laſt judgment only is found to be erroneous; in this caſe, the laſt judgment only ſhall be reverſed, and not the firſt judgment; but this ſhall ſtand in force, for theſe are two diſtinct judgments and perfect, for the firſt judgment is, Ideo conſideratum eſt quod computet, & defendens in miſericordia. Cro Eliz. 776. Cro. Eliz. 806.

If a judgment be given againſt executors in an action of debt, and after a ſcire facias judgment is given againſt them, to have execution of their proper goods, and a writ of error is brought upon both judgments; in this caſe, if the firſt judgment be good, and the laſt erroneous, the laſt judgment only ſhall be reverſed, and the firſt judgment ſhall ſtand. 5 Co. 32.

But if a man recovers in debt upon a judgment, if the firſt be reverſed, the ſecond ſhall alſo. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

After a recovery in a rediſſeiſin, if the firſt judgment be reverſed, the judgment on the rediſſeiſin ſhall be reverſed alſo. 8 Co. 143. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

By the reverſal of the original judgment, the outlawry depending thereupon ſhall be reverſed. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If a man recovers in an annuity, and a ſcire faias iſſues thereupon afterwards, and the judgment upon the ſcire facias is after affirmed in a writ of error; yet if the firſt judgment of the annuity be reverſed, the other ſhall be alſo reverſed. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If a man recovers upon an original, and hath another judgment in a ſcire facias, if the firſt judgment be reverſed, the other ſhall be alſo reverſed. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If a man recovers in a quare impedit, and hath a writ to the biſhop, and after recovers againſt the biſhop in a quare non admiſit and after the judgment in the quare impedit is reverſed, the judgment in the quare non admiſit ſhall be alſo reverſed by this, though this was for the contempt to the King. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If the demandant recovers againſt the tenant, and the tenant againſt the vouchee, if the heir of the vouchee reverſes the judgment of the value, becauſe the vouchee was dead at the judgment rendred: this ſhall reverſe the judgment againſt the tenant alſo. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If the principal be outlawed of felony, and the acceſſary attainted and executed, and after the principal reverſes the outlawry, and is indicted and found Not guilty of the felony; by this reverſal and acquittal, the attainder againſt the acceſſary is annihilated, for his heir may have a mort d'anceſtor it ſeems, becauſe he hath no remedy by writ of error, or otherwiſe, to reverſe it, for his depends upon the principal. 9 Co. 119. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If the conuſee of a ſtatute recovers in the detinue by erroneous judgment againſt the garniſhee, and ſues execution, if the garniſhee in a writ of error reverſes the judgment given in detinue, yet the execution is not reverſed by this, becauſe it is a collateral thing executed. 8 Co. 142—3. 5 Co. 90 b. 1 Rol. Abr. 777.

If an infant and one of full age join in a fine, and the infant after bring error for the reverſal thereof, it ſhall be reverſed quoad the infant only. 1 Leon. 317. 1 Co. 76. b. Hob. 278. Cro. Eliz. 115, 124. 2 Leon. 108. Moor 565. 2 Jon. 115.

If huſband and wife join in a fine when they are of full age, it ſhall bind them both; but if the feme be within age, they may join in a writ of error to reverſe it during the minority of the wife. F. N. B. 21. 1 Leon 115.

If a fine be levied of land, of which part is guildable and part ancient demeſne, and as to that which is ancient demeſne, the fine is reverſed by writ or deceit, yet the fine ſhall ſtand for the reſidue, for a mark ſhall be made on the fine in the nature of a cancelling of that which is ancient demeſne only. 1 Rol. Abr. 775. F. N. B. 98. Cro. Eliz. 469. 1 Jon. 374. 2 Jon. 182.

Judgment reverſed on motion, without putting it in the paper where the defendant in error made default to a ſcire feci. Stran. 1210.

Judgment reverſed upon motion. Stran. 127.

On a releaſe of errors pleaded, judgment quod querens nil capiat. Stran. 127.

Judgment reverſed without a rule to join in error. Stran. 144.

On demurrer to aſſignment of errors, the judgment is quod affirmetur. Stran. 439.

Where a judgment for a defendant is reverſed, the plaintiff ſhall only have ſuch coſts as ſhould have been given him in the court below. Stran. 617.

Judgment reverſed in part, and affirmed pro reſiduo. Stran. 808.

A judgment erroneouſly given for full coſts ſhall be reverſed in toto. Stran. 934.

On reverſal of a judgment in part, the court in Ireland may be commanded to award a writ of inquiry, &c. Stran. 973.

Upon pleading the ſtatute of limitations in error, the judgment is to bar the plaintiff of his writ. Stran. 1055.

Where an improper judgment is prayed in a plea to a writ of error, the proper judgment ſhall be given. Stran. 1055.

Coſts in error where none in the original ſuit. Stran. 1084.

On affirming an interlocutory judgment of B. R. in Ireland on a writ of error there, the record muſt be remanded. Stran. 1258.

On ſcire facias againſt an executor, judgment given for the plaintiff with coſts, reverſed as to the coſts and affirmed as to the reſidue. Stran 188.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 9 & 10 Vin. Abr. and 2 Bac. Abr. tit. Error.

Erthmiotum, A meeting of the neighbourhood, viz. It was cuſtomary in former days for the neighbours to meet and compromiſe differences among them by the award of their fellows, Ita ut ne damnum incurat, &c. aliquando in diviſis vel in erthmiotis, ſuum hominem ubique manuteneat, aliquando ſuper ipſam terram. Leg. H. 1. cap. 57.

Eſbrancatura, From the French eſbrancher, to cut off the branches or boughs,——Qui autem forisfecerit in foreſta Regis de viridi, ſive per culpaturam, ſive per eſbrancaturam, ſive per cæditionem turbarum, ſive per eſcoriationem moræ, ſive per eſſartum, &c. erit in miſericordia, &c.

Eſcaldare, To ſcald, as eſcaldare porcos, to ſcald hogs. —In the inquiſition of the ſerjancies and knights fees in the 12th and 13th years of King John, within the counties of Eſſex and Hertford,——Rogerus de Legburn, & Robertus, de Sutton de eo, tenet Bures per ſerjantiam eſcaldandi porcos Regis. Lib. Rub. Scaccar. MS. fol. 137.

Eſcambio, Is a licence granted to one, for the making over a bill of exchange to another over ſea. Reg. Orig. fol. 194. For by the ſtatute of 3 Rich. 2. c. 2. No merchant ought to exchange or return money beyond ſea, without the King's licence. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſcape, (Eſcapium) Cometh from the French echapper, that is, effugere, to fly from, and ſignifies in the law, a violent or privy evaſion out of ſome lawful reſtraint. For example; if the ſheriff, upon a capias directed to him, take one, and endeavour to carry him to the gaol, and he in the way either by violence or by ſlight break from him, this is called an eſcape. Staundf. Pl. Cor. fol. 70. The ſame Staundford in his Pleas of the Crown. lib. 1. c. 26, 27. nameth two kinds of eſcape, the one voluntary, the other negligent: Voluntary is, when one arreſteth another for felony, or any other crime, and afterwards letteth him go whither he liſteth; in which eſcape, the party that permits, is by law guilty of the fault committed by him that eſcapes, be it felony, treaſon, or treſpaſs. Negligent eſcape is, when one is arreſted, and afterwards eſcapeth againſt his will that arreſteth him, and is not purſued by freſh ſuit, and taken again before the party purſuing hath loſt the ſight of him. Id. c. 27. Cowell.

Eſcape in general is underſtood, where any perſon, being under lawful arreſt, and reſtrained of his liberty, either violently or privily evades ſuch arreſt and reſtraint, or is ſuffered to go at large before delivered by due courſe of law. 2 Bac. Abr. 233.

I. Of eſcape in civil caſes.
II. Of eſcape in criminal caſes.

I. Of eſcape in civil caſes.

Under this head is conſidered,

1. Where a perſon ſhall be deemed to be legally committed, ſo that the ſuffering him to go at large will be adjudged an eſcape.

2. What degree of liberty, or going at large, ſhall be deemed an eſcape.

3. Of voluntary and negligent eſcapes; and of eſcapes on meſne proceſs and execution.

4. Who are anſwerable for, and to be charged with, eſcapes; and of eſcape-warrants.

5. Of the proper remedy, and nature of the action to be brought, for an eſcape; manner of laying the action; the perſon's defence, who ſuffered the eſcape; and of pleading freſh ſuit.

1. Where a perſon ſhall be deemed to be legally committed, ſo that the ſuffering him to go at large will be adjudged an eſcape.

It ſeems agreed as a general rule, that where-ever a ſheriff or other officer hath a perſon in cuſtody, by virtue of an authority from a court which hath juriſdiction over the matter, that the ſuffering ſuch perſon to go at large is an eſcape, for he cannot judge of the validity of the proceſs or other proceedings of ſuch court, and therefore cannot take advantage of any errors in them; hence the law allows him, in an action of falſe impriſonment, to plead ſuch authority, which will excuſe him, tho' it be erroneous; but if the court has no juriſdiction of the matter, then all is void, and conſequently the officer not puniſhable for ſuffering a perſon taken upon ſuch void authority to eſcape. Moor 274. Dyer 175. Poph. 203. 1 Leon. 30. 8 Co. 141. b. 5 Co. 64. Cro. Jac. 280, 289. 2 Bulſt. 64, 256.

Upon this diſtinction it hath been adjudged, that if A. obtains judgment againſt B. and a year afterwards, without any ſcire facias, takes out a capias ad ſatisfaciendum, upon which B. is taken, and the ſheriff lets him go at large, that this is an eſcape; for tho' the award of the capias, after the year, without a ſcire facias, was erroneous, yet the ſheriff could not take advadtage thereof, for it was ſufficient authority for him to make the arreſt, and might have been pleaded by him in an action of falſe impriſonment. Cro. Eliz. 188. 1 Salk. 273.

So where in debt for an eſcape, it was found by ſpecial verdict, that the plaintiff had outlawed J. S. after judgment upon a capias ad ſatisfaciend. ſued out within the year, and that two years after the outlawry he was taken up upon a capias utlagatum, and the ſheriff ſuffered him to eſcape, it was admitted, that if a capias utlagatum had been ſued out within the year, no prayer to charge him in cuſtody had been neceſſary, becauſe the plaintiff might have had a capias ad ſatisfaciend. without a ſcire facias; but this being after the year, the queſtion was, whether he could be ſaid to be in execution for the plaintiff in the original action without prayer, becauſe he would have been ſo, if he had been within the year, and here is no difference, for the plaintiff was at the end of his proceſs at the exigent, and no continuance or ſcire facias after a capias utlagatum, and the very capias utlagatum, which is ſued at his charge, imports an election of the body 1 Salk. 319. 5 Mod. 200.

If at the petition of A. and the reſt of the creditors of B. a commiſſion upon the ſtatute againſt bankrupts is iſſued ought againſt B. and thereupon the commiſſioners ſit and offer interrogatories to C. and he refuſes to be examined, and by them is thereupon committed to priſon, and the gaoler ſuffers him to eſcape, as the commiſſioners had ſufficient authority to commit, and A. was prejudiced by the eſcape, he may maintain an action againſt the gaoler. 1 Rol. Rep. 47. Moor 834. pl. 1123. S. C.

So if there be a ſuit in the eccleſiaſtical court between A. and B. in which B. is excommunicated, and afterwards taken upon an excommunicatio capiendo, and ſuffered to eſcape, A. may bring an action on the caſe for the eſcape,

eſcape, tho' it was objected, that this was a ſpiritual matter, and that A. had other remedy, as by writ of recaption. 1 Lutw. 121—123.

Alſo upon this rule, that the ſheriff cannot take any advantage of the irregularity of the proceedings of a court which hath juriſdiction of the matter, it hath been holden, that if a nobleman be taken in execution, and the ſheriff lets him go, it will be an eſcape. 2 Bulſt. 65.

Upon the ſecond part of the diſtinction, that an officer ſhall not be liable to an action for the eſcape of a perſon taken on a writ, which iſſued out of a court that had not juriſdiction of the matter; it hath been holden, that if A. brings an action againſt an officer of an inferior court for an eſcape, and declares, that he brought an action againſt J. S. in the court of Kingſton upon Hull, upon an obligation made at Halifax in Com. Ebor. (but does not alledge it to be within the juriſdiction of the court) and that he obtained judgment, upon which J. S. was in execution, and ſuffered to eſcape by the defendant; that this declaration for want of alledging Hallifax to be within the juriſdiction of the inferior court, is not ſufficient to maintain the action; for tho' the action be in its own nature tranſitory, yet inferior courts being tied down to matters ariſing within their own limits, they muſt ſhew that they had conuſance of the matter; otherwiſe their proceedings will be void, as being coram non judice, of which the officer may well take advantage. 1 Rol. Abr. 809, 810.

So if A. declares, that he proſecuted one J. S. in the court of Ely upon a bond made infra juriſdictionem, upon which he was in execution, and that the defendant ſuffered him to eſcape; if the jury find that there was ſuch a proſecution, but that the bond was not made infra juriſdictionem, the action does not lie; for all that was done was coram non judice, and therefore no legal commitment; and though the defendant in the court below pleaded non eſt factum, yet that could not give the court any juriſdiction which it had not originally in the cauſe. 2 Mod. 29, 30.

Eſcape lies againſt a ſheriff for letting a man go at large being arreſted upon an excommunicato capiendo. Ld. Raym. 788.

An action lies for the eſcape of an outlaw. Stran. 901.

Eſcape is not purged by receiving the money of the defendant after the eſcape. Ld. Raym. 399.

Error in the commitment will not excuſe the gaoler for an eſcape. Ld. Raym. 424.

A ſheriff is chargeable criminally, though not capitally, for eſcapes ſuffered by the gaoler of priſoners committed to the ſheriff. Ld. Raym. 424.

Eſcape of a criminal that is pardoned, before the pardon is allowed in the court of King's Bench, is puniſhable. Ld. Raym. 425.

The ſheriff may juſtify an eſcape by the plaintiff's order. Ld. Raym. 555.

It is no plea for a gaoler, that traitors broke the priſon againſt his will. Ld. Raym. 651.

The ſheriff cannot be charged with an eſcape before he had the party in actual cuſtody by a legal authority; and therefore if an officer, having a warrant to arreſt a man, ſee him ſhut up in a houſe, and challenge him as his priſoner, but never actually have him in his cuſtody, and the party get free, the officer cannot be charged with an eſcape. Bro. Eſcape, 22.

But if A. is arreſted, and in the actual cuſtody of the ſheriff, and afterwards another writ is delivered to him at the ſuit of J. S. upon the delivery of the writ, A. by conſtruction of law is immediately in the ſheriff's cuſtody, without an actual arreſt; and if he eſcapes, the plaintiff may declare, that he was arreſted by virtue of the ſecond writ, which is the operation it has by law, and not according to the fact. 5 Co. 89.

So in eſcape againſt the ſheriffs of London, the plaintiff may declare, that he levied a plaint in the ſheriffs court againſt him being then in the counter, in cuſtody on a former complaint levied againſt him by J. S. and being ſo in cuſtody was ſuffered to eſcape; for the entring the plaint is of the nature of a writ or precept in another court, upon which the Serjeant at Mace arreſts the party by his general authority; and therefore by entring the plaint, and charging the defendant in the counter, he is in actual cuſtody of the ſheriff. 1 Salk. 273—4.

If by habeas corpus the body of J. S. together with a plaint entred againſt him in the court of Norwich, be removed before the Chief Juſtice of B. R. who upon the return of the writ accepts bail, the acceptance of bail, though before the filing thereof, is a diſcharge of the priſoner; and though afterwards a procedendo ſhall be awarded, yet the ſheriff cannot be charged with the eſcape. Cro. Jac. 203.

If A. declares againſt the marſhal of the King's Bench for the eſcape of a priſoner, formerly in the Fleet, and he virtute brevis de habeas corpus, directed to the warden of the Fleet, was debito modo commiſſus to the King's Bench; this will not be ſufficient, without alledging an actual commitment, for he cannot be committed on a habeas corpus, and that debito modo will not help it. 2 Show. 17.

If a perſon out upon bail renders himſelf in diſcharge of his bail, and a reddidit ſe is entred in the judge's book, and a committitur filed in the office, and the priſoner afterwards eſcapes; yet if no notice was given to the marſhal of ſuch render, nor no entry made of the commitment in his book, the priſoner ſhall not be deemed in cuſtody ſo as to charge the marſhal with an eſcape; but it ſeems this matter cannot be inſiſted upon after trial. 1 Salk. 272—3.

It hath been held, that entring a committitur upon the roll was not ſufficient to charge the marſhal with any eſcape, without proving an actual impriſonment; but that proving the party to be actually in priſon, though there be no entry made in the marſhal's book (without which he pretends he knows not how to take charge of them) is ſufficient. 1 Sid. 220. 1 Keb. 775.

And now for the greater ſecurity of creditors, and the better to enable them to prove the actual cuſtody of the priſoner, by ſtat. 8 & 9 Will. 3. c. 27. ſect. 9. it is enacted, "That if any perſon, deſiring to charge any perſon with any action or execution, ſhall deſire to be informed by the marſhal or warden, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, or by any other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, whether ſuch perſon be a priſoner in his cuſtody, or not, the ſaid marſhal or warden, or ſuch other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, ſhall give a true note in writing thereof, to the perſon ſo requeſting the ſame, or to his lawful attorney, upon demand, at his office for that purpoſe, or in default thereof, ſhall forfeit the ſum of 50*l.* and if ſuch marſhal or warden, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, exerciſing the ſaid office, or other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, ſhall give a note in writing that ſuch perſon is an actual priſoner in his or their cuſtody, every ſuch note ſhall be accepted and taken as a ſufficient evidence, that ſuch perſon was at that time a priſoner in actual cuſtody."

A committitur upon the roll is good evidence in eſcape, without an entry in the marſhal's book. Ld. Raym. 705.

2. What degree of liberty, or going at large, ſhall be deemed an eſcape.

Every perſon in priſon by proceſs of law is to be kept in ſalva & aracta cuſtodia, in order to compel them the more ſpeedily to pay their debts, and make ſatisfaction to their creditors. Plow. 36. 3 Co. 44. 2 Inſt. 381. 1 Rol. Abr. 806. And by ſtat. Weſt. 2. (13 Ed. 1.) c, 11. they are to be impriſoned in irons, which, Lord Coke ſays, was enacted in order to oblige them to a more ſpeedy compliance with their duty. 3 Co. 44. a. and 2 Inſt. 381. in his comment on this ſtatute, he ſays, that tho' priſoners, if need require, may now be kept in irons, yet that it could not be done by the Common law. —— And Co. Lit. 260. a. he ſays, impriſonment muſt be cuſtodia, non pœna, for carcer ad homines cuſtodiendos, non adpuniendos, dari debet.

So

If the ſheriff or other officer who hath the cuſtody of a priſoner, either bail him when he is not bailable by law, or ſuffer him to go out of the limits of the priſon, though with a keeper,, and for ever ſo ſhort a time, it is an eſcape. 1 Rol. Abr. 806. 3 Co. 44. Plow. 36. Dyer 166. Hetley 34.

But the law and proviſion made by Weſtm. 2. cap. 11 being eluded by the acts and contrivances of ſheriffs, and other keepers of priſons, by the act of 8 & 9 W. 3 cap. 27. ſect. 1. it is enacted, "That all priſoners, either upon contempt or meſne proceſs, or in execution, who are or ſhall be committed to the cuſtody of the marſhal of the King's Bench priſon, or warden of the Fleet, ſhall be actually detained within the ſaid priſons of the King's Bench and Fleet, or the reſpective rules of the ſame, until they ſhall be from thence diſcharged by due courſe of law; and if at any time the ſaid marſhal or warden, or any other keeper or keepers of any priſon, ſhall permit and ſuffer any priſoner committed to their cuſtody, either on meſne proceſs, or in any execution, to go or be at large out of the rules of their reſpective priſons (except by virtue of ſome writ of habeas corpus, or rule of court, which rule of court ſhall not be granted, but by motion made, or petition read in open court); every ſuch going or being out of the ſaid rules ſhall be adjudged and deemed, and is hereby declared to be an eſcape."

The writ of habeas corpus is an ancient writ, and what the ſubject was by law intitled to; yet if a ſheriff or other officer, who hath the cuſtody of a priſoner, does by colour thereof ſuffer the priſoner to go at large, it is an eſcape. Cro. Car. 14. 1 Rol. Abr. 808. Hob. 202 3 Co. 44.

As if an habeas corpus be returnable the next term, and the ſheriff or gaoler in the mean time ſuffer the priſoner to go at large, it is an eſcape, though he appear at the return of the writ; for the writ only impowers the gaoler to bring him directly to the court, and if he gives him any liberty in the mean time, it is at his peril. Hard. 476.

So where an habeas corpus ad teſtificand. was directed to the marſhal to carry one Reynolds to the aſſiſes at Wells in Somerſetſhire, who after the aſſiſes, was ſuffered to go ſixty miles beyond Wells, and though he returned again to the Marſhalſea, yet it was held an eſcape. 1 Mod. 116.

So if the goaler carry him round about a great way, for the accommodation of the priſoner, it is an eſcape; but he is not bound to bring him the direct way for fear of being reſcued. 1 Mod. 116.

Alſo it hath been adjudged, that if the ſheriff hath one in execution, and a habeas corpus iſſues to have his body in court ſuch a day, and before the return of the writ the ſheriff brings the priſoner to an inn in Smithfield, in his way to Weſtminſter, and the priſoner of his own head goes without any keeper to Southwark, and next morning returns again to the ſheriff, ſo that at the return of the habeas corpus the ſheriff delivers the priſoner into court, this is no eſcape. 3 Co. 44.

As the ſheriff muſt be careful that he does not give the priſoner more liberty than by law he ought to do, when he acts in obedience to a lawful authority; ſo he muſt take care that he does not let him go at large by colour of a void authority. Dalton's Sher. 486.

Therefore if one, in execution at the ſuit of the King and a private perſon, be, by warrant from the Lord Chancellor or Treaſurer, ſuffered to go at large with a keeper, in order to collect the money due to the King; this is an eſcape as to the private perſon, although he return again to priſon; for the King himſelf cannot licenſe one in priſon to go at large with a keeper. Dyer 297. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 808. S. C.

So where the ſheriffs of York pleaded, that they let the priſoner go at large by virtue of a writ of privilege to them from the council of York; and it not appearing to the court that the writ was a ſufficient warrant for that purpoſe, or that the council of York could in ſuch caſe diſcharge a priſoner, the plea was held ill. Cro. Eliz. 893.

If an act of parliament is made for the relief of confined debtors, and purſuant thereto the juſtices of the peace are enabled to diſcharge ſuch and ſuch priſoners, if they authorize the ſheriff to diſcharge a perſon that does not come within the deſcription of the act, and he lets the party go at large, it will be an eſcape. 1 Salk. 273.

The marſhal of the King's Bench being ſued to judgment, if he be afterwards taken in execution, he can be committed to no other goal but the Marſhalſea; and if he is committed to that priſon whereof he is keeper, it will be an eſcape in law of all the priſoners. Style 465.

If a woman warden of the Fleet priſon marries her priſoner, or if a ſheriff, &c. marries a woman in execution with him, in either caſe it will be deemed an eſcape in law. Plowd. 17.

If a man hath judgment againſt two perſons, and both are taken in execution, if the ſheriff ſuffer one of them to eſcape, he ſhall be anſwerable for the whole debt, though he hath one of them ſtill in cuſtody. 1 Rol. Abr. 810.

By the ſtat. 8 & 9 Will. 3. cap. 27. ſect. 8. it is enacted, "That if the marſhal or warden for the time being, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, or other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, ſhall, after one day's notice in writing given for that purpoſe, refuſe to ſhew any priſoner committed in execution to the creditor, at whoſe ſuit ſuch priſoner was committed or charged, or to his attorney, every ſuch refuſal ſhall be adjudged to be an eſcape in law.

3. Of voluntary and negligent eſcapes; and of eſcapes on meſne proceſs and execution.

It was formerly held, that where the ſheriff ſuffered a priſoner in execution to make a voluntary eſcape, the priſoner was in ſuch caſe abſolutely diſcharged from the creditor, and that the right of action was intirely tranſferred againſt the ſheriff, who by means of ſuch eſcape became debitor ex delicto. 1 Leon. 73. Hob. 202. S. P.

But the latter reſolutions have been contrary; and it hath been adjudged, that where a ſheriff ſuffered a voluntary eſcape, the plaintiff might have a new action of debt or ſcire facias quare executionem non againſt the priſoner. 1 Sid. 330. 1 Show 174. 2 Mod. 136. 1 Vent. 269. 1 Mod. 194. 2 Lutw. 1264.

Alſo the ſtatue of 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 27. hath taken away all diſtinctions between voluntary and permiſſive eſcapes with regard to the plaintiff's remedy; for it is enacted by ſect. 7. of the ſaid ſtatute, "That if any priſoner, who is or ſhall be committed in execution to either or any of the ſaid reſpective priſons, ſhall eſcape from thence by any ways or means howſoever, the creditor or creditors, at whoſe ſuit ſuch priſoner was charged in execution at the time of his eſcape, ſhall or may retake ſuch priſoner by any new capias or capias ad ſatisfaciend. or ſue forth any other kind of execution on the judgment, as if the body of the priſoner had never been taken in execution."

But yet there remains a difference as to other purpoſes between permiſſive and negligent eſcapes; for if a ſheriff ſuffer a priſoner voluntarily to go at large, the ſheriff cannot retake him even upon a freſh ſuit; and if he does, the priſoner may have an action of treſpaſs againſt him. Cart. 212.

If the marſhal of the King's Bench, or warden of the Fleet, or any other who hath the keeping of priſons in fee, ſuffer a voluntary eſcape, it is a forfeiture of the office. 3 Mod. 146. Carter 212.

And now a further penalty is added by the ſtat. 8 & 9 Will. 3. cap. 27. ſect. 4. which enacts, "That if any marſhal or warden, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, or any keeper of any other priſon within this kingdom, ſhall take any ſum of money, reward, or gratuity whatſoever, or ſecurity for the ſame, to procure, aſſiſt, connive at, or permit any ſuch eſcape, and ſhall be thereof lawfully convicted, the ſaid marſhal or warden, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, or ſuch other keeper of any priſons, as aforeſaid, ſhall for every ſuch offence forfeit the ſum of 500*l.* and his ſaid office, and be for ever after incapable of executing any ſuch office."

If the ſheriff ſuffer a perſon arreſted on meſne proceſs to eſcape, an action lies againſt him at Common law, from the delay and prejudice which the party ſuffers thereby. 1 Rol. Abr. 99, 807. Moor 852. Cro. Eliz. 623, 652, 868. Cro. Jac. 280.

But there is this difference between an eſcape on meſne proceſs and execution, and if the ſheriff arreſts a perſon on meſne proceſs, and he is reſcued by J. S. he may return the reſcue, and ſuch return is good, and no action of eſcape lies againſt him after ſuch return; but the court will iſſue proceſs againſt ſuch reſcuer, or fine him; for in this caſe, tho' the ſheriff may, yet he is not obliged to raiſe the poſſe comitatus. 1 Rol. Abr. 807. 1 Jon. 207. 1 Rol. Rep. 388. 3 Lev. 46.

But after judgment on a capias ad ſatisfaciendum, the ſheriff cannot return a reſcue, for in ſuch caſe the ſheriff is obliged to raiſe the poſſe comitatus if needful, and therefore if he return a reſcue, an action of eſcape lies, or a new capias, for the return of an ineffectual execution is as none. 1 Rol. Abr. 807. Cro. Car. 240, 255. 8 Co. 42.

Alſo upon an arreſt on meſne proceſs, the ſheriff is obliged to take bail by the ſtatute 23 H. 6. cap. 10. therefore if the plaintiff declares that the defendant being ſheriff of T. did arreſt J. S. at the ſuit of the plaintiff, and afterwards did ſuffer him to go at large; and the defendant pleads the ſtatute, and that he took good and ſufficient bail, and the plaintiff replies and traverſes, that the defendant took good and ſufficient bail; this action does not lie; for quoad the plaintiff the ſufficiency of the bail is altogether immaterial, 'tis for the ſecurity of the ſheriff; and if the party does not appear, the plaintiff need not take an aſſignment of the bail-bond, but proceed againſt the ſheriff by way of amercement, and leave the ſheriff to take his advantage againſt the bail. 2 Mod. 177, 227. Cro. Eliz. 624.

4. Who are anſwerable for, and to be charged with, eſcapes; and of eſcape-warrants.

Where a new ſheriff is appointed, his predeceſſor ought to deliver over by indenture all the priſoners in his cuſtody, charged with their reſpective executions; for the priſoners, until they are turned over to the new ſheriff, remain in the cuſtody of the old ſheriff, and if he omits to deliver them over, every omiſſion will be deemed an eſcape, wherewith he will be chargeable. Hob. 266. 2 Rol. Abr. 457. Cro. Eliz. 365. 1 Bulſt. 70. 2 Leon. 54. 4 Co. 72.

As where one Buſtard was ſeverally in execution in the cuſtody of the defendants, then ſheriffs of London, as well at the ſuit of A. as at the plaintiff's ſuit, and the defendants at the end of the year delivered over the body of Buſtard to the new ſheriffs by indenture, wherein the execution of A. was mentioned, but the execution at the plaintiff's ſuit was omitted, and afterward Buſtard in the time of the new ſheriffs eſcaped; and it was reſolved by the whole court, that the defendants being the old ſheriffs ſhould be charged with this eſcape; for that the old ſheriffs ought to have given notice to the new ſheriffs of all the executions wherewith any perſon was charged in their cuſtody. 3 Co. 71.

But if the ſheriff dies during his ſheriffalty, the new ſheriff, as ſoon as he is appointed, muſt take notice of all perſons in cuſtody, and of the ſeveral executions with which they are charged, and this he muſt do out of neceſſity, for there being none to inform him, he muſt himſelf take notice hereof at his peril. 3 Co. 72.

J. S. being in execution in the Fleet, was ſuffered to make a voluntary eſcape, after which he returned again to the Fleet; and the defendant being made warden in the place of the former warden, J. S. was turned over with the other priſoners, and afterwards ſuffered to eſcape; and the queſtion was, whether the voluntary eſcape ſuffered by the former warden did not ſo intirely diſcharge the execution, that the priſoner could not be retaken, nor judged in execution, by law, even tho' he ſhould yield himſelf to it; and it was held, that it did not, and that the ſecond warden ſhould be chargeable with the eſcape ſuffered in his time. 2 Lev. 109. 3 Keb. 487. S. C. 1 Vent. 269.

So in the caſe of one Grant, who being in the cuſtody of the former marſhal was ſuffered by him voluntarily to eſcape, after which he returned voluntarily to priſon, and being found in priſon, the ſucceeding marſhal detain'd him; and in an action of falſe impriſonment brought by him, the court held that he might, and that if he had ſuffered him to go at large, it would be an eſcape. 6 Mod. 183.

Where one has the cuſtody of a gaol of freehold or inheritance, and commits it to another perſon, who is inſufficient, the ſuperior is anſwerable for all eſcapes ſuffered by his inferior; but if the inferior be ſufficient, the action muſt be brought againſt him, and not againſt the ſuperior. See 9 Co. 98. 2 Jon. 60. 2 Lev. 158. 1 Vent. 314. 2 Mod. 119.

Alſo by the ſtat. 8 & 9 Will. 3. cap. 27. ſect. 11. it is enacted, "That the offices of marſhal of the King's Bench priſon and warden of the Fleet, ſhall be executed by the ſeveral perſons to whom the inheritance of the priſons, priſon-houſes, lands, tenements and hereditaments of the ſaid priſons of King's Bench and Fleet or either of them, ſhall then belong or appertain reſpectively, in his or their reſpective proper perſon or perſons, or by his or their ſufficient deputy or deputies; for which deputy or deputies, and for all forfeitures, eſcapes, and other miſdemeanours in their reſpective offices by ſuch deputy or deputies permitted, ſuffered or committed, the ſaid perſon or perſons in whom the aforeſaid inheritances reſpectively are, or ſhall then be, ſhall be anſwerable; and the profits and aforeſaid inheritances of the ſaid ſeveral offices ſhall be ſequeſtred, ſeized or extended, to make ſatisfaction for ſuch forfeitures, eſcapes, or miſdemeanours reſpectively, as if permitted, ſuffered or committed by the perſon or perſons themſelves or either of them, in whom the reſpective inheritances of the ſaid priſons ſhall then be."

If the bailiff of a franchiſe ſuffer an eſcape, and be inſufficient, the lord of the franchiſe ſhall anſwer for him. 2 Brownl. 50.

If a gaoler, who is the ſheriff's ſervant, ſuffers a priſoner to eſcape, the action muſt be brought againſt the ſheriff, not againſt the gaoler; for an eſcape out of the gaolor's cuſtody is by intendment of law an eſcape out of the ſheriff's cuſtody; for by the 13 Ed. 3. cap. 10. ſheriffs are to put in ſuch keepers of gaols as they ſhall anſwer for. 2 Lev. 159. 2 Jon. 62. 2 Mod. 124.

So an arreſt by the ſheriff's officer is in judgment of law the ſame as if the arreſt were by the ſheriff in perſon; and if ſuch officer ſuffer the party arreſted to eſcape, the action muſt be brought againſt the ſheriff. 5 Co. 89. 1 Rol. Abr. 94.

But if the ſheriff directs his warrant to his bailiff, and afterwards J. S. puts in his own name as ſpecial bailiff; here J. S. ſhall be only chargeable, and not the ſheriff, becauſe the defendant was never in the ſheriff's cuſtody, but only in the cuſtody of J. S. Cro. Eliz. 745. Dalt. Sher. 560.

So if a writ comes to the ſheriff, and he makes out his mandate to the bailiff of a liberty. who takes the party, and after ſuffers him to eſcape, an action lies againſt the bailiff of the franchiſe, and not againſt the ſheriff. 1 Rol. Abr. 98, 99. Bro. Eſcape, 40. Noy 27.

So where a capias ad ſatisfaciend. was awarded to the ſheriff of Berks to arreſt J. S. who then was in cuſtody of the mayor and burgeſſes of W. and thereupon the ſheriff made a warrant to the mayor, &c. to take him, and afterward they let him eſcape; and it was clearly held, that the mayor, &c. and not the ſheriff, were chargeable with the eſcape. Cro. Eliz. 26.

If a capias iſſues againſt A. out of the ſheriff of London's court, directed to one of the ſerjeants, who arreſts A. and lets him eſcape before he is carried to the counter, the ſerjeant in this caſe, and not the ſheriff, is chargeable with the eſcape, for the ſheriff is judge of the court, and not a miniſterial officer; but if A. had been carried to the the counter, and eſcaped thereout, the ſheriff would then be anſwerable, as gaoler or keeper of the counter. 1 Rol. Abr. 806. 1 Sid. 318.

So if a ſerjeant at mace arreſt a man by virtue of a warrant iſſuing out upon a latitat, and afterwards ſuffers him to eſcape before he brings him to the counter; in this caſe an action lies againſt the ſheriff only for this eſcape, becauſe he was in the cuſtody of the ſheriff preſently upon this arreſt; and the ſheriff is the officer of the court of King's Bench, and not the ſerjeant. 1 Rol. Abr. 806.

If upon a plaint levied in the court of B. before the bailiffs of B. according to the cuſtom there, a warrant is directed to the under-bailiffs to take J. S. Ita quod habeat corpus ejus coram balivis ad prox' curiam, and the under-bailiffs take him, and commit him to the priſon ſub cuſtodia of the goaler of the priſon of B. if they have him not at the day, &c. an action lies againſt them, and not againſt the goaler; for there was no commitment to him by any lawful authority, and that cuſtody the goaler had was only as a ſervant to the under-bailiffs. Cro. Eliz. 743.

A priſoner in Wood Street counter upon meſne proceſs on a plaint levied againſt him, &c. eſcaped; whereupon the plaintiff brought his action againſt both the ſheriffs of London; and upon demurrer to the declaration, the plaintiff had judgment; and it was reſolved, that tho' the plaint was levied before the defendaant was in his court, and the priſoner eſcaped out of his counter, yet that both ſheriffs had the cuſtody of the priſoners in both counters, and by conſequence the action was well maintainable againſt both. Carth. 145.

If there are two ſheriffs of the ſame place, and an action of eſcape is brought againſt them both, if one of them dies, yet the writ ſhall not abate; for it being in nature of a treſpaſs, and merely perſonal, the party can only have remedy againſt the ſurvivor. Cro. Eliz. 625.

It has been already obſerved, that if the ſheriff ſuffer the priſoner voluntarily to eſcape, that the party at whoſe ſuit he was in cuſtody, may notwithſtanding, ſue out any new execution againſt the perſon eſcaping; for it would be unreaſonable that he ſhould be allowed to take advantage of his own act, or that the creditor ſhould be compelled, whether he will or no, to take his remedy againſt the ſheriff, who may die, or become inſolvent. See Cro. Car. 440. 1 Rol. Abr. 307.

Therefore where to a ſcire facias quare executionem non upon a judgment, the defendant pleaded, that he was formerly taken in execution by a capias ad ſatisfac. upon the ſame judgment, and the ſheriff ſuffered him to eſcape, to which eſcape the plaintiff then and there conſented; and this was held an ill plea; for the aſſent ſubſequent will not make it an eſcape with the conſent of the plaintiff, and therefore he has either his remedy againſt the ſheriff, or may retake the party. 1 Salk. 271. 1 Show. 174. S. P.

But if a man in execution upon a judgment for debt or damages be delivered out of execution, by the ſheriff or goaler who hath him in execution, with the aſſent of him at whoſe ſuit he is in execution; and after by colour of this judgment he takes him again and puts him in priſon, an audita querela lies upon this matter, and thereupon he ſhall be delivered. 1 Rol. Abr. 307.

By ſtat. 1 Ann. ſt. 2. cap. 6. it is enacted, "That if any perſon committed, &c. ſhall eſcape from the cuſtody of the marſhal of the Queen's Bench for the time being, or from the priſon of the ſaid Queen's Bench, or from the priſon of the Fleet, or either of them, it ſhall and may be lawful, upon oath thereof in writing, to be made by one or more credible perſon or perſons, before any of the judges of that court where ſuch action was entred, or judgment and execution were obtained, or where the party was ſo committed or charged as aforeſaid, to and for ſuch judge before whom ſuch oath ſhall be made, as aboveſaid, and ſuch judge is hereby authorized and required from time to time, to grant unto any perſon whatſoever, who ſhall demand the ſame, one or more warrant or warrants under his hand and ſeal, therein reciting the action or actions, execution or executions, contempt or contempts, with which ſuch perſon or perſons ſo eſcaping, or going at large, ſtood charged or were committed at the ſuit of any perſon or perſons, on whoſe behalf ſuch warrant or warrants ſhall be demanded at the time of ſuch eſcape or going at large, (which ſaid warrant or warrants ſhall be in force in all places whatſoever, within that part of Great Britain called England) directed to all ſheriffs, mayors, bailiffs, conſtables, headboroughs and tythingmen therein, and thereby commanding them and every of them in their reſpective counties, cities, towns and precincts, to ſeize and retake ſuch perſon or perſons ſo eſcaped or going at large; and ſuch perſon or perſons ſo retaken upon ſuch warrant forthwith to convey and commit to the common gaol of ſuch county where ſuch perſon or perſons ſo eſcaped or going at large ſhall be retaken, there to remain without bail or mainprize, or being thence upon any account whatſoever delivered or removed, until he, ſhe, or they ſhall have made full payment or ſatisfaction to the reſpective plaintiff or plaintiffs, creditor or creditors in ſuch action or actions, execution or executions named, or until the judgment or judgments, on which ſuch execution or executions was or were out againſt ſuch perſon or perſons, ſhall be reverſed or diſcharged by due courſe of law, or until judgment in ſuch action or actions be given for ſuch perſon or perſons ſo committed as aforeſaid, or until the contempt or contempts for which ſuch perſon or perſons were or ſhall be committed, be cleared and diſcharged, &c.

Before any of the judges of that court] If a perſon charged in execution in the King's Bench be turned over to the Fleet, and he eſcape, either a judge of the King's Bench or Common Pleas may grant an eſcape-warrant. 2 Bac. Abr. 245. Paſch. 10 Geo. 1. The King and Dunbar, ruled on motion.

Directed to all ſheriffs, &c.] If one who is no officer, by virtue of the warrant, ſeizes a perſon eſcaping and brings him before the ſheriff, he cannot detain him; for being illegally executed, it is the ſame thing as if there had been no warrant at all. 6 Mod. 154.

To ſeize and retake ſuch perſon or perſons ſo eſcaped or going at large] One may be taken on a Sunday by virtue of an eſcape-warrant; for one may take another on a Sunday upon freſh purſuit, and this is in the nature of it, though it be by a new method; for this is no original proceſs, but the party is in ſtill upon the old commitment continued down. 2 Salk. 626. 6 Mod. 95, 253—4.

If a perſon is taken upon an eſcape-warrant at eight in the morning, and the ſame day obtains a day-rule purſuant to a petition, which was not read in court till after eight, yet he ſhall be diſcharged, for as to this purpoſe there ſhall be no fraction of a day. 2 Bac. Abr. 245. Trin. 8 Geo. 1. Wilkinſon and Matthews.

Upon any account whatſoever] A perſon cannot be diſcharged upon bringing the money into court. 6 Mod. 21.

Nor can a perſon come out on a day-rule. 6 Mod. 63.

By ſtat. 5 Ann. cap. 9. ſect. 1. All perſons taken by virtue of the act 1 Ann. ſtat. 2. cap. 6. ſhall inſtead of being committed to the common gaol of the county, be committed to the priſon where the ſheriff keeps the debtors, to remain in cuſtody of the ſheriff, ſubject to the ſame rules as if they had been committed to the common gaol of the county; and if any perſon ſo committed ſhall eſcape, the ſheriff ſhall be anſwerable as in caſe of any other eſcape.

Sect. 2. It ſhall be lawful for the judges to grant like warrants upon oath in writing made before any perſon commiſſionated to take affidavits in the country (the oath being filed) as upon like oath made before himſelf.

Sect. 3. It ſhall be lawful to take upon the Lord's day any perſon by virtue of any warrant granted in purſuance of this or the former act.

Sect. 4. If any perſon ſhall be in cuſtody of any ſheriff or any other officer, for not performing any decree of Chancery or Exchequer, whereby money is decreed to be paid, and ſhall eſcape, the perſon to whom the money was to be paid ſhall have the ſame remedy againſt the ſheriff, as if ſuch perſon had been in cuſtody upon any execution at law, and ſhall recover the money decreed againſt againſt ſuch ſheriff or other officer, with coſts, in any action of debt, or upon the caſe, in her Majeſty's courts at Weſtminſter.

Error of a judgment in C. B. in an action of debt brought by huſband and wife againſt the warden of the Fleet for 464*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.* on the eſcape of Oliver Read, who was committed by the court of Chancery for that ſum. And the declaration ſets forth, that the 5th day of February 6 Geo. there was a decree, reciting the bill againſt Read & al' by the wife only, which ſuit abated by her marriage with the other plaintiff, who revived the ſuit, and Read put in his anſwer, inſiſting that he had repaid 200*l.* part of the money; and an iſſue being directed thereupon, the ſame was tried in a feigned iſſue, and found againſt him; and then the cauſe was heard upon the equity reſerved, when it was referred to the maſter to take the account, who after reported 464*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.* to be due, and appointed it to be paid to the huſband. Then the plaintiffs ſet forth, that the report was confirmed, and Read proſecuted ſo far as to be committed for non-payment, when the defendant ſuffered him to eſcape. After judgment by default in C. B. it was objected on error by Mr. Strange, that the wife ought not to have joined in this action, for by 5 Ann. c. 9. ſ. 4. the action is given to ſuch perſon to whom the money is to be paid by the decree; and this not being an action maintainable at Common law, they muſt take it as the ſtatute has given it; and if the wife be joined where ſhe ought not, it is error. 1 Rol. Abr. 782. And this is in the nature of a deſtruction of the firſt cauſe of action, and giving the huſband a new one in his own right. 1 Sid. 299. Sed per curiam: Tho' the order only appoints it to be paid to the huſband, yet by the firſt decree it is directed that the maſter ſhall take an account what is due to the huſband and wife, which ſhews ſhe is intereſted in the caſe, and therefore proper to join in the action. Judgment affirmed. Stran. 726. Mich. 13 Geo. 1.

Penalty of 500*l.* on goaler ſuffering bankrupts to eſcape, by ſtat. 5 Geo. 2. c. 30. ſect. 18, 36.

5. Of the proper remedy and nature of the action to be brought for an eſcape; the perſon's defence, who ſuffered the eſcape, and of pleading freſh purſuit.

At Common law the plaintiff had no remedy againſt the ſheriff for an eſcape, whether upon meſne proceſs, or in execution, but by ſpecial action upon the caſe. 2 Inſt. 382. 1 Show. 176. 2 Saund. 34. Hard. 30.

But now by an equitable conſtruction of Weſtm. 2. cap. 11. action of debt is given againſt the ſheriffs, and by the 1 Rich. 2. cap. 12. againſt the warden of the Fleet (which extends to all gaolors and keepers of priſons, though infants or feme coverts. 2 Inſt. 382.) for eſcapes in execution.

Alſo the plaintiff, at his election, may maintain either an action upon the caſe, or debt, for an eſcape in execution. Cro. Jac. 361, 533, 619. Cro. Eliz. 877. Dyer 278. b. See 1 Jon. 144. 1 Sid. 364. S. C.

If there be judgment againſt baron and feme, and the feme only taken in execution, and ſuffered to eſcape, an action of debt lies againſt the marſhal; for as the plaintiff may elect to take either the huſband or wife in execution, ſo by his election he has made her a ſole debtor within the ſtatute of R. 2. although it was objected that it ſhould be caſe, becauſe the party is not totally deprived of his remedy, the huſband being ſtill liable. Cro. Jac. 657.

If a priſoner in cuſtody upon a capias utlagatum is ſuffered to eſcape, the plaintiff may either maintain an action qui tam againſt the ſheriff, or bring an action of debt againſt him in his own right. Cro. Jac. 361, 533, 619. Cro. Eliz. 877.

An action of eſcape is not a local action, and therefore if one eſcapes out of the Marſhalſea, which is in Surry, the action againſt the marſhal may be laid in Middleſex. Dyer 278. b. See 1 Jon. 144. 1 Sid. 364. S. C.

In this action it is not neceſſary to ſet forth all the formalities required by law in other caſes. Cro. Eliz. 877. See 2 Show. 424.

Therefore if upon a judgment obtained by the teſtator, the executor brings a ſcire facias, and has judgment, whereupon a capias ad ſatisfac. iſſues, and B. is arreſted, and ſuffered to eſcape, the plaintiff, in an action againſt the ſheriff for this eſcape, may declare briefly upon the judgment in the ſcire facias, without ſhewing the gradual proceedings at length, as is uſually done in an action of debt upon a judgment. Carth. 148, 149. 3 Mod. 324. S. C. Cro. Eliz. 877.

But if the plaintiff declares, that he ſued out a writ of execution againſt J. S. without ſetting forth any judgment, and that the defendant ſuffered him to eſcape; this is an incurable fault; for by this means he loſt the benefit of pleading nul tiel record, which he might do if the plaintiff had ſet forth the judgment. 1 Saund. 37—8. 1 Lev. 191. and 1 Sid. 306. S. C.

If A. recovers againſt B. as executor, and has him in execution, and the ſheriff ſuffers him to eſcape, the action muſt be brought as executor in the detinet only, and not in the debet and detinet. 1 Lutw. 893. Comb. 114. S. C.

If the plaintiff declares, that the priſoner was committed, and eſcaped, but does not ſay, Prout patet per recordum; yet upon a general demurrer this ſhall be good; for the gift of the action was the eſcape, and the commitment only inducement. 2 Salk. 565. 5 Mod. 8. S. C. See 3 Lev. 393.

If in eſcape the plaintiff declares, that he had J. S. and his wife in execution, and that the defendant ſuffered them to eſcape, and the jury find ſpecially, that the huſband only was taken in execution (it being for a debt due from the wife before coverture) and that he eſcaped; this is ſufficient, and the plaintiff ſhall have judgment; for the ſubſtance of the iſſue is found, though not purſuant to the declaration. 1 Sid. 5.

So in an action on the caſe for the eſcape of A. where the jury found that A. was taken by J. S. the former ſheriff, and not by the defendant, the preſent ſheriff; but finding that he was legally in his cuſtody, and that he ſuffered him to eſcape, the plaintiff had judgment. Cro. Jac. 380.

The plaintiff declared, that whereas he had a good cauſe of action againſt A. and ſued out a latitat againſt him; the defendant being ſheriff arreſted him, and ſuffered him to eſcape; upon trial at niſi prius the plaintiff was nonſuit, becauſe he could prove no cauſe of action againſt A. But Hale Chief Juſtice ſaid, that if the plaintiff had declared of a debt of 40*s.* and upon evidence could prove but 30*s.* it had been ſufficient; but the book adds a quære, it being a ſpecial action upon the caſe. 2 Lev. 85.

By the ſtat. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 27. ſect. 12. reciting, that the way of proceeding againſt the warden of the Fleet priſon, by bill in the courts of Common Pleas and Exchequer at Weſtminſter, is found to be very dilatory; it is enacted, "That it ſhall and may be lawful to and for any perſon or perſons having cauſe of action againſt the warden of the Fleet priſon, upon bill filed in the ſaid courts of Common Pleas or Exchequer againſt the ſaid warden, and a rule being given to plead thereto to be out eight days at moſt after filing ſuch bill, to ſign judgment againſt the ſaid warden of the Fleet, unleſs he plead to the ſaid bill within three days after ſuch rule is out."

If the priſon takes fire, by means whereof the priſoners eſcape, this ſhall excuſe the ſheriff, and he may well plead it. 1 Rol. Abr. 808.

So if the priſon is broke by the King's enemies, this ſhall excuſe the ſheriff, for he can have no remedy over againſt them. 4 Co. 84. 1 Rol. Abr. 808.

But if the priſon was broke by rebels and traitors, the King's ſubjects, this ſhall not excuſe him, for he may have his remedy over againſt thoſe. 4 Co. 84. 1 Rol. Abr. 808.

If a priſoner in execution eſcapes without the aſſent of the ſheriff, &c. and he make freſh purſuit, and retake take him before any action brought againſt him, this ſhall excuſe the ſheriff. Cro. Jac. 657. 1 Jon. 144. 1 Rol. Abr. 808.

So the ſheriff may plead, that the priſoner eſcaped the ſixteenth day of December, and that he made freſh ſuit, and retook him the ſeventeenth day of December, and retained him in execution; for it is ſufficient, if he did all he could, though he loſt ſight of him in the night, or otherwiſe. 1 Rol. Abr. 809. Dalt. Sheriff 562.

So if a priſoner eſcapes, and ſeveral days after, but as ſoon as the ſheriff has notice of it, he makes freſh ſuit, and retakes him before any action brought, this ſhall excuſe him. 1 Rol. Abr. 809.

If in debt upon an eſcape, the plaintiff ſets forth in his declaration a voluntary eſcape, the defendant may plead, that he took him upon freſh purſuit, without traverſing the voluntary eſcape; for it was impertinent for the plaintiff to alledge it, and no way neceſſary to his action. 1 Vent. 211, 217.

It was formely held, that the ſheriff, &c. might give freſh purſuit in evidence, and need not have pleaded it. See 1 Mod. 116. 1 Sid. 13.

But now by the 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 27. ſect. 6. it is enacted, "That no retaking on freſh purſuit ſhall be given in evidence on the trial of an iſſue in any action of eſcape againſt the marſhal or warden, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, or againſt any other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, unleſs the ſame be ſpecially pleaded, nor ſhall any ſpecial plea be taken, received or allowed, unleſs oath be firſt made in writing by the marſhal or warden, or their reſpective deputy or deputies, or by ſuch other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons againſt whom ſuch action ſhall be brought and filed in the proper office of the reſpective courts, that the priſoner for whoſe eſcape ſuch action is brought, did, without his conſent, privity or knowledge, make ſuch eſcape; and if ſuch affidavit ſhall at any time afterwards appear to be falſe, and the marſhal or warden, or other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, ſhall be convicted thereof by due courſe of law, ſuch marſhal or warden, or other keeper or keepers of any other priſon or priſons, ſhall forfeit the ſum of 500*l.*"

If an action of eſcape be brought againſt the ſheriff, and the judgement upon which it is found is reverſed before ſuch time, as the defendant is forced to plead, he may plead nul tiel record, for collateral things executory are as if no judgment had ever been, when reverſed. 8 Co 142. Dalt. Sheriff 563.

If a priſoner taken on a capias ad ſatisfaciendum pays the debt to the marſhal for the uſe of the plaintiff in the original action, and is thereupon diſcharged, yet he cannot plead it to an action brought againſt him for the eſcape, for the marſhal had no authority to receive the money, the words of the writ being Quod capias, &c. & eum ſalvo cuſtodias ita quod habeas corpus ejus coram juſticiar. tiel jour ad ſatisfaciend. the plaintiff. See Cro. Eliz. 404. 1 Mod. 194. 2 Jon. 97. 1 Lutw. 587.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Eſcape.

II. Of eſcape in criminal caſes.

Under this head is conſidered,

1. What ſhall be judged an eſcape; and where ſuch eſcape is to be eſteemed voluntary, and where negligent.

2. Where the priſoner may be re-taken after an eſcape; and whether the eſcape is excuſed by ſuch a re-taking; or by killing the priſoner, if he cannot be re-taken.

3. How the officer ſuffering an eſcape is to be indicted; and in what manner an eſcape is to be tried and adjudged.

4. How a voluntary and negligent eſcape are to be puniſhed.

5. Aiding or aſſiſting priſoners to attempt to eſcape, how puniſhed.

1. What ſhall be judged an eſcape; and where ſuch eſcape is to be eſteemed voluntary and where negligent.

There muſt be an actual arreſt, and therefore, if an officer having a warrant to arreſt a man, ſee him ſhut up in a houſe, and challenge him as his priſoner, but never actually have him in his cuſtody, and the party get free, the officer cannot be charged with an eſcape. 2 Haw. P. C. 129.

As there muſt be an actual arreſt, ſuch arreſt muſt alſo be juſtifiable, for if it be either for a ſuppoſed crime, where no ſuch crime was committed, and the party neither indicted nor appealed, or for ſuch a ſlight ſuſpicion of an actual crime, and by ſuch an irregular mittimus as will neither juſtify the arreſt nor impriſonment, the officer is not guilty of an eſcape by ſuffering the priſoner to go at large: And it ſeems to be a good general rule, that where-ever an impriſonment is ſo far irregular, that it will be no offence in the priſoner to break from it by force, it can be no offence in the officer to ſuffer him to eſcape. 2 Hawk. P. C. 129.

As the impriſonment muſt be juſtifiable, ſo muſt it be alſo for a criminal matter; and ſome are ſaid to have holden, that no eſcape is criminal, but where the commitment is for felony. However it is certain, that the eſcape of one committed for petit larceny only, is criminal; and it ſeems moſt agreeable to the general reaſon of the law, that the eſcape of a perſon committed for any other crime whatſoever, ſhould alſo be criminal. For ſurely where-ever the public juſtice requires, that a perſon be committed for a crime; it likewiſe requires, that he be ſafely kept under ſuch commitment, and conſequently may reaſonably demand public ſatisfaction of the officer to whoſe cuſtody he is committed, if he neglect to keep him as he ought. 2 Haw. 129.

As the impriſonment muſt be juſtifiable, and for ſome crime, ſo muſt its continuance, at the time of the eſcape, be ground on that ſatisfaction which the publick juſtice demands from ſuch crime; for if a priſoner be acquitted, and detained only for his fees, it will not be criminal to ſuffer him to eſcape, though the judgment were, that he be diſcharged paying his fees; ſo that till they be paid, the firſt impriſonment continued lawful, as before; for inaſmuch as he is detained, not as a criminal, but only as a debtor, his eſcape cannot be more criminal than that of any other debtor; yet if a perſon convicted of a crime, be condemned to impriſonment for a certain time, and alſo till he pay his fees, and he eſcape after ſuch time is elapſed, without paying them perhaps ſuch eſcape may be criminal for that it was part of the puniſhment, that the impriſonment be continued till the fees ſhall be paid; but it ſeems, that this is to be intended where the fees are due to others as well as the gaoler, for otherwiſe the gaoler will be only ſufferer by the eſcape, and it will be hard to puniſh him for ſuffering an injury to himſelf only, in the non-payment of a debt in his own power to releaſe. 2 Haw. P. C. 129, 130.

It is an eſcape, in ſome caſes to ſuffer a priſoner to have greater liberty than by the law he ought to have; as to admit a perſon to bail, who by law ought not to be bailed, but to be kept in cloſe cuſtody; or to permit a priſoner to go out of the limits of the priſon: yet ſome ſeem to have holden, that in this laſt caſe it ſhall not be adjudged an eſcape, unleſs the priſoner be found to have had an intention to eſcape; but it will be difficult to maintain, that the offence of the gaoler can depend on the intention of the priſoner. 2 Hawk. 130.

If the gaoler ſo cloſely purſue the priſoner, who flies from him, that he retake him without loſing ſight of him, the law looks on the priſoner ſo far in his power all the time, as not to adjudge ſuch a flight to amount at all to an eſcape: But if the gaoler once loſe ſight of the priſoner, and afterwards retake him, he ſeems in ſtrictneſs to be guilty of an eſcape; and a fortiori therefore, if he kill him in the purſuit, he is in like manner guilty tho' he never loſt ſight of him, and could not otherwiſe take him, not only becauſe the King loſes the benefit he might have had from the attainder of the priſoner, by the forfeiture of his goods, &c. but alſo becauſe the publick juſtice is not ſo well ſatisfied by the killing him in ſuch an extrajudicial manner. 2 Hawk. 130.

While the privileges of ſanctuaries were allowed, if a ſheriff, conducting a priſoner to gaol, had brought him in the way, through the limits of ſuch a franchiſe, and the priſoner had claimed the privilege of it, and by that means got free, it ſeems that the ſheriff was guilty of an eſcape, for that it was his fault, by bringing his priſoner that way to gaol, to give him an opportunity of claiming the franchiſe. 2 Hawk. 130.

Alſo while the law allowed thoſe, who had the benefit of the clergy, to free themſelves from priſon in certain caſes, by making their purgation before the ordinary, it was an eſcape in the ordinary, to ſuffer ſuch perſons to deliver themſelves by it, in ſuch caſes in which they ought not to have been admitted to it. 2 Hawk. 130.

If a priſoner be reſcued by enemies, the gaoler is not guilty of an eſcape, as he would have been by the better opinion, if he had been reſcued by ſubjects, becauſe there is a legal remedy againſt them. 2 Haw. 130.

There can be no doubt, but that where-ever an officer, who hath the cuſtody of a priſoner, charged with and guilty of a capital offence, doth knowingly give him his liberty, with an intent to ſave him, either from his trial or execution, he is guilty of a voluntary eſcape, and thereby involv'd in the guilt of the ſame crime of which the priſoner was guilty, and ſtood charged with. And it ſeems to be the opinion of Sir Matthew Hale, that in ſome caſes an officer may be adjudged guilty of ſuch eſcape, who hath not ſuch intent, but only means to give his priſoner that liberty which by the law he hath no colour of right to give him; as where a gaoler bails a priſoner who is not bailable. But it ſeems agreed, that a perſon who hath power to bail, is guilty only of a negligent eſcape, by bailing one who is not bailable; neither can I meet with any authority in other books, to ſupport the above-mentioned opinion, that the bailing of one who is not bailable, by one who hath no power to bail, muſt neceſſarily be eſteemed a voluntary eſcape; but the contrary opinion ſeems more agreeable to the purview of ſtat. 5 Ed. 3. c. 8. ſet forth more at large in the ſubſequent part of this title. Alſo there are ſome caſes wherein an officer ſeems to have been found to have knowingly given his priſoner more liberty than he ought to have had, as to go out of the priſon on his promiſe of returning, or to go among his friends, to find ſome who would warrant goods to be his own, which he is ſuſpected to have ſtolen, and yet ſeems to have been only adjudged guilty of a negligent eſcape. But it muſt be confeſſed, that in theſe caſes, the priſoner was accuſed of larceny; and it doth not appear, whether he were bailable or not, and generally the old caſes concerning this ſubject, are ſo very briefly reported, that it is very difficult to make an exact ſtate of the matter from them; however, thus much ſeems clear, that if in the caſes above mentioned, the officer were only guilty of a negligent eſcape, in ſuffering the priſoner to go out of the limits of the priſon, without any ſecurity for his return, he could not have been guilty in a higher degree, if he had taken bail for his return; from which it ſeems reaſonable to infer, That it cannot be in all caſes a general rule, that an officer is guilty of a voluntary eſcape by bailing his priſoner, whom he hath no power to bail; but that the judgement to be made of all offences of this kind, muſt depend on the circumſtances of the caſe, as the heinouſneſs of the crime with which the priſoner is charged, the notoriety of his guilt, the improbability of his returning to render himſelf to Juſtice, the intention of the officer, the motives on which he acted, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 130, 131.

Neither is it a certain rule, that an officer, who unlawfully, knowingly, and willingly ſuffers a capital offender to eſcape, is in all caſes to be adjudged guilty of a voluntary eſcape; for where an ordinary ſuffered a clerk, attainted, being committed to his cuſtody, to free himſelf from impriſonment by making his purgation, he might be truly ſaid to have ſuffered ſuch priſoner to eſcape unlawfully, knowingly and willingly; and yet it ſeems, that he was guilty only of a negligent eſcape, for that he did not ſave the priſoner from execution, which was excuſed by the privilege of the clergy, but only from the impriſonment. 2 Hawk. 131.

2. Where the priſoner may be retaken after an eſcape; and whether the eſcape is excuſed by ſuch a re-taking; or by killing the priſoner, if he cannot be re-taken.

It ſeems to be clearly agreed by all the books, that an officer making a freſh purſuit after a priſoner, who hath eſcaped through his negligence, may retake him at any time after, whether he find him in the ſame or in a different county. And it is ſaid generally in ſome books, that an officer who hath negligently ſuffered a priſoner to eſcape, may retake him where-ever he finds him, without mentioning any freſh purſuit; and indeed, ſince the liberty gained by the priſoner is wholly owing to his own wrong, there ſeems to be no reaſon he ſhould take any manner of advantage from it. But where a gaoler hath voluntary ſuffered a priſoner to eſcape, it is ſaid by ſome, that he can no more juſtify the retaking him, than if he had never had him in cuſtody before, becauſe by his own free conſent he hath admitted, that he hath nothing to do with him. And it ſeems to be holden by Sir William Staundforde, that after a gaoler hath been fined for ſuffering a priſoner negligently to eſcape, he cannot afterwards retake him; but the book on which alone he ſeems to ground his opinion, doth not fully come up to it; for the purport of it ſeems to be no more than this, that a gaoler's retaking of a priſoner, after he hath been fined for an eſcape, ſhall be to no purpoſe, for that it is contrary to the record, by which it appears, that the priſoner hath been at large; by which it ſeems only to be intended, that a gaoler, who hath been fined for an eſcape, ſhall not avoid the judgment of his fine by retaking the priſoner: But I do not ſee how it can be collected from hence, that he cannot juſtify the retaking him. 2 Haw. P. C. 131, 132.

It is, perhaps, the better opinion, that wherever a priſoner, by the negligence of his keeper, gets ſo far out of his power that the keeper loſes ſight of him, the keeper is finable at the diſcretion of the court, notwithſtanding he retook him immediately after; for it ſeems agreed, That this is to be adjudged a negligent eſcape, which implies an offence, and conſequently that it muſt be puniſhable. It is true indeed, that in an action againſt a gaoler, for ſuffering one arreſted in a civil action to eſcape, it is a good excuſe for the gaoler, that before the action brought, he retook the priſoner upon freſh ſuit, which is well maintained by ſhewing that he purſued him immediately after notice of the eſcape, though it were ſome hours after it, and retook him; but it does not from hence follow, that the like excuſe will ſerve for the negligent eſcape of a criminal, becauſe this is an offence againſt the public, but the other is only a private damage to the party: Neither will it be an hardſhip to the officer to be expoſed to ſuch puniſhment as the court, in diſcretion, ſhall think fit to impoſe upon him for the negligent eſcape of a criminal, as it would be to be liable to an actian of eſcape, for ſuffering a perſon in his cuſtody, in a civil action to eſcape; for that in the former caſe the court would moderate his fine according to the circumſtances of the whole matter, and would certainly mitigate, if not wholly excuſe it, if he he ſhould appear to have taken all reaſonable care: but in the other caſe, if he ſhould be liable to an action, his judgment would not lie in the diſcretion of the court, but he would be bound to pay the whole debt for which the party was in cuſtody, if the eſcape ſhould be adjudged againſt him. However it is certain, that it will be no advantage to a gaoler to retake his priſoner, after he has been fined for the eſcape, as hath been ſhewn in the precedent ſection; alſo it is clear, that he cannot excuſe himſelf by killing a priſoner in the purſuit, though he could not poſſibly retake him; but muſt, in ſuch caſe, be contented to ſubmit to ſuch fine as his negligence ſhall appear to deſerve. 2 Hawk. P. C. 132.

3. How

3. How the officer ſuffering an eſcape is to be indicted; and in what manner an eſcape is to be tried and adjudged.

It ſeems clear, that every indictment for an eſcape, whether negligent or voluntary, muſt expreſsly ſhew, that the party was actually in the defendant's cuſtody for a crime, action, or commitment for it; and that it is not ſufficient to ſay, that he was in the defendant's cuſtody, and charg'd with ſuch a crime; for that a perſon in cuſtody may be ſo charged, and yet not be in cuſtody by reaſon of ſuch charge: And it ſeems alſo, that every ſuch indictment muſt expreſsly ſhew that the priſoner went at large, which is moſt properly expreſſed by the words exivit ad largum. Alſo it ſeems neceſſary, to ſhew the time when the offence was committed, for which the party was in cuſtody, not only that it may appear, that it was prior to the eſcape, but alſo that it was ſubſequent to the laſt general pardon. Alſo it ſeems clear, that every indictment for a voluntary eſcape muſt allege that the defendant felonice et voluntarie A. B. ad largum ire permiſit; and muſt alſo ſhew the ſpecies of the crime for which the party was impriſoned; for it is not ſufficient to ſay in general that he was in cuſtody for felony, &c. for that no one can be puniſhed in this degree, but as involved in the guilt of the crime for which the party was in his cuſtody; and therefore the particular crime muſt be ſet forth, that it may appear, that the principal is attainted for the very ſame crime, if it were felony, or that it was in truth committed, if high treaſon. But it ſeems queſtionable, whether ſuch certainty, as to the nature of the crime, be neceſſary in an indictment for a negligent eſcape, for that it is not material in this caſe, whether the perſon who eſcaped were guilty or not. 2 Haw. P. C. 132, 133.

Where perſons being preſent in a court of record, are committed to priſon by ſuch court, the keeper of the gaol is bound to have them always ready, whenever the court ſhall demand them of him; and if he ſhall fail to produce them at ſuch demand, the court will adjudge him guilty of an eſcape, without any farther inquiry, unleſs he have ſome reaſonable matter to allege in his excuſe, as that the priſon was ſet on fire, or broke open by enemies, &c. for he ſhall be concluded, by the record of the commitment, to deny that the priſoners were in his cuſtody. And ſome have holden, that if the gaoler ſay nothing in his excuſe of ſuch an eſcape, it ſhall be adjudged voluntary; but I cannot find any reſolution to this purpoſe; and where it ſtands indifferent, whether an eſcape be negligent or voluntary, it ſeems difficult to maintain that it ought to be adjudged a crime of ſo high a nature, without a previous trial. 2 Hawk. P. C. 133.

As to other priſoners who are not ſo committed, but are in the cuſtody of a gaoler, ſheriff, conſtable, or other perſon, by any other means whatſoever, it ſeems agreed, that the perſon who has them in cuſtody is in no caſe puniſhable for their eſcape, except in ſome ſpecial caſes, until it be preſented: For the better underſtanding whereof it is neceſſary to obſerve, that by ſtat. Weſt. 1. c. 3. it is enacted, that "Nothing be demanded nor taken, nor levied by the ſheriff, nor by any other, for the eſcape of a thief, or felon, until it be judged for an eſcape by the juſtices in eyre; and that he who does otherwiſe, ſhall reſtore to him or them that have paid it, as much as he or they have taken or received, and as much alſo unto the King."

It hath been adjudged, that this ſtatute reſtrains not the court of King's Bench from receiving ſuch preſentments for that its juriſdiction includes in it that of juſtices in eyre, and this court is itſelf the higheſt court of eyre. 2 Haw. P. C. 134.

It is farther enacted by ſtat. 31 Ed. 3. c. 14. "That the eſcape of thieves and felons, and the chattels of felons, and of fugitives, and alſo eſcapes of clerks convicts, and of their ordinary's priſon, from thenceforth to be judged before any of the King's juſtices, ſhall be levied from time to time, as they ſhall fall, as well of the time paſt as time to come." By which it ſeems to be implied, that other juſtices, as well as thoſe in eyre, may take cogniſance of eſcapes; and it is certain, that juſtices of gaol-delivery may puniſh juſtices of peace for a negligent eſcape, in admitting perſons to bail, who are not bailable. 2 Hawk. P. C. 134.

And it is farther enacted, by ſtat. 1 Rich. 3. cap. 3. "That Juſtices of peace ſhall have authority to inquire, in their ſeſſions, of all manner of eſcapes of every perſon arreſted and impriſoned for felony."

It is laid down as a rule, by Sir William Staundford, that where-ever an eſcape is finable, the preſentment of it is traverſable; but that where the offence is amerciable only; there the preſentment is of itſelf concluſive; ſuch amercements being reckoned among thoſe minima de quibus non curat lex; and this diſtinction ſeems to be well warranted by the old books. 2 Hawk. P. C. 134.

4. How a voluntary and negligent eſcape are to be puniſhed.

It ſeems to be generally agreed, that ſuch eſcape amounts to the ſame kind of crime, and is puniſhable in the ſame degree, as the offence of which the party was guilty, and for which he was in cuſtody, whether it be treaſon, felony or treſpaſs; and whether the perſon eſcaping were actually committed to ſome gaol, or under an arreſt only and not committed; and whether he were attainted, or only accuſed of ſuch crime, and neither indicted nor appealed: And it is ſaid to be no excuſe of ſuch eſcape, that the priſoner had been acquitted on an indictment of death, and only committed till the year and day be paſſed, to give the widow, or heir of the deceaſed, an opportunity of bringing their appeal. 2 Hawk. 134.

Alſo ſuch an eſcape, ſuffered by one who wrongfully takes upon him the keeping of a gaol, ſeems to be puniſhable in the ſame manner as if he were never ſo rightfully intitled to ſuch cuſtody, for that the crime is in both caſes of the very ſame ill conſequence to the publick; and there ſeems to be no reaſon that a wrongful officer ſhould have greater favour than a rightful, and that for no other reaſon, but becauſe he is a wrongful one. 2 Hawk. P. C. 134.

Alſo if the warrant of a commitment do plainly and expreſsly charge the party with treaſon or felony, but in ſome other reſpect be not ſtrictly formal, yet it ſeems, that it may be probably argued, that the gaoler ſuffering an eſcape, is as much puniſhable as if the warrant were perfectly right; for it would be highly inconvenient to ſuffer gaolers to take advantage of a ſlip of this kind in commitments, which, being generally made by perſons of no great knowledge in the law, cannot be expected to be always agreeable to its form; and therefore, if they be good in ſubſtance, the public good ſeems to require that the gaoler be as much bound to obſerve them, as if they were never ſo exactly made. 2 Hawk. P. C. 134, 135.

But it ſeems to be agreed, that no eſcape can amount to a capital offence, unleſs the cauſe for which the party was committed, were actually ſuch at the time of the eſcape; and therefore, if a gaoler ſuffer one to eſcape who is committed for having given a dangerous wound to another, who afterwards dies of ſuch wound, yet he is not guilty of felony, for that the offence of the priſoner was but a treſpaſs at the time of the eſcape; and though by a fiction of law it be afterwards for ſome purpoſes, eſteemed a felony from the time of the giving of the wound, yet ſince it is, in truth, no felony till the death of the party, it ſhall be afterwards conſtrued ſuch in reſpect of thoſe only who were privy to the giving of the wound. 2 Haw. P. C. 135.

Alſo it ſeems clear, that he who ſuffers another to eſcape, who was in his cuſtody for felony, cannot be arraigned for ſuch eſcape as for a felony, until the principal be attainted; for that he who ſuffers ſuch eſcape, is, by the better opinion, not puniſhable in this degree, but as an acceſſory to the felony; and it is a rule, that no acceſſory ought to be tried till the principal be attainted: yet it ſeems certain, that one accuſed of ſuch an eſcape, may be indicted and tried for a miſpriſon, before the attainder of the principal pal offender, for that whether ſuch offender were guilty or innocent, it was a high contempt to ſuffer him to eſcape: and if the commitment were for high treaſon, and the perſon committed actually guilty of it, it ſeems, that the eſcape is immediately puniſhable as high treaſon alſo, whether the party eſcaping be ever convicted of ſuch crime or not; for that there are no acceſſories in his treaſon, but all who are guilty of aſſiſting the party guilty of ſuch crime, in ſuch a manner as would make them acceſſories to a felony, are accounted principals in the treaſon. 2 Hawk. P. C. 135.

Alſo it ſeems to be clear, that no one is puniſhable in this degree for a voluntary eſcape, but the perſon only who is actually guilty of it; and therefore, that the principal gaoler is only finable for a voluntary eſcape ſuffered by his deputy, for that no one ſhall ſuffer capitally for the crime of another. 2 Hawk. P. C. 135.

It ſeems to be taken for granted at this day, that whoever de facto occupies the office of gaoler is liable to anſwer for ſuch an eſcape; and that it is no way material whether his title to the office be legal or not. 2 Hawk. P. C. 135.

Alſo it ſeems to be the better opinion that a ſheriff is as much liable to anſwer for an eſcape ſuffered by his bailiff, as if he had actually ſuffered it himſelf, and that the court may charge either the ſheriff or bailiff for ſuch an eſcape; and that if a deputy gaoler be not ſufficient to anſwer a negligent eſcape, his principal muſt anſwer for him: but if the gaoler who ſuffers an eſcape, have an eſtate for life, or years in the office, I do not find it agreed how far he in reverſion is liable to be puniſhed. 2 Hawk. P. C. 135, 136.

It ſeems the better opinion, that one negligent eſcape will not amount to a forfeiture of the gaoler's office, as one voluntary one will; yet if a gaoler ſuffer many negligent eſcapes, it is ſaid, that he puts it in the power of the court to ouſt him of his office by its diſcretion. 2 Hawk. P. C. 136.

It ſeems to be certain, that where-ever a perſon is found guilty, upon an indictment, or preſentment, of a negligent eſcape of a criminal actually in his cuſtody, he ought to be condemned in a certain ſum to be paid to the King, which ſeems moſt properly to be called a fine; but this doth not clearly appear from the old books, for in ſome of them it ſeems to be taken as a fine, in others as an amercement, and in others it is ſpoken of generally, as an impoſition of a certain ſum, and without any mention either of fine or amercement. But where the books ſpeak of the puniſhment of a vill, or hundred, for ſuffering a felon to eſcape without being arreſted, they ſeem always to take it as an amercement, and not as a fine: and where a ſheriff, having returned a cepi corpus into the King's Bench, or a capias againſt a man on an indictment of felony, does not bring him in at the day, it ſeems, that he is, by the courſe of the ſaid court, to be amerced, not fined. 2 Hawk. P. C. 136.

It hath been holden, that a negligent eſcape may be pardoned by the King before it happens, but that a voluntary one cannot ſo be pardoned. 2 Hawk. P. C. 136.

And it ſeems by the Common law, the penalty for ſuffering the negligent eſcape of a perſon attainted, was of courſe 100*l.* and for ſuffering ſuch eſcape of a perſon indicted, and not attainted, was 5*l.* but if the perſon eſcaping were neither attainted nor indicted, it ſeems that it was left to the diſcretion of the court to aſſeſs ſuch a reaſonable forfeiture as ſhould ſeem proper; and if the party had twice eſcaped, it ſeems, that the penalties above mentioned were of courſe to be doubled; yet it ſeems, that the forfeiture was to be no greater for ſuffering a priſoner, committed on two ſeveral accuſations, to eſcape, than if he had been committed but on one. 2 Hawk. P. C. 136.

As to the manner offences of this kind are puniſhable by ſtatute, it is recited by 5 Ed. 3. ch. 8. "That perſons indicted of felonies in times paſt, had removed the indictments before the King, and there yielded themſelves, and by the marſhals of the King's Bench had been incontinently let to bail, and after had done many evil deeds &c." And thereupon it is enacted, "That ſuch inditees and appellees ſhall be ſafely and ſurely kept in priſon, as belongeth to them; according to the charge which the ſaid marſhals ſhall have of the juſtices; and if any marſhal ſhall do otherwiſe, at the complaint of every man that will complain, the juſtices ſhall do him right during the terms; and in the end of the terms, upon their riſing, the ſaid marſhals ſhall chooſe before the ſaid juſtices, before they depart, their places, in what town they will keep ſuch priſoners at their peril: and in the ſame town they ſhall allow to them houſes to keep ſuch priſoners at their own coſt and charges; and there they ſhall keep them in priſon, and ſhall not ſuffer them to go wandring abroad, neither by bail, or without bail. And if any ſuch priſoner be found wandring out of priſon, by bail, or without bail, and that he be found at the King's ſuit, or at the ſuit of the party, the marſhal which ſhall be found thereof guilty, ſhall have half a year's impriſonment, and be ranſomed at the King's will; and the juſtices ſhall thereof make inquiry when they ſee time; and as to the marſhalls, it ſhall be done within the verge that which reaſon will. And in caſe that the marſhals ſuffer by their aſſent ſuch priſoners to eſcape, they ſhall be at law, as before the time of the ſtatute they had been. And the King intendeth not by this ſtatute to looſe the eſcape, where he ought to have the ſame."

Alſo it is enacted by 19 H. 7. c. 10. "That every ſheriff have the cuſtody of the King's common gaols, during the time of his office, except all gaols whereof any perſon or perſons have the keeping of eſtate of inheritance: And that all letters patents made for term of life, or years, of the keeping of the ſaid gaols, &c. ſhall be annulled and void. And then it is recited by the ſaid ſtatute, that divers perſons before that time, for treaſons and felonies had been taken, ſome for ſuſpection of the ſame deeds, and ſome upon indictments, and thereupon brought to the ſame gaols, and ſome time remained in the keeping of the perſon that ſo arreſted them for the ſaid cauſes, and that ſuch perſons, by colour of negligence, ſubtilly and craftily, and oftentimes for favour, made, affection or corruption, ſuffered the ſaid offenders to eſcape, as if it had been by negligence, to the overt and expreſs impediment of juſtice: And when ſuch eſcapes had been found before juſtices having authority to inquire thereof, and thereupon the parties convicted, or yielded themſelves to make a fine for the ſame, ſmall fines had been ſet in thoſe cauſes, to the little dread and fear, and great imboldning of the offenders, by means whereof, great and arrant felons, and heinous murders have eſcaped, &c." And thereupon it is enacted, "That for every negligent eſcape from any ſheriff, having the keeping of any gaol, or from any conſtable of caſtle, or other, being keeper of any gaols where ſuch priſoners accuſtomably have been, or ſhall be kept, of perſons indicted of high treaſon being in their keeping, that no leſs fine be ſet or made for every ſuch eſcape, than 100 marks, and more, by the diſcretion of the juſtices that ſhall aſſeſs ſuch fines: and for every eſcape of perſons eſcaping, being in their keeping for ſuſpection of high treaſon, no leſs fine to be ſet ne made than 40*l.* and for every eſcape of perſons indicted of murder, or petit treaſon, 20*l.* at leaſt, and more, by the diſcretion of the juſtices that ſhall aſſeſs ſuch fines: and for every perſon eſcaping, being in their keeping, indicted of felony, other than murder or treaſon, 10*l.* and for every perſon ſuſpected of felony, other than murder or treaſon, 100 ſhillings or more, by the diſcretion of the juſtices, after the manner and quantity of their demirits; ſaving to every perſon ſuch right and title to any ſuch eſcapes, and fines for the ſame, as to be quit of ſuch eſcapes, or of any other eſcapes, as they had, or ought to have had at the time of making of the ſaid act."

5. Aiding.

5. Aiding or aſſiſting priſoners to attempt to eſcape, how puniſhed.

By ſtat. 16 Geo. 2. cap. 31. ſect. 1. it is enacted, That if any perſon be aſſiſting to any priſoner to attempt to make his eſcape from any gaol, although no eſcape be made, in caſe ſuch priſoner was then attained or convicted of treaſon, or any felony, except petty larceny, or committed to, or detained in gaol for treaſon, or any felony, except petty larceny, expreſſed in the warrant of commitment or detainer; every perſon ſo offending and convicted, ſhall be deemed guilty of felony and be tranſported to one of his Majeſty's colonies in America for ſeven years; and in caſe ſuch priſoner then was convicted of, committed or detained for petty larceny, or any other crime, not being treaſon or felony expreſſed in the warrant of commitment or detainer, or then was in gaol upon any proceſs for debt, damages, coſts, or ſums of money, amounting to 100*l.* every perſon ſo offending and convicted ſhall be deemed guilty of a miſdemeanor, for which he ſhall be liable to a fine and impriſonment.

Sect. 2. If any perſon convey into any gaol any diſguiſe or inſtrument, or arms proper to facilitate the eſcape of priſoners, and the ſame deliver or cauſe to be delivered to any priſoner, or for the uſe of any priſoner, without the privity of the keeper, or under-keeper of ſuch gaol; every ſuch perſon, although no eſcape or attempt to eſcape be made, ſhall be deemed to have delivered ſuch diſguiſe, inſtrument, or arms, with intent to aſſiſt ſuch priſoner to eſcape; and in caſe ſuch priſoner then was attainted or convicted of treaſon, or any felony, except petty larceny, or committed or detained for treaſon, or any felony, except petty larceny, expreſſed in the warrant of commitment or detainer, every perſon ſo offending and convicted ſhall be deemed guilty of felony, and be tranſported to America for ſeven years; but in caſe the priſoner to whom, or for whoſe uſe ſuch diſguiſe inſtrument, or arms, ſhall be ſo delivered, then was convicted, committed or detained for petty larceny, or any other crime, not being treaſon or felony, expreſſed in the warrant of commitment or detainer, or upon any proceſs for debt, damages, coſts, or ſums of money amounting to 100 l. every perſon ſo offending and convicted ſhall be deemed guilty of a miſdemeanor, for which he ſhall be liable to a fine and impriſonment.

Sect. 3. If any perſon aſſiſt any priſoner to attempt to make his eſcape from the cuſtody of any conſtable, headborough, tithingman, or other officer, who ſhall then have the lawful charge of ſuch priſoner in order to carry him to gaol, by warrant of commitment for treaſon, or any felony (except petty larceny) expreſſed in ſuch warrant; or if any perſon be aſſiſting to any felon, to attempt to make his eſcape from any boat or ſhip, carrying felons for tranſportation, or from any perſon to whom ſuch felon is lawfully delivered in order for tranſportation; every perſon ſo offending and convicted ſhall be deemed guitly of felony, and be tranſported to America for ſeven years.

Sect. 4. There ſhall be no proſecution for any of the ſaid offences, unleſs ſuch proſecution be commenced within one year after ſuch offence.

Sect 5. If any perſon ordered for tranſportation in purſuance of this act return, or be at large in Great Britain, without lawful cauſe, before the expiration of the term for which he was ordered to be tranſported, ſuch perſon ſhall be liable to the ſame puniſhment, and to the like methods of proſecution, trial, and conviction, as other felons tranſported, or ordered to be tranſported.

Eſcapio quietus. He who by charter is quietus de eſcapio, is delivered from that puniſhment which by the laws of the foreſt lieth upon thoſe whoſe beaſts are found within the land where forbidden. Cromp. Juriſd. 196.

Eſcapium, What comes by hap, chance, or accident.——Ita quod nec dicti abbas & conventus vel eorum tenentes aliquid juris clamare poſſint——in communia paſturæ——ſeu in curſu canum ſuorum in ipſo boſco, niſi forte per eſcapium eveniat. Cartula Abbat. Glaſton. MS. penes dom. Clarges ex Ædc Chriſti Oxon. f. 67. b.

Eſceppa, A ſcepp or meaſure of corn.——Richardus de Reveſbia recepit unam bovatam in Sticcefordia per idem ſervitium per annum, excepto quod eſchepa braſii quam debet habere, erit de avena.——Mon. Angl. tom. 1. p. 823. See Sceppa.

Eſchanderia, The chandlary, or chandry, the office where candles were repoſited and delivered out for domeſtic uſes.——Willielmus de Bigod tenet terras & villam de Bures per ſerjeantiam eſchanderiæ & valet villa centum ſolidos. 11 Hen. 3.

Eſchange or Erchange, Eſcambium or Excambium. Hanc terram cambiavit Hugo Briccuino quod modo tenet comes Moriton & ipſum ſcambium valet duplum. Domeſday. See Erchange.

Eſcheat, (Eſchaeta, from the Fr. Eſcheoir, i. e. cadere, accidere) Signifies any lands, or other profits, that caſually fall to a lord within his manor, by way of forfeiture; or by the death of his tenant, leaving no heir general or ſpecial; Magna Charta, cap. 31. Fitz. Nat. Br. fol. 143. T. Eſcheat is alſo uſed ſometimes for the place or circuit, in which the King or other lord hath Eſcheats of his tenants. Bract. lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 2. Pupilla Oculi, par. 2. cap. 22. Eſcheat (thirdly) is uſed for a writ, which lies, where the tenant having eſtate of fee ſimple in any lands or tenements holden of a ſuperior lord dies ſeiſed without heir general or ſpecial. In which caſe the lord brings this writ againſt him that poſſeſſeth the lands after the death of his tenant, and ſhall thereby recover the ſame in lieu of his ſervices. Fitz. Nat. Br. fol. 144. In the ſame ſenſe as we ſay, the fee is eſcheated, the Feudiſts uſe Feudum Aperitur. See Coke on Littleton, fol. 92. b. and the Civilians call theſe forfeitures bona caduca. Sometimes the word eſcheat ſignifies a lawful inheritance deſcending on the heir, but then the adjective recta is uſually added; as recta eſchaeta, i. e. legitima, or ſuch as is caſt on another by law: Thus in Leg. H. 1. cap. 1. Salvo ſibi & hærædibus ſuis recto caduco, ſive recta eſchaeta: Gervas of Tilbury, lib. 2. writes, Eſchaeta cum hærede, viz. cum pater familias &c. de rege tenens in capite, fata debita ſolveret, relictis tamen liberis quorum primogenitus minor eſt annis, redditus quidem ejus ad fiſcum redeunt, ſed hujuſmodi non ſimpliciter eſchaeta dicitur, ſed eſchaeta cum hærede, de ipſa hæreditatæ per officiales Regios tam hæres quam cæteri liberi neceſſaria percipiunt. What we call eſcheats, are in the kingdom of Naples called excadentia, or bona excadentia; as, Baro locat excadentias eo modo quo locatæ fuerint ab antiquo, ita quod nulla debita ſervitia minuantur, & non remittit gallinam debitam. Jacob. de Franchiis in præludiis ad Feudorum uſum. Cowell.

An eſcheat happens two manner of ways, aut per defectum ſanguinis, that is, for default of heir, aut per delictum tenentis, that is, for felony; which is by judgment three manner of ways, aut quia ſuſpenſus per collum, aut quia abjuravit regnum, aut quia utlagatus; and therefore they who are hanged by martial law, in furore belli, forfeit no lands. Co. Lit. 13. a.

Huſband and wife tenants in ſpecial tail; the huſband is attainted of treaſon, and executed, leaving iſſue; the wife died; the lands ſhall eſcheat, becauſe the iſſue in tail ought to make his conveyance by father and mother, and from the father he could not, by reaſon of the attainder. Dyer 332. pl. 27. Paſch. 16 Eliz. Sir Nicholas Carew's caſe.

Eldeſt ſon in the life of his father is attainted of felony, and dies, living the father; the youngeſt ſhall have the land as heir to his father; but if an iſſue of the eldeſt is living, the land ſhall eſcheat to the lord. D. 48. a. pl. 16. Trin. 32 H. 8. Anon'.

Attainders that give eſcheat to the lord, muſt be by judgment of death given in ſome court of record againſt the felon found guilty by verdict, or confeſſion of the felony, or it muſt be by outlawry of him. Bacon's Uſe of the Law 38.

If a baſtard dies ſeiſed without iſſue, and the lord by eſcheat enters, this dying ſeiſed ſhall not bar the mulier, becauſe there is no deſcent. Co. Lit. 244. a.

There can be no eſcheat, but pro defectu tenentis. Per Hale. Hardr. 494. Mich. 20 Car. 2. in Scaccario. Sir George Sands's caſe.

If a man be ſeiſed in jure uxᵉ, and the wife is attainted of felony, the lord ſhall enter and ouſt the huſband; he gains nothing but a bare perception of profits till iſſue had; after iſſue he has eſtate for life. Arg. Mod. 91 pl. 59. Mich. 22 Car. 2. B. R. in the caſe of Parſons v Perns.

A. ſeiſed in fee of land died without iſſue, brother or ſiſter, but left two couſins his heirs at law, one of whom was his own mother. The Maſter of the Rolls held, that his mother might inherit immediately as heir in the capacity or relation of couſin; and further obſerved, that the other couſin, being but half an heir, could not take the whole, nor could any thing go to the lord by eſcheat: for as long as there is any heir he cannot take; ſo that though the other couſin could take but a moiety, yet her being a moiety of an heir would prevent the lord's title by eſcheat; and that though this was a very uncommon caſe, he took it to be a clear one. 2 Wms's Rep. (613.) (614.) Trin. Eaſtwood v. Vinke alias Styles.

The father is ſeiſed of land in fee holden of J. S. The ſon is attainted of high treaſon. The father dieth, the land ſhall eſcheat to J. S. propter defectum ſanguinis; becauſe the father died without heir; and the King cannot have the land, becauſe the ſon never had any thing to forfeit. But the King ſhall have the eſcheat of all the lands whereof the perſon attainted of high treaſon was ſeiſed, of whomſoever they were holden. Co. Litt. 13. a and in Marg. cites Pl. Com. in Nichol's caſe.

Eſtates tail in caſe of treaſon ſhall not eſcheat to the lord who has jura regalia, for the King himſelf could not have them but by the ſtatute 26 H. 8. and alſo the tenant in tail holds of his donor, and not of the lord. And alſo for new treaſons, made ſince ſuch grants of jura regalia, the patentee ſhall not have the forfeiture. D. 289. pl. 57. Paſch. 12 Eliz.

If a man having an eſtate for his own or anothers life committed treaſon or felony, the whole eſtate is forfeited to the Crown, but no eſcheat to the lord. Bacon's Uſe of the Law 40.

But a copyhold, or fee ſimple, or for life, is forfeited to the lord, and not to the Crown; and if it be entailed the lord is to have it during the life of the offender only, and then his heir is to have it. Bacon's Uſe of the Law 40.

Eſcheat of all lands for high treaſon belongs to the King only, and to no other; but entailed lands did not veſt in the King at Common law before office, but did deſcend to the iſſue in tail till office; but this is altered by 33 H. 8. which gives and veſts all in the King by the attainder. 3 Rep. 10. b. Trin. 26 Eliz. in Scaccario, Dowtie's caſe.

A. ſeiſed of a houſe in Southwark held of the archbiſhop of C. as of his borough of S. ſurrendered it 30 H. 8. to the King, who granted the houſe and divers other lands in London, Middleſex, and Eſſex, to J. S. and his heirs, to hold in libero burgagio by fealty for all ſervices and demands, and not in capite. Q. Mary granted the manor and borough of S. to the mayor, &c. of London, and the tenant of the ſaid houſe died without heir; adjudged that the Queen ſhould have the eſcheat; for the firſt patentee of the houſe held of the Queen in capite as of a ſeigniory in groſs, and the words in libero burgagio are merely void; for the land out of the borough cannot be held in libero burgagio, and there ſhall not be ſeveral tenures, for one tenure was reſerved by the King for all, and therefore muſt neceſſarily be a tenure in ſocage of the King. Cro. E. 121. pl. 9. Mich. 30 & 31 Eliz. B. R. May and Baniſter v. Street.

If an alien purchaſes land and dies, the law caſts the inheritance on the King. Co. Litt. 2. b.

If an alien made denizen purchaſes land and dies without iſſue, the lord, and not the King, ſhall have the eſcheat. Co. Lttt. 2. b.

For other matters, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Eſcheat. See Inquiſition and Eſcheator.

Eſcheat of wood. All the appendages of lop and top, &c. that belonged to a tree felled or falling down. John de Grey, biſhop of Norwich, gave liberty to the monks of his church, that in his wood of Thorp, habebunt unam arborem cum ramis, cortice, coſpellis, radice, & tota eſchaeta. Ex Reg. Eccl. Norwic'.

Eſcheator, (Eſchaetor,) Was an officer (appointed by the Lord Treaſurer) who obſerved the eſcheats due to the King in the county whereof he was eſcheator; and certified them into the Chancery or Exchequer, and found offices after the death of the King's tenants, which held by knight's ſervice in capite, or otherwiſe by knight's ſervice. He continued in his office but one year, nor could any be eſcheator above once in three years. Stat. 1 H. 1. cap. 8. and 3 eiuſdem, cap. 2. See more of this officer and his authority, in Crom. Juſtice of Peace. Fitzherbert calls him an officer of record, Nat. Br. fol. 100. becauſe that which he certified by virtue of his office, had the credit of a record. Officium eſchaetriæ is the eſcheatorſhip. Reg. of Writs, fol. 259. b. This office having its chief dependance on the court of wards, is now out of date. See 4 Inſt. fol. 225. There was alſo anciently an eſcheator of the Jews. Clauſ. 4 Ed. 1. m. 7. Cowell, edit. 1727.

If the eſcheator ſeizes without cauſe, aſſiſe lies againſt him, and in the aſſiſe againſt him it ſhall be tried whether he had cauſe or not, and if the cauſe be true or not. Br. Aſſiſe, pl. 257. (256.) cites 24 Aſſ. 7.

If eſcheator enters to the uſe of the King, where the King has no title, he is diſſeiſor, and a man may enter upon him where he ſo enters without office. Br. Entre Congeable, pl. 5. cites 35 H. 6. 60.

In aſſiſe the tenant ſaid that the land is ſeized into the hands of the King, and prayed that the eſcheator be examined, who teſtified it, yet the aſſiſe ſhall not remain, per Houſe; contra if he ſhews cauſe, and ſays that he ſeized according to the cauſe, which others agreed; and ſo ſee a diverſity, where cauſe is ſhewn by the eſcheator, and no cauſe. Br. Aſſiſe, pl. 381. cites 9 H. 7. 8.

If eſcheator takes my goods for the goods of J. S. who is outlaw'd, he is puniſhable by treſpaſs, but if he does ſo by colour of an office, finding my goods to be J. S.'s he is excuſable, becauſe he did it by colour of juſtice, &c. Kelw. 66. b. 20 H. 7.

Eſcheator was an ancient officer, ſo called becauſe his office is properly to look to eſcheats, wardſhips and other caſualties belonging to the Crown. Co. Litt. 13. b.

In ancient time there were but two eſcheators in England, the one on this ſide Trent, and the other beyond Trent, at which time they had ſub-eſcheators. But in the reign of Ed. 2. the offices were divided, and ſeveral eſcheators made in every county for life, and ſo continued till the riegn of Ed. 3. And afterwards by the ſtat. 14 Ed. 3. it is enacted by authority of parliament, That there ſhould be as many eſcheators aſſigned as when King Edw. 3. came to the Crown, and that was one in every county, and that no eſcheator ſhould tarry in his office above one year; and by another ſtatute, to be in office but once in three years. Co. Litt. 13. b.

The Lord Treaſurer nameth the eſcheator. Co. Litt. 13.

How eſcheats ſhall be anſwered to the King, St. de Scac. 51 H. 3. ſt. 5. St. de Echaetor'. 29 Ed. 1.

Eſcheators ſhall not commit waſte in wards lands, 28 Ed. 1. cap. 18.

Shall reſtore iſſues of lands wrongfully ſeiſed, 28 Ed. 1. c. 19.

The King's prerogative in eſcheats of biſhops tenants and of felons, Prerog. Reg. 17 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 14. & 16.

Eſcheators ſhall have lands ſufficient in the county to anſwer the King and his people, 4 Ed. 3. c. 9. 5 Ed. 3. c. 4.

There ſhall be a ſufficient number of eſcheators elected yearly by the Chancellor, &c. 14 Ed. 3. ſt. 1. c. 8.

Caſual profits to be anſwered according to the rate, 28 Ed. 3. c. 4.

Shall take inqueſt of good jurors, &c. 34 Ed. 3. 13. 23 H. 6. c. 16.

Offices found ſhall be returned into Chancery, 36 Ed. 3. c. 13.

Shall have 20*l.* a year in land, 42 Ed. 3. c. 5. 12 Ed. 4. c. 9.

Shall

Shall be removed every year, 46 Ed. 3.

Commiſſions ſhall go to inquire of the accounts of ſheriffs, eſcheators, &c. 6 H. 4. c. 3.

No eſcheators to take inqueſts but of people returned by the ſheriffs, 8 H. 6. c. 16.

Lands ſeized not to be lett till a month after office returned, ibid.

Shall return inquiſitions within the month, 18 H. 6. c. 7.

Eſcheator's fees, 23 H. 6. c. 16.

Eſchecum. Anno 24 Hen. 3. Inter abbatem S. Albani & Galfridum de Childwic & alios,——quod habuerunt venationem illam vi aut permiſſione anteceſſorum prædicti abbatis vel per eſcheccum. The Gloſſ. at the end of Matthew Paris, (where the pleadings are to be ſeen at large fol. 538. and 539.) interprets it Increpationem abbatis, vetationem & interruptionem. But quære, if it may not rather ſignify by chance, from the Fr. eſcheoir, to happen or to fall out, and not of right; as when S. S. ſtarts a hare in his own lordſhip and purſues the chace through another's, in which caſe he needs no permiſſion, according to the law of huntſmen. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſchequer. See Exchequer.

Eſchipare, To build or equip: Naves bene eſchipatas bonis & probis marinellis. Du Freſne.

Eſcoriatio moræ, Paring off the turf of ſedgy or mooriſh ground for burning. Qui autem foris fecerit in foreſta Regis de viridi, ſive per culpaturam, ſive per eſbrancaturam, ſive per foditionem turbarum, ſive per eſcoriationem moræ, ſive per culpationem ſub nemore, &c. Rog. Hov. Annal. p. 784.

Eſcuage, Scutagium, (from the French ecu, clypeus, a ſhield) Signifieth a kind of knight's ſervice, called ſervice of the ſhield, whereby the tenant is bound to follow his lord into the Scotch or Welſh wars at his own charge; for which ſee Chivalry. He who held a whole knight's fee, was bound to ſerve with horſe and arms forty days at his own charge; and he who held half a knight's fee was to ſerve twenty days. But note, that eſcuage is either uncertain, or certain: Eſcuage uncertain is properly eſcuage and knight's ſervice, being ſubject to homage, fealty, and (formerly) ward and marriage; and ſo called, becauſe it is uncertain how often a man ſhall be called to follow his lord into thoſe wars, and what his charge will be in each journey. Eſcuage certain is, when a certain rent is paid yearly in lieu of all ſervices, being no further bound than to pay his rent, called a knight's fee, or the fourth part of a knight's fee according to his land; and this loſeth the nature of knight's ſervice, though it hold the name of eſcuage, being in effect but ſocage. F. N. B. fol. 8. But ſee the ſtat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. for taking away the court of wards and liveries, and turning all tenures into free and common ſocage. See Littleton, lib. 2. cap. 3. And ſee Capite. Cowel, edit. 1727.

Eſcuage alſo is ſometimes taken for that duty or payment, which they who held lands under this tenure, were bound to make to the lord when they neither went themſelves to the wars, nor provided one in their place. Monaſticon, 2 tom. p. 99. Scutagium aſſiſum per regnum.

Eſcuage is ſometimes called a reaſonable aid which was demanded by the lord of his tenants who held lands in knight's ſervice, viz. Conceſſerunt domino Regi ad maritandam filiam ſuam de omnibus qui tenent de domino Rege in capite de ſingulis ſcutis 20 ſolidos ſolvendos. Matt. Paris, anno 1242. It was an uncertain duty till it was known how much money the parliament would raiſe, but eſcuage certain is called ſocage.

Eſcurare, To ſcour or cleanſe.——Proviſo inſuper quod quoties & quando neceſſe erit & opportunum dicta foſſata noſtra mundare, purgare, vel eſcurare, liceat nobis & ſucceſſoribus noſtris totam aquam dictorum foſſatorum convertere & transferre. Charta Thomæ Epiſcopi B. W. dat. 29 Octob. 4 Ed. 4.——Ex Collectaneis Matth. Hutton. S. T. P. MS.

Eſgliſe, (Fr.) A church; in the old books a law title or head. L. Fr. Dict.

Eſingae, The Kings of Kent, ſo called from Ochta, ſurnamed Eſe, the grandfather of King Ethelbert.

Eſkectores, (from the French eſcher.)——Dicunt etiam (juratores quod latrones & eſkectores de terra de Morgannon intraverunt predictam terram de Brekenhok,—Placit. Parl. 20 Ed. 1. Robbers or deſtroyers of other mens lands or fortunes.

Eſkenage, The mayor and aldermen of Calais petition the King to grant them the aſſiſe of wine, ale, beer, and bread, within the juriſdiction of the ſame town, called la eſkenage, Rot. Parl. 4 H. 4.

Eſkippamentum. Clauſ. 1 Ed. 1. whereby the ſea-port towns were to provide certain ſhips.——Sumptibus propriis & duplici eſkippamento. Sir Robert Cotton renders it, double ſkippage, i. e. double tackle, or furniture. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſkippeſon, Shipping or paſſage by ſea. Ceſte endenture faite parentre lui noble home Monſ. Thomas Beauchamp counte de Warwyke d'une parte, & John Ruſſel eſcuier d' autre parte, teſmoigne, &c. Et que le dit John aura eſkypeſon covenable pour ſon paſſage & repaſſage outre meer, as cuſtages le dit counte, &c. Done a Warwyke, 2 Jan. 50 Ed. 3. And Humfrey Earl of Bucks, in a deed, (dat. 13 Febr. Hen. 6.) covenants with Sir Phil. Chitwind, his lieutenant of the caſtle of Calais, to give him allowance for his ſoldiers ſkippeſon and reſkippeſon, i. e. paſſage by ſhip, and repaſſage.

Eſnecy, (Æſnecia, dignitas primogeniti) Is a prerogative given to the eldeſt coparcener, to chooſe firſt after the inheritance is divided. Fleta, lib. 5. cap. 10. ſect. in diviſionem. Salvo capitali meſſuagio primogenito filio pro dignitate æſneciæ ſuæ. Glanvil, lib. 2. c. 3. Jus æſneciæ, jus primogenituræ. Skene de verb. ſig. ſtat. Marlb. c. 9. calls it Enitia pars hæreditatis. See Co. on Littl. f. 166. b.

Eſpealtare, (Expeditare,) To expeditate, which in a proper old Engliſh term was called lawing of dogs, and was done two ſeveral ways; either, firſt, by cutting off the three fore claws of the right foot; or ſecondly, by cutting out the ball of the foot; that ſo by either way the dogs might be diſabled from hunting or running hard. This method of preventing miſchief from dogs neighbouring on a foreſt, was invented by king Henry 2. or at leaſt by him firſt injoined in the aſſiſe of Woodſtock, artic. 6. Nullus dominicos canes abbatis & monachorum eſpealtare cogat, verum canes hominum ſuorum intra foreſtam manentium abbas & monachi eſpealtari faciant.——Cartular. Abbat. Glaſton. MS. Penes Magiſt. Clarges, nuper ex Æde Chriſti, f. 7. See Expeditare.

Eſplees, (Expletia, perhaps from expleo,) Seem to be the full profits that the ground or land yieldeth; as the hay of the meadows, the feed of the paſture, the corn of the arable; the rents, ſervices, and ſuch like iſſues. The profits compriſed under this word, the Romans call properly Acceſſiones; nam acceſſiones ea generaliter omnia, quæ ex re de qua agitur orta ſunt, veluti fructus, partus & omnis cauſa rei & quæcunque ex re procedunt. And note, that in a writ of right of land, advowſon, or ſuch like, the demandant ought to allege in his count, that he or his anceſtors took the eſplees of the thing in demand; otherwiſe the pleading is not good. Termes de la ley. Dominus epiſcopus habebit omnia expletia & proficua de corona emergentia. Plac. Parl. 30 Ed. 1. Sometimes it ſignifies the farm or lands themſelves, viz. Et pro eo quod prædict. homines, & eorum animalia, per terras & paſcua mea & expleta eant & redeant abſque ullo ſervitio. Du Freſne.

Eſperverius and Sparverius, (Fr. epervier) A ſparhawk, Char. Foreſtæ, cap. 14.——Reddit. ſolut. Willielmo Talboys arm. ad manerium ſuum de Kyme pro omnibus ſervitiis ſecularibus unum eſpervarium vel 2*s. per annum ad feſtum ſancti Mich. &c.* Comput. Davidis Gefferon. Collect. Redd. de Wragby. Anno 35 Hen. 6——Dicunt quod Richardus de Herthall die quo obiit tenuit manerium de Poley in com. War. in dominico ſuo ut de feodo per fidelitatem & ſervitium unius eſpervarii vel 2*s. ad feſtum S. Jacobi, &c.* Eſc. de anno 19 Ed. 2. num. 53.

Eſpicurnantia, The office of Spigurnel, or ſealer of the King's writs. The word ſpigurnellus, which Spelman and Du Freſne recite without interpreting, ſeems detorted from the Saxon ſparron, to ſhut up or encloſe. Oliver de Staundford Staundford, in 27 Ed. 1. held lands in Nettlebed, com. Oxon. per ſerjantiam eſpicurnantiæ in cancellaria domini Regis. Paroch. Antiq. p. 292. See Kennet's Gloſſary, ibid.

Eſpouſals, (Sponſalia,) Are a contract or mutual promiſe between a man and a woman to marry each other; and where marriages may be conſummated, eſpouſals go before them. Marriage or matrimony is ſaid to be an eſpouſal de præſenti, and a conjunction of man and woman in a conſtant ſociety. Wood's Inſt. 57. See Matrimony.

Eſquire, From the French ecü, which ſignifies a ſhield, from the Lat. ſcutum, from the Greek σκύτος, which ſignifies an hide, of which ſhields were anciently made, and afterwards covered; and here in the time of the Saxons, the ſhields were covered with leather, ſo that eſquire was originally he who attending a knight in time of war, did carry his ſhield. Whence he was called eſcuier in French, ſcutifer or armiger in Latin: howbeit this addition hath not along time had any reſpect at all to the office or employment of the perſon to whom it hath been attributed, but been merely a title of dignity, and next in degree below a knight. Thoſe to whom this title is now of right due, are, all the younger ſons of noblemen, and the eldeſt ſons of ſuch younger ſons; the eldeſt ſons of knights, and their eldeſt ſons ſucceſſively: The four eſquires of the King's body: Thoſe that ſerve the King in any worſhipful calling, (to uſe Camden's words) as the ſerjeant chirurgeon, ſerjeant of the ewry, maſter cook, &c. Such as are created eſquires by the King, with a collar of SS. of ſilver, as the heralds and ſerjeants at arms. The chief of ſome ancient families are likewiſe eſquires by preſcription; thoſe that bear any ſuperior office in the commonwealth, as high-ſheriff of any county, who (as ſome hold) retains the title of eſquire during his life, in reſpect of the great truſt he has had of the poſſe commitatus; he who is a juſtice of peace, has it, during the time he is in commiſſion, and no longer, if not otherwiſe qualified to bear it. Barriſters at law in the late acts of parliament for poll-money, were ranked among eſquires, and ſo many wealthy men, (by reaſon they were commonly reputed to be ſuch) and paid accordingly. In Walſingham's Hiſtory of Richard the Second, we read of one John Blake, who is ſaid to be juris apprenticius, and has the addition of ſcutifer there given him; but, whether intitled thereto by reaſon of his profeſſion or otherwiſe, does not appear. See Camd. Brit. f. 111. and 2 Inſt. fo. 595.

A principe fiunt armigeri vel ſcripto vel ſymbolo vel munere. Scripto, cum Rex ſic quenpiam conſtituerit. Symbolo, quum collum ergo alicujus argenteo ſigmatico (hoc eſt torque ex SS. confecto) adornaverit, eumve argentatis calcaribus (ad diſcrimen equitum, qui aureis uſi ſunt) donaverit. Tales in occidentali Angliæ plaga (ut aliquando didici in conventu rei antiquæ ſtudioſorum) white ſpurs dicti ſunt. Munere, cum ad munut quempiam evocaverit, vel in aula vel in repub. armigero deſignatum: Cujuſmodi multa hodie, patribus noſtris incognita. Inter armigeros qui fiunt (non naſcuntur) primarii habentur quatuor illi armigeri ad corpus Regis (eſquires of the body) quos & equitum filiis primogenitis anteponendos aſſerunt. Thus the learned Spelman, in whoſe Gloſſarium you may find mention of another ſpecies of eſquires, viz. ſquier born de quater cotes.

Omnibus ——Walterus de Pavely miles filius quondam Reginaldi de Pavely ſalutem. Noveritis me obligari Rogero Marmion filio quondam Philippi Marmion omnibus diebus vitæ ſuæ in una roba cum pellura de ſecta armigeorum meorum annuatim ad feſtum nativitatis Domini percipiend. ſine aliqua contradictione vel retractione mei vel hæredum meorum aut aſſignatorum. Ad quam quidem ſolutionem robæ prædictæ cum pellura annuatim ad terminum ſupradictum fideliter perſolvendum obligo me & hæredes meos, bona & catalla noſtra mobilia & immobilia, ubicunque fuerint inventa in maneriis meis in hundredo de Weſtbury exiſtitentibus vel extra, &c. ſine dat. Ex codice MS. penes Gul. Dugdale Mil. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Camden, in his Brit. fol. 111. having ſpoken of knights, hath theſe words of eſquires, Hiis proximi fuere armigeri, qui & ſcutiferi hominesque ad arma dicti, qui vel vel a clypeis gentilitiis quæ in nobilitatis inſignia geſtant; vel qui principibus & majoribus illis nobilibus ab armis erant, nomen traxerunt, &c. Hotoman, in the ſixth chapter of his Diſputations upon the Feuds ſaith, that thoſe which the French call eſquires, were a military kind of vaſſals, having jus ſcuti, that is, they bear a ſhield, and in it the enſigns of their family, in token of their gentility or dignity. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſquires of the king, Are ſuch who have the title by creation: Theſe, when they are created, have put about their necks a collar of SS. and a pair of ſilver ſpurs is beſtowed on them: And they were wont to bear before the Prince in war, a ſhield or lance. There are four eſquires of the King's body, to attend on his Majeſty's perſon. Camb. 111.

Eſſartum, Exartum, Aſſartum, Aſſart, or woodland broke up or ploughed.——Placitum quoque foreſtarum de eſſartis, de cæſione, de combuſtione, de venatione——Leg. H. 1. Reg. Angl. ca. 17. See Aſſart.

Eſſendi quietum de tolonio, Is a writ that lieth for citizens and burgeſſes of any city or town, that hath a charter or preſcription to exempt them from toll through the whole realm, if it happen the ſame to be any where exacted of them. F. N. B. 226. Reg. Orig. fol. 258.

Eſſoin, (Eſſonium, Fr. Exoine) Signifies the allegation of an excuſe for him that is ſummoned, or ſought for to appear, and anſwer to an action real, or to perform ſuit to a court-baron, upon juſt cauſe of abſence: It is as much as excuſatio with the Civilians. The cauſes that ſerve to eſſoin any man, ſummoned, are divers, yet drawn chiefly to five heads; whereof the firſt is, Ultra mare, whereby the defendant ſhall have forty days. The ſecond, De terra ſancta, where the defendant ſhall have a year and a day, and theſe muſt be laid in the beginning of the plea. The third, De malo veniendi, which is alſo called, The common eſſoin. The fourth is, De malo lecti. And the fifth, De ſervitio Regis. For further knowledge of theſe, I refer you to Glanvile, in his whole firſt book, and Bracton, lib. 5. tract. 1. per totum, and Britton. ca. 122, 123, 124, 125. and Horn's Mirrour of Juſtices, lib. 1. cap. de Eſſoins, who maketh mention of ſome more eſſoins touching the ſervice of the King Celeſtial, and of ſome other points not unworthy to be known. Of theſe eſſoins you may read further in Fleta, lib. 6. cap. 8. & ſeq. And that theſe came to us from the Normans, is well ſhewed by the Grand Cuſtomary, where you may in a manner find all ſaid that our lawyers have ſpoken of this matter. Cap. 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſſoin de malo lecti, Is when the defendant is ſick in bed.

Eſſoin de malo veniendi, Is when the defendant is infirm in body, and not able to come.

Eſſoin per ſervitium Regis, Is when the defendant is in the King's ſervice.

Eſſoin de malo villae, Is when the defendant appears in court the firſt day, but departed without pleading, and being afterwards ſurprized by ſickneſs, or any other infirmity, cannot attend the court, but ſend two eſſoiners, who openly proteſt in court that he is detained by ſickneſs, in ſuch a village, that he cannot come, pro lucrari & pro perdere; and this muſt be admitted for full proof, without any further ſurety, for 'tis incumbent on the plaintiff to prove whether the eſſoin is true or not.

Eſſoin de terra ſancta, Was an expedition to the Holy Land, viz. to Jeruſalem.

Eſſoin de ultra mare, Was when the defendant is beyond ſea.

Burghill brought a quare impedit againſt the defendants. The writ was returnable tres Mich. 5 Will. & Mar. at which day the defendant Gibbons caſt an eſſoin, which was not adjourned. Then the archbiſhop of York caſt an eſſoin, which was not adjourned. Upon which the defendants entred a non proſ. againſt the plaintiff, which upon motion in Hilary term laſt was ſet aſide, becauſe the eſſoin of the archbiſhop of York, for the non-adjournment of which the plaintiff was nonſuit, was ill caſt, the eſſoin of Gibbons not being adjourned, ſo that the the archbiſhop had no day in court to caſt an eſſoin; upon the ſetting aſide of which non proſ. the record was made right, and the proceedings were in this manner, viz. the writ was returnable tres Mich. 5 Will. & Mar. at which time Gibbons was eſſoined, which was adjourned to craſt. Martin. then the archbiſhop caſt an eſſoin, which was adjourned to Octab. Hilar. and at Octab. Hilar. the two other defendants were not eſſoined, but made default; then the plaintiff ſues a pone againſt them, to ſhew cauſe why they made default, returnable Octabis purificationis, at which day iſſued an alias pone, which was continued until the firſt return of laſt Hilary term; at which day the biſhop of Carliſle caſt an eſſoin, which was adjourned to quinden. paſchæ; at which day the univerſity caſt an eſſoin, to which the plaintiff entered a challenge upon the eſſoin roll, and the defendant demurred to the challenge, and the eſſoin was quaſhed by the court, becauſe an eſſoin is an excuſe of the appearance of the party; now a corporation cannot appear, and therefore cannot caſt an eſſoin, nor enter into recognizance. Bendl. 121. 21 Ed. 4. 79. And now ſerjeant Gould moved, that the archbiſhop of York might have an eſſoin, his former eſſoin which he caſt being adjudged ill upon the ſetting aſide of the non proſ. and ſo he had not had any eſſoin. And per curiam, he ſhall have an eſſoin, for the courſe of the court is, that an eſſoin may be caſt at any time before a ne recipiatur is entered; and the reaſon of the irregularity of the firſt eſſoin of the archbiſhop (which was ſet aſide for that cauſe) proceeded from the plaintiff's own fault, viz. the non-adjournment of the eſſoin of Gibbons, upon which he might have been nonſuit; but where there are ſeveral defendants, and one of them caſts an eſſoin, which is challenged, and upon demurrer the challenge is allowed; the others have no day in court to caſt an eſſoin, becauſe idem dies datus eſt to them all; but all the defendants may join in eſſoin if they pleaſe, or any two of them may have ſeveral eſſoins. And by Powell junior Juſtice, it is not error, to allow an eſſoin where it does not lie, but it is error to deny an eſſoin where it does lie; and (by him) it is not error to allow two eſſoins. But Powell ſenior Juſtice ſeemed to doubt of this latter point, becauſe it is within the act of fourching by eſſoins. And Powell junior Juſtice cited the caſe of one Slay, where an eſſoin was caſt for the defendant at niſi prius, which the plaintiff challenged, becauſe an attorney was entered upon record, and the challenge was allowed, and judgment peremptory was given, and upon error brought, it was affirmed in B. R. becauſe it was in nature of a departure in deſpight of the court; which caſe, as well all the court, as the ſerjeants at the bar, remembered. Ld. Raym. Rep. 78, 80. Eaſt. 8 Will. 3. Burghill v. Archiep. Ebor. Epiſcop. Carliol. Gibbons & Univerſitat. Cantab'.

After iſſue joined there ſhall be but one eſſoin, St. Marleb. 52 H. 3. c. 13.

Eſſoin need not be ſworn to in the county or court-baron, St. Marleb. 52 H 3. c. 20.

Lies not after appearance in aſſizes, attaints, and juris utrum, St. Weſtm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 42. nor ſhall the plaintiffs have eſſoin, St. Weſtm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. c. 28.

Parceners and joint-tenants ſhall not fourch by eſſoin, St. Weſt. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 43.

Nor huſband and wife, St. Glouceſt. 6 Ed. 1. c. 16.

Eſſoin de ultra mare may be challenged before the juſtices, for that the tenant was within England the day of the ſummons, and three weeks after, St. Weſt. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 44.

On failure of warranting an eſſoin de ſervitio Regis, the defendant ſhall pay coſts, St. Glouc. 6 Ed. 1. c. 8.

Eſſoin does not lie in aſſiſe in Wales, St. Wall. 12 Ed. 1.

No eſſoin lies for an appellor in any caſe, 13 Ed. 1. c. 12.

De malo lecti may be challenged, for that the tenant is not ſick, St. Weſtm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. c. 17.

Shall not lie in a writ of right between two claiming by one deſcent, St. Weſtm. Ed. 1. c. 17.

After iſſue joined an eſſoin ſhall only be allowed at the firſt day given. St. Weſtm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. c. 27.

In what caſes eſſoins lie, and in what not, St. Eſſoin, 12 Ed. 2. ſt. 2.

In what caſes eſſoin de ſervitio Regis lieth not, St. de Viſu, &c. incerti temp'.

Eſſoin de ſervitio, &c. and protection does not lie in attaint or in aſſiſe of novel diſſeiſin. 5 Ed. 3. c. 6.

In debt againſt divers executors, they ſhall not fourch by eſſoin, 9 Ed. 3. ſt. 1. c. 3.

For more learning concerning eſſoins, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Eſſoins.

Eſſoins and proffers, Words uſed in ſtat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 21. See Proffer.

Eſſonio de malo lecti, Is a writ directed to the ſheriff, for the ſending of four lawful knights to view one that hath eſſoined himſelf de malo lecti. Reg. Orig. fol. 8. b.

Eſtabliſhment of dower, Seemeth to be the aſſurance of dower made to the wife by the husband, or his friends, before or at marriage; and aſſignment is the ſetting it out by the heir afterwards, according to the eſtabliſhment. Britton. cap. 102 & 103.

Eſtache, (from the old Fr. eſtacher, to faſten) Is uſed for a bridge, or ſtank of ſtone and timber. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſtandard. See Standard.

Eſtate, May be deduced from the French word etat, conditio, and ſignifieth that title or intereſt which a man hath in lands or tenements; as eſtate ſimple, otherwiſe called fee-ſimple; and eſtate conditional, or upon condition, which is as Littleton ſaith, lib. 3. cap. 5. either by condition in deed, or upon condition in law: Eſtate upon condition in deed is, where a man by deed indented infeoffeth another in fee, reſerving to him and to his heirs yearly a certain rent payable at one feaſt, or at divers, upon condition, that if the rent be behind, &c. that it ſhall be lawful to the feoffor, and to his heirs, to enter into the lands or tenements, &c. Eſtate upon condition in law, is ſuch as hath a conſideration in law annexed to it, though not ſpecified in writing: For example, if a man grant to another by his deed the office of parkerſhip for term of his life, this eſtate is upon condition in the law, or implied by law, &c. if the parker ſhall ſo long well and truly keep his park. Cowell.

Eſtate ſignifieth ſuch inheritance, freehold, term for years, tenancy by ſtatute-merchant, ſtaple, elegit, or the like, as any man hath in lands or tenements. Co. Lit. 345. Eſtates are real, of lands, tenements, &c. or perſonal, of goods or chattels; otherwiſe diſtinguiſhed into freeholds, that deſcend to the heir, and chattels which go to the executors.

Under this head it is thought proper to treat,

I. Of eſtate in fee-ſimple.
II. Of eſtate in tail.

I. Of eſtate in fee-ſimple.

An eſtate in fee-ſimple is an eſtate in lands, tenements, lordſhips, advowſons, commons, eſtovers, and all hereditaments, to a man and his heirs for ever: Alſo where a corporation ſole or aggregate are capable of holding in ſucceſſion, and lands are given to them and their ſucceſſors, they are ſaid to have a fee-ſimple. Lit. ſect. 1. Co. Lit. 4. a. 2 Bac. Abr. 249.

It was a common practice among the northern nations that invaded the Roman empire, for the lords, who held great diſtricts, to give lands to ſuch perſons as had behaved themſelves well in the wars, ſometimes for life only; and when they married their daughters to any of thoſe ſoldiers, who were uſually their vaſſals or tenants, they gave the lands to them and the iſſue of that marriage, which brought in the notion of ſucceſſion amongſt us. Digb. lib. 1. tit. 1. How from this notion of ſucceſſion a fee-ſimple aroſe by lettieg in all heirs, whether lineal or collateral, to the excluſion of the aſcending line, baſtards, and the half-blood, and why the male line was preferred, ſee title Deſcent.

Lord Coke divides fee, which he ſays ſignifies the ſame with inheritance, into fee-ſimple or abſolute, conditional and qualified, or baſe. Co. Lit. 21. b. And fee-ſimple, which is the moſt ample eſtate of inheritance, may be in things real, perſonal, or mixed; real, as in lands or tenements; perſonal, as when an annuity is granted to one and his heirs; mixed, as when an earl is created of ſuch a county. Co. Lit. 1. b. 2. a.

1. Who may purchaſe or inherit an eſtate in fee-ſimple.

2. Of the import of the word heir, which creates an eſtate in fee-ſimple; when it is a word of limitation, and when a word of purchaſe.

1. Who may purchaſe or inherit an eſtate in fee-ſimple.

An alien cannot purchaſe any lands in England; the reaſon is, becauſe every perſon is preſumed to have a natural and neceſſary allegiance to that ſociety that firſt protected and preſerved him; and therefore he cannot pay any allegiance to any other ſociety, unleſs he be afterwards received into it. Vaugh. 227, 291. 7 Co. 16, 17, 18. Dyer 2. pl. 8. See Alien.

All perſons attainted of treaſon or felony are incapable of purchaſing; felony, by the ancient feudal law, being a crime for which a vaſſal forfeited his feud to the lord, becauſe he breaks his oath of fealty in the higheſt manner, his body, with which he had engaged to ſerve the lord, being forfeited to the King; and his blood is ſaid to be corrupted, becauſe no man can repreſent his perſon, that perſon itſelf being forfeited by the law, and the note of infamy reſting upon his family; ſo that no repreſentative of his can be received to do any feudal ſervice: for the greater terror of all offenders, therefore, ſuch tenant dying without heirs, the land is in the lord by eſcheat; but if the tenant commits treaſon, the lands are forfeited to the King, becauſe there is an exception in the oath of fealty that ſaves his allegiance to the King; ſo that if he forfeits his allegiance, even thoſe lands held of another lord are forfeited to the King; for the lord himſelf cannot give out lands, but upon that condition, as appears by the reſervation in the oath. 2 Bac. Abr. 249. Co. Lit. 8. a. See Dig. Feud. lib. 2. tit. 23, 24. Vigellius 242, 350. Spelman's Gloſſ. 214, 215.

If a man be attainted of felony, and after purchaſe land, and dies, the King ſhall have it by his prerogative, and not the lord of the fee; becauſe his perſon being forfeited to the King, he cannot purchaſe but for the King. Co. Lit. 2. b.

If the father be attainted, and dies during the life of the grandfather, yet the ſon ſhall not inherit the grandfather, becauſe he muſt repreſent his father, who cannot be repreſented; but if the grandfather be ſeiſed in tail, and the father be attainted of treaſon ſince the 26 H. 8. and dies in the life-time of the grandfather, the ſon ſhall inherit the grandfather; for the ſon is heir per formam doni to the tail, which is originally not forfeitable, and by that ſtatute, the father only forfeits the lands and right that he hath in him. Co. Lit. 8.

If a man attainted be pardoned by act of parliament, he is totally reſtored and inheritable to all perſons; but if he be pardoned by charter, he may thenceforth purchaſe lands, but cannot inherit his former relations; for the King's charter cannot alter the law, or take away the right of others, or reſtore the relation that was loſt. Co. Lit. 8.

If there be grandfather, father and ſon, and the father be attainted, the ſon cannot inherit the grandfather, becauſe the father cannot be repreſented; but if the father be attainted, two brothers may inherit each other, becauſe there is no diſability in the one to be repreſented, or in the other to repreſent; if the father be attainted, the ſon may inherit the mother; if the eldeſt ſon be attainted, and the father die in the life-time of ſuch eldeſt ſon, the younger cannot inherit, becauſe there is the line of the elder brother in being before him; but if the eldeſt ſon dies in the life-time of the father without iſſue, the younger brother ſhall inherit; but if he leave iſſue, neither the iſſue nor younger brother can inherit. Noy 158 to 170. Co. Lit. 8. 4 Leon. pl. 21. Mo. pl. 775. Dyer 48.

All cuſtomary eſtates are within this rule, unleſs there be ſome particular cuſtom to the contrary, as in gavelkind, becauſe the perſon is civiliter mortuus by the attainder, and therefore is diſabled to have or hold any eſtate, or to have any property in any thing; and therefore if a perſon be ſeiſed in fee of a copyhold, and be attainted of treaſon or felony, the copyhold is in the lord without any preſentment of the homage, becauſe it is againſt the nature of a court-baron to inquire of criminal matters or offences, againſt the King, and ſuch homage is at the will of the lord, and often influenced by him; but if a copyholder be convicted of felony and preſented by the homage, by ſpecial cuſtom, the eſtate may be forfeited to the lord; but this is only by the ſpecial cuſtom, ſince the copyholder is not diſabled by the conviction to hold the eſtate, as he is if he were attainted; and therefore ſince it is by the cuſtom only that ſuch forfeiture accrues, it muſt be in the manner in which the cuſtom has ſettled it, which is by preſentment of the homage; but if a copyhold is granted for life, and by another copy the reverſion is granted to another, habendum after the death of the firſt copyholder, or ſurrender, forfeiture, or other determination of the firſt eſtate, the firſt copyholder commits murder, and is thereof attainted, and the King pardons the murder and the attainder, and all forfeitures thereby; in this caſe he in the reverſion is intitled to the eſtate, for the King cannot have it for the baſeneſs of the tenure, ſince he cannot be tenant at will to any perſon, and the lord cannot have it becauſe he cannot be tenant to himſelf; therefore the particular eſtate of tenant for life being extinguiſhed, the reverſion immediately commences. Pollex. 617. 2 Keb. 451, 456. 2 Vent. 38—9. 2 Brownl. 118. See Co. Cop. ſect. 58. cont.

A baſtard cannot inherit; but if he hath got a name by reputation, he may purchaſe by it, for all ſurnames were originally acquired by reputation. Co. Lit. 3. b. See Baſtard.

As for Jews, they were tranſlated from Roan, by William the Conqueror, ob numeratum pretium, and were allowed by ſeveral Kings after the Conqueror, becauſe they dealt with one another chiefly for money, and ſo drew a great deal of money into the kingdom, which they let out to Chriſtians on uſury, and were taxable to the King at his pleaſure. Richard the Firſt erected a court where all their real and perſonal eſtates were regiſtred; which all, upon the death of any Jew, came to the King, but was redeemable by his children, paying their fines, and all the children equally inherited; the wives ſued for dower in this court, and could not ſue at Common law for it; and therefore if a Jew born in England took to wife a Jew alſo born in England, if the husband was converted to the Chriſtian faith, and purchaſed lands, and enfeoffed another and died, the wife could not demand dower at Common law againſt a Chriſtian. 2 Bac. Abr. 251.

As to papiſts, the ſtatute 11 & 12 Will. 3. cap. 4. diſables all perſons, who after the 29th day of September 1700, attaining the age of eighteen years, do not within ſix months after take the oaths, &c. to inherit, or take by deſcent, deviſe, or limitation, &c. any lands, tenements, &c. and that during the life of ſuch papiſt, or until he or ſhe do conform, the next of his or her proteſtant kindred ſhall hold and enjoy the ſaid lands, without being accountable for the profits, ſubject to wilful waſte; and that from the 10th day of April 1700, all papiſts ſhall be diſabled to purchaſe any manors, lands, &c. and that all eſtates, terms, intereſts, &c. made, ſuffered, or done, to or for their uſe, benefit, truſt or behoof, mediately or immediately, ſhall be utterly void to all intents and purpoſes.

A monſter not having human ſhape cannot purchaſe or inherit, but an hermaphrodite ſhall inherit or purchaſe ſecundum prævalentiam ſexus incaleſcentis; one born deaf and dumb may inherit; ſo may one born deaf, dumb and blind, becauſe it is for their advantage; but they cannot contract, becauſe they cannot underſtand the ſigns of contracting; tracting; an infant, an ideot, and a perſon of non ſane memory may inherit, becauſe the law, in compaſſion to their natural infirmities, preſumes them capable of property; ſo alſo an infant or a perſon of non ſane memory may purchaſe, becauſe it is intended for his benefit, and the freehold is in him till he diſagree thereto, becauſe an agreement is preſumed, it being for their benefit, and becauſe the freehold cannot be in the grantor, contrary to his own act, nor can be in abeyance, for then a ſtranger would not know againſt whom to demand his right; if at full age, or after recovery of his memory they agree thereto, they cannot avoid it; but if they die during minority or lunacy, the heirs may avoid it; for they ſhall not be ſubject to the contracts of perſons who wanted capacity to contract; ſo if after his memory recovered, the lunatick or perſon non compos die without agreement to the purchaſe, their heirs may avoid it. Co. Lit. 8. 1 Inſt. 2. 2 Vent. 303. See Infant and Ideot.

A feme covert is capable of purchaſing; for ſuch an act does not make the property of the husband liable to any diſadvantage, nor does it ſuppoſe a ſeparate will or power of contracting in the wife; but here the will of the wife is ſuppoſed the mind of the husband, ſince no man is ſuppoſed not to aſſent to that which is for his benefit; but in this caſe the husband may diſagree, and it ſhall avoid the purchaſe; for ſince husband and wife, according to the inſtitution of marriage, are reckoned one perſon, they can have but one will, and that muſt be ſeated in the husband, as fitteſt to govern, therefore the ſupreme direction of all affairs in his family muſt belong to him; but if he neither agrees nor diſagrees, the purchaſe is good, for his conduct ſhall be eſteemed a tacit conſent, ſince it is to turn to his advantage; but in this caſe, tho' the husband ſhould agree to the purchaſe, yet after his death ſhe may waive it; for having no will of her own at the time of the purchaſe, ſhe is not indiſpenſibly bound by the contract, therefore if ſhe does not, when under her own management and will, by ſome act expreſs her agreement to ſuch purchaſe, her heirs ſhall have the privilege of departing from it. 1 Inſt. 3. a. 2 Bac. Abr. 252. But the Queen Conſort, as ſhe is a woman of greater dignity than any other of her ſex in the kingdom, ſo ſhe hath greater privileges than any of them, for ſhe is conſidered by the law as a perſon exempt from the king, and hath ability to purchaſe and grant without him; which oeconomy ſeems to be introduced as well for the greater ornament and grandeur of the monarchy, by enabling the Queen to ſupport and keep a court of her own, as to encourage princes to court the alliance of our princes by marriages attended with ſo much eaſe and dignity. 2 Bac. Abr. 252.

2. Of the import of the word heir, which creates an eſtate in fee-ſimple; when it is a word of limitation, and when a word of purchaſe.

If land be given to J. S. and his heirs, J. S. can claim it, becauſe he is particularly named; and whoever can make himſelf heir to J. S. that is, can ſupport the character of a legal repreſentation to J. S. may claim it alſo by the words of the gift; but if land be granted to J. S. for ever, no perſon can ſtand in his place after his death, or claim any intereſt, becauſe the party that is next of kin by the law cannot bring himſelf within the words of the conveyance. Co. Lit. 9.

It is therefore a general rule, that nothing but the word heir will create a fee, for it ſignifies ſuch a neareſt of kin, with all other legal qualifications that are neceſſarily required in all perſons that repreſent or ſtand in the place of another, by the Engliſh law; but this general rule has theſe following exceptions. Co. Lit. 9.

For if the father enfeoff the ſon, to hold to him and his heirs, and the ſon enfeoffeth the father as fully as the father enfeoffed him; this conveyance paſſeth a fee to the father, for when the act of diſpoſal relates to another thing, that thing becomes in a manner part of the diſpoſition; for in ſuch caſes the mind is carried to the notion of an heir as truly and ſurely as if the word had been in the inſtrument itſelf; ſo that there is a great difference between this caſe and the caſe where other words are ſubſtituted inſtead of the word heir; for ſcarce any other word can expreſs all the notions that make up the idea of an heir; but where there is a relation to a legal heir, it is the ſame thing as if it were expreſſed in the conveyance itſelf, becauſe the word is to put us in mind of the thing which is done already by the relation; for as we ſay not only, that is certain, which is ſo in itſelf, but that alſo which by ſome other ſtandard is reducible to a certainty; ſo we ſay, that not only that conveyance hath force, which hath words in it to anſwer the intent of the party, but that alſo which borrows ſtrength from any other thing to anſwer the ſame deſign; and this will appear plain by the following inſtances. 2 Bac. Abr. 252.

By a fine come ceo, &c. a fee-ſimple will paſs without the word heirs, becauſe it hath relation to a precedent feoffment, which is ſuppoſed to paſs the fee. Co. Lit. 9.

If the lord releaſes all his right to the tenant, the ſeigniory is extinct without the word heirs; for this inſtrument is to diſcharge the eſtate of the tenant, and therefore has a neceſſary relation to the eſtate, which the lord firſt created, and conſequently it refers to thoſe words that in the orignal of the eſtate gave him a fee-ſimple. Co. Lit. 9.

If there be two coparceners, and one of them releaſes all her right to the other, without the word heirs, this paſſes a fee; for each coparcener till partition is ſeiſed of the whole eſtate in fee, tho' each of them hath right or legal demand to the fee of a moiety only; when therefore one releaſes all her right, it hath a neceſſary relation to the eſtate whereof the other is ſeiſed, and to which ſhe hath a right, which is the fee. Co. Lit. 9.

If there be two jointenants, and one releaſes to the other, this paſſeth a fee without the word heirs, becauſe it refers to the whole fee which they jointly took, and are poſſeſſed of by force of the firſt conveyance; but tenants in common cannot releaſe to each other, for a releaſe ſuppoſeth the party to have the thing in demand; but tenants in common have ſeveral diſtinct freeholds, which one cannot transfer to the other without the ſolemnity of livery. Co. Lit. 9. 200. b.

A common recovery is in nature of an action commenced, and judgment upon it, and therefore paſſeth without the word heirs; for it hath relation to a precedent right in the recoveror, which muſt be ſuppoſed a right of the fee. Co. Lit. 9.

If one coparcener grants a rent to another for owelty of partition, the grant is good without the word heirs; for coming in recompence of an inheritance, it has a plain relation to the inheritance departed with as if the word heirs had been in the gift. Co. Lit. 9.

A reſtitution to a perſon attainted and pardoned will not paſs a fee without the word heirs; for ſince the party forfeited the eſtate, the reſtitution is in nature of a new grant; and here are no words that create a neceſſary relation to that fee which the perſon formerly attainted had, for he may be reſtored to his eſtate during his own life. Co. Lit. 9. b.

Where a man is called to parliament by writ, the inheritance is in him without the word heirs, becauſe the writ is in nature of a citation to appear at the court of parliament, and the heir cannot be cited to appear, and therefore there is no mention made of him; but yet in ſuch caſe the peer hath an inheritance. 1 Inſt. 9. b.

There are ſome ſpecies of fees that are expreſſed without the word heirs; for the words whereby they are created do ſignify inheritance, with ſome other notion over and above, not expreſſed by the word heirs; as the word frankmarriage ſignifies an inheritance given in conſideration of marriage, which being for the peopling of the country had ſeveral privileges annexed to it; ſo frankalmoigne ſignifies an inheritance devoted to God, which was mightily favoured by the ſuperſtition of ancient times; likewiſe if a feoffment or grant be made by deed to a mayor and commonalty, or any other corporation aggregate of many perſons capable to purchaſe, they have a fee-ſimple without the word ſucceſſors, becauſe in judgment of law they never die; for the ſame reaſon, if lands are given to the King by deed inrolled without the word word ſucceſſors or heirs, a fee-ſimple paſſeth. Co. Lit. 9. b.

There are likewiſe particular kinds of laws within the kingdom, that allow of the transferring of inheritances without the word heirs; as the law of the foreſt, which dependeth on the mere pleaſure of the King, and not on the ſolemnities and forms of a contract; and therefore, if the King granted an aſſart at a juſtice's ſeat, habend' & tenend' ſibi in perpetuum, the party had a fee without the word heirs, inaſmuch as the King had ſignified his pleaſure, that the party ſhould have the privilege of tillage for ever. Co. Lit. 10. a.

In wills and teſtaments, where the mind of the party appears to transfer a fee, for the mind of dying perſons delivered in haſte ought to receive a benign interpretation. Co. Lit. 9. See Deviſe, Wills.

As to the word heir being a word of purchaſe, the firſt rule to be obſerved is this, that where the anceſtor takes an eſtate for life, and a limitation is afterwards made to his right heirs, there the anceſtor has the reverſion executed in himſelf, and the right heirs are no purchaſers; as if a leaſe for life be made to A. remainder to the right heirs of A. ſuch remainder is executed in A. and he may grant it over; but if a leaſe for years be made to A. remainder to the right heirs of A. this is a contingent remainder to the right heirs of A. and A. himſelf takes nothing by ſuch limitation; and the reaſon of the difference is this; in the firſt caſe A. having an eſtate for life is feoffatus within the ſtatute Quia emptores, &c. and conſequently capable of performing the feudal ſervices; and then to make the right heir a purchaſer would be to ſuſpend the ſervices of the feud during the life of A. who is capable of performing them; which would apparently tend to the weakening of the tenure and ſtate of the kingdom; and therefore ſuch interpretation ought to be made as beſt ſupports the tenure, when the words will bear both ſenſes; for if after ſuch limitation to the right heirs of tenant for life, he ſtill continued but barely tenant for life, he would not be in the homage of the lord; nor would he be obliged to venture his life in the wars for ſuch eſtate; and he in remainder would not be obliged to do the feudal ſervices, becauſe during the life of the tenant for life he has no intereſt in the land, becauſe his remainder cannot execute during the particular eſtate, and conſequently not obliged to do the ſervices of the feud; and if ſuch remainder was to veſt in the right heirs as purchaſers, it could not veſt during the life of tenant for life, quia non eſt hæres viventis, and then by ſuch conſtruction the ſervices of the feud would be neglected during the life of A. for there would be no one to perform them; but in the laſt caſe you cannot veſt the remainder in the leſſee for years, for he is not feoffatus within the ſtatute; for the perſon that properly takes by the feoffment is the freeholder, and then conſequently, altho' you ſhould conſtrue a limitation to ſuch right heirs, a remainder veſted in the leſſee for years; yet he having not the immediate freehold in him, would not be obliged to do the feudal ſervices till the intermediate remainder was ſpent; and therefore the remainder to the right heirs is not immediately veſted in the leſſee for years, becauſe the heir is the firſt that can have the freehold as feudal tenant to the lord, and therefore by the words of the donation muſt be the firſt purchaſer of ſuch remainder; and tho' in the firſt caſe they admit ſuch limitation to be a remainder, executed for publick convenience, viz. that the feudal ſervices, if poſſible, may be anſwered; yet it would be ridiculous to admit ſuch conſtruction in the laſt caſe, ſince it would make a feudal tenant to anſwer the ſervices; for to run counter to the tenor of a man's grant, without a benefit to any body, would be moſt abſurd, for ſuch conſtruction would not make a feudal tenant, becauſe the leſſee for years would not hold of the lord, nor could the lord avow upon him. Lit. ſect. 578. 2 Rol. Abr. 415, 417. 1 Co. 104.

But if a feoffment be made to the uſe of A. and B. during their joint lives, and after the death of either of them, to the uſe of C. for life, and after to the heir of the body of B. though B. hath an eſtate of freehold, yet the remainder limited to the heirs of his body does not veſt, but is in abeyance, becauſe by this limitation the eſtate of freehold may determine in B. during the continuance of his life; and ſince B. is not let into the eſtate during his whole life, his heir cannot take as repreſentative of him, for ſuch repreſentative muſt be of an eſtate of which B. was ſeiſed; and ſince by the intention of this conveyance, the feoffor hath not limited in ſuch a manner, that B. in all events ſhould die ſeiſed of the eſtate, 'tis plain he deſigns only a contingent benefit to the heirs of the body of B. as original purchaſers, and not by derivation from him. 2 Rol. Abr. 418.

If a leaſe for life be made to A. remainder to the right heirs of B. this is a good contingent remainder if livery be made, becauſe ſuch act of notoriety delivers over the freehold to A. at the time it is made, and thereby creates a tenant, who is feoffatus within the ſtatute to hold of the lord, who is capable of doing the feudal ſervices, except homage, and on whom the lord may avow; and by this conſtruction there is no inconvenience or ſuſpenſion of all the feudal ſervices; for if A. ſhould die during the life of B. the contingent remainder would become void, becauſe there would be no feudal tenant to attend the ſervices; for the right heir could not take it during the life of B. and then the land would return to the donor, who would be again tenant to anſwer the ſervices. 2 Rol. Abr. 418.

But if A. makes a leaſe for life, or a gift in tail, remainder to his right heirs, this is a void limitation in its original creation, for it cannot veſt immediately no more than in the former caſe, Quia non eſt hæres viventis, and to conſtrue it a contingent remainder would be to ſuſpend the ſervices of the feud to no purpoſe; for 'tis not poſſible that it can veſt during the life of the grantor, for ſo long as he lives he can have no repreſentative or heir, and therefore not like the former caſe, which may poſſibly veſt the minute after the grant is made, or at leaſt during the life of the grantor; beſides, that in this caſe, where the feoffor has not parted with the whole eſtate out of him, the feoffee does not hold of the lord within the ſtatute Quia tempores, &c. and to conſtrue this limitation to the right heirs in parting with the whole eſtate, would be an abſurd conſtruction, becauſe the anceſtor, in caſe he outlives the particular eſtate, muſt be in of his old reverſion, ſince he cannot have an heir during his life; and the anceſtor cannot be ſuppoſed to deſign the heir ſhould take as a purchaſor, ſince it were an abſurd intention, that that eſtate, which would of courſe deſcend to him, ſhould veſt in him in the ſame manner as a purchaſor, and by conſequence, ſince there is no alteration by the conveyance from the courſe in which the eſtate would have deſcended, it muſt be a void limitation. 1 And. 3. Co. Lit. 20. b. Dyer 156. 1 Rol. Abr. 827. 2 Rol. Abr. 415. 1 Leon 182.

II. Of eſtate in tail.

An eſtate is ſaid to be intailed, when it is aſcertained, what iſſue ſhall inherit it. Lit. ſect. 18. Fee-tail was originally termed the feudum novum, in oppoſition to fee-ſimple abſolute, or the feudum antiquum, and went only to the deſcendants, either male or female, according to the words and limitation of the feudal donation, and thence came to be diſtinguiſhed into feudum maſculinum and fœmininum. 2 Bac. Abr. 256.

Before we enter into a diſquiſition of eſtates-tail, as they ſtand in ſtatute De donis conditionalibus, (13 Ed. 1. c. 1.) 'twill be neceſſary to take a more particular view of the conditional fee at Common law, becauſe the ſtatute De donis creates no eſtate-tail, but of ſuch eſtates as were anciently conditional fees. 2 Bac. Abr. 256.

If lands were given to a man, and the heirs male of his body, the iſſue female were not inheritable, becauſe the feudal donation, expreſſing particularly what heirs of the donee were to inherit, no heir, though of the body of ſuch feudatory, could inherit, that did not come under the words and limitation of the donation. Co. Lit. 19. a.

And if the donee had iſſue two ſons, and died, and the eldeſt died, leaving a daughter, the youngeſt ſon came into the ſucceſſion of the feud, and excluded the daughter; daughter; and if there had been no ſon, the feud reverted (the collateral heirs being excluded, 1 Rol. Abr. 841.) to the donor; for the expreſs words of the firſt donation, which regulated all ſubſequent deſcents, excluded all females from inheriting ſuch feud; ſo e contra, if the feud had been given to a man, and the heirs female of his body, the deſcent was to be conveyed to the females only, excluſive of all males, according to the words of the firſt donation. Co. Lit. 19. a. 7 Co. 35. a.

But if the limitation of the feud had been to a man, and his heirs male, ſuch donation doth not exclude the females, but lets them, and all collateral heirs in, becauſe ſuch donation, not limiting the feud to the deſcendants of any body, cannot be good as a feudum novum; and if it be conſtrued a feudum antiquum, the courſe of deſcent cannot be altered by any man's private fancy; and ſince it appears from the words of the donation, that the donor intended an eſtate of inheritance, his words ſhall be taken moſt ſtrongly againſt himſelf, and ſhall paſs the moſt abſolute ſtate of inheritance, which is a fee ſimple, to which not only his lineal heirs, but alſo his collateral heirs are inheritable. Co. Lit. 13. a.

The power of alienation was not abſolute in the feudum novum, becauſe ſuch power might have been imployed to diſappoint the lord of his reverter, and yet they did not abſolutely take away from ſuch feudatories the power of alienation, becauſe that would have created a perpetuity, which was againſt the original policy of the Engliſh law. To come therefore to a temper between theſe extremes, the donee was not allowed to alien till iſſue had, becauſe till then he had not a deſcendable eſtate in him, and therefore could not transfer a deſcendable eſtate to others, and if he ſhould have been allowed to have aliened, whether he had iſſue or not, ſuch alienations would have diſappointed the limitations and reſtrictions in the gift, which brought it back to the lord on failure of iſſue; and therefore they conſtrued the words of the feudal donation not only as a limitation but condition, which the feudatory was obliged to perform before he had an abſolute power over the eſtate, for ſuch donations were generally made for the propagation of families, and therefore it beſt anſwered the deſign of ſuch gifts, to ſuppoſe the power of alienation to ariſe on the begetting iſſue, becauſe in ſuch caſes the feaudatory had the contingencies of a family; for when iſſue was had, they looked upon the lord's poſſibility to be at a great diſtance, and they admitted of an abſolute power of alienation, therefore if a man aliened before iſſue had, the lord could not have entered for a forfeiture, becauſe that would have been contrary to his own donation, which carried to the feudatory and his deſcendants, and therefore if deſcents were afterwards born, the lord was excluded during the continuance of ſuch iſſue, and the iſſue born after the alienation could not have entered, becauſe they only claim as repreſentatives to their anceſtor, and therefore his actual alienation barred them. 2 Bac. Abr. 256, 257. Co. Lit. 19. a. Plow. 246. b. 7 Co. 34. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 840, 841. 2 Inſt. 333.

But if ſuch tenant aliened before ſuch iſſue had, and afterwards had iſſue, and then the tenant, and ſuch iſſue had died, ſuch alienation had not barred the donor of his right of reverter, becauſe the condition was not performed at the time of the alienation; ſo that the tenant had not an abſolute property veſted in him for the purpoſe; wherefore, ſince the alienation was before the tenant had ſuch power, it was ſubject to the lord's claim as if no ſuch alienation had been, and by conſequence the lord might have entered as in his reverter, as if the tenant had died without iſſue; and the ſubſequent birth of the iſſue is not a ſufficient performance of the condition to make the precedent alienation valid; ſince that were to allow of the alienation of a perſon who had no power to alien. Plow. 235. Co. Lit. 19.

But if a gift was made to a man, and the heirs of his body, and the donee had died leaving iſſue, ſuch iſſue, without having iſſue, might have aliened, becauſe coming in by deſcent he had the power over it, as he had over other eſtates deſcendable, and ſucceeding into his anceſtor's eſtate, who had an abſolute power of alienation, he took it in the ſame manner diſcharged of any reſtraint from the condition, and the rather, becauſe otherwiſe the iſſue could not have made the neceſſary proviſions on his own marriage by a family ſettlement; but if the iſſue had not aliened, it had followed the limitation of the firſt donation, becauſe the eſtate had continued in the ſame condition without alteration, and conſequently on failure of iſſue, according to the firſt donation, the lord had been in his feudal right of reverter. 7 Co. 34, 35. Co. Lit. 19. a.

And as the feudatory had power to alien the land after he had iſſue, ſo likewiſe might he have charged it with a rent, common, &c. for this power neceſſarily follows an abſolute and intire property; for if he might have aliened the feud from his iſſue, it is but part of that power to tranſmit it to his iſſue under any charge or incumbrance he thought fit. Co. Lit. 19. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 840.

So the feudatory, by having iſſue, might have forfeited the feud for treaſon or felony. Co. Lit. 19. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 840.

If there was no expreſs reſervation of ſervices in the firſt feudal donation, the donee held of the donor as he held over. Co. Lit. 19.

Thus the law ſtood till the 13 Ed. 1. when the ſtatute De donis conditionalibus was made, which deprived the feudatory of his ancient power of alienation, upon his having iſſue, or performing the condition; the pretence of making this ſtatute, as appears from the preamble, was to comply with the will of the donor, who in all ſuch grants intended that the feud ſhould be tranſmitted to the deſcendants of the feudatory in the ſame plight he received it; and upon failure of the deſcendants, that it ſhould revert to the donor himſelf; but the real deſign of making the ſtatute was, to introduce a perpetuity to other purpoſes; for, towards the end of the barons war, the crown took up a new method of politicks to break the intereſt of the baronage; for when any feud that was then ſubſiſting in large diſtricts and territories eſcheated, or was forfeited to the crown, the King divided them, and gave them out in leſſer feuds, thereby to deſtroy the power of the peerage: this the barons ſaw would tend to the ruin of their body, and therefore paſt this act to make all ſuch new feuds unalienable, and by that means not forfeitable for treaſon, though the condition ſhould be performed by leaving iſſue; and from the time of this ſtatute, the donor's poſſibility or right of reverter was turned into a reverſion; and the donee, who before had a fee-ſimple conditional, has now but an eſtate-tail. 6 Co. 40. Co. Lit. 21, 392. 2 Inſt. 335. Mo. 155, 156. 1 Vent. 299. 2 Mod. 131.

The above-mentioned ſtatute of 13 Ed. 1. c. 1. commonly called the ſtatute De donis conditionalibus, or the ſtatute of entails, is thus: "Firſt concerning lands [tenementis in the original Latin] that many times are given upon condition, this is to wit, where any giveth his land to any man and his wife, and to the heirs begotten of the bodies of the ſame man and his wife, with ſuch condition expreſſed, that if the ſame man and his wife die without heirs of their bodies between them begotten, the land ſo given ſhall revert to the giver or his heir. In caſe alſo where one giveth lands in free marriage, which gift hath a condition annexed, though it be not expreſſed in the deed of gift, which is this, that if the huſband and wife die without heir of their bodies begotten, the land ſo given ſhall revert to the giver or his heir. In caſe alſo where one giveth land to another, and the heirs of his body iſſuing; it ſeemed very hard, and yet ſeemeth to the givers and their heirs, that their will being expreſſed in the gift, was not heretofore, nor yet obſerved. In all the caſes aforeſaid, after iſſue begotten and born between them (to whom the lands were given under ſuch condition) heretofore ſuch feoffees had power to alien the land ſo given, and to diſinherit their iſſue of them, contrary to the minds of the givers, and contrary to the form expreſſed in the gift. And further, when the iſſue of ſuch feoffee is failing, the land ſo given ought to return to the giver, or his heir, by form of the gift expreſſed in the deed, though the iſſue (if any were) had died: Yet the deſcendants of the ſurvivor may inherit the gift, 'tis a tail general. Co. Lit. 26. a. 10 Co. 51. Reg. 239. b.

Tail ſpecial is where the eſtate is limited to ſome particular heirs of the body of the donee, as to the heirs by ſuch a woman, as if lands be given to a man and his wife, and the heirs of their two bodies begotten; for tho' all the deſcendants of that marriage may inherit the gift, yet all the heirs of the body of the donee cannot inherit; for if the woman ſhould die, and the man take another wife, the iſſue of the donee by the ſecond wife ſhould not inherit, becauſe the limitation of the gift was only to the deſcendants of the feudatory by the firſt marriage. Lit. ſect. 16.

If land be given to a man and a woman unmarried and the heirs of their bodies; this is a tail ſpecial, for the poſſibility that they may marry, and then the deſcendants of that marriage can only inherit; ſo if the gift be made to a man that hath a wife, and to a woman that hath a huſband, and the heirs of their bodies; this is a tail ſpecial preſently in them, for the poſſibility that they may marry, and the deſcendants of ſuch marriage may inherit according to the limitation of the gift. Co. Lit. 25. b. Bro. Eſtate 22. Tail 16.

But if land be given to two men and their wives and the heirs of their bodies begotten, they have a joint eſtate for life, and ſeveral inheritances, but no joint eſtate in tail; becauſe tho' the huſband and the wife of the other may die, and the ſurvivors may marry, yet the gift being made to them all, and the heirs of their bodies, 'tis impoſſible that there ſhould be one heir or deſcendant of all their bodies, and therefore it can be no joint eſtate-tail in them all; but they all four take jointly for life; and each huſband and his wife have a ſeveral inheritance in a moiety. Plow. 35. a. Co. Lit. 25. b.

If lands be given to two men and the heirs of their bodies begotten, they have but a joint eſtate for life, and ſeveral inheritances; for though the gift be limited to the deſcendants of their bodies, they cannot have a joint eſtate-tail. Lit. ſect. 283.

So if lands be given to one man and two women and the heirs of their bodies begotten, they have a joint eſtate for life, and ſeveral inheritances, becauſe there can be no one iſſue of both the women's bodies; and if the man ſhould marry one of them, yet it is not limited in the donation, which of them in caſe of ſuch intermarriage ſhould firſt take. Lit. ſect. 283. Co. Lit. 25.

If an eſtate be limited to huſband and wife and the heirs of their bodies, and they are divorced a vinculo matrimonii, they are only tenants for life, becauſe they ſhall not be preſumed to intermarry after they are once legally divorced by church cenſures. 3 Hen. 6. 48. 7 Hen. 7. 6.

But there are other ſorts of eſtates-tail; as when the donation is limited not only to the deſcendants of the donee by one woman, but more particularly to one ſort of deſcendants of ſuch marriage, excluſive of others; as if lands be given to a man and a woman, and the heirs male of their bodies; this is an eſtate in tail male, for the donor having expreſs'd what heirs ſhall inherit, none can claim under ſuch gift that does not come under ſuch particular deſcription; ſo if the limitation had been to the heirs female; for the donee being capable of taking by purchaſe, the donor may limit the ſucceſſion of the land to which of the deſcendants of the donee he pleaſes; but if the limitation had been to A. for life, remainder to the heirs female of the body of J. S. and J. S. has iſſue a ſon and a daughter, the daughter can take nothing by ſuch gift; the reaſon of the difference is this, becauſe in the firſt caſe the donation ſpecifies, what ſort of deſcendant of the donee ſhall take; but in the laſt caſe it ſpecifies who ſhall take originally; and the firſt purchaſer muſt come fully up to the deſcription in the donation, or elſe there can be no gift; and while there is a ſon of J. S. no female can be heir, and conſequently not a perſon capable of taking originally by the gift; but if J. S. hath iſſue a ſon and a daughter, and the ſon hath iſſue a dauhgter, and dies, and a leaſe for life is made, remainder to the heirs female of the body of J. S. the daughter of the ſon ſhall be the purchaſer, becauſe ſhe comes within the deſcription, being both heir, and likewiſe a female, tho' ſhe was deſcended from a male. Co. Lit. 24. b. Hob. 31.

If lands be given to a man and his wife and the heirs male of the body of the huſband; this is a ſpecial tail in the huſband, and but an eſtate for life in the wife; ſo if the limitation had been to the heirs male of the body of the wife by the huſband begotten, 'tis an eſtate for life in the huſband, and a tail in the wife; for to which ever body the word heirs inclines by the limitation, it creates a deſcendible eſtate in ſuch perſon; but if it be not more particularly limited to the body of one than the other, but inclines to each alike, then it creates a deſcendible eſtate in both of them; as if lands be given to huſband and wife, and the heirs which the huſband ſhall beget on the body of his wife, both of them have an eſtate-tail, becauſe the word heirs, which creates the deſcendible eſtate, is not limited to one more than the other. Lit. ſect. 26, 27, 28. Yelv. 131.

If a feoffment be made to the uſe of A. and B. huſband and wife, and the longeſt liver of them, and after the deceaſe of A. and B. then to the uſe of the heirs of the body of the ſaid A. begotten on the body of B. this is an eſtate-tail in the huſband, for the word heirs is limited to the body of A. tho' to be begotten on the body of the wife. Hob. 84.

So if lands be given to baron and feme and the heirs of the body of the feme, by the huſband and J. S. engendred; this is an eſtate-tail in the feme, but ſo far inlarged by the laſt words, that the heirs of her body begotten by J. S. may inherit after the iſſue by the preſent huſband. Yelv. 131.

And it is to be obſerved, that in all inſtances of ſuch ſpecial tails, which limit the lands to one particular ſort of heirs, no deſcendant of the donee can make himſelf inheritable to ſuch gift, unleſs he can convey his deſcent thro' that particular ſort of heir to which the ſucceſſion of the land was firſt limited; therefore if lands be given to a man and the heirs male of his body, and he has iſſue a daughter, who has iſſue a ſon, this ſon ſhall never inherit that gift; for the ſon being obliged to claim through the daughter, muſt neceſſarily ſhew himſelf out of the words of the firſt donation, which limited the lands only to the heirs male of the donee, which the daughter cannot poſſibly be taken to be. Lit. ſect. 24.

For the ſame reaſon, if the lands be given to a man and the heirs male of his body begotten, the remainder to him and the heirs females of his body, and the donee hath iſſue a ſon, who hath iſſue a daughter, who hath iſſue a ſon; this ſon can inherit neither of theſe gifts; nor the tail male, becauſe whoever claims as heir to ſuch a gift, muſt convey his deſcent wholly thro' males, which the ſon cannot do in this caſe, becauſe he muſt neceſſarily ſhew himſelf a deſcendant of the daughter, before he can make himſelf heir to the firſt ſon; nor can he inherit the tail female, becauſe that limitation being to that particular ſort of heir, no male, tho' the immediate deſcendant of a female, can inherit, becauſe he is another ſort of heir than is deſcribed in the donation; but if in this caſe the gift had been to a man and the heirs male of his body, remainder to him and the heirs, ſuch ſon may claim under that gift, becauſe every deſcendant of ſuch donee may claim under the remainder, it not being limited to one ſort of heir more than another. Co. Lit. 25. b.

Land given to a man and his wife & hæredi de corpore & uni hæredi tantum, was adjudged an eſtate-tail, tho' the limitation be to the heir in the ſingular number, becauſe the word heir is nomen collectivum, and extends to all that deſcend from him. 1 Vent. 228.

2. What words are requiſite to create an eſtate-tail in a deed or gift.

When the notion of ſucceſſion prevailed, it was neceſſary in feudal donations to uſe the word heirs to diſtinguiſh ſuch deſcendible feud from that which was granted only for life; but as to the word body, it was not neceſſary

Yet by the deed and feoffment of them (to whom land was ſo given upon condition) the donors have heretofore been barred of their reverſion, which was directly repugnant to the form of the gift."

Sect. 2. "Wherefore our lord the King, perceiving how neceſſary and expedient it ſhould be to provide remedy in the aforeſaid caſes, hath ordained, that the will of the giver, according to the form in the deed of gift manifeſtly expreſſed, ſhall be from henceforth obſerved; ſo that they to whom the land was given under ſuch condition, ſhall have no power to alien the land ſo given, but that it ſhall remain unto the iſſue of them to whom it was given after their death, or ſhall revert unto the giver, or his heirs, if iſſue fail (becauſe there is no iſſue at all); or if any iſſue be, and fail by death, or heir of the body of ſuch iſſue failing. Neither ſhall the ſecond huſband of any ſuch woman, from henceforth, have any thing in the land ſo given upon condition, after the death of his wife, by the law of England, nor the iſſue of the ſecond huſband and wife ſhall ſucceed in the inheritance, but immediately after the death of the huſband and wife (to whom the land was ſo given) it ſhall come to their iſſue, or return unto the giver, or his heir, as before is ſaid."

Under this head is conſidered,

1. What things may be intailed by the ſtatute of intails; and the ſeveral kinds of eſtates tail.

2. What words are requiſite to create an eſtate-tail in a deed or gift.

3. How far tenant in tail may charge his eſtate, and what acts of his relating to the inheritance ſhall bind the iſſue, though the intail continues.

1. What things may be intailed by the ſtatute of intails; and the ſeveral kinds of eſtates-tail.

The ſtatute makes uſe of the word tenementum, and therefore the eſtate to be intailed may be as well incorporeal as corpereal inheritances, becauſe the word tenementum comprehends the one as well as the other, and conſequently not only lands may be intailed, but all rents, commons, eſtovers, or other profits ariſing from lands. Co. Lit. 19. b. 20. a.

But it is not neceſſary that the thing to be intailed ſhould iſſue out of land; for if it be annexed to lands, or any ways concerns or relates to them, it may be intailed within the ſtatute; and therefore offices and dignities may be intailed; and accordingly it has been reſolved, that if the King creates a man Earl of D. to him and the heirs male of his body; this is a good intail of the dignity within the ſtatute, becauſe the title or dignity relates to lands; and anciently they were computed from their poſſeſſions, as baron's fee, and earl's fee, &c. Co. Lit. 20. a. 7. Co. 33.

So offices may be intailed; as the office of Earl-marſhal of England, or the office of a ſteward, bailiff, or receiver of a manor, becauſe theſe are demandable in a præcipe, ut tenementa, and being exerciſeable within the manor, are therefore look'd upon as members or branches of it. Co. Lit. 20. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 838. 7 Co. 33. Plow. 2.

An equity of redemption is intailable, becauſe the mortgage being a pledge for money, equity looks upon the eſtate in the ſame plight as it was before. Hard. 465.

Charters may be intailed, becauſe they are muniments belonging to the land itſelf; but if the intail be barred by collateral warrantry, then the heir ſhall not have detinue of them, for then he cannot make title by virtue of the intail. Co. Lit. 20.

But things merely perſonal, which only charge the perſon, and neither iſſue out of land nor relate to it, nor can be demanded ut tenementum in a præcipe, cannot be intailed within the ſtatute; and therefore if I grant to B. and the heirs of his body, to be maſter of my hawks, or keeper of my hounds, with a fee or ſalary annexed to it; this is no intail within the ſtatute, becauſe this can no way fall within the notion of tenementum. Co. Lit. 20. a. Plow. 2. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 837.

So if A. for him and his heirs grants an annuity to B. and the heirs of his body; this having no manner of relation to land, is no intail within the ſtatute, for ſuch grant only affects the perſon of the grantor. Plow. 3. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 837. Co. Lit. 20. a.

No chattels real can be intailed, and therefore tho' a man poſſeſſed of a term for years, ſhould deviſe his term to J. S. and the heirs of his body, yet the term would go in its old channel to the executors, and the iſſue of the body of the donee has no intereſt in the term, and J. S. may ſell or diſpoſe of it as he pleaſes; for this being no tenementum within the ſtatute, the deviſee is not tied up from alienating it by that act; ſo it is of a truſt, for a man can no more intail a term in groſs by way of truſt, than by way of deviſe; but a term for years, which is created or kept on foot to attend the inheritance, is allowed in Chancery to wait on the intail of the inheritance. 10 Co. 87. 1 Rol. Abr. 837. Cro. Eliz. 143. 1 Chan. Rep. 200. 1 Vent. 194. 2 Chan. Rep. 233.

If lands are given to a man and the heirs of his body; this is a tail general, becauſe all his deſcendants may poſſibly come into the ſucceſſion; ſo that if the donee has ſeveral wives, the deſcendants of every wife may inherit, becauſe they fall within the words of the donation; but the donor might have by particular expreſſions confined the ſucceſſion to any particular deſcendant, as to the heirs male or heirs female; and hence the diſtinction between eſtates in tail male and tail female. Lit. ſect. 14.

If lands are given to a man and his heirs males and females of his body; this is a tail general, becauſe by ſuch limitation all the deſcendants of the feudatory may inherit. Co. Lit. 25. b. But great care muſt be taken to limit the eſtate to the deſcendants of the body of the donee; for if lands be given to a man and his heirs male, this is a fee-ſimple. Co. Lit. 13. So if the limitation had been to the donee and his heirs females, or to the donee and his heirs male or female. Lit. ſect. 31.

If land be limited to the ſon and his heirs, of the body of his father; this is a fee-ſimple in the ſon, and no intail at all, not being limited to the ſon's deſcendants; nor is there in this caſe any proper limitation or reſtriction of the word heirs, becauſe it limits it to his heirs of the body of the father; now there is plainly a deſign to place the intereſt that is to veſt in the ſon; and yet it ſhould not go merely to the ſon's deſcendants, but to all collaterals as far as they could claim under the body of the father; now ſuch a limitation the law will not endure, it not being an eſtate-tail confined to the deſcendants only; and therefore it muſt be a fee-ſimple; for to allow men to form ſuch new ſorts of eſtates would be very inconvenient, as it would put it in the power of private perſons to make new limitations touching the courſe of deſcents, and thereby render all deſcents uncertain. Co. Lit. 27.

But if the eſtate were limited to the ſon, and to the heirs of the body of the father, tho' the father was dead at the time of the gift; yet it is a good intail, becauſe here the word heirs are words of purchaſe; and 'tis a good name of purchaſe after the father's deceaſe; and the ſon, being only tenant for life by the words of the gift, by the ſecond words takes the intail as a purchaſer; but in the other caſe, the words his heirs are merely words of limitation, and therefore affect an intail, which the law will not endure. Lit. ſect. 30.

If there had been grandfather, father, and ſon, and the father dies, and the limitation had been to the grandfather and to his heirs, of the body of the father; this is a good intail, for it goes to the deſcendants only, and it limits what ſort of deſcendants it ſhall go to, viz. ſuch only as were begotten by the father. Co. Lit. 20. b. Bro. Tail. 10.

If lands be given to huſband and wife and the heirs of the body of the ſurvivor; this is a good donation to veſt an eſtate-tail general in the ſurvivor; but the eſtate-tail does not veſt till one of them dies; and then becauſe all the ſary to make uſe of that in the donation, but it might be expreſſed by any equivalent words, and therefore a gift to a man, and hæredibus de ſe, or de carne, quos ſibi contigerit habere, or procreavit, is a good eſtate-tail; for theſe ſufficiently circumſcribe the word heirs to the deſcendants of the feaudatory: And the reaſon of the difference is, for that inheritances being only derived from the law, the law requires the word heirs that comprehends the whole notion of ſuch legal repreſentation, but the limiting the inheritance to the deſcendants of this or the other body, is only the particular intention of the perſon that forms the gift, and therefore the law leaves every man to expreſs himſelf in ſuch manner as may manifeſt that intention. 2 Bac. Abr. 259. Co. Lit. 20. 7 Co. 41. b.

Therefore if lands are given to a man & hæredibus, quos ſibi contigerit habere de uxore ſuâ; this is an eſtate-tail, though the word body be omitted; ſo if the gift had been to him & hæredibus ſuis de prima uxore ſua, for this confines the word heirs to the deſcendants of his body, ſince his heirs which can inherit that gift, muſt be of his wife, which no collateral heir can poſſibly be. 7 Co. 41, 42.

A feoffment was made to the uſe of A. for life, remainder to the uſe of B. and of the heirs male of the ſaid B. lawfully begotten, and for default of ſuch iſſue, remainder over, A. dies, this is no eſtate-tail in B. but a fee-ſimple, becauſe there are no words to ſhew from whoſe body the heirs male of B. muſt proceed: for to the creation of an eſtate-tail, 'tis requiſite that there be words ſufficient to ſhew from what body the heirs mentioned in the gift are to proceed, though the word body be not expreſsly uſed; for in this caſe ſuch may be heirs male of B. that were never proceeding from his body ſince the words of the donation leave it at large, and do not require that they ſhould be begotten by any particular perſon. Cro. Eliz. 478. Mo. 424. 7 Co. 41.

So where A. ſeiſed in fee of a copyhold, ſurrendered the ſame to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to B. and C. his wife, pro & durante termino vitarum ſuarum naturalium & hæred. & aſſignat. prædict. B. & C. & pro defectu talis exitus, to the uſe of himſelf and his heirs; and it was held by Holt Ch. J. and two judges, againſt Gould, that B. and C. had a fee-ſimple, and that pro defectu talis exitus imported nothing of their dying without iſſue, but was to be taken generally, and every heir is the iſſue of ſome body. 2 Salk. 620.

But if A. ſeiſed in fee makes a voluntary feoffment to the uſe of himſelf for life, remainder to the uſe of J. S. and his heirs for ever; and for default of iſſue of the body of J. S. then to the uſe of the right heirs of A. this being in a conveyance by way of uſe, which is always conſtrued like a will, and according to the intention of the party, gives J. S. but an eſtate-tail. Carth. 343. 5 Mod. 266. S. C.

If land be given to A. and B. his wife, and their heirs, & aliis hæredibus of the ſaid A. ſi dicti hæredes de A. & B. exeuntes obierint ſine hæredibus de ſe, this is a good eſtate-tail, though the word body be omitted, becauſe there are words equivalent, which equally circumſcribe the general import of the word heirs to the deſcendants of the body of A. and B. 7 Co. 41.

If lands be given to a man and his heirs, habend. to him and the heirs of his body; this is but an eſtate-tail, becauſe the habendum expounds the general word heirs in the premiſſes; for though it cannot change or alter them, ſo as to retract the gift in the premiſſes, yet it may well conſtrue and explain them while ſuch conſtruction is conſiſtent with the premiſſes, and does not deſtroy the operation of the words mentioned in them, but only explains in what ſenſe they are to be taken, and what heirs are comprehended; but if the limitation in the premiſſes had been to a man and the heirs of his body, habendum to him and his heirs, it had been a tail with a fee-ſimple expectant, becauſe this habendum cannot be conſtrued an expoſition, for that it comprehends all heirs in general, and doth not confine or interpret the premiſſes, and therefore being more comprehenſive than the premiſſes, paſſes the fee-ſimple expectant. Co. Lit. 21. a. 8 Co. 154 b. 2 Rol. Abr. 66, 68.

If lands be given to a man and his heirs, habendum to him and his heirs, if the donee has heirs of his body; and if he dies without heirs of his body, that the land ſhall revert to the donor, or habendum to him and his heirs, if he hath iſſue of his body begotten; and if he dies without heirs of his body, that the land ſhall revert to the donor; this is but an eſtate-tail in the donee, becauſe the habendum plainly explains in what ſenſe the word heirs, which are uſed generally in the premiſſes, are to be taken, nor does ſuch explication retract the gift in the premiſſes, becauſe the word heirs have ſtill their operation, and by ſuch conſtruction are more conformable to the will and intention of the donor; but if the habendum had been for life, that had been a void limitation, becauſe no explication can reconcile the habendum to the premiſſes; and where the laſt words of the donation retract the former gift, they are taken as inſignificant and void, becauſe no man is allowed to vacate his own grant. 1 Rol. Abr. 838. Co. Lit. 21. a.

If lands are given to a man and the heirs of his body, remainder to J. S. and his heirs in formâ prædicta; this is a good remainder in tail to J. S. for by a neceſſary relation the mind is carried to the words of the gift, which circumſcribe the heirs of the donee to the deſcendants of his body; ſo if the remainder had been limited to J. S. in formâ prædict. this limitation, without the word heirs, had veſted a good eſtate-tail in him in remainder; or if a leaſe for life had been made to A. the remainder to B. and the heirs of his body, remainder to J. S. in eadem formâ, theſe words, having ſuch a neceſſary relation to thoſe words which immediately precede them, repreſent to us the intention of the donor, as plainly as if he had expreſſed himſelf in all the terms of the firſt limitation. 1 Rol. Abr. 838. Co. Lit. 20. b.

But if a gift be made to A. for life, remainder to B. and the heirs of his body, remainder to J. S. in formâ prædict. this, according to my Lord Coke, is a void limitation to J. S. for, though the mind is carried to the former limitations, yet finding no neceſſary relation to one more than the other, it can determine nothing poſitively as to the intention of the donor, and therefore ſuch limitation is void for uncertainty. Co. Lit. 20. b.

A feoffment was made to A. habendum to him and his heirs of his body, to the uſe of him and his heirs and aſſigns for ever; this is only an eſtate-tail in A. and no fee-ſimple, for the lands are ſo appropriated by the firſt words to the donee and his iſſue, that no act or limitation of the parties can take it out of them; nor does the ſtatute 27 Hen. 8. execute the poſſeſſion to the uſe; for the ſtatute never intended to execute any uſe but that which the legal tenant had been obliged to execute before the ſtatute; but the act De donis, as it tied down the donee from alienation, ſo it would not permit the Chancery to oblige the donee to give the land away from his iſſue; the ſame law if the uſe had been limited over to a ſtranger for the ſame reaſon. Cro. Jac. 400. 2 Co. 78. Plow. 555. Bro. tit. Feoffment to uſes 40. Co. Lit. 19. b.

Lands were given to baron and feme, habend. to baron and feme to the uſe of them and the heirs of their bodies; this was adjudged an eſtate-tail; for though ſuch limitation of a uſe to a ſtranger had not been a good eſtate-tail; becauſe the legal eſtate in baron and feme had only been for their lives; yet here being no feoffee diſtinct from the Ceſtui que uſe, but they being all the ſame perſon, by conſequence there is no uſe diſtinct from the legal eſtate, and therefore the word uſe may be very properly rejected, in order to eſtabliſh the intention of the conveyance, and then the caſe amounts to no more than if an eſtate were limited to baron and feme for their lives, with remainder to them and the heirs of their bodies. Cro. Car. 231.

If a feoffment be made to A and his heirs, with a warranty to him and his heirs, and if it happens that he dies without heirs of his body, that it ſhall remain to

J. S.

J. S, in fee; this limitation of a remainder explains what heirs of the donee ſhould take; for 'tis plain that the donor intended the word heirs in the premiſſes ſhould not be taken in their moſt extended ſenſe, for then they would convey an abſolute eſtate, which would bear no limitation of a remainder over to J. S. and then that part of the gift would be void, which, by an eaſy explication of what heirs the donor meant in the premiſſes, is made good and conſiſtent, without any force or violence to the premiſſes. 1. Rol. Abr. 839. 2. Rol. Abr. 68.

If lands are given to a man and a woman and their heirs, habendum to them and the heirs of their bodies, remainder to them, and the ſurvivor of them for life, to hold of the chief lord; this has been adjudged an eſtate-tail with a fee-ſimple expectant; for though the habendum explains what heirs are meant in the premiſſes, and there is no mention of the word heirs in the remainder; yet 'tis plainly the intention of the donor, that the intereſt in the land ſhall not ceaſe upon the determination of the eſtate-tail, becauſe there is a remainder limited over to take effect when the tail is ſpent; and if the limitation of the remainder paſſes any thing, it muſt be a fee, becauſe they had a greater eſtate already in them than for life; and this the rather, becauſe the tenend. is expreſsly to be of the chief lord, which ſhews they intended to have no eſtate in themſelves. Cro. Car. 476. 2. Rol. Abr. 68.

If I give land to a man and his heirs, viz. the heirs of his body; this is but an eſtate-tail; for here I explain the general import of the word heirs to the deſcendants of the body of the donee. Hob. 172.

3. How far tenant in tail may charge his eſtate, and what acts of his relating to the inheritance ſhall bind the iſſue, though the intail continues.

The ſtatute De donis, affecting a perpetuity, reſtrained the donee in tail, either from alienating or charging his eſtate-tail; and by that act the tenant in tail was likewiſe to leave the land to his heirs as he received it from the donor; and upon that ſtatute the heir in tail might have avoided any alienation or incumbrance of his anceſtor; and as the law ſtood upon that act, ſo might he in reverſion, when the heirs of the donee failed, which were inheritable to the gift. The crown long ſtruggled to break through the perpetuity which was eſtabliſhed by this law; and in the reign of Edward IV. we find the pretended recompence given againſt the vouchee in the common recovery to be allowed an equivalent for the eſtate-tail; and becauſe this recompence was to go in ſucceſſion as the land in tail ſhould have done, therefore they allowed the recovery to bar the reverſion as well as the iſſue in tail, becauſe he in the reverſion was to have the recompence upon failure of iſſue of the donee. 2 Bac. Abr. 265. 6 Co. 40. 10 Co. 39. 1. Vent. 299.

At the Common law the tenant in tail could not grant or alien, nor make any rightful eſtate of freehold to another, but for term of his own life; for though a feoffment in fee, or for life, made by tenant in tail, are good againſt the tenant himſelf, becauſe the law allows no man to avoid his own act; yet after his death the iſſue in tail, or thoſe in reverſion after failure of iſſue, may by proper actions avoid ſuch feoffments, and recover againſt the feoffee. Lit. ſect. 613.

The tenant in tail is maſter of the inheritance, and as ſuch has power over all the laſting improvements growing on it; ſo that he may cut down the timber trees, and diſpoſe of them as he pleaſes, without barring the intail; but this muſt be underſtood with this reſtriction, that if tenant in tail ſell the trees growing on the inheritance, the vendee muſt ſever them during the life of tenant in tail, for if he dies before they are cut down, his heirs in tail ſhall have them as part of the inheritance, and the vendee, though obliged to pay the whole ſum contracted for, yet ſhall not be allowed to cut down one tree after the death of the tenant in tail; for as the tenant in tail has power over the inheritance but during his own life; ſo he can delegate that power to another but for the ſame time; and conſequently whatever remains part of the inheritance at the death of the tenant in tail, at which time his power over it ceaſes, muſt neceſſarily go to the heir to whom the inheritance belongs. Bro. contract, 26. 11 Co. 50. Popb. 194.

So if tenant in tail grants eſtovers to another, or the veſture of his woods, theſe grants determine with his death, for as they are charged on the inheritance, ſo they muſt neceſſarily ceaſe when his power who granted them is determined. 1. Rol. Abr. 841, 842.

If tenant in tail acknowledges a ſtatute or recognizance, upon which the land is extended, the iſſue may ouſt the conuſee after the death of his anceſtor; for the tenant in tail can charge the intail but during his life, becauſe the ſtatute De donis preſerves it free from all incumbrances for the iſſue in tail, ut voluntas donatoris obſervetur. 1 Rol. Abr. 842.

But if tenant in tail acknowledges a recognizance, and dies, and the conuſee brings a ſcire facias againſt the heir in tail, who pleads riens per diſcent in fee-ſimple, and hanging the ſcire facias makes a leaſe for years to J. S. and the jury find the iſſue in tail had land in fee-ſimple by deſcent, the court adjudged, that the conuſee ſhould extend the land againſt the iſſue in tail, and that J. S. could not falſify; for after the verdict the iſſue ſhall not be allowed to ſay, that he is tenant in tail; but the verdict, though a perverſe one, ſhall bind him, and be in force till diſproved by attaint; nor can the leſſee falſify, becauſe the leaſe was made after verdict given, when the iſſue himſelf was bound, and conſequently all that claim under him muſt be ſo too. 3 Bulſt. 245.

Yet if a diſſeiſor makes a gift in tail to A. and A. in conſideration of a releaſe from the diſſeiſee of all his right to the land, grants him a rent-charge in fee; this ſhall bind the iſſue, for this turns upon the reverſe of the former caſes, for as the iſſue in tail may avoid thoſe grants and charges, becauſe they tend to the prejudice of the iſſue and deſtruction of the intail; ſo this grant to the diſſeiſee is good to bind the iſſue, becauſe it tends to the advantage of the donee and his iſſue, by ſtrengthening their title, and making that indefeaſible which before was a precarious eſtate. Co. Lit 343. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 842. Plow. 436. 10 Co. 57.

So were a deviſe was made of land in tail, upon condition that the donee ſhould grant a rent-charge out of the land to another and his heirs, the donee granted the rent purſuant to the condition; and adjudged the rent ſhould not determine with the death of the donee, but ſhould bind his iſſue, for this is in preſervation of the intail, and for the benefit of the iſſue, and is not contra formam doni, but in compliance to the will of the donor. Cro. Jac. 427. 1 Rol. Abr. 842.

A ſeiſed of lands in tail agrees with B. that he and his heirs ſhall enjoy the intailed lands, if A. and his heirs may enjoy his fee-ſimple lands; this agreement is executed accordingly; and B. had a decree againſt A. to levy a fine, and ſettle it purſuant to the agreement; but A. died without doing of it, though 'twas decreed that A. himſelf was bound by his agreement to convey, yet ſince he died before he executed the fine, his iſſue was not bound by the agreement; but if the iſſue in tail had approved of his anceſtor's agreement, as he did in this caſe, by entring on the land of B. then it becomes his own agreement, and conſequently in equity he ſhall be obliged to perform it. 1 Chan. Ca. 171.

Tenant in tail deviſed to his wife for life voluntarily, and not in purſuance to marriage articles, it was inſiſted that the father, the deviſor, had power to dock the intail, and that there were precedents for making good the deviſe againſt the iſſue. Per Finch C. I will never help the iſſue againſt a purchaſer, but here it is only a bounty in this caſe, and in ſuch caſe, the heir having a good title, ſhall be aided; and decreed for the plaintiff. 2 Chan. Caſes 4. Mich. 32 Car. 2. Anon'.

Tenant for life, remainder for life, remainder in tail; tenant for life grants a building leaſe, remainder-man for life conſents by parol, remainder-man in tail, both during his minority, and after his full age, negotiated to procure his father's conſent, who was the remainder-man for life; but whether he ſhould be decreed to confirm, Lord Chancellor would adviſe, but decreed remainder-man for life to confirm. 2 Chan. Caſes 27. Paſch. 32 Car. 2. Sidney v. Earl of Leiceſter.

Partition between tenants in tail, though but by parol, decreed to bind the iſſue; per cur. 2 Venn. 233. Trin. 1691. cites the caſe of Burton and Jeux, and the caſe of Reſe v. Reſe.

If tenant in tail exchanges land and dies, and iſſue enters on the lands taken in exchange, the exchange ſtands good during his life, and after his death his iſſue may avoid it by entring, and ſo on toties quoties; ſo that a baſe fee paſſes from the tenant in tail; and ſo it does in caſe of a leaſe and releaſe, bargain and ſale, and covenant to ſtand ſeiſed to uſes in fee, ſuch conveyances paſs a baſe fee, which continue till determined by the act of the iſſue in tail. 7 Mod. 25. Trin. 1 Ann. B. R. in the caſe of Machil v. Clerke.

For more matter under this title, ſee 2 Bac. Abr. and 9 Vin. Abr. tit. Eſtate. See likewiſe Fee, Freehold, Leaſe, Life-eſtate, Occupant, Tail.

Eſtercha frumenti, An old meaſure of corn; perhaps the ſame with a ſtrike or buſhel. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſterling. See Sterling.

Eſtoppel, (from the French eſtouper, oppilare, obſtipare,) Denotes as much as an impediment, or bar of action, ariſing from his own fact that hath, or otherwiſe might have had his action. For example; a tenant maketh a feoffment by colluſion to one, the lord accepteth the ſervices of the feoffee; by this he debarreth himſelf of the wardſhip of his tenant's heir. F. N. B. fol. 142. Divers other examples might be ſhewed out of him, and Broke hoc titulo. Co. lib. 2. fol. 4. Goddard's caſe, defineth an eſtoppel to be a bar or hindrance unto one to plead the truth, and reſtraineth it not to the impediment given to a man by his own act only, but by another's alſo. Lib. 3. the caſe of Fines, fol. 88. Cowell.

There be three kinds of eſtoppels, viz. by matter of record, by matter in writing, and by matter in pais. By matter of record, viz. by letters patents, fine, recovery, pleading, taking of continuance, confeſſion, imparlance, warrant of attorney, admittance. By matter in writing as by deed indented, by making of an acquittance by deed indented or deed poll, by defeaſance by deed indented or deed poll. By matter in pais, as by livery, by entry, by acceptance of rent, by partition, and by acceptance of an eſtate. Co. Litt. 352. a.

Every eſtoppel ought to be reciprocal, that is to bind both parties; and this is the reaſon, that regularly a ſtranger ſhall neither take advantage, nor be bound by the eſtoppel: privies in blood, as the heir, privies in eſtate, as the feoffee, leſſee, &c. privies in law, as the lords by eſcheat; tenant by curteſy, tenant in dower, the incumbent of a benefice, and others that come under by acts in law, or in the poſt, ſhall be bound and take advantage of eſtoppels, and a rebutter is a kind of eſtoppel. Co. Litt. 352. a.

2dly, That every eſtoppel, becauſe it concludes a man to allege the truth, muſt be certain to every intent, and not to be taken by argument or inference. Co. Litt. 352. b.

3dly, Every eſtoppel ought to be a preciſe affirmation of that which makes the eſtoppel, and not to be ſpoke imperſonally; as if it be ſaid, ut dicitur, quia imperſonalitas non concludit nec ligat; imperſonalis dicitur, quia ſine perſona. Neither does a recital conclude, becauſe it is no direct affirmation. Ibid.

4thly, A matter alleged that is neither traverſable nor material ſhall not eſtop. Co. Litt. 352. b.

5thly, Regularly a man ſhall not be concluded by acceptance or the like, before his title accrued. Ibid.

6thly, Eſtoppel againſt eſtoppel does put the matter at large. Ibid.

7thly, Matters alleged by way of ſuppoſal in count ſhall not conclude after nonſuit; otherwiſe it is after judgment given, and after nonſuit, although the ſuppoſal in the count ſhall not conclude, yet the bar, title, replication, or other pleading of either party, which is preciſely alleged, ſhall conclude after nonſuit; and hereby are the books reconciled. Ibid.

8thly, Where the verity is apparent in the ſame record, there the adverſe party ſhall not be eſtopped to take advantage of the truth, for he cannot be eſtopped to allege the truth, when the truth appears of record. Ibid.

If a fine be levied without any original, it is voidable but not void; but if an original be brought and a retraxit entred, and after that a concord is made, or a fine levied, this is void in reſpect the verity appears of record. Ibid.

An impropriation, if made after the death of an incumbent, to a biſhop and his ſucceſſors, the biſhop by indenture demiſes the parſonage for 40 years, to begin after the death of the incumbent, the dean and chapter confirms it, [the biſhop dies] the incumbent dies, the demiſe ſhall not conclude [the ſucceſſor] for it appears that he had nothing in the impropriation till after the death of the incumbent, [who ſurviv'd the leſſor.] Ibid.

9thly, Where the record of the eſtoppel does run to the diſability or legitimation of the perſon, there ſtrangers ſhall take benefit of that record, as outlawry, excommengement, profeſſion, attainder of præmunire, of felony, &c. baſtardy, mulierty, and ſhall conclude the party, tho' they be ſtrangers to the record. But of a record concerning the name of the perſon, quality or addition, no eſtranger ſhall take advantage, becauſe he ſhall not be bound by it. But nota, that in caſe of the mulierty, prima facie, an eſtranger ſhall take benefit of it, &c. But yet, becauſe he may be a mulier by the Eccleſiaſtical law, and a baſtard by the Common law; therefore againſt ſuch certificate pleaded, the adverſe party may allege the ſpecial matter, and confeſs the certificate of the biſhop according to the Eccleſiaſtical law, and allege further the ſpecial matter according to the Common law, whereunto the adverſe party muſt anſwer; and ſo are the books that treat of this matter to be reconciled. Co. Litt. 352. b.

Eſtoppels are odious in law, and admitted merely out of neceſſity, becauſe they are concluding to ſpeak the truth; as for inſtance, a ſtranger joined with the owner of the land in making a leaſe; now though in reality this was the leaſe of the owner, yet it is likewiſe the leaſe of the ſtranger by concluſion, otherwiſe his ſigning it would be to no purpoſe, ſo that it is an eſtoppel by neceſſity. Arg. 8 Mod. 312. and Ibid. 313. agreed per cur. Mich. 11 Geo. in the caſe of Skipwith v. Green.

Leſſee enters before the day; leſſor afterwards brings debt for rent, and recovers; quære if leſſor ſhall notwithſtanding his recovery, in which he has admitted him to be the leſſee for years, put him out as a diſſeiſor? or if his heir be eſtopped by it to ſay he is not in by the leaſe? or if the recovery in debt has purged the wrong? Per Yelverton, By the bringing debt for the rent, the leſſor is concluded. But quære it if ſhall bind his heir. It was conceived it ſhall, becauſe it is by record, the ſtrongeſt concluſion that is. Godb. 314. pl. 472. Paſch. 3 Car. B. R. Green v. Moody.

Where a man confeſſes an indictment he may produce affidavits to prove ſon aſſault upon the proſecutor in mitigation of the fine; otherwiſe where the defendant is found guilty; for the entry upon a confeſſion is only non vult contendere cum Domina Regina, & ponit ſe in gratiam curiæ. 1 Salk. 55. pl. 6. Trin. 1 Ann. B. R. The Queen v. Templeman.

R. brought a writ of dower againſt J. S. who pleaded, and judgment given for the defendant, and afterwards the judgment was reverſed; and ſhe brought a new writ of error, and the tenant pleaded, that he always was ready, and yet is, &c. againſt which the demandant pleaded the firſt record to eſtop the tenant; to which the tenant pleaded nul tiel record. It was the opinion of the court, that here the demandant cannot conclude the tenant by that replication to plead nul tiel record; for the judgment is reverſed, and ſo no record, and it cannot be certified a record. But if the demandant had taken iſſue upon the plea of the tenant, abſque hoc that he was ready; the ſame might well have been given in evidence againſt the tenant 3 Le. 52. pl 75. Mich. 15 El. C. B. Riche's caſe.

In

In debt on bond dated 27th of April, 2 Ann. defendant prayed oyer of the original, which bore teſte 16th of April, 2 Ann. whereupon defendant pleaded, the original was ſued out before the date of the bond. The plaintiff replied, that the writ upon which he declared was another writ, and then ſets it forth; the defendant rejoined by way of eſtoppel, becauſe of the oyer aforeſaid; the plaintiff demurred, and concluded in bar, and joined in demurrer. Trevor Ch. J. and Nevil, and Blencow J. held the replication good; for the writ being filed, the reading of it is the act and office of the court, and ſhall not conclude the plaintiff from ſhewing the true writ, and that this is not like to the oyer of a deed, the reading of which is the act of the plaintiff himſelf, and therefore ſhall not be admitted to ſay that the deed ſo read to the defendant is not the deed upon which he counted; but Tracey J. held, that when the defendant prayed oyer of the writ, and it was read to him, this was the act of the court, and when it is entred upon record, the plaintiff ſhall not be admitted to ſay, that this is not the true writ, and ſo falſify the act of the court; but had the writ been miſtaken, the plaintiff's attorney, upon delivery of the paper-book, ought to have rectified it, or have applied to the court to rectify it; but after it is recorded, he is eſtopped to ſay that it is not the true writ; but judgment was given for the plaintiff. 2 Lutw. 1641, 1644. Trin. 2 Ann. Simpſon v. Garſide.

If a feme covert be arreſted by a wrong name, and gives bail-bond, yet ſhe may plead miſnomer; for her bond being that of a feme covert, ſhe may plead non eſt factum to it; ideo it will not eſtop her; per cur. 6 Mod. 311. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. in the caſe of Linch v. Hooke.

Tenant in tail had acknowledged a judgment or recognizance, and died. Upon a ſcire facias againſt his heir and tenant, the ſheriff returned a ſcire feci, and there was judgment by default; and in ejectment it was ruled, that the iſſue in tail could not give in evidence that the cauſor was only tenant in tail, becauſe he might have pleaded it to the ſcire facias. A caſe cited by Holt Ch. J. Comb. 446. in the caſe of Lambert v. Cameret.

Where the eſtoppel appears on the record, the other ſide may demur, as in debt for rent upon an indenture, if the defendant pleads nihil habuit in tenementis, the plaintiff need not reply that eſtoppel, but may demur, becauſe the declaration is on the indenture, and the eſtoppel appears on the record; otherwiſe if he had declared quod cum demiſiſſet. 1 Salk. 227. pl. 5. Paſch. 4 Ann. B. R. Kemp. v. Goodal.

F. arreſted the defendant in aſſiſe and trover, who now moved that he might anſwer without putting in bail, becauſe he was a peer, viz. Earl of Buckingham, Viſcount Purbeck, and Baron Stoke, and ſo was free from arreſt; that if he ſhould put in bail, it muſt be by the name whereby he is arreſted, which would eſtop from claiming his peerage. Sed per cur. In all civil caſes the bail only enters into the recognizance, and not the party himſelf, and therefore it would be no eſtoppel to him; they could not take notice of his peerage otherwiſe than by plea, which could not be till he was in cuſtody of the marſhal, and therefore being by coercion, it would not prejudice him; ſo the court would order nothing, ſed currat lex; but Holt ſaid, if this had been a criminal caſe, they would diſpenſe with his joining in the recognizance to ſave the eſtoppel, and that in this they would make the plaintiff declare ſpedily, and not be allowed the uſual time. 12 Mod. 217. Mich. 10 Will. 3. Roberts v. Villars, alias Danvers.

A man covenants to pay the rent reſerved by a former indenture; he is eſtopped to ſay no rent was reſerved. Stran. 512.

The tenant is not eſtopped by the deſcription of lands in the leaſe. Stran. 610;

Where eſtoppel appears on the record, it need not be replied. Stran. 818.

An Aſſignee may take advantage of an eſtoppel. Stran. 818.

Where an heir in tail is returned heir in fee and warned, after the award of execution, he cannot give the intail in evidence on an ejectment. Ld. Raym. 590.

The heir in tail ſuffers judgment in a ſcire facias by default; he is eſtopped to claim the benefit of the intail. Ld. Raym. 1051.

In a ſcire facias upon a miſrecited judgment, the defendant pleads nul tiel record, and it is found that there is ſuch a record; he is eſtopped from ſhewing the variance afterwards. Ld. Raym. 1050.

In debt for rent, where the plaintiff declares upon a demiſe by indenture, the defendant cannot plead nil habuit in tenementis; and it is ill upon demurrer, without replying the eſtoppel, becauſe that appears upon record. Ld. Raym. 1551, 1554.

If a man be indicted by his right name, and plead miſnomer in abatement, he is eſtopped to deny that name, that he gives himſelf. Ld. Raym. 1308.

By a recognizance to a corporation the defendant is eſtopped to ſay they are no corporation. Ld. Raym. 1535.

An aſſignee of the reverſion ſhall have the benefit of the eſtoppel againſt a leſſee by indenture. Ld. Raym. 1551.

A leſſee by indenture cannot plead nil habuit, &c. ſpecially, without admitting an intereſt. Ld. Raym. 1551.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Eſtoppel.

Eſtovers, (Eſtoverium) According to Spelman is derived from the Fr. etoffe, i. e. materia, and that from the verb etoffer, which is to ſupply with neceſſaries; and in law properly ſignifieth nouriſhment or maintenance. For example; Bracton, lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 18. num. 2. uſeth it for that ſuſtenance, which a man committed for felony, is to have out of his lands or goods for himſelf and his family, during his impriſonment. And the ſtatute made 6 Ed. 1. cap. 3 uſeth it for an allowance in meat or cloth. It is alſo uſed for certain allowances of wood, to be taken out of another man's wood. So it is uſed Weſtm. 2. cap. 25. anno 13 Ed. 1. Weſt. Symb. part. 2. tit. Fines, ſect. 26. ſaith, that the name of eſtovers containeth houſe-bote, hay-bote, and plough-bote; as if he have in his grant theſe general words, De rationabili eſtoverio in boſcis &c. he may thereby claim theſe three. In ſome manors the tenants have common of eſtovers out of the lord's woods, and pay a certain ſmall annual rent for the ſame. Cowell.

Under the name of eſtovers are comprehended, houſe, plough, fire, cart, and hedgebotes, and if a man hath reaſonable eſtovers in the woods of another, to be taken by view and delivery of the baily of the manor, if he take them without, he is a treſpaſſer; if they are demanded and denied, he may have an aſſiſe. 5 Rep. 25. in Sir Thomas Palmer's caſe.

At Common law an aſſiſe did not lie for a diſſeiſin de libero eſtoverio; but now by the words in the ſtat. W. 2. cap. 25. De proficuo in certo loco capiendo, he may. 8 Rep. 48. in Jehu Weeb's caſe.

If eſtovers are granted to be burnt in ſuch an houſe, they ſhall go to him who hath the houſe, by whatſoever title he holdeth it; and therefore if a man is ſeiſed of an houſe in the right of his wife, and a grant is made to the huſband and his heirs, to have ſufficient eſtovers to be burnt in that houſe, in ſuch caſe the eſtovers are appurtenant to the houſe, and ſhall deſcend to the iſſue of the huſband and wife. 8 Rep. 52, 54. Simms's caſe. Poſtea, pl. 13. S. C. this caſe is queſtioned by Vaughan Ch. J. in 1 Mod. 182.

A man having eſtovers to his houſe, either by grant or preſcription, altho' he alters the rooms, without making new chimnies, the preſcription ſtill holds; and if he build new chimnies, the preſcription is not deſtroyed, but he muſt not ſpend any of the eſtovers in them. 4 Rep. 87. Lutterell's caſe. 4 Leon. 240. Brown's caſe. S. P.

If a man hath common of eſtovers in fee, and the owner grubs up the wood, he ſhall have an aſſiſe; but if he hath it but for a term of years, he ſhall have an action on the caſe. 9 Rep. 112. in Robert Mary's caſe. Hob. 43. Cowper v. Andrews, S. P.

A preſcription to have eſtovers for repairing the old houſes, and for building new houſes on the copyhold lands, is good. Cro. 33. Arundel v. Steers,

In

In treſpaſs for taking away the boughs of trees felled, the defendant juſtifies by virtue of a cuſtom of the manor, that when the Lord felled any timber-trees, the poor tenants had the boughs for neceſſary eſtovers to be burnt in focali in terris & ten'tis, &c. adjudged, that the cuſtom was not well alleged, to burn eſtovers in terris. Godb. 234, Biſhop of Chicheſter v. Strodwick.

Treſpaſs, &c. for cutting down trees, &c. the defendant pleaded, that he was ſeiſed in fee of an ancient houſe and lands, &c. and ſo preſcribed to have eſtovers for repairing the houſe, or for the building a new houſe on thoſe lands; and upon demurrer it was objected againſt this preſcription, for that it ought to be reaſonable and uſual, which is to repair ancient houſes, but not to build new ones; but adjudged, that the preſcription is good, becauſe ſuch eſtovers may be granted, even at this time, and by the ſame reaſon there may be a preſcription for them. 2 Cro. 25. Counteſs of Arundel verſus Steer.

Where a man hath a grant of eſtovers to be burnt in ſuch a houſe, they ſhall go to him who hath that houſe, by whatſoever title he hath it, becauſe one is inſeparably incident to the other; and if the owner of the houſe cut them down, and another carries them away, he may have an action of reſpaſs againſt him, though he who took them away had common of eſtovers in the ſame place. 1 Brownl. 44. Spilman's caſe. Antea pl. 5. S. C.

Leaſe for years, and that the leſſee ſhall have convenient fuel, not cutting down or felling any trees; the leſſee cut down trees for fuel, and the leſſor brought an action of convenant; and adjudged, that the action was well brought, for this was a covenant on the part of the leſſee, becauſe the law allows him reaſonable eſtovers, and by this covenant he had abridged himſelf of that privilege. Paſch. 15 Car. March 9.

In treſpaſs vi & armis, for entring into his land, and digging it; the defendant pleaded, that he was ſeiſed of an ancient meſſuage, and ſo preſcribes to have fourteen days to dig turf in the place where, &c. tanquam ad meſſuagium præd' pertinen'; and upon a demurrer to this plea, it was adjudged ill, becauſe he ſaid the turfs were appertaining to his meſſuage, but did not ſay they were to be burnt or uſed therein. Sid. 354. Heyward verſus Cannington. See Antea pl. 12. S. P. See Preſcription (B) 13.

Eſtrangers, Are ſometimes taken for thoſe that are not privies or parties to the levying a fine, or making of a deed; ſometimes for thoſe who are born beyond ſea. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eſtray, (from the old French Eſtrayeur, Lat. Extrahura, pecus elapſum e cuſtodia campos pererrat ignoto domino) Signifies any beaſt not wild, found within any lordſhip, and not owned by any man; for in this caſe, it being cried, according to law, in the market towns adjoining, if it be not claimed by the owner in a year and a day, it is the lord's of the ſoil. See Britton, cap. 17 Cowell. The ancient law of King Ina was, Diximus de ignotis pecoribus, ut nemo habeat ſine teſtimonio hundredi, ſive hominum decennæ, that is, the ſuitors at a court-leet. Spelman.

The reaſon of eſtray is, becauſe when there is none who can make title to the thing, the law gives it to the King, if the owner does not claim it within a year and a day, and alſo becauſe the cattle might not periſh, which are called animalia vagrantia, &c. per Coke Ch. J. Godb. 150. pl. 195.

He who juſtifies for eſtray made preſcription in his manor, and ſaid further, that according to the cuſtom in the realm of England uſed, they ſhall proclaim them in two market vills, viz. in D. and S. and ſo it ſeems, that eſtrays ſhall be proclaimed in the two next market vills, by the Common law, and two market days, the one in the one vill, and the other in the other vill. Br. Eſtray, pl. 10. cites Lib. Inſtr.

The eſtray ought to be proclaimed in market in two ſeveral vills adjoining; and therefore till this be done, and the year and day paſſed, the lord of the franchiſe has not any property. Finch's Law 45.

In the proclamation it ought to be ſhewn of what kind the eſtray is, as ſheep, horſe, &c. and ought to tell the name of the ſeizor, ſo as the owner may know whither to reſort for his cattle. Godb. 151. pl. 195. Paſch. 5. Jac. Taylor v. James.

The proclamation muſt be in convenient time, which the court will adjudge of; per Hobart Ch. J. Win. 68. Mich. 12 Jac. C. B.

If a man takes beaſts as eſtray, and keep them for three quarters of a year, and after they eſtray from him, and another gets them, the firſt Lord who kept them for three quarters of a year cannot retake them, becauſe he has no property in them till he has kept them the year and day, and proclamation paſſed; quod nota bene; for the poſſeſſion of the ſecond Lord is good againſt him who has no property. Br. Eſtray, pl. 11. cites 33 H. 8.

So if it be but the day before the year ended. Brownl. 236. Trin. 8 Jac. Harvey v. Blacklole.

It ought to be kept in land in the Lord's poſſeſſion. Godb. 150. pl. 195. Paſch. 5 Jac. C. B. Taylor v. James.

The Lord cannot ride an horſe that is an eſtray. Yelv. 96. Hill. 4 Jac. Bagſhaw v. Gaward.

Nor can he work an ox. 12 Rep. 100. Trin. 10 Jac. per cur. Anon'.

Leſſee for life of a manor ſeizes an eſtray, and dies before the year and the day paſſed; it ſeemed that the executors of the leſſee ſhall have it, and not he in the reverſion; for although the leſſee had not an abſolute property in it during his life, yet when the year is paſt, the property ſhall have relation to the time of the ſeizure. Mo. 11. pl. 43. Hill. 4 Ed. 6. Anon'.

If a man have waif and ſtray within his manor by preſcription, and another man takes the waif or ſtray out of the manor, &c. he who has the manor ſhall have an action of treſpaſs for them, &c. and that without any ſeizure of them before. F. N. B. 91. (B)

Waif in one manor ſtrays into another; per Catlin Ch. J. No property is changed by the waif without ſeizure, unleſs in the King's caſe of prerogative. D. 338. a. pl. 40. Trin. 16 Eliz. Anon'.

When cattle come into other men's grounds ſtraying from the owners, then the party or Lord into whoſe grounds or manors they come cauſeth them to be ſeized, and wythe put about their necks, and to be cried in three markets adjoining, ſhewing the marks of the cattle, and then if the true owner claims them not within a year and a day, the property of them is in the Lord of a manor whereunto they did ſtray, if he have all eſtrays by cuſtom or charter, elſe to the King. Bacon's Uſe of the Law 65.

If two tenants in common be of a manor, to which waif and ſtray do belong, and a ſtray does happen; they are tenants in common of the ſame, and if the one does take the ſtray, the other has no remedy by action, but to take him again. Co. Lit. 200. a.

But if by preſcription the one is to have the firſt beaſt happening as a ſtray, and the other the ſecond, there an action lies if the one takes that which pertains to the other. Co. Lit. 200. a.

If any eſtray happen within the manor of the wife, if the huſband dies before ſeizure, the wife ſhall have it, for that the property was not in the huſband before ſeizure. Co. Lit. 351. b.

A man ſeiſed of a manor to which he has ſtray appendant by preſcription, &c. by his bailiff he ſeized an ox as a ſtray within the manor, and makes proclamations according to law, and within the year, and lets the manor with all royalties and liberties, and after the year and day paſſed; Brown J. was of opinion, that the leſſor ſhould have it, foraſmuch as he had the poſſeſſion, and when the year and day are paſſed, the property ſhall have relation to the time of the firſt ſeizure, but all the juſtices were againſt him, and that the leſſee ſhall have it, foraſmuch as the property of the ſtray is not altered or changed before the year and day, and the Lord of the manor until the year and day are paſſed, has but the cuſtody, ſo that the owner may relieve it within the year and day, if he will pay for the meat of it. 12 Rep. 100. Trin. 10 Jac. Anon'.

Treſpaſs for his horſe; defendant pleaded, that one P. was owner of the horſe, and that the horſe eſtrayed out of his poſſeſſion, and came to the hands of the plaintiff, and that he by command of P. demanded the horſe, and that the horſe within a year, &c. and tendered amends, and that the plaintiff refuſing to deliver him he took him; to this there was a frivolous replication, and upon that a demurrer. Without telling any marks, or making any proof of property which may be made on the trial, the owner may ſeize his horſe where he finds him; per cur'. Salk. 686. Mich. 4 Ann. Henly v. Walſh.

Though the defendant does not plead directly that he tendered amends, but only that he demanded the horſe proferendo ſatisfaction', yet the court held this a direct affirmation, like the caſe of warrantizando vendidit where the participle affirms as directly as a verb; ſo aans plagam mortalem is well enough. Ibid. ſays, vide 2 Cro. 630. 4 Rep. Long's caſe.

And per cur. though it was ſaid he tendered amends generally, and did not expreſs any certain ſum, yet that was good in this caſe; and a difference was taken between this caſe, and that of a tendor of amends for a treſpaſs; in that of a treſpaſs, if the defendant pleads a tender of amends, he muſt ſhew what he tendered, for he muſt tender a certain ſum; and the law put this difficulty upon him becauſe he is the wrong-doer, and the other is confeſſedly a party injured; but the owner of the eſtray is no wrong-doer, and it is impoſſible he ſhould know how long his horſe had been in the Lord's cuſtody, nor how much will make a proper ſatisfaction. 2 Salk. 686. Mich. 4 Ann. Henly v. Walſh.

Another exception was, that the defendant does not aver, that the amends tendered was refuſed; & adjornatur. Ibid.

Where the plaintiff brought treſpaſs for taking his eſtray, and then in his replication does not ſet forth that he proclaimed him, and it does alſo there appear that it was more than a year and a day after the taking it as an eſtray, that the defendant as owner took it away; in this caſe the plaintiff's replication deſtroys his action; for now, after the year and day the Lord had the abſolute property, which is a much greater property than a Lord has in an eſtray, and if you firſt declare for him as an eſtray, and in your replication ſhew that the property was abſolute in you, it is bad; per Holt Ch. J. Holt's Rep. 564. pl. 42. Hill. 4 Ann. Henly v. Walſh.

Holt Ch. J. cited Noy 144. Godb. 150. to ſhew, that in caſe of an eſtray, the Lord ought to make a demand of what the amends ought to be for the keeping, and then if the party thinks the demand unreaſonable, he ought to tender ſufficient amends; but if he tender inſufficient amends, the Lord ought to take iſſue, and let the jury ſettle what the keeping is worth. Note; in this caſe the action was brought for an eſtray colt, and by the replication it appeared that it was after the year, and then it ceaſed to be an eſtray, and became the Lord's property. Per Holt Ch. J. it became an eſtray after the firſt proclamation, and not ſooner; the owner is ſubject to pay for no more than a year's keeping, which ſhall commence from the ſeizure. Per Powell J. the pleading a tender of ſufficient amends is well, and a good iſſue. 11 Mod. 89. pl. 12. Trin. 5 Ann. B. R. Henly v. Walſh.

If in treſpaſs by the Lord for taking his eſtray after the year, the Lord does not ſhew that it was proclaimed the next market day after it was found, at the next market town, he has no property in the eſtray, and the action fails; for the Lord to juſtify himſelf muſt ſhew that he did what the law required of him to give him this title. Per Holt Ch. J. to which Powell agreed, and judgment accordingly. Holt's Rep. 564. Henly v. Walſh.

Eſtreat, Extractum, Is uſed for the true copy, or duplicate of an original writing; for example, of amercements or penalties ſet down in the rolls of a court, to be levied by the bailiff, or other officer, of every man for his offence. See F. N. B. f. 57, & 76. and ſo alſo it is uſed Weſt. 2. cap. 8.

The Chancellor (after the end of the Norman period) put the King's ſeal to all patents, which was the foundation and baſis of the revenue; but when any ſuch patents were ſealed, they were eſtreated into the Exchequer, and the execution iſſued out of the court of Exchequer for all the reſervations on ſuch patents; for as the Chancery was a cheque upon the civil juſtice by iſſuing originals, ſo likewiſe it kept the foot and foundation of all certain revenues of the crown, which were eſtreated into the Exchequer, in order to be there gathered and paid in. Gilb. Hiſt. View of the Court of Exchequer 8.

Likewiſe all fines upon crimes in the court of King's Bench were to be eſtreated into the Exchequer, in order to levy ſuch fines there, or if they were already levied, they were yet to be eſtreated, in order that the clerk of the crown might account for ſuch fines ſo received in the court of Exchequer. Gilb. Hiſt. View of the court of Exchequer 9.

A by-law was made in a court-leet held for the King within his honour of Grafton, that every perſon within the leet, who ſhould receive or place any inmate in a houſe there, without giving ſecurity to the overſeers of the poor, &c. ſhould pay 5*l. per* month, and J. S. was fined 20*l.* for a breach of the ſaid by-law, which fine was eſtreated, and proceſs iſſued upon it. Hale Ch. Baron ſaid, it is a good by-law, and frequent in leets, but it is hard to eſtreat the fine before taking uſual remedy for it by diſtreſs; and to extend the party's lands when perhaps he may have ſomething to plead to it, as that he is not within the leet, or that he received no inmate; but the officers ſaid it was uſual to eſtreat ſuch fines into the Exchequer when they belonged to the King; otherwiſe when they belong to ſubjects; and the party was ordered to plead. Hardr. 471. pl. 6. Trin. 19 Car. 2. in ſcacc'. Anon'.

In an information, in nature of a quo warranto, iſſues were returned upon three ſeveral diſtringas's, and upon a motion for a rule to reſtreat them, Holt Ch. J. ſaid, that the courſe of the court is to ſend them up into the Exchequer at the uſual times, which are twice a year, viz. on the laſt days of the iſſuable terms; but in extraordinary caſes there may be a rule to eſtreat them, and the motion was denied. 1 Salk. 55. pl. 4. Mich. 11. W. 3. B. R. The King v. Mayor of Hertford.

If recognizances are eſtreated into the Exchequer, becauſe not punctually complied with; yet if the party appears, and takes his trial next ſeſſions, he may compound for a very ſmall ſum in the court of Exchequer, becauſe the effect, though not the exact form of the recognizance, is complied with. 10 Mod. 273. Hill. 1 Geo. 1. B. R. The King v. Tomb.

Judges of oyer and terminer are the proper judges, whether recognizances ought to be eſtreated or ſpared. It is for the advantage of publick juſtice, that it ſhould be in the power of juſtices of oyer and terminer, to ſpare the recognizance, if upon the circumſtances of the caſe they ſee fit. Per cur'. 10 Mod. 278. Hill. 1 Geo. 1. The King verſus Tomb.

Statute of eſtreats, 16 Ed. 2. ſect 1. Eſtreats ſhall be made in manner following: Firſt ſhall be entred the fines which moſt commonly happen, as to have writs and all other fines wherein the ſum is expreſſed: And all theſe fines of one county for the whole year wall be written by themſelves by order, as the fines ſhall be entred in the rolls; and of all other counties, whatſoever ſhall happen to follow in any one county. And for the more ready recourſe to the rolls, if any thing ſhall be doubted of, either of the number, or other letter in the eſtreat; the date of the day when the fine was made, ſhall be entred into the eſtreat which is delivered into the Exchequer.

Sect. 2. After thoſe fines ſhall be entred charters, letters patent and commiſſions, in which any farm or yearly rent is due to the King, or wherein any accounts are to be made, and theſe ſhall be written by counties ſeverally after the readieſt manner.

Sect. 3. After theſe ſhall be written homages and fealties, whereof the reliefs are to be demanded, and other things whereof the ſum is not expreſſed, nor any yearly demand to be made.

Sect. 4. In the ſame eſtreat ſhall be entred charters of gift, by which the King ought to have ſervice.

Sect. 5. There ſhall be entred in the ſame eſtreat, the names of thoſe which that year ſhall be aſſigned to hear and inquire, or to do any thing whereby fine or amerciament, or other profit appertaining to the King might ariſe.

Sect. 6. In the end of the eſtreat the rediſſeiſins and ſurcharging of paſtures.

Sect. 7. The ordinance of the Exchequer ſhall be kept, and by writ commanded to the juſtices of both benches, and the warden of the foreſt on this ſide of Trent, and beyond.

Sect. 8. The ſteward of the King's houſe ſhall be commanded to deliver yearly to the Treaſurer of the Exchequer his eſtreats of the fines, amerciaments, iſſues, forfeitures, and other profits ariſing to the King, by reaſon of the pleas holden before the ſteward and marſhal, twice in the year, viz. at Eaſter and Michaelmas.

Sect. 9. Charge ſhall be given to the clerk of the market and of meaſures, that he deliver his eſtreats in form aboveſaid.

Sect. 11. The butler for the King ſhall be charged, that he ſhall make proviſion by view of the honeſt men in the town where the ſame purveyance ſhall be; and if the ſame be in a port where are gatherers of the King's cuſtom, the ſame ſhall be teſtified by them.

Sect. 12. No cuſtomer ſhall be deputy to the butler, ſo long as he ſhall be attendant upon the cuſtom.

Sect. 13. The butler ſhall put into a roll all his buyings, how many tuns, of whom he bought them, at what time, and by woſe view.

Sect. 14. He ſhall inroll the wines of priſage in like manner.

Sect. 15. All the cuſtomers ſhall be charged, that they twice yearly ſhall certify the treaſurer and barons, at the feaſt of Eaſter and St. Michael, how many ſhips have arrived within their bounds laden with wines, and of whence they were, and who bought them, and when they arrived and diſcharged, and how much wine every ſhip did bring, &c. how many ſhips arrived of which the King did take prize of wine, and how many tuns, and in what ſhips the King did take 2*s.* for the tun, and how many tuns he did take 2*s.* for the tun.

Stat. 42 Ed. 3. cap. 9. Where in the Green wax it is ſent to the ſheriffs to levy the King's debts, the ſheriffs miniſters levy the ſame by rolls and other remembrances, and do not ſhew the eſtreats under the ſeal of the Exchequer, ſo that which is once levied cometh another time in demand, becauſe that they do not charge themſelve fully of that that is levied; it is ordained, that men ſhall ſee the eſtreats ſealed, and that the ſame which is paid be totted, and the eſtreats ſent to the ſheriffs upon the receipt. And if any ſheriffs or miniſters do to the contrary, they ſhall anſwer to the party which will complain, and yield him treble damages, and make fine to the king. And he ſhall give his ſuit as well before juſtices of peace as before other juſtices. And the ſheriffs ſhall account by the ſame eſtreats ſo totted and by none other; and the ſame eſtreats ſhall not be copied out by the ſheriffs, but the copy of the eſtreats in how much they touch the franchiſes of lords ſhall be delivered to the bailiffs of the franchiſes under the ſeal of the ſheriff; and the ſame bailiffs ſhall yield their account to the Exchequer by the copies ſo delivered.

Stat. 7 H. 4. cap. 3. The juſtices, before whom iſſues or amercements be forfeit, ſhall charge the clerks of the eſtreats in ſuch places, by their oath, that they make the rolls of the eſtreats of ſuch iſſues and amercements diſtinctly by expreſs words of the cauſe of the loſs, of the term of the year, and the nature of the writ, and betwixt what parties ſuch iſſues and amercements be loſt.

Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. cap. 22. ſect. 2. All fines, poſt-fines, iſſues, amercements, forfeited recognizances, ſums of money paid, in lieu of them, and other forfeitures impoſed or forfeited in the King's Bench, Common Pleas or Exchequer, ſhall be eſtreated into the Exchequer twice every year, i. e. all ariſing from the beginning of Hilary term to the beginning of Trinity ſhall be eſtreated the laſt day of Trinity term.

Sect. 3t All ariſing from the beginning of Trinity term to the beginning of Hilary term ſhall be eſtreated into the Exchequer the laſt day of Hilary term, on pain that every officer making default therein ſhall forfeit 50*l.* the one moiety to the King, the other to the proſecutor.

Sect. 4. This act ſhall not alter the courſe uſed in certifying and eſtreating iſſues from the Common Bench, nor of fines pro licentia concordandi called poſt-fines, nor the termly eſtreating of iſſues out of the office of pleas in the Exchequer.

Sect. 5. Fines, iſſues, recognizances and all forfeitures, impoſed or forfeited before any judge of aſſiſe, clerk of the market or commiſſioners of ſewers, ſhall be eſtreated into the Exchequer twice yearly, i. e. all ariſing betwixt Michaelmas and Eaſter before the firſt day of Trinity term.

Sect. 6. All fines, &c. ariſing in the courts laſt mentioned from Eaſter to the feaſt of St. Michael ſhall be eſtreated before the firſt day of Hilary term, on pain that every perſon making default therein ſhall forfeit 50*l.* one moiety to the King, the other to the proſecutor.

Sect. 7. Clerks of the peace and town-clerks ſhall deliver to the ſheriffs within twenty days after the 29th of September yearly, a perfect eſtreat of all fines, iſſues, amercements, recognizances, ſums of money, and other forfeitures, which ſhall have been impoſed or forfeited in the ſeſſions of the peace held before Michaelmas.

Sect. 8. And alſo ſhall yearly, on or before the ſecond Monday after the morrow of All Souls, deliver into the Exchequer a duplicate of ſuch eſtreats ſo delivered to the ſheriffs, that the ſheriffs may be charged therewith on their appoſals, on pain to forfeit 50*l.* the one moiety to the King, the other to the proſecutor.

Sect. 9. No officer belonging to the King's Bench, Common Pleas or Exchequer, nor any clerk of aſſiſe, clerk of the peace, town-clerk, or any officer under them, nor any other, ſhall conceal any indictment, fine, poſt-fine, iſſue, amercement, forfeited recognizance or other forfeiture, unleſs by order of court; nor ſhall they miſcertify any of the ſame; on pain to forfeit the treble value of what they conceal or miſcertify; one moiety to the King, the other to the proſecutor; and alſo on pain to loſe his office, and be incapable of any office where any part of the King's revenue is managed or paid.

Sect. 10. Where any ſums of money or forfeitures due to the King ſhall be paid to any ſheriff or other officer, and according to the act certified and eſtreated into the Exchequer, proceſs of Green wax ſhall be awarded to the ſheriffs againſt ſuch officers for levying the ſame.

Sect. 11. Nothing in this act ſhall prejudice the rights of any bodies politick or corporate, lords of manors, liberties or franchiſes.

Sect. 12. Nothing in this act ſhall extend to the rights of the city of London.

Made perpetual, 4 Will. & Mar. cap. 4. ſect. 4.

Stat. 4 Will. & Mary, cap. 24. ſect. 5. Clerks of the court of King's Bench, of the Common Pleas, clerks of aſſiſe, clerks of the peace, town-clerks, clerks of ſewers, clerks of the market, and others to whom it belongeth to make returns of eſtreats into the Exchequer, ſhall upon delivery of ſuch eſtreats take the oath following, viz.

YOU ſhall ſwear, that theſe eſtreats now by you delivered, are truly and carefully made up and examined, and that all fines, iſſues, amercements, recognizances and forfeitures which were ſet, loſt, impoſed or forfeited, and in right and due courſe of law ought to be eſtreated in the court of Exchequer, are, to the beſt of your knowledge and underſtanding, therein contained, and that in the ſame eſtreats are alſo contained and expreſſed all ſuch fines as have been paid into the court from which the ſaid eſtreats are made, without any wilful or fraudulent diſcharge, omiſſion, miſnomer, or defect whatſoever. So help you God.

Which oath the barons of the Exchequer, or any one of them, are required to adminiſter.

By ſtat. 3 Geo. 1. c. 15. ſect. 12. The barons may amerce clerks of aſſiſe, &c. for not returning eſtreats.

Clerk

Clerk of the eſtreats, Clericus extractorum. See in Clerk.

Eſtreciatus, Streightened, blocked up. Inquiratur de viis Domini Regis eſtreciatis.——Plac. Coron. temp. R. 1.

Eſtregbords, Eaſtern boards, or deal, or fir, brought from the Eaſtern parts for wainſcot and other uſes.—— Et in ſex eſtregbords videl. waynſcots emptis apud Stereſbregge 11. fol. 11. den. Paroch. Antiq. p. 575.

Eſtrepe, French etropier, i. e. mutilare: To make ſpoil by a tenant for life in lands or woods, to the prejudice of him in the reverſion.

Eſtrepement, or Eſtrepament, (Eſtrepamentum, from the French word etropier, mutilare.) It ſignifies the ſpoil made by tenant for life upon any lands or woods, to the prejudice of the reverſioner, as namely in the ſtatute made anno 6 E. 1. cap. 13. And it may ſeem by the derivation, that eſtrepement is properly the unmeaſurable ſoaking or drawing out of the heart of the land by plowing or ſowing it continually, without manuring, or other ſuch uſage as is requiſite in good huſbandry: And yet etropier ſignifying mutilare, may not improperly be applied to thoſe that cut down trees, or lop them, farther than the law will bear. This ſignifies alſo a writ, which lieth in two manners; the one is, when a man having an action depending, (as a formedon, or dum fuit infra ætatem, or writ of right, or any other) wherein the demandant is not to recover damages, ſueth to inhibit the tenant from making waſte during the ſuit. The other ſort is for the demandant, that is adjudged to recover ſeiſin of the land in queſtion, and before execution ſued by the writ habere facias ſeiſinam, for fear of waſte to be made before he can get poſſeſſion, ſueth out this writ. See more in F. N. B. fol. 60, 61. Reg. Orig. fol. 76. and Reg. Jud. f. 33. In ancient records we often find vaſtum & extrepamentum facere; and Spelman thinks, eſtrepamentum gravis vaſti genus deſignare. Cowell, edit. 1727.

There are two kinds of eſtrepement, the one original, and may be ſued out with the original præcipe, by which the land is demanded, or at any time pending the plea, directed to the ſheriff, the party, or both; the other is judicial, to be granted by that court where the plea dependeth. 2 Inſt. 328.

There is a difference between eſtrepement and waſte; for waſte is by a particular tenant, who may be puniſhed by writ of waſte; and eſtrepement is by him who has eſtate of inheritance by defeaſible title. Br. Eſtrepement, pl. 10.

By ſtat. Glouceſter, 6 Ed. 1. c. 13. "After a plea is moved in London by writ, the tenant ſhall have no power to make waſte or eſtrepement of the tenement, hanging the plea; if he do, the mayor and bailiffs ſhall cauſe it to be kept ſafe at the ſuit of the demandant. And the ſame ſhall be obſerved in other cities and boroughs, and throughout the realm."

Before this ſtatute there lay at the Common law a writ of eſtrepement after judgment, and before execution; and ſo an eſtrepement doth lie for waſte done after verdict, and before judgment. 2. Inſt. 328.

And ſome do hold, that the original writ of eſtrepement did lie at the Common law to prohibit any waſte done pendente placito; for there lieth a writ de bonis arreſtandis ne diſſipentur pendente placito, &c. a fortiori in caſe of inheritance, wherein if waſte ſhould be done, it ſhould be inconvenient, and againſt the common wealth: But certain it is, that the judicial writ is given pendente placito by this ſtatute. 2 Inſt. 328.

The ſtatute of Glouceſter, cap. 13. is ſo conſtrued, that the party ſhall recover damages for waſte done (pendente placito) after the writ delivered, and therefore it is good policy to purchaſe the writ of eſtrepement together with the writ. 2 Inſt. 329.

The writ itſelf founded upon this ſtatute is but a prohibition, and upon the attachments the parties do plead. 2 Inſt. 329.

Upon a writ of eſtrepement at the Common law, viz. after judgment, the plaintiff ſhall recover damages for the waſte done before, without any prohibition formerly delivered. 2. Inſt. 329.

Upon a writ of eſtrepement grounded upon this ſtatute of Glouceſter, cap. 13. the ſheriff may reſiſt them that do offer to do waſte, and if otherwiſe he cannot do it, he may lawfully impriſon them, or make a warrant to others to do it, and if neceſſity requires it, may take the poſſe comitatus: So odious in law is waſte and deſtruction. 2 Inſt. 329.

Oath was made that the ſervants of tenant in dower had done waſte after the writ of eſtrepement made known to them, but the court would not commit them, becauſe it was directed immediately to her and her ſervants, for then it had been a contempt of the court. Hob. 85. pl. 113. Trin. 12 Jac. Cumberland (Earl) v. The Counteſs Dowager.

Original of formedon was ſhewn in C. B. returnable the next term, and the demandant ſurmiſed waſte and deſtruction, and prayed eſtrepement; per Englefield, The ſtatute of Glouceſter, cap. 13. is, That if a man does waſte or deſtruction, pending the plea, that the party ſhall have eſtrepement, and the plea is not pending till the writ be returned. Br. Eſtrepement, pl. 1. cites 18 H. 8. 5.

Where action is brought, as formedon, &c. in which a man ſhall recover damages, there he ſhall have writ of eſtrepement. Br. Eſtrepement, pl. 10. cites F. N. B. 60, 61.

A writ of eſtrepement was granted in a writ of dower unde nihil habet, becauſe at firſt it is uncertain whether the demandant will recover damages or not in this writ. Bendl. 33. pl. 55. Paſch. 3 Ed. 6. Anon'.

In every præcipe where the demandant is to defeat the poſſeſſion of the tenant, there for doubt that his adverſary will do waſte, he may have writ of eſtrepement to prohibit him to do waſte. Mo. 69. pl. 186. Trin. 6 Eliz. Anon'.

Writ of eſtrepement was brought againſt huſband and wife, after judgment in a quid juris clamat, and before execution; and it was granted. Dyer 325. b. pl. 39. Trin. 15 Eliz. Cateſby v. Bandes, and Ibid. cites S. P. Mich. 30 H. 8. Bowldes v. Newport.

Pending a writ of partition between coparceners, the tenant committed waſte; the court would not grant a writ of eſtrepement, becauſe in this caſe there was equal intereſt between the parties, and the writ will not lie but only where the intereſt of the tenant is to be diſproved. Gouldſb. 50. pl. 12. Paſch. 29 Eliz. Anon'.

Entry ſur diſſeiſin of a diſſeiſin made to himſelf. The plaintiff prayed a writ of eſtrepement, and it was doubted if he ſhould have it, becauſe he is in this action to recover all his damages; but afterwards the writ was granted; for otherwiſe the plaintiff might have his houſes and woods defaced and deſtroyed, and turned to his remedy to recover his damages againſt one who perhaps is not worth ſo much. Cro. E. 484. pl. 21. Trin. 38 Eliz. C. B. Wright v. Penry.

Error was brought to reverſe a common recovery in Lancaſter in a writ of entry, and whilſt that writ was depending, an eſtrepement was awarded to the tertenants, and an attachment thereupon; and adjudged, that it was well granted. Cro. E. 774. pl. 4. Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. B. R. Holland v. Dauntſy.

This writ lies in action of waſte as well at any time before judgment as after judgment, and before execution; for he cannot recover damages for more than is contained in the count, and he cannot aſſign any waſte done after the writ purchaſed; reſolved, 5 Rep. 115. b. Trin. 43 Eliz. C. B. Foliamb's caſe.

Where damages are to be recovered, but not pendente placito, there without queſtion eſtrepement doth lie. 2 Inſt. 328.

Error was brought to reverſe a common recovery had againſt an infant, and upon that a ſci. fac. ad audiendum errores; eſtrepement was prayed, and per curiam allowed; becauſe it lies in the original writ; ſee likewiſe a writ of entry in the poſt. Noy 134. Trin. 7 Jac. B. R. Louch's caſe.

In a partitione facienda, by one tenant in common againſt the other, an eſtrepement was granted for all that the plaintiff had confeſt to be held in common, and not of more, more, for by ſuch means, a man many be inhibited to cut his own bows, according to his occaſions. But Bendlowes, cap. 5. fol. 4. ſeemed, that an eſtrepement does not lie between tenants in common. But in M. 6. Jac. it was ruled that the eſtrepement ſhall be granted, although that Coke Ch. J. held with Bendlowes. But note, that in 5. Jac. Lady Lucy v. Oxenbridge, an eſtrepement was granted in a partitione facienda, becauſe it is a real action; and no damages to be recovered. And Brownlowe ſhewed many precedents contrary to Bendlowes. Noy 143. Baily v. Knighton.

A writ of eſtrepement was given in waſte becauſe that for waſte done, pending the writ, the plaintiff cannot recover damages. Per tot' cur'. Godb. 164. pl. 229. Paſch. 8. Jac. C. B. Anon'.

In an action of waſte for digging earth to make brick, eſtrepement was awarded, and on affidavit that the writ of eſtrepement was delivered to the ſheriff, and that he gave notice of that to the party, and he notwithſtanding continues to do waſte, attachment was awarded. 2 Brownl. 168. Paſch. 10 Jac. C. B. Anon'.

Affidavit that waſte was committed after an eſtrepement, yet no attachment was granted, but had it appeared by pleading, or upon the return of the ſheriff, it had been otherwiſe. Winch 15. Paſch. 19. Jac. Sir George Tipping's caſe.

In a writ of partition after ſummons an eſtrepement was granted generally againſt the parties, and their ſervants, for in partition no damages are to be recovered. Het. 32 Mich. 3 Car. C. B. Anon'.

It ſeems that eſtrepement lies not on a writ of error of a judgment in partition. Sid. 369. pl. 7. Trin. 2 Car. 2. B. R. Danby v. Palmes.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Eſtrepement.

Elumare, To excuſe or eſſoin: Cum dies placiti, &c. non potui, &c. adire, ſed miſi eſumatores qui me eſumaverunt apud Cantuar'. Du Freſne.

Elurium, Alborough.

Etate probanda. See Ætate probanda.

Ethbrich. See Ewbryche.

Etheling or Atheling, Is a Saxon word, ſignifying noble, and among the Engliſh Saxons was as the title of prince among us, or as the King's eldeſt ſon; ſuch was Edgar Atheling, the deſigned ſucceſſor of Edward the Confeſſor. Camden. Edgar Ætheling, England's Darling.

Etocetum, The wall in Staffordſhire.

Evenings, The delivery at even or night of a certain portion of graſs or corn, or under-wood to a cuſtomary tenant, who performs his wonted ſervice of cutting, mowing, or reaping for his Lord, and at the end of his day's work, receives ſuch a quantity of the materials he works upon, to carry home with him, as a gratuity or encouragement of his bounden ſervice. So in the manor of Burceſter; com. Oxon —— Virgata terræ integra ejuſdem tenuræ habebit liberam ad veſperas quæ vocatur evenings, tantum ſicut falcator poteſt per falcem levare et domum portare per ipſum —— Paroch. Antiq. pag. 401. —— See Kennet's Gloſſary, at the end of that work.

Everwickſhire, Yorkſhire, Heretofore ſo called, perhaps derived from the Latin Eboracum, from which Eborac and Evoric or Everwick corruptly is no ſtrange variation; and the Saxon Scyre, which ſignifieth ſhire. Willielmus Rex Angliæ Thomæ Archiepiſcopo & Betramo de Verdon et baronibus ſuis Francis & Anglis de Everwicſcire, &c. Charta Will. Conq. It is alſo written Ewyereſcire, in Rot. Magno 30 Hen. 2. and elſewhere Eboraceſchira. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Eves-droppers, Are ſuch as ſtand under walls or windows by night or by day, to hear news, and to carry them to others, to make ſtrife and debate among neighbours: Theſe are evil members in the commonwealth, and therefore by the ſtat. Weſt. 1. cap. 33. are to be puniſhed. And this miſdemeanor is preſentable and puniſhable in the court-leet. Kitchin, fol. 11.

Eveſque. See Biſhop, and 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Eveſque.

Evidence, (Evidentia,) Signifies generally all proof, be it teſtimony of men, records or writings. Sir Thomas Smith uſeth it in both ſenſes, lib. 2. cap. 17. in theſe words; Evidence is authentical writings of contracts, after the manner of England, that is to ſay, written, ſealed and delivered: And lib. 2. cap. 23. ſpeaking of the priſoner that ſtandeth at the bar to plead for his life, and of thoſe that charge him with felony, he ſaid thus; Then he telleth what he can ſay; after him, likewiſe all thoſe who are at the priſoner's apprehenſion, or can make any proof, which we in our language call evidence, againſt the malefactor. It is called evidence becauſe it makes the iſſue evident to the jury; for Probationes debent eſſe evidentes & perſpicuæ. Co. on Littl. fol. 283. Cowell, edit. 1727.

As in publick judicatures it is neceſſary to ſearch into the truth of facts as they really are; hence, whatever may be exhibited to a court or jury, whether it be by matter of record or writing, or by the teſtimony of witneſſes, in order to enable them to pronounce with certainty concerning the truth of any matter in diſpute, whether ſuch matter relates to a perſon's life, liberty or property, is called evidence. And as the diſcovery of truth is of the utmoſt conſequence to thſe good of ſociety, ſo it lays men under the ſtrongeſt obligations, when called upon to give their evidence, to adhere inviolably to truth; and this is a matter, not only injoined by the precepts of religion, but alſo by thoſe of reaſon; the violation of truth being a ſin againſt human ſociety, as it breaks in upon that correſpondence that is neceſſary to ſociable creatures, by deſtroying the end of language, which is the common tie and band of ſociety; and as raiſing a different idea in the mind of the hearer from that which is formed in the mind of the ſpeaker, deſtroys all intercourſe between mankind; ſo it prevents that truſt from being repoſed in them which is ſo neceſſary to their own preſervation and the good of others. 2 Bac. Abr. 284.

It hath been obſerved by Mr. Locke, that there are ſeveral degrees from perfect certainty and demonſtration, quite down to improbability and unlikelineſs, even to the confines of impoſſibility; and there are ſeveral acts of the mind proportioned to theſe degrees of evidence, which may be called the degrees of aſſent, from full aſſurance and confidencc, quite down to conjecture, doubt, diſtruſt, and diſbelief. Now what is to be done in all trials of right, is to range all matters in the ſcale of probability, ſo as to lay moſt weight where the cauſe ought to preponderate, and thereby to make the moſt exact diſcernment that can be, in relation to the right. But to come to the true knowledge of the nature of probability, 'tis neceſſary to look a little higher, and ſee what certainty is, and whence it ariſes. Gilb. L. Ev. 1, 2.

All certainty is a clear and diſtinct perception, and all diſtinct perceptions depend upon a man's own proper ſenſes; for this in the firſt place is certain, and that which we cannot doubt of if we would, that one perception or idea is not another, that one man is not another; and what belongs to one man, does not belong to another; and when perceptions are thus diſtinguiſhed, on the firſt view, it is called ſelf-evidence, or intuitive knowledge. Gilb. L. Ev. 2.

There are ſome other things whoſe agreement or difference is not known on the view, and then we compare them by the means of ſome third matter, by which we come to meaſure their agreement, diſagreement or relation. As if the queſtion be, whether certain land be the land of J. S. or J. N. and a record be produced whereby the land appears to be transferred from J. S. to J. N. Now when we ſhew any ſuch third perception, that doth neceſſarily infer the relation in queſtion, this is called knowledge by demonſtration. The way of knowledge by neceſſary inference is certainly the higheſt and cleareſt that mankind is capable of in his way of reaſoning, and therefore always to be ſought when it may be had. Gilb. L. Ev. 2, 3.

Demonſtration is generally converſant about permanent things, which being conſtantly obvious to out ſenſes, do afford to them a very clear and diſtinct compariſon; but tranſient things that cannot always occur to our ſenſes are generally more obſcure, becauſe they have no conſtant being, but muſt be retrieved by memory and recollection. Now moſt of the buſineſs of civil life ſubſiſts on the actions tions of men that are tranſient things, and therefore oftentimes are not capable of ſtrict demonſtration, which, as hath been ſaid, is founded on the view of our ſenſes, and therefore the rights of men muſt be determined by probability. But as all demonſtration is founded on the view of a man's own proper ſenſes, by a gradation of clear and diſtinct perceptions, ſo all probability is founded upon obſcure and indiſtinct views, or upon report from the ſight of others. Gilb. L. Ev. 3.

E V I

Now this in the firſt place, is very plain, that when we cannot ſee or hear any thing ourſelves, and yet are obliged to make a judgment of it, we muſt ſee and hear by report from others; which is one ſtep farther from demonſtration, which is founded upon the view of our own ſenſes; and yet there is that faith and credit to be given to the honeſty and integrity of credible and diſintereſted witneſſes, atteſting any fact under the ſolemnities and obligation of religion, and the dangers and penalties of perjury, that the mind equally acquieſces therein as on a knowledge by demonſtration, for it cannot have any more reaſon to be doubted than if we ourſelves had heard and ſeen it; and this is the original of trials, and all manner of evidence. The firſt therefore and moſt ſignal rule, in relation to evidence, is this, that a man muſt have the utmoſt evidence, the nature of the fact is capable of; for the deſign of the law is to come to rigid demonſtration in matters of right, and there can be no demonſtration of a fact without the beſt evidence that the nature of the thing is capable of; leſs evidence doth create but opinion and ſurmiſe, and does not leave a man the intire ſatisfaction, that ariſes from demonſtration; for if it be plainly ſeen in the nature of the tranſaction, that there is ſome more evidence that does not appear, the very not producing it is a preſumption, that it would have detected ſomething more than appears already, and therefore the mind does not acquieſce in any thing lower than the utmoſt evidence the fact is capable of. Gilb. L. Ev. 4, 5.

From the importance therefore of evidence, the wiſdom of our laws has laid down ſeveral rules relating to it, which ſhall be conſidered under the following heads.

1. Who may, and may not, be good witneſſes in general.

2. Who may, and may not, be witneſſes in reſpect of their being intereſted.

3. Of the number of witneſſes required by our laws; of compelling a witneſs to appear; of non-appearance, and of the manner of giving evidence.

4. Of written evidence, and what ſhall be admitted evidence.

5. Of parol, preſumptive and hearſay evidence.

1. Who may, and may not, be good witneſſes in general.

All perſons may be witneſſes who appear to have ſufficient diſcretion, and who from their principles muſt be preſumed to have a right ſenſe of the ſanctity of an oath, and of the obligations it lays them under to depoſe the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; therefore infants, aliens, villains, bondmen, &c. may be witneſſes. Co. Lit. 6.

The depoſitions of witneſſes of the Gentou religion in the Eaſt Indies, ſworn according to their ceremonies, ought upon the ſpecial circumſtances of the caſe to be read as evidence. Atkyns's Rep. 21.

The Jews, before their expulſion from England, and ſince their return to it, have been conſtantly admitted as witneſſes. Per Willes Ch. J. Atkyns's Rep. 44.

A Jew may be a witneſs, being ſworn on the old Teſtament. 2 Keb. 314.

If infidels do not believe a God, or rewards and puniſhments hereafter, they ought not to be admitted as witneſſes. Per Willes Ch. J. Atkyns's Rep. 45.

No quaker, or reputed quaker, ſhall be qualified to give evidence in any criminal cauſe, by virtue of the ſtatute 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 34.

By ſtat. 4 & 5 Anne, cap. 16. All witneſſes who ought to be allowed good witneſſes upon trials at law, ſhall be deemed good witneſſes to prove any nuncupative will.

An infant of the age of nine years has been allowed to give evidence. H. P. C. 263.

One produced to be an evidence againſt the appellee, who was under twelve years of age, and the appellee's counſel objected to him for that reaſon, and beſides they ſaid he had taken money. Holt Ch. J. ſaid, that if he knew the danger of an oath, he might be an evidence; and that appearing he was admitted. 11 Mod. 228. B. R. pl. 2. Trin. 8 Anne. Young v. Slaughterford.

Huſband and wife are conſidered as one and the ſame perſon in law, and to have the ſame affections and intereſt, from which it has been eſtabliſhed as a general rule, that the huſband cannot be a witneſs for or againſt the wife, nor the wife be a witneſs for or againſt the huſband, by reaſon of the implacable diſſenſion which might be cauſed by it, and the great danger of perjury from taking the oaths of perſons under ſo great a biaſs, and the extreme hardſhip of the caſe. Co. Lit. 6. b. 2 Rol. Abr. 686. pl. 4. H. P. C. 263. 1 Brownl. 47. Hutton 116. Raym. 1. 2 Keb. 403. 2. Haw. P. C. 431.

Hence it hath been adjudged, that the huſband cannot be a witneſs againſt the wife, nor the wife againſt the huſband to prove the firſt marriage, on an indictment on the ſtatute of 1 Jac. 1. cap. 11. for a ſecond marriage; but the ſecond huſband or wife may be allowed to give evidence, ſuch ſecond marriage being void, and therefore they were never huſband and wife. Raym. 1. State Trials, vol. 4. fol. 754.

But ſome exceptions have been allowed to this general rule, eſpecially in caſes of evident neceſſity; and therefore it hath been adjudged, and is the conſtant practice at this day, that on an indictment for a forcible marriage grounded on the 3 H. 7. the wife may be a witneſs againſt the huſband; ſo where huſband and wife have cauſe to demand ſureties of the peace againſt each other. See 1 Sid. 431. Cro. Car. 488. 1 Vent. 243, 244. 4 Mod. 8. 2 Hawk. P. C. 432.

Alſo in Lord Audley's caſe, who held his wife's hands and legs while his ſervant, by his command, raviſhed her, the wife was admitted an evidence. Hutt. 116. 2 Hawk. P. C. 432. But in Raym. 1. this caſe is denied to be law; and in Vent. 244. it is doubted of by Lord Ch. J. Hale, becauſe here is a wife de jure, and ſo not like the caſe, where a woman is admitted to prove a forcible marriage.

Alſo in Raym. 1. it is ſaid, that a huſband and wife may be witneſſes againſt one another in treaſon; but the contrary is adjudged in 1 Brownl. 47. and with this laſt book, 2 Hawk. P. C. 432. ſeems to agree.

By ſtat. 21 Jac. 19. ſ. 6. "The commiſſioners ſhall have power to examine the wife of a bankrupt upon oath for the diſcovery of his eſtate, goods, and chattels, and ſuch wife refuſing to appear, or to anſwer interrogatories, ſhall incur the ſame penalties as are provided againſt other perſons in the like caſes."

In ejectment, the plaintiff made title to his leſſor to the land in queſtion, as ſon and heir of Jerome Jacques, and Hannah his wife, in right of Hannah. The defendant gave in evidence, that Jerome Jacques was married, before he was married to Hannah; and the woman, to whom it was ſuppoſed he was married before, was produced at the trial, Summer aſſizes 13 W. 3. at Maidſtone, to prove this marriage. The counſel for the plaintiff approved her teſtimony, becauſe ſhe ſwore for her advantage, viz. to have a huſband, the huſband then being living. But nevertheleſs, Gould Juſtice of B. R. then judge of aſſize, admitted her teſtimony. But afterwards the ſame cauſe, upon the ſame title, between the ſame parties, was tried before Holt, Chief Juſtice, at the aſſize in March at Maidſtone, 1 Ann. and he refuſed, after the debate, to admit the former wife to be a witneſs for this purpoſe; but upon other evidences, the former marriage was proved to the ſatisfaction of the jury, being gentlemen, whereupon they found a verdict for the defendant. But in the former trial before Gould Juſtice, the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff. 2 Lord Raym. Rep. 752. 1 Ann. 1701-2. Broughton v. Harper.

E V I

A woman is not bound to be ſworn, or to give evidence againſt another, in caſe of theft, &c. if her huſband be concerned, tho' it be material againſt another, and not directly againſt her huſband. 2 Hale's Hiſt. Pl. C. 301.

If a feme covert acknowledge a thing at a trial, which is for the preſent advantage of her huſband, but is for her own future diſadvantage, yet this is no good evidence to a jury, Mich. 23 Car. B. R. for her huſband's advantages are her's alſo, and are more look'd upon than her future diſadvantage. L. P. R. 550.

In an information for a cheat, baron and feme were diſcharged of a judgment entered into by the feme (to a matchmaker on payment of 100 l. which he retook of her again preſently in another room) upon the evidence of the wife. Sid. 431. pl. 20. Mich. 21 Car. 2. B. R. King v. Paris. & al'.

The wife executrix to her huſband, married a ſecond huſband; a bill is exhibited againſt them to diſcover the truſt; the huſband and wife diſagreed in the matter, and put in ſeverally their anſwers; the huſband denied the truſt, but the wife confeſſed it. The cauſe proceeded to hearing, and the plaintiff proved the truſt only by one witneſs, which the plaintiff inſiſted on, with the wife's confeſſion, to be ſufficient, the matter being but in that wherein ſhe was concern'd as executrix. But the bill was diſmiſſed, quia the wife's anſwer ſhall not bind the huſband; ex relatione Sir John Churchill and ſerjeant Rawlinſon. Chan. Caſes 39. Trin. 32 Car. 2. Anon'.

In an indictment proſecuted by the huſband for ſeducing away his wife, and keeping her ſome time in adultery, the wife was admitted to be a witneſs againſt the defendant coram Juſtice Wyndham at Lent aſſizes at Ayleſbury, and the defendant found guilty. She may be a witneſs to prove a cheat upon her and her huſband. L. E. 55. pl. 12. cites T. p. Pais 160.

The plaintiffs were infants, and the children of the defendant's wife by a former huſband; their bill was to have an account of the eſtate left them by their father, and of the produce thereof. Upon the hearing it was referred to an account, and the defendant and his wife were to be examined on interrogatories for diſcovery of the eſtate; the wife being at variance with the huſband, and living apart from him, upon her examination, made the eſtate of the plaintiffs (who were her children) as great as ſhe could, and thereupon to fix the charge upon the huſband. The plaintiffs, upon a petition to the Maſter of the Rolls, obtained an order to examine the wife as a witneſs againſt the huſband de bene eſſe, and the maſter upon her evidence, had charged the huſband with ſeveral ſums of money, as intereſt, and produce of the infant's eſtate; but now, upon exceptions to the report, the Lord Chancellor diſallowed her evidence, and declared the wife could not be a witneſs againſt her huſband. 2 Vern. 70. pl. 11. Trin. 1688. Cole v. Gray.

It ſeems agreed, that it is no exception againſt a perſon's giving evidence, either for or againſt a priſoner, that he is one of the judges who is to try him; and therefore in the caſe of Hacker, two of the perſons in the commiſſion for the trial came off from the bench, and were ſworn and gave evidence, and did not go up to the bench again during the trial. 2 Hawk. P. C. 432. Kelyn. 12. 1 Sid. 133. Style 233.

When a juryman, who was hearing evidence with his companions, was ſworn to give evidence upon prayer of defendant's counſel, and he gave evidence publickly to his companions, and yet continued of the jury. Sid. 133. in a nota at pl. 3. Paſch. 15 Car. 2. B. R.

The jury may go upon evidence of their own perſonal knowledge, being returned de vicineto; per Vaughan Ch. J. Vaughan 147. in Buſhell's caſe.

The judge would not ſuffer a grand juryman to be produced as a witneſs, to ſwear what was given in evidence to them, becauſe he is ſworn not to reveal the ſecrets of his companions. Clayt. 84. pl. 14.

It ſeems agreed, that neither counſellors, attornies or ſolicitors are obliged to give evidence, or to diſcover ſuch matters as came to their knowledge in the way of their profeſſion; for by the duty of their offices they are obliged to conceal their clients ſecrets, and every thing that they are intruſted with, is ſub ſigillo confeſſoris; for were it otherwiſe, no perſon could ever with ſafety employ a counſel, &c. Style 449. 1 Keb. 505.

But as the inconveniency would be very great, if a counſel, &c. were not at all to be made uſe of as witneſſes, for by this means every ſuch perſon's evidence may be taken off by giving him a fee; ſo the courts have come to this mean, &c. upon every queſtion, to aſk him if he knew it of his own knowledge, or from his client, &c. for tho' the oath is general, to ſwear the whole truth; yet the intention thereof, and of the law, is only, that he ſhould declare what he knew of his own knowledge, and not to reveal what he was intruſted with by his client. 1 Vent. 197. Skin. 404.

Queſtion was, whether one who had been an attorney for defendant ſhould be compelled to be a witneſs; and Darnell ſaid, This being a criminal matter he ſhould, but not ſo in a civil matter. But Pratt ſaid, that if he be ſworn, we muſt aſk him his whole knowledge, and perhaps he cannot diſcover that without charging himſelf, for if one's declaration generally may be made uſe of againſt him, a fortiori what he ſays upon oath ſhall; and this ſeemed to weigh with the court. But Holt ſaid, he was of opinion againſt his brothers ſome years before, in the caſe of one Holford, that any thing an attorney knew, otherwiſe than quatenus an attorney, he ought to declare. But his brothers held, an attorney ought not upon any account to be received to reveal his client's ſecrets; and Holt ſaid, If a client bring a forged deed to counſel, the counſel ought to proſecute him, and that he had known ſuch a thing done. 12 Mod. 341. Mich. 11 W. 3. in the caſe of The King v. Warden of the Fleet.

On a trial at bar in B. R. in ejectment, whether there was a proper and good tenant to the præcipe to a common recovery ſuffered in Mich. term; a bargain and ſale was produced dated before that term, but in fact executed afterwards; it was propoſed to prove this by Mr. Knight an attorney, againſt whom it was objected for that he was an attorney in the cauſe, and he ought not to be examined to diſcover the ſecrets of his clients; but it was ruled, that it was the privilege of the client, and not of the attorney, not to be examined; for where a counſel or attorney is intruſted by his client, and his ſecrets are diſcovered to him, he receives them under a truſt of ſecrecy which he is not to break; neither ought he to aſſiſt the other party; ſo that what the client tells him, he ſhall not go and diſcover; but the queſtion here is, when the deed was executed, and whether by the party or not, for he was concerned in paſſing this recovery, and he preſent at the execution of the deed; it is an act of his own knowledge, he is to teſtify and ſhew the truth only concerning this deed, and any one might know this as well as an attorney. Knight being examined ſaid, the deed was executed about the latter end of February or the beginning of March. 10 Mod. 40. Mich. 10 Ann. B. R. Lord Say and Seal's caſe.

In an action of treſpaſs againſt ſeveral perſons, one of them, whom the plaintiff deſigned to make uſe of as a witneſs, was by miſtake made a defendant, and on motion the court gave him leave to admit him, and have his name ſtruck out of the record, tho' after iſſue joined, in order to have the benefit of his teſtimony. 1 Sid. 441. But ſee Style 401, 404. Savil 34. 2 Rol. Abr. 685.

According to the law and practice in the courts of equity, defendants in a cauſe may be witneſſes, for they are forced into the cauſe; and if their being made parties ſhould abſolutely invalidate their teſtimony, it would be in the power of any one, who had a mind to oppreſs another, to deprive him of his defence, by making the moſt material witneſſes defendants in the ſuit; and therefore any of the defendants to a ſuit may be examined as witneſſes, ſaving juſt exceptions to their credit. 2 Chan. Ca. 214. 1 Vern. 230.

But plaintiffs cannot examine each other as witneſſes in the cauſe; becauſe if the cauſe miſcarries, the plaintiffs will be liable to coſts, and therefore their ſwearing is to exempt themſelves. 1 Vern. 230. Abr. Eq. 225.

And

And the practice is, that if a plaintiff wants to examine a defendant as a witneſs, he muſt obtain an order by motion or petition for that purpoſe; this order is of courſe, and muſt be ſerved on the adverſe party's clerk in court; alſo the defendant may obtain the like order to examine a co-defendant as a witneſs for him; but all theſe orders are upon ſuggeſtion, that the defendant is not concerned in point of intereſt in the matters in queſtion, and they are never granted but with a clauſe of (ſaving juſt exceptions to the other ſide); and this muſt be made at the hearing of the cauſe; and this order for examining a defendant muſt be produced at the Commiſſion-Office, or in the Examiner's, when the defendant attends to be examined, without which he cannot be examined; for it is by virtue of that order, and the authority given them by the court, that impower them to examine him, and they cannot do it otherwiſe. 2 Bac. Abr. 287, 288.

As to accomplices in crimes being witneſſes for or againſt their companions, the following particulars are laid down as law by Mr. Serjeant Hawkins: Firſt, That it hath been long ſettled, that it is no exception againſt a witneſs, that he hath confeſſed himſelf guilty of the ſame crime, if he hath not been indicted for it; for if no accomplices were to be admitted as witneſſes, it would be generally impoſſible to find evidence to convict the greateſt offenders. Alſo it hath been often ruled, that accomplices who are indicted, are good witneſſes for the King, until they be convicted. Alſo it hath been adjudged, that ſuch of the defendants in an information, againſt whom no evidence is given, may be witneſſes for the others. It hath alſo been adjudged, that where A. B. and C. are ſued in three ſeveral actions on the ſtatute, for a ſuppoſed perjury in their evidences concerning the ſame thing, they may be good witneſſes in ſuch actions for one another. 2 Hawk. P. C. 432.

It ſeems now agreed, that a conviction, and therefore a fortiori an attainder or judgment of treaſon, felony, piracy, præmunire, or perjury, or of forgery on 5 Eliz. and alſo a judgment in attaint for giving a falſe verdict, or in conſpiracy at the ſuit of the King, and alſo judgment for any crime whatſoever to ſtand in the pillory, or to be whipped or branded, being in a court which had a juriſdiction, are good cauſes of exception againſt a witneſs, while they continue in force. 2 Hawk. P. C. 432. See Skin. 578—9.

But no ſuch conviction or judgment can be made uſe of to this purpoſe, unleſs the record be actually produced in court; alſo it is a general rule, that a witneſs ſhall not be aſked any queſtion, the anſwering to which might oblige him to accuſe himſelf of a crime, and that his credit is to be impeached only by general accounts of his character and reputation, and not by proofs of particular crimes whereof he never was convicted. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433.

It is alſo agreed, that outlawry in a perſonal action is not a good exception againſt a witneſs, as it is againſt a juror, and that a perſon convicted of felony, who is admitted to his clergy, and burnt in the hand, is thereby re-enabled to be a witneſs. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433.

Alſo it ſeems agreed, that the King's pardon of treaſon or felony after a conviction or attainder, reſtores the party to his credit; and it is holden by Chief Juſtice Holt, that the King's pardon will remove a man's diſability to be a witneſs in all caſes whatſoever, wherein it is only the conſequence of the conviction or judgment againſt him, and not an expreſs part of the judgment, as it is in conſpiracy at the ſuit of the King, and in perjury on the ſtatute. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433.

It hath been ruled, that a conviction of perjury doth not diſable a man from making an affidavit in relation to the irregularity of a judgment. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433.

There is a difference where the diſability is only the conſequence, and where it is part of the judgment itſelf. In the firſt caſe, the King may pardon it, but in the ſecond caſe, the King's pardon will not take away the diſability. Therefore, if a man be convict of perjury on the ſtatute, the King's pardon will not reſtore, for it is not a conſequence, but part of the judgment, quod in poſterum non ſit receptus ac teſtis. Co. Ent. 368. But a pardon by act of parliament, will reſtore him, even in that caſe; quære of a perjury at Common law, and if the law be the ſame, for there the diſability is only the conſequence, and no part of the judgment, otherwiſe if a jury be convict in attaint. Raſt. 86. a. cited 2 Salk. 689. Paſch. 7 W. 3. B. R. King v. Croſby.

A perſon convict of perjury upon the ſtatute, and pardoned, cannot be a witneſs, for the puniſhment is part of the judgment, appointed by the ſtatute; contra of a conviction at Common law, for there it is only a conſequential diſability; therefore in the latter caſe the King may pardon, and that reſtores him to his teſtimony; but in the former caſe, he muſt reverſe the judgment, or he cannot be reſtored. Per cur'. 2 Salk. 514. Mich. 9 W. 3. B. R. in caſe of the King v. Grepe.

A bare conviction of perjury would take away one's evidence; becauſe it is an infamous crime; not ſo of barratry, which was not of an infamous nature, without an infamous puniſhment were inflicted, as the pillory, &c. Arg. But the whole court held contra, and that it was not the nature of the puniſhment, but the nature of the crime, and the conviction thereof, that created the infamy; and per Holt. Ch. J. If one be convicted of perjury on the ſtatute, he cannot be reſtored to his credit by the King's pardon; for by the ſtatute, it is part of the judgment that he be infamous, and loſe his credit, but he may be reſtored to his credit by a ſtatute pardon; but in indictments of perjury, at Common law, the infamy is only the conſequence of the judgment; and therefore the King's pardon in ſuch caſes reſtores the party to his credit; held upon a trial at bar. 2 Salk. 690, 691. pl. 3. Mich. 12 Will. 3. B. R. in caſe of The King v. Ford.

Hawkins having a great perſonal eſtate, and being a priſoner in Newgate for opprobrious words of the Lord Mayor of London, and a little diſturbed in his mind, made his will; atteſted by ſeveral witneſſes; and upon hearing the cauſe in the Prerogative court, ſentence was given againſt the will; and upon an appeal to the delegates, two records were produced to avoid the teſtimony of two witneſſes to the will, by which it appeared, that one of them was convicted for a libel, and the other for ſinging a ballad againſt the government, and both of them adjudged to the pillory, but no proof that they ſtood in it; after theſe witneſſes were examined in the ſpiritual court, and before ſentence given, there came a general pardon, by which they were pardoned; and the queſtion now was, whether their depoſitions taken in the ſpiritual court ſhall be admitted as evidence. It was agreed, that if their teſtimony was not good at the time it was taken, the ſubſequent pardon would not make it good, and that the judgment of pillory makes the infamy, though never executed; but the chief queſtion was, whether the judgment for theſe crimes ſhould make them infamous, becauſe (as it was objected) it is not from the judgment, but from the nature of the crimes for which the offenders are convicted, that the infamy ariſes; as for ſuch crimes as import deceit and fraud, or cheats, &c. And if one is convicted of cheating, yet he may be a witneſs, if he has not judgment of pillory for it. And though pillory infers infamy at the Common law, yet it imports no ſuch thing either by the Canon or Civil law, unleſs the cauſe for which it is inflicted is infamous, and it is by theſe laws that this caſe (being concerning a will) is to be determined; therefore the matter for which theſe witneſſes were convicted, being not infamous, either by the Canon or Civil law, though they had judgment for the pillory, their depoſitions were admitted for evidence, and the ſentence in the Prerogative court reverſed, and the will ſentenced to be good. 3 Lev. 426. Trin. 7 Will. 3. before the delegates at Serjeants Inn in Fleet-ſtreet, Chator v. Hawkins, &c.

E V I

2. Who may, and who may not, be witneſſes in reſpect of their being intereſted.

It has been always held a ſacred and inviolable rule of evidence in all caſes whatſoever, not to admit the teſtimony of a witneſs, who is either to be a gainer or loſer by the event of the cauſe, whether ſuch advantage be direct or immediate, or conſequential only. Co. Lit. 6, 1 Sid. 237. And this rule has been ſo ſtrictly adhered to, that it is ſaid, that though a witneſs is examined an hour together; yet if in any part of his evidence it appears, that he was a party intereſted, the court will direct the jury, that he is no witneſs, nor his evidence to he regarded. 2 Vern. 463. But if a witneſs, who lies under an objection of this kind, be croſs-examined by the adverſe party, this makes him a good witneſs, and his credit muſt be left with the jury. 1 Vern. 254.

From this general rule ſeveral doubts and difficulties have aroſe, with regard to thoſe caſes where the party may be ſaid to have an intereſt, and from the extreme difficulty attending certain particular caſes, which ſeem in ſeveral inſtances to leave this matter very unſettled, and which can only be learned from the nature and circumſtances of the caſes themſelves. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433—4.

Therefore it has been held, that an heir apparent may be a witneſs concerning the title of the land, for the heirſhip of the heir is a mere contingency; but if there be tenant in tail, remainder in tail, he in remainder cannot be a witneſs concerning the title of thoſe lands; for he hath an eſtate, ſuch as it is. 1 Salk. 283.

It ſeems to be agreed, that one commoner cannot be a witneſs to prove the right of common in an action brought by another; for the right being intire, his ſwearing tends to intitle himſelf. Skin. 174.

So where the maſter of a ſhip brought an action againſt the cuſtom-houſe officers, for refuſing to clear his ſhip, and redeliver his cockets; and it was held, that the owners of the goods on board could not be admitted as witneſſes to prove him maſter, &c. for that they were all concerned in one bottom, and in one adventure. Skin. 174.

In an action againſt the maſter of a ſhip, for ſo negligently managing the ſhip, that it ran over the plaintiff's barge: it was held, that the pilot could not be a witneſs, becauſe he was anſwerable, if faulty in ſteering, to the maſter. 1 Salk. 287.

The maſter of a ſhip took a prize, and diſpoſed of 100 cheſts of lemons to A. for which he brought his action, and a mariner was allowed to be ſworn as a witneſs, though it appeared, that by the admirality law he was to have a ſhare of the prize; for the maſter is accountable to the mariners for their ſhare, which they ſhall recover from him, whether he recovers in this action or not. Skin. 403.

It ſeems agreed clearly, that a legatee in a will cannot be a witneſs to prove the will, becauſe he is preſumed to be partial in ſwearing for his own intereſt. Hard. 331. 2 Salk. 691.

But a legatee may be a witneſs againſt the will, for when he ſwears againſt the will, he ſwears againſt his own intereſt, and is therefore the ſtrongeſt witneſs. 2 Salk 691. —So freemen of a corporation were allowed witneſſes againſt the corporation. 2 Show. 146.

A legatee may be examined as a witneſs to prove a deed or other thing which has no relation to the will. Style 370.—So if the parſon ſues one of his pariſhioners for tithes, who pleads a modus, the other pariſhoners, though they cannot be witneſſes as to the cuſtom, yet they may well be witneſſes as to the value of the tithes.

But if the legacy be ſo inconſiderable, as that he cannot be preſumed to be biaſſed by it; as if it be 5 s. to a private perſon, or 5 l. to a nobleman, it is ſaid that he may be a witneſs for the will. 1 Vern. 254. See 2 Vern. 317. where it is ſaid, that the minuteneſs of the intereſt is no objection, and that therefore where the party is concerned in intereſt, though never ſo ſmall, he cannot be a witneſs, and ſee 1 Vent. 351.

Where a witneſs hath a legacy by the will, by a releaſe of the legacy, though at the trial, he becomes diſintereſted, and ſo is a good witneſs. 1 Sid. 315.——So a bankrupt, who has aſſigned and releaſed all his eſtate and right to the aſſignees, may be examined as a witneſs for them. 2 Vern. 637.

So if J. S. deviſes lands to A. and the will is ſigned, ſealed and publiſhed in the preſence of the ſaid A. and B. and C. who atteſted the ſame; yet this is no good will to paſs thoſe lands; for the ſtatute of frauds requires three or more competent witneſſes, which A. cannot be, being concerned in the intereſt as a deviſee of the lands, and therefore not a credible witneſs. Carth. 514.

It is ſaid by Hale Ch. Juſt. that he knew it to have been adjudged, that an executor in a cauſe concerning the teſtator's eſtate, if he hath not the ſurpluſage given to him by the will, may be a witneſs for the will. 1 Mod. 107. The children of an inteſtate cannot, by reaſon of their intereſt, under the ſtatute of diſtributions, be witneſſes in any thing relating to the inteſtate's eſtate. Skin. 223.

He, who borrows money upon an uſurious contract, cannot be a witneſs upon an information for the uſury (unleſs he hath paid the money) whether ſuch information be brought by himſelf or any other; for if in ſuch caſe a man might be a witneſs, he would in effect ſwear for himſelf, by proving a matter which may avoid his own contract. Co. Lit. 6. b. 2 Rol. Abr. 685. Raym. 191. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433.

Hence alſo it hath been held, that he, who by a ſlight has been impoſed upon to ſet his hand to a note for more money than he intended, is no good witneſs on an information for the cheat; becauſe a conviction may be a means to avoid the note, by being made uſe of by the party when ſued upon it, as a motive to influence the jury, which cannot well be prevented, though in law it be no evidence. 1 Salk. 283. But ſee 1 Sid. 431. 1 Vent. 49. 2 Keb. 572.

Alſo it ſeems generally agreed, that he, whoſe property may be prejudiced by a forgery, is no evidence to prove it on an indictment or information. 1 Salk. 283. And if it be a forgery within 5 Eliz. a farther reaſon is given in 2 Hawk. P. C. 433. why ſuch perſon cannot be an evidence, namely, becauſe he may have an action on the ſtatute.

So upon this reaſon it hath been adjudged, that he, againſt whom a verdict is given, cannot be a witneſs to prove perjury in the evidence. 2 Rol. Abr. 685.

Yet notwithſtanding theſe caſes, and the force of theſe reaſons, there are ſeveral inſtances, where, in caſes of neceſſity, (as on the ſtat. of robberies, a man ſwears for himſelf, becauſe there can be no other witneſs. 3 Mod. 114, 115.) a perſon to whoſe damage an indictment (as in an indictment for a battery, &c. 2 Haw. P. C. 433.) or information concludes, has been allowed and admitted an evidence, and his credit left to the jury. 1 Sid. 211, 237. 2 Keb. 384. 1 Salk 286.

If the warden of the Fleet ſuffers a voluntary eſcape, and an inquiſition, by virtue of a ſpecial commiſſion iſſuing out of Chancery, is taken thereof, which he traverſes, the perſon eſcaping, though he gave a bond to be a true priſoner, is a good witneſs to prove the eſcape; for this does not make the bond void, as a conviction on the ſtatute of uſury does; beſides, this is a matter privately tranſacted between the party and officer, of which there can be no other evidence. 2 Salk. 690.

Upon this rule, that an intereſted perſon cannot be a competent witneſs, it has been often doubted, how far a freeman of a corporation, the inhabitants of a hundred or pariſh, ſhould be admitted as witneſſes in matters which concern thoſe places; and here it is ſaid, that no general rule can be laid down, but that every caſe muſt ſtand upon its own particular circumſtances, viz. whether the intereſt be of that nature or ſo conſiderable as by preſumption to produce partiality in the witneſſes. See 1 Sid. 192. 2 Lev. 231. 2 Jon. 116. 2 Lev. 236.

Hence in an information in nature of a Quo warranto, for taking 1 d. per chaldron for all ſea-coals brought to London, where the defendants preſcribed for the duty, upon which iſſue was taken, and tried at the bar, it was held, that the freemen of London were good witneſſes to prove the preſcription, though the mayor, &c. have the whole profit of this toll, which is for the benefit of the corporation, of which all the citizens and freemen are members; for it cannot be preſumed, that for an advantage ſo ſmall and ſo remote, they would be partial, and perjure themſelves. 2 Lev. 231.

So in the caſe of the city of London, concerning the duty of water-bailage, where the mayor and commonalty brought an indebitatus aſſumpſit againſt A. B. for 5*l.* for ſo much due to them for divers tons of wine brought from beyond the ſeas to the port of London, at 4 d. per ton; and ſome freemen being produced as witneſſes, it was objected, that the commonalty of London comprehending all the freemen, this made them intereſted in the ſucceſs of the cauſe; but it was held by three judges againſt one, that ſo ſmall and remote an intereſt did not diſable them from being competent witneſſes, yet they were laid aſide by conſent. 1 Vent 351. In 1 Vern. 254. it is held generally, that freemen of a corporation cannot be witneſſes, and this caſe is there cited, as a caſe in which evidence was rejected, and ſo ſaid to be reſolved. 2 Vern. 317.

At a trial at bar concerning boundaries of lands; the parſon of the one pariſh, the land lying in two pariſhes, was refuſed, becauſe he might enlarge his own pariſh, and by conſequence the tithes; but one, who about ſeven years before had taken the profits, under the title of one of the parties, was received a witneſs, becauſe now he might plead the ſtatute of limitations. Fareſt. 63.

It is ſaid to have been ruled on evidence at a trial at bar, that if a remainder after an eſtate for life be limited to the miniſter and churchwardens of a certain pariſh, for the uſe and benefit of the poor of the pariſh, that any of the pariſhoners may be witneſſes to prove this deviſe. 2 Sid. 109.

In an action againſt the hundred, upon the ſtatute of Winton, an hundredor cannot be a witneſs. 1 Vent. 351. In 1 Mod. 73. S. P. though he be poor, and pays no taxes nor pariſh-duties; for when the money recovered of the hundred comes to be levied, he may then be worth ſomething; but ſervants, and thoſe who receive alms, may be witneſſes. 2 Keb. 73. S. P.

On an indictment againſt the county for not repairing a bridge, it has been doubted, whether an inhabitant of the county could be a witneſs. 1 Vent. 351.

But now by the ſtat. 1 Ann. cap. 18. ſect. 13. reciting, that whereas many private perſons, or bodies politick or corporate, are of right obliged to repair decayed bridges, and the highways thereunto adjoining; but becauſe the inhabitants of the county, riding or diviſion, in which ſuch decayed bridges, or highways lie, have not been allowed, upon informations or indictments brought againſt ſuch perſon or perſons, bodies politick or corporate, for not repairing ſuch decayed bridges and the highways thereunto adjoining, by the judges before whom ſuch information or indictment is to be tried, to be legal witneſſes; it is enacted, "That in all informations or indictments to be brought and tried in any of her Majeſty's courts of record at Weſtminſter, or at the aſſiſes or quarter ſeſſions of the peace, the evidence of the inhabitants, being credible perſons, or any of them of the town, corporation, county, riding or diviſion, in which ſuch decayed bridge or highway lies, ſhall be taken and admitted in all ſuch caſes in the courts aforeſaid."

And by the ſtat. 3 & 4 W. 3. cap. 11. "In all actions to be brought in the courts of Weſtminſter, or at the aſſizes, for money miſpent by churchwardens, the evidence of the pariſhioners, other than ſuch as receive alms, ſhall be taken and admitted."

Pariſhioner may be a witneſs on a proſecution for keeping a bawdy-houſe, &c. by ſtat. Geo. 2. c. 36. ſect. 9.

If there be a diſpute between two pariſhes, which of them ſhall repair a certain highway, the inhabitants of neither of the pariſhes can be witneſſes. 4 Mod. 48, 49.

On the rule, that an intereſted perſon cannot be a witneſs, the time and manner of a witneſſes's becoming intereſted ſeems alſo material; and therefore it has been held, that it is no good exception againſt a witneſs, that he hath a promiſe of a reward, on condition of giving his evidence, eſpecially unleſs ſuch reward be promiſed by the perſon for whoſe benefit he is to ſwear, and by way of contract for giving ſuch and ſuch particular evidence; alſo it hath been held, that a witneſs's laying a wager about the ſucceſs of the cauſe, is no objection againſt his being ſworn as a witneſs, for the party hath an intereſt in his teſtimony, which to deprive him of by his own act would be unreaſonable. Skin. 586.

Hence it hath been held, that on a ſcire facias againſt the King's patentee, a perſon, who has a promiſe of being made a deputy, may be a witneſs. 1 Mod. 21.

But it has been held, that if ſeveral perſons lay wagers at a horſe-race, &c. and an action is brought againſt one of them for the money loſt, that a better on the ſame ſide cannot be a witneſs for him who loſt; but if ſuch perſon acknowledges that he loſt the wager, and pays the money he may be a witneſs. 3 Lev. 152, 153.

It has been held in Chancery, that if a perſon is examined as a witneſs, who is no ways concerned in intereſt, and afterwards he becomes heir at law, and thereby intereſted in the matter, that notwithſtanding his depoſitions, when thus diſintereſted, may be read, even at a trial at law; and that it was like the caſe, where the only ſurviving witneſs to a deed becomes the party intereſted, or where a witneſs to a deed becomes blind; in which caſes his hand may be proved at law. 2. Vern. 699. Abr. Eq. 224. But at a trial at bar in C. B. on an iſſue directed out of Chancery, the judges refuſed to have ſuch depoſitions read, becauſe the witneſs was ſtill living. Abr. Eq. 224. But in 2 Vern. 699. ſuch depoſitions were read in Chancery, and there ſaid, that the reaſon of rejecting ſcuh evidence at law was, becauſe it was againſt the rule, viz. that where the witneſs is living, and might be produced at the trial, the depoſition of ſuch witneſſes cannot be read.

A witneſs was examined whilſt ſhe was intereſted, before the hearing; and the cauſe being heard and decreed to an account, ſhe was re-examined efter the hearing, before the maſter, on the account, having firſt releaſed her intereſt; and it was objected, that ſhe ought not to be read, for having been examined whilſt intereſted, and her depoſitions publiſhed, ſhe was thereby engaged, and almoſt under a neceſſity of ſtanding to what ſhe had before ſworn, and could not be free to retract or contradict it; but the Lord Keeper over-ruled the objection. 2 Vern. 472.

It is no good exception againſt a witneſs, that he has a maintenance from the King or other perſon, for every one may maintain his own witneſſes; nor is it any exception againſt a witneſs, that he has received a reward for having made a diſcovery of the crime to be proved againſt the priſoner, nor that he hath the promiſe of a pardon on condition of giving his evidence. 2 Hawk. P. C. 434.

3. Of the number of witneſſes required by our laws; of compelling a witneſs to appear; of non-appearance, and of the manner of giving evidence.

It is holden by my Lord Chief Juſtice Holt, that at Common law it was not neceſſary in any caſe, that a proof of matter of fact ſhould be made by more than one witneſs, and that the ſingle teſtimony of one credible witneſs was ſufficient to prove any fact, and that the authorities cited by my Lord Coke (Co. Lit. 6. a.) do not warrant the opinion founded on them. Carth. 144.

But the Civil law requires two witneſſes to prove a fact; and therefore it has been holden, that if the ſpiritual court, which proceeds according to the Civil and Canon law, refuſes, where a temporal matter is pleaded in bar of an Eccleſiaſtical demand, to admit the evidence of one witneſs, they ſhall be prohibited; as where an executor proves payment of a legacy by one witneſs,

&c. 1 Show. 158. 1 Vent. 291. Carth. 142. 4 Mod. 285. 2 Salk. 547.

Hence it hath been eſtabliſhed as a fundamental rule in the courts of equity, that a decree cannot be made on the teſtimony of one ſingle witneſs againſt the flat and poſitive denial of a fact by the defendant's anſwer; becauſe the oath of the party is ever looked upon in equity to be as good as the oath of a ſingle perſon. 1 Show. 158. 1 Vent. 291. Carth. 142. 4 Mod. 285. 2 Salk. 547.

Yet caſes may, and do often fall out, that the court may ground a decree upon the oath of a ſingle witneſs, attended with other circumſtances to corroborate it; as where the anſwer of the party appears to be notoriouſly falſified, by which means it comes to loſe that credit which otherwiſe it would and ought juſtly to have. See 2 Vern. 554. Abr. Eq. 229.

Alſo by ſeveral acts of parliament, a certain number of witneſſes is required as by the 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. "That all deviſes of lands ſhall be atteſted and ſubſcribed in the preſence of the teſtator, by three or four credible witneſſes, or elſe ſhall be void." And by the 7 W. 3. c. 3. it is enacted, "That no perſons ſhall be indicted, tried, or attainted for high treaſon, but upon the oaths of two lawful witneſſes, either both of them to the ſame overt-act, or one of them to one, and the other of them to another overt-act, of the ſame treaſon."

There muſt be one witneſs to one, and another witneſs to another overt-act of the ſame ſpecies of treaſon, or at leaſt one witneſs to an overt-act, and another to a material circumſtance to prove it. 2 Hawk. P. C. 428.

It is held to be maintenance for a perſon officiouſly to give evidence in a cauſe, without being called upon to do it; alſo if a man, who is not ſubpœna'd, happens to be in court during a trial, he ſhall not be forced to be ſworn againſt his will; but if he conſents, the want of a ſubpœna is not material; alſo in certain caſes, the court will in diſcretion wait till a ſubpœna can be procured. 28 Hen. 6. 6. a. 11 Hen. 6. 4. b. Bro. Maintenance 5, 51. 2 Rol. Abr. 118.

From hence it follows, that the parties have a right to proceſs to bring in their witneſſes, and to this purpoſe it is enacted by 5 Eliz. cap. 9. ſect. 12. "That if any perſon or perſons, upon whom any proceſs out of any of the courts of record within this realm, or Wales, ſhall be ſerved, to teſtify or depoſe concerning any cauſe or matter depending in any of the ſame courts, and having tendered unto him or them, according to his or their conntenance or calling, ſuch reaſonable ſums of money for his or their coſts and charges, as having regard to the diſtance of the place is neceſſary to be allowed in that behalf, do not appear according to the tenor of the ſaid proceſs, having not a lawful and reaſonable let or impediment to the contrary; that then the party in making default, to loſe and forfeit for every ſuch offence ten pounds and to yield ſuch further recompence to the party grieved, as by the diſcretion of the judge of the court out of which the ſaid proceſs ſhall be awarded, according to the loſs and hindrance that the party which procured the ſaid proceſs ſhall ſuſtain, by reaſon of the non-appearance of the ſaid witneſs or witneſſes; the ſaid ſeveral ſums to be recovered by the party ſo grieved againſt the offender or offenders, by action of debt, plaint, or information, in any of the Queen's Majeſty's courts of record."

Any perſon or perſons] A feme covert is within the ſtatute, and if ſhe be ſerved with a ſubpœna, and refuſes to appear, the action lies againſt the huſband and wife. Cro. Eliz. 122. Havithlome and Harvey, adjudged. 1 Jones 430. S. C. and S. P. adjudged.

Shall be ſerved] In debt upon this ſtatute, it was moved, after verdict in arreſt of judgment, that the declaration did not ſet forth that he left the writ with defendant; for the ſtatute is, if he be ſerved with proceſs; and it is not ſerving of proceſs when the writ is not left, although it be read unto the party, and a note left of the cauſe, place and day; ſed non allocatur; for Jones, Berkely and Croke held it to be a ſufficient ſerving of the proceſs within the intent of the ſtatute, and according to the uſual courſe and practice; for there may be two, three, or four names of witneſſes in a writ, (and ſo there be uſually) and he cannot leave the writ with every one of them, and it would be very chargeable unto the ſubject to have ſeveral writs for every witneſs. Second exception, becauſe he ſhews that he paid unto her 12 d. for her pains, and promiſed to pay unto her as much more, as ſhe would require, when ſhe came to be a witneſs at Glouceſter, which is not ſufficient according to the ſtatute; for the ſtatute is, that he ſhall pay ſufficient charges for her travel, according to the diſtance of the place, and the quality of the perſon ſo to be paid; and the witneſs is not bound to accept his promiſe for the reſidue; ſed non allocatur; for when it is alledged, that he paid unto her 12 d. and promiſed to pay the reſidue when ſhe came to Glouceſter, and ſhe accepted thereof, ſhe is then bound to come, for ſhe hath accepted of his promiſe for the reſidue, otherwiſe ſhe might have refuſed, and told him ſhe would not accept of his promiſe. Third exception, becauſe the plaintiff doth not ſhew that he is damaged by her non-appearance, viz. that the verdict paſſed againſt him, or that he was inforced to be non-ſuited, or any other grievance; for ſo is the ſtatute, that the party grieved ſhall have his part of the 10 l. and his farther damages taxed by the juſtices, before whom, &c. But Grimſton, for the plaintiff anſwered, that the action being brought only for the 10 l. and not for further damages, it is well enough; and the 10 l. is due for her non-appearance, to the King and the party. But all the juſtices held, that the declaration was ill, for this cauſe; for there ought to be a party grieved by the non-appearance, otherwiſe there is no cauſe of forfeiture. And ſo are the expreſs words and ſcope of the ſtatute; wherefore it was adjudged for the defendant, abſente Brampſton. Cro. Car. 540. pl. 4. Paſch. 15 Car. B. R. Goodwin v. Anne Weſt.——Jo. 430. pl. 3. S. C. adjudged for the defendant.——Mar. 18. pl. 43. S. C. adjudged the plaintiff nil capiat.

A delivery of a ticket, containing the ſubſtance of the writ, is a ſufficient ſervice within the act. 5 Mod. 355.

Having tendered to him or them] If a feme covert be the perſon to appear as a witneſs, the tender muſt be to her, and not to her huſband. Cro. Eliz. 122. 1 Jon. 430. S. P.

Such reaſonable ſums of money] If the party gives the witneſs a ſhilling, which he accepts, and promiſes that on his appearance he will pay him all further reaſonable charges; this is ſufficient. Cro. Car. 522, 540. March 18.

Recompence to the party grieved] In Cro. Eliz. 130. and the S. C. 1 Leon. 122, it is adjudged, that the plaintiff need not ſet forth any ſpecial damage which he had ſuſtained by the negligence of the defendant in not apppearing to give evidence, where the action is brought for 10 l. only, and not for any more damages; but the contrary has ſince been reſolved in Cro. Car. 522, 540. Goodwin and Weſt. 1 Jon. 430. and 5 Mod. 355. Maddiſon and Shore, which was affirmed on a writ of error; for there muſt be a party grieved, otherwiſe there is no cauſe of forfeiture, and a particular damage muſt be ſet forth, &c.

Plaintiff brought an action of debt upon the ſtatute 5 Eliz. cap. 9. for 10 l. and declared, that the defendant was warned by ſubpœna to appear ſuch a day at one o'clock in the afternoon to be a witneſs, &c. and upon nil debet pleaded the ſubpœna given in evidence was generally to appear at this day, and not at ſuch an hour; and though a ſubpœna to appear at ſuch a day, be of that effect that the party ought to attend the whole day, and ſo, as it was objected, includes that he ought to appear at this hour, yet in reſpect of the variance it cannot be ſaid to be the ſubpœna on which the plaintiff did declare, and therefore he was non-ſuited; and in this caſe no regard was had to the ticket left with the defendant, which was according to the declaration. Tr. per Pais, 7th edit. cites 24 Car. 1. Radford's caſe.

In criminal caſes, if the witneſſes come not according to the time mentioned in the proceſs with which they were ſerved, an attachment lies againſt them. Sty. 579.

If a perſon, who can give evidence againſt one who is accuſed of felony, refuſes to be bound to give evidence, either at the general gaol-delivery, &c. the juſtice of peace may either commit to priſon ſuch perſon ſo refuſing, or may bind him to his good behaviour, and to appear at the next gaol-delivery or quarter ſeſſions. Dalt. Juſt. 111.

Lord Preſton was committed by the court of quarter ſeſſions for refuſing to be ſworn to give evidence to the grand jury on an indictment of high treaſon; he was brought by habeas corpus in B. R. and Holt Ch. Juſt. ſaid, it was a great contempt, and that had he been there, he would have fined him, and committed him till he paid the fine; but being otherwiſe, he was bailed. 1 Salk. 178.

It ſeems that by the common law, the defendant, in capital caſes, had no right to any proceſs againſt his witneſſes, without a ſpecial order of the court; but now by the 7 W. 3. cap. 3. it is enacted, That all perſons accuſed and indicted for any high treaſon, whereby any corruption of blood may enſue, ſhall have the like proceſs of the court, where they ſhall be tried, to compel their witneſſes to appear for them at any trial or trials, as is uſually granted to compel witneſſes to appear againſt them; and now ſince the ſtatute 1 Ann. cap. 9. which ordains, that the witneſſes for the priſoner ſhall be ſworn, proceſs may be taken out againſt them of courſe in any caſe whatſoever. 2 Hawk. P. C. 435.

On a commiſſion iſſuing out of Chancery for the examination of witneſſes, there muſt be a ſubpœna ad teſtificandum taken out, directed to the witneſſes, and a ſummons from two of the commiſſioners of the time and place where they are to be examined; and, if the witneſs ſo ſummoned and ſerved does not appear, the court will grant an attachment againſt him, unleſs he comes up at his own expence to be examined before the examiner; or if he be ſummoned by the commiſſioners without a ſubpœna ad teſtificandum, and do not appear, the court will order ſuch witneſs to attend at his own expence, and to be examined; and if he diſobey ſuch order, then an attachment ſhall go againſt him. 2 Bac. Abr. 295.

The examination of witneſſes viva voce, in open court, is juſtly eſteemed one of the greateſt excellences of our law, not only from the awe and reverence which the ſolemnity of the manner is ſuppoſed to produce in the witneſs, and the regard which from thence he muſt have for truth; but alſo from the benefit of croſs-examination; as alſo the air and manner of giving evidence often carry ſuch convictions with them, as will induce the court and jury to believe or reject what the witneſs has ſworn. Hob. 325.

Hence it hath always been held as a ſettled rule, that in caſes of life, no evidence is to be given againſt a priſoner, but in his preſence. 2 Hawk. P. C. 428.

Alſo in a civil caſe, where the jury withdrew to confer about their verdict, one of the witneſſes, that was before ſworn on the part of the defendant, was called by the jurors, and he recited again his evidence to them, and they gave their verdict for the defendant; and complaint being made to the judge of aſſiſe of this miſdemeanor, he examined the jury, who confeſſed all the matter, and that the evidence was the ſame in effect that was given before, & non alia nec diverſa; and this matter being returned upon the poſtea, the opinion of the court was, that the verdict was not good, and a venire facias de novo was awarded. Cro. Eliz. 189.

But it is ſaid, that a witneſs, who by reaſon of ſickneſs, extreme age, or other cauſe, cannot come to a trial, may, by order of court, be examined in the country before any judge of the court where the cauſe depends; and the teſtimony ſo taken ſhall be allowed to be given in evidence at the trial. Style Pract. Reg. 671, 672. In Comb. 63. it is ſaid, that witneſſes may be examined before a judge, by leave of the court, as well in criminal cauſes as in civil, where a ſufficient reaſon appears to the court, as going to ſea, &c. and then the other ſide may croſs examine them. But ſee 1 Keb. 36. 249, 787. 2 Keb. 13.

But if a witneſs going to ſea be by rule of court examined upon interrogatories before a judge, and the trial come on before he is gone, his depoſitions ſhall not be read, but he muſt appear, for the rule was made on ſuppoſal of his abſence. 2 Salk. 691.

Every perſon produced as a witneſs muſt, before he gives his evidence, be ſworn to depoſe the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; this is the law required in all caſes, except in indictments for capital offences, where by immemorial practice the witneſſes againſt the King were not ſuffered to be ſworn. Cro. Car. 292. 2 Bulſt. 147. But now by ſtat. 1 Ann. cap. 9. it is enacted, "That every perſon who ſhall be produced, or appear as a witneſs on the behalf of the priſoner, before he or ſhe be admitted to depoſe, or give any manner of evidence, ſhall firſt take an oath to depoſe the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, in ſuch a manner as the witneſſes for the Queen are by law obliged to do; and if convicted of any wilful perjury in ſuch evidence, ſhall ſuffer all the puniſhments, penalties, forfeitures and diſabilities, which by any of the laws and ſtatutes of this realm are or may be inflicted upon perſons convicted of wilful perjury."

By the practice of the courts, if one be produced and ſworn for the plaintiff or defendant, being once ſworn, the other may examine him to any thing whatſoever, though it be the ſolicitor of the party who produces him; alſo either party may, on application to the court, have the witneſs examined apart, and out of the hearing of the others. 2 Bac. Abr. 296.

It is a general rule, that a witneſs ſhall not be aſked any queſtion, the anſwering to which might oblige him to accuſe himſelf of a crime, and that his credit is to be impeached only by general accounts of his character and reputation, and not by proofs of particular crimes, againſt which he cannot be preſumed to be prepared to defend himſelf. 2 Hawk. P. C. 433. Fareſt. 119.

If a witneſs, when under examination, through ſurprize or inadvertency, gives a wrong anſwer to a queſtion that is aſked him, he is always allowed to recollect himſelf, and that, which he affirms on due deliberation, is to be taken for the truth; alſo if he miſtakes the true ſtate of the queſtion, in ſuch a manner as ſhews, that it is rather owing to his weakneſs than perverſeneſs, he cannot be puniſhed for it as guilty of perjury. 5 Mod. 350.

If a perſon is produced as a witneſs for the King, upon a trial in an information, and he is guilty of perjury, he cannot be puniſhed for it on the 5 Eliz. by way of indictment, which is the ſuit of the King, and ſuch a one diſcharged accordingly. Cro. Jac. 120.

If a witneſs in giving evidence reflects on the Character of another, or makes uſe of ſuch words as are actionable; yet this being in a judicial way, he cannot be puniſhed for it, nor will an action lie for ſuch words. 1 Rol. Rep. 61.

In examining a witneſs, counſel cannot queſt on his whole life, as that he is a whore-maſter, &c. but if he has done ſuch a notorious fact, which is a juſt exception againſt him, they then may except againſt him. March 83, pl. 136. Paſch. 17 Car. Anon'.

An evidence given to a jury may be anſwered by the counſel, either by confeſſing and avoiding it, or elſe by encountering the evidence given, with giving ſtronger evidence, and of greater credit on the other ſide. Mich. 22 Car. B. R. which is, upon the matter, a denial of all the evidence given on the other ſide to be true, by proving the contrary. L. P. R. 548.

The defendant's counſel, ought to conclude by way of anſwer to the evidence that was given to the jury by the plaintiff's counſel. Mich. 24 Car. B. R. For if the plaintiff's counſel doth begin the evidence, it is reaſon, that the defendant ſhould ſpeak in anſwer to that evidence, becauſe he is upon the defenſive part, and is to give anſwer to all that is ſaid againſt him, in matter of evidence; but the plaintiff's counſel after this, is to ſum up his evidence to the jury, which is no more than to put them in mind how he hath proved his cauſe. L. P. R. 551.

Upon

Upon a trial at the bar, the counſel of that party who doth begin to maintain the iſſue that is to be tried, whether it be the counſel of the plaintiff, or the counſel of the defendant, ought to conclude the evidence. Paſch. 1650. 1 Mail B. S. that is, only ſum up his evidence given; but if he give new evidence, the other party hath liberty to anſwer it, or encounter it with another evidence. L. P. R. 551.

Holt. would not ſuffer the plaintiff to diſcredit a witneſs of his own calling, he ſwearing againſt him. 12 Mod. 375. Paſch. 12 W. 3. Adams v. Arnold.

4. What ſhall be admitted evidence.

The word evidence, as hath been obſerved, comprehends not only the teſtimony of witneſſes, but alſo matters of record, as letters patents, fines, recoveries, inrolments, and the like; as alſo writings under ſeal, as charters and deeds, and other writings without ſeal, as court rolls, accounts, &c. and theſe are ſaid to prove themſelves, and to admit of no averment againſt the truth of them. Co. Lit. 283. a.

A jury may and muſt take knowledge of any particular record, either patent, ſtatute or judgment, if it be given in evidence to them; for ſuch records, &c. are their allegata verbally alledged and produced, if it make to the iſſue. Hob. 227. and ſee 1 Leon. 206. 1 And. 37. Plow. 92, 411. Dyer 118. 9 Co. 12. Co. Lit. 227.

Acts of courts. The act or order of eccleſiaſtical court for granting letters of adminiſtration proved by the book, is good evidence. Lev. 25. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Garret v. Liſter.

Copy of the inrollment of the grant of office of clerk of the papers in B. R. allowed to be good evidence, Vent. 296, Trin. 28 Car. 2. B. R. Woodward v. Aſton.

Two commoners in behalf of themſelves, and all the commoners within H. preferred a bill in the dutchy court againſt the owner of the land, in which they claimed common, &c. and upon hearing the cauſe, the common was decreed for them. The dutchy court was put down, and the now defendant having purchaſed land within H. the plaintiff, who was a commoner when the decree was made, but not a plaintiff in that cauſe, exhibited his bill againſt the now defendant to have the uſe of the depoſitions taken in the cauſe in the dutchy court at a trial to be had at the aſſizes, and the defendant demurred to the bill, and allowed, becauſe neither the plaintiff nor the defendant were parties to the former cauſe, tho' the ſuit there was the ſame cauſe upon which the action of law was now brought, and of general concernment; and it ſeemed hard, conſidering that the defendant here claimed under the defendant there. Hardr. 22. Mich. 1655. Scacc'. Stanly v. Pegg.

Act of the commiſſioners for ſtating the debts of the army, concluſive evidence. Stran. 481.

Acts of parliament. In an action the defendant pleaded the compoſition act; the plaintiff replied nul tiel record, and upon the day given to the defendant to bring in the record, he produced the printed ſtatute; per Holt Ch. J. An act printed by the King's printer is always allowed good evidence of the act to a jury, but was never yet allowed to be a record without an exemplification under the great ſeal, and it muſt be pleaded as exemplified. 2 Salk. 566. Trin. W. 3. B. R. Anon'.

A private act printed among the public acts, hath been allowod in evidence; per King Chanc. Trin. Vac. 1727.

Even a private act of parliament in print that concerns a whole county, as the act of Bedford-Levels, may be given in evidence without comparing it with the record; per Holt Ch. J. 12 Mod. 216. Mich. 10 W. 3. at Guildhall, in the caſe of Dupais v. Shepherd.

A copy of an act of parliament is no evidence, unleſs the act had been before allowed of, and ſo made a record of this court, for otherwiſe nothing ſhall be allowed of as a ſufficient evidence of the act, but the exemplification of it under the great ſeal, and the reaſon is, becauſe the court is a party, which cannot pray oyer as the party may; ſo that the court would be in a worſe condition than a common perſon, if they were to receive for evidence a copy offered them. 10 Mod. 126. in this caſe of the Univerſity of Cambridge, cites 35 H. 6. 14. and this was allowed to be ſo per curiam.

Ancient uſages for three or four hundred years is good evidence of a law. If an act of parliament be loſt or imbezilled, the law remains ſtill. 12 Mod. 181. Hill. 9 W. 3. King v. Hewſon.

A printed copy of a private act of parliament, or ordinance obſolete, was diſallowed by all the court to be given in evidence, unleſs it had been examined by the original. Keb. 2 pl. 4. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Anon'.

Tho' acts of parliament and the inrollments of them are deſtroyed by fire, or rebellion, or by the injury of time, yet if by any circumſtances and proofs they may be manifeſted, they have the force of acts of parliament. Jenk. 280. pl. 5.

Act of parliament produced in evidence for ſelling delinquents eſtates was ſworn to be examined by the parliament-roll, and that it was a true copy, before it was admitted to be read in evidence. Sty. 462. Mich. 1655. in the caſe of Thurle v. Madiſon.

The copy of a private act of parliament may be given in evidence; and if upon collateral iſſue it is to be proved that ſuch a one was juſtice of the peace or baronet, &c. common reputation is ſufficient proof without ſhewing the commiſſion or letters patent of the creation. L. E. 89. pl. 12. cites Tr. per Pais 226. 3 Jac. 2.

A printed copy of an act of parliament is not to be given in evidence, if not examined by the rolls, and ſworn to be a true copy. L. E. 89. pl. 13. cites Tr. per Pais, 232. 3 Jac. 2.

A private act that concerned Rocheſter bridge, tho' printed by Raſtal, was not allowed in evidence, not being examined by the record; otherwiſe of general ſtatutes; there the printed ſtatute-book is good evidence. L. E. 89. pl. 14. cites Tr. per Pais 232.

Admiſſion. Finding by ſpecial verdict, or admiſſion on former pleading is good evidence, unleſs the contrary appear. 1 Keble 720. pl. 50. Paſch. 16 Car. 2. B. R. in the caſe of Lee v. Boothby.

At Guildhall in an action for work done, &c. the plaintiff gave in evidence to charge the defendant a copy of a bill delivered to the defendant, and copied by the order of the defendant, and divers exceptions were taken by the defendant to the bill, ſcil. Firſt to the quantity of the work done, and the others were marks againſt divers parcels; ſcil. O. and N. intending by it that theſe parcels were wrought for others, and not for the defendant, and other exceptions there were to the price; and he ordered the ſervant to indorſe upon the backſide the exceptions to the quantity and price, but to omit the marks O. and N. and it was ruled by Holt Ch. J. upon evidence, firſt, that this copy of a bill delivered was evidence, as a copy of a bill and not a copy of a copy, and the bill is an original as well as the book. 2dly, That the acceptance of a bill delivered without objection but to ſome particulars, is an admittance of the reſidue to be true. 3dly, That the ordering a copy of the bill indorſed ut ſupra, omitting the marks O. and N. and this copy with the exceptions being ordered to be delivered to the plaintiff, it is a waving of the exceptions ſignified by thoſe marks. 4thly, Tho' it was objected that this evidence is a confeſſion, and therefore it ought to be taken together; yet per Holt Ch. J. They are not part of a confeſſion (which ought to be of the ſame thing), but a cavil or objection as to the price or quantity, &c. Skin. 672. pl. 11. Mich. 8 W. 3. B. R. Worral v. Holder.

In debt upon a bond, defendant pleaded that he became a bankrupt, that a commiſſion was taken, &c. and that bond was given to induce plaintiff to ſign the certificate, and ſo void, &c. iſſue on this; and at the trial coram Powys at Guildhall in abſentia Ch. J. defendant was held to prove the whole matter, and he being not able to do it, there was a verdict pro quer'. But on a motion for a new trial, this verdict was ordered to ſtand as a ſecurity, and a new trial was granted; becauſe what they were called upon to prove was admitted by the iſſue, which was only whether the bond was given ea intentione to induce the plaintiff to ſign the certificate. Mich. 6 Geo. B. R. Chace v. Lewis.

plaintiff

Admittance. An admittance of a freeman written two months after the time, and not ſigned, &c. not admitted in evidence. Ld. Raym. 1446.

Affidavit. A man being about to convey lands to a purchaſer, made oath before a Maſter in Chancery, that there was no incumbrance on the eſtate; in an ejectment brought, this affidavit was produced in court, but not ſuffered to be read but as a note or letter, unleſs the plaintiff would produce a witneſs to ſwear that he was preſent when the oath was taken before the Maſter. 3 Mod. 36. Mich. 35 Car. 2. B. R. Smith v. Goodier.

The plaintiff or the defendant may make an affidavit in their own cauſe depending here, and it may be filed, but it may not be admitted in evidence in the trial of the cauſe betwixt them. L. P. R. 552. cites Mich. 1656.

Tho' an affidavit cannot be read in evidence, yet if the party who made the affidavit be ſworn, and gives evidence, his own affidavit may be read againſt him; and this is allowable to ſhew in what he contradicts himſelf. Skin. 403. pl. 39. Mich. 5 W. & Mar. in B. R. The King and Queen v. Rachel Taylor.

On queſtion on a trial, whether the property of a parcel of wine was in the defendant, in order to aſcertain whether alien or Britiſh cuſtom was due for them, a paper under his hand, being an affidavit he had made at the cuſtom-houſe, was given in evidence, he ſwearing in it that the wine was his. Paſch. 4. Geo. B. R.

Affidavit of the deceaſed huſband read in proof of the marriage. Stran. 35.

Affidavits ſworn before a judge in Ireland read in England. Stran. 545.

Almanack. In error of a judgment given in Lynn, the error aſſigned was, that the judgment was given at a court held there on the 16th of Feb. 26 Eliz. and that this day was Sunday, and it was ſo found by examination of the almanacks of that year; upon which it was ruled, that this examination was a ſufficient trial, and that a trial per pais was not neceſſary, altho' it were an error in fact; and ſo the judgment was reverſed. Cro. E. 227. pl. 12. Paſch. 33 Eliz. B. R. Page v. Faucet.

Upon evidence in a trial at bar the queſtion was, if one was of full age at the time of his will made by him; and upon evidence it appears that he was born the 14th of Feb. 1608. and he made his will when he was of the age of 21 years within two days; and to prove his nonage, the defendant produced an almanack in which his father had writ the nativity of the deviſor, and it was allowed to be ſtrong evidence. Raym. 84. Mich. 15 Car. 2. B. R. Herbert v. Tuckal.

Tho' in moveable terms the court is not bound to take notice on what day of the month the returns are, yet when it is alledged of record what day of the month the return is, the court may take notice of it, and the day of return ſhall be tried by almanacks, and not per pais, and cites 3 Cro. 227. quod fuit conceſſum per curiam. Sid. 300. Mich. 19 Car. 2. in the caſe of Courtny v. Philips.

The almanack is part of the law of England, of which the court muſt take judicial notice; per cur'. 11 Mod. 41. Mich. 2. Ann. B. R. in the caſe of The Queen v. Dyer.

Ancient deeds. An ancient deed is good evidence, without proving or ſeal on it. 1 Keb. 877. pl. 27. Paſch. 17 Car. 2. B. R. Wright v. Sherrard.

A deed found in the archives of the chapter of Hereford, was read to prove an endowment of a vicarage, being but concurrent evidence, tho' it appeared not to have been ever ſealed or delivered. 2 Keb. 126. pl. 79. Mich. 18 Car. 2. B. R. Smith v. Rawlins.

An ancient writing, that is proved to have been found amongſt deeds and evidences of land, may be given in evidence, although the executing of it cannot be proved; for it is hard to prove ancient things, and the finding them in ſuch a place is a preſumption they were honeſtly and fairly obtained, and preſerved for uſe, and are free from ſuſpicion of diſhoneſty. Tri. per Pais 220. cites 24 Car. B. R.

An original leaſe could not be produced, being an ancient leaſe, but the grandſon of the leſſor produced a counterpart found among the evidences of his grandfather; this was allowed for evidence, tho' there was no ſubſcribing witneſſes to it; for juſtice Windham ſaid, he had ſeen many deeds in Queen Elizabeth's time without any. Lev. 25. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Garret v. Liſter.

Where a deed before time of memory is ſupported by uſage, after ſuch deed is pleadable and good, but that the books which ſay deeds before time of memory ſhall not be pleaded, are to be intended deeds of ſuch liberties and franchiſes as cannot be claimed or ſupported by uſage in pais, as if one claim goods of felo de ſe by deed before time of memory, he cannot ſhew his deed, and ſay virtute cujus, &c. but muſt ſhew an ancient confirmation, or a claim and allowance in eyre; ſo in this caſe, if they had pleaded the deed, and relied upon it virtute cujus, &c. it had been naught; but when they ſhew the deed, and likewiſe a uſage to ſupport it, it is ſufficient. Skin. 239. pl. 4. Mich. 1 Jac. 2. B. R. James v. Trollop.

An old deed is good evidence without any witneſs to ſwear it was executed; per Holt. Ch. J. 3 Salk. 154. pl. 6. Hill. 8 W. 3. B. R. Lynch v. Clerke.

Whether the indorſements on a bond by the obligee, after his death and after thirty-five years entring into it, ſhall be given in evidence at law to take off an objection to the antiquity of the bond. 8 Mod. 278. Trin. 10 Geo. Serle and Barrington.

Ancient tables of duties. In the caſe of water-baillage in the city of London, evidence of conſtant payment, and their ancient tables of duties imported, was judged ſufficient, though it was urged there could be no preſcription for it; and judgment accordingly for defendant. 2 Show. 48. pl. 33. Paſch. 31 Car. 2. B. R. King v. Carpenter.

Apprentices indentures. By ſtat. Ann. cap. 9. ſ. 43. No indenture of apprenticeſhip to be admitted in evidence, unleſs oath made, that duties are paid.

It was ruled by Holt Ch. J. at ſummer aſſizes at Ryegate, 10 W. 3. that the ſervice of an appreticeſhip ſeven years beyond the ſea, though the defendant was not bound, excuſes from the 5 Eliz. cap. 4. Ld. Raym. Rep. 738. Frith v. Torin.

Appropriations. A man had got a preſentation to the parſonage of Goſnal in Lincolnſhire, and brought a quare impedit, and the defendant pleaded an appropriation; there was no licence of appropriation produced, but becauſe it was ancient, the court would intend it. Said per Hale Ch. J. in 1 Mod. 117. pl. 17. Paſch. 26 Car. 2. Green v. Proude.

Arreſt. Where the iſſue was upon an arreſt, the plaintiff demurred upon the evidence, becauſe the defendant who pleaded it had not produced the proceſs itſelf, becauſe matters of record cannot be tried but by themſelves. Sid. 105. pl. 13. Hill. 14 & 15 Car. 2. B. R. Bryan v. Fitzharris.——It was agreed per cur. that the writ ought to have been produced in evidence; but by the demurrer the arreſt (being matter of fact) is confeſſed, tho' it be ſuch matter of fact as is to be proved by matter of record, and the jury might know of their own knowledge that there was a writ, and the judgment was affirmed. Lev. 87. Fitzharris v. Bojen, S. C.

Aſſault. In treſpaſs of aſſault, battery, and wounding, the defendant pleaded the plaintiff began firſt, and the ſtroke he received, whereby he loſt his eye, was on his own aſſault, and in defence of the defendant; and on trial at the bar now by evidence it appeared the plaintiff ſtruck the defendant, and ſaid, Were it not aſſize-time he would tell him more of his mind, which was ſaid, bending his fiſt, and with his hand on his ſword; yet per cur. This is no aſſault, as it would be without that declaration; but it was farther ſworn, that the plaintiff with his elbow punch'd the defendant, which if done in earneſt diſcourſe, and not with intention of violence, is no aſſault, nor then is it a juſtification of battery after a retreat, as Phineas Andrew's caſe; and the jury not believing the defendant, found for the plaintiff and gave 500 l. damages. 2 Keb. 545. pl. 13. Mich. 21 Car. B. R. Turbervile v. Savadge.

E V I

In an action of battery, which was laid in the declaration to be the 10th day of February 1621. defendant pleaded ſon aſſault demeſne, &c. and at iſſue upon that, and defendant proved an aſſault by the plaintiff, but another day; and ruled that this doth not prove this iſſue for the defendant, becauſe the juſtification ſhall refer to the time laid in the declaration, if the defendant do not difference the times in his plea; and in ſuch caſe, when the defendant intends to ſhew the aſſault was at another day and place, he ſhall ſhew that ſuch a day before that in the declaration, as here the 8th of February, the plaintiff did him aſſault, and would have beaten him, and traverſe the day in the declaration. Clayt. 110. pl. 187. March 24 Car. Turner ſerjeant, judge of aſſiſe, Hardcaſtle v. Lockwood.

But ſee in the caſe of an officer, who is not tied up to ſpecial pleading, it ſeems he, upon Not guilty, may vary in his evidence to juſtify from the time in the declaration, &c. quod nota. And the prejudice may come to the plaintiff's being unprovided perhaps in ſuch caſe to a reply; whereas when the matter is by pleading brought to a ſpecial iſſue, he knows his work, &c. Clayt. 110. 24 Car. Hardcaſtle v. Lockwood.

Attorney's bill. Attorney's bill, though not ſigned, is evidence for his executors, as well as for himſelf, and perhaps ſeveral of the things could not in their nature be proved by record; per Holt. Comb. 348. Mich. 7 W. 3. B. R. Blacheler v. Crofts.

Belief. It is no ſatisfaction for a witneſs to ſay, that he thinks or perſuades imſelf, and this for two reaſons, by Coke; Firſt, Becauſe the judge is to give abſolute ſentence, and ought to have more ground than thinking. Secondly, That judges, as judges, are always to give judgment ſecundum allegata & probata, notwithſtanding that private perſons think otherwiſe. Dy. 53. b. Marg. pl. 15. Mich. 19 Jac. in the Star-chamber, Adams v. Canon.

Beyond ſea. Evidence of things done there. A ſhip was Dutch built, and after made an Engliſh ſhip, the maſter was Dutch, ſome of the ſeamen Engliſh, and two Dutch; there being a war betwixt the French and Holland, the French ſeize the ſhip as a Dutch ſhip, and condemn her as a Dutch ſhip in the court of Admiralty in France; ſhe is there ſold, and after coming into England, the firſt owner ſeizes her, and the other brings trover, and a ſpecial verdict was found; but the court would not ſuffer it to be argued, but ordered judgment to be entred for the plaintiff; for they ſaid, that ſentences in the courts of the Admiralty ought to bind generally according to jus gentium; and that if we did not obſerve the ſentences given abroad, they would not obſerve ours, which would be a general inconvenience; and if the merchant in this caſe had received wrong, he ought to apply to the Admiralty and Council; this is a matter of government; and that the King, if he ſaw cauſe, would ſend an Ambaſſador Lieger into France, who would take care that right ſhould be done; and that if right be not done, then the King would grant letters of marque and repriſal; and in this caſe they remembered Cottinton's caſe, Skin. 59. Mich. 34 Car. 2. B. R. Hughes v. Cornelius.

Leſſor brought debt for rent againſt leſſee upon a demiſe at London of lands in Jamaica, which was held to be well, being founded on the privity of the contract, which is tranſitory; but if a foreign iſſue, which was local, ſhould happen, it may be tried where the action is laid, and there may be a ſuggeſtion on the roll for that purpoſe, and ſuch a place in ſuch a county is next adjacent, and there it may be tried by a jury from that place according to the laws of that country, and upon nil debet pleaded you may give the laws of that country in evidence. 2 Salk. 651. pl. 31. Trin. 3 Ann. B. R. Way v. Yalley.

In trover and converſion, the cuſtom of India was found concerning the buying and ſelling of ſlaves, and it was held that the action would lie well enough. Freem. Rep. 452. pl. 616. Trin. 1677. B. R. Anon'.

Exemplification of a ſentence given in a foreign country, ſhall be read as evidence here to prove that ſuch ſentence was given there, without any farther proof. 9 Mod. 66. Mich. 13 Geo. Anon'.

To prove a delivery of goods to the defendant, an exemplification of an entry made in the Cuſtom-houſe of Rotterdam, and atteſted by a publick notary, and ſealed with the publick ſeal there, was offered in evidence; but the court would not admit it. 8 Mod. 75. Paſch. 8 Geo. The King v. Maſon.

Per Lord Chan. Mich. 10 Geo. where a ſuit is for a debt or other thing, a ſentence in another country is not binding; but the court here muſt examine into the matter, in order to form a judgment; contra, where the ſuit here is in order to carry that ſentence into execution, for then the proceedings here are founded upon the ſentence, and not upon the debt. Vin. Evid. 87.

Copy of an agreement regiſtered in Holland, and atteſted by a publick notary there, may be given in evidence for defendant, eſpecially ſince he proved that the plaintiff took out another copy of the ſame agreement, and would not now produce it, ſo he knew the agreement, and could not be ſurpriſed. 8 Mod. 322. Mich. 11 Geo. Walrond v. Van Moſes.

Affidavit by a plaintiff in Holland, atteſted by a publick notary, ſhall be admitted as good evidence to hold defendant to ſpecial bail here. 8 Mod. 323. Mich. 11 Geo. Walrond v. Van Moſes.

A. draws a bill of exchange on B. who is reſident at Leghorn, payable to C. three months after date; the bill is negociated through ſeveral hands, and indorſed to one who lived at Leghorn. B. accepts the bill, and about a week afterwards B. had advice, that A. had ſtopped payment, and he refuſed to pay, and by a ſuit in court at Leghorn, B. got a ſentence to be diſcharged from the acceptance and payment. He brought a bill for injunction, and was relieved, and he inſiſted upon the ſentence at Leghorn. Mich. 13 Geo. Per Lord Ch. King. The court at Leghorn had juriſdiction of the thing, and of the perſon, and he cited the caſe of a perſon that cemmitted murder in Portugal, and was tried there, and acquitted, and afterwards upon a proſecution here on ſtatute H. 8. he alledged the former trial, and it was allowed. A ſuit is for ſeamens wages in the Admiralty, and there is a diſmiſſion, this allowed on non aſſumpſit at law; objected, that this ſentence was matter proper for defence at law, and that the ſentence was wrong in itſelf, not ſufficient proof there of A.'s inſolvency, but by certificiates of three merchants, which is no proof here, that this was of acquittal of acceptors, for inſolvency of the drawer is not the general law of merchants, nor local at any other place; but Lord Ch. thought he was bound by the ſentence, and he relied upon the ſentence; and perpetual injunction granted; he ſaid, that when he was Ch. J. he always allowed foreign ſentences to be given in evidence. Debt contracted in Holland by work done, the party comes here, he ſhall be liable according to the Civil law, and bill and relief. Mich. 13 Geo. Canc. Burrows v. Temineau. Vin. Ev. 88.

Bill and anſwer in Chancery. The infant guardian's anſwer in Chancery of a feoffee in truſt, was refuſed by the court to be given as evidence; becauſe he was living, and not party to the ſuit, which was only between the heir, and ceſtui que truſt. Keb. 281. pl. 83. Paſch. 14 Car. 2. B. R. Anon'.

Allegations by a complainant in a bill in Chancery, ſhall by a copy be made uſe of as evidence againſt the complainant in a ſuit at law, for it ſhall be intended to be exhibited by his conſent and privity; but per Bridgman, there is a difference where there is a proceeding upon ſuch bill, and when not; for in the firſt caſe, it ſhall be admitted in evidence, but in the ſecond not. If bill be preferred ſans privity of the plaintiff, an action lies. Sid. 221. Mich. 16 Car. 2. B. R. Snow v. Phillips.

A bill in Chancery allowed in dom. proc. as evidence to confront a woman who pretended marriage. Parl. Coll. n. 88.

An anſwer in an Engliſh court is good evidence to a jury againſt the defendant himſelf, but not againſt other parties, yet it is not binding to the jury. Godb. 326. pl. 418. Paſch. 21 Jac. B. R. Anon'.

If

If the plaintiff will read the defendant's anſwer in Chancery againſt him in evidence, the defendant may likewiſe take advantage thereof; for all his evidence, or none. 3 Salk. 154. Hill. 8. W. 3. B. R. per Holt Ch. J. Lynch v. Clerke.

An anſwer in Chancery cannot be given in evidence, for the party who made it, or againſt a third perſon not deriving any title under him. 8 Mod. 181. Trin. 9 Geo. Hilliard v. Phaley & al'.

An anſwer in Chancery is evidence of a deed againſt all that claim under that perſon, and reputation of claiming ſo, is ſufficient to put a party upon ſhewing another title. Lord Raym. 311.

Books. By the ſtat. 7 James 1. cap. 12. reciting, that whereas divers men of trades and handicraftsmen, keeping ſhop-books, do demand debts of their cuſtomers upon their ſhop-books, long time after the ſame hath been due, and when, as they ſuppoſed, the particulars and certainty of the wares delivered to be forgotten, then either they themſelves or their ſervants, have inſerted into their ſhop-books divers other wares ſuppoſed to be delivered to the ſame parties, or to their uſe, which in truth never were delivered; and this of purpoſe to increaſe, by ſuch undue means, the ſaid debt; and whereas divers of the ſaid tradeſmen and handicraftsmen, having received all the juſt debts due upon their ſaid ſhop-books, do oftentimes leave the ſame books uncroſſed, or any way diſcharged, ſo as the debtors, their executors or adminiſtrators are often by ſuit of law enforced to pay the ſame debts again to the party that truſted the ſaid wares, or to his executors or adminiſtrators, unleſs he or they can produce ſufficient proof by writing, or witneſſes of the ſaid payment, that may countervail the credit of the ſaid ſhop-books, which few or none can do in any long time after the ſaid payment; it is therefore enacted, "That no tradeſman or handicraftsman keeping a ſhop-book, as aforeſaid, his or their executors or adminiſtrators, ſhall be allowed, admitted, or received to give his ſhop-book in evidence in any action for any money due for wares hereafter to be delivered, or for work hereafter to be done, above one year before the ſame action brought, except he or they, their executors or adminiſtrators, ſhall have obtained or gotten a bill of debt, or obligation of the debtor for the ſaid debt, or ſhall have brought or purſued againſt the ſaid debtor, his executors or adminiſtrators, ſome action for the ſaid debt, wares, or work done, within one year next after the ſame wares delivered, money due for wares delivered, or work done."

"Provided, that this act ſhall not extend to any intercourſe of traffick, merchandizing, buying, ſelling, or other trading or dealing for wares delivered, or to be delivered, money due, or work done, or to be done, between merchant and merchant, merchant and tradeſman, or between tradeſman and tradeſman, for any thing directly falling within the circuit or compaſs of their mutual trades and merchandize; but that for ſuch things only they and every of them ſhall be in caſe as if this act had never been made; any thing herein contained to the contrary thereof notwithſtanding."

Shop-book allowed as evidence on proof of the ſervant's hand that entered it, and that was uſed to make the entries, (he being dead) and no proof was required of the delivery of the goods; and per Holt Ch. J. Though the ſtatute 7 Jac. 1. 12. ſays, a ſhop-book ſhall not be evidence after the year, &c. it is not of itſelf evidence within the year. 2 Salk. 699. pl. 2. Hill. 11 W. 3. Pitman v. Maddox in Middleſex.

Evidence of beer delivered was thus, The draymen came every night to the clerk of the brewhouſe, and gave him account of the beer delivered out, to which the draymen ſet their hands, and that the drayman was dead, but that his hand was ſet to the book; and that was held good evidence of a delivery. 1 Salk. 285. pl. 18. Trin. 2 Ann. Coram Holt Ch. J. at Niſi prius at Guildhall, Price v. Earl of Torrington.

Scrivener's book to prove a conſideration paid (as a tradeſman's book) is no evidence for himſelf, but for another it is; ſo a tradeſman's book after his death.—— We have allowed a burſer's book of a college for evidence; per Holt. Comb. 249. Paſch. 6 W. and Mar. in B. R. Smart v. Williams.

Per Holt: The book of a man that keeps regular entries, might be evidence for him. Comb. 348. Mich. 7 W. 3. B. R. Blackler v. Crofts.

Ordered, that the regiſter books of a dean and chapter ſhould be made uſe of at a trial, for they are publick books. Comb. 247. Paſch. 6 W. and Mar. in B. R.

So of transfer books of the Eaſt India company, &c. for they are the books of a publick company, and kept for publick tranſactions in which the publick are concerned; the books are the title of the buyers of ſtock by act of parliament. 7 Mod. 129. Hill. 1 Ann. B. R. Gery v. Hopkins.

How far entries in a treaſurer's books ſhall not be allowed to be evidence againſt the partners whoſe treaſurer he is. Barnard Chan. Rep. 417. Hill. 1740. Smith v. The Duke of Chandos.

If an action be brought by a ſhopkeeper for money due on ſale of goods, we never inforced him to produce his books; but if very ſlender evidence be with him, then if he will not produce his books, it brings a great ſlur upon his cauſe. Per cur'. 6 Mod. 264. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. in the caſe of Ward v. Apprice.

A church-book was given in evidence, to prove the non-age of the plaintiff, at a time of a leaſe made by him; and judgment for the plaintiff. Cro. E. 411. pl. 1. Mich. 37 & 38 Eliz. B. R. Vicary v. Farthing.

The plaintiff exhibited his bill in the Exchequer for tithes of houſes in the pariſh of St. Hellens in London, according to the ſtatute 37 H. 8. the defendants in their anſwer ſet forth a cuſtomary payment in lieu of tithes, and thereupon a trial was directed at law; and now the plaintiff exhibited another bill againſt the pariſhioners. that the ledger book in their cuſtody might be produced in evidence at trial, which book concerned him, as well as the pariſh; and upon a demurrer to this bill, becauſe it was only to provide himſelf of ſupplemental evidence after hearing the cauſe, it was decreed that the demurrer was ill, becauſe the bill was to have ſupplemental evidence in the ſame cauſe, and in the ſame way of proceeding, but collateral to it, viz. at a trial at Common law; beſides theſe are common evidences for both parties, they are court-rolls, which belong as well to the tenant as to the lord of the manor, and therefore they may bring a bill to have the uſe of them. Hard. 180. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. in Scacc. Langham v. Lawrence.

The entry of the names and titles of perſons in a church-book, either for marriages or births, (though not forged) cannot be poſitive evidence of the marriage or birth of any perſons, unleſs the indentity of the perſons by ſuch entries intended are fully proved, and alſo ſtrengthened with circumſtances, as cohabitation, the allowance of the perſons themſelves, &c. Draycot v. Draycot. Parl. Coll. n. 88.

Survey-books of a manor, which are ancient, unleſs ſigned by the tenants, or they appear to be made at a court of ſurvey, are no evidence; they are elſe only private memorials; per Baron at Exon. Summer 1719. Vin. Ev. 90.

But old court-rolls are evidence, ſo rentals, or accounts of money received by the ſteward were allowed at Wincheſter and Dorcheſter aſſizes, Lent 1719. Coram King Ch. Juſtice.

But rentals without money received and paid upon them are nothing, but payment makes them of effect. Ibid.

A corporation book was offered in evidence to prove at the aſſizes a member of the corporation not in poſſeſſion, and refuſed. 1 Salk. 288. pl. 26. Paſch. 7 Ann. B. R. Wright v. Sharp.

The books of a corporation, containing their publick acts, are very proper evidence, yet ſome account ought to be given of them, by whom kept, &c. and a book ſent in 1707. during the mayoralty of Sharpe, and entries made therein by him, or by his party in the corporation of elections and other publick acts, but not produced by the town-clerk, &c. were diſallowed; and this was agreed per cur' B. R. on motion for a new trial; it looks as if the the book was made for a particular purpoſe, there being no other acts entred in it by the proper officer, nor any acts but of this mayor only who has been adjudged no mayor; yet their common books are evidence, in regard they contain a regiſter of their publick tranſactions. Paſch. 4 Geo. 1. B. R. caſe of Thetford, Vin. Ev. 90.

Corporation-books muſt appear to be kept by the proper officer, or be proved to have been regularly kept, in order to be given in evidence. Stran. 93.

The day-book from whence the pariſh regiſter is made up, not allowed in a queſtion of legitimacy. Stran. 1073.

Rule to inſpect the books of the commiſſioners for ſtating the debts of the army. Stran. 304.

Original poll-book not ordered to be produced. Stran. 307.

Eaſt-India company not obliged to produce book of letters. Stran. 646, 717.

No rule granted to inſpect a corporation's private books. Stran. 717.

Leave given to inſpect books in which boundaries are entred. Stran. 954.

No acceſs to books of poſt-office in collateral actions. Stran. 1005.

Rule made for a plaintiff to produce his books. Stran. 1130.

No rule to inſpect books on claim of right to hold a leet. Stran. 1203.

No inſpection of books by a proſecutor of a miſdemeanor. Stran. 1210.

Books of a corporation may be inſpected on diſputes between the members, to which the corporation are no parties. Stran. 1223.

Acceſs granted to books of the court of conſcience. Stran. 1242.

A rule to produce the caſh-book of the India company, and the transfer-book of bank-ſtock at a trial. Ld. Raym. 851.

The hand of a ſervant that is dead, to a delivery-book, is good evidence of the delivery of goods. Ld. Raym. 873.

Rule to produce corporation books denied to a proſecutor upon the teſt act. Ld. Raym. 927.

In an action of falſe impriſonment againſt the officers of the college of phyſicians, the court will not make a rule for the plaintiff to inſpect their books. Ld. Raym. 253.

Where a perſon claims an intereſt againſt a pariſh, he ſhall not have a rule to inſpect their books. Ld. Raym. 337.

Motion for a rule to produce the cuſtom-houſe books denied. Ld. Raym. 705.

A ſhop-book kept by a ſervant that is dead is evidence of the delivery of goods. Ld. Raym. 732.

A ſhop-book is not evidence alone, unleſs for a ſtranger. Ld. Raym. 733, 745.

Certificates. In debt againſt ſheriff of Bucks, for reward given by the ſtatute 6 & 7 W. & M. to thoſe that ſhould diſcover and convict clippers and coiners. Note; Here plaintiff had a certificate from my Lord Ch. J. Holt, who tried the malefactor, of his having been convicted on the plaintiff's evidence, which being produced, though under my Lord's hand, yet it was proved by my Lord's clerk to the jury. 12 Mod. 310. Mich. 11 W. 3. Bignoll v. Rogers.

The certificates of clerks of aſſize or peace is made ſufficient evidence of a perſon's being convicted and ordered for tranſportation, ſo as to make him guilty of felony without benefit of clergy for returning from tranſportation, by ſtat. 6 Geo. 20. ſect. 7.

On a conteſt in Chancery concerning a promiſe made by the Lord Abigny, to ſettle lands on the Lord Clifton and his Lady, who was the daughter of the Lord Abigny; the King's certificate under his ſign manual, ſignifying the purport of the ſaid promiſe, was held ſufficient evidence of it. Hob. 213. Godb. 199. S. P. But ſee 2 Rol. Abr. 686.

Chancery, proceedings there. At hearing the cauſe, the plaintiff offered to give in evidence a bill formerly exhibited againſt him by the now defendant; it was objected, that it ought not to be given in evidence, unleſs it was proved that it was exhibited by the order, direction and privity of the defendant; for any man may file a bill in another's name, and the court was of the ſame opinion. N. Ch. R. 102. 16 Car. 2. Woollet v. Roberts.

It was objected, that a bill in Chancery is no evidence, becauſe it only contains matter ſuggeſted perhaps by a counſel or ſolicitor, without the privity of the party; but per cur. after debate, the copy of the bill againſt the ſame party, was admitted as evidence, for they ſaid they would not intend that it was preferred without the privity of the party; and if it was, he had good remedy againſt them that ſo preferred it by action ſur caſe; but they ſaid that this evidence is not ſo valid as a letter of the party and note; and it was not urged, that the defendant anſwered in Chancery, and they had proceeded upon it, which, as it ſeems to me, is the better reaſon why it ſhall be allowed to be evidence, for the proſecution of the plaintiff takes away that objection, that it might have been preferred without his privity by a ſtranger. And at the ſittings after term at Guildhall, London, in C. B. where I was a counſel, when a bill in Chancery was offered as evidence, Bridgman Ch. J. demanded if there had been any proceedings upon it, otherwiſe he would not allow it; and becauſe the anſwer to the bill, and other proceedings upon it were ſhewn, it was allowed for evidence. Sid. 221. pl. 8. Mich. 16 Car. 2. B. R. in the caſe of Snow v. Phillips.

A bill in another cauſe is no evidence againſt the plaintiff in it, unleſs it be proved to be exhibited with his privity. Chan. Caſes 64. Hill. 16 & 17 Car. 2. Woollet v. Roberts.

In evidence in a trial at bar by leaſe of one Wright, an anſwer of one Lewis Mordant ſurviving truſtee, under whom the plaintiff claimed, was offered, but being after a conveyance made to him, the court refuſed; but had it been before, per Wyndham and Moreton, it would be good againſt all claiming under him; which Twiſden denied, becauſe an anſwer doth not diſcover the whole truth, and therefore ſhall be admitted only againſt the party himſelf that made it, and not of one defendant againſt another, much leſs againſt a ſtranger. 2 Keb. 424. pl. 57. Mich. 20 Car. 2. B. R. Mills v. Barnardiſton.

Upon trial of a title of land, a bill in Chancery was given in evidence againſt the complainant, tho' it was held to be of ſlight moment. Vent. 66. Paſch. 22 Car. 2. B. R. Mews v. Mews.

It was ſaid that a voluntary affidavit before a Maſter in Chancery cannot be given in evidence at a trial. Sty. 446. Paſch. 1655. Anon'.

The plaintiff obtained an injunction in this court; the defendant moves to diſſolve it, and obtained an order to diſſolve it; before the order was drawn up the defendant arreſts the plaintiff; and it was held clearly that this was a contempt to the court, and the defendant was ordered to be committed; for it is no order till it is drawn up and paſſed by the Regiſter, for the Regiſter's minutes are only a warrant for an order, and no order. 2 Freem. Rep. 46. pl. 51. Mich. 1649.

An anſwer in Chancery is evidence of a deed againſt all that claim under that perſon, and reputation of claiming ſo is ſufficient to put a party upon ſhewing another title. Ld. Raym. Rep. 311. Hill. 9 W. 3. The Earl of Suſſex v. Temple,

An anſwer in Chancery is not to be admitted as evidence at Common law, unleſs proved to be ſworn by him againſt whom it is produced. Secondly, It ought to appear, that that part of it which is given in evidence be pertinent to the matter contained in the bill, for elſe it ſhall be accounted void and ſuperfluous; per Holt Ch. Juſt. at Guildhall, Comb. 473. Paſch. 10 Will. 3. B. R. Kingſton v. Read.

The plaintiff proving his pedigree would have given in evidence the anſwer of an infant by his guardian to a bill in Chancery, but it was held it could not be read. Comb. 156. Mich. 1 W. & M. Eccleſton v. Spekes.

A man makes an anſwer in Chancery prejudicial to his title, and after conveys away his eſtate, this anſwer cannot cannot be read againſt the alienee by any claiming under the alienor. 6 Mod. 44. Trin. 2 Ann. B. R. Ford v. Lord Grey.

E V I

An order in Chancery is not to be given in evidence, without producing a copy of the bill on which it was made. Mod. 149. Paſch. 3 Ann. B. R. Turner v. Nurſe.

A decree between other parties may be read as a precedent, though not as evidence. January 23, 1717. MSS. Tab. Auſtin v. Nichols.

Chirograph of a fine. Chirograph of a fine may be given in evidence to a jury. Pl. C. 410. b. Mich. 13 & 14 Eliz. Newys v. Scholaſtica.

Chirograph of a fine is of ſo high a nature, that no parol evidence ſhall be allowed to falſify it; admitted Arg. 10 Mod. 42. Mich. 13 Ann. B. R. in Lord Say and Seal's caſe.

Circumſtances. De morte viri, in caſe of dower brought by the wife after the huſband had been abſent ſeven years beyond ſea, may be by circumſtances; and in ſuch caſes qui melius probat, melius habet. D. 185. a. pl. 68. Paſch. 2 Eliz. Thorn. alias Thorp v. Rolf.

A man has two manors of D. and levies a fine of the manor of D. circumſtances may be given in evidence to prove what manor he intends. Trial. (y. e. 3) pl. 11. cites 6, 7 E. 685 per Montague, and 12 H. 7. 6.

Circumſtantial evidence ought never to be admitted where better may be had, ex natura rei, becauſe circumſtances are fallible and doubtful, and it is upon this reaſon that a copy of a record is good, becauſe one cannot have the record itſelf; but a copy of a copy will not do. Arg. 12 Mod. 500. Paſch. 13 W. 3. Dillon v. Crawley.

Collateral warranty. Where a collateral warranty binds, this may well be given in evidence; for although it does not give a right, yet in law this ſhall bar and bind a right. T. per p. 157. cites Lib. 10. 97.

Collateral warranty may be taken notice of as well by evidence as by rebutting. Per Powell J. 11 Mod. 103. pl. 9. Mich. 5 Ann. B. R. Smith v. Tindall.

Compariſon of hands. In debt upon a bond upon iſſue of Non eſt factum, if plaintiff prove the witneſſes dead, beyond ſea, or that he has made ſtrict inquiry after them, and cannot hear of them, he ſhall be let in to prove their hands; per Holt Ch. J. at Niſi prius, 12 Mod. 607. Mich. 13 Will. 3. Anon'.

A parſon's book between 1645 and 1654 was produced, to prove a modus in the pariſh of H. and one Saunders, rector, and to prove that this was his hand-writing, and his name to it, one P. ſaid he had examined the pariſh-books of that kind, where Saunders's name was as rector, and therefore believed the name in the book was the hand-writing of Saunders: this was allowed to be read, becauſe the pariſh-books were not in the plaintiff's power to produce; and he alſo proved, that one R. in diſcourſe with plaintiff had diſcovered to him, that he had theſe papers from the hands of one G. who was Saunders's daughter, and ſaw that delivered to plaintiff, and R. was dead. Per Lord Chanc. 6 Decem. 1736. in Chanc.

Compariſon of hands, not evidence in a capital caſe. Ld. Raym. 40.

Condemnation of goods ſeized. Trover for a parcel of brandy, coram Baron Price at Bodmyn, T. vac. 1716, an information in the name of the Attorney general in the Exchequer, and an acquittal thereupon, and a judgment were given in evidence, the brandy being ſeized, &c. To which the other ſide objected, but the judge refuſed to admit any evidence againſt this determination, or to let the parties in to conteſt the fact over again, which had been tried on the information. So if goods are condemned in the Exchequer, the party ſhall never try this matter over again in a collateral action. Vin. Ev. 95.

If goods are condemned by the court, and proclaimed as forfeited, the property is altered, ſo as no action of treſpaſs or trover will lie by the proprietor againſt the perſon that ſeizeth them; adjudged by the whole court. Raym. 336. Mich. 31 Car. 2. in Scacc. Ekins v. Smith.

Confeſſion of one againſt another. The queſtion was, if the confeſſion of an under-ſheriff of an eſcape be any evidence againſt the high-ſheriff; and adjudged that it is, for though the ſheriff is ſuable, yet the under-ſheriff gives him a bond to ſave him harmleſs, and therefore it will all fall upon him. And therefore his confeſſion is good evidence, becauſe in effect it charges himſelf. Lord Raym. Rep. 190. Eaſt. 9 W. 3. Yabſley v. Doubl.

Confeſſion of delivery of goods in the court of requeſts, may be given in evidence againſt the defendant at law. Mar. 103. pl. 175. Trin. 17 Car. C. B. White v. Grubble.

In an information for publiſhing a libel, the defendant's own confeſſion was given in evidence againſt him. Per Holt Ch. J. If there was no evidence againſt him but his own confeſſion, the whole muſt be taken, and not ſo much of it as would ſerve to convict him. 5 Mod. 167. Hill. 7 W. 3. King v. Pain.

Confeſſion is the worſt ſort of evidence that is, if there be no proof of a tranſaction or dealing, or at leaſt a probability of dealing, between them, as in the principal caſe there was, the one being a ſailor, the other a maſter of a ſhip. Per Holt Ch. J. 7. Mod. 42. Mich. 1 Ann. Anon'.

Confeſſion of a pawnbroker's ſervant is evidence againſt his maſter. Ld. Raym. 738.

Confeſſion of the under-ſheriff evidence againſt the ſheriff. Ld. Raym. 190.

In Sayer's caſe, Mich. 9 Geo. in a caſe of high-treaſon, Mr. Staney, an Under Secretary of State, gave evidence of L.'s confeſſions, upon his examination before the council, which though taken in writing, yet the writing was not read. Vin. Ev. 96.

Where there is any confidence or truſt between the parties, the confeſſion of one in an anſwer, &c. might be given in evidence againſt the other, though it might be a queſtion if concluſive or not. Per Lord Chanc. 8 Mod. 180. Trin. 9 Geo. Hilliard v. Phaley.

A point was reſerved at the ſittings of Niſi prius, whether the proof of the indorſor of a promiſſory note his acknowledgment that the name indorſed on the ſaid note was his hand-writing, be ſufficient to prove the indorſement in an action brought by plaintiff as indorſee againſt defendant as drawer; the objection was, that no perſon's confeſſion but the defendant's himſelf can be evidence, and the indorſor's hand muſt be proved. The objection was held good; and the verdict, as to the ſecond promiſe in the declaration, was ordered to be vacated. Barnes's Notes in C. B. 311, 312. Mich. 6 Geo. 2. Hemings v. Robinſon.

The examination of the priſoner himſelf (if not on oath) may be read as evidence againſt him; but the examination of others (though on oath) ought not to be read if they can be produced viva voce. St. Tr. 1 vol. 169. 780.—2 vol. 575.

Conſpiracy. In conſpiracy for indicting him of felony, &c. the plaintiff was to prove the indictment now ſhewed in evidence a true copy, then he was put to prove what the witneſſes ſwore to the jurors, who did procure them to ſwear and give ſuch evidence; and proof was, that one W. gave the evidence to the jury of life and death, that the plaintiff ſtole the goods, &c. but the witneſs now in court ſwore, that his oath was, the plaintiff took them, but not that he ſtole them; it was found for the defendant, ut credo. Clayt. 126. pl. 224. March 1647. B. R. Burnley's caſe.

Holt Ch. J. expreſly declared, that theſe kind of actions are not to be encouraged, but that the judge before whom any of them are tried, ought to hold the plaintiff to a proof of expreſs malice in the defendant in his proſecution by way of indictment; for if it does not appear that the proſecution was grounded in malice, the action is not maintainable, but the plaintiff muſt be nonſuit. Carth. 417. Trin. 9 Will. 3. B. R. in caſe of Savil. v. Roberts.

In an action of conſpiracy for indicting the plaintiff of felony, and the defendant in his defence did prove he had goods ſtolen, and thereupon did prefer an indictment which was found ignoramus, and then it was proved he did prefer a ſecond indictment, after he had notice the goods were taken by another, and pawned to the plaintiff; and for this the jury found him guilty, and that malice was in this proſecution, which is the chief cauſe to maintain this action; and moreover it was proved, that the defendant had brought actions at law, which was a civil proceeding for the ſame goods ſuppoſed to be ſtolen, which was urged to ſhew the malicious proſecution; but for this, the judge held this of itſelf would not maintain this action; for the party whoſe goods are ſtolen, may proceed both ways without malice; and alſo it was held a ſecond indictment may be preferred upon better evidence, without making the proſecutor liable to this action; ſo note, it was the notice of the matter aboveſaid only did maintain this action. Clayt. 85, 86.

If two or three perſons meet together, and diſcourſe, and conſpire to accuſe another falſely of an offence, it is of itſelf an overt-act, and is indictable: Per Holt Ch. J. But per Powell J. that to make a meeting to conſult and conſpire criminal, they ought to come to ſome reſolution. 11 Mod. 55. Paſch. 4 Ann. B. R. in caſe of Queen v. Baſs.

In information for conſpiracy and attempt to rob Sir Robert Gaire, and binding themſelves by oath to execute the ſame, and lying in wait, &c. they ſaid as to the oath it was out of the county, viz. at the Devil Tavern, which is in London, and therefore ſhould not be regarded; no overt-act, or lying in wait was proved, without which, per cur. the information will not lie, as 2 Inſt. and verdict for the defendant, there being no certain appointment of time, place or perſon, &c. 3 Keb. 799. pl. 58. Trin. 29 Car. 2. B. R. King v. Parkhurſt and Elling.

Conſtat. If a man loſt his letters patents, he may have new letters patents out of the Chancery, if he ſhews to the Chancellor, that he has loſt them; per Fiſher quære inde, for it ſeems, that he ſhall not have but a conſtat, & non negatur ibidem. But admitted upon the argument, whether he ſhews the letters patents of the gift of the King, or not, but that he has loſt his letters patents, and has a new patent, that it ſhall be intended a conſtat, as it ſeems to me, that in this caſe it ſhall ſerve him to ſhew or plead, as well as the firſt patent. Br. Patents, pl. 58. cites 22 H. 7. 12, 13.

Copies. In ejectment, the jury found that the leſſor of the plaintiff had releaſed all right in the land to J. S. but they found, that the releaſe itſelf was not ſhewn to them, but a copy thereof. Per tot' cur': This releaſe may well be found, thus to defend a poſſeſſion. Cro. E. 863. pl. 41. Mich. 43 & 44 Eliz. C. B. Brome v. Car.

There was a covenant between the parties to levy a fine of lands to T. upon condition, that if he did not pay ſo much money by ſuch a day, that it ſhould be to the uſe of C. and his heirs; the fine was levied, and before the day of payment, C. releaſed to T. all his right in the land, and all demands; but afterwards ſuppoſing, that the releaſe he made before the condition broken was not a ſufficient diſcharge of the future uſe, he brought an ejectment, and at the trial a copy of this releaſe was produced in evidence; and all the court held, that this releaſe might well be found in this manner, it being to defend the poſſeſſion. Cro. Eliz. 863. pl. 41. Mich. 43 & 44 Eliz. C. B. Brome v. Car.

If parties have matter of evidence by record of this court, they ought to produce the records themſelves; copies of them are not allowable; ruled per curiam in the Exchequer. Lane 97. Hill. 8 Jac. Smith v. Jennings.

This court ordered copies of depoſitions, and other records, to be recorded and uſed, and to be authentick, and this was with the aſſiſtance of the judges. Chan. Rep. 15 Car. 1. Kinaſton v. The Earl of Derby.

A copy of a deed is good evidence, where the defendant has the deed, and will not produce it. Clayt. Rep. 15. pl. 24. Mich. 1633. 208.

Where the defendant has the deed in his hands, which concerns the land in queſtion, and will produce it, in ſuch caſe, the copy thereof ſhall be permitted to be given in evidence, and ſo it was, and the plaintiff ſwore, it was once in his hand, and this was a true copy of the deed, and himſelf did examine it. Clayt. 15. pl. 24. Mar. 1633. before Vernon, Judge of aſſiſe. Anon'.

Plaintiff having only a copy of a deed of feoffment, under which ſhe claimed, the original being loſt, and the defendant having a counterpart, the plaintiff prayed the copy might be compared with the counterpart, and if it agreed that the ſame might be allowed in pleading as a good deed, ſealed and delivered; referred to a maſter to ſettle the ſame. N. Ch. R. 82. 13 Car. 2. Griffin v. Boynton.

Plaintiff claimed lands by a will, which was proved, the original was taken out of the Prerogative office; decreed, that the copy of the probate of the will, out of the Regiſter's book in the Prerogative office, ſhould be admitted in evidence at law at any trial, which ſhould be had concerning the title of the ſaid lands, as the true original will. Nelſ. Ch. Rep. 82. 13 Car. 2.

It was ruled by Holt Ch. J. in B. R. Mich. 10 Will. 3. that if a man deſtroys a thing that is deſigned to be evidence againſt himſelf, a ſmall matter will ſupply it, and therefore the defendant having tore his own note, ſigned by him, a copy ſworn was admitted to be good evidence to prove it. Lord Raym. Rep. 731. Anon'.

A copy of a fine or recovery is evidence, ſo as it be ſworn to be a true copy, and examined; per Holt Ch. J. 3 Salk. 154. pl. 6. Hill. 8 W. 3. B. R. Lynch v. Clerke.

Where-ever an original is of a publick nature, and would be evidence, if produced, an immediate ſworn copy thereof will be evidence; as the copy of a bargain and ſale, of a deed inrolled, of a church regiſter, &c. But where an original is of a private nature, a copy is not evidence, unleſs the original is loſt or burnt; per Holt Ch. J. 3 Salk. 154. pl. 6. Hill. 8 W. 3. B. R. Lynch v. Clerke.

Copies of affidavits proved to be examined by the originals on the file, and produced in evidence, were allowed (theſe affidavits were taken before commiſſioners in the country); It was objected, that was no evidence, unleſs the commiſſioner who gave the oath was preſent to prove that the defendants were the ſame perſons who made affidavits before him; ſed non allocatur; coram Juſtice Eyre in Oxford circuit, and adjourned to B. R. pro opinione; Paſch. 4 W. & M. on indictment of perjury; and per tot' curiam, the copies are ſufficient evidence. Carth. 220. The King v. James.

A copy of an original is evidence whereſoever the original is evidence, i. e. if proved a true copy, but the copy of the probate of a will in the Eccleſiaſtical court is no evidence, becauſe that is but a copy of a copy. Hale at Huntingdon aſſiſes allowed a copy of a ſhort note of a judgment in an inferior court as good evidence, though the judgment was not entred upon record. Matters of evidence ariſe from conſtant uſage, as well as from what is ſtrictly legal; copies of court rolls, or proceedings in Eccleſiaſtical courts, &c. are good evidence; we know it is uſual for inferior courts not to draw up their records, but only ſhort notes, and copies of theſe ſhort notes being publick things are good evidence; but otherwiſe of private things, for copies of rent rolls are no evidence, but the original muſt be produced. Comb. 337. Trin. 7 W. 3. B. R. The King v. Hains, alderman of Worceſter.

In a trial at bar concerning a leaſe, and when the ſame was to take effect in poſſeſſion, a copy of a ſurvey taken in the late times in 1647, by virtue of a commiſſion granted by the powers then in being, was admitted as evidence; and it was then ſaid, that thoſe ſurveys were taken with great care, and had been often admitted in evidence; but there aſon why the copy was admitted here was, becauſe it was proved, that the original was removed from Gurney-houſe to St. Faith's under St. Paul's, and were there burnt in the great fire; and Northy ſhewed me a caſe in Mich. 25 Car. 2. B. R. between Berry and Halſted, where ſuch a ſurvey was admitted in evidence, by Hale Ch. J. Freem. Rep. 509. pl. 684. Mich. 1699. Underhill v. Durham.

Holt Ch. J. ſaid, that at Huntingdon before Hale Ch. J. the book of town-clerk was read; and if the book may be read, a copy of the book may be read, for in all caſes where the original is evidence, the copy is evidence; but if the original be a copy, there a copy of ſuch original may not be read, as a book for probate of a will of land. Skin. 584. Trin. 7 W. 3. B. R. in caſe of The King v. Hains.

A copy

E V I

A copy of the book at Doctors Commons was produced in evidence to prove such a one to be executor; it was objected, that it was no evidence, because it was but a copy of a copy, and the book ought to be produced, or the will with the probate, or a copy of the probate; non allocatur; for per cur', it being a will of goods, the act of the court is the original, and the will is proved by the act of the court before that it is under the seal with the probate, and so a copy of the act of the court is sufficient; but if it was a will for lands, there a copy would not be sufficient; but they ought to have the entry, and book itself there; per Holt Ch. J. Skin. 431. Pasch. 6. 10 W. & M. B. R. cites it as in a trial at bar the same term in Andrew Newport's case.

Mich. 8 W. 3. C. B. In ejectment, a motion was made for a new trial, because the party against whom the verdict was given, produced in evidence a fine, and the copy of the inrolment of a deed, which led the uses of it; and Rokeby J. before whom it was tried, refused to admit this copy of the inrolment to be evidence; and resolved in C. B. that such copy is evidence prima facie, but the party shall not be estopped by it, as by the record, but may controvert it, as forged, &c. because inrolment at Common law, and that for some purpose; and they relied upon Mr. Kendal's case. (See it now reported, 3 Lev. 387) And of this opinion, Powell J. was generally; but Treby Ch. J. doubted, whether such evidence generally speaking was evidence; but here he agreed with the other justices, viz. Powell and Nevil; because it was only to lead the uses of the fine, which might be done by parol. Ld. Raym. Rap. 746. 10 W. 3. Taylor v. Jones.

Copy of a note given by A. to B. which being left with C. the copy was taken by C. who is since dead.—And according to the copy it seems, that under the note, the defendant B. had subscribed an acknowledgment, that nothing was really due; this though not proved to be a true copy (C. being dead, and the note in the hands of B.) and though B. had sworn in his answer that there was no such acknowledgment subscribed, was allowed to be heard as evidence, being the hand-writing of C. and on producing the note which was on stampt paper, it appeared that the bottom was torn off; Per Cowper Ch. 2 Vern. 603. pl. 541. Hill. 1707. Winne v. Lloyd.

A deed made by Robert Spencer and Elizabeth his wife, to declare the uses of a fine levied by them of the wife's inheritance, being lost, but having been inrolled for safe custody; upon the first hearing of these causes, it being objected, that the conveyance was not a bargan and sale, and so did not operate by the inrolment; and that therefore the copy of the inrolment not to be allowed as evidence; and the court seemed to be of that opinion. But an issue at law being directed to try whether the deed to lead the uses of the fine was duly executed by Mr. Spencer and his wife, the Lord Ch. J. allowed the copy of the inrolment to be given in evidence, and a scrivener also who drew the deed being examined, a verdict passed for the plaintiffs, that the deed was duly executed. 2 Vern. 591. pl. 529. Mich. 1707. Combs v. Dowell, and Squire v. Dowell.

A copy of a rule of court signed by the officer of the court, is no evidence in any other court, unless the judge of the court set his hand to it himself; but at nisi prius the hand of the officer is enough, because it is the same court. 10 Mod. 109. Hill. 1 Ann. B. R. Stennil. v. Brown.

Warrant to a constable to distrain goods by virtue of an act of parliament; he makes a distress and returns the goods to the offender, but keeps the warrant. Resolved that a copy of the warrant in this case will be good evidence. 6 Mod. 83. Mich. 2 Ann. B. R. Morley v. Staker.

The copy of the writ, and the return thereof in the Crown Office, is evidence enough of the false return of a mandamus to be the mayor's. 6. Mod. 152. Pasch. 3 Ann. B. R. Queen v. Chapman mayor of Bath.

A copy of a deed leading the uses of a fine, and inrolled for safe custody only, allowed to be read as evidence at a trial at law. 2 Vern. R. 471. pl. 429. Mich. 1704. Combes v. Spencer.

A copy of the record of a deed inrolled may be given in evidence against the party acknowledging it, as well as any other copy of a record, but it shall not be good against a stranger; per Holt Ch. J. and Powell. Mich. 5 Ann B. R. 3 Lev. 387, 388.

On trespas at the house of the warden of the Fleet, to prove the possession not in the plaintiff, a copy of an inquisition finding a forfeiture of the office, with a judgment thereon of seizure, was produced; sed non allocatur. Trin. 9 Ann. B. R.

The copy of a revocation of the deputation of an office was offered in evidence of the revocation, but not allowed, because it did not appear but the original might be produced. 10 Mod. 74. Hill. 10 Ann. B. R. Queen v. Sutton.

A copy of the condemnation of a ship in the Admiralty court of France, was refused as evidence, for want of an exemplification under the seal of the court. 10 Mod. 108. Hill. 11 Ann. B. R. Stennil v. Brown.

Motion was made that a Justice of peace might produce on a trial on an indictment for subornation of perjury, an examination taken before a justice of peace from a woman, who, at the solicitation and by procurement of the defendant, had charged such an one with being the father of a bastard child; the woman had been convicted of perjury; and per cur. A copy of the examination is no evidence, because it deprives the party of controverting whether it were his hand subscribed to it or not, and therefore the original ought to be shewn; and so it is in all cases were written evidence is produced, which is grounded upon being under a man's hand; and a rule was made that the justice produci faciat the examination at the trial, and the party to have copies in the mean while. It was said, that the reason of allowing copies of the Bank or East-India books, was because the hand-writing must be proved; and Fortescue J. added, that in an indictment for perjury in an affidavit, the original ought to be produced, though he said there had been some question about this matter, and a copy was not sufficient. Mich. 5 Geo. B. R. The King v. Smith. Vin. Ev. 104.

By stat. 8 Geo. cap. 25. sect. 2 Copies of recognizance, in nature of statutes staple, signed by the clerk or his deputy, if original lost, good evidence.

Copy of an old letter in the corporation chest, not evidence. Stran. 401.

Copy of a record may be read at a trial for malicious prosecution, tho' not ordered by the court. Stran. 1122.

Counterparts. Y. covenants with C. to make an assurance of Blackacre before Easter by indenture. Y. dies, the covenant performed, and the very original deed comes into the hands of the executor of Y. and C. brought a writ of covenant on the counterpart; and it was said by the court, that it does not lie without the deed itself; per Walmsly, He may have an action of detinue to recover the deed. Noy 53. Yelverton v. Cornwallis.

In ejectment, title was under a long term, but the original lease could not be produced, but being an ancient lease, the grandson of the lessor produced a counterpart found among the other writings of his grandfather, and this was allowed for evidence, tho' no witnesses were subscribed to it; and Windham J. said, that he had seen many deeds in the time of Queen Elizabeth without witnesses. 1 Lev. 25. Pasch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Garret v. Lister.

Trin. 9 Ann. C. B. Sir William Pole's case, arguendo. In order to induce the court to read the counterpart of a deed where the original could not be produced, it was said there ought to be good reason shewn to the court; as 1st, that the deed is lost; 2dly, that it is in the adversary's hands; 3dly, that the possession was gone according to the deed, and if possession has not gone according to the deed, there ought to be a very good acccunt given why it did not; the court of C. B. was divided in their opinion; there was now a bill of exceptions, and writ of error brought in B. R. but no judgment was there given, the case being agreed. Vin. Ev. 104.

Per

Per Holt Ch. J. In a caſe in my Lord Hale's time between Comb and Mayo, a counterpart of an acient deed was admitted as evidence of the deed, and the ſpecial verdict was drawn up, as finding the deed, with a prout patet by the counterpart, which he ſaid was done to preſerve the precedents; and now by all the court, the counterpart of a deed without other circumſtances is not ſufficient evidence of itſelf. Salk. 287. pl. 23 Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. Anon'.

Court-Rolls. As to the time of a ſurrender made, or court held, the rolls of the manor are no concluding evidence; but ſhall be tried by the country. Le. 289, 290. pl. 395. Trin. 26 Eliz. B. R. Burgeſs v. Foſter.

To maintain cuſtomary deſcents, the court enforced the parties which maintained the cuſtom, to ſhew precedents in the court-rolls to prove the uſage; and Coke Ch. J. ſaid without ſuch proof, that it hath been put in uſe, though it had been deemed and reported to have been the true cuſtom, yet the court could not give credit to the proof by witneſſes. 4 Le. 242. pl. 395. Paſch. 8 Jac. C. B Ratcliff v. Chaplin.

Proclamations whereby the lord claims forfeiture of a copyhold ought to be proved viva voce, and not by the court-rolls only; held in evidence to a jury. Keb. 287. pl. 98. Paſch. 14 Car. 2. B. R. Pateſon v. D'Anges, alias Lord Saliſbury's caſe.

On traverſe of tenure by ſuit of court-rent of 16*s.* and relief in replevin; as evidence of the relief, ſeveral ancient rolls tempore H. 8. and Ed. 6. and Eliz. and Jac. 1. were produced, ſhewing relief due for the eſtate in queſtion, and alſo for other eſtates; alſo old accounts of bailiffs of the manor in which reliefs were mentioned; alſo there was parol proof, the rent and ſuit of court, and verdict pro domino manerii; for in caſe of heriots, juſtice Levenz allowed of ſuch ancient memorials, tho' no evidence could be given of any modern payment; that till the time of Queen Elizabeth theſe rolls were kept regularly and well by counſel, but ſince that time they were drawn up by attornies and others not ſkilled in the law, and ſo were not of that great authority as formerly; that a relief was incident to a tenure of ſocage by rent and fealty, and upon death of the tenant the heir ought to pay double the rent; that ſeiſin of the rent was ſeiſin of the fealty, and ſeiſin of fealty was ſeiſin of all manner of ſervices; that the ſtatute of Car. 2. had aboliſhed the ſlaviſh part of the tenures, but had preſerved and eſtabliſhed all duties telating to them; that he would not preſume the relief or other ſervices had been releaſed; that tho' the preſcription here was to hold a court-leet and court-baron every year within a month after Michaelmas and Eaſter, and court-barons ought to be held oftener, and are not tied down to this rule by any ſtatute; yet of late years they have uſually been held together, and as it is the general practice, it is well enough. Mr. Hale's caſe, lord of the manor of King's-Nympton, coram Baron Price, at Lent, Devon. 1717, 1718. Vin. Ev. 105.

If proof be to be made of a particular benefit, which the lord of the manor is to have, no better proof can be of this than by the rolls of the court; for no proof can be more directly and particular, than by ſetting down of all the rolls in certain; per Whitlock J. per Dodderidge J. The lord ought to ſhew that the rent or heriot, &c. was paid; for the ſteward may put in what he will; afterwards judgment was for the lord. 3 Bulſt. 324. Hill. 1 Car. B. R. Hungerford v. Haviland.

Decrees. A decree of Chancery, or other court of equity, is not any evidence in a court of Common law, as in Walſingham's caſe. Agreed per curiam, 2 Sid. 75. Paſch. 1658. B. R. in the caſe of Marret v. Sly.

A decretal order under ſeal, which recites all the proceedings on exemplification under the great ſeal, hath been allowed to be read; per Twiſden, but per Allen contra, not unleſs it hath the bill and anſwer, to which Windham agreed; but by Twiſden, Where the decree is produced only in paper, then the bill and anſwer ought to be adjoined, but not ſo when the decree is under ſeal; and in C. B. Stiffe v. Stiffe, the judges admitted a decree to have been under ſeal, and yet would not allow it without bill and anſwer; and by Allen it is uſual to diſallow ſuch decrees; but an exemplification in Chancery, per curiam, always recites the bill and anſwer. Moreton ſerjeant ſaid, he never did ſee the ſeal of any court denied to be given in evidence. Keb. 21. pl. 62. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Trowell v. Caſtle.

Deeds. Regularly he who pleads a deed, or will take any benefit by it, muſt produce the deed itſelf; and this my Lord Coke ſays, is for two purpoſes: Firſt, That it may appear to the court, what the operation of the deed is, and that it be not on condition, limitation, or containing a power of revocation; and of this the judges are to judge. Secondly, That it may appear to have been legally executed, and without raſures, interlineations, or other imperfections; and of this the jury are to determine. 10 Co. 92. a. b.

But though it be regularly true, that the deed itſelf muſt be produced, yet in caſes of extreme neceſſity, as where the deed is burnt, &c. the court will admit a copy of it to be given in evidence, or will admit it to be proved by witneſſes. 10 Co. 92.

Cancelled deeds allowed in evidence after proof of the ill practice how they came to be cancelled. Het. 138. Hill. 4 Car. C. B. Beckrow's caſe.

Seals broken off from a deed to lead the uſes of a recovery ſubſequent, yet being proved it was done by a little boy, and that the ſeals were once annexed, and the raſures of the parts agreed upon examination, it was admitted to guide the uſes. Lat. 226. Mich. 3 Car. Anon'.

The defendant produced a deed under the plaintiff's hand and ſeal, whereto were witneſſes names; but becauſe they did not prove the witneſſes dead, nor that they were gone to ſea, though they alledged it, it was not permitted at firſt to be given in evidence; but afterwards, upon proof that it was read at a former trial, it was ſuffered to be read. Freem. Rep. 84. pl. 103. Paſch. 1673. Phillips v. Crawly.

Twiſden ſaid he had ſeen adminiſtration given in evidence after the ſeal broke off, and ſo wills and deeds. 1 Mod. 11. pl. 34. Mich. 21 Car. 2. B. R. in caſe of Clerk v. Heath.

It was ſaid, that when there is a common ſeal put to a deed, that is title enough of itſelf, without witneſs to prove it, or that the major part of the college be agreed; and if it was ſaid that it was put to by the hand of a ſtranger, that ſhall be proved on the ſide that ſays ſo. Skin. 2. pl. 2. Mich. 33 Car. B. R. Lord Brounker v. Sir Robert Atkins.

Upon a trial at bar the plaintiff made title by an act of parliament 16 & 17 Car. 2. the defendant's defence was upon a proviſo in that act, which ſaved all rights to the King, and eſtates before 1639. made with power of revocation, by Sir Robert Carr the father, and then not actually revoked. The defendant would have ſet up a ſettlement made before that time, and proved it ſealed and delivered before that time, and to prove that it was not actually revoked by Sir Robert Carr, offered an abſtract of the deed, and a caſe made upon it, with an opinion, under the hand of Mr. juſtice Ellis, with the depoſitions of Mr. juſtice Ellis in Chancery, in a caſe between Sir Robert Carr the ſon and his mother; wherein it appears to be a deed in force after Sir Robert Carr's death, though not cancelled and cut in pieces; yet the court refuſed it as evidence, and would not allow the deed to be read. Skin, 205. pl. 2. Mich. 36 Car. 2. B. R. Scroop v. Carr.

Deeds not ſtamped will not be allowed to be given in evidence. See the ſtamp acts, 5 & 6 W. & M. cap. 21. &c.

A deed of bargain and ſale acknowledged by the bargainee, and inrolled, by which a term for years was aſſigned, was given in evidence without any proof made of the bargainor's ſealing and delivery thereof; and after debate it was allowed, per Holt Ch. J. and Eyre J. and tot. cur. For the acknowledgment of the Party in a court of record, or before a maſter extraordinary in the country (as this was) is good evidence of its being ſealed and delivered, and ſuch an acknowledgment eſtops a man from pleading non eſt factum. Alſo inrollments of deeds on the the ſtatute are admitted every day in evidence, without witneſſes of the ſealing and delivery; and it is the acknowledgment which gives it credit, and not its operation or contents. 1 Salk. 280. pl. 7. Paſch. 6 W. & M. in B. Smart v. Williams.

E V I

Alſo they held a ſworn copy of a deed inrolled, good evidence. 1 Salk. 281. Ibid.

Counterpart of ancient deeds loſt good evidence with other circumſtances, but not of itſelf, but of a deed leading the uſes of fine, it is good evidence of itſelf. 6 Mod. 225. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R.

Depoſitions. It was inſiſted upon by the ſolicitor general, that the depoſitions in Chancery, which were read againſt the Lord of Bath in the other cauſe are no evidence in this, becauſe the trial is not between the ſame parties, and depoſitions are never evidence but where they are mutual, and this defendant ſhelters himſelf under the other's title, and the title of the land is not in queſtion, but to whom the rent ſhall be paid. If the defendant gives the plaintiff's anſwer in Chancery in evidence, he may inſiſt to read only ſuch part as he will; for it is like examination of witneſſes; but the other ſide may inſiſt to have the whole read after. 5 Mod. 9. Mich. 6 W. & M. E. of Bath v. Batterſea.

An appeal was from the commiſſioners of exciſe to the commiſſioners of appeals upon the ſtatute 12 Car. 2. cap. 23. the queſtion was, Whether the depoſitions of witneſſes, and their examination wrote by the clerk of the commiſſioners of exciſe, ſhould be read in evidence upon this appeal? or whether the commiſſioners of appeal ſhould not re-examine the witneſſes viva voce? The court (mutata opinione) held, that the commiſſioners ought to examine the witneſſes de novo on the appeal. And that it was the intent of the act, and the commiſſioners of appeals had authority given for that purpoſe by the act to adminſter oaths, and this was juſt, becauſe the firſt ſentence might be by default, or the depoſitions might miſrepreſent, or not repreſent the whole caſe; and that on appeals from orders of juſtices, examination is always de novo; thereupon a prohibition was granted; but Holt Ch. Juſtice ſaid that his private opinion was, that if witneſſes were dead, they might uſe the depoſition. 2 Salk. 555. Mich. 8 W. 3. B. R. Breedon v. Gill.

Depoſition taken before juſtices of the peace cannot be read upon appeal to the quarter ſeſſions, nor can depoſitions taken before commiſſioners of bankrupts be uſed at trial at Common law. Arg. Ld. Ray. Rep. 220. Eaſt. 9 W. 3. in caſe of Breedon and Gill.

If a witneſs who is not likely to be had at a trial be examined before a judge, and croſs-examined by the other party, and his depoſitions put in writing; yet if at the trial it be proved, that the party might have had him there, his depoſitions are not to be read. Per cur'. 12 Mod. 493. Paſch. 13 W. 3. Anon'.

On a trial on an information for a libel, depoſitions taken before a juſtice of peace relating to the fact, the deponent being ſince dead, where not allowed in evidence. Per. B. R. Upon advice, with the judges of C.B. In caſes of felony ſuch depoſitions before a juſtice, if the deponent die, may be uſed in evidence, by 1 & 2 Ph. & Mar. cap. 13. but this cannot be extended farther than the particular caſe of felony. 1 Salk. 281. Hill. 7 W. 3. B. R. The King v. Pain.

To prove a jointure (the jointure deed being loſt) depoſitions in Chancery were produced and offered to be read) the bill and anſwer being taken off the file and loſt) but propoſed to prove by the ſix clerk's book, that it was once filed, and produced and inrollment of the decree, which mentioned both bill and anſwer; and the court held, that the deed being loſt, the proof might be ſupplied by memorials. 5 Mod. 210. Paſch. 8 W. 3. Barley's caſe.

At Lent aſſiſes at Thetford, 12 W. 3. 1699. Holt. Ch. J. refuſed to admit depoſitions in Chancery to be given in evidence after the bill was diſmiſſed; but it was reſerved as a point for his future conſideration, and conference had with the practicers in Chancery; he gave his opinion, that notwithſtanding ſuch diſmiſſion of the bill, the depoſitions were good evidence. And ſo he ruled it afterwards at Guildhall, at the ſittings after Hillary term 1 Ann. Lord Raym. Rep.. 735. Smith v. Veale.

If a witneſs going to ſea be by rule of court examined upon interrogatories before a judge, and the trial comes on before he is gone, his depoſitions ſhall not be read, but he muſt appear, for the rule was made on ſuppoſal of his abſence. 2 Salk. 691. Paſch. 13 W. 3. B. R. Anon. and by conſent of the parties. Per Pratt, Ch. J.

Theſe depoſitions in perpetuam, &c. cannot be made uſe of againſt any others but the defendants who were ſubpœnaed to defend the matter, or ſome claiming under them, to whom ſome intereſt accrued ſince the bill preferred. Pract. Reg. 36, 37.

It was ruled by Holt Ch. J. at Lent aſſiſes, at Eaſt-Grimſtead, 11 Will. 3. 1699. that if an anſwer to interrogatories in Chancery be given in evidence at a trial, they ought to be proved by the examiner himſelf, to have been the ſame day that is mentioned upon them. Ld. Raym. Rep. 734. Goring v. Evelin.

Several perſons were examined as witneſſes, no ways concerned in intereſt, and the cauſe heard, and iſſues directed to be tried, but the trials were not carried on, and the cauſe ſlept many years, and after abated; and then thoſe perſons who had been examined as witneſſes became heirs at law, and thereby intereſted in the matter; the cauſe was revived and heard, and the ſame iſſues directed to be tried; and the perſons who had been ſo examined (being now plaintiffs) prayed to have an order that their depoſitions taken when they were diſintereſted might be read, as evidence at law for themſelves; and my Lord Keeper ordered accordingly, and likened it to the caſe where one is the only, or only ſurviving witneſs to a deed, becomes the party intereſted, his hand may be proved at law; ſo if a witneſs to a deed becomes blind. Then the cauſe proceeded to trial at bar in C. B. where the whole court held their depoſitions could not be read without conſent, the parties being living; but the defendant conſented, and had a verdict for him, and the plaintiff obtained a new trial, and then would have had the ſame order; but my Lord Keeper ſaid, Since the judges had reſolved otherwiſe, he could not take upon him to make that evidence which was not, amd therefore only ordered they ſhould be read in evidence, as by law they might. Abr. Equ. Caſes 224. Trin. 1702. Holcraft v. Smith.

Depoſitions were taken in Chancery in perpetuam rei-memoriam; and it happened afterwards that the inheritance of the ſame land deſcended to a perſon who was ſworn as a witneſs, and he was now a party to the ſuit in ejectment; and upon a queſtion in C. B. whether theſe depoſitions could be read, Trevor Ch. J. held they ought; but Tracy and Blencow contra; whereupon Tracy went to B. R. for the opinion of the court, and per cur', they ought not to be read; for the only intent of ſuch depoſitions was to perpetuate teſtimony in caſe witneſſes died, and they cannot be read in any caſe between other parties till after the death of the witneſs, who is to appear and give evidence viva voce as long as he lives: much leſs can they be read in this caſe where the witneſs himſelf is a party. 1 Salk. 286. Mich. 2 Ann. Tilly's caſe.

The depoſitions of one in Ireland, or elſewhere out of England, where no proceſs will fetch him, may be read as evidence to prove the record, as alſo in caſe one be ſick, &c. Per Gould and Powell J. it is better to have witneſſes viva voce, where they may be had; but ſuppoſe the record be out of the Queen's dominions, or in the Weſt-Indies, or in Scotland, a depoſition would do in ſuch caſes; per Powell J. the law requires the beſt evidence that can be had; but we cannot compel any one to come out of Ireland, nor oblige any one to go and inform himſelf in order to be a witneſs; but the rule is to be interpreted with reſpect to the perſons depoſing, is that a man's affidavit ſhall not be read when he is here to give his evidence viva voce; yet the depoſitions of thoſe that are abſent may be read; per Holt Ch. J. and cited Cro. 541. but ſaid, he would not warrant the authority of the caſe. 11 Mod. 210. pl. 1. Paſch. 8 Ann. B. R. Lord Altham v. Lord Angleſey.

E V I

Depoſitions in another cauſe, in which the matters in queſtion were not in iſſue, cannot be read. MSS. Tab. 1706. Allibone v. Attorney General.

Regularly the depoſitions in Chancery of a witneſs ſhall not be given in evidence, if he be alive, although he be beyond ſea, as in Ireland, &c. otherwiſe if he be in France, or another kingdom, not ſubject to the dominion of our King. Tr. per Pais, 7th edit. 385, 386.

Depoſitions in a former cauſe, where neither plaintiff nor defendant were parties, cannot be read as evidence, but depoſitions in a cauſe, where either plaintiff or defendant were parties, may be read as evidence againſt ſuch plaintiff or defendant. MSS. Tab. January 20th 1702. Lord Peterborough v. Germain.—— February 25, 1717. Everard v. Aſhton.

Where a perſon has been examined in Chancery, his depoſition may be read at law between the ſame parties, if proved to be dead, or ſick, or out of the kingdom. Atkyns's Rep. 445.

Depoſitions in Chancery are evidence after the bill is diſſmiſſed. Stran. 735.

Examination. Examination of one examined in the Admiralty court, uſed here at the hearing. Toth. 288. cites 16 Eliz. li. a. fo. 530. Watkins v. Furſland.

The defendant having prepared for a former trial, which the plaintiff delayed, and would not proceed then, but now ſtirred a trial on again, whereupon the defendant prayed, that it might be ſtayed on ſuggeſton, that his material witneſſes were mariners, and now going to ſea with the fleet, and would not be ready 'till Michaelmas term next. The court agreed to examine the witneſſes by conſent of parties before the Ch. J. the trial being to be before him, and that the plaintiff, if he would, might croſs-examine them. 2 Keb. 13. pl. 32. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Catline v. Pidgeon.

A witneſs not to be examined viva voce at the hearing. Toth. 287. cites Wright v. Moor, 6 Car. 1.

To examine witneſſes upon oath for proof of acquittances, payments, and other diſburſements upon hearing. Toth. 287. cites Comes Kenrice v. Gore, Paſc. 6 Car'.

Nota pro regula. Examination of witneſſes by interrogatories out of the term, by Foſter Ch. J. is extrajudicial, and not to be allowed, though the party conſent; contrary by Twiſden and Windham, conſenſus (if according to law) tollit errorem; and the court may as well allow the examination of witneſſes before a judge by depoſitions, as read the affidavit of a perſon abſent; this is no more than the law allows. 1 Keb. 36. pl. 98. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. Blake v. Page.

If one witneſs be examined for the defendant de bene eſſe, to preſerve his teſtimony upon a bill preferred, and before anſwer, and upon an order in court for his examination made upon hearing counſel on both ſides; and if after anſwer the witneſs dies before he is examined again, the anſwer coming on the 28th of Nov. and the witneſs's death hapening on the 18th of December following, and he being ſick all the mean time, ſo that he could not go to be examined; the examination of ſuch witneſs ſhall not be read in evidence, becauſe it was taken before iſſue joined in the cauſe, and he might have been examined after; and the defendant did not appear to be in contempt. Held upon evidence in the Exchequer per curiam, by advice of all the other judges conſulted with thereupon. Hard. 315. pl. 6. Mich. 14. Car. 2. Browne's caſe.

The witneſſes may be examined before a judge by leave of the court, as well in criminal cauſes as in civil, where a ſufficient reaſon appears to the court, as going to ſea, &c. and then the other ſide may croſs-examine them. Comb. 63. Mich. 3 Jac. 2. B. R. Mather v. Port.

In a trial at bar, May 14, 1705. of an iſſue out of Chancery to try if a leaſe was made in purſuance of a power, which was to make leaſes for the beſt rent that could be got; a witneſs named Ruſhley was examined in Chancery concerning the value of the land, having been collector of the rents; and at the time of his examination in Chancery he referred to and conſulted his rental. But now at this trial he was become blind, and thereupon his examination in Chancery, and depoſitions there were admitted to be read; becauſe if he had been ſo ill as that he could not have come to the trial, they had been good evidence, and now he is diſabled to conſult the rental, by the act of God, and therefore the ſame reaſon holds. He alſo gave evidence of what he remembered beſides. 2 Ld. Raym. Rep. 1166. Eaſt. 4 Ann. Kinſman v. Crook.

Where a ſupplemental bill is brought after publication in the original cauſe, it is irregular to examine the witneſſes to a matter that was in iſſue, and not proved in the original cauſe, and ſuch proofs are not to be read. March 31, 1725. Tab. Bagnall v. Bagnall.

Exemplification. In aſſiſe, he who pleads a recovery in a writ of right in court-baron in bar of aſſiſe before juſtices of aſſiſe, ought to ſhew the record exemplified under the ſeal of the Chancellor, and otherwiſe it is no plea, and it ought to be removed into Chancery by recordare, &c. and then to be exemplified. Br. Barr. pl. 95. cites 28 Ed. 3. and Fitz. tit. Aſſiſe.

By ſtat. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. cap. 4. ſect. 2. "All perſons which ſhall claim by force of any patents to be made by the King, and all other that ſhall have an eſtate or intereſt in any lands, offices, or other things, by or under ſuch patentees, may convey unto themſelves title, as well againſt the King as againſt any other perſon, by ſhewing forth the exemplification or conſtat of the roll, or of ſo much thereof as ſhall ſerve for the matters in variance, under the Great Seal; and the exemplification or conſtat of the inrollment ſhall be of the ſame force, as the firſt letters patent ſhould be, or if the ſame where pleaded or ſhewed."

Exemplifications of depoſitions taken in Chancery to prove one's being of age when he levied a fine, was allowed as evidence, and the jury regarded it more than the fines being reverſed for non-age. Dy. 301. pl. 40. Trin. 13 Eliz.

By ſtat. 13 Eliz. cap. 6. "An exemplification or conſtat of a patent under the Great Seal is ſufficient for the patentee."

And by the ſame ſtatute, "An exemplification of the inrollment of the letters patent by H. 8. E. 6. Qu. M. Ph. & M. Qu. Eliz. or any of them, ſince the 4th of Feb. in the 27th H. 8. or hereafter to be granted by the queen, her heirs or ſucceſſors, ſhall be of as good force to be ſhewn and pleaded in behoof of the patentees, their heirs and ſucceſſors, and aſſigns, and every other perſon having any eſtates from, by, or under them, or any of them, as well againſt the Queen, her heirs or ſucceſſors, as againſt any other perſons whatſoever, as if the letters patent themſelves were produced."

By ſtat. 17 Eliz. cap. 9. ſ. 8. "The exemplification of records of any fine or recovery inrolled, or any part thereof, in the twelve ſhires of Wales, and the town of Haverfordweſt, under the judicial ſeal, or in the counties palatine, under the ſeal of the reſpective county palatine, ſhall be of as good force as the orignal record itſelf."

In ejectment upon the iſſue of Not guilty, the defendant gave in evidence a recovery in Wales in a quod ei deforceat, and iſſue being tendered thereupon, the defendant produced an exemplification under the ſeal of the great ſeſſions; but not the record itſelf, whereupon the plaintiff demurred to the evidence; and after long arguments it was ſaid by the judges, that an exemplification of a record in Wales might not be given in evidence while the record itſelf is in being, unleſs the ſame where exemplified under the Great Seal, and then the court ought to take notice; but not of other inferior ſeals, but an exemplification may be produced in evidence in the ſame court, to prove a record upon a nul tiel record pleaded; but agreed, that a ſworn copy of a record in Wales might be given in evidence. Hard. 118, 119, 120. Trin. 1658. in Scacc. Oliver v. Gwyn.

Copies of depoſitions are not to be allowed to be exemplified. 2 Chan. Rep. 36. 21 Car. 2. Brabant v. Perne.

The

E V I

The defendant ſetting up an intail, the plaintiff exhibited an exemplification of a recovery in the Marquis of Wincheſter's court in ancient demeſne; the other ſide objected that they did not prove it a true copy; but becauſe it was ancient, the court ſaid they ſhould not be ſo ſtrict upon the evidence of it, for the other ſide ſaid the court-rolls were burnt in the Baſeing-houſe in the time of the wars, and Hales ſaid the mayor of Briſtol had offered in evidence an exemplification of a recovery under the town ſeal, of houſes in Briſtol, the records being burnt, and that exemplification was allowed for evidence. 1 Mod. 117. pl. 17. Paſch. 26 Car. 2. B. R. Green v. Proude.

In evidence to a jury at bar of Eſſex in ejectment, Maynard pro defendant offered an exemplification under the Great Seal in 1588, of depoſitions in Chancery, whereby a conveyance made in 86, and loſt, was proved; and the court agreed, that being ſo old, and the records of the rolls burnt ſince, it is good evidence, though the bill and anſwer were not in it, which, per Twiſden and Maynard, was uſed but thirty years laſt paſt, and before it was not uſual to inſert the bill and anſwer; and this was given in evidence in a former trial here at bar, tho' it appearing to be a bill of diſcovery by Francis Moor and Richard Moor his father, under whom the plaintiff claimed as heir, the defendant as purchaſer, becauſe the depoſitions of ſuch are never publiſhed without notice given to both parties. 2 Keb. 31. pl. 65. Paſch. 18 Car. 2. B. R. Blower v. Thetchmore.

Exemplification of letters patent of a grant of fee-farm rents was produced, but ſo far only as concerned this grant was ſhewn forth, and good. Carth. 209. 3 W. & M. in B. R. Tucker v. Hodges.

Will exemplified under the great ſeal is no evidence to a jury in ejectment. Comp. 46. Paſch. 3 Jac. 2. B. R. Anon'.

In replevin, exception was taken to the avowry, that the demiſe of the manor for ninety-nine years was alledged to be to Sir H. B. &c. by indenture under the Great Seal, prout by inrollment of the ſaid indenture in Chancery it appears, but did not produce any exemplification or conſtat thereof; but after it is alledged that this indenture is loſt; but that the ſaying that the indenture is loſt is not ſufficient; for if this ſhould be allowed, the ſtatute of 3 & 4 Ed. 6. cap. 4. was made to no purpoſe, by which act in ſuch caſe, title may be made by producing an exemplification or conſtat, &c. and to this all the court at firſt inclined, if it was not aided by the confeſſing it in the bar by a direct bene & verum eſt; but afterwards Powell and Rookby Juſtices held, that it was not aided; but this was not fully reſolved per curiam; and the reporter adds a quære alſo if advantage can be taken of it unleſs by ſupecial demurrer. 2 Lutw. 1171, 1172. Hil. 1 W. & M. in caſe of Hill v. Bolton.

Exemplification of part of a patent not allowed to be read in evidence, notwithſtanding the ſtatutes of 3 & 4 Ed. 6. and 13 Eliz. in caſes where the other ſide have not time to conſult the patent roll, and ſo may be ſurprized by an imperfect exemplication. Chan. Prec. 59. pl. 56. Mich. 1695. Attorney General, at the relation of the inhabitants of Stains v. Taylor.

Plaintiff would have read in evidence an exemplification of part of a patent; but defendant objected, that nothing but the patent itſelf, or an exemplification, or copy of the whole, could by law be evidence; and it was not ſuffered to be read in evidence, notwithſtanding the ſtatutes 3 & 4 Ed. 6. & 13 Eliz. where the other ſide have no time to conſult the patent roll; and ſo may be ſuprized by an imperfect exemplification. Chanc. Prec. 59. Mich. 1695. Attorney General, at the relation of the inhabitants of Stains v. Taylor.

To prove the delivery of goods to a maſter of a ſhip, an exemplification of the entry thereof was offered in evidence, which entry was made in the cuſtom-houſe books at Rotterdam, atteſted by a publick notary, and ſealed with the publick ſeal there; but the court would not admit this exemplification to be given in evidence. 8 Mod. 75. Paſch. 8 Geo. The King v. Maſon.

Fine. A fine may be given in evidence to a jury, tho' not under the ſeal of the court or great ſeal. Pl. C. 410. Mich. 13 & 14 Eliz. Newys v. Larke.

Foreign letters in a ſtrange language. In a cauſe in Chanc. between two Jews, ſeveral letters written in Portugueſe were tranſlated (without order of the court) and the Engliſh copies were proved to be true copies of the orignals; but per Maſter of the Rolls, Theſe are no evidence, for the court always appoints a tranſlator, and he would not allow theſe Engliſh copies to be read, although it was ſaid the Portugueſe letters were alſo proved. Paſch. 9 Geo. in Chanc.

Goldſmith's note. Goldſmith's note to pay is evidence of his receiving money. 1 Salk. 283. pl. 14. Hill. 12 Will. 3. Ford v. Hopkins.

Guardian's anſwer in Chancery. On a trial at bar in ejectment the queſtion aroſe, whether the anſwer of a guardian in Chancery ſhall be received as evidence in B. R. to conclude the infant, there being ſome opinions that it ought to be read; and the defendant's counſel inſiſting on the contrary, Mr. Juſtice Eyres being the puiſne juſtice was ſent to C. B. to know their opinion, who returning made this report, That the judges of that court where all of opinion, that ſuch anſwer ought not to be read as evidence, for it was only to bring the infant into court, and to make him a party. 3 Mod. 258. Mich. 1 W. & M. in B. R. Eggleſton v. Speke.

Hearſay. To prove a diſcharge of tithes by unity of poſſeſſion in the time of the abbot, and at the time of the diſſolution, two perſons teſtified, that they had ſeen a deed of appropriation of the parſonage to the abbot, for which reaſon they verily thought there was an unity of poſſeſſion at the time of the diſſolution; but it was ruled to be no proof; for it may be intended not to continue, and a conſultation was granted, but they ſaid that hereſay ſhall be allowed for a proof. Cro. E. 228. pl. 17. Paſch. 33 Eliz. B. R. Stanſham v. Cullington.

Hearſay from others is not to be applied immediately to the priſoner; however thoſe matters that are remote at firſt may ſerve to prove there was a general conſpiracy to deſtroy the King and government; and ſo was the conſtant rule and method about the popiſh plot, firſt to produce evidence of the plot in general; by Ch. J. cites Sidney's caſe, Tri. per Pais 56.

Being told by perſons of good credit all along the road of the parliament's prorogation, is good evidence of notice in an action of falſe impriſonment. 2 Show. 300. pl. 302. Paſch. 31 Car. 2. B. R. Vercon v. Deacle.

On a modus alledged, it was agreed that where the ſtatute appoints proof of the ſurmiſe to be by two, it is ſufficient if two affirm that they have known it be ſo, or that the common fame is ſo. Noy 28. Anon'.

On a modus ſuggeſted, and iſſue joined upon it, the witneſſes ſaid, that for a long time, as they heard ſay, the occupiers of that farm, &c. had uſed to pay annually to the parſon three ſhillings for all tithes; and it was agreed, that a prooof by hearſay was good enough to maintain the ſurmiſe, within the ſtatute 2 E. 6. Noy 44. Webb v. Potts.

If a witneſs ſwear in a cauſe and dies; per cur'. held, that in another trial one that heard him may upon oath repeat his teſtimony, and it ſhall be good evidence. 2 Show. 48. *pl.*33. Paſch. 31 Car. 2. B. R. King v. Carpenter.

Though a hearſay was not be allowed as a direct evidence, it may be made uſe of to this purpoſe, viz. to prove that a man was conſtant to himſelf, whereby his teſtimony was corroborated. 1 Mod. 283. pl. 29. Trin. 29 Car. 2. B. R. Lutterell v. Reynell.

In ſuit between A. and B. A. produced a deed. In a ſuit afterwards, between C. and A. it was viva voce proved, that A. in a cauſe between A. and B. produced ſuch a deed which proved ſo and ſo, &c. Per cur'. It is good evidence; for here A. may give that very deed in evidence if he will, which C. cannot, becauſe it is in A's cuſtody. Carth. 80. Mich. 1 W. & M. B. R. Eccleſtone v Speke.

The ſaying of old men not to be given in evidence on iſſue, whether parcel or not parcel, as they may in caſe of

E V I

of a modus; coram Baron Bury, at Launceſton. Lam. 1710.

Queſtion in ejectment, whether ſuch a parcel belong to one or other; the declaration of a perſon who held under both, and by deed was allowed as evidence by Lord Ch. J Hardwicke. Summer aſſizes at Exeter 1735. between Roll v. Fellow.

In the caſe of murder, what the deceaſed declared after the wound given, may be given in evidence. Coram King Ch. J. apud Old Baily, 1720. King v. Ely.

In Trowter's caſe, Paſch. 8 Geo. B.R. the court would not admit the declaration of the deceaſed, which had been reduced into writing, to be given in evidence without producing the writing.

Herald's books. Herald's books were admitted to be good evidence for triers of a challenge to prove couſinage in the ſheriff. 2 Plow. 426. a. Mich. 14 & 15 Eliz. C. B. in the caſe of Vernon v. Mannors.

In indictment at a taial at bar, a herald's book being ancient, was admitted as evidence to prove a pedigree; and an inquiſition poſt mortem is likewiſe evidence, but not concluding evidence. 2 Jones 224. Mich. 34 Car. 2. B. R. Earl of Thanet v. Foſter.

In this caſe the viſitation-book of the county of Worceſter by the heralds, was allowed as evidence, being an original, but a copy has been often diſſallowed. Comb. 63. Mich. 3 Jac. 2. B. R. Matthews v. Port.

An entry in the herald's office ſhall not be allowed good evidence to prove a pedigree for an heir; becauſe they are not matters of record, but allowed only as circumſtantial evidence. L. P. R. 537.

Herald's books not allowed as evidence to prove a pedigree at Sarum aſſizes, Lent 1719. coram Forteſque A. in ejectment; for he ſaid it was made up by the party that ſigned it, and returned into the office and not the entries of any publick office.

Hiſtory. A general hiſtory may be given in evidence to prove a matter relating to the kingdom in general, becauſe the nature of the thing requires it, but not to prove a particular right or cuſtom. 1 Salk. 281. pl. 9. Mich. 7 W. 3. B. R. Stainer v. The Burgeſſes of Droitwich.

Speed's chronicle was given in evidence to prove the death of Iſabell Queen dowager to Ed. 2. though Maynard ſeemed to oppoſe it; and Dolbin ſaid it was done by conſent; yet the Chief Juſtice ſaid, he knew not what better proof they could have; and Waller ſaid, that in the houſe of lords it was admitted by them in lord Bridgwater's caſe. Skin. 15. pl. 16. 33 Car. 2. B. R. Lord Brounker v. Sir Robert Atkyns.

In ejectment for the barony of Cockermouth, and all the honours, manors, &c. of Joceline the late Earl of Northumberland, of the family of Piercy in the county of Cumberland, Sir William Dugdale's book of the Baronage of England was offered as evidence: ſed non allocatur. 2 Jo. 164. Mich. 33 Car. 2. B. R. Piercy v. ——.

Dugdale's Monaſticon was refuſed in evidence to prove the abbey of Fountains of the order of Ciſtertians in the Exchequer in this term, becauſe it might be proved by the records in the court of augmentation; the ſame law of Dugdale's baronage in Piercy's caſe; le quel jeo obſervavi. Skin. 624. pl. 17. Mich. 7 Will. 3. B. R. in the caſe of Steyner v. Droitwich Burgeſſes.

Deed was produced 1 W. & M. and chronicles were admitted to prove that King Philip did not uſe the ſtile which was not in the deed at that time. 12 Mod. 86. Mich. 7 W. 3. cites Neal v. Jay.

Upon an iſſue out of Chancery, whether by the cuſtom of Droitwich, ſaltpits could be ſunk in any part of the town, or in a certain place only, Camden's Britannia was offered in evidence but refuſed; for the court held, that a general hiſtory might be given in evidence to prove a matter relating to the Kingdom in general, becauſe the nature of the thing requires it, but not to prove a particular right or cuſtom. So in the caſe of St. Katherine's hoſpital, Hale Ch. J. allowed a chronicle to be evidence of a particular point of hiſtory in E. 3. time. 1 Salk. 281. pl. 9. Mich. 7 W. 3. B. R. Stainer v. Burgeſſes of Droitwitch.

There was a trial at bar concerning the right of viſiting Univerſity college in Oxford. One of the iſſues in this caſe was, whether King Alfred was founder? and the counſel for the plaintiff would have given in evidence ſeveral hiſtorians as to this point; but the Ch. J. declared, that ſuch evidence is never admitted, unleſs in proof of a point concerning the government; the reſt of the court did not deny it; accordingly it was waived. 1 Barnard. Rep. in B. R. 14 Paſch. 13 Geo. 1. Cockman v. Mather.

Indorſement. In debt by adminiſtratrix on a bond to inteſtate dated 35 years ago; at the trial the plaintiff offered in evidence an indorſment by the inteſtate's own hand, of the payment of intereſt for one year after the bond was nine years old; but the Ch. J. who tried it, would not admit it, becauſe the indorſement being all his own hand-writing, might be made at one time and dated at another, and being made by himſelf ought not to be given in evidence for him; plaintiff was nonſuited; and on a caſe ſtated by way of reference for the opinion of the court, it was agreed for the plaintiff, that the rule that no man can be evidence in his own cauſe is diſpenſed with in caſe of neceſſity, where no other evidence can be had, as in the plaintiff's caſe, and the rather as it is to prove money paid in diſcharge of the defendent. Urged e contra, that if ſo, any one, who gets the poſſeſſion of an old bond, may charge the obligor after payment, by making ſuch an indorſement. Per two juſtices, No judgment can be given, as it comes not judicially before the court; but after ſaid it was a queſtion for the jury, whether this was a true indorſement or not, and that this might be admitted, becauſe ſuch indorſements are daily made, and at the requeſt of the obligor, and is the ſureſt evidence, becauſe acquittances may be loſt, whereas the indorſement continues as long as the bond itſelf; Ch. J. diſſentiente; it was adjourned. 8 Mod. 279. Trin. 10 Geo. Serle v. Barrington.

Inqueſt of office. An inqueſt of office is no concluding evidence. 2 Jo. 224. 34 Car. 2. B. R. King v. Foſter.

An inquiſition not admitted to be read as evidence, there being no commiſſion to warrant it. Jan. 23. 1717. MSS. Tab. Auſtin v. Nichols.

An old inquiſition poſt mortem read as evidence without producing the commiſſion. MSS. Tab. Feb. 6. 1726. Anderton v. Magawly.

Inrollment of deeds. It was ſaid by Glyn Ch. J. that if divers perſons did ſeal a deed, and but one of them acknowledge the deed, and the deed is thereupon inrolled, this is a good inrollment within the ſtatute, and may be given in evidence as a deed inrolled at a trial. Sty. 462. Mich. 1655. in a trial at bar. Thurle v. Madiſon.

Inrollment of a deed which needs no inrollment is no evidence. 1 Keb. 117. Mich. 13 Car. 2. Eden v. Chalkhill.

A queſtion ariſing, whether an inrolled deed ſhould be evidence without furthur proof, a difference was taken where the eſtate paſſes by the inrollment, as in a bargain and ſale, there it is an evidence; but where it is only for ſafe cuſtody, there it is not, otherwiſe than againſt the party who ſealed it, and all claiming from, by, or under him, and ſo far it ſhall. 2 Freem. Rep. 259. pl. 327. Trin. 1702. Lady Holecroft v. Smith.

At a trial at bar in ejectment, the queſtion was upon a commencement of a leaſe, which was to be upon the determination of a leaſe then in being to Queen Elizabeth, of certain lands belonging to the church; and to prove ſuch leaſe to the Queen, an ancient book in which entries were of leaſes of theſe lands ſince Henry VIIth's time, and this was found amongſt the evidences of the biſhop's (this being biſhop's land), was offered, but oppoſed becauſe not ſuch good evidence as they might have had; for the leaſe being made to the Queen, it muſt have been inrolled, and then they might have brought a copy of the inrollment; for without an inrollment the Queen could not take, and it is better evidence of a leaſe in fact as well as in law than the book, and therefore muſt be produced. 6 Mod. 248. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. Stillingfleet v. Parker.

By

By ſtat. 10 Ann. c. 18. " Where in any declaration or pleading whatſoever, an indenture of bargain and ſale inrolled ſhall be pleaded with a profert hic in curia, the perſon ſo pleading it may produce a copy of the inrolment of the bargain and ſale, which being examined with the inrolment, and ſigned by the proper officer, and proved on oath to be a true copy, ſhall be of the ſame effect as if the original indenture of bargain and ſale were produced.

" Provided, that this act ſhall not give any benefit in pleading, or deriving a title to any rent which hath not been paid or levied within twenty years next before the time of ſuch pleading or deriving a title."

Inſpeximus. It is ſaid, that one may not ſhew in evidence to a jury an inſpeximus of a deed inrolled in Chancery, unleſs it be a deed of a bargain and ſale inrolled here; for if it be a deed of feoffment, he muſt ſhew the deed itſelf, for the inſpeximus is no matter of record; but per Roll Ch. J. Tho' it be the inſpeximus of the inrolment and not of the deed itſelf, yet if it be an ancient deed it may be given in evidence. Sty 445. Paſch. 1655. Anon'.

The defendant, in an ejectment on a trial at bar, gave evidence on an inſpeximus of a leaſe by the abbot of B. which the court diſallowed, being a private deed, and may be forged, and an inſpeximus lies only of matter of record; whereupon they ſhewed an allowance of the ſame deed in the court of augmentations, which per cur. is good againſt the King. 2 Keb. 294. pl. 79. Mich. 19 Car. 2. B. R. Kirby v. Gibbs.

A conſtat or inſpeximus of letters patents made ſince the 27 H. 8. may be pleaded by the King's patentees, or any claiming under them, as well againſt the King as any other. Hawk. C. L. 311. (225.)

Inventory. In an action of trover upon Not guilty pleaded, an inventory of the goods was given in evidence to the jury, as the goods were appraiſed by upholſterers; judgment for the plaintiff. 4 Leon. 243. pl. 396. Paſch. 8 Jac. C. B. Arden v. Goad.

Jones moved, that Haſtings ſheriff of Middleſex might bring in an inventory of goods taken in execution by fieri facias for evidence (in trover) of the value of the goods, which the court granted in a ſuit between other parties, the ſheriff being not charged, albeit he be not compellable on ſuch a writ, but only on extent, and he agreed to bring it at the trial if he could find it. 2 Keb. 277. pl. 39. Mich. 19 Car. 2. B. R. Baxter and Cramfield v. Seix.

Jointenancy. Jointenancy cannot be given in evidence, but muſt be pleaded in abatement. L. Evid. 331. pl. 27. cites Trials per Pais 207. Hill. 1652. Jones v. Randal.

Journal. Journal of the houſe of commons is no evidence becauſe they have no power to give an oath; per Jefferies Ch. J. in Oates's trial.

Journal of the houſe of lords proved and admitted in the biſhops trial, to prove the King's ſpeech 1662, and the opinion of the houſe of lords about the King's power in eccleſiaſtical affairs. Vin. Ev. 122.

Minutes of proceedings in courts. In an action for a malicious proſecution brought againſt the defendant, for inditing a bailiff for forcibly taking away his goods without a legal authority, the plaintiff, to juſtify his having authority, produced the minutes of a judgment in the court-baron, and likewiſe a warrant for execution made upon it; but the judge was of opinion, that the judgment ought to have been drawn up, and that the minutes were not evidence of it. Accordingly the plaintiff was nonſuited, though ſerjeant Urling ſubmitted it, that 2 Mod. 306. is contrary to the judge's opinion. 2 Barnard. Rep. in B. R. 406. Hill. 7 Geo. 2. Pitcher v. Rinter.

Negative. In what caſes a negative muſt be proved, and what ſhall be proof thereof. In a ſuit for tithes in the ſpiritual court, the defendant pleaded that the plaintiff had not read the thirty nine articles; and the court put the defendant to prove it, though a negative; whereupon he moved for a prohibition which was denied; for in this caſe the law will preſume that a parſon has read the articles; for otherwiſe he is to loſe his benefice; and when the law preſumes the affirmative, then the negative is to be proved. 1 Roll. Rep. 83. pl. 29. Mich. 12 Jac. B. R. Marke v. Butler.

Witneſſes cannot teſtify a negative but an affirmative. 4 Inſt. 279. cap. 4.

Where there is an affirmative affidavit and a negative affidavit, the affirmative affidavit of the plaintiff is to be taken. Cumb. 18. Paſch. 2 Jac. B. R.

Defendant ſwore an affidavit, and information againſt him for it, although a negative cannot be proved, yet the court directed that they ſhould firſt give their probable evidence, and that the defendant ſhould afterwards prove his affirmative if he could. Cumb. 57. Trin. 3 Jac. 2. B. R. The King v. Combs.

Nonſuit. Debt on bond, in which obligee had made a material raſure, defendant pleaded non eſt factum, and plaintiff finding that defendant upon oyer had diſcovered the forgery, he countermanded the notice; the court ſaid, the beſt way was for the defendant to carry the cauſe down by proviſo, and if the plaintiff would ſuffer himſelf to be nonſuited, whereby the ſuit would be at an end, and the plaintiff intitled to take his bond out of court, yet that nonſuit would be great evidence againſt him in another action to be brought thereupon. 6 Mod. 233. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. Selby v. Green.

Notary publick's certificate. It was reſolved, that a copy of an agreement regiſtred in Holland, and atteſted by a publick notary there, may be given in evidence for the now defendant, eſpecially ſince he proved that the plaintiff took out another copy of the ſame agreement, and would not now produce it; therefore the copy which the defendant had taken out was given in evidence; for it is plain that the plaintiff knew the agreement, he having taken a copy thereof, ſo could not be ſurprized. 8 Mod. 322. 11 Geo. Sir John Walrond v. Jacob Senior Henricus Van Moſes.

The court held, that a plaintiff who was in Holland, might make affidavit there, and get it atteſted by a publick notary; and that it ſhould be admitted as evidence to hold the defendant to ſpecial bail here. 8 Mod. 233. Mich. 11 Geo. in the caſe of Sir John Walrond v. Jacob, &c.

Office found. Nota; by Coke and Bryan, an office before an eſcheator ſhall not be given in evidence, unleſs it be exemplified; for it ſhall not otherwiſe be deliver'd to the jury, unleſs it be under the Great ſeal of England, no more than a teſtimonial, and it is good law. Bro. Gen. Iſſ. pl. 75. cites 21 Ed. 4. 25.

Office of poſt mortem found was held to be no concluding evidence. 2 Jones 224. Mich. 34 Car. 2. B. R. Earl of Thanet's caſe.

Parliament rolls. Upon view of the parliament-roll of the ſtat. 2 Ed. 6. for payment of tithes, and comparing it with the declarations in the cauſes between Bowes and Broadhead, and Burreſton and Herbert, it was found, that the ſtatute was rightly recited, notwithſtanding what had been objected, and the journal-book of parliament produced to the contrary; and thereupon judgment was given in both caſes; and court ſaid, that they were to be ruled by the parliament-roll, and not by the journal-book. And the ſame day, in the caſe between Boyer and Tantulyar for the ſame reaſon, and the court ordered the parliament-roll to be brought into court the next term, to make it appear whether an ajournment in parliament was well recited, and would not credit the journal-book. Style 155. Mich. 1649. B. R. Anon'.

Parol evidence. Parrol agreement or evidence is not to be admitted againſt a deed, or a truſt expreſſed in a deed; yet a declaration fully proved, and made before a deed was drawn, and it appearing plainly to be the deſign of executing the deed for a particular purpoſe, is proper and right. 2 Chan. Caſes 180. Mich. 2 Jac. 2 Harvey v. Harvey.

Parol evidence may be given concerning the election of an alderman, &c. in a corporation, againſt an entry in the corporation books by the town-clerk, or other officer, for theſe may be cooked up for the purpoſe; per Parker Ch. J. Paſch. 4 Geo. B. R.

Parol evidence admitted to prove the effect of a record loſt and of another obliterated. Feb. 6, 1726. MSS. Tab. Anderton v. Magawly.

Parol evidence not admitted to fix the conſtruction of a will. Stran. 1261.

Parol evidence may be given of the condition of records, and the manner of keeping them, but not of the matter of them. Stran. 210.

Parol evidence not admitted to explain a depoſition. Stran. 794.

A bill brought to ſet aſide an aſſignment of a leaſehold eſtate, &c. upon ſuggeſtion that it was not intended as an abſolute aſſignment, but ſubject to a truſt for the plintiff's benefit: though no expreſs truſt in the deed, yet as it might be collected from circumſtances ariſing out of the aſſignment itſelf; and other circumſtances created a ſtrong preſumption of a truſt; Lord Chancellor admitted parol evidence to explain this tranſaction. Atkyns's Rep. 447.

Though there can be no parol declaration of a truſt ſince the 29 Car. 2. yet parol evidence is proper here in avoidance of fraud intended to be put upon the plaintiff. Atkyns's Rep. 448.

A perſon left to A. 20 l. per ann. by a codicil to his will, and after talking of making another codicil, and leaving him 15 l. more, the attorney told him, that if B. C. and D. whom he had made deviſees of his eſtate would give him a bond to pay him 15 l. per ann. it would be ſufficient; B. being preſent, promiſed that he and the deviſees would, and a draught was prepared, but not executed; teſtator lived five weeks after, and A. remained nine years without demanding the performance of the promiſe or draught to be perfected, and then brings his bill; diſmiſſed at the rolls, and upon appeal decree of diſmiſſion affirmed. Atkyns's Rep. 448.

The court will not add a legacy to a will upon parol proof, though it concerns the perſonal eſtate only; a fortiori where it intends to charge lands. Atkyns's Rep. 449.

Preſentment of the foreſters. The preſentments of the officers of the foreſt was ſufficient evidence, that ſuch wood and timber was felled, and there was no other evidence given. 1 Jo. 268. 8 Car. Itin. Windſor. Whitlock's caſe.

Preſumption. Length of time. Preſumptions are of three ſorts, viz. violent, probable, light and temerary; violent preſumption is many times plena probatio, a clear proof; as if one be run through the body with a ſword in a houſe whereof he inſtantly dieth, and a man is ſeen to come out of that houſe with a bloody ſword, and no other man was at that time witoin the houſe; probable preſumption moveth a little; but præſumptio levis, or a light preſumption moveth not at all. Co. Lit. 6. b. cites Bracton.

The abbot of S. held the parſonage of B. in the county of L. appropriate, which, as a parſonage impropriate came to King H. 8. by the diſſolution of monaſteries, 31 H. 8. who in the 37th year of his reign granted it in fee-farm, under which grant the plaintiff claims the defendant has obtained a preſentation of the Queen, and to deſtroy the ſaid impropriation did ſhew the original inſtrument of it 22 Ed. 4. with condition that a vicarage ſhould be competently endowed, and alledged, that the ſaid vicarage was never endowed, and therefore the impropriation was void, and in truth there was no inſtrument, nor any direct proof of the endowment of the vicarage; but becauſe the ſaid rectory was during all the time of the impropriation ſuppoſed, reputed, and taken to be appropriate, and all that time a vicar preſented, admitted, inſtituted, and inducted as a vicar rightfully endowed, and paid his firſt fruits and tenths, it was reſolved by all the court, that it ſhall be preſumed that the vicarage, in reſpect of continuance, was lawfully endowed, for that omnia præſumunter ſolenniter eſſe acta; and it ſhall be of a dangerous precedent to examine the originals of impropriations of any parſonages and the endowments of vicarages, becauſe the originals of them in time will periſh; and ſo it was decreed for the plaintiff. 12. Rep. 4. Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer-Chamber, Crimes v. Smith.

E V I

An impropriation ſhall not be avoid becauſe of an eſtate-tail in the patron, grantor, &c. but it ſhall be preſumed, by reaſon of ancient and continual poſſeſſion; that an ancient grant was made by one that had power to make it, and that it was duly made; for if an objection or exception ſhould now prevail, the ancient and long poſſeſſion of the owners of the ſaid rectory ſhould hurt them; for if theſe objections or exceptions had been made in the life-times of the parties, without any queſtion they had been anſwered, or otherwiſe in ſo many ſucceſſions of ages it would have been impeached or impugned. 12 Rep. 4. Hill. 4. Jac. Bedle v. Beard and Wingfield, in Cam'.

In quare impedit in C. B. the ſuit was ſtayed by aid prayer, and the record removed into Chancery; the plaintiff moved for a procedendo, and upon oyer of cauſe before Bromley Lord Chan. &c. plaintiff ſhewed a gift in tail of the ſaid advowſon to his anteceſſor 18 R. 2. and a verdict for his anteceſſor 12 H. 8. and a preſentation by his grandfather of a clerk who was admitted, inſtituted, and inducted, with poſſeſſion for certain years, and other matters to prove his title; yet becauſe the defendant, and thoſe from whom he claims time out of mind had the poſſeſſion of the parſonage as impropriate (ſaving interruption for a ſmall time), and it would be a dangerous precedent to owners of impropriations, being able to maintain the appropriations to be perfect in all points, requiſite to the making an abſolute and complete impropriation, the appropriations being made of ancient time; it was reſolved that no procedendo in loquela ſhould be granted in Chancery. 12 Rep. 3. Paſch. 4. Jac. Lord St. John v. Dean of Glouceſter.

If a deed of feoffment be given in evidence to have been made forty years paſt, but it cannot be proved that livery was made, yet if poſſeſſion has all along gone with the deed, this is good evidence to the jury; per Coke Ch. J. who ſaid, that in ſuch caſe he would direct the jury to find a livery; for it ſhall be intended; but if the jury find all this matter ſpecially, we cannot adjudge it a good ſeoffment without livery. Rol. Rep. 132. in pl. 9. Hill. 12 Jac. B. R.

If a parſon ſhews that for two hundred years certain land was parcel of his glebe, it is not therefore of neceſſity that the other ſhould produce a confirmation from the patron, and ordinary; for the continuance in poſſeſſion makes it intendable to be according to law when it was made. Cro. J. 456. pl. 13. Mich. 15 Ja. B. R. in caſe of Griffin v. Stanhope.

About eighteen years before the bill filed, Moyle the father became bound in a bond of 200 l. conditioned for the payment of 100 l. to the Lord Roberts the defendant at a certain day long ſince paſt; afterwards the obligee purchaſed lands of (Roſecarrick) the principal obligor to the value of 500 l. which purchaſe was made about four years before Roſecarrick's death; after his death Moyle took out adminiſtration to him, and being ſued upon this bond, exhibited a bill for relief, and in regard of the antiquity of the bond, and for that Roſecarrick himſelf never ſued in his life-time, it was preſumed, that the defendant did deduct the debt out of the purchaſe-money; and notwithſtanding there were no proofs of the payment of the money made, the court decreed, that the defenddant ſhould be reſtrained from the proceeding at law on the bond; per Lord Coventry. N. Ch. R. 9. 5 Car. 1 Moyle v. Ld. Roberts.

Where there had been four ſiſters, and the queſtion was as to their being alive, and who ſhould prove it? Chamberlain and Doderidge held, that they ſhall be intended to be alive if the contrary be not proved. Rol. Rep. 461. Mich. 22 Jac. B. R. Throgmorton v. Walton.

In things of great antiquity omnia præſumuntur ſolemniter eſſe acta; per Crew Ch. J. Palm. 327 Paſch. 2 Car. B. R. in caſe of Cape v. Bedford.

Whether after forty years poſſeſſion of a copyhold under a will, a ſurrender to the uſe of the will ſhall not be preſumed? Lord Keeper was clear that the want of a ſurrender ſhould be ſupplied, ſurrenders being kept by the lord and his ſtewards who are oftentimes changed, and not ſo careful as they ſhould be, and therefore a ſurrender might might be loſt without the default or negligence of the party. Vern. 195. pl. 192. Mich. 1683. Lyford v. Coward.

Length of time is only a preſumption of payment, and there is a difference between debts and legacies as to their antiquity. Legacies always appear upon the face of the will, and ſo an executor knows what he ought to pay without being aſked or told; but for debts and other dormant demands, againſt which he cannot provide without notice, the ſtatute had reaſon to limit the time. Vern. 256, 257. pl. 140. Mich. 1684, in the caſe of Parker v. Aſh.

Where two facts are alleged againſt the ſame man, and it be queſtioned whether it be the ſame man, it is ſufficient that it be reported; and this is good evidence, unleſs ſome one elſe of the ſame name be produced. L. E. 278. pl. 8. cites Oats 2 Try. 15.

If defendant pleads payment of a bond or bill, and it appears that the debt is very old, and hath not been demanded nor any uſe paid for it for many years, a common preſumption is good evidence that the money is paid, and the juries uſed to find for the defendant in ſuch caſes. Try. per Paris, 7th edition, 311.

A ſleeping mortgage of ſeventeen years due, which time the mortgagor and a purchaſor under him, have been in quiet poſſeſſion, and the mortgagee having purchaſed lands of the mortgagor, and paid him money, ſhall be preſumed to be ſatisfied; and decreed, that the mortgage-deeds be delivered up to be cancelled. Chan. Rep. 8. Car. 1. 60. Sibſon v. Fletcher.

After long poſſeſſion, as for twenty-five years, livery and ſeiſin ſhall be preſumed; for this is much favoured in law as well as in equity. Vern. 196. in pl. 192. cites 11 Car. 1. Biden. v. Loveday.

Reconveyance of lands, which were a ſecurity for a recognizance to pay an annuity, gives a probable reaſon to imagine that the recognizance was diſcharged, and no part of the ſaid annuities being paid for ſeveral years after, and though demanded, yet being denied; decreed the ſame to be vacated. Chan. Rep. 102. 12 Car. 1. Baldwin v. Proctor.

Probate. If a teſtament be raſed in the name of the executors, yet writ ſhall go by them; for it appears in the Regiſter if they were made executors or not, and alſo the party may traverſe, that they were not executors, notwithſtanding the teſtament; per Newton and all his companions; Brooke ſays, and ſo ſee, that the probate (as it ſeems) is not matter of record at the Common law. Br. Teſtament, pl. 4. cites 22 H. 6. 52.

The probate of a will, if it reſpects lands, ſhall be no evidence at Common law, nor ſhall examination of witneſſes of the probate be made uſe of at Common law. Cro. C. 395, 396. pl. 7. Hill. 10 Car. B. R. Netter v. Bret.

In ejectment of terms for years; the plaintiff claimed by letters of adminiſtration granted by the archbiſhop of Armagh (the lands lying in Ireland), and the defendant produced a probate of a will made by the teſtator, and in which defendant was made executor, and this was under the ſeal of the biſhop of Fernes (where the land lay); this is concluſive evidence, and nothing can be given in evidence againſt it but forgery, or its being obtained by ſurpriſe; and if a verdict be given contrary to the probate, the defendant ought to demur upon the evidence, and not bring a writ of error, for if he does the judgment will be affirmed, for the jury may hazard an attaint if they will. Raym. 404. Mich. 32 Car. 2. B. R. Chicheſter v. Philips.

To prove the ſealing and delivery of a deed, and not knowing the parties that did it, is not good evidence; but if he knows the party upon ſight of him, it is good enough. Tr. per Pais 172.

In a writ of error on a judgment in the Common Pleas in Ireland in ejectment, this queſtion aroſe upon a bill of exceptions, which was preferred, becauſe the judges there would not direct the jury, that the probate of a will before the archbiſhop of Canterbury, in whoſe province the teſtator died, and alſo before the biſhop of Fernes, was ſufficient and concluding evidence, but only that they were good evidence, and ſo left it to the jury; to which the other ſide ſhewed in evidence letters of adminiſtration of the goods under the ſeal of the primate of Ireland; the thing in queſtion was a leaſe for years in Ireland, claimed by the leſſor of the plaintiff under the ſaid adminiſtration; and on the firſt opening of the cauſe, judgment was affirmed. 2 Jan. 146. Paſch. 33 Car. 2. Philips v. Chicheſter.

At Rygate in Surrey, ſummer aſſizes 10 W. 3. it was ruled by Holt Ch. J. upon the evidence, that becauſe in the ſpiritual court after probate of a will ſix months are allowed to regiſter it, and when it is regiſtered, it is regiſtered by the original, but the probate is ſigned by the regiſter only upon the atteſtation of the proctor and the examination of him; therefore a will proved in 1666. in the archdeacon's court of London, and the office was burnt in the fire of London ſoon after, and the probate was produced in evidence to prove the will with all theſe circumſtances; it was denied by Holt Ch. J. to be good evidence to prove the will. Lord Raym. Rep. 732. Anon'.

In this caſe, tho' the will was made in 1685, yet it was inſiſted to have it proved, and the court would not allow the probate to be read, that being in nature only of a copy, and cannot be read as to lands, unleſs the original be loſt. The will was proved in a former cauſe, and order for reading the depoſitions in that cauſe, but the will produced not being marked by the examiner as an exhibit, objection was taken hac cauſa as to its being read, but the will being ſet forth in hæc verba in the interrogatory, and being examined in court with it, the will was ordered to be read; but agreed it could not be read out of the interrogatory, becauſe that is no more than a copy, and only evidence when the original is loſt. And King chancellor examined the officer who brought the will into court, where he had the will, &c. though no order in the cauſe to examine viva voce. Wiſeman's MSS. Rep. Mich. 2 Geo. 2. in the caſe of lady Jones v. Ld Say and Seal.

Proceedings in court ſpiritual. A thing concluded in the eccleſiaſtical court touching lands cannot be given in evidence at a trial at law for land, per curiam. Sty. 10. Paſch. 23 Car. C. B. in caſe of Betſworth v. Betſworth.

In debt upon a bond by an executor, the defendant pleaded Ne unques executor, &c. and on this iſſue at a trial, a will under the ſeal of the ordinary was offered in evidence, upon which the defendant offered to prove that the will was forged; but per cur. (on a caſe ſtated by the opinion of court) Nothing can be given in evidence againſt what is adjudged and allowed in the ſpiritual court; but it may be given in evidence that it is not the ſeal of the ordinary, or that the ſeal is forged, or that it is repealed, for theſe things are in affirmation of the ſpiritual proceedings. No difference between an adminiſtration under ſeal, or a will of goods under ſeal. So here the defendant may give in evidence that there were bona notabilia contra that another is executor, or that the teſtator was not compos mentis; for theſe falſify the proceedings of the ordinary in caſes whereof he is a judge. 1 Sid. 359. Raym. 404, 407. Comyn's Rep. 150. C. Paſch. 20 Car. 2. B. R. Noel v. Wells.

In treſpaſs the defendant pleaded ſimony in the plaintiff (againſt whom a ſentence of decree had been given in the ſpiritual court for the ſimony), and now upon the trial the defendant offered to read the proofs in the ſpiritual court, but was not allowed, becauſe thoſe courts are no courts of record; but the ſentence of deprivation was allowed to be read. It was objected againſt reading them, that the plaintiff ought not to be concluded of his intereſt in his freehold, by what was done in the ſpiritual court. But the court ſaid, that the ſpiritual court did not by ſentence ouſt him of his freehold, but that it was a conſequence of the ſentence; and that ſimony being a matter they had properly cognizance of, (for tho' ſince 31 Eliz. cap. 6. the temporal courts have juriſdiction, yet that ſtatute has not taken away the juriſdiction which the ſpiritual court had at common law) they ought not to ravel into the grounds of the ſentences, but to give credit to them, as they ſhould in a certificate of marriage or baſtardy, and other things which lie within their conuſance, ſo that they muſt take him as guilty of ſimony; he being deprived for it in the ſpiritual court. Freem. Rep. 84. pl. 103. Paſch. 1673. Philips v. Crawley.

Upon

Upon a trial at bar in ejectment the ſole queſtion was, if Sir Robert Carr was actually married to Iſabella Jones by whom he had iſſue, and under whom the plaintiff claims; the defendant, by way of anticipation to the evidence which the plaintiff was about to give, moved the court, that the plaintiff ought not to be allowed to prove a marriage between them, becauſe there was a ſentence in the Arches, upon a ſuit brought againſt her cauſa jactitationis maritagii; by which it was decreed, that there was no marriage between them, but that they were free one of another, and that they might marry ſeparately, which they afterwards did. And this ſentence was now offered in evidence by the defendant's counſel, as a bar to conclude the plaintiff from any proof of the marriage, unleſs he could ſhew that the ſame was repealed. And upon debate, the court were all of opinion, that this ſentence, whilſt unrepealed, was concluſive againſt all matters precedent, and that the temporal courts muſt give credit to it until it is reverſed, it being a matter of mere ſpiritual conuſance; and hereupon the plaintiff was nonſuit. Carth. 225, 226. Paſch. 4 W. & M. Br. Jones v. Bow.

A matter which has been directly determined by their ſentence, cannot be gainſaid; their ſentences are concluſive in ſuch caſes, and no evidence ſhall be admitted to prove the contrary; but that is to be intended only in the point directly tried; otherwiſe it is if a collateral matter be collected or inferred from their ſentence; as where, becauſe the adminiſtration is granted to the defendant, therefore they infer that the plaintiff was not the defendant's husband, as he could not have been taken to be, if the point tried in their court had been, married or unmarried, and their ſentence had been, not married. Per Holt Ch. J. 1 Salk. 290. pl. 30. Hill. 7 Ann. Blackham's caſe.

Proceedings in the ſpiritual court againſt the father for incontinency with the mother cannot be given in evidence againſt the children not deriving any title under her to the lands in queſtion, and the intent of reading it being to ſhew that the mother's marriage was not until their births, was not allowed by the judge to be read; which the lord chancellor thought hard of. 8 Mod. 180. Trin. 9 Geo. Hilliard v. Phaley.

But if there was a marriage, and they were divorced for conſanguinity, ſuch ſentence would have been concluſive evidence to baſtardize the children born in wedlock before the divorce; and what could be better evidence in a court of law, to ſhew there was no marriage, than a ſentence in the ſpiritual court carried on in a regular ſuit, and pronounced in the life-time of the parties that they were guilty of fornication, and the proof of the commutation money paid by the father; per lord chancellor. 8 Mod. 180. Trin. 9 Geo. Hilliard v. Phaley.

Proclamation. In caſe on a wager about the day on which the peace was concluded, it was held by Holt Ch. J. that a printed proclamation was good evidence though not examined by the record inrolled in Chancery, nor proved to have been under the Great ſeal. 12 Mod. 215. Mich. 10 W. 3. Dupais v. Shepherd.

Proclamations muſt be examined with the original; per King Chan. Trin. vac. 1727.

Receipt. In debt for rent, on reference to the ſecondary to ſee if all were paid, he reported, that a receipt of the laſt half year's rent was ſhewed in diſcharge of all former arrearages: but per cur': This is only evidence of payment of all, but is no diſcharge of the former arrear, unleſs it be under hand and ſeal, and then but by eſtoppel. 2 Keb. 346. pl. 25. Paſch. 20 Car. 2. B. R. Coome v. Denne.

A receipt of the laſt half year's rent is evidence that all before was paid. L. E. 204. cites Tr. per Pais 211.

Recital. It was ſaid, that if a deed expreſs a conſideration of money upon the purchaſe made by the deed, yet this is no proof upon a trial that the monies expreſſed were paid; but it muſt be proved by witneſſes. Sty. 462. Mich. 1655. B. R. Thurle v. Madiſon.

Recital in a patent of a former patent is no evidence without producing the firſt patent. 2 Lev. 108. Trin. 26 Car. 2. B. R. reſolved in caſe of Cragg v. Norfolk.

Error of a judgment upon a demurrer to evidence in C. B. the witneſs to the ſealing and delivery of a deed being ſubpœnaed did not appear; but to prove it the party's deed, they proved an indorſement made by him thereupon three years after, reciting a proviſo within, that if he paid ſuch a ſum the deed ſhould be void, and acknowledging that the ſaid ſum was not paid; and a fine was levied of the very lands mentioned in the deed to Crawley, and by the indorſement he expreſly owned it to be his deed, and upon this the deed was read; and now it was objected, that this was not good evidence, becauſe not the beſt the nature of the thing could bear, but only circumſtantial, which never ought to be admitted where better may be had ex natura rei, becauſe circumſtances are fallible and doubtful; and it is upon this reaſon that a copy of a record is good, becauſe one cannot have the record itſelf, but a copy of a copy will not do. Holt Ch. J. ſaid, Can there be better evidence of a deed than to own it, and recite it under his hand and ſeal; & per totam curiam judgment affirmed. 12 Mod. 500. Paſch. 13 Will. 3. Dillon v. Crawley.

A fine was produced, but no declaring the uſes; but a deed was offered in evidence which did recite a deed of limitation of the uſes; and the queſtion was, whether that was evidence? And the court ſaid, that the bare recital of a deed was not evidence, but that if it could be proved that ſuch a deed had been, and loſt, it would do, if it were recited in another; and it not being proved, that ever there was a deed leading the uſes of the fine, the counſel on one ſide oppoſed the ſaid deed of recitals being at all read; but the court ſaid, we cannot hinder the reading of a deed under ſeal, but what uſe is to be made of it is another thing. 6 Mod. 45. Mich. 2 Ann. B. R. Ford v. Lord Grey.

The recital of a leaſe in a deed of releaſe is good evidence of ſuch leaſe againſt the releaſor, and thoſe that claim; but not as to others, without proving there was ſuch a deed, and that it was loſt or deſtroyed.

A. gave a bond to B. for payment of 2000 l. within a year after his death (he having ſeduced her and had a child by her); afterwards A. by deed poll reciting that he had given a bond (as above), agreed the 2000 l. ſhould be laid out in an annuity for the uſe of B. and the child for their lives. A. died; B. ſued the adminiſtrator on the bond, but there being only one witneſs to it, and (tho' his hand-writing was proved, yet) he ſwearing that he did not ſee the bond ſealed and delivered, B. was nonſuited, and brought her bill to be paid out of the aſſets. Lord Chan. King held, that the recital in the deed, that A. had given ſuch a bond, was ſufficient evidence of there having been ſuch; that it is a confeſſion by the obligor himſelf, and ſtronger than a verbal confeſſion, being under his hand and ſeal, and decreed accordingly. 2 Wms's Rep. 432. Hill. 1727. Annandale (Marchioneſs) v. Harris, & e contra.

Record. When the party makes a title by record he muſt ſhew it under the Great ſeal, unleſs in the ſame court, and a day is given to bring it in. Pl. C. 411. a. Mich. 13 & 14 Eliz. in caſe of Newys v. Larke.

In pleading, a man cannot make himſelf a title in any caſe by record, without ſhewing it under the Great ſeal. Pl. C. 411. a. Mich. 13 & 14 Eliz. in caſe of Newys v. Larke.

A deed of uſes was loſt, and to ſupply it, evidence was given, that the loſt deed had formerly been ſhewed in evidence in the Exchequer upon an alienation there queſtioned, the land being holden in capite, and the record thereof was ſhewed; and this was allowed for evidence. Clayt. 85. pl. 131. 16 Car. before Foſter J. Lord Watton's caſe.

If a record be given in evidence the jury may find it, though it is not ſub pede ſigilli, if they have other good matter of inducement to prove it; but if it be given in evidence, it muſt be ſub pede ſigilli; per Rolle Ch. J. Sty. 22. Paſch. 23 Car. B. R. in caſe of White v. Pynder.

Indebitatus aſſumpſit for 5 l. received to the uſe of the plaintiff for fees of his office of clerk of the peace for Oxfordſhire; upon non aſſumpſit pleaded, it was inſiſted that the the plaintiff had forfeited the office by not taking the oaths within the time appointed by law, and to prove it, the record of ſeſſions was given in evidence, and held good. 1 Salk. 284. Mich. 12 W. 3. B. R. Thurnſton v. Stafford.

E V I

No particular crime ſhall be proved againſt a witneſs, except the record of his conviction be produced. L. E. 35. pl. 2.

Recovery. In other courts than thoſe of Weſtminſter. Upon a trial in Herefordſhire for lands in the county of Brecknock, a recovery had in the grand ſeſſions of Wales was produced in evidence under the ſeal of that court; and it was objected, that the courts at Weſtminſter could not take notice of it; but adjudged, that ſince the grand ſeſſions is appointed by act of parliament, viz. by the ſtatute of 24 H. 8. cap. 26. the courts of Weſtminſter ought to take notice of it, 2 Sid. 145. Hill. 1658. in Scacc. Olive v. Gwynn.

Regiſter-book. A regiſter-book for entry of marriages, births, &c. is evidence; per Glynn Ch. J. 2 Sid. 71. Paſch. 1658. B. R. in Dudley's caſe.

Rent. Diſcharge thereof. In debt for rent, on reference to the ſecondary to ſee if all were paid, he reported that a receipt of the laſt half year's rent was ſhewn in diſcharge of all former arrearages; but per cur': This is only evidence of payment of all, but it is no diſcharge of the former arrear, unleſs it be under hand and ſeal, and then but by eſtoppel. 2 Keb. 346. pl. 25. Paſch. 20 Car. 2. B. R. Coomes v. Denne.

Rentals. Bill in Chancery by truſtees of a charity, to ſubject an eſtate to a rent of 3*l.* 13*s.* 7*d.* againſt the owners of the land, one whereof was lately purchaſor but had reſerved money in his hands on account of this rent, though not certain out of what lands it was iſſuing. Several court-rolls were read where this rent was mentioned, but not ſaid out of what lands; others mentioned land in ſuch a place: They read alſo papers, (copies of rentals given to bailiffs to collect by) and read evidence, that theſe bailiffs charged themſelves with the ſums there mentioned. Decree for plaintiff aganſt all defendants; they joining in defence, and it not appearing out of what particular lands the rent was iſſuing, ſo no remedy at law. Paſch. 11 Geo. in Canc'. Vin. Ev. 132.

Ancient rent-rolls proved by a receiver, denied to be read as evidence; but the decree reverſed. April 1727. MSS. Tab. E. Angleſey v. Ram.

A rental was but weak evidence, unleſs payment alſo proved, and not ſufficient de ſe; coram Baron Cummins, at Taunton aſſizes, Hill. Vac. 1727-8.

Reputation common. The judges ſhall apprehend words as they are intended in places, where the land demanded lies. Palm. 102. Paſch. 17 Jac. B. R.

Uſage may expound ancient charters where the words are obſolete and obſcure, and may bear ſeveral ſenſes, but contra where the charter is of modern date. The reputation and declaration of people, may be given in evidence to xplain old words in a conveyance, in the deſcription of an eſtate or lands; coram Baron Price, at Launceſton.

No witneſs ſhould be aſked how the defendant ſtands affected; but if the defendant give evidence of a general reputation, it may be anſwered by particular inſtances on the other ſide for the King. Comb. 337. Trin. 7 W. 3 B. R. The King v. Hains, alderman of Worceſter.

The copy of a private act of parliament may be given in evidence, and if upon collateral iſſue it is to be proved that ſuch a one was juſtice of the peace or baronet, &c. common reputation is ſufficient proof without ſhewing the commiſſion, or letters patent of the creation. L. E. 89. cites T. per Pais 226.

Rule of court. It was ruled by Treby Ch. J. of C. B. at Guildhall, Paſch. 10 W. 3. that if at the trial at niſi prius a rule of the court of C. B. or B. R. be produced under the hand of the proper officer, there is no need to prove it to be a true copy, becauſe it is an original. Ld. Raym. Rep. 745. Selby v. Harris.

Seals of courts. A recovery under the ſeal of Brecknock is evidence; per Witherington Ch. Baron. 2 Sid. 146. Hill. 1658.

The ſeal of Cheſter may be given in evidence; per Witherington Ch. B. 2 Sid. 146. Hill. 1658.

The courts at Weſtminſter ought to take notice of the ſeal of the grand ſeſſions in Wales, their authority being by act of parliament, and the profits of thoſe ſeals are appointed to be paid into the court of Exchequer; per Witherington Ch. B. 2 Sid. 146. Hill 1658.

Moreton ſerjeant ſaid, that he never ſaw the ſeal of any court denied in evidence. Keb. 21. pl. 62. Paſch. 13 Car. 2. B. R. in the caſe of Trowell v. Caſtle.

Sentence. In the Exhequer, as to goods forfeited. Upon a ſeizure of goods, as brandy, &c. if the property is once determined in the Exchequer upon an information, &c. and the defendant acquitted, the title ſhall not afterwards be drawn over again in another action. So if goods are condemned, the party is bound by this, and ſhall not have liberty afterwards to conteſt this in a collateral action; coram Baron Price, at Bodmyn, Trin. Vac. 1716.

Signet manual of the King. In caſe between A. and C. in Chancery, the King by letters under his ſignet manual certified the manner and ſubſtance of the agreement between them; and it was allowed as proof beyond exception. Hob. 213. pl. 271. 9 Jac. Abignye v. Clifton.

Similitude of hands. In debt upon a ſingle bill for the payment of 200*l.* on demand, upon non eſt factum pleaded, one witneſs gave full evidence of the ſealing and delivery. On the other ſide was produced a perſon of the ſame name and ſurname with the other ſubſcribing witneſs, who acknowledged that the hand was very like his, but that it was not his hand, and that he never knew either of the parties, nor the other witneſs, neither could the other witneſs ſay that he was the man; and both their reputations being good, Holt Ch. J. ordered both to write their names, which they did, and left it to the jury, who found for the plaintiff. 6 Mod. 167. Paſch. 3 Ann. B. R. Oſbourn v. Hoſier.

Things done or ſworn at another trial. In an action of debt for tithes, the caſe was, Theſe tithes were in leaſe to F. for life, remainder to the plaintiff for life; and at a trial for theſe tithes had by F. the firſt tenant for life in poſſeſſion, ſeveral witneſſes were examined, which are dead; and it was now moved that the depoſitions taken in that cauſe might be read as evidence for the now tenant for life in remainder; but it was denied, becauſe he in remainder was neither party nor privy to the firſt ſuit. 2 Roll. Rep. 211. Mich. 18 Jac. B. R. Shotbolt v. Frances.

The evidence given upon an indictment cannot be offered by either party as evidence upon an appeal of murder brought for the ſame offence, but the witneſſes on the indictment muſt appear themſelves to give their teſtimony. Neither can the evidence on an indictment of treſpaſs be given in evidence in an action of treſpaſs, although the witneſſes ſhould be dead. Sid. 325. Paſch. 19 Car. 2. B. R. Sampſon v. Tothill.

Information againſt Buckworth for perjury; upon Not guilty pleaded, a witneſs was produced to prove the perjury, what one (who is ſince dead) ſwore at the trial in which the perjury was ſuppoſed to be committed; and this was allowed by the opinion of two judges againſt one. Mich. 20 Car. 2. B. R. Raym. 170. Buckworth's caſe.

One legatee ſhall have benefit of depoſitions taken by another legatee to prove aſſets. 1 Vern. 413. pl. 390. Mich. 1688. Coke v. Fountain.

In caſe, the plaintiffs preſcribed to have a farthing for every quarter of malt brought by any of the Weſt-Country barges to London. On the general iſſue a trial was at bar, where the plaintiff offered in evidence four ſeveral verdicts at niſi prius againſt four Weſt Country malſters; and the court admitted them to be given in evidence, though the defendant was neither party or privy to thoſe records; for it is as reaſonable that a recovery againſt a ſtranger ſhould be given in evidence, as that payment of the duty ſhould be proved by other ſtrangers, ſtrangers, which was never yet doubted. Carth. 181 Hill. 2 & 3 Will. & Mar. in B. R. The city of London v. Clerke.

E V I

And per Holt Ch. J. If a lord of a manor claims ſuit of his tenements ad molendinum by cuſtom, &c. and in an action, recovery is againſt one tenant, that recovery may be given in evidence in a like action to be brought againſt other tenants upon the reaſon above, unleſs the defendant can ſhew any covin or colluſion between the firſt action. Quod nota. Ibid.

Ordered, upon a long debate, that the depoſitions of witneſſes taken in a cauſe thirty years ſince about the ſame matters, being incumbrances and damnifications, ſhould be made uſe of in this cauſe, witneſſes being dead, though that ſuit were between other parties from whom theſe claim not; and the caſe between Trinity Hall and Doctors Commons cited, and between Charlton and Vaughan. Freem. Rep. 184. pl. 258. Paſch. 1692. in Curia Cant. Tervit v. Greſham.

Ejectment to prove a pedigree; it was allowed to ſhew that the defendant had, at another trial for part of the ſame eſtate, produced a deed of releaſe, which had a clauſe in it to prove the pedigree. Objected that it was no evidence, becauſe the now plaintiff was not a party; et res inter alios acta non nocet, and it is not mutual. And depoſitions taken to perpetuate the teſtimony of witneſſes, if the witneſs ſhould die, are no evidence but only between the parties to the ſuit; ſed non allocatur. For here the defendant may give this deed in evidence of the will, and it is reaſonable the plaintiff ſhould have advantage to prove it viva voce, becauſe the defendant hath the deed in his cuſtody, and may diſprove the witneſs if he ſwore falſly. Carth. 79, 80. Mich. 1 W. & M. in B. R. Eccleſton v. Petty, alias Speke.

If a man was ſworn a witneſs at a former trial, and gave evidenee, and died; the matter that he gave in evidence at the former trial, may be given in evidence at another trial by any perſon who heard him ſwear it at the former trial. Reſolved at a trial at bar. Lord Raym. Rep. 730. Mich. 8 W. 3. in B. R. Pyke v. Crouch.

It was reſolved Mich. 8 W. 3. in B. R. upon evidence in a trial at bar,

1. That legatee cannot be a witneſs to prove the will, becauſe the legacy is deviſed to him, unleſs he has releaſed the legacy. But after ſuch releaſe he will be a good witneſs to prove the will; if the counſel of the other ſide have permitted ſuch legatee to be ſworn, and to be examined as a witneſs to prove the will, without having taken exception againſt him, they cannot afterwards except againſt his evidence for the reaſon that he was a legatee.

2. If the duplicate of a will be written by the direction of the teſtator, and ſent by him to a ſtranger to keep it ſafely, and the ſtranger ſends back a letter to the teſtator, in which he makes mention that he has received the ſaid will; after the death of the ſtranger ſuch letter may be read as circumſtantial evidence, to prove that ſuch duplicate of the will was ſent by the teſtator to the ſaid ſtranger.

3. If a man, produced as a witneſs for the plaintiff in ejectment, confeſſes that there was ſuch a will made as the defendant's counſel pretends, and under which the defendant makes title to the lands in queſtion; yet that is not ſufficient proof that there was ſuch a will, but the will itſelf ought to be produced, or other legal proof made of it.

4. If ſeveral eſtates in remainder be limited in a deed, and one of the remainder-men obtains a verdict for him in an action brought againſt him for the ſame land, that verdict may be given in evidence for the ſubſequent remainder-man, in an action brought againſt him for the ſame land, though he does not claim any eſtate under the firſt remainder-man, becauſe they all claim under the ſame deed. Ld. Raym. Rep. 730. 1 Mich. 8 W. 3. on a trial at bar, Pyke v. Crouch.

Conviction at ſuit of the King for battery, &c. cannot be given in evidence in an action of treſpaſs for the ſame battery, nor vice verſa. 12 Mod. 339. Mich. 11 W. 3. in caſe of King v. Warden of the Fleet.

The like law of an uſurious contract. Ibid. Mich. 11 W. 3.

No record of conviction or verdict can be given in evidence, but ſuch whereof the benefit may be mutual, viz. where the defendant as well as plaintiff might have made uſe of it, bring it into court, and give it in evidence in caſe it did for him. So if the record had been for the plaintiff's advantage, and that they could not give it in evidence, the defandant ſhould not give it in evidence for that very reaſon; and this was reſolved at another trial at bar before this term, between Sherwin and Sir Walter Clarges, where a verdict between the Earls of Bath and Mountague, upon the very ſame point and title now in queſtion, viz. the legitimacy of Chriſtopher Duke of Albemarle, was denied for evidence. Ibid. 12 Mod. 339. Mich. 11 W. 3. King v. Warden of the Fleet.

In an inquiſition againſt the Warden of the Fleet for miſdemeanors, whereby he was to forfeit his office, a priſoner, who had given bond to be a true priſoner, was produced to prove, that the warden ſuffered him voluntarily to eſcape; reſolved, that a conviction of the warden upon the priſoner's evidence of an eſcape, would be no evidence againſt the warden in debt on the bond to be brought by the warden againſt the priſoner, ſo as to ſet it aſide as a bond for eaſe and favour, nor in action of falſe impriſonment by the priſoner for retaking him, becauſe it would not be between the ſame parties. 12 Mod. 339. Mich. 11 W. 3. King v. Warden of the Fleet.

Evidence given at a former trial, and between other parties, &c. is not evidence in another trial, &c. L. E. 32. pl. 60. cites State Tr. 2 vol. 354, 380, 385.

By Jeffries, Though in ſtrictneſs we do not uſe to admit of what others have ſworn at another trial, unleſs the party be dead that ſwore it, yet the priſoner is ſomething indulged ſo far as to be admitted to prove it. L. E. 278. pl. 9. cites Oates, 2 vol. State. Tr. 40.

No evidence ought to be given of what an accomplice has ſaid, eſpecially if not in the ſame indictment. L. E. 32. pl. 61. cites State Tr. 2 vol. 436.

Yet a priſoner may bring evidence to prove the witneſs gave a different teſtimony before a juſtice of peace, or at another trial; but the court will not command the depoſitions taken before the juſtice to be produced for him to make uſe of. L. E. 32. pl. 62. cites 2 vol. State Tr. 578.

Anſwer in Chancery by a mother cannot be given in evidence againſt the children, not deriving any title under her to the lands in queſtion, and the intent of reading it being to ſhew that the mother's marriage was not till after their births, was not allowed by the judge to be read, which the Lord Chancellor thought hard of. 8 Mod. 180. Trin. 9 Geo. Hilliard v. Phaley.

In treſpaſs, the defendant produced a deed under the plaintiff's hand and ſeal, whereto were witneſſes names, but becauſe they did not prove the witneſſes dead, nor that they were gone to ſea, though they alledged it, it was not permitted at firſt to be given in evidence, but afterwards upon proof, that it was read at a former trial, it was ſuffered to be read. Freem. Rep. 84. pl. 103. Paſch. 1673. Phillips v. Crawley.

Where a new trial is directed upon the ſame iſſue between the ſame parties, and a witneſs examined at a former trial dies before the ſecond trial, depoſitions made by him in Chancery whence the iſſue was directed, and alſo what he ſwore at the former trial, may be given in evidence. 2 Wms's Rep. 563. Hill. 1729. Coker v. Farewell.

On a feigned iſſue from the Exchequer, to try a cuſtom about grinding at Bovey Mills in Devon by all the inhabitants of the pariſh, former decrees were admitted to be read in evidence, and ſaid, that former verdicts about cuſtoms had been admitted as evidence, although not concluſive evidence; at Exon aſſiſe, Lent 1731. Vin. Ev. 136.

Torn papers, books, &c. In action upon the caſe for taking the profits of the under clerk of the Treaſury, a note obtained by the Lord Finch, maſter of the office formerly, of the officers ſubſcription that they were but ſervants (which by Allen the plaintiff, is no more than ſome pariſhioners ſubſcriptions to pay tithes in kind) which will not bind others; which the court agreed, and refuſed to let it be given in evidence, eſpecially part being cut off. 1 Keb. 258. pl. 36. Paſch. 14 Car. 2. B. R. Whitchurch v. Pagett.

ſome

To prove taking the oath, &c. in the act of uniformity, a certificate was produced that had only a ſmall bit of wax upon it. Per Twiſden: If it were ſealed, though the ſeal were broken off, yet it may be read as we read recoveries after the ſeal broken off, and ſaid he had ſeen adminiſtration given in evidence after the ſeal broke off, and ſo wills and deeds. 1 Mod. 11. pl. 34. Mich. 21 Car. 2. B. R. Clerk v. Heath.

Transfer books of a company. Transfer books of a company were allowed as evidence. 7 Mod. 129. Hill. 1 Ann. B. R. Gery v. Hopkins.

Verdict. A verdict againſt one, under whom either plaintiff or defendant claims, may be given in evidence againſt the party ſo claiming. Contra if neither claim under it. L. E. 95. pl. 22. cites Duke v. Ventres, Mich. 1656. B. R. Try. per Pais 206.

Finding by ſpecial verdict, or admiſſion by former pleading, is good evidence, unleſs the contrary appear; agreed per curiam. Keb. 720. pl. 50. Paſch. 16 Car. 2. B. R. Lee v. Boothby.

In an ejectment brought by a reverſioner, or in debt upon ſtatute of Ed. 6. by a proprietor of tithes, they may give in evidence a verdict for a former leſſee, becauſe the parties to this action could not have been parties to the former ſuit, in that the then preſent leſſee could be only party. Hard. 472. Hill. 19 & 20 Car. 2. Ruſhworth v. Pembroke.

Verdict on a former trial ought not to be read as evidence on a new trial in the ſame cauſe. Per Saunders Ch. J. 2 Show. 255. pl. 262. Hill. 34 & 35 Car. 2. B. R. Rogers and Ux' v. Goddard.

Upon a trial at bar in ejectment it was reſolved per curiam, that if a plaintiff hath a title to ſeveral lands, and brings an ejectment againſt ſeveral defendants, and recovers againſt one, he ſhall not give that verdict in evidence againſt the reſt; becauſe the party, againſt whom the verdict was had, might be relieved againſt it, if erroneous, but the reſt cannot, though they claim under the ſame title, and all make the ſame defence. 3 Mod. 141. Mich. 3 Jac. 2. B. R. in caſe of Lock v. Norborne.

So if two tenants will defend a title in ejectment, and a verdict ſhould be had againſt one of them, it ſhall not be read againſt the other, unleſs by rule of court. Ibid. 142.

But if an anceſtor has a verdict, the heir may give it in evidence, becauſe he is privy to it; for he who produces a verdict muſt be either party or privy to it, and it never ſhal be received againſt different perſons, if it does not appear that they are united in intereſt; therefore a verdict againſt A. ſhall never be read againſt B. for it may happen that the one did not make a good defence, which the other may do. 3 Mod. 142. Mich. 3. Jac. 2. B. R. in caſe of Lock v. Norborne.

Verdict in a civil cauſe, may be given in evidence in a criminal cauſe; but not vice verſa; and court ſaid, they grant a new trial where a verdict might become evidence in a criminal cauſe. 12 Mod. 319. Mich. 11 W. 3. Richardſon v. Williams.

If defendant ſued upon a forged bond, brings caſe for ſuing him on a forged bond, a verdict therein will be evidence for him. Per Serjeant Darnell. 6 Mod. 234. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. Selby v. Green.

Water-courſes. Diverting them. In treſpaſs upon the caſe in turning part of a courſe of water running from a ſpring in C. by a conduit to his houſe, the evidence was that A. finding an ancient pipe in his yard, through which the water was conveyed to the plaintiff's houſe, put a quill and a cork into the ſaid main pipe, and ſo drew water to ſerve his houſe, and ſtopped it as he pleaſed, and after his death his wife continued to do the ſame; and it was held that the action lay; for every opening was a new diverſion. D. 319 b. pl. 17. Mich. 14 & 15 Eliz. Moor v. Brown.

In action on the caſe, a ſpecial verdict was found that the plaintiff was ſeiſed of a ſtream running through his land; and that about ſixty years ſince he had erected a water-mill upon his own freehold; and likewiſe it was found, how that the defendant was ſeiſed of an ancient dam upon the ſame ſtream above the plaintiff's mill, and how that the defendant had pulled down the ſaid dam, and thereby diverted the ſtream from the plaintiff's mill, whereupon the plaintiff commences this action. Pollexfen argued for the plaintiff, and cited Palmer 29. a. and 1 Cr. 575. and took that to be a clear caſe; that the ſtream being the plaintiff's, the defendant could not divert it, and ſo held the court, that an action had lain for diverting a ſtream, though no mill had been erected; and that therefore it need not be ſhewn to be an ancient mill, as it muſt where he preſcribes to have a water-courſe, where the water is not his own; as the court ſaid was the meaning of Lutterell's caſe, 4 Rep. 80. for there preſcribing to the water-courſe he ought to ſhew that they were ancient mills, but here he need not: ſo the court ſeemed wholly for the plaintiff, for here the ſtream is his own, ſo there needs no preſcription. Skin. 65. pl. 10. Mich. 34 Car. 2. B. R. Palmes v. Hebblethwait.

Year books. To prove the cuſtom of a manor relating to copyholders about cutting down of trees, the book-caſe of 14 Ed. 3. tit. Bar. Fitz. was given in and avowed for good evidence. Godbolt 235. pl. 326. Mich. 11. Jac. C. B. in the caſe of the Biſhop of Chicheſter v. Strodwick.

A year book is evidence to prove the courſe of the court. 1 Salk. 281. Mich. 7 W. 3 B. R. Stainer v. The Burgeſſes of Droitwich.

5. Of parol, preſumptive, and hearſay evidence.

It ſeems to have been agreed as a general rule, even before the ſtatute of frauds and perjuries, that no parol evidence could be admitted to controul what appeared on the face of a deed or will, not only from the danger of perjury, but from a preſumption, that whatſoever the parties at that time had in contemplation, was all reduced into writing. 5 Co. 68. a. b. 8 Co. 155. a. Kelw. 49.

But this rule has recived, a relaxation, eſpecially in the courts of equity, where a diſtinction has been taken between evidence, that may be offered to a jury, and to inform the conſcience of the court, viz. that in the firſt caſe no ſuch evidence ſhould be admitted; becauſe the jury might be inveigled thereby; but that in the ſecond it could do no hurt, becauſe the court were judges of the whole matter, and could not diſtinguiſh what weight and ſtreſs ought to be laid on ſuch evidence. 2 Vern. 98, 337, 625.

Alſo to aſcertain a fact, parol evidence hath been admitted to explain the intent of the teſtator; as where the teſtator had two ſons both named John, and he deviſed lands to his ſon John; here parol evidence was admitted, to ſhew which of his ſons he meant; and it being proved, that one of his ſon's of that name had been abſent ſeveral years beyond ſea, and that the teſtator apprehended that he was dead, the deviſe was held good, and that the other ſhould take; for without ſuch evidence the will muſt be void. 2 Vern. 98, 337, 625.

It has been held, that if A. purchaſes lands in the name of B. that A. may be admitted to prove, that he paid the purchaſe-money, and ſo make it a reſulting truſt, or truſt by implication of law for himſelf.

An entry in the ſteward's book, and parol proof by the foreman of a jury was admitted as good evidence, to ſhew that a feme covert ſurrendered her whole eſtate, although the ſurrender upon the roll, and the admiſſion thereon was but of a moiety. 1 Vern. 366. 2 Vern. 547.

Alſo to ouſt an implication, and rebut an equity, parol evidence has been admitted to explain the intention of the teſtator; and where a man deviſes particular legacies to his executors, and makes no diſpoſition of the ſurplus of his eſtate; in this caſe, according to the notions of the court of equity, the executors ſhall be only truſtees for the next of kin; but to rebut this equity which ariſes by implication only, the executors have been allowed to prove by parol evidence, that the teſtator deſigned them the ſurplus. 1 Vern. 473. 1 Chan. Ca. 19. b. 2 Vern. 99, 648, 736. See Abr. Aq. 230, 243.

tions

So where the Earl of Gainſborough made his will, and thereby deviſed ſeveral legacies, and charged his real eſtate with the payment of them and his debts, and deviſed his eſtate ſo charged, to the defendant, his nephew, and made the plaintiff, his wife, executrix; and the bill was brought to have the perſonal eſtate diſcharged from the debts and legacies, ſuggeſting that the creditors threatned to come upon and exhauſt the perſonal eſtate; and that it was the intent of the teſtator, that ſhe ſhould have the perſonal eſtate clear to herſelf, and that the directions for making the will were ſo; but that either by the miſtake or contrivance of the perſon who drew the will, it was not ſo expreſſed; and on demurrer, becauſe no ſuch averment could be admitted againſt a will in writing, the demurrer was over-ruled; and it was held by Rawlinſon and Hutchins, that tho' ſuch an averment could not be admitted where it was to make the party a title; yet where it was only to rebut an equity, as in this caſe, it might. 2 Vern. 252. Abr. Eq. 230.

So where J. S. deviſed all his houſhold goods, as woollen, linen, pewter, and braſs whatſoever, except a trunk under the chamber window; and the queſtion was, whether the parol proof of the perſon who drew the will ſhould be admitted to explain theſe words; and my Lord Keeper thought it might, notwithſtanding the ſtatute of frauds and perjuries; for it here neither adds to nor alters the will, but only explains which of the meanings ſhall be taken, as in caſe of a deviſe to ſon John, when the teſtator had two of the ſame name; and here the word as may be a reſtriction, or if the following be as particular inſtances, it may not reſtrain the word whatſoever, and he thought the words imported to carry all the houſhold goods; and of that opinion was the Maſter of the Rolls; and the proof was read accordingly. Abr. Eq. 231. 2 Vern. 517.

So where one not of kin, but a ſtranger, was made executor, and had conſiderable legacies given him, although it was decreed by Sir Peter King, in the mayor's court, in favour of the teſtator's brothers, that the ſurplus ſhould be diſtributed; yet upon appeal to the houſe of peers, that decree was reverſed, not barely as it ſtood upon the will, but that parol proof ought to be received in favour of the executor's title, conſiſtent with the will; and the proof being full as to the teſtator's frequent declarations, that his executor, though a ſtranger, ſhould have the ſurplus, it was decreed accordingly. Abr. Eq. Littlebury and Buckley.

But notwithſtanding theſe caſes, the courts have been very unwilling to admit of parol evidence in relation to any thing that appears on the face of a will; and it's certain that too much caution cannot well be uſed in this particular, eſpecially when it is conſidered that by the ſtat. of frauds and perjuries, which was made to prevent perjury, contrariety of evidence and uncertainty, binds the courts of equity as well as the Common law courts; as alſo that little regard ought in many caſes to be had to the expreſſions of the teſtator, either before or after the making his will, becauſe poſſibly theſe expreſſions might be uſed by him, on purpoſe to controul or diſguiſe what he was doing, or to keep the family quiet, or for other ſecret motives and inducements, which cannot after his death be found out. See 2 Vern. 98, 337, 625. and 1 Salk. 234. Where in the caſe of Cole and Rawlinſon, it is laid down by Lord Chief Juſtice Holt, that the teſtator's intent muſt be collected from the words of the will, and not from his circumſtances, or any matters debors, and that to ravel into the affairs of the teſtator, would render property precarious, and introduce uncertainty and confuſion in the law itſelf.

Hence in a caſe in the houſe of lords, where the teſtator deviſed ſeveral legacies, and amongſt the reſt gave conſiderable legacies to his two executors, to whom alſo he deviſed the ſurplus of his eſtate; and there being a debt of 3000*l.* due by bond to the teſtator from one of the executors, he inſiſted, that there being ſufficient aſſets to ſatisfy all the legacies, that this 3000*l.* ſhould not be brought into the ſurplus of the teſtator's eſtate, but that the ſame was extinguiſhed for his benefit, by his being made co-executor; and that tho' the ſurplus of the eſtate was deviſed to them both, yet that this debt could not be taken to be part of that ſurplus being before extinguiſhed; and by the evidence of the perſon who drew the will, fully proved, that this was the teſtator's intention, which evidence, it was urged, ought to be admitted, being only to rebut an equity, and ouſt an implication of law ariſing from the notions of the courts of equity, which revives the debt in theſe caſes, and gives equal benefit to both the executors; but the lords refuſed going into this parol evidence, and decreed that the 3000*l* ſhould be taken as part of the ſurplus of the teſtator's perſonal eſtate, which both the executors were equally entitled unto; for tho' in ſome books the teſtator's making a debtor executor is ſaid to be an extinguiſhment of the debt, becauſe an executor cannot ſue himſelf; yet it was never doubted, but that ſuch a debt remained aſſets to ſatisfy other creditors; alſo it has been reſolved to be aſſets to ſatisfy legacies; and this deviſe of the ſurplus and reſidue of the teſtator's eſtate being as much a legacy, and as well recoverable in the ſpiritual court as any particular legacy, it was but fitting, that ſince the courts of equity claim now a concurrent juriſdiction with the eccleſiaſtical courts in matters of this nature, that there ſhould be the ſame meaſure of juſtice in both theſe courts. 2 Bac. Abr. 311. Selwin and Brown, 21 March 1734, in domo procerum. Note; This cauſe was firſt heard before the maſter of the Rolls, who admitted the parol evidence, and on the ſtrength thereof decreed, that the 3000*l.* ſhould not be taken as part of the ſurplus of the teſtator's perſonal eſtate; but that it was extinguiſhed for the benefit of the obligee, and accordingly ordered the bond to be cancelled; but this decree was reverſed by the Lord Chancellor, tho' he admitted the parol proof to be read, as not thinking the teſtimony of a ſingle witneſs, according to the circumſtances of this caſe, ſufficient to controul what appeared on the face of the will. 2 Bac. Abr. 311.

As to preſumptive proof; Lord Coke diſtinguiſhes preſumptive proof, by which he ſays juries are often induced, into, 1. Violent preſumption, which amounts to plena probatio; as if one be ſtabbed in an houſe, and a man is ſeen running out of it with a knife bloody, and none elſe in the houſe. 2 Præſumptio probabilis, which moves a little. 3. Præſumptio levis, which moves not at all. Co. Lit. 6.

Alſo in caſe of a feoffment, if all the witneſſes to the deed are dead, then a continual and quiet poſſeſſion for any length of time will make a ſtrong preſumption, which ſtands for proof; and here the rule is, that ex diuturnitate temporis omnia præſumuntur ſolemniter eſſe acta; alſo the deed may receive credit by comparing the ſeals, the hand-writing, and other circumſtances, all which muſt be left to the jury. Co. Lit. 6.

Perſons once in being ſhall be intended ſtill living, if the contrary is not proved. 2 Roll. Rep. 461. But now by ſtat. 19 Car. 2. c. 6. it is enacted, "That if any perſon or perſons, for whoſe life or lives eſtates have been, or ſhall be granted, ſhall remain beyond the ſeas, or elſewhere abſent themſelves in this realm, by the ſpace of ſeven years together, and no ſufficient and evident proof made of the life or lives of ſuch perſon or perſons reſpectively, in any action commenced for the recovery of ſuch tenements by the leſſors or reverſioners, in every ſuch caſe the perſon or perſons, upon whoſe life or lives ſuch eſtate depended, ſhall be accounted as naturally dead; and in every action brought for the recovery of the ſaid tenements, by the leſſors or reverſioners, their heirs or aſſigns, the judges, before whom ſuch action ſhall be brought, ſhall direct the jury to give their verdict, as if the perſon ſo remaining beyond the ſeas, or otherwiſe abſenting himſelf, were dead."

By the ſtat. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 27. it is enacted, "That if any woman be delivered of an iſſue, which being born alive ſhould, by the laws of this realm, be a baſtard, and endeavour privately, either by drowning or ſecret burying, or any other way, either by herſelf, or the procuring of others ſo to conceal the death thereof, as that it may not come to light, whether it were born alive or not, but be concealed; in every ſuch caſe, the mother ſo offending ſhall ſuffer death, as in caſe of murder, unleſs ſhe can prove by one witneſs at leaſt, that ſuch child was born dead."

endeavour

Conceal the death thereof] If the woman appear to have endeavoured to conceal the death of ſuch child, there is no need of any proof, that it was born alive, or that there were any ſigns of hurt, for it ſhall be taken undeniably, that the child was born alive and murdered. Kelyng. 32. But where a woman lay in a chamber by herſelf, and went to bed without pain, and waked in the night, and knocked for help, but could get none, and was delivered of a child, and put it in a trunk, and did not diſcover it till the night following, ſhe was adjudged not to be within the ſtatute, becauſe ſhe knocked for help. Kelyn. 32. Neither is a woman within the ſtatute, who having confeſſed herſelf with child beforehand, is afterwards ſurprized and deliverd, no body being with her; and therefore in theſe caſes it muſt appear by ſigns of hurt, or ſome other way, that the child was born alive. Kelyn. 32. 2 Hawk. P. C. 438.

It ſeems in regard to evidence to be an unconteſtable rule, that the party, who is to prove any fact, muſt do it by the higheſt evidence the nature of the thing is capable of. 1 Show. Rep. 397.

As where the queſtion was, whether the abbey De ſentibus was an inferior abbey or not, Dugdale's Monaſticon Anglicanum being produced for evidence was refuſed, becauſe the orignal records might be had in the augmentation-office. 1 Salk. 281.

So if a witneſs be to teſtify what another ſwore on a former trial, the record of ſuch trial muſt be produced, or his evidence is not to be admitted, &c. 2 Show Rep. 163.

As to hearſay evidence, it ſeems agreed, that what another has been heard to ſay, is no evidence, becauſe the party was not on oath; alſo, becauſe the party, who is affected thereby, had not an opportunity of croſs-examining; but ſuch ſpeeches or diſcourſes may be made uſe of by way of inducement or illuſtration of what is properly evidence. 1 Mod. 383. Skin. 402.

Alſo what a witneſs hath been heard to ſay at another time, may be given in evidence, in order either to invalidate or confirm the teſtimony he gives in court. 2 Hawk. P. C. 431.

So what a perſon accuſed of a crime hath been heard to ſay at another time, may be given in evidence at his trial, for him or againſt him. 2 Hawk. P. C. 431.

Ewagium. Charta Regis Johannis Deo & B. Johanni & hominibus de Beverlaco, quod ſint quieti de theolonio, ſcutagio, paſſagio, peſagio, laſtagio, ſtallagio, & de wrec & de logan, de ewagio & de lene, &c. Hill. 14 H. 3. In Theſauro Reg Scacc. Ebor. Rot. 15. Euagium is the ſame with aquagium, from the French eau, aqua, and ſignifies a toll paid for the paſſage of water. Cowell. edit. 1727.

Ewbrice, Adultery; from the Saxon ewe, conjugium, and bryce, fractio. The word occurs in the laws of King Edmund, ſect. 4. tho' in the edition of Brompton it is faſly wrote ewice. From this Saxon ewe, marriage, we derive our preſent Engliſh word to woo, a wooer. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Ewe, Is a German word, but it was uſed by the Engliſh Saxons, and ſignifies a law. 'Tis mentioned in Leg. W. 1. viz. De malefactoribus qui vitæ periculum ſe cundum euva Saxonum incurrere debent.

Exaction, Is a wrong done by an officer, or one pretending to have authority, in taking a reward or fee for that which the law allows not. The difference between exaction and extortion is this; extortion is, where an officer extorts more than his due; exaction is, where he wreſts a fee or reward, where none is due. See Extortion.

Exactores Regis, The King's exactors or collectors, ſometimes taken for the ſheriff. And in this ſenſe the Black-Book in the Exchequer, part 1. cap. ult. Tabulas, quibus vicecomes cenſum Regium colligit rotulum exactorium vocat; but generally Quicunque publicas pecunias, tributa, vectigalia & res fiſco debitas exigit proprie nominatur exactor Regis. Cowell. edit 1727.

Examination, (Examinatio,) A ſearching after or cognizance of a magiſtrate. By ſtat. 3 & 4 Ph. & Mar. cap. 10. ſect. 2. Juſtices before whom any perſon ſhall be brought for manſlaughter or felony, or for ſuſpicion thereof, before they commit ſuch priſoner, ſhall take the examination of ſuch priſoner, and information of thoſe that bring him, of the fact and circumſtances; and as much thereof as ſhall be material to prove the felony, ſhall put in writing within two days after the examination, and the ſame ſhall certify in ſuch manner as they ſhould do if ſuch priſoner had been bailed upon ſuch pain as in the act 1 & 2 Ph. & Mar. cap. 13. (See Bail.) is limited; and the ſaid Juſtices ſhall have authority to bind all ſuch by recognizance or obligation, as declare any thing material to prove the felony, to appear at the next genereal gaol delivery where the trial of the felony ſhall be, to give evidence againſt the party, and the juſtices ſhall certify the ſaid bonds taken before them, in like manner as in the ſaid former act.

Examiners in Chancery, (Examinatores,) Are two officers who examine upon oath witneſſes produced on either ſide in London, or near it, upon ſuch interrogatories as the parties to any ſuit do exhibit to that purpoſe; and ſometimes the parties themſelves are by particular order likewiſe examined by them. In the country, witneſſes are examined by commiſſioners, uſually attornies not concerned in the cauſe, on the parties joining in commiſſion, &c. Heretofore there was ſuch an examiner in the Star-Chamber; but the court being aboliſhed, the office and officer is extinct. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Exannual roll, In the old way of delivering the ſheriffs accounts, the firmæ mortuæ vel obſoletæ, i. e. illeviable fines and deſperate debts, were tranſcribed into a roll called the Exannual roll, which was to be yearly read to the ſheriff upon his account, to ſee what might be gotton. See Hale's Sheriff's Accounts, p. 67.

Excambiator, Was anciently uſed for an exchanger of land, ſuch as we now call brokers that deal upon the Exchange between merchants. In libro chartarum priorat. Leominſt. de anno 2 Ed. 2. it is ſaid, Ita quod unuſquiſque eorum qui damna ſuſtinuit aliquo caſu contingente, quod excambiator refundat damna, &c. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Exception, (Exceptio) Is a ſtop or ſtay to any action being uſed in the Civil and Common law both alike, and in both divided into dilatory and peremptory. See Bracton, lib. 5. tract. 5. per totum, and Britton, cap. 91, 92. In law proceedings, it is a denial of a matter alleged in bar to an action: And in Chancery it is what is alleged againſt the ſufficiency of an anſwer, &c. The counſel in a cauſe are to take all their exceptions to the record at one time, and before the court hath delivered any opinion therein. 1 Lill. Abr. 559. And on an indictment for treaſon, &c. exception is to be taken for miſnaming, &c. before any evidence is given in court, or the indictment ſhall be good. Stat. 7 W. 3. c. 3. Where by a general pardon, any particular crime is excepted, if a perſon be attained, &c. of that offence, he ſhall have no benefit of the pardon. 6 Rep. 13. 2 Nelſ. Abr. 765. And when a pardon is with an exception as to perſons, the party who pleads it ought to ſhew, that he is not any of the parties excepted. 1 Lev. 26. A negative expreſſion may be taken to enure to the ſame intent as an exception; for an exception in its nature is but a denial of what is taken to be good by the other party, either in point of law or pleading: And Exceptio in non exceptis firmat regulam. 1 Lil. 559.

Exception to evidence, &c At Common law a writ of error lay for an error in law, apparent in the record, or for an error in fact, where either party died before judgment; yet it lay not for an error in law not appearing in the record; and therefore, where the plaintiff or demandant, tenant or defendant, alleged any thing ore tenus, which was over-ruled by the judge, this could not not be aſſigned for error, not appearing within the record, nor being an error in fact, but in law; and ſo the party grieved was without remedy. 2 Inſt. 426. And therefore,

By the ſtatute of Weſtm. 2, "When one impleaded before any of the juſtices, alleges an exception, praying they will allow it, and if they will not, if he that alledges the exception writes the ſame, and requires the juſtices will put to their ſeals, the juſtices ſhall ſo do; and if one will not, another ſhall; and if, upon complaint made of the juſtice, the King cauſe the record to come before him, and the exception be not found in the roll, and the plaintiff ſhew the written exception, with the ſeal of the juſtices thereto put, the juſtice ſhall be commanded to appear at a certain day, either to confeſs or deny his ſeal; and if he cannot deny his ſeal, they ſhall proceed to judgment according to the exception, as it ought to be allowed or diſallowed."

In the conſtruction of this ſtatute, the following opinions have been holden,

That the ſtatute extends to the plaintiff as well as defendant, alſo to him who comes in loco tenentis, as one that prays to be received, or the vouchee; and in all actions, whether real or perſonal, or mixt. 2 Inſt. 427.

It ſeems agreed, that no bill of exceptions is to be allowed in treaſon or felony, for the words of the ſtatute are, cum aliquis implacitatur coram aliquibus juſticiariis, &c. And if ſuch bills were allowed, it would be attended with great inconveniency, becauſe of the many frivolous exceptions that might be put in by priſoners, to the delay of juſtice; beſides, in criminal caſes the judges are of counſel with the priſoner, and are to ſee that juſtice is done him. 1 Sid. 84. Sir Henry Vane's caſe. 1 Lev. 68. S. C. 1 Keb. 324. S. C.

The ſtatute extends not only to all pleas dilatory and peremptory, but to prayers to be received, oyer of records and deeds, &c. alſo to challenges of jurors, and any material evidence offered and over-ruled. 2 Inſt. 427. Dyer 231. pl. 3. Raym. 486.

If in a trial upon a title to a leaſe for years, the judges (though inſiſted upon) will not direct the jury that the probate of a will is concluſive evidence, but will only tell the jury that it is good evidence; and thereupon the jury find there is no ſuch will; yet a bill of exceptions will not lie; for though the evidence be concluſive, the jury, if they will, may run the hazard of an attaint. Raym. 404. 2 Jones 146. S. C.

If one offers to demur upon evidence, and is overruled, and after judgment a writ of error is brought, this cannot be aſſigned for error, but it is a proper caſe for a bill of exceptions, and the remedy which the ſtatute in that caſe appoints. Cro. Car. 341.

Lord Coke is of opinion, that the ſtatute, notwithſtanding theſe words, & ſi forte ad querimoniam de facto juſtic' venire fac' Dominus Rex recordum coram eo, extends not only to the Common Pleas, but to all other courts of record, on whoſe judgment a writ of error lies to the King's Bench, and alſo to the county-court, the hundred, and court-baron; for therein, ſays he, the judges are moſt likely to err, and albeit of judgments given in them a writ of error lieth not, but a writ of falſe judgment in the C. B. yet the caſe being in the ſame or greater miſchief, the purview of this ſtatute doth extend to theſe inferior courts. 2 Inſt. 427.

If one of the juſtices ſets his ſeal to the bill, it is ſufficient; but if they all refuſe, it is a contempt in them all; for which the party grieved may have a writ grounded upon the ſtatute, commanding them to put their ſeals, &c. 2 Inſt. 427. Raym. 182. S. P. 2 Lev. 237. S. P.

Although no time be appointed by this act when the juſtices ſhall put their ſeals, the party muſt pray the ſame before judgment; but if they deny it, then may they be commanded after judgment to put their ſeals, and then the putting of their ſeals after judgment ſhall be ſufficient. 2 Inſt. 427.

But where a corporation-book was offered in evidence at the aſſizes, to prove a member of the corporation not in poſſeſſion, and refuſed, and no bill of exception was then tendred, nor was the exception then reduced to writing, ſo the trial proceeded, and a verdict was given for the plaintiff; the court being the next term moved for a bill of exceptions, it was urged for the bill, that the law requires quod proponat exceptionem ſuam, and no time is appointed for the reducing it into writing, and the party is not grieved till a verdict is given againſt him; and the ſame memory that ſerves the judges for a new trial, will ſerve for a bill of exceptions. On the other ſide it was ſaid, that this practice would prove a great difficulty to judges, and delay of juſtice, that the precedents and entries ſuppoſe the exception to be written down upon its being diſallowed, and the ſtatute ought to be conſtrued ſo as to prevent inconvenience; beſides, the words of the act are in the preſent tenſe, and ſo is the writ formed on the act. Holt Ch. J. If this practice ſhould prevail, the judge would be in a ſtrange condition; he forgets the exception, and refuſes to ſign the bill; ſo an action muſt be brought; you ſhould have inſiſted on your exception at the trial, you waive it if you acquieſce, and ſhall not reſort back to your exception after verdict againſt you, when perhaps, if you had ſtood upon your exception, the party had other evidence, and need not have put the cauſe on this point; the ſtatute indeed appoints no time; but the nature and reaſon of the thing requires the exception ſhould be reduced to writing when taken and diſallowed, like a ſpecial verdict, or a demurrer to evidence; not that they need be drawn up in form, but the ſubſtance muſt be reduced to writing whilſt the thing is tranſacting, becauſe it is become a record; ſo the motion was denied. 1 Salk. 288.

When this bill is ſigned, there goes out a ſcire facias to the judge who ſigned it, ad cognoſcendum ſcriptum, and the ſcire facias to the judge, and his return with the bill muſt be entred on the iſſue-roll, and made part of the record, which is to be removed by writ of error. See 1 Lutw. 905, 906.

When a bill of exceptions is allowed, the court will not ſuffer the party to move any thing in arreſt of judgment on the point in which the bill of exceptions was allowed; for his proper redreſs is by writ of error, and it is preſumed, that the court was ſatisfied in the point when the party tendred his bill of exceptions. 1 Vent. 366, 367. 2 Lev. 237. 2 Jones 117.

Exception in deeds and writings. The exception is a clauſe whereby the donor, feoffor, grantor or other perſon contracting, excepts or takes a particular thing out of a general thing granted or conveyed. 1 Wood's Conv. 241.

The thing excepted is exempted, and does not paſs by the grant, neither is it parcel of the thing granted; as if a manor be granted, excepting one acre thereof, hereby in judgment of law that acre is ſevered from the manor. 1 Wood's Conv. 241.

Rules and examples concerning exceptions in deeds.

Rule 1. It muſt be of ſuch thing as he who makes the exception may have, and does belong to him. For if the exception be of ſuch a thing as the grantor cannot have, nor does belong to him by law, as if a leſſee for years aſſigns over all his term in the land, excepting the timber trees, earth or clay, this exception is not good. Shep. Touch. 79. 5 Co. 12. b.

But if a leſſee for life makes a leaſe for years, or leſſee for twenty-one years makes a leaſe for twenty years; or tenant by the curteſy, or in dower, grants over their eſtate, excepting the timber trees, theſe are good exceptions.

And if a leſſee for life or years opens a coal-mine, and then aſſigns over his eſtate, excepting the mines, or the profits thereof; theſe are void exceptions. Shep. Touch. 79.

Rule 2. It muſt not be the whole thing granted, but a part thereof only. An exception that goes to the whole thing granted or demiſed, is a void exception. Cro. Eliz. 6. pl. 2. 244. pl. 1.

Alſo if one grants all his lands in Lambhurſt, except the manor of Hodley, and he has no other lands in Lambhurſt than the ſaid manor, the exception is void. Cro-Eliz. 6.

A man

A man cannot grant an eſtate, and reſerve a part of the eſtate; as, to make a feoffment in fee, and reſerve a leaſe for life; or grant an advowſon, and reſerve the preſentation for his life. Shep. Touch. 79.

The exception muſt be of part of the thing, and not of part of the eſtate.

Rule 3. The thing that is excepted muſt be part of the thing granted before, and not of ſome other thing. The exception is always of a thing granted, and a thing in eſſe, and not of a new thing, which was not before mentioned or granted. Dyer 59. a. pl. 11.

If the exception be of another thing than the thing granted; as if one grants a manor or land, excepting twelve-pence, or excepting the tithes, or excepting one acre of ground which is no parcel of the manor, or the land before granted; or if one grants the land deſcended to him on the part of his father, excepting the land deſcended to him on the part of his mother; theſe exceptions are void. Shep. Touch. 78, 79.

Rule 4. The thing excepted muſt be of ſuch a thing as may be ſevered from the thing granted, and not of inſeparable incidents. Dyer 59. a. Exceptions of ſeveral incidents are good; but if inſeparable incidents, as if a manor be granted excepting the court-baron; or land be granted, excepting the common appendent thereto belonging; theſe exceptions are void. Shep. Touch. 79.

A grant of a manor, excepting the courts, is void, for a manor cannot be without courts. Hob. 101.

But a man may grant a manor, excepting any of the demeſnes and ſervices, ſo as a real manor, not a reputative manor, be left. Hob. 170.

If a man has but one cloſe in Dale, and he grants all his lands in Dale, excepting that one cloſe, this exception is void. Hob. 170. Moor, caſe 1239.

If a man makes a leaſe for life of a manor to which an advowſon belongs, and he excepts the advowſon, if he grants over the reverſion, the advowſon does not paſs, becauſe it is ſevered and diſmembred from the manor, and thereby is become an advowſon in groſs. 11 Co. 50. a.

But if one has a manor in which he has parks and fiſh ponds, and he grants the manor for life, except the game and fiſh, and afterwards grants the reverſion of the manor; by this the game and fiſh will paſs. 11 Co. 50. b.

If I let my rectory, except the glebe, it is a void exception: ſo of a leaſe of a manor, excepting the demeſnes, for a rectory cannot be without glebe, nor a manor without demeſnes. Winch 23.

Rule 5. It muſt be of a particular thing out of a general, or of an intire thing, and not of a particular out of a particular, or the whole thing itſelf granted. If the exception be of a particular thing out of a particular thing; as if one grants Whiteacre and Blackacre; or grants twenty acres of land by particular names, excepting one acre of them; theſe exceptions are void. Shep. Touch. 79.

For the grant ſhall be taken moſt ſtrongly againſt the grantor. Carter 104.

An exception of a thing granted by a ſpecial name in the premiſſes, is void; but it is good for a thing granted in the premiſſes by general words; and although it is by ſpecial name excepted, yet the exception is void. Moor, caſe 1236.

A. lets to B. a rectory for years, excepting the manſion-houſe of the rectory, ſaving to B. (the leſſee) a chamber; this is an exception out of an exception; which is good, and ſhall make it paſs by force of the leaſe; for this exception or ſaving makes the thing excepted, as if it never had been let; ſo a ſaving out of a ſaving, makes it as if it had been excepted, and then it paſſes by force of the leaſe at firſt. Cro. Eliz. 372. pl. 19.

Rule 6. An exception muſt be conformable to the grant, and not repugnant thereto. If it is repugnant to the grant, it ſubverts it utterly, and takes away the fruit of it; if one grants a manor or land to another, excepting the profits thereof; or makes a feoffment of a cloſe of meadow or paſture, reſerving or excepting the graſs of it; or grants a manor excepting the ſervices; theſe are void exceptions. Shep. Touch. 79.

So if one grants his houſe, chamber, cellars and ſhops, excepting his ſhops; it is ſaid this is no good exception. Ibid.

And if one grants his meadow and paſture grounds; this exception is not good, no more than if one grants two manors, or two acres, excepting one of them. Ibid.

And yet if a man makes a leaſe for years of a mill, excepting the profits thereof during the life of the leſſor; it is ſaid, this has been adjudged a good exception. Sed Q. For the exception of the profits of a thing is the exception in effect of the thing itſelf. Shep. Touch. 79.

An exception that croſſes the grant or is repugnant thereto, is vod. Hob. 72, 170. Vid. Moor, caſe 1236.

Rule 7. The thing excepted muſt be certainly deſcribed and ſet down. As, if a man grants all his lands in Eſſex, ſaving, beſides, or except his lands in Dale; or all his Lands in Dale, excepting one houſe, or one acre in certain; or one houſe, excepting one chamber in certain; theſe and ſuch like exceptions are good. Shep. Touch. 78.

And if one grants a manor, excepting one tenement, (parcel of the manor) or excepting the ſervices of J. S. (who holds of the manor) or excepting one cloſe; or excepting one acre; or excepting the advowſon appendant: or excepting the woods; or excepting twenty acres of wood; or excepting all the groſs trees; theſe are good exceptions. Ibid.

And if one grants a meſſuage and houſes thereunto belonging excepting, the barn, or excepting the dove-houſe, it ſeems this is a good exception; for they may paſs by the grant of a meſſuage, &c. Ibid.

And if one grants land, excepting the timber-trees thereupon, or excepting the trees thereupon; or if a man ſells a wood excepting twenty of the beſt oaks, and ſhews which in certain; theſe are good exceptions, Ibid.

So if a man has a manor wherein is a wood called the Great wood, and he grants his manor, excepting all the woods and underwoods that grow in the Great wood, and all the trees that grow elſewhere; this is a good exception. Shep. Touch. 78.

And if one grants a meſſuage, and all the lands and tenements thereunto belonging, excepting one cottage; this is a good exception. Ibid.

And if one grants a reverſion excepting the rent; this is a good exception of the rent, and doth keep it from paſſing by the grant. Ibid.

So if a man has a rent charge out of land, and he releaſes his right, in the land, except the rent, the exception is good. Ibid.

So if the lord releaſes to his tenant ſalvo Dominio ſuo, &c. this is a good exception.

If one grants all his horſes, except his white horſe; this is a good exception of the white horſe.

If a man be ſeiſed of a manor, and leaſe it by deed indented for life, exceptis & reſervatis quod bene liceat to the leſſor ſuccidere, dare & vendere omnes groſſas arbores in dicto manerio creſcentes, &c. it ſeems this is a good exception of the trees, Shep. Touch. 78.

If A. lets all his lands in D. other than Whiteacre, and all his lands in S. except Blackacre, for twenty-one years, the remainder to B. in fee, except before excepted; I hold (ſays Tyrrel) Whiteacre paſſes; for the grant ſhall be taken moſt ſtrongly againſt the grantor. Carter 104. So that the exception is void for incertainty.

A. lets the manor of Sale, ſaving Whiteacre, to B. the remainder to C. for twenty years, ſaving Greenacre; the remainder of all to D. except Drycloſe; the remainder to John a Stile of all, except before excepted. I think (ſays Tyrrel) in this caſe all paſſes to John a Stile, except Drycloſe. Carter 104.

Yet (ſays he) I grant, that if A. lets to B. all his land in Sale, ſaving or reſerving, or other than Whiteacre, the remainder to C. except before excepted; in this caſe I grant Whiteacre is excepted becauſe there is no exception before, and the exception would be vain and idle if it ſhould not be ſo taken. Carter 104.

A man made a feoffment to divers uſes, excepting two cloſes, for the life of the feoffer only; it was adjudged that that theſe two cloſes were excepted, and did deſcend (to the heir at law), either becauſe the exception was good, tho' the latter part of the ſentence, viz. for the life of the feoffer only, was void and therefore to be rejected; or the whole exception was void becauſe one intire ſentence; yet the court agreed, that there was no uſe limited of theſe two cloſes, which were intended to be excepted; for the uſe was limited to the manor, exceptis præexceptis, which excluded the two acres; for although there were not ſufficient words to except them, there was enough to declare the intention of the feoffor to be ſo. Vent. 106, 107.

If a feoffment be made of a manor, except Blackacre, to himſelf for life only, habendum, except before excepted, to the uſe of B. in tail, Blackacre ſhall not paſs to B. in tail. Lev. 287.

If a man bargains and ſells his lands in D. except what he ſhall afterwards deviſe, this exception is void for incertainty. Hob. 72.

If woods whereof a præcipe lies (by the name of ſo many acres of wood) be parcel of a manor, and I leaſe the manor excepting the woods; by this the ſoil whereon they grow is excepted. 11 Co. 49. b. Poph. 146.

By the exception of woods and underwoods, the ſoil itſelf whereon they grow is excepted. 5 Co. 11. a. Poph. 146.

But if I except all my trees growing in the manor, in that caſe the ſoil itſelf is not excepted. 11 Co. 49. b. Poph. 146.

In exceptions of woods and trees obſerve theſe ſix things.

Firſt, That notwithſtanding they are excepted, they are parcel of the inheritance, and by demiſe for years of the manor they will paſs, becauſe the freehold remains, and the leſſor remains tenant to the præcipe; but by a demiſe for life with ſuch exceptions e contra. 5 Co. 11. a. b. 11 Co. 50. a.

Secondly, That where the exception is of the trees only, the ſoil itſelf is not excepted, but only ſufficient nutriment for the trees.

One lets a tenement, a cloſe whereof was wood, and commonly known by the name of a wood, and in the leaſe was an exception of all ſaleable woods now growing, or of which ſhall grow hereafter, which have been ſold by the lord of the premiſſes, with free entry, egreſs and regreſs, for ſelling, making and carrying off the ſame at all times convenient; in this caſe the ſoil was not excepted, but paſſed to the leſſee. Cro. Jac. 524.

Thirdly, That the leſſee ſhall have the paſture growing under the trees. See the caſe above.

Fourthly, That the leſſor ſhall have all the benefit of the trees. 11 Co. 50. a.

Fifthly, That he ſhall have the fruits, and all other profits of the trees. 11 Co. 50.

Sixthly, That where the leſſor excepts the trees, and afterwards he intends to ſell them, the law gives to him, and to thoſe who buy them, power, as an incident to the exception, to enter and view the trees, and ſo to cut them down and carry them away. Lex eſt, cuicunque aliquis aliquid concedit, concederē videtur & id ſine quo res ipſa eſſe non potuit, is a principle in law. 11 Co. 52. a. 13 Co. 68.

Rule 8. The exception out of a thing granted may be in any part of the deed but it moſt commonly and properly ſucceeds the ſetting down of the things granted, and is made by one of theſe words, excepted or excepting, beſides, ſaving, ſave only, excepted and always reſerved, &c.

The form may be in this manner: All that, &c. (deſcibing the things granted, as before, and then go on with the exception), ſaved and excepted to the ſaid A. B. his heirs and aſſigns for ever, out of this feoffment or grant, (or grant, bargain and ſale, &c.) all that meſſuage, &c. and all and ſingular the, &c.) always forepriſed, excepted and reſerved unto the ſaid A. B. his heirs and aſſigns.

If a leaſe be made, provided that the leſſee ſhall not fell the woods; this proviſo is no exception, but the woods are demiſed. Brownlow 241.

Rule 9. It may be made by other words that carry the ſame ſenſe, but the words before mentioned are the moſt proper. The words other than, will make an exception; as in the ſtatute of fines, 4 H. 7. which concludes thus, ——All perſons, except feme coverts, other than thoſe that be parties to the ſaid fine——Here other than makes an exception out of an exception. Carter 99.

Exchange, (Excambium or cambium,) Signifies generally as much as permutatio with the Civilians; as the King's exchange, which is the place appointed by the King for exchange of plate or bullion for the King's coin, &c. Theſe places have been divers heretofore; but now there is only one, viz. the mint in the Tower. Stat. 1 H. 6. cap. 4. By 9 Ed. 3. c. 7. Exchanges are to be kept where the King pleaſes: And every man may exchange gold for ſilver, or ſilver for gold, &c. but none ſhall take profit of money exchanged but the King's exchangers, on pain of forfeiture. 25 Ed. 3. c. 12. Alſo none ſhall give or take any more for exchange of coin than the true valuè, under the penalty of forfeiting the money exchanged, or to be fined and impriſoned, &c. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 19. There is a Royal Exchange of merchants in London: And exchange amongſt merchants, is a commerce of money, or a bartering or exchanging of money of one city or county for that of another: Money in this ſenſe, is either real or imaginary; real, any real ſpecies current in any country at a certain price, at which it paſſes by the authority of the ſtate, and of its own intrinſick value: And by imaginary money, is underſtood all the denomination made uſe of to expreſs any ſum of money, which is not the juſt value of any real ſpecies. Lex Mercatoria, or Merch. Comp. 98. The method of exchange for money uſed in England ought to be par pro pari, according to value for value: And our exchange is grounded on the weight and fineneſs of our own money, and the weight and fineneſs of that of other countries, according to their ſeveral ſtandards, proportionable in their valuation; which being truly and juſtly made, reduces the price of the exchange of money of any nation or country to a certainty. But this courſe of exchange is of late abuſed; and money is become a merhandize, and riſes and falls in its price in regard to the plenty and ſcarcity of it. Ibid. At London, all exchanges are made upon the pound ſterling of 20 s. In the Low Countries, France and Germany, upon the French crown; Spain and Italy, &c. upon the ducat; and at Florence, Venice, and other places in the Streights, by the dollar and florin. See Bill of exchange, and The Law of Bills of Exchange, &c.

Exchange of goods and merchandiſe, Was the orignal and natural way of commerce, precedent to buying; for there was no buying till money was invented; though in exchanging, both parties are as buyers and ſellers, and both equally warrant. 3 Salk. 157.

Exchange of lands, Hath a peculiar ſignification in our common law, and is uſed for that compenſation which the warrantor muſt make to the warrantee, value for value, if the land warranted be recorvered from the warrentee. Bract. lib, 2. cap. 16. & lib. 1. cap. 19.

An exchange is the mutual grant of equal intereſts, the one in exchange for the other: Or it is, where a man is ſeiſed or poſſeſſed of lands in fee-ſimple, fee-tail, for life or years; or is poſſeſſed of goods, and another is ſeiſed or poſſeſſed of other lands, or poſſeſſed of other goods in the like manner, and they exchange their land or goods the one for the other; and in this there is a double grant, for each of them grants that which is his to the other. Terms de lay ley. Finch's Law, Lit. f. 62.

Exchange is a mutual grant of equal intereſts, each in exchange of other, as of land in fee-ſimple; for other of the ſame eſtate; but to exchange an eſtate pur auter vie, for an eſtate for life is not good; for though both have a freehold, yet an eſtate during another's life, is not ſo high a freehold, as an eſtate during his own life. Finch's Law 27.

Five things are neceſſary to the perfection of an exchange, viz. 1ſt, That the eſtates given be equal. 2dly, That this word (excambium, exchange) be uſed, which is ſo individually requiſite as it cannot be ſupplied by any other word, or deſcribed by any circumlocution. In the books of Domeſday I find, Hanc terram combiavit Hugo Briccuino, quod modo tenet comes Meriton, & ipſum ſcambium valet duplum. Hugo de Belcamp pro eſcambio de Warres. 3dly, That there be an execution by entry or claim in the life of the parties. 4thly, That if it be of things that lie in grant it muſt be by deed. 5thly, If the lands be in ſeveral counties, there ought to be a deed indented, or if the thing lies in grant, albeit they be in one county. Co. Litt. 51. b.

Equality in lands are of three ſorts, viz. 1ſt, Equality in value. 2dly, In quantity of lands given and taken. 3dly, In quality or manner of the eſtate given and taken. Equality in value of lands in an exchange is not requiſite, nor equality in the quality or manner of the eſtate, but equality of the quantity of the eſtate is requiſite. Co. Litt. 50. a. b.

In every exchange rightly made, the word excambium imports in itſelf tacitly condition, and alſo a warranty, the one to give an entry, and the other a voucher and recompence in regard of the reciprocal conſideration, the one land being given in conſideration of the other; reſolved. 4 Rep. 121. a. Paſch. 1 Jac. B. R. Buſtard's caſe.

Exchange importeth in the law a condition of re-entry and a warranty, voucher and recompence of the other land that was given in exchange. Noy's Max. 61.

The fruit and effect of an exchange is, that it gives the intereſt, and alters the property of the things exchanged, to either party, according to the agreement. And if the exchange be of lands or tenements of any eſtate of inheritance or freehold, whether it be by word or deed, it has a condition and a warranty in law, incident and annexed to it as a thing made by the word exchange, and tacite implied in every grant of exchange; a condition to give a re-entry upon all the land given in exchange, if he be put out of all or part of the land taken in exchange, and a warranty, to enable him to vouch and to recover over in value, ſo much of his own land again given in exchange, as ſhall be recovered from him of the land taken in exchange, if he be ſued for it: So that upon every exchange either party, if he be put out of or loſe by action the land he takes in exchange, has a double remedy againſt the other; and yet this remedy goes only in the privity, and ſhall not go to an aſſignee: As if A. exchanges land with B. and B. be put out of all or part of the land upon a title paramount by a recovery in a real action or otherwiſe; in this caſe B. may either enter upon his own land again which he gave in exchange, or elſe if it be in an action brought, he may vouch A. upon the warranty in law, and ſhall recover as much in value againſt him of the land he gave, as he has loſt of the land he took in exchange. But if B. aliens his land taken in exchange to C. and C. be put out of all or part of the land upon a title paramount, C. in this caſe can neither enter upon the land given to A. in exchange upon the condition in law, nor vouch A. to warranty, and recover over in value upon the warranty in law. And yet A. in this caſe ſhall have the like remedy againſt C. the alienee, upon the condition and warranty both, as he had againſt B. But if A. himſelf implead C. for the land he gave to B. in exchange, C. may make uſe of this warranty in law by way of rebutter againſt A. And in all theſe caſes, where one of the parties is put out of all or part of the land, or out of part of the eſtate by entry, and the other party enters upon the other's land upon the condition in law, he may enter upon the whole land and avoid the whole exchange. But if he be impleaded for a part only, or for the whole, and a part only be recovered from him; in this caſe he ſhall recover ſo much in value of the other's land only as he hath loſt, and no more: As if an exchange be of three acres for three acres, and after one of the parties is put out of one of the acres by the entry of a ſtranger; in this caſe he may enter upon the whole three acres he had given in exchange, and ſo avoid the whole exchange, if he will. And if A. and B. be jointenants for life, and the fee-ſimple is in the heirs of A. and A. exchanges this land with C. in fee, and then dies, and B. enters and avoids the exchange for his life, (as he may), in this caſe C. may avoid the whole exchange, and enter upon his own three acres again. So if he in reverſion diſſeiſes his tenant for life, and then he exchanges the land, and after the tenant for life enters, the other party may defeat the whole exchange. But in the caſe of an exchange of three acres for three acres, if one of the acres were gained by diſſeiſin, and the diſſeiſee brings an action and recovers it againſt the diſſeiſor; in this caſe if he vouches over the other party to the exchange, he ſhall recover ſo much in value only of the three acres he gave in exchange, as the acre he has loſt, and no more. 4 Co. 121. 15 Ed. 4. 3. 9 Ed. 4. 21. Bro. Exchange in toto, and Fitz. Exchange in toto.

Form of a deed of exchange of lands in fee.

THIS Indenture, made, &c. between A. B. of, &c. of the one part, and C. D. of, &c. of the other part, witneſſeth, that the ſaid A. B. hath given and granted, and by theſe preſents doth give and grant unto the ſaid C. D. his heirs and aſſigns, all that meſſuage, &c. lying and being, &c. To have and to hold the meſſuage or tenement and premiſſes abovementioned, with the appurtenances, unto the ſaid C. D. his heirs and aſſigns for ever; in exchange for all that meſſuage or tenement, &c. of the ſaid C. D. ſituate and lying, &c. For which conſideration, the ſaid C. D. hath given and granted, and by theſe preſents doth give and grant unto the ſaid A. B. his heirs and aſſigns, all that the ſaid meſſuage or tenement laſt above mentioned, with the appurtenances; To have and to hold the ſaid meſſuage or tenement and premiſſes laſt above-mentioned, with the appurtenances, unto the ſaid A. B. his heirs and aſſigns for ever; in exchange of and for the ſaid meſſuage and premiſſes firſt above-mentioned. And the ſaid A. B. for himſelf, his heirs and aſſigns, doth covenant and grant to and with the ſaid C. D. his heirs and aſſigns, by theſe preſents, that he the ſaid C. D. his heirs and aſſigns, ſhall or lawfully may from time to time, and at all times hereafter for ever, peaceably and quietly enter into, have, hold and enjoy the ſaid meſſuage or tenement and premiſſes firſt above-mentioned, or intended to be hereby given and granted by the ſaid A. B. with the appurtenances, without any let, trouble, challenge, claim, diſturbance or interruption of or by him the ſaid A. B. his heirs or aſſigns, or of or by any other perſon or perſons whatſoever, claiming or to claim from, by or under him, them, or any of them. And the ſaid C. D. for himſelf, his heirs and aſſigns, doth covenant and grant to and with the ſaid A. B. &c. [The like from C. D. to A. B. for quiet enjoyment of the meſſuage, &c. laſt abovementioned; and there may be a proviſo for either party to re-enter on his former lands, if there be an eviction.] In witneſs, &c.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Exchange, and Wood's Conv. vol. 1. 736—744.

Exchange of church livings, Is were two perſons, having procured licence from the ordinary to treat of an exchange (of which ſort there are many to be found in the eccleſiaſtical records) do by one inſtrument in writing, agree to exchange their benefices being both ſpiritual (for a lay preferment, as an hoſpital, cannot be exchanged or go for a prebend or other ſpiritual benefice); and in order thereunto do reſign them into the hands of the ordinary: Such exchange being executed, the reſignations are good Watſ. c. 4. Gibſ. 821.

But tho' the one is inſtituted and inducted into the others benefice, yet if the exchange be not executed on both parts, the clerk on whoſe part the exchange was not executed may have his benefice again; for in this caſe of exchanging, the law doth annex this condition to a reſignation, viz. if it be fully executed. Watſ. c. 4.

Thus where one is both inſtituted and inducted, and the other is only inſtituted, and dies, or refuſes to finiſh; in this caſe, tho' they have proceeded ſo far, yet the reſignation and all that followed upon it ſhall be void, and both (if both are living) may return to their former benefices upon the foot of former poſſeſſion; or if one dies before he is inducted, and after the induction of the other, this induction and all that went before ſhall be void, void, becauſe the exchange was not fully executed during the lives of the parties. Gibſ. 868.

And this is agreeable to the reaſon of the Common law: for at the Common law if a man exchange lands, and the lands he receives in exchange be evicted, he may repair to his own lands, and re-enter upon them. Deg. p. 1. c. 14.

By the 31 El. c. 6. ſ. 8. If any incumbent of any benefice with cure of ſouls, ſhall corruptly reſign or exchange the ſame; or corruptly take for or in any reſpect of the reſigning or exchanging the ſame, directly or indirectly, any penſion, ſum of money, or other benefit whatſoever; as well the giver as the taker of any ſuch penſion, ſum of money, or other benefit corruptly, ſhall loſe double the value of the ſum ſo given, taken or had; half to the Queen, and half to him that ſhall ſue for the ſame in any of her Majeſty's courts of record.

Exchangers, Are thoſe that uſe to return money beyond ſea, by bills of exchange, which by the ſtat. 5 R. 2. ought not to be done without the King's licence. See Eſcambio.

Exchequer, (Scaccarium, from the French word Eſchequier, i. abacus, tabula luſoria) Signifieth the place or court of all receipts belonging to the crown. Polyd. Virg. lib. 9. Hiſt. Ang. ſaith, that the true word in Latin is ſtatarium; but it may with more probability be taken from the German word ſchatz, denoting as much as theſaurus or fiſcus. Camden, in his Britannia, pag. 113. ſaith, that this court or office took the name from tabula ad quam aſſidebant, proving it out of Gervaſius Tilburienſis, the cloth which covered it being party-coloured or chequered. By the Grand Cuſtumary, it is brought from the Normans, cap. 56. where it is thus deſcribed, The Exchequer is called an aſſembly of High Juſticiers, to whom it appertaineth to amend that which the bailiffs and other meaner juſticiers have evil done, and unadviſedly judged, and to do right to all men without delay, as from the Prince's mouth. Skene de verbor. ſignif. verb. Scaccarium, hath out of Paulus Æmilius theſe words, Scaccarium dicitur quaſi ſtatarium, quod homines ibi in jure ſiſtantur, vel quod ſit ſtataria et perennis curia cum cæteræ curiæ eſſent indictivæ, nec loco nec tempore ſtatæ. Alſo he addeth further, that it might be called Scaccarium a ſimilitudine ludi Scaccorum, from the reſemblance it has to the game at Cheſs; many perſons meeting and pleading their cauſes there, as if they were fighting in an arrayed battle. And Smith deduces it from an old Saxon word, ſcata, ſignifying treaſure, whereof account is made in the Chequer. This court conſiſteth, as it were, of two parts, whereof one dealeth eſpecially in the judicial hearing and deciding of all cauſes appertaining to the prince's coffers, anciently called Scaccarium computorum, as Ockham teſtifies in his Lucubrations. The other is called The receipt of the Exchequer, which is properly imployed in the receiving and paying money. Cromp. Jur. fol. 105. ſays, it is a court of record, wherein all cauſes touching the revenues of the crown are handled: the officers belonging to both theſe are mentioned in Camden's Brit. cap. Tribunalia Angliæ. The King's Exchequer now ſettled at Weſtminſter, was in divers counties of Wales. See 27 H. 8. cap. 5, 26. and 4 par. Inſt. fo. 103. Cowell.

The common derivation of the word Exchequer, is from the old French word Eſchequier, which ſignifies a cheſs-board, or chequer-work; and becauſe a cloth of that kind was laid upon the table, upon which the accountants telled out the King's money, and ſet forth their accounts in the ſame artificial manner as is done in the Cofferer's account at this day, it was called The Court of Exchequer. Maddox 109. Spelman's Gloſſ. tit. Scacc. Forteſcue on Monarchy 117, 118.

It was formed from the Exchequer in Normandy, which was a court of ſovereign juriſdiction, and ſuperintended all manner of complaints, by, and againſt the ſheriffs and bailiffs who exerciſed an ordinary juriſdiction, and whoſe duty it was to gather the Duke's rents in each bailiwick, and to account for the ſame in this great court; and as in the court of Normandy, the great officers of ſtate ſat as judges; ſo with us, before the diviſion of the courts, the great miniſter, as the Juſticiar, Conſtable, Seneſchal, Chancellor and Treaſurer, ſat in this court; but the Treaſurer uſually preſided, as beſt acquainted with all matters relating to the revenue. Maddox 109. See alſo for the antiquity of this court, and of its ſeveral officers and their duty, 4 Inſt. 103. Sav. 48. 2 Inſt. 104, 105, 551.

The court of Exchequer is an ancient court of record, for all matters relating to the revenue of the crown. 4 Inſ.. 103.

In the Exchequer there are ſeven courts, 1. The court of Pleas. 2. The court of Accounts. 3. The court of Receipt. 4. The court of Exchequer-Chamber, being the aſſembly of all the judges of England, for matters in law. 5. The court of Exchequer-Chamber, for errors in the court of Exchequer. 6. The court of Exchequer-Chamber, for errors in the King's Bench. 7. The court of Equity in the Exchequer-Chamber. 1. Bac. Abr. 597.

By the ſtatute of Rutland, made 10 Ed. 1. "No plea ſhall be held in the Exchequer, unleſs it ſpecially concern the King or his miniſters;" but it hath been doubted, whether this is an act of parliament, or an ordinance only, made by the King for the better order of this court. Plow. 209. 4 Inſt. 113. But 2 Inſt. 551. it is ſaid there is a writ in the Regiſter under title Brevia de Statut', which recites the words of this ſtatute; and in the margin of the writ, Statut' de Rutland is quoted; ſo that without queſtion this ſtatute was made by authority of parliament. And 4 Inſt. 113. it is ſaid, it is entered in the parliament rolls, and ſee 8 Co. 20.——But 4 Inſt. 114. it is ſaid, the writ is founded upon the Common law and cuſtom of the realm.

1. Of the juriſdiction of the court of Exchequer, and what perſons ſhall have privilege of ſuit.

2. Manner of proceeding in the Exchequer, and of diſputes between it and other courts.

3. Statutes concerning the Exchequer.

1. Of the juriſdiction of the court of Exchequer, and what perſons ſhall have privilege of ſuit.

The King's farmer may ſue one that detains from him part of the poſſeſſions that he hath from the King, out of which the farm is to be paid, by which he cannot pay his farm to the King. 1 Rol. Abr. 538.

The debtor of the King's debtor may ſue here by quo minus. 4 Inſt. 112.

An Information for the Queen and party, upon the ſtatute of liveries, 8 Ed. 4. cap. 2. was brought in the Exchequer, though by the expreſs words of the ſtatute it ought to be in the King's Bench, or Common Pleas, before juſtices of the peace, &c. but the Exchequer is not mentioned; and it was adjudged it lay in this court, becauſe the Queen was party, and there were no negative words, without which this being a ſuperior court ſhall have juriſdiction. Sav. 134. Agard and Cavendiſh adjudged. Cro. Eliz. 326. S. C. adjorn. Moor. 564. S. C. upon a writ of error in Cam' Scacc', reverſed as to the informer; for the penalty was given to him only that informed in the courts ſpecially named. 2 And. 127. S. C. reverſed accordingly.

If the King's farmer ſues in the Exchequer, againſt a perſon for detaining of tithes, parcel of the poſſeſſions to him leaſed in farm by the King, though the right of tithes comes in debate between them, yet the court ſhall not be ouſted of juriſdiction. 1. Rol. Abr. 538.

If J. S. be parſon impropriate of D. and B. vicar there, and the King patron of the vicarage, and there is a debate between the parſon and vicar for tithes, the ſuit for theſe tithes ought to be in the Exchequer, Lane 100. 1 Rol. Abr. 538. S. C.

If a copyholder of the King's manor be ſued in the eccleſiaſtical courts for tithes, upon a ſuggeſtion in Scaccario, that he preſcribed to pay a certain modus decimandi, he ſhall have a prohibition there, and this modus ſhall be tried there. 1 Rol. Abr. 539. S. C.

If

If a man be amerced in the King's leet, and upon proceſs out of the Exchequer the bailiff diſtrains him for the amercement, and he brings treſpaſs, he ought to bring this action of treſpaſs in the office of Pleas of the Exchequer; for the bailiff levied it as an officer of this court. Lane 55. 1 Rol. Abr. 539.

If an erroneous judgment be given in a formedon in a copyhold court, in the county where the King is Lord, the party, againſt whom the judgment is given, may ſue by petition or bill to the King in the court of Exchequer-Chamber, in the nature of a writ of falſe judgment, for the reverſal of this judgment; for as in the court of a common perſon, the proper ſuit for reverſal thereof is to the Lord, by petition; ſo it his here to the King; and the Exchequer-Chamber, is the more proper to ſue to the King by petition than the Chancery, becauſe it concerns the King's manor. 1 Rol. Abr. 539. Lane 98. S. C.

An action of falſe impriſonment, or other action, may be brought againſt the under-ſheriff, in the Exchequer, though the ſheriff be the officer of the court, for the court takes notice of the under-ſheriff alſo. 1 Rol. Abr. 539.

If A. holds lands of the King by fealty and rent, and makes a leaſe thereof for years to B. and C. pretends a prior leaſe to him by A. though there is a rent iſſuing out of thoſe lands to the King, yet neither B. nor C. can ſue in this court by any privilege, in reſpect of the rent; for that the King can have no prejudice or benefit thereby; for whether B. or C. prevails the rent muſt be paid. 4 Inſt. 118.

But if the King extends lands, as the lands of A. for the debt of A. and leaſes the ſame to B. for years, reſerving rent, and C. pretends that A. had nothing in the land, but that he was ſeiſed thereof, &c. this is within the privilege of the court; for if C. prevails the King loſes his rent. 4 Inſt. 118.

If the King leaſes to A. for years, rendring rent, the King may diſtrain in all other the lands of A. for his rent, yet A. hath no privilege for his other lands, to bring them within the juriſdiction of this court. 4 Inſt. 119.

If a man files a croſs bill in this court, he need not intitle himſelf to the juriſdiction of the court, becauſe the croſs bill is grounded upon another bill in court. Hard. 160.

So if a man be ſued in the office of Pleas, he may have an Engliſh bill to relieve againſt that ſuit, without ſetting forth matter of juriſdiction. Hard. 160.

If A. is outlawed at the ſuit of B. and lands in the poſſeſſion of A. extended, and C. claims title to them, and pleads the inquiſition, if C. will bring an ejectment for them, it muſt be in this court, becauſe the King's revenue is concerned. Hard. 176.

If A. hath title to lands under an extent of the Exchequer, for debts in aid, he muſt bring his ejectment for them in this court, and having brought his ejectment for them in the Common Pleas, upon motion he was ordered to proſecute here. Hard. 193.

By the ſtat. 33 H. 8. cap. 39. the court of Exchequer has power to diſcharge all debts and duties due to the King, upon any equity diſcloſed; and it is by virtue of this act that they diſcharge recognizances; and it ſeems by the ſaid act, they may diſcharge penal laws made before this ſtatute; but all penal laws made after the ſtatute cannot be diſcharged, but muſt be compounded. Sav. 22. Hard. 334.

King Charles the Second having taken up ſums of money of the petitioners, (bankers) granted to them and their heirs, ſervant annuities chargeable upon the hereditary revenue of exciſe, given to the King by 12 Car. 2. cap. 24. The barons held, that the remedy, by petition to the barons was a proper remedy, and judgment was given for the petitioners by the opinion of 3. But Letchmere B. held, that the King could not alien or charge this revenue, and that for ſeveral reaſons there mentioned. Freem. Rep. 331. pl. 413. Hill. 1691. in Scacc. upon the petition of Hornbee. & al'.

There are three ſorts of privileges in the Exchequer, 1ſt, As debtor. 2dly, As accountant. 3dly, As officer of the court. Againſt the firſt of theſe, any man who hath a ſpecial privilege in another court, as an officer of the court, or an attorney, ſhall have his privilege, becauſe the privilege of a man as debtor is only a general privilege; put if an accountant begins his ſuit here, no privilege ſhall be allowed elſewhere, becauſe he has a ſpecial privilege, by reaſon of his attendance, to paſs his account, in which the King hath a particular concern; the ſame holds in an officer of the court; if he commences a ſuit here, no privilege in another court ſhall prevail againſt him, becauſe his attendance here is requiſite, and his privilege here is attached firſt by commencing his ſuit; but where the accountant has finiſhed his account, and reduced it to a certainty, ſo that it is become a debt, then he hath only a privilege as a general debtor has; ſo a ſervant to an officer or miniſter of the court, has no privilege againſt a privileged perſon elſewhere; per cur. Hard. 365. Paſch. 16 Car. 2. in the Exchequer, Clapham v. Sir J. Lenthall.

Thomas Young Juſtice, ſued a bill in the Exchequer againſt the clerk of the Hanaper upon this account, and the defendant caſt ſuperſedeas of the privilege of the Chancery, becauſe he was clerk of the Chancery; and by all the Juſtices in the Exchequer-Chamber the ſuperſedeas ſhall not be allowed; for every one who is accountant ought to be attendant and preſent, and there he ſhall be ſued, for it is an advantage to the King that he ſhall attend, and ſhall account; and accountant may have a bill againſt his debtor, and this is for the King's advantage, quod citius ſolvat regi; and if accountant be ſued in C. B. they ſhall ſend ſuperſedeas to ſurceaſe; and if he be ſued in B. R. thoſe of the Exchequer ſhall ſhew the record that he is accountant, &c. and ſhall not have ſuperſedeas to the King; for the pleas there are coram rege, &c. and he ſhall be diſmiſſed, and ſhall be ſued in the Excequer. Br. Privilege, pl. 25. cites 9 Ed. 4. 53.

The plaintiff, as debtor to the King, and Treaſurer of the Navy, exhibited his bill in the Exchequer. The defendant pleaded his privilege, as one of the Six Clerks in Chancery, under the Great Seal. Hale Ch. B. and the court held, that a general privilege, as debtor, will not hold againſt a ſpecial privilege, but againſt a general privilege it will. But a privilege as accountant will hold againſt a ſpecial privilege in another court, as officer of the court, or otherwiſe, though it be not alleged that he has entred upon his account; and in this caſe the plaintiff, being Treaſurer to the Navy, is eo ipſo an accountant. Hard. 316. Mich. 14 Car. 2. in the Exchequer. Sir Geo. Carteret v. Sir John Maſſam.

An accountant in the Exchequer to the King was ſued in B. R. and a baron of the Exchequer came into the court and produced his book of accounts to the King, and that the defendant was one, and prayed the privilege of the court of Exchequer, and that the ſuit might be ſtayed. The court demanded of the ſecondary, what the courſe was in ſuch caſe, whether to grant it upon ſuch bare averment of the baron, or that it ought to be pleaded and prayed by the party? Upon his informing the court that it had been uſually allowed without plea or prayer, it was granted accordingly. But Williams J. was ſtrongly againſt it, and ſaid, that there are many books wherein it was adjudged in point, that it ought to be upon the party's plea and prayer, and that without this the court cannot certainly know whether he be the ſame party for whom the privilege is prayed. 2 Buſt. 36. 10 Jac. Anon'.

The plaintiff being an accountant in the Exchequer, by bill there prayed to be relieved againſt a bond put in ſuit by defendant in the petty-bag, by reaſon of his privilege as uſher of the Chancery. The defendant pleaded his privilege as an officer of the court of Chancery. The court agreed, that when both parties are privileged, his privilege ſhall take place who ſues firſt; and that in this caſe the ſuit in equity to be relieved againſt the penalty of the bond is firſt attach'd here, and it is not the ſame ſuit with that at Common law, but diſtinct from it. And it was further ſaid, that if both parties are privileged perſons, and the attendance of the one is more requiſite than of the other, (as in the principal caſe it is, the plaintiff here being an accountant in this court, and entred into his account, as by his bill is alleged, which cannot be completed by deputy or attorney) in ſuch caſe his void, becauſe the exchange was not fully executed during the lives of the parties. Gibſ. 868.

privilege

And this is agreeable to the reaſon of the Common law: for at the Common law if a man exchange lands, and the lands he receives in exchange be evicted, he may repair to his own lands, and re-enter upon them. Deg. p. 1. c. 14.

By the 31 El. c. 6. ſ. 8. If any incumbent of any benefice with cure of ſouls, ſhall corruptly reſign or exchange the ſame; or corruptly take for or in any reſpect of the reſigning or exchanging the ſame, directly or indirectly, any penſion, ſum of money, or other benefit whatſoever; as well the giver as the taker of any ſuch penſion, ſum of money, or other benefit corruptly, ſhall loſe double the value of the ſum ſo given, taken or had; half to the Queen, and half to him that ſhall ſue for the ſame in any of her Majeſty's courts of record.

Exchangers, Are thoſe that uſe to return money beyond ſea, by bills of exchange, which by the ſtat. 5 R. 2. ought not to be done without the King's licence. See Eſcambio.

Exchequer, (Scaccarium, from the French word Eſchequier, i. abacus, tabula luſoria) Signifieth the place or court of all receipts belonging to the crown. Polyd. Virg. lib. 9. Hiſt. Ang. ſaith, that the true word in Latin is ſtatarium; but it may with more probability be taken from the German word ſchatz, denoting as much as theſaurus or fiſcus. Camden, in his Britannia, pag. 113. ſaith, that this court or office took the name from tabula ad quam aſſidebant, proving it out of Gervaſius Tilburienſis, the cloth which covered it being party-coloured or chequered. By the Grand Cuſtumary, it is brought from the Normans, cap. 56. where it is thus deſcribed, The Exchequer is called an aſſembly of High Juſticiers, to whom it appertaineth to amend that which the bailiffs and other meaner juſticiers have evil done, and unadviſedly judged, and to do right to all men without delay, as from the Prince's mouth. Skene de verbor. ſignif. verb. Scaccarium, hath out of Paulus Æmilius theſe words, Scaccarium dicitur quaſi ſtatarium, quod homines ibi in jure ſiſtantur, vel quod ſit ſtataria et perennis curia cum cæteræ curiæ eſſent indictivæ, nec loco nec tempore ſtatæ. Alſo he addeth further, that it might be called Scaccarium a ſimilitudine ludi Scaccorum, from the reſemblance it has to the game at Cheſs; many perſons meeting and pleading their cauſes there, as if they were fighting in an arrayed battle. And Smith deduces it from an old Saxon word, ſcata, ſignifying treaſure, whereof account is made in the Chequer. This court conſiſteth, as it were, of two parts, whereof one dealeth eſpecially in the judicial hearing and deciding of all cauſes appertaining to the prince's coffers, anciently called Scaccarium computorum, as Ockham teſtifies in his Lucubrations. The other is called The receipt of the Exchequer, which is properly imployed in the receiving and paying money. Cromp. Jur. fol. 105. ſays, it is a court of record, wherein all cauſes touching the revenues of the crown are handled: the officers belonging to both theſe are mentioned in Camden's Brit. cap. Tribunalia Angliæ. The King's Exchequer now ſettled at Weſtminſter, was in divers counties of Wales. See 27 H. 8. cap. 5, 26. and 4 par. Inſt. fo. 103. Cowell.

The common derivation of the word Exchequer, is from the old French word Eſchequier, which ſignifies a cheſs-board, or chequer-work; and becauſe a cloth of that kind was laid upon the table, upon which the accountants telled out the King's money, and ſet forth their accounts in the ſame artificial manner as is done in the Cofferer's account at this day, it was called The Court of Exchequer. Maddox 109. Spelman's Gloſſ. tit. Scacc. Forteſcue on Monarchy 117, 118.

It was formed from the Exchequer in Normandy, which was a court of ſovereign juriſdiction, and ſuperintended all manner of complaints, by, and againſt the ſheriffs and bailiffs who exerciſed an ordinary juriſdiction, and whoſe duty it was to gather the Duke's rents in each bailiwick, and to account for the ſame in this great court; and as in the court of Normandy, the great officers of ſtate ſat as judges; ſo with us, before the diviſion of the courts, the great miniſter, as the Juſticiar, Conſtable, Seneſchal, Chancellor and Treaſurer, ſat in this court; but the Treaſurer uſually preſided, as beſt acquainted with all matters relating to the revenue. Maddox 109. See alſo for the antiquity of this court, and of its ſeveral officers and their duty, 4 Inſt. 103. Sav. 48. 2 Inſt. 104, 105, 551.

The court of Exchequer is an ancient court of record, for all matters relating to the revenue of the crown. 4 Inſ.. 103.

In the Exchequer there are ſeven courts, 1. The court of Pleas. 2. The court of Accounts. 3. The court of Receipt. 4. The court of Exchequer-Chamber, being the aſſembly of all the judges of England, for matters in law. 5. The court of Exchequer-Chamber, for errors in the court of Exchequer. 6. The court of Exchequer-Chamber, for errors in the King's Bench. 7. The court of Equity in the Exchequer-Chamber. 1. Bac. Abr. 597.

By the ſtatute of Rutland, made 10 Ed. 1. "No plea ſhall be held in the Exchequer, unleſs it ſpecially concern the King or his miniſters;" but it hath been doubted, whether this is an act of parliament, or an ordinance only, made by the King for the better order of this court. Plow. 209. 4 Inſt. 113. But 2 Inſt. 551. it is ſaid there is a writ in the Regiſter under title Brevia de Statut', which recites the words of this ſtatute; and in the margin of the writ, Statut' de Rutland is quoted; ſo that without queſtion this ſtatute was made by authority of parliament. And 4 Inſt. 113. it is ſaid, it is entered in the parliament rolls, and ſee 8 Co. 20.——But 4 Inſt. 114. it is ſaid, the writ is founded upon the Common law and cuſtom of the realm.

1. Of the juriſdiction of the court of Exchequer, and what perſons ſhall have privilege of ſuit.

2. Manner of proceeding in the Exchequer, and of diſputes between it and other courts.

3. Statutes concerning the Exchequer.

1. Of the juriſdiction of the court of Exchequer, and what perſons ſhall have privilege of ſuit.

The King's farmer may ſue one that detains from him part of the poſſeſſions that he hath from the King, out of which the farm is to be paid, by which he cannot pay his farm to the King. 1 Rol. Abr. 538.

The debtor of the King's debtor may ſue here by quo minus. 4 Inſt. 112.

An Information for the Queen and party, upon the ſtatute of liveries, 8 Ed. 4. cap. 2. was brought in the Exchequer, though by the expreſs words of the ſtatute it ought to be in the King's Bench, or Common Pleas, before juſtices of the peace, &c. but the Exchequer is not mentioned; and it was adjudged it lay in this court, becauſe the Queen was party, and there were no negative words, without which this being a ſuperior court ſhall have juriſdiction. Sav. 134. Agard and Cavendiſh adjudged. Cro. Eliz. 326. S. C. adjorn. Moor. 564. S. C. upon a writ of error in Cam' Scacc', reverſed as to the informer; for the penalty was given to him only that informed in the courts ſpecially named. 2 And. 127. S. C. reverſed accordingly.

If the King's farmer ſues in the Exchequer, againſt a perſon for detaining of tithes, parcel of the poſſeſſions to him leaſed in farm by the King, though the right of tithes comes in debate between them, yet the court ſhall not be ouſted of juriſdiction. 1. Rol. Abr. 538.

If J. S. be parſon impropriate of D. and B. vicar there, and the King patron of the vicarage, and there is a debate between the parſon and vicar for tithes, the ſuit for theſe tithes ought to be in the Exchequer, Lane 100. 1 Rol. Abr. 538. S. C.

If a copyholder of the King's manor be ſued in the eccleſiaſtical courts for tithes, upon a ſuggeſtion in Scaccario, that he preſcribed to pay a certain modus decimandi, he ſhall have a prohibition there, and this modus ſhall be tried there. 1 Rol. Abr. 539. S. C.

If

If a man be amerced in the King's leet, and upon proceſs out of the Exchequer the bailiff diſtrains him for the amercement, and he brings treſpaſs, he ought to bring this action of treſpaſs in the office of Pleas of the Exchequer; for the bailiff levied it as an officer of this court. Lane 55. 1 Rol. Abr. 539.

If an erroneous judgment be given in a formedon in a copyhold court, in the county where the King is Lord, the party, againſt whom the judgment is given, may ſue by petition or bill to the King in the court of Exchequer-Chamber, in the nature of a writ of falſe judgment, for the reverſal of this judgment; for as in the court of a common perſon, the proper ſuit for reverſal thereof is to the Lord, by petition; ſo it his here to the King; and the Exchequer-Chamber, is the more proper to ſue to the King by petition than the Chancery, becauſe it concerns the King's manor. 1 Rol. Abr. 539. Lane 98. S. C.

An action of falſe impriſonment, or other action, may be brought againſt the under-ſheriff, in the Exchequer, though the ſheriff be the officer of the court, for the court takes notice of the under-ſheriff alſo. 1 Rol. Abr. 539.

If A. holds lands of the King by fealty and rent, and makes a leaſe thereof for years to B. and C. pretends a prior leaſe to him by A. though there is a rent iſſuing out of thoſe lands to the King, yet neither B. nor C. can ſue in this court by any privilege, in reſpect of the rent; for that the King can have no prejudice or benefit thereby; for whether B. or C. prevails the rent muſt be paid. 4 Inſt. 118.

But if the King extends lands, as the lands of A. for the debt of A. and leaſes the ſame to B. for years, reſerving rent, and C. pretends that A. had nothing in the land, but that he was ſeiſed thereof, &c. this is within the privilege of the court; for if C. prevails the King loſes his rent. 4 Inſt. 118.

If the King leaſes to A. for years, rendring rent, the King may diſtrain in all other the lands of A. for his rent, yet A. hath no privilege for his other lands, to bring them within the juriſdiction of this court. 4 Inſt. 119.

If a man files a croſs bill in this court, he need not intitle himſelf to the juriſdiction of the court, becauſe the croſs bill is grounded upon another bill in court. Hard. 160.

So if a man be ſued in the office of Pleas, he may have an Engliſh bill to relieve againſt that ſuit, without ſetting forth matter of juriſdiction. Hard. 160.

If A. is outlawed at the ſuit of B. and lands in the poſſeſſion of A. extended, and C. claims title to them, and pleads the inquiſition, if C. will bring an ejectment for them, it muſt be in this court, becauſe the King's revenue is concerned. Hard. 176.

If A. hath title to lands under an extent of the Exchequer, for debts in aid, he muſt bring his ejectment for them in this court, and having brought his ejectment for them in the Common Pleas, upon motion he was ordered to proſecute here. Hard. 193.

By the ſtat. 33 H. 8. cap. 39. the court of Exchequer has power to diſcharge all debts and duties due to the King, upon any equity diſcloſed; and it is by virtue of this act that they diſcharge recognizances; and it ſeems by the ſaid act, they may diſcharge penal laws made before this ſtatute; but all penal laws made after the ſtatute cannot be diſcharged, but muſt be compounded. Sav. 22. Hard. 334.

King Charles the Second having taken up ſums of money of the petitioners, (bankers) granted to them and their heirs, ſervant annuities chargeable upon the hereditary revenue of exciſe, given to the King by 12 Car. 2. cap. 24. The barons held, that the remedy, by petition to the barons was a proper remedy, and judgment was given for the petitioners by the opinion of 3. But Letchmere B. held, that the King could not alien or charge this revenue, and that for ſeveral reaſons there mentioned. Freem. Rep. 331. pl. 413. Hill. 1691. in Scacc. upon the petition of Hornbee. & al'.

There are three ſorts of privileges in the Exchequer, 1ſt, As debtor. 2dly, As accountant. 3dly, As officer of the court. Againſt the firſt of theſe, any man who hath a ſpecial privilege in another court, as an officer of the court, or an attorney, ſhall have his privilege, becauſe the privilege of a man as debtor is only a general privilege; put if an accountant begins his ſuit here, no privilege ſhall be allowed elſewhere, becauſe he has a ſpecial privilege, by reaſon of his attendance, to paſs his account, in which the King hath a particular concern; the ſame holds in an officer of the court; if he commences a ſuit here, no privilege in another court ſhall prevail againſt him, becauſe his attendance here is requiſite, and his privilege here is attached firſt by commencing his ſuit; but where the accountant has finiſhed his account, and reduced it to a certainty, ſo that it is become a debt, then he hath only a privilege as a general debtor has; ſo a ſervant to an officer or miniſter of the court, has no privilege againſt a privileged perſon elſewhere; per cur. Hard. 365. Paſch. 16 Car. 2. in the Exchequer, Clapham v. Sir J. Lenthall.

Thomas Young Juſtice, ſued a bill in the Exchequer againſt the clerk of the Hanaper upon this account, and the defendant caſt ſuperſedeas of the privilege of the Chancery, becauſe he was clerk of the Chancery; and by all the Juſtices in the Exchequer-Chamber the ſuperſedeas ſhall not be allowed; for every one who is accountant ought to be attendant and preſent, and there he ſhall be ſued, for it is an advantage to the King that he ſhall attend, and ſhall account; and accountant may have a bill againſt his debtor, and this is for the King's advantage, quod citius ſolvat regi; and if accountant be ſued in C. B. they ſhall ſend ſuperſedeas to ſurceaſe; and if he be ſued in B. R. thoſe of the Exchequer ſhall ſhew the record that he is accountant, &c. and ſhall not have ſuperſedeas to the King; for the pleas there are coram rege, &c. and he ſhall be diſmiſſed, and ſhall be ſued in the Excequer. Br. Privilege, pl. 25. cites 9 Ed. 4. 53.

The plaintiff, as debtor to the King, and Treaſurer of the Navy, exhibited his bill in the Exchequer. The defendant pleaded his privilege, as one of the Six Clerks in Chancery, under the Great Seal. Hale Ch. B. and the court held, that a general privilege, as debtor, will not hold againſt a ſpecial privilege, but againſt a general privilege it will. But a privilege as accountant will hold againſt a ſpecial privilege in another court, as officer of the court, or otherwiſe, though it be not alleged that he has entred upon his account; and in this caſe the plaintiff, being Treaſurer to the Navy, is eo ipſo an accountant. Hard. 316. Mich. 14 Car. 2. in the Exchequer. Sir Geo. Carteret v. Sir John Maſſam.

An accountant in the Exchequer to the King was ſued in B. R. and a baron of the Exchequer came into the court and produced his book of accounts to the King, and that the defendant was one, and prayed the privilege of the court of Exchequer, and that the ſuit might be ſtayed. The court demanded of the ſecondary, what the courſe was in ſuch caſe, whether to grant it upon ſuch bare averment of the baron, or that it ought to be pleaded and prayed by the party? Upon his informing the court that it had been uſually allowed without plea or prayer, it was granted accordingly. But Williams J. was ſtrongly againſt it, and ſaid, that there are many books wherein it was adjudged in point, that it ought to be upon the party's plea and prayer, and that without this the court cannot certainly know whether he be the ſame party for whom the privilege is prayed. 2 Buſt. 36. 10 Jac. Anon'.

The plaintiff being an accountant in the Exchequer, by bill there prayed to be relieved againſt a bond put in ſuit by defendant in the petty-bag, by reaſon of his privilege as uſher of the Chancery. The defendant pleaded his privilege as an officer of the court of Chancery. The court agreed, that when both parties are privileged, his privilege ſhall take place who ſues firſt; and that in this caſe the ſuit in equity to be relieved againſt the penalty of the bond is firſt attach'd here, and it is not the ſame ſuit with that at Common law, but diſtinct from it. And it was further ſaid, that if both parties are privileged perſons, and the attendance of the one is more requiſite than of the other, (as in the principal caſe it is, the plaintiff here being an accountant in this court, and entred into his account, as by his bill is alleged, which cannot be completed by deputy or attorney) in ſuch caſe his privilege ſhall be allowed who has moſt cauſe of privilege; & adjornatur. But at another day the plea was overruled, and an injunction granted till anſwer. Hard. 117. pl. 2. Trin. 1658. Baker v. Lenthall.

privilege

2. Manner of proceeding in the Exchequer, and of diſputes between it and other courts.

If prohibited goods were ſeized, and proclamation made according to the courſe of the court, the owner ſhall not have them delivered unto him upon ſecurity, without putting in a plea, ſhewing cauſe why he ſhould have them. Sav. 10.

Before the ſtat. 5. R. 2. ſo great care was taken of the King's revenue, that no man might ſue or plead for their diſcharge of any debt, account or demand in this court, without expreſs command, or letter of the Great ſeal. 4 Inſt. 110.

But by ſtat. 5 R. 2. cap. 9. This practice was declared illegal, and ordained, that the barons ſhould have power to hear every anſwer of every demand in this court: ſo that every perſon, &c. may plead, ſue, &c. without ſuing any writ or other commandment. 4 Inſt. 110.

In caſe of an outlawry, it is the courſe of the Exchequer, to prefer an information in nature of a trover and converſion, againſt him that hath the goods of the party outlawed. 1 Mod. 90.

A cauſe had been heard in the Exchequer where two ſeveral trials had been directed, viz. will or no will, and a verdict was for the plaintiff in both; and yet the Chief Baron diſmiſſed the bill there, but without prejudice in law or equity. It was argued that thoſe words without prejudice in law or equity, muſt be underſtood to hinder the plaintiff from ſeeking relief in any other court of law or equity. And the court conceived accordingly, and ordered that the plaintiff who had brought an original bill in Chancery for the ſame matters, and to examine witneſſes in order thereto in perpetuam rei memoriam, might examine any witneſſes not examined in the Exchequer; and as to matters examined unto there, he might examine the ſame witneſſes de bene eſſe, and how far thoſe de bene eſſe ſhould be uſed, the court would conſider. Chan. Caſes 155. Hill. 21 & 22 Car. 2. Anon'.

A bill was exhibited in Chancery, concerning tithes and bounds of a pariſh, which proceeded to anſwer and replication. Then he exhibited another bill in the Exchequer, and there witneſſes were examined, and now proceeds again in Chancery, and replies. The defendant pleaded the proceedings and examination in the Exchequer, and ruled good as to examination of the ſame matters, which, being examined to there, were not examined in Chancery. Chan. Caſes 233. Trin. 26 Car. 2. The King v. Brownlow.

Mortgagor exhibits a bill to redeem in the Exchequer; the defendant there ſhall be at liberty to exhibit a bill to foreclоſe in Chancery, and the pendency of a former ſuit is no plea, though it was inſiſted that this was only in nature of a croſs bill to that in the Exchequer, which the now plaintiff might have exhibited there, and then one account of the profits would have ſerved all, and it was vexatious in the plaintiff to bring the ſame matter in iſſue in another court at the ſame time; and if the deputy remembrancer in the Exchequer ſhould take the account one way, and a maſter here ſhould take it another, it would breed confuſion; and if this court ſhould be of an opinion, that there ought to be no redemption, and the Exchequer ſhould decree a redemption, the juriſdictions would claſh; and therefore, to avoid theſe inconveniences, priority of ſuit ought to give juriſdiction to the Exchequer. Lord Keeper declared his opinion to be, that in any caſe if the mortgagor exhibited a bill to redeem in the Exchequer, that the defendant there ſhould be at liberty to exhibit to foreclоſe in his court; and overruled the plea, and ordered the defendant to pay coſts. Vern. 220. pl. 219. Hill. 1683. Earl of Newburg v. Wren.

Aſſignees under a commiſſion of bankruptcy bring a bill for on account againſt ſome perſons who had ſeized the bankrupt's eſtate by virtue of three extents, one for the King, and the other two were extents in aid; bill diſmiſſed, the matter being properly cogniſable in the court of Exchequer, which is the King's court of revenue. 2 Vern. 426. pl. 387. Paſch 1701. Brown and Sandys v. Trant and Bridges & al'.

The court of Chancery will not examine the quantum of the King's debt, nor how far extents ſued out are neceſſary. 2 Vern. 426. pl. 387. Paſch. 1701, in caſe of Brown and Sandys v. Trant and Bridges & al'.

A ſuit in Chancery was againſt ſeveral defendants, one of the defendants died, the ſurvivors pleaded the privilege of the Exchequer. But becauſe this ſuit was joint at firſt againſt the deceaſed and others, and any thing appearing he had no privilege in the Exchequer, ſo that the court of Chancery being lawfully poſſeſſed of the plea, his death ought not to give any more privilege to the other defendants to draw the cauſe from this court than they ſhould have had at the beginning, or while he lived; and therefore his lordſhip did adjudge the defendant's bill in this court. 1 Chan. R. 69, 70. 9 Car. 1. Lake v. Phillips. See 4 Inſt. 103 to 117.

3. Statutes concerning the Exchequer.

The order of accounting there, Stat. de Scaccario, 51 H. 3. ſt. 5.

The King ſhall aſſign three ſurveyors to extend the eſcheats, 51 H. 3. ſt. 5. ſ. 4.

The collector of the cuſtoms when to account, 51 H. 3. ſt. 5. ſect. 6.

The officers reſtrained as to appointing deputies, St. de Scac'. 51 H. 3. ſt. 5. ſ. 7 & 8.

Eſtreats of fines and amerciaments ſhall be delivered into the Exchequer every year, 51 H. 3. ſt. 5. ſect. 10. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 22.

The ſummons of the Exchequer ſhall be ſhewn gratis. St. Weſtm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 19.

Directions for writing the rolls of ſheriffs accounts, St. Rutl. 10 Ed. 1.

Writs of ſecunda ſuperoneratione and re diſſeiſin ſhall be inrolled, and a tranſcript ſent into the Exchequer, St. Weſtm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. c. 8.

One baron and one clerk to be ſent into every county once a year, to inroll the payment of debts, 27 Ed. 1. ſt. 1. c. 2.

The Common Pleas ſhall not be held in the Exchequer, Art. ſuper Cart. 28 Ed. 1. ſt. 3. c. 4.

The King's clerks employed in the Exchequer ſhall not be compelled to reſidence, Art. Cler. 9 Ed. 2. ſt. 1. c. 8.

Juſtices of aſſiſe, &c. ſhall ſend their records to the Exchequer every year, 9 Ed. 3. ſt. 1. c. 5.

The duty of the barons, 20 Ed. 3. c. 2.

A clerk of the remembrance ſhall ſit above the clerk of the pipe to imbreviate the diſcharges of the King's debtors, 37 Ed. 3. c. 4.

Penalty on clerks of the Exchequer making out proceſs for a debt paid, 1 R. 2. c. 5.

The barons ſhall admit any one to plead in diſcharge without privy ſeal, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. cap. 10.

The covenants of perſons retained in the King's ſervice, ſhall be ſent into the Exchequer in order to be allowed their accounts, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 11.

Accounts in the Exchequer ſhall be more ſpeedily determined, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 12.

Two clerks ſhall be aſſigned to make parcels of accounts, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 13.

Accounts of nichil ſhall be put out. 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 14.

The clerk of the pipe and the remembrancers ſhall every term execute all privy ſeals of diſcharge, and tranſmit ſchedules of the diſcharges to each other, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 15.

On a judgment of livery certified, the remembrancer ſhall indorſe a diſcharge on the mittimus, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 16.

The fees of the clerks for commiſſions and niſi prius, 5 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 17.

No bond ſhall be taken for the King's debt in double the ſum, 13 R. 2. ſt. 1. c. 14.

Commiſſions to inquire into accounts paſſed in the Exchequer, 6 H. 4. c. 3.

How rolls of eſtreats are to be made, 7 H. 4. c. 3.

Certain fees limited, and extortions prohibited, 33 H. 6. c. 3.

Penalty on officers of the Exchequer refuſing inquiſitions returnable there, 1 H. 8. c. 8. ſ. 4.

The authorities of the court of Augmentations, &c. which have ſince been united to the Exchequer, 33 H. 8. c. 39. ſ. 56, &c.

The duty and fees of the auditors and receivers, 33 H. 8. c. 39. ſ. 67, &c.

Coufirmation of certain orders for the limiting of fees, and regulating the iſſuing of proceſs, 1 Jac. 1. c. 26.

Suits on the act of navigation may be proſecuted in the Exchequer, 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 11. ſect. 28.

No writ of delivery ſhall be granted out of the Exchequer, without ſecurity, 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 30.

All ſeizures and inquiſitions, returned, to be certified to the ingroſſer of the great roll before the firſt day of the next term, &c. 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 4.

For aſſigning of orders, 19 Car. 2. c. 12.

Penalty on not paying money into the Exchequer in due time, 20 Car. 2. c. 2. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. ſ. 42.

Rules for paying certain monies into the Exchequer, 1 W. & Mar. ſt. 2. c. 1.

Regulations for receiving and paying money at the Exchequer, 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 28.

The duty of the tellers, auditors, and of the talley-office regulated, 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 28. 10 & 11 W. 3. c. 22. ſ. 14.

Penalty on officers of the Exchequer not keeping an account of all monies appropriated to the bank, 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 20. ſ. 37.

New bills may be made forth at the Exchequer, in lieu f thoſe filled up with indorſements, 9 W. 3. c. 3. ſ. 3.

Eſtabliſhment of the Exchequer in Scotland, 6 Ann. c. 26.

Alteration of Whitſuntide and Lammas terms for the court of Exchequer in Scotland, 7 Ann. c. 15.

Earl of Ranelagh's aſſignments declared good, 5 Geo. 1. c. 2. ſ. 8.

Regulations for the indorſing of orders, 9 Geo. 1. c. 12.

Officers indemnified for money ſtolen out of the Exchequer, 2 Geo. 2. c. 6.

The act that proceedings ſhall be entred in Engliſh not to affect the receipt of Exchequer, 6 Geo. 2. c. 6.

A million charged on duties on licences, &c. 16 Geo. 2. c. 12.

Fees on niſi prius records iſſuing out of Exchequer, 23 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 10.

Clauſes in the land-tax act relating to Exchequer bills extended to the malt-tax act, 30 Geo. 2. c. 4. ſ. 34.

Exchequer bills. Statutes for circulating Exchequer bills, 5 Ann. c. 13. 6 Ann. c. 32. 12 Ann. ſt. 1. c. 11. 6 Geo. 1. c. 2. ſ. 8. 6 Geo. 1. c. 4. ſ. 69, &c. 8 Geo. 1. c. 20. 11 Geo. 1. c. 17. 12 Geo. 1. c. 2. ſ. 29, &c. 13 Geo. 1. c. 7. ſ. 15. 3 Geo. 2. c. 16. 30 Geo. 2. c. 3. ſ. 166.

And for payment of thoſe loſt, 7 Geo. ſt. 1. c. 20. ſ. 33. 8 Geo. 1. c. 2. ſ. 34. 11 Geo. 1. c. 8. ſ. 23. 12 Geo. 1. c. 2. ſ. 29. 12 Geo. 1. c. 4. ſ. 65. 13 Geo. 1. c. 7. ſ. 36. 14 Geo. 2. c. 41. ſ. 16. 30 Geo. 2. c. 3. ſ. 174. 2 Geo. 3. c. 9.

Two millions to be raiſed by Exchequer bills, 33 Geo 2. c. 1.

Loans to be taken at Exchequer for a million, 33 Geo. 2. c. 18.

Loan for making up the deficiencies of the year 1760, 33 Geo. 2. c. 21.

Loan for 1,500,000*l.* 33 Geo. 2. c. 23.

Loan for 1,762,400*l.* 1 Geo. 3. c. 18.

Loan for 1,000,000*l.* out of next ſupplies, or ſinking fund, 1 Geo. 3. c. 19.

Loan for 1,500,000*l* for diſcharging navy debt, 1 Geo. 3. c. 20.

Loan for 1,500,000*l.* for diſcharging navy debt, 2 Geo. 3. c. 7.

Loan for 1,009,217*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* 2 Geo. 3. c. 33.

Loan for 1,000,000*l.* out of next ſupplies or ſinking fund, 2 Geo. 3. c. 34.

Loan for 1,800,000*l.* out of next ſupplies or ſinking fund, 3 Geo. 3. c. 17.

Tallies of loan to be ſtruck for 2,000,000*l.* iſſuing out of ſinking fund, 3 Geo. 3. c. 18.

Proviſion for the more eaſy diſcharge of recognizances eſtreated into the Exchequer, 4 Geo. 3. c. 10.

Loan of 2,000,000*l.* for 1764, 4 Geo. 3. c. 13.

Treaſury impowered to iſſue Exchequer bills for 800,000*l.* to be paid out of firſt ſupplies, or out of ſinking fund, 4 Geo. 3. c. 23.

Loan for 800,000*l.* 5 Geo. 3. c. 19.

Exciſe, Is a charge or impoſition laid upon beer, ale, cyder, and other liquors, within the kingdom of England, Wales, and Berwick, by an act of parliament made 12 Car. 2. cap. 23. during the King's life, and according to the rates in the ſaid act mentioned.

Brewers to make their entries once a month, 12 Car. 2. c. 23. ſ. 15.

Thirty-ſix gallons to be reckoned to a barrel of beer, and thirty-two gallons to a barrel of ale, 12 Car. 2. c. 23. ſ. 8.

Duties on foreign liquors to be paid by the importer, 12 Car. 2. c. 23. ſ. 14. 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 17. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 9

Oaths of officers of exciſe, 12 Car. 2. c. 23. ſ. 33.

The hereditary exciſe granted, 12 Car. 2. c. 24. ſ. 15, &c.

Brewers muſt give notice of their brewing veſſels. 15 Car. 2. c. 11.

The commiſſioners ſhall not take the exciſe to farm, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 2.

Exciſe officers to be kept in the market-towns, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 20.

Hours for carrying out beer, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 11.

Brewers ſhall not mingle ſtrong worts with ſmall, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 12. 2 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 11.

Penalty of bribing an exciſeman, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 16.

Directions for landing exciſeable liquors imported, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 17.

Where appellant to have coſts, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 19

Exemption of colleges in univerſities, 15 Car. 2. c. 11. ſ. 21.

Powers of commiſſioners given to the farmers, 16 & 17 Car. 2. c. 4.

Additional exciſes now expired, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. 29 Car. 2. c. 2. 3 W. & M. c. 1. 1 W. & M. c. 24. 2 W. & M. ſt. 2. c. 3. & c. 10. 3 W. & M. c. 1. 5 W. & M. c. 7. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 30.

Allowance for waſte, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 3.

Juſtices or commiſſioners may mitigate fines, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 8.

Lending the uſe of a brewhouſe prohibited, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 10.

Retailer of ale not to mix ſtrong and ſmall beer together after the gage is taken, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 11. 7 W. 3. c. 30.

Certioraries not to be allowed on proceedings on the exciſe law, 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 5. ſ. 14.

In the country, thirty-four gallons to be reckoned a barrel of beer or ale, 1 W. & M. ſt. 1. c. 24. ſ. 5.

Brewer not diſcharged of miſ-entry unleſs he ſhews the beer, 1 W. & M. ſt. 1. c. 24. ſ. 10.

Penalty on officers taking fees, 1 W. & M. ſt. 1. c. 24. ſ. 15.

Informations againſt brewers to be exhibited within three months, 1 W. & M. c. 24. ſ. 16.

The exciſe granted to King William and Queen Mary, 2 W. & M. c. 3.

Additional exciſe granted, 4 W. & M. c. 3. 5 W. & M. c. 2. ſ. 10. 4 Ann. c. 6. ſ. 6.

Theſe duties are made perpetual, and the ſurplus appropriated to the aggregate fund, 1 Geo. 1. c. 12.

The duties granted by 4 Ann. c. 6. are charged with annuities; and by 6 Geo. 1. c. 4. South-Sea company are impowered to purchaſe annuities.

Notes of gages to be left with the brewer, 5 W. & M. c. 20. ſ. 49. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 30. ſ. 46.

Powers and directions for preventing the concealment of liquors ſubject to exciſe, 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 3.

Commiſſioners or juſtices may ſummon witneſſes, 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 30. ſ. 24.

Officers may break open brewhouſes to ſearch for private tons, &c. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 30. ſ. 27.

Inferior offices to continue though commiſſioners die, 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 3. ſ. 30.

Brewers to make declaration of party guiles, 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 19.

Penalties on concealed veſſels, 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 19. ſ. 4.

The duties on vinegar and low wines leſſened, 10 & 11 W. 3. c. 21.

Informations to be brought within three months, 12 W. 3. c. 11. ſ. 17.

The weekly ſum of 3700*l.* to be paid out of the exciſe revenue as a fund, 12 & 13 W. 3. c. 12.

This weekly charge made perpetual by 1 Geo. 1. ſt. 1. c. 1. and the annuities granted upon it ſubſcribed into the South Sea fund, 6 Geo. 1. c. 4.

The exciſe charged with three per cent. on the banker's debt, 12 W. 3. c. 12. ſ. 15.

Great part of this debt was ſubſcribed for annuities upon general fund, purſuant to 3 Geo. 1. c. 7.

Additional exciſe granted, 8 Ann. c. 7.

The duties laid by 8 Ann. c. 7. made perpetual by the South Sea act, 6 Geo. 1. c. 4.

Commiſſioners and officers to be ſworn, 10 Ann. c. 19. ſ. 122. 10 Ann. c. 96. ſ. 75.

Certain duties put under the management of commiſſioners of exciſe, 12 Ann. ſt. 2. c. 9. ſ. 11.

Penalty of obſtructing exciſe officers, 6 Geo. 1. c. 21. ſ. 7.

Exciſe officers may ſearch ſhips for brandy and exciſeable liquors, 11 Geo. 1. c. 30.

May by warrant ſearch houſes, 11 Geo. 1. c. 30. ſ. 2.

Rules for taking out permits, 11 Geo. 1. c. 30. ſ. 10.

Penalty on a conſtable refuſing to aſſiſt an officer, 11 Geo. 1. c. 30. ſ. 31.

Proof to be admitted of an officer's authority without producing his deputation, 11 Geo. 1. c. 30. ſ. 32.

Penalty on offering to corrupt an officer, 11 Geo. 1. c. 30. ſ. 40.

Directions for the commiſſioners of cuſtoms and exciſe to proceed upon ſeizures of tea, coffee, and exciſeable liquors, 12 Geo. 1. c. 28.

Officers not ſubject to penalty for not leaving a copy of their charge, unleſs requeſted in writing, 12 Geo. 1. c. 28. ſ. 30.

Right of appeal confirmed, 1 Geo. 2. c. 16. ſ. 3.

Three commiſſioners impowered to act, 1 Geo. 2. c. 16. ſ. 4.

Powers granted to the commiſſioners with reſpect to retailers of ſpirituous liquors, 9 Geo. 2. c. 23. ſ. 4. &c.

The duty on ſweets leſſened, 10 Geo. 2, c. 17.

Directions for preventing frauds in dealers in exciſeable goods, 18 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 8.

Offenders in one juriſdiction may be proſecuted in another, 18 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 13.

Puniſhment of perſons going armed in defiance of laws of exciſe, 19 Geo. 2. c. 34.

Offences againſt exciſe laws and monies ariſing from exciſe, excepted out of general pardon, 20 Geo. 2. c. 52. ſ. 28, 39.

Office hours of attendance altered, 23 Geo. 2. c. 26. ſ. 12.

Summons left at offenders houſes to be deemed legal notice, 32 Geo. 2. c. 17.

Officers of exciſe may ſeize forfeited veſſels, 33 Geo. 2. c. 9. ſ. 16.

Additional exciſe granted, 1 Geo. 3. c. 7. ſ. 1.

For other matters, ſee the ſeveral ſorts of exciſeable goods.

Exhamſhire and Tindal. Proceſs how to iſſue againſt perſons of the franchiſes of Exhamſhire, &c. committing murder, &c. 2 Hen. 5. ſt. 1. c. 5. 9 Hen. 5. ſt. 1. c. 7. Exham and Exhamſhire ſhall be within Northumberland. Stat. 14 Eliz. c. 13.

Erclusa. A ſluice for water dammed or pent up.—Et ripam Savernæ in foreſta ſua ad tenendam excluſam piſcariæ vel molendini de Ettona. Cart. H. 1. in Mon. Angl. tom. 1.———Excluſagium is of the ſame import, as——Dedi in puram eleemoſynam——excluſagium & ſtagnum de piſcaria & molendino de Waderhalla.——Mon. Anglican. tom. 1. pag. 398. And nearer to our preſent Engliſh, ſluſagium.——Ex dono Richardi filii Lucæ ſluſagium unum ſuper terram ſuam ad molendinum monachorum fullericum, Ib. p. 868.

Erclusagium, Was a payment due to the lord for the benefit of having a ſluce. Et duo molendina in eodem manerio cum aquis excluſagiis, &c. Mon. 1 tom. 398, 587.

Excommengement. In ſtat. 23 Hen. 8. cap. 3. is in law French, the ſame with excommunication in Engliſh.

Excommunication, Is an eccleſiaſtical cenſure, whereby the perſon againſt whom it is pronounced is for the time caſt out of the communion of the church. God. 624. And it is of two kinds, the leſſer and the greater: The leſſer excommunication is, the depriving the offender of the uſe of the ſacraments and divine worſhip; and this ſentence is paſſed by judges eccleſiaſtical, on ſuch perſons as are guilty of obſtinacy or diſobedience, in not appearing upon a citation, or not ſubmitting to penance, or other injunctions of the court. The greater excommunication is that whereby men are deprived, not only of the ſacraments, and the benefit of divine offices, but of the ſociety and converſation of the faithful. Johnſ. 168.

Excommunication is divided into the greater and leſſer; the greater excludes a man from the communion of the faithful, as well as of the ſacraments; the leſſer excludes a man from the communion of the ſacraments only; but they both equally diſable the perſon from bringing any action, &c. Co. Lit. 134.

Excommunication is the higheſt eccleſiaſtical cenſure which can be pronounced by a ſpiritual judge againſt a chriſtian, for thereby he is excluded from the body of the church, and diſabled to bring any action, or ſue any perſon in the Common law courts. Co. Lit. 133. Godol. 624.

By the 33d article of the church of England, that perſon, which by open denunciation of the church is rightly cut off from the unity of the church, and excommunicated, ought to be taken of the whole multitude of the faithful as an heathen and publican, until he be openly reconciled by penance, and received into the church by a judge that hath authority thereunto. Gib. Cod. 1095-6. ——It was uſed by way of puniſhment only for great and heinous crimes, according to the rule in the Reformatio Legum, fol. 80. Non debet excommunicatio minutis in delictis verſari, ſed ad horribilium criminum atrocitatem admovenda eſt, in quibus eccleſia graviſſimam infamiam ſuſtinet, vel quod illis evertatur religio, vel quod boni mores pervertuntur. But now the frequent uſe of excommunication is in caſes of contumacy, for not appearing or diſobeying of ſentences, though in the ſmalleſt matters, and thoſe oft-times of a civil nature, which is one of the principal means of bringing a contempt upon it, and yet is the only way which the ſpiritual court has to inforce obedience. Gib. Cod. 1095.

1. In what caſes the ſpiritual court may excommunicate, and where a perſon ſhall be ſaid to be ipſo facto excommunicated.

2. By whom excommunication is to be pronounced and certified, and of the diſabilities of the perſon excommunicated.

3. Of the proceedings on the writ of excommunicato capiendo, both at Common law, and by ſtat. 5 Eliz. and of abſolving and aſſoiling a perſon excommunicated.

1. In what caſes the ſpiritual court may excommunicate, and where a perſon ſhall be ſaid to be ipſo facto excommunicated.

It ſeems agreed, that where-ever the ſpiritual court hath juriſdiction in any cauſe, and the party refuſes to appear to their citation, or after ſentence, being admoniſhed, to obey their decree, that he may be excommunicated. 1 Rol. Abr. 883. 12 Co. 76.

Alſo it ſeems, that at Common law, the ſignificavit of an excommunication might be upon a general cauſe, as propter contumaciam, or de non parendis mandatis eccleſiæ; but now by the 5. Eliz. the cauſe muſt be ſet forth in the writ De excommunicato capiendo itſelf, becauſe by that ſtatute the writ is made returnable in B. R. which would be to no purpoſe, if the cauſe were not ſet forth in the writ, ſo as to enable the court to judge thereof. 1 Salk. 293. Gibſ. Cod. 1097.

But it was always holden, that the biſhop's certificate, ſignifying the excommunication into Chancery, on which the writ of Excommunicato capiendo iſſued, ought to compriſe the particular cauſe of the excommunication; ſo that the court might judge whether it were a matter within their juriſdiction, or not. 1 Rol. Abr. 883.

If the excommunication appears to have been by an archdeacon of a peculiar or limited juriſdiction, it ought to appear by the certificate, either expreſsly, or by implication, that the matter thereof aroſe within his juriſdiction, otherwiſe it is void. 1 Rol. Abr. 884.

If the excommunication in a writ of Excommunicato capiendo is recited to be pro quibuſdam cauſis ſubſtractionis decimarum ſive aliorum jurium eccleſiaſticorum; this is too uncertain for the alia jur' might be ſuch matters as were out of their juriſdiction; for of that the King's courts are to be judges, and not they themſelves. 1 Salk. 293.

So where in a writ of Excommunicato capiendo, the recital of the ſignificavit was, that he was excommunicated for not paying the coſts in quodam negotio puerorum educationis ſive inſtructionis ſine aliqua licentia in ea parte prius obtenta; and the writ was quaſhed for incertainty, becauſe it might be a teaching to fence or dance, and not letters. 1 Salk. 294.

There was a preſentment in the ſpiritual court of the biſhop of Ely againſt the defendant, for teaching ſchool in Cambridge without a licence, by the churchwardens of the pariſh; whereupon, as the way was there, a citation was fixed up at the church-door, for the defendant to come in and anſwer the charge of the preſentment; but he being a diſſenter, and not coming to church, had no notice of the citation; and for this contempt in not coming, he was excommunicated; whereupon he applied to the biſhop to get himſelf abſoiled, for that it was a writing ſchool he taught, and ſo not within the biſhop's juriſdiction, but the court refuſed to abſoil him, unleſs he would put in a caution to anſwer ſuch articles, and abide by ſuch ſentence as they ſhould make thereupon; which he was adviſed not to do, becauſe that would be owning their juriſdiction, and concluding himſelf to abide by their ſentence; and thereupon he moved for a prohibition, and had it, with a ſpecial clauſe to abſoil him. Mr. Page moved for the prohibition, and inſiſted, that they could not excommunicate any one for a contempt, without ſhewing that the matter itſelf was within their juriſdiction; and as they could not excommunicate for the original matter, if it were not within their juriſdiction; ſo neither could they for a contempt to a citation upon that matter, and cited 8 Co. 68. Trollop's caſe, Doctor and Student. 12 Co. 77. 14 H. 4. 5 Co. 23. and he ſaid, by theſe books it appears, that if the biſhop refuſed to abſoil him, that an action on the caſe would lie againſt him; but now-a-days, a prohibition was thought the better way; and he ſaid, this preſentment being only for teaching ſchool, they could not come after with articles, and charge him with any other matter, as a writing-ſchool, Latin-ſchool, or other particular ſchool; which the court agreed, and ſaid it was like a preſentment by a grand jury here, which cannot be altered or changed by articles after; and as the grand jury are upon their oath, ſo are the churchwardens there, and ſaid, that when articles are given in againſt any one, the citation ought to be founded upon that; but when it was by preſentment, that was a charge, and a citation itſelf, and cannot be after altered by articles; though Serjeant Parker ſaid, he thought this preſentment to be only in the nature of a ſummons, and that it was neceſſary articles ſhould be drawn up againſt him after, to charge upon the particulars; but the prohibition with the ſaid clauſe was granted. 2 Bac. Abr. 315. Paſch. 6 Ann. Queen and Bentley.

By ſeveral acts of parliament, offenders of ſeveral kinds are made to incur the puniſhent of excommunication ipſo facto: And to this purpoſe it is enacted by 6 Ed. 6. cap. 4. "That if any perſon whatſoever ſhall, by words only, quarrel, chide or brawl, in any church or churchyard, that then it ſhall be lawful unto the ordinary of the place where the ſame offence ſhall be done, and proved by two lawful witneſſes, to ſuſpend every perſon ſo offending, that is to ſay, if he be a layman ab ingreſſu eccleſiæ; and if he be a clerk, from the miniſtration of his office for ſo long a time as the ſame ordinary ſhall by his diſcretion think meet and convenient, according to the fault."

And it is further enacted by the ſaid ſtatute, "That if any perſon ſhall ſmite, or lay violent hands upon any other, either in any church or churchyard, that then ipſo facto every perſon ſo offending ſhall be deemed excommunicate, and be excluded from the fellowſhip and company of Chriſt's congregation."

And it is further enacted by the ſaid ſtatute, "That if any perſon ſhall maliciouſly ſtrike any perſon with any weapon in any church or church-yard, or ſhall draw any weapon in any church or church-yard, to the intent to ſtrike another with the ſame weapon, that then every perſon ſo offending, and thereof being convicted by verdict of twelve men, or by his own confeſſion, or by two lawful witneſſes before juſtices of aſſiſe, juſtices of oyer and terminer, or juſtices of peace in their ſeſſions, by force of this act, ſhall be adjudged by the ſame juſtices, before whom ſuch perſon ſhall be convicted, to have one of his ears cut off, &c. and beſides that, every ſuch perſon to be, and ſtand ipſo facto excommunicated, as aforeſaid.

In the conſtruction of this ſtatute the following opinions have been holden, 1. That the ſtatute extends as well to cathedral as parochial churches and church-yards, Cro. Eliz. 224.

That notwithſtanding the words of the ſtatute be expreſſed, that he who ſmites another in the church, &c. ſhall ipſo facto be deemed excommunicate; yet there ought either to be a precedent conviction at law, which muſt be tranſmitted to the ordinary, or elſe the excommunication muſt be declared in the ſpiritual court, upon a proper proof of the offence there; for it is implied in every penal law, that no one ſhall incur the penalty thereof till he be found guilty upon a lawful trial; alſo it muſt be intended, in the conſtruction of this ſtatute, that the excommunication ought to appear judicially; for otherwiſe there could be no abſolution. Dyer 275. pl. 48. Cro. Jac. 462. Lit. Rep. 149. Hetl. 86. Cro. Eliz. 919. 1 Vent. 146.

That when the proceedings for the offences againſt this ſtatute are in the ſpiritual court, coſts may be given pro expenſis litis, but not pro damnis. Cro. Jac. 464. Hetl. 86. S. P.

That he who ſtrikes in a church, &c. can no way excuſe himſelf, by ſhewing that the other aſſaulted him. Cro. Jac. 367.

That churchwardens who whip boys for playing in the church, or pull off the hats of thoſe who obſtinately refuſe to take them off themſelves, or gently lay their hands on thoſe who diſturb the performance of any part of divine ſervice, and turn them out of the church, are not within the meaning of the ſtatute. 1 Saund. 13. 2 Keb. 124. 1 Lev. 196. 1 Sid. 301. 1 Mod. 168. S. C.

That if the proceedings be in the temporal courts, by way of indictment, for drawing a weapon in the church, &c.

&c. and it conclude contra formam ſtatuti, it muſt be laid to be, with an intent to ſtrike ſuch a perſon; for being laid to be contra formam ſtatuti, the jury cannot inquire of any other offence, than that which comes within the deſcription of the act. Cro. Eliz. 231. 4 Leon. 49. Noy 171. S. C.

That in an indictment upon this ſtrtute, for ſtriking in the church, in order to bring the offender within the latter clauſe of the ſtatute, which ſubjects him to the loſs of an ear, &c. it muſt be ſhewed, that the ſtriking was with a weapon. Cro. Eliz. 464.

So it hath been holden, that if a man takes up a ſtone in the churchyard, and offers to throw it at another, or having a hatchet or ax in his hand offers to ſtrike another therewith, that this is not an offence within this part of the ſtatute; for theſe are not ſuch weapons as may properly be ſaid to be drawn, as a ſword, dagger, &c. Dalt. 49.

Alſo two perſons committed to priſon by certain juſtices of the peace, for diſturbing a miniſter in his office, were diſcharged upon a habeas corpus, by the court of King's Bench, for that their commitment was too general, not ſhewing wherein they diſturbed, but only that they per apertum factum diſturbed, &c. not ſhewing the particular fact whereby they did diſturb, viz. by brawling, fighting, or otherwiſe, there being ſeveral puniſhments to each; but the court bound them to their good behaviour for a year. 3 Keb. 803.

By the ſtat. 3 Jac. 1. cap. 5. ſect. 11 & 12. it is enacted, "That every popiſh recuſant convict ſhall ſtand to all intents and purpoſes diſabled, as a perſon lawfully excommunicated, and as if ſuch perſon had been ſo denounced and excommunicated according to the laws of this realm, until he or ſhe ſhall conform, &c. and that every perſon ſued by ſuch perſon ſo diſabled, may plead the ſame in diſabling of ſuch plaintiff, as if he or ſhe were excommunicated by ſentence in the eccleſiaſtical court, except the action of ſuch recuſant do concern ſome hereditament or leaſe, which is not to be ſeized into the King's hands, by force of ſome law concerning recuſancy."

In the expoſition hereof it hath been holden,

1. That a plea in diſability, purſuant to this ſtatute, ought to ſhew before what juſtices the conviction was, that the court may know where to ſend for a certificate thereof, if it be denied; and that the record itſelf, or at leaſt a certificate thereof, ought immediately to be produced. Noy 89. Latch 176. 3 Lev. 333, 334.

2. That if after ſuch plea it be certified, that the plaintiff hath conformed, and thereupon the defendant be ordered to plead in chief, and then the plaintiff relapſe and become convict again, the defendant cannot plead the ſame diſability a ſecond time. Hetl. 176.

3. That it muſt appear either from the conviction itſelf, or by proper averments, that the plaintiff is convicted of popiſh recuſancy, becauſe no recuſants, except popiſh ones, are within the ſaid clauſe; but this is ſufficiently ſet forth, by alleging, that the plaintiff being papalis recuſans was indicted and convicted ſecundum formam ſtatuti, &c. 3 Lev. 333, &c.

Alſo it is holden by ſome, that all popiſh recuſants convict may be taken up by the writ de excommunicato capiendo, and that they are not to be admitted a competent witneſs in any cauſe. 2 Bulſt. 155. But by ſerjeant Hawkins, this ſeems to be a conſtruction over ſevere; for inaſmuch as this, like all other penal ſtatutes, ought to be conſtrued ſtrictly, and the words thereof are no more, than that ſuch perſons ſhall ſtand diſabled, &c. as perſons lawfully excommunicate, &c. and the purport thereof may be fully ſatisfied by the diſability to bring an action; it ſeems to be too rigorous to carry them farther. 1 Hawk. P. C. 23.

By the 25 Ed. 1. cap. 4. it is enacted, "That all archbiſhops and biſhops ſhall pronounce the ſentence of excommunication againſt all thoſe that by word, deed, or counſel, do contrary to the charters of Magna Charta, or that in any point break or undo them; and that the ſaid curſes be twice a year donounced and publiſhed by the prelates aforeſaid. See Gibſ. Cod. 1098.

2. By whom excommunication is to be pronounced and certified, and of the diſabilities of the perſon excommunicated.

The ſentence of excommunication can only be pronounced by the biſhop, or other perſon in holy orders, being a maſter of arts at leaſt, alſo the prieſt's name pronouncing ſuch ſentence is to be expreſſed in the inſtrument iſſuing under ſeal out of the court. Gibſ. Cod. 1095.

Excommunication muſt be certified by the biſhop of the dioceſe, whoſe proper ſubject the party is, and cannot be certified by his commiſſary, or official; the reaſon whereof, according to the Civilians, is, becauſe no perſon inferior to a biſhop, can call in the ſecular arm, by the laws of the church; but my Lord Coke aſſigns the reaſon of it to be, becauſe no certificate of excommunication by any ſhall diſable one, but the certificate of him to whom the court may write to abſolve the party excommunicated. Co Lit. 133. 1 Rol. Abr. 884. Gibſ. Cod. 1097. 8 Co. 68.

But the vicar general, epiſcopo in remotis agente, or the guardian of the ſpiritualities, vacante ſede, may do it, either by direct certificate, that the perſon is excommunicated, or by letters teſtimonial, reciting the entry thereof in the Regiſter, and atteſting that ſuch entry is there found. Co. Lit. 133. F. N. B. 1. 1 Vent. 222. 3 Keb. 60, 69.

So a perſon excommunicated by a commiſſary, official or archdeacon, who derive their juriſdiction from the biſhop, may be certified excommunicated by the biſhop himſelf. 8 Co. 63. 1 Rol. Abr. 434.

Alſo the biſhop, after election, tho' before conſecration, may certify excommunication. F. N. B. 140.

In times of popery, excommengement certified by the pope, or delegates commiſſioned by him, did not diſable the plaintiff to ſue, &c. becauſe the courts had no perſon to whom they could write to have him aſſoiled. 1 Rol. Abr. 883.

The court will not receive the certificate of excommunication of one biſhop from another, becauſe they muſt have the certificate from the biſhop, whoſe proper ſubject he was; and he might have him aſſoiled by his own ordinary after the firſt certificate to the biſhop. 8 Co. 63.

Nor will they receive a certificate from a biſhop deceaſed, becauſe he may ſtand aſſoiled by the preſent ordinary that now is, after the deceaſe of the biſhop who has certified; and the court will not receive any certificate, but from ſuch perſon to whom they can write to aſſoil. Bro. Excom. 21. Co. Lit. 134. 1 Rol. Abr. 883.

The certificate ought to be directed, either to the court, or at leaſt univerſis S. Matris eccleſiæ filiis, and ought to contain the day of the excommunication. 8 Co. 63. 1 Rol. Abr. 883.

A perſon excommunicated is thereby diſabled to be a witneſs in any cauſe, cannot be attorney or procurator for another, is to be turned out of church by the churchwardens, and not to be allowed chriſtian burial. Gibſ. Cod. 435, 1096-7.

Alſo an excommunicate perſon is diſabled to ſue or commence an action; but ſuch diſability cannot be pleaded after a general imparlance, for thereby the defendant admits him a good plaintiff. Co. Lit. 133. 8 Co. 63. 1 Rol. Abr. 883.

Alſo when excommunication is pleaded, the biſhop's letter under his ſeal, witneſſing the excommunication, muſt be ſhewn; and though the plaintiff cannot deny the plea, yet the writ ſhall not abate, but the defendant eat inde ſine die, becauſe the plaintiff upon producing his letters of abſolution, ſhall have a re-ſummons or re-attachment. Lit. ſect. 207. 8 Co. 69. Co. Lit. 134. 3 Lev. 208, 240.

If in an appeal of murder, &c. the defendant pleads excommunication in the plaintiff in diſability, the appellee ſhall be bailed, until the plaintiff purchaſes letters of abſolution, and then he muſt plead in chief, for if the defendant ſhould be kept in priſon till the plaintiff be abſolved, he might be a priſoner for life. 2 Hawk. P. C. 114.

Excommunication is a good plea to an executor or adminiſtrator, tho' they ſue in auter droit, for an excommunicate perſon is excluded from the body of the church, and incapable to lay out the goods of the deceaſed to pious uſes; alſo it is one of the effects of excommunication, that he cannot be procurator or attorney for any other perſon, and therefore cannot repreſent the deceaſed. Co. Lit. 134.

Excommunication is no plea on a qui tam, becauſe it is for example; and the ſtatute having given the informer an ability to ſue, and not excepted excommunicated perſons from the liberty of informing, he is enabled to ſue by the ſtatute, notwithſtanding the cenſures of the church. 12 Co. 61.

When a prohibition is brought againſt the biſhop, and he pleads excommunication againſt the plaintiff, and in the excommunication there is no cauſe of ſuch excommunication ſhewn; this is no good plea, for in ſuch caſe it will be intended, that the excommunication was for endeavouring to hinder the biſhop's proceeding, by application to the temporal court; and if ſuch excommunication were allowed, it would deſtroy all prohibitions, and the plea of excommunication in this caſe is exceptio ejuſdem rei cujus petitur diſſolutio. 28 Ed. 3. 97.

If an action be brought by the bailiffs and commonalty of a corporation, the defendant ſhall not plead excommunication in the bailiffs, becauſe they ſue as a corporation, and a corporation cannot be excluded from the communion of the viſible church. Co. Lit. 134.

When excommunication is pleaded in the plaintiff, he ſhall not reply, that he has appealed from the ſentence, for the ſentence is in force until it is repealed; and whilſt it is in force, he cannot appear in any of the courts of juſtice, but he may reply, he is abſolved; for then his diſability is taken away. Bro. Excommunication 3. 3 Bulſt. 72.

3. Of the proceedings on the writ of excommunicato capiendo, both at Common law, and by ſtat. 5 Eliz. and of abſolving and aſſoiling a perſon excommunicated.

It is ſaid, that the writ de excommunicato capiendo is a liberty or privilege peculiar to the church of England, above all realms in Chriſtendom; for tho' the aſſiſtance of the ſecular arm hath ever been afforded to the church in moſt other Chriſtian countries as well as this, yet in no inſtance is it ſo ſurely and ſo effectually reached out, as in the execution of this writ, which is debitum juſtitiæ, and not made to depend upon the pleaſure of the prince. Gibſ. Cod. 1102. cites Coſ. Apol. 8. But in 2 Inſt. 623, 631, it is expreſly ſaid, that breve Regis de excommunicato capiendo de gratia Regis procedit.

The writ of excommunicato capiendo iſſues out of Chancery, and is founded on the biſhop's certificate, ſignifying the excommunication, and at Common law was only returnable into that court; ſo that for any uncertainty or defect in the writ, the party could only be diſcharged in Chancery. F. N. B. 140. 1 Salk. 293.

But now by the 5 Eliz. cap. 23. intitled, An act for the due execution of the writ de excommunicato capiendo, reciting, "Foraſmuch as divers perſons offending in many great crimes and offences, appertaining merely to the juriſdiction and determination of the eccleſiaſtical courts and judges of this realm, are many times unpuniſhed for lack and want of the good and due execution of the writ de excommunicato capiendo, directed to the ſheriff of any county, for the taking and apprehending of any ſuch offenders, the great abuſe whereof, as it ſhould ſeem, hath grown, for that the ſaid writ is not returnable in any court that might have the judgment of the well executing and ſerving the ſaid writ, according to the contents thereof; but hitherto hath been left only to the diſcretion of the ſheriffs and their deputies, by whoſe negligence and defaults for the moſt part, the ſaid writ is not executed upon the offenders as it ought to be, by reaſon whereof ſuch offenders be greatly encouraged to continue their ſinful and criminous life, much to the diſpleaſure of Almighty God, and to the great contempt of the eccleſiaſtical laws of this realm."

Sect. 2. "Wherefore, for the redreſs thereof, Be it enacted, That from and after the firſt day of May next coming, every writ of excommunicato capiendo, that ſhall be granted and awarded out of the high court of Chancery againſt any perſon or perſons within the realm of England, ſhall be made in the time of term, and returnable before the Queen's highneſs, her heirs and ſucceſſors, in the court commonly called the King's Bench, in the term next after the teſte of the ſame writ, and the ſame writ ſhall be made to contain, at the leaſt, twenty days between the teſte and the return thereof; and after the ſame writ ſhall be ſo made and ſealed, that then the ſaid writ ſhall be forthwith brought into the ſaid court of the King's Bench, and there, in the preſence of the juſtices, ſhall be opened and delivered of record to the ſheriff or other officer, to whom the ſerving and execution thereof ſhall appertain, or to his or their deputy or deputies; and if afterwards it ſhall or may appear to the juſtices of the ſame court for the time being, that the ſame writ ſo delivered of record be not duly returned before them at the day of the return thereof, or that any other default or negligence hath been uſed or had in the not well ſerving and executing of the ſaid writ, that then the juſtices of the ſaid court ſhall and may, by authority of this act, aſſeſs ſuch amercement upon the ſaid ſheriff or other officer, in whom ſuch default ſhall appear, as to the diſcretion of the ſaid juſtices ſhall be thought meet and convenient; which amercement ſo aſſeſſed ſhall be eſtreated into the court of Exchequer, as other amercements have been uſed."

Sect. 3. "And the ſheriff, or other officer, to whom ſuch writ of excommunicato capiendo, or other proceſs by virtue of this act ſhall be directed, ſhall not in any wiſe be compelled to bring the body of ſuch perſon or perſons that ſhall be named in the ſaid writ or proceſs into the ſaid court of King's Bench, at the day of the return thereof, but ſhall only return the ſame writ and proceſs thither, with declaration briefly, how and in what manner he hath ſerved and executed the ſame, te the intent that thereupon the ſaid juſtices may then further proceed, according to the tenor and effect of this preſent act."

Sect. 4. "And if the ſheriff or other officer, to whom the execution of the ſaid writ ſhall ſo appertain, do or ſhall return, that the party or parties named in the ſaid writ cannot be found within his bailiwick, that then the ſaid juſtices of the King's Bench for the time being, upon every ſuch return, ſhall award one writ of capias againſt the ſaid perſon or perſons named in the ſaid writ of excommunicato capiendo, returnable in the ſame court in the term time, two months at leaſt next after the teſte thereof, with a proclamation to be contained in the ſaid writ of capias, that the ſheriff, or other officers to whom the ſaid writ ſhall be directed in the full county court, or elſe at the general aſſiſe or gaol-delivery to be holden within the ſaid county, or at a quarter-ſeſſions to be holden before the juſtices of the peace within the ſaid county, ſhall make open proclamation, ten days at the leaſt before the return, that the party or parties named in the ſaid writ ſhall, within ſix days next after ſuch proclamation, yield his or their body or bodies to the priſon of the ſaid ſheriff, or other ſuch officer, there to remain as a priſoner, according to the tenor and effect of the firſt writ of excommunicato capiendo, upon pain of forfeiture of ten pounds; and thereupon after ſuch proclamation had, and the ſaid ſix days paſt and expired, then the ſaid ſheriff, or other officer to whom the ſaid capias ſhall be directed, ſhall make return of the ſame writ of capias into the ſaid court of the King's Bench of all that he hath done in the execution thereof, and whether the party named in the ſaid writ have yielded his body to priſon or not."

Sect. 5. "And if upon the return of the ſaid ſheriff it ſhall appear, that the party or parties named in the ſaid writ of capias, or any of them, have not yielded their bodies to the gaol and priſon of the ſaid ſheriff or other officer, according to the effect of the ſame proclamation, that then every ſuch perſon, that ſo ſhall make default, ſhall, for every ſuch default, forfeit to the Queen's Highneſs, her heirs and ſucceſſors, ten pounds, which ſhall likewiſe be eſtreated by the ſaid juſtices into the ſaid feitures limited againſt ſuch perſons excommunicate by this ſtatute, by reaſon of ſuch writ of Excommunicato capiendo, wanting ſufficient addition, or of ſuch ſignificavit, wanting all the cauſes afore-mentioned, ſhall be utterly void in law, and by way of plea to be allowed to the party grieved."

Sect. 14. "And if the addition ſhall be with a nuper of the place, then in every ſuch caſe at the awarding of the firſt capias with proclamation, according to the form mentioned, one writ of proclamation, without any pain expreſſed, ſhall be awarded into the county, where the offender ſhall be moſt commonly reſiant at the time of the awarding the ſaid firſt capias, with pain, in the ſame writ of proclamation, to be returnable the day of the return of the ſaid firſt capias, with pain and proclamation thereupon, at ſome one ſuch time and court as is preſcribed for the proclamation, upon the ſaid firſt capias, with pain; and if ſuch proclamation be not made in the county where the offender ſhall be moſt commonly reſiant, in ſuch caſes of additions of nuper, that then ſuch offender ſhall ſuſtain no pain or forfeiture by virtue of this ſtatute, for not yielding his or her body according to the tenor afore-mentioned; any thing before ſpecified, and to the contrary hereof, in any wiſe notwithſtanding."

If writ ſhall be forthwith brought into the King's Bench.] See Sect. 2. of the foregoing ſtatute. It hath been often adjudged, that this form of taking out the writ, and the ſeveral ſteps therein (as contained in this clauſe of the act) ought to be preciſely purſued; and for default thereof many perſons have been diſcharged. Gibſ. 1056. cites 2 Cro. 567. 3 Cro. 583. Siderf. 165, 285.

Into the court of King's Bench] In the biſhop of St. David's caſe, Mich. 1 Ann. it was declared, that before this ſtatute, the writ was returnable into Chancery; and there the ſignificavit was quaſhed, if undue: but now the judgment of that, by this ſtatute, is devolved on the court of King's Bench. Farreſt. 57.

Capias] See Sect. 4. The penalties of this act being inflicted upon none but thoſe who are excommunicated for ſome of the cauſes ſpecified in Sect. 13. the capias accordingly muſt not be with penalty in any other caſe: or if it iſſue ſo by miſtake, the court will grant a ſuperſedeas upon motion; and if the party be taken, will upon pleading (after the habeas corpus is granted and returned, and ſo the matter is judicially before them) diſcharge him from the penalties, though not from the impriſonment. In conſideration of which pleading, and the trouble and charge that attends it, it is ſaid, that he may have an attachment againſt the plaintiff. Gibſ. 1056. 1 Salk. 294.

He ſhall remain in the cuſtody of the ſaid ſheriff] See Sect. 8. The plaintiff obtained ſentence againſt the defendant for 210 l. for non-payment of tithes and coſts. The defendant for non-payment was excommunicated, and arreſted upon an Excommunicato capiendo, and the ſheriff let him eſcape. The plaintiff brought an action againſt the ſheriff; and had a verdict againſt him for the 210 l. It was moved in arreſt of judgment, that the action would not lie. But by the court it was adjudged, that the action well lay: and they relied much upon the caſe, where it is held, that an action lies againſt the ſheriff for ſuffering a man to eſcape, being arreſted upon a capias utlagatum after outlawry upon meſne proceſs. L. Raym. 788.

Without bail] See Sect. 8. By the ſtatute of the 3 Ed. 1. cap. 13. perſons excommunicate, taken at the requeſt of the biſhop, ſhall be in no wiſe repleviſable by the common writ, nor without writ; that is to ſay, he that is certified into the Chancery by the biſhop to be excommunicated, and after is taken by force of the King's writ of Excommunicato capiendo, is not bailable: for in ancient time, men were excommunicated only for hereſies propter lepram animæ, or other heinous cauſes of eccleſiaſtical cognizance, and not for ſmall or petty cauſes; and therefore in thoſe caſes the party was not bailable by the ſheriff or gaoler without the King's writ: but if the party offered ſufficient caution de parendo mandatis eccleſiæ in forma juris, then ſhould the party have the King's writ to the biſhop to accept his caution, and to cauſe him to be delivered. And if the biſhop will not ſend to the ſheriff to deliver him, then ſhall he have a writ out of the Chancery to the ſheriff for his delivery: or if he be excommunicated for a temporal cauſe, or for a matter whereof the eccleſiaſtical court hath no cognizance, he ſhall be delivered by the King's writ without any ſatisfaction. 2 Inſt. 188.

And where it is ſaid, that the ſheriff ſhall not bail them by the common writ, nor without writ; this is to be underſtood, that the ſheriff ſhall not replevy them by the common writ De homine replegiando, nor without writ, that is, ex officio; but they may be bailed in the King's Bench. 2 Inſt. 189.

Shall not in the ſame writ have a ſufficient and lawful addition] See Sect. 13. The defendant was excommunicated for a certain cauſe of jactitation of marriage, and taken upon a capias, and brought up by a habeas corpus; and exception was taken to the writ, that therein no addition was given to the defendant: but the court held, that for any of the cauſes mentioned in the ſtatute, the defendant's addition ought to be in the writ; but that in other caſes no addition is neceſſary. 1 Salk. 294. Mich. 1 Ann. Q. and Sangway.

If in the ſignificavit it be not contained, &c.] See Sect. 13. By Holt Chief Juſtice: At the Common law, the cauſe had no need to be ſhewn in the writ of Excommunicato capiendo; but it was ſufficient to ſay, that the party was excommunicate for manifeſt contumacy: but in the biſhop's certificate it ought to be ſhewn. And now ſince the ſtatute of the 5 Eliz. the cauſe ought to be ſhewn in the writ. L. Raym. 619.

On a habeas corpus the return was, that Fowler was taken, and in cuſtody by a writ of Excommunicato capiendo; and the excommunication was in the writ recited to be, for certain cauſes of ſubſtraction of tithes, or other eccleſiaſtical rights; and becauſe this return was uncertain, the court was moved that he might be diſcharged. And the queſtion was, whether this return was uncertain; and whether that uncertainty would vitiate the writ. And the court reſolved, 1. That the return was uncertain; for that the other rights might be ſuch matters as were out of their juriſdiction, and they ought to ſhew the matter was within their juriſdiction; for of that the King's courts are to be judges, and not they themſelves. 2. The cauſe of excommunication muſt be ſet forth in the writ. At Common law, the writ Excommunicato capiendo was always general for contumacy; not containing a ſpecial cauſe. And the writ was returnable in Chancery, and founded on a certificate of the biſhop, which certificate ſet forth the cauſe before, and the party could not be diſcharged but by ſuperſedeas in Chancery, if the cauſe were inſufficient. But now the cauſe muſt be ſet forth in the writ De excommunicato capiendo itſelf, becauſe by the ſtatute of the 5 Eliz. the writ is made returnable in this court, which would be to no purpoſe, if the cauſe were not to be ſet forth in the writ, and this court judge of that cauſe. 3. The court held, they might diſcharge the party, upon the inſufficiency of the return. Before the 5 Eliz. there were no diſcharges in this court on Excommunicato capiendo's, but where a man was excommunicated pending a prohibition: now, the caſe is altered; for this court may quaſh the writ of Excommunicato capiendo, or award a ſuperſedeas; becauſe this court are judges of the cauſe, and have it before them, and the party cannot go into Chancery for a ſuperſedeas now, becauſe it is returnable here. Accordingly the writ was quaſhed, and this ſpecial entry made on the habeas corpus, that the party was diſcharged becauſe the writ De excommunicato capiendo was quaſhed. 1 Salk. 293. Mich. 12. Will. 3. K. and Fowler.

The defendant, having been arreſted upon an excommunicato capiendo, was brought into court by habeas corpus, And upon the return it appeared, that he was excommunicated for non-payment of coſts, in which he was condemned by commiſſioners delegate in a certain cauſe of office or correction at the promotion of Lucy. And this by the court was held to be ill; becauſe it did not appear that theſe coſts were adjudged in a cauſe of eccleſiaſtical cognizance; and it is plain, ſince the ſtatute of the court of Exchequer, in ſuch manner and form as fines and amerciaments there taxed and aſſeſſed are uſed to be."

5 Eliz.

Sect. 6. "And thereupon the ſaid juſtices of the King's Bench ſhall alſo award forth one other writ of capias againſt the ſaid perſon or perſons, that ſo ſhall be returned to have made default, with ſuch like proclamation as was contained in the firſt capias, and a pain of twenty pounds to be mentioned in the ſaid ſecond writ and proclamation; and the ſheriff or other officer, to whom the ſaid ſecond writ of capias ſhall be ſo directed, ſhall ſerve and execute the ſaid writ in ſuch like manner and form, as before is expreſſed, for the ſerving and executing of the ſaid writ of capias; and if the ſheriff, or other officer, ſhall return upon the ſecond capias, that he hath made the proclamation according to the tenor and effect of the ſame writ, and that the party hath not yielded his body to priſon according to the tenor of the ſaid proclamation, that then the ſaid party, that ſo ſhall make default, ſhall, for ſuch his contempt and default, forfeit to the Queen's Highneſs, her heirs and ſucceſſors, the ſum of twenty pounds, which ſaid ſum of twenty pounds, the ſaid juſtices of the King's Bench for the time being ſhall likewiſe cauſe to be eſtreated into the ſaid court of Exchequer, in manner and form aforeſaid."

Sect. 7. "And then the ſaid juſtices ſhall likewiſe award one other writ of capias againſt the ſaid party, with ſuch like proclamation and pain of forfeiture, as was contained in the ſaid ſecond writ of capias, and the ſheriff, or other officer, to whom the ſaid third writ of capias ſhall be ſo directed, ſhall ſerve and execute the ſaid writ of capias, in ſuch like manner and form as before in this act is expreſſed and declared, for the ſerving and executing of the ſaid firſt and ſecond writs of capias; and if the ſheriff, or other officer, to whom the execution of the ſaid third writ ſhall appertain, do make return of the ſaid third writ of capias, that the party upon ſuch proclamation hath not yielded his body to priſon, according to the tenor thereof, that then every ſuch party, for every ſuch contempt and default, ſhall likewiſe forfeit to the Queen's Majeſty, her heirs and ſucceſſors, other 20 l. which ſum of 20 l. ſhall likewiſe be eſtreated into the ſaid court of Exchequer, in manner and form aforeſaid; and thereupon the ſaid juſtices of the King's Bench ſhall likewiſe award forth one writ of capias againſt the ſaid party, with like proclamation, and like pain of forfeiture of 20 l. and that alſo the ſaid juſtices ſhall have authority by this act infinitely to award ſuch proceſs, with ſuch like proclamation, and pain of forfeiture of 20 l. as is before limited againſt the ſaid party that ſo ſhall make default in yielding his body to the priſon of the ſheriff, until ſuch time as by the return of ſome of ſuch ſaid writs before the ſaid juſtices it ſhall and may appear, that the ſaid party hath yielded himſelf to the cuſtody of the ſaid ſheriff, or other officer, according to the tenor of the ſaid proclamation, and that the party, upon every default and contempt by him made againſt the proclamation of any of the ſaid writs ſo infinitely to be awarded againſt him, ſhall incur like pain and forfeiture of 20 l. which ſhall likewiſe be eſtreated in manner and form aforeſaid."

Sect. 8. "And when any perſon or perſons ſhall yield his or their body or bodies to the hands of the ſheriff, or other officer, upon any of the ſaid writs of capias, that then the ſame party or parties, that ſhall ſo yield themſelves, ſhall remain in the priſon, or cuſtody of the ſaid ſheriff, or other officer, without bail, baſton, or mainprize, in ſuch like manner and form to all intents and purpoſes, as he or they ſhould or ought to have done, if he or they had been apprehended and taken upon the ſaid writ of Excommunicato capiendo."

Sect. 9. "And if any ſheriff, or other officer, by whom the ſaid writ of capias, or any of them, ſhall be returned, as is aforeſaid, do make an untrue return upon any of the ſaid writs, that the party named in the ſaid writ, hath not yielded his body upon the ſaid proclamations, or any of them, where indeed the party did yield himſelf, according to the effect of the ſame, that then every ſuch ſheriff, or other officer, for every ſuch falſe and untrue return, ſhall forfeit to the party grieved, and damnified by ſuch falſe return, the ſum of 40 l. for the which ſum of 40 l. the ſaid party grieved ſhall have his recovery and due remedy by action of debt, bill, plaint or information, in any of the Queen's courts of record, in which action, bill, plaint or information, no eſſoin, protection, or wager of law ſhall be admitted or allowed for the party defendant."

Sect. 10. "Saving and reſerving to all archbiſhops and biſhops, and all others having authority to certify any perſon excommunicated, and like authority to accept and receive the ſubmiſſion and ſatisfaction of the ſaid perſon ſo excommunicated in manner and form heretofore uſed, and him to abſolve and releaſe, and the ſame to ſignify as heretofore it hath been accuſtomed to the Queen's Majeſty, her heirs and ſucceſſors, into the High Court of Chancery, and thereupon to have ſuch writs for the deliverance of the ſaid perſon ſo abſolved and releaſed from the ſheriff's cuſtody or priſon, as heretofore they or any of them had, or of right ought or might have had; any thing in this preſent ſtatute ſpecified or contained to the contrary hereof in any wiſe notwithſtanding."

Sect. 11. "Provided always, that in Wales, the countines palatine of Lancaſter, Cheſter, Durham, and Ely, and in the cinque ports, being juriſdictions and places exempt, where the Queen's Majeſty's writ doth not run, and proceſs of capias from thence not returnable into the ſaid court of the King's Bench, after any ſignificavit, being of record in the ſaid court of Chancery, the tenor of ſuch ſignificavit by mittimus ſhall be ſent to ſuch of the ſaid head officers of the ſaid country of Wales, counties palatines, and places exempt, within whoſe offices, charge, or juriſdiction, the offenders ſhall be reſiant, that is to ſay, to the chancellor or chamberlain for the ſaid county palatine of Lancaſter and Cheſter and for the cinque ports to the lord warden of the ſame, and for Wales and Ely, and the county palatine of Durham, to the chief juſtice or juſtices there; and thereupon every of the ſaid juſtices and officers, to whom ſuch tenor of ſignificavit with mittimus ſhall be directed and delivered, ſhall, by virtue of this eſtatute, have power and authority to make like proceſs to the inferior officer and officers to whom the execution of proceſs there doth appertain, returnable before the juſtices there, at their next ſeſſions or court, two months at the leaſt after the teſte of every ſuch proceſs, ſo always as in every degree they ſhall proceed in their ſeſſions and courts againſt the offenders, as the juſtices of the ſaid court of King's Bench are limited, by the tenor of this act, in term times to do and execute."

Sect. 12. "Provided alſo, and be it enacted, that any perſon, at the time of any proceſs of capias afore-mentioned awarded, being in priſon, or out of this realm, in the parts beyond the ſea, or within age, or of non ſane memorie, or women covert, ſhall not incur any of the pains or forfeitures afore-mentioned, which ſhall grow by any return or default happening during ſuch time of nonage, impriſonment, beyond ſea, or non ſane memorie; and that by virtue of this ſtatute, the party grieved may plead every ſuch cauſe or matter in bar of, and upon the diſtreſs of other proceſs, that ſhall be made for levying of any of the ſaid pains or forfeitures."

Sect. 13. "And that if the offender, againſt whom any ſuch writ of Excommunicato capiendo ſhall be awarded, ſhall not in the ſame writ of Excommunicato capiendo have a ſufficient and lawful addition, according to the form of the eſtatute of primo of Henry the Fifth in caſes of certain ſuits, whereupon proceſs of exigent are to be awarded, or if in the ſignificavit it be not contained, that the excommunication doth proceed upon ſome cauſe, or contempt of ſome original matter of hereſy, or refuſing to have his or their child baptized, or receive the holy communion, as it is now commonly uſed to be received in the church of England, or to come to divine ſervice, now commonly uſed in the ſaid church of England, or error in matters of religion, or doctrine now received and allowed in the ſaid church of England, incontinency, uſury, ſimony, perjury in the eccleſiaſtical court or idolatry; that then all and every pains and forfeitures

5 Eliz. that the cauſe ought to appear in the writ; for otherwiſe how can this court make judgment of the ſeveral cauſes ſpecified in that ſtatute, in order to award ſeveral proceſſes with penalties? And the court quaſhed the writ of excommunicato capiendo, and diſcharged the defendant. Ld. Raym. 817. Mich. 1 Ann. Q. and The Biſhop of St. David's.

So in the court of Chancery, Mich. 10 Geo. 2. K. and Eyre. The ſignificavits were quaſhed, being only ſaid to be in a cauſe which came by appeal concerning a matter merely ſpiritual. For by the Lord Talbot; We are not to lend our aſſiſtance, but where it appears clearly they have juriſdiction, and are not to truſt them to determine what is a matter merely ſpiritual. In Fowler's caſe it was, in cauſes of eccleſiaſtical rights, and held not ſufficient. Str. 1067.

If a perſon be unjuſtly excommunicated for a matter of which the ſpiritual court hath not conuzance, and he is taken on a writ of excommunicato capiendo, the party grieved ſhall have a writ out of Chancery to the ſheriff, to deliver him out of priſon. 2 Inſt. 623. 12 Co. 76. F. N. B. 141.

So if the ſpiritual court proceeds inverſo ordine, as if they refuſe a copy of the libel, &c. a prohibition ſhall go, with a clauſe to abſolve and deliver the party injured. 1 Sid. 232.

Alſo if a man be excommunicated, and offers to obey and perform the ſentence, and the biſhop refuſeth to accept it, and to abſoil him, he ſhall have a writ to the biſhop, requiring him, upon performance of the ſentence, to abſoil him; and the reaſon thereof is, for that by the excommunication the party is diſabled to ſue any action, or to have any remedy for any wrong done unto him, ſo long as he ſhall remain excommunicate; and alſo the party grieved may have his action upon his caſe againſt the biſhop, in like manner as he may when the biſhop doth excommunicate him for a matter which belongeth not to the eccleſiaſtical conuſance; alſo the biſhop, in thoſe caſes, may be indicted at the ſuit of the King. 2 Inſt. 623.

But if the excommunication be for a juſt cauſe, the party muſt make preſent ſatisfaction before he can be abſolved, or he muſt put in caution, that he will hereafter perform that which the biſhop ſhall reaſonably and according to law enjoin him; which caution, in the Civil law, is of three ſorts. 1. Fidejuſſoria, as when a man bindeth himſelf with ſureties to perform ſomewhat. 2. Pignoratio, or realis cautio, as when a man engageth goods or mortgageth lands for the performance. 3. Juratoria, when the party who is to perform any thing, taketh a corporal oath to do it; which laſt is now the moſt frequent method.

This method of taking caution was held to be againſt law. 1 Bulſt. 122.——But was afterwards on great debate held to be good; and that the biſhop having a diſcretionary power herein, it was much in his option to take caution by obligation as by either of the two other methods. 2 Lev. 36. Raym. 225.

If after a perſon is excommunicated, there comes a general act of pardon, which pardons all contempts, &c. it ſeems that this offence is taken away without any formal abſolution. See Cro. Car. 199. Cro. Jac. 212. 8 Co. 68. 1 Jon. 227. 2 Lev. 36. Gibſ. Cod. 1110.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 10 Vin. Abr. tit. Excommunication.

Excommunicato capiendo, Is a writ directed to the ſheriff for the apprehenſion of him who ſtandeth obſtinately excommunicated forty days; for ſuch a one not ſeeking abſolution, hath or may have his contempt certified into the Chancery, whence iſſueth this writ, for impriſoning him without bail or mainprize, until he conform. F. N. B. f. 62. 5 El. c. 23. Reg. Orig. f. 65, 67, 70.

Excommunicato deliberando, Is a writ to the under-ſheriff, for the delivery of an excommunicate perſon out of priſon, upon certificate of the ordinary of his conformity to the juriſdiction eccleſiaſtical. F. N. B. fol. 63. and Reg. Orig. fol. 65 & 67.

Excommunicato recipiendo, Is a writ whereby perſons excommunicate, being for their obſtinacy committed priſon, and unlawfully delivered thence, before they have given caution to obey the authority of the church, are commanded to be ſought for, and impriſoned again. Reg. Orig. fol. 67.

Execution, (Executio,) In the Common law ſignifies the laſt performance of an act, as of a fine or a judgment. And the execution of a fine, is the obtaining poſſeſſion actually of the things contained in the ſame by virtue thereof, which is either by entry into the lands, or by writ; whereof ſee at large Weſt. part. 2. Symbol. tit. Fines, ſect. 136, 137, 138. Executing of judgment and ſtatutes, and ſuch like, ſee F. N. B. in Indice verbo Execution. Co. in his 6 Rep. Blomfield's caſe, f. 87. maketh two ſorts of executions, one final, another with a quouſque tending to an end: An execution final, is that which maketh money of the defendant's goods, or extendeth his lands, and delivereth them to the plaintiff: for this the party accepteth in ſatisfaction, and this is the end of the ſuit, and all that the King's writ commandeth to be done. The other ſort with a quouſque is tending to an end, and not final; as in the caſe of a capias ad ſatisfaciendum, &c. this is not final, but the body of the party is to be taken, to the intent and purpoſe to ſatisfy the demandant, and his impriſonment is not abſolute, but until the defendant do ſatisfy. Idem ibid. Cowell.

Execution is the obtaining the actual poſſeſſion of a thing required by judgment of law, and is called the life of the law, and therefore in all caſes to be favoured. Co. Lit. 154. a. Carter 194. Executio eſt fructus, finis et effectus legis. Co. Lit. 289. 5 Co. 87. It differs from an action which continues only till judgment is given, and therefore a releaſe of all actions is regularly no bar of an execution. Co. Lit. 289. 2 Rol. Abr. 484.

1. What things were liable to execution by the Common law.

2. Of the ſeveral kinds of judicial writs, that lie after judgment; where the party ſhall be concluded by electing one of them, and his further remedy when he hath not received intire ſatisfaction on his firſt writ.

3. Who may ſue out execution, and againſt whom, viz. where there are ſeveral parties, againſt the heir and executor, againſt infants, againſt a feme covert, againſt privileged perſons, and againſt a clerk, or one in holy orders.

4. To what time the execution ſhall have relation, ſo as to avoid any alienation by the party; and of the King's precedency in executions.

5. At what time execution may be ſued out; and of the neceſſity of a ſcire facias.

6. Of the ſheriff's duty and authority in doing execution; and the remedy againſt him for neglect of duty.

7. Of obſtructing an execution; the party's remedy when the execution is irregular, and of ſetting it aſide for ſuch irregularity.

1. What things were liable to execution by the Common law.

And here it will be neceſſary to conſider what things are liable to execution at Common law in perſonal actions; and theſe we find were only the annual profits of the land as they aroſe, and the goods and chattels of the debtor; for neither his body nor lands were affected by recognizance or judgments for debt or damages, except as herein after excepted. Hob. 60. 3 Co. 12. b. Cro. Jac. 450. Plow. 440. 2 Inſt. 19. 2 Rol. Abr. 472.

The reaſon why the Common law ſubjected only the perſonal eſtate to the payment of debts, ſeems to be, for that it was only a chattel that was lent, and therefore the chattels of the debtor were liable only to pay it; and formerly men truſted one another no further than they had viſible chattels to anſwer the debt; the lands were not liable, becauſe they were liable to the feudal lord; and a new tenant could not be forced upon him without his conſent in the alienation; and the perſon was not liable, becauſe becauſe that was obliged by the tenure to ſerve the King in the wars, and at home the ſeveral lords, according to the diſtinct natures of their tenure; but tho' this law was well framed for a nation bred to wars, which were to extend their fame and power by arms; yet it was no ways calculated to the circumſtances and conditions of a trading people, whoſe power and credit riſe and fall in proportion to the increaſe or decay of trade; therefore in ſuch a nation, laws ought to be ſo contrived and framed, as to invite foreigners to trade with us, and bring their commodities to us, and the great encouragement to this will be to allow them all poſſible ſecurity in their contracts and dealings; and the way to that will be to ſubject all the effects if the debtor, whether in lands or chattels, and his perſon too, to ſatisfy the creditor; for otherwiſe it would be in the power of every ill man, by converting his chattels into land to defraud his creditor, and againſt all reaſon and equity enjoy the profits of that land which he purchaſed with another's money; and accordingly we find, that toward the reign of Ed. 1. when Magna Charta had given the tenants a power of alienation, without acquainting their lords, if they left enough to anſwer the duties of their tenure; they began to ſubject the land to anſwer the debts in trade; and as they grew more and more a trading people, it was thought reaſonable that the perſon ſhould be liable, that a cloſe confinement might oblige him the ſooner to ſatisfy his creditors, as alſo make him the more wary how he contracted debts without the proſpect of a competent fund or proviſion to diſcharge them. Plow. 440. 3 Co. 11. 2 Inſt. 19.

But even at Common law we find, that the King, by his prerogative, might have execution of body, goods and lands, but ſtill under this reſtriction, that the land was not extendable while the chattels were ſufficient, and the debtor ready to anſwer the debt. Plow. 441. 3 Co. 11.

Alſo in caſe of a private perſon, the land was liable to execution, in an action of debt againſt an heir upon an obligation made by his anceſtor; if the plaintiff had judgment, the law diſpenſed with the former rules, rather than the creditor, who fairly made out his demands, ſhould be without a remedy, and therefore gave the lands deſcended in execution to anſwer the debt; for ſince the Common law allowed the action of debt againſt the heir, he could have no benefit by the action, unleſs he were permitted to have execution of the lands which deſcended to the heir. 3 Co. 12. a. Cro. Jac. 450. Plow. 441.

So if A. had granted for him and his heirs, to B. and his heirs, ſuch a rent out of his lands, in this caſe, the heirs being comprehended in the contract, are bound to make good the grant as far as they have aſſets by deſcent from the grantor; and this was allowed at Common law, becauſe the grantee of the rent had the land originally in view for his ſecurity; and by the grant itſelf, having it in his power to diſtrain the land for the rent, it was equal to the heir, whether the land was to anſwer the rent by diſtreſs, or by an execution upon a judgment in a writ of annuity. 1 Rol. Abr. 226. Poph. 87. Hob. 58. Dyer 344. b. Co. Lit. 144.

Thus ſtood the Common law till the ſtatute of Acton Burnel, and the 13. Ed. 1. de mercatoribus, which, as appears in the preamble, was for the ſecurity of merchants and encouragement of trade, and ſubjected not only the goods and perſons, but the land likewiſe of the debtor, into whoſe hands ſoever they came after the ſtatute acknowledged. Hob. 60. 2 Rol. Abr. 475.

Alſo in the ſame year and reign the elegit was given; and by this ſtatute, viz. 13 Ed. 1. c. 18. (See 2 Inſt. 394-5) he who recovereth in debt or damages, may have either a fieri facias of the chattels of the debtor, or a writ on which the ſheriff ſhall deliver to him all the chattels of the debtor, ſaving only his oxen and beaſts of his plough, and the one half of his land, until the debt be levied upon a reaſonable price or extent.

The ſtat. 25 Ed. 3. cap. 17. ſubjected the perſon of the debtor, and gave the capias ad ſatisfaciend. in debt, detinue, &c. in the caſe of a common perſon. See Dalt. Sher. 144.

2. Of the ſeveral kinds of judicial writs, that lie after judgment; where the party ſhall be concluded by electing one of them, and his further remedy when he hath not received intire ſatisfaction on his firſt writ.

The judicial writs that lie after judgment are the elegit, the capias ad ſatisfaciendum, fieri facias, levari facias, and habere facias ſeiſinam and poſſeſſionem, which ſee under the reſpective heads.

When the plaintiff has judgment, he has it in his election to ſue out what kind of execution he pleaſes; but he cannot regularly take out two different executions on the ſame judgment, nor a ſecond of the ſame nature, unleſs upon failure of ſatisfaction on the firſt. 2 Rol. Abr. 475. Hob. 60. 2 Inſt. 395.

Therefore if the plaintiff, upon a judgment or recognizance at Common law, ſues out an elegit, he can have no capias ad ſatisfaciendum afterwards to take the body, becauſe he hath determined his choice by that writ to the goods and chattels, and a moiety of the land; and tho' he takes but an acre of land in execution, yet it is held a ſatisfaction of the debt, be it never ſo great, becauſe in time it may come out of it. Bro. Elegit, 15. 1 Rol. Abr. 896.

But tho' the plaintiff cannot take out a ſecond elegit after the firſt is returned, executed, and filed; yet if upon the firſt the ſheriff returns nihil, the plaintiff may ſue out a ſecond. Hob. 2. Cro. Jac. 339. pl. 3.

So where in debt on a judgment of 2000 l. the defendant pleaded, that the plaintiff had ſued three ſeveral elegits on the ſaid judgment into ſeveral counties, on one of which the ſheriff returned, that he had levied of the defendant's goods 500 l. and on demurrer it was adjudged 1ſt, That this elegit being executed on the goods of the party only, the plaintiff was not precluded by his election thereof from any benefit he had at the Common law, by any nice conſtruction of the ſtatute of Weſtm 2. which intended to give a farther remedy than there was at Common law, and that the action well lay. 2dly, That if, as objected, any lands were extended on the other two elegits which were not returned, the defendant ought to have ſhewed it in pleading. 1 Lev. 92. 1 Keb. 105, 261, 465, 496, 556, 692, S. C. 1 Sid. 184. S. C. and ſame points adjudged, but there ſaid, that the court was divided, whether the plaintiff could take out any new execution.——But 'tis held by Lord Hobart, that if upon an elegit, the execution lies on the goods only, without any lands, and they appear not to be ſufficient, that the party may have a capias, for it is in effect but a fieri facias tho' the word be elegit. Hob. 58.

After elegit executed upon goods, and a return that the defendant has no lands, the plaintiff may have the body in execution for the remainder of his debt. Lord Raym. 1451. Stran. 226.

It was formerly held, that if a perſon taken on a capias ad ſatisfaciendum died in execution, that the plaintiff had no further remedy, becauſe he determined his choice by this kind of execution, which affecting a man's liberty, is eſteemend the higheſt and moſt rigid in the law. Hob. 52, &c. Cro. Jac. 136, 143. 1 Rol. Abr. 903.

But now by the 21 Jac. 1. cap. 24. reciting, "That foraſmuch as daily experience doth manifeſt, that divers perſons of ſufficiency in real and perſonal eſtate, minding to deceive others of their juſt debts, for which they ſtood charged in execution, have obſtinately and wilfully choſen rather to live and die in priſon, than to make any ſatisfaction according to their abilities; to prevent which deceit, and for the avoiding ſuch doubts and queſtions hereafter, Be it declared, explained and enacted by the King's moſt excellent Majeſty, the lords ſpiritual and temporal, and the commons, in this preſent parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame, That from and after the end of this preſent ſeſſion of parliament, the party or parties at whoſe ſuit, or to whom any p rſon ſhall ſtand charged in execution for any debt or damages recovered, his or their executors or adminiſtrators may, after the death of the perſon ſo charged, and dying in execution, lawfully ſue forth and have new execution againſt the lands and tenements, goods and chattels, or any of them, of the perſon ſo deceaſed, in ſuch manner and form, to all intents and purpoſes, as he or they, or any of them might have had by the laws and ſtatutes of this realm, if ſuch perſon ſo deceaſed had never been taken or charged in execution."

"Provided, that this act ſhall not extend to give liberty to any perſon or perſons, their executors or adminiſtrators, at whoſe ſuit or ſuits any ſuch party ſhall be in execution, and die in execution, to have or to take any new execution againſt any the lands, tenements, or hereditaments of ſuch party dying in execution, which ſhall at any time after the ſaid judgement or judgments be by him ſold bona fide, and for the payment of any of his creditors, and the money which ſhall be for the lands ſo ſold, either paid, or ſecured to be paid to any of his creditors, with their privity and conſent, in diſcharge of his or their due bebts, or ſome part thereof."

If A. has judgment againſt B. and he takes out a capias ad ſatisfaciendum, directed to the ſheriff of Middleſex, who directs his precept to the bailiff of the liberty of the dutchy Ad cap. B. Ad reſpond. A. inſtead of Ad ſatisfaciendum; and thereupon the ſheriff returns Cepi corpus ſecundum exigentiam brevis, though by this return the ſheriff makes himſelf liable to the debt, by not purſuing his authortty; yet A. may take out a new writ of execution againſt B. for he never was in cuſtody by virtue of the Capias ad ſatisfaciendum. Yelv. 52.

So if a party taken on a Capias ad ſatisfaciendum eſcapes, or is reſcued, though the ſheriff is hereby liable, becauſe he ought to have taken the poſſe comitatus, yet the plaintiff may take out a new execution and ſhall not be compelled to take his remedy againſt the ſheriff, who may be dead or inſolvent. Cro. Car. 40, 455. 1 Vent. 4.

If on a fieri facias all the money is not levied, the plaintiff may take out a new execution; but as ſuch new execution muſt be grounded on the firſt writ, ſuch writ muſt be returned, and muſt recite, that all the money was not levied on the firſt; but if on the firſt writ, all the money had been levied, it need not be returned, for no further proceſs was neceſſary. 1 Salk. 318.

If on a fieri facias the defendant pays the money to the ſheriff, he is diſcharged of the execution, and the plaintiff muſt bring his action againſt the ſheriff. Cro. Eliz. 208-9.

So if the ſheriff take goods in execution by virtue of a fieri facias, whether he ſells them, or not; yet being taken from the party againſt whom the execution was ſued, he may plead that taking in diſcharge of himſelf, and ſhall not be liable to a ſecond execution, though the ſheriff hath not returned the writ; and the reaſon is, becauſe the defendant cannot avoid the execution, and he would therefore be in a very bad condition if he was to be charged the ſecond time; and if the ſheriff dies after the goods are taken in execution, his executors are liable to the plaintiff, for they have quid pro quo, and 'tis in nature of contract raiſed by law. 2 Mod. 214. 1 Salk. 223.

As therefore the defendant in theſe caſes is diſcharged as to the plaintiff, hence it ſeems to be clearly agreed, that the plaintiff may maintain an action of debt againſt the ſheriff; for though there is no actual contract between the ſheriff and the creditor, yet the levying the money creates a contract in law, which lays alien on the ſheriff; for otherwiſe the party would be without remedy. Hob. 206. 4 Mod. 404. 2 Show. 79, 281.

Alſo it hath been held, that an action lies againſt an under-ſheriff for money levied on a fieri facias, as money received to the plaintiff's uſe, though before the return of the writ; for if the ſheriff were permitted to ſtave off the action by his delay, in not returning his writ, it would be allowing him to take advantage of his own wrong. 2 Show 79, 281. S. P.

So it hath been held, that ſuch action is not within the ſtatute of limitations; for though it be not a matter of record till the writ be returned; yet it is founded upon a record, and hath a ſtrong relation to it. 1 Show. 79. 2 Mod. 212.

And as the law ſubjects the ſheriff to an action in thoſe caſes; ſo it veſts ſuch a property in him in the goods taken by him in execution, that if they are taken out of his poſſeſſion, he may maintain treſpaſs or trover againſt the wrong-doer at his election. 2 Saund. 47.

If A. and B. have two ſeveral judgments againſt C. and they take out two writs of fieri facias, which are both delivered to the ſheriff on the ſame day, and the ſheriff executes that which was laſt delivered, it bearing teſte before the other; and afterwards apprehending that he ought to have executed that which was firſt delivered, he takes the ſame goods, and delivers them in execution on the firſt writ; this ſecond execution is void; for tho' the ſheriff ought to have executed the writ that was firſt delivered, yet having executed the laſt firſt, the vendee ſhall keep the goods, and the party muſt ſeek his remedy againſt the ſheriff; and the reaſon hereof is, for the quiet of purchaſers under ſheriffs upon execution; for otherwiſe it would be dangerous to make ſuch purchaſes of ſheriffs, which might make writs of execution of no effect. Carth. 419, 420. 1 Salk. 320. S. C.

So where a writ of fieri facias is delivered to the ſheriff to-day, and another to-morrow, and the ſheriff executes the laſt firſt, by making ſale of the goods, ſuch ſale will ſtand good, and the vendee ſhall hold the goods againſt him who firſt delivered the writ to the ſheriff; and his remedy is only by action againſt the ſheriff. Carth. 420.

3. Who may ſue out execution, and againſt whom, viz. where there are ſeveral parties, againſt the heir and executor, againſt infants, againſt a feme covert, againſt privileged perſons, and againſt a clerk, or perſon in holy orders.

No perſon is intitled to, or can ſue out execution, who is not privy to the judgment, or intitled to the thing recovered, as heir, executor, or adminiſtrator to him who has judgment. 1 Rol. Abr. 889.

But if an adminiſtrator, durante minori ætate of an executor, recovers in debt, and before execution the executor comes of age, he ſhall have a ſcire facias on this judgment; for carrying on the ſuit in right of the executor, made the executor privy thereto. 1 Rol. Abr. 888-9.

So if J. S. makes A. executor, upon condition, that if A. does ſuch an act, that the executorſhip ſhall ceaſe, and that then B. ſhall be executor; if A. recovers in debt, and then does the act, B. ſhall take out execution. 1 Rol. Abr. 889.

If A. feme, executrix to J. S. marries, and her huſband and ſhe bring an action of debt on obligation, as executrix to J. S. and have judgment, and the wife dies; in this caſe the huſband, though privy to the judgment, ſhall not ſue out execution, for he is not intitled to the thing recovered, but the ſame belongs to the ſucceeding repreſentative of J. S. 1 Rol. Abr. 889. Cro. Car. 208, 227. 464. S. C.

So where A. ſued as adminiſtrator to J. S. on an obligation entred into by the defendant to the inteſtate, and had judgment, and afterwards the letters of adminiſtration were repealed; though A. was privy to this judgment, and took out execution thereupon, yet the court granted a ſuperſedeas thereof, and held, that the adminiſtration being revoked, the ſuing out execution afterwards was void; for the adminiſtrator had no intereſt or authority, but as a miniſterial officer to the ordinary. Yelv. 83. 2 Saund. 148-9.

Alſo it was formerly held, that if an adminiſtrator had judgment in right of his inteſtate, and died before execution, that the adminiſtrator de bonis non could not have a ſcire facias, ſo as to take out execution on this judgment, not being privy to the record. Cro. Jac. 4. Yelv. 83—4. S. P.

But where an executor had judgment, and ſued out an elegit, but died inteſtate before the debt was levied; yet it was held, that the adminiſtrator de bonis non ſhould take advantage thereof, and that the elegit being ſued out, made it an intereſt veſted, though it would have been otherwiſe if execution had not been ſued out. 1 Sid. 29. 6 Mod. 260. S. C. cited.

otherwiſe

And now by ſtat. 17 Car. 2. cap. 18. ſect. 2. it is enacted, "That where any judgment, after a verdict ſhall be had, by or in the name of any executor or adminiſtrator; in ſuch caſe an adminiſtrator de bonis non may ſue forth a ſcire facias, and take execution upon ſuch judgment." See 6 Mod. 290. and 1 Salk. 323. where it is ſaid per curiam to be but reaſonable, and within the equity of this act, that an adminiſtrator de bonis non ſhould be permitted to perfect an execution begun by an executor or adminiſtrator, though the judgment was by default, &c.

If a man has judgment for the arrearages of rent, and dies, his executor ſhall ſue out execution, and not the heir: for by the recovery it becomes a chattel veſted, to which the executor is intitled 1 Rol. Abr. 889.

So if the demandant in a writ of coſenage, or other real action, in which land and damages are recovered, has judgment, and dies, the heir ſhall take out execution as to the land, and the executor as to the damages. 1 Rol. Abr. 889.

If a ſtatute be entred into to huſband and wife, and the huſband dies, the wife ſhall take out execution. 1 Rol. Abr. 889.

So if huſband and wife recover lands and damages, and the huſband dies, the wife ſhall have execution of the damages, and the executors of the huſband. 1 Rol. Abr. 342, 889, 890.

If there are two executors who have judgment, and the one prays a capias, and the other a fieri facias, it is ſaid the capias ſhall be awarded, as being beſt for the teſtator. Hob. 61.

If the preſident of the college of phyſicians brings an action againſt one for practiſing phyſick in London without licence, purſuant to the ſtatute 14 H. 8. and has judgment, and dies before execution; the ſucceſſor, and not the executor of him who recovered, ſhall ſue out execution; for this action is given to the preſident by an act of parliament, and the proceedings and judgment thereupon abtained by him, was in his corporate capacity; and therefore the ſucceſſor, on whom the law transfers the duty, ſhall take out execution. Cro. Jac. 159.

If a man has judgment in an aſſiſe againſt three for lands and damages, he cannot ſue execution by capias againſt one only, for the damages; but the capias ought to be againſt all, for the execution ought to enſue the nature of the original. 1 Rol. Abr. 888.

So if a man has judgment in debt againſt two, he muſt take out joint execution againſt both, and cannot have a capias againſt one, and an elegit againſt the other. 1 Rol. Abr. 888.

But if a man has judgment for damages againſt two, and he ſues out a ſcire facias againſt both; if one be returned ſummoned, and he makes default, and it be returned, that the other hath nothing, the plaintiff may have execution againſt him who made default for the whole. 1 Rol. Abr. 890.

So if two become bail for J. S. and he is condemned, and there is judgment on ſcire facias againſt the bail, the plaintiff may take out execution againſt either of them, being ſeverally as well as jointly bound. 1 Rol. Abr. 888.

If there be judgment in debt againſt two, and one dies, a ſcire facias lies againſt the other alone, reciting the death, and he cannot plead, that the heir of him that is dead has aſſets by deſcent, and demand judgment, if he ought to be charged alone; for at Common law, the charge upon a judgment being perſonal ſurvived, and the ſtatute of Weſtm. 2. that gives the elegit, does not take away the remedy of the plaintiff at Common law; and therefore the party may take out his execution which way he pleaſes, for the words of the ſtatute are, ſit in electione; but if he ſhould, after the allowance of this writ and revival of the judgment, take out an elegit to charge the land, the party may have remedy by ſuggeſtion, or elſe by audita querela. Raym. 26. 1 Lev. 30. S. C. 1 Keb. 92, 123. S. C.

If there be judgment againſt one who has lands in fee-ſimple, or if ſuch a one acknowledges a ſtatute, and dies, and his lands deſcend to his heir, execution may be taken out againſt the heir, but his body is protected; for it would be moſt unreaſonable to ſubject the heir to the payment of his anceſtor's debts, any farther than to the value of the aſſets deſcended. See Dyer 81. pl. 62. 207. pl. 15. Co. Lit. 103, 290.

So if there be judgment againſt J. S. and he dies inteſtate, or having made his executor, a fieri facias may be executed of his goods in the hands of the executor or adminiſtrator. See 1 Mod. 188. 2. Vent. 218. Skin. 257. 2 Show. 485. 1 Salk. 322.

By the Common law, if judgment be given againſt a man for debt or damages, and the defendant dies before execution ſued, his heir within age is not liable to execution during his minority; but the parol muſt demur in ſuch caſe till he comes of age. Co. Lit. 290. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 140.

And this privilege of infancy does not only protect the infant, but all others who are affected by the judgment; as if there be father and two daughters, and judgment be given for debt againſt the father, who dies, one of the daughters being within age, partition being made, the eldeſt ſhall not be charged alone, but ſhall have the benefit of her ſiſter's minority, which puts a ſtop to the execution. Co. Lit. 290. a.

So if the conuzor of a ſtatute-merchant dies, and his heir within age endow his mother, the land in dower ſhall not be extended during the minority of the heir. Co. Lit. 290. a. Bro. Stat. Merch. 33.

If a perſon recovers in treſpaſs againſt baron and feme, execution may be ſued out againſt the feme after the death of the huſband. 1 Rol. Abr. 890.

So if a recovery be in aſſiſe againſt them upon a diſſeiſin, execution ſhall be againſt the feme after the death of her huſband, as well for the damages as for the principal. 1 Rol. Abr. 346.

So if in a quare impedit, damages be recovered againſt baron and feme to the amount of two years, and the huſband dies, the damages may be recovered againſt the wife. 1 Rol. Abr. 890.

There can be no execution taken out againſt a member of parliament during privilege of parliament: Alſo no capias can iſſue againſt a peer; for even in the caſe of a private perſon at Common law, the body was not liable to a man's creditors; and the ſtatute of Ed. 3. which ſubjects the body, does not extend to peers, becauſe of the ſacredneſs of their perſons; as alſo the law ſuppoſes, that perſons thus diſtinguiſhed by the King, have wherewithal otherwiſe to ſatisfy their creditors. 6 Co. 52. Hob. 61. Cro. Car. 205.

If a writ of execution be taken out againſt a clerk in holy orders, on a judgment obtained againſt him, or upon a ſtatute ſtaple or recognizance in nature of it, which he has entred into; and the ſheriff returns, that he is a clerk, he ought to extend his lay fee and chattels, or return that he hath neither; but if he returns, quod clericus ſit beneficiatus nullum habens laicum feodum, ſed quod beneficiatus eſt in ſuch a dioceſe, then a writ of ſequeſtration ſhall iſſue to the biſhop to ſequeſter the living. 2. Rol. Abr. 474. 1 Rol. Abr. 891. 2 Inſt. 472. Jenk. 207.

So if the conuſor of a ſtatute merchant be a clerk within orders, by the ſtatute of 13 Ed. 1. the ſheriff cannot take the body in execution; and if he returns, that he is a clerk, no execution ſhall be granted to the ſheriff to levy the debt de bonis eccleſiaſticis, for his perſon is protected by the letter of the ſtatute, and the ſtatute doth not ſubject the bona eccleſiaſtica to the execution; but in this caſe the conuſee may have execution granted out of his lay fee. 2 Rol. Abr. 468. Reg. Jud. 8. Bro. Stat. Merch. 38. Co. Ent. 13.

On a fieri facias againſt a fellow of Wincheſter college, the ſheriff returned, clericus beneficiatus nullum habens laicum feodum, whereupon a fieri facias de bonis eccleſiaſticis iſſued to the biſhop, who ſent his mandate to the warden and fellows of the college to ſequeſter his ſalary, and they refuſed; and it being moved in B. R. to know, whether the biſhop might not compel them by eccleſiaſtical cenſures, the the court thought that this was not an eccleſiaſtical conſtitution, the univerſities being only ſocieties ad ſtudendum & orandum, but ſaid that a prebend is an eccleſiaſtical benefice; and in ſuch caſe, if the prebend have a ſole diſtinct corpſe, it may be ſequeſtred; but where he is only a member of the body aggregate, and the inheritance is in the dean and chapter, there cannot be a ſequeſtration; and therefore they left the biſhop to do as he ought by law. 1 Salk. 320.

4. To what time the execution ſhall have relation, ſo as to avoid any alienation or ſale of lands or goods by the party; and of the King's precedency in executions.

As to lands, they are bound from the time of the judgment, ſo that execution may be of theſe, tho' the party aliens bona fide before execution ſued out; ſo of ſtatutes merchant, ſtaple, and recognizances, which alſo bind the lands from the time of entering into them. Co. Lit. 102. a. b. 8 Co. 171. 1 Rol. Rep. 77.

Therefore if a man has judgment for debt, or is conuſee of a ſtatute, and the debtor, before execution ſued, aliens by fine, and five years paſs, yet the plaintiff may ſtill ſue out execution. 1 Mod. 217, 1 Chan. Ca. 268.

But here it is neceſſary to obſerve, that by the 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. called the ſtatute of frauds, reciting, that it hath been found miſchievous, that judgments in the King's courts in Weſtminſter do many times relate to the firſt day of the term whereof they are entred, or to the day of the return of the original, or filing the bill, and bind the defendant's lands from that time, altho' in truth they were acknowledged or ſuffered and ſigned in the vacation-time after the ſaid term, whereby purchaſers find themſelves aggrieved;

By the 14th ſection of that ſtatute, it is enacted, "That any judge or officer of any of his Majeſty's courts of Weſtminſter, that ſhall ſign any judgments, ſhall, at the ſigning of the ſame, without fee for doing the ſame, ſet down the day of the month and year of his ſo doing, upon the paper-book, docket, or record which he ſhall ſign, which day of the month and year ſhall alſo be entred upon the margent of the roll of the record where the ſaid judgment ſhall be entred.

And by ſect. 15. it is enacted, "That ſuch judgments, as againſt purchaſers bona fide; for valuable conſideration of lands, tenements, or hereditaments to be charged thereby, ſhall, in conſideration of law, be judgments only from ſuch time as they ſhall be ſo ſigned, and ſhall not relate to the firſt day of the term whereof they are entred, or the day of the return of the original or filing the bail."

And by ſect. 18. it is enacted, "That the day of the month and year of the inrolment of recognizances ſhall be ſet down in the margent of the roll where the ſaid recognizances are inrolled, and that no recognizances ſhall bind any lands, tenements or hereditaments in the hands of any purchaſer bona fide, and for valuable conſideration, but from the time of ſuch inrolment."

Alſo for the greater ſecurity of purchaſers, by the 4 & 5 W. & M. cap. 20. it is enacted, "That the clerk of the eſſoins of the court of C. B. the clerk of the doggets of the court of King's Bench, and the maſter of the office of pleas in the court of Exchequer, ſhall make and put into an alphabetical dogget, by the defendant's names, a particular of all judgments by confeſſion, non ſum informatus, or nihil dicit, entred in their ſeveral courts, &c. and that no judgment not doggeted, and entred in the books as aforeſaid, ſhall effect any lands or tenements as to purchaſers or mortgagees, or have any preference againſt heirs, executors or adminiſtrators, in their adminiſtration of their anceſtors, teſtators or inteſtates eſtates."

Here alſo we muſt obſerve a difference as to judgments which affect the lands of an anceſtor, and thoſe which affect the heir; for as to the firſt, the plaintiff ſhall not have execution, but only of that land which the defendant had at the time of the judgment, becauſe the action was brought in reſpect of the perſon, and not in reſpect of the land. Co. Lit. 102. a.

But if an action of debt be brought againſt the heir, and he alieneth, hanging the writ; yet ſhall the land be had at the time of the original purchaſed becharged, for the action was brought againſt the heir in reſpect of the land. Co. Lit. 102. And therefore if the anceſtor deviſed away the lands, creditors whoſe ſecurities were inferior to judgments, had no remedy at Common law, either againſt the heir or deviſee. Abr. Eq. 149. But now by the ſtat. 3 & 4 Will. & Ma. c. 14. it is enacted, That all wills concerning lands, or any rents, profits, term, or charge out of the ſame, whereof the deviſor ſhall be ſeiſed in fee-ſimple, in poſſeſſion, reverſion, or remainder, ſhall be deemed to be fraudulent and void againſt creditors upon bonds or other ſpecialties, their executors, adminiſtrators, &c. and ſuch creditors ſhall have their actions of debt againſt the heir at law and the deviſees jointly.

It hath been adjudged, that if there are two creditors, viz. A. and B. of J. S. whoſe heir is bound, and who has lands by deſcent, and A files an original in C. B. and hath judgment thereon, Trinity term 2 Jac. 2. by default, and there upon a general elegit iſſues againſt all the lands of the heir, and a moiety thereof is delivered to A. and B. on a bill filed in B. R. 1 & 2 Jac. 2. has a ſpecial judgment againſt the aſſets confeſſed by the heir, Trinity term 3 Jac. 2. tho' B.'s judgment be ſubſequent to A.'s, yet it appearing that his bill or original was filed before A.'s, the judgment ſhall have relation thereto, and therefore he muſt be firſt ſatisfied. Carth. 245.

Alſo in the above caſe it ſeems, that tho' A.'s judgment had been on an original actually filed before B.'s, that B. muſt have been preferred, becauſe his judgment was general againſt the heir, and the execution a general and common execution by elegit, and not againſt the aſſets only by way of extent; and therefore ſuch a general judgment will not operate by way of relation to the original, but binds only in common caſes from the time of the judgment given. Carth. 246. 181.

As to goods and chattels, the execution at Common law had relation to the time of the awarding thereof, and therefore, if after the teſte of the writ of execution, the defendant had ſold the goods, tho' bona fide, and for valuable conſideration, yet were they ſtill liable to be taken in execution into whoſe hands ſoever they came. 8 Co. 171. Cro. Eliz. 174, 440. 2 Vent. 218.

But as this created ſome inconveniency with reſpect to trade, in making thoſe goods ſtill ſubject to executions, tho' in the hands of a perſon who came by them for valuable conſideration, and without notice of any ſuch execution; and as there was a farther inconveniency in making a writ of execution taken out in vacation, to have relation to the laſt day of the precedent term; for remedy hereof, by the 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. ſect. 16. it is enacted, "That no writ of fieri facias, or other writ of execution, ſhall bind the property of goods againſt whom ſuch writ of execution is ſued forth, but from the time that ſuch writ ſhall be delivered to the ſheriff, under-ſheriff, or coroners, to be executed; and for the better manifeſtation of the ſaid time, the ſheriff, under-ſheriff, and coroners, their deputies and agents ſhall, upon the receipt of any ſuch writ (without fee for doing the ſame) indorſe upon the back thereof the day of the month or year whereon he or they received the ſame."

This ſtatute binds the property of goods taken in execution from the delivery of the writ to the ſheriff with reſpect to purchaſers only, but in reſpect of executors where the party dies after the teſte and before execution, it binds the property from the teſte. Per Ch. J. and Dobben, obiter. Comb. 145. Mich. 1 W. & M. in B. R. Anon'.

The fieri facias bore teſte before the party's death, but the delivery and indorſement was after. The court held the execution good at Common law, and rather inclined that it was good ſince the ſtatute, and that it was made for the benefit of ſtrangers, who might have a title to the goods between the teſte and the time of delivery to the ſheriff, but as to the party himſelf, the goods were bound from the teſte ever ſince the ſtatute. But it was ordered to be further ſpoken to. 2 Vent. 218, Mich. 2 W. & M. in C. B. Anon'.

The

The ſtatute of frauds and perjuries intended only to remedy an inconvenience of ſelling goods after the teſte of the writ; ſo that the writ binds now only from the delivery quoad a purchaſor: but the ſtatute was not made for the benefit of the party or his executors, ſo that quoad them it binds from the teſte, and there is no fraud in the caſe. Comb. 33. Mich. 2 Jac. 2. B. R. Horton v. Ruſeby.

If a writ of execution be deliver'd to the ſheriff againſt A. and A. becomes a bankrupt before it is executed, the execution is ſuperſeded, and conſequently the property of the goods is not abſolutely bound by the delivery of the writ to the ſheriff. But the teſte of the writ binds againſt all ſales and acts of the party himſelf. Per Holt Ch. J. Ld. Raym. Rep. 252. Mich. 9 W. 3.

Fieri facias upon a judgment, defendant dies before execution, the writ may be executed upon the inteſtate's goods; and Windham ſaid, The property of the goods is ſo bound by the teſte of the writ, as that a ſale made of them bona fide ſhall be void; to which the court agreed. 1 Mod. 188. Farrer v. Brookes, adminiſtrator of Brookes.

Two executions, one delivered before the other on the ſame day, but the laſt teſted was delivered firſt. The ſheriff ought to execute that which was firſt deliver'd to him; but if he executes the laſt, the execution is good; but the other party has his remedy againſt the ſheriff; but as to the party himſelf, his goods are bound by the teſte; adjudged. Carth. 419. Mich. 9 W. 3. B. R. Smallcomb v. Buckingham, S. C. adjudged. 1 Salk. 320. N. B. He who brought the firſt fieri facias told the ſheriff that he was not in haſte, ſo took out no warrant nor left any fee, and this inclined the opinion of the court more ſtrongly againſt him. 1 Salk. 320. Carth. 420. ——5 Mod. 377. reports that this was mentioned per Holt Ch. J. and that Holt ſaid, that if the ſecond fieri facias had been delivered a fortnight after, yet if it be firſt executed it ſhall be good, and the other has only his remedy againſt the ſheriff.——The court thought that no wrong was done in this caſe, becauſe he that had the firſt writ never deſired any warrant, and was plainly deſigned only as a ſcreen to protect the party from the ſecond fieri facias, and judgment accordingly. 12 Mod. 126. S. C.——Lord Raym. Rep. 251. Smallcomb v. Croſs and Buckingham, S. C. held accordingly, and that in this caſe no action lies againſt the ſheriff, becauſe he who delivered his writ firſt, would not take a warrant from the ſheriff to levy the goods; ſo that it ſeems he had a deſign only to keep that execution in his pocket to protect the defendant's goods by fraud. And judgment for the plaintiff by the whole court.

If judgment be entred in vacation, and writ taken out againſt the party's goods as of the term before, yet the writ ſhall levy the money of his goods in the hands of his executors. Per Holt Ch. J. 7 Mod. 95. Ann. B. R. Oades v. Woodward.

An execution was taken out againſt the teſtator in his life-time, and executed after his deceaſe, the writ was returnable Octab. Martini, and executed on the 16th of November, which was two days before the return was out; the execution being ſued out before the teſtator's death may be executed afterwards without a ſcire facias, as was reſolved in Dr. Needham's caſe; and it may be executed at any time before the return of the writ, nay, on the very day that it is returnable, and good; and if it is executed in the vacation, it ſhall refer to the antecedent term, and ſo it ſhall if it is executed in term-time; per cur'. 8 Mod. 225. Hill. 10 Geo. Anon'. And ſays ſo is Cro. E. 181. Parker v. Moſs.

As to the King's precedency in executions, it hath been already obſerved, that the King by his prerogative, may have execution of the body, lands, or goods of his debtor, at his election. Hob. 60. 2 Inſt. 19. 2 Rol. Abr. 472.

And here we muſt obſerve, that the King's execution relates as to land, to the time of becoming in debt to the king; for as to debts that were of record, they always bound the lands and tenements; for all lands being held mediately or immediately from the King, when any debt was returned of any perſon, it laid the eſtate as liable to ſuch debt, as if it had been a reſervation on the firſt grant. 8 Co. 171. 2 Rol. Abr. 156, 157.

And as to debts not of record, they bind the lands from the time they are entered into; but this is by force of the ſtatute 33 H. 8. cap. 39. by which it is enacted, "That if any ſuit be commenced or taken, or any proceſs hereafter be awarded for the King, for the recovery of any of the King's debts, that then the ſame ſuit and proceſs ſhall be preferred before any perſon or perſons; and that our ſaid ſovereign Lord, his heirs and ſucceſſors, ſhall have firſt execution againſt any defendant or defendants, of and for his ſaid debts, before any other perſon or perſons, ſo always, that the King's ſaid ſuit be taken and commenced, or proceſs awarded for the ſaid debt, at the ſuit of our ſaid Sovereign Lord the King, his heirs or ſucceſſors, before judgment given for the ſaid other perſon or perſons."

As to the King's execution of goods, the ſame relates to the time of the awarding thereof, which is the teſte of the writ, as it was in the caſe of a common perſon at law; for tho' by the 29 Car. 2. No execution ſhall bind the property of goods, but from the time of the delivery of the writ to the ſheriff; yet as this act does not extend to the King, an extent of a later teſte ſuperſedes an execution of the goods by a former writ; becauſe by the King's prerogative at Common law, if there had been an execution at the ſubject's ſuit, and afterwards an extent, the execution was ſuperſeded till the extent was executed, becauſe the publick ought to be preferred to the private property, and the rather, becauſe the King is ſuppoſed by publick buſineſs not to be able to take care of every private affair relating to his revenue, and therefore no time occurs to the King; and if he was to be prevented of his execution by another perſon's coming in before him, laches muſt be imputed to him, which the law does not. 2 Bac. Abr. 363.

If the King's debt be prior on record, it binds the lands of the debtor, into whoſe hands ſoever they come, becauſe as has been obſerved, it is in the nature of an original charge upon the land itſelf, and therefore muſt ſubject every body that claims under it; but if the lands were aliened in whole or in part, as by granting a jointure before the debt contracted, ſuch alienee claims prior to the charge, and in ſuch caſe the land is not ſubject. See 2 Rol. Abr. 156-7. Moor 126. 3 Leon. 239, 240. 4 Leon. 10.

5. At what time execution may be ſued out; and of the neceſſity of a ſcire facias.

At common law, in real actions, where land was recovered, the demandant, after the year, might take out a ſcire facias to revive his judgment, becauſe the judgment being particular in the real action, quoad the lands with a certain deſcription, the law required, that the execution of that judgment ſhould be entred upon the roll, that it might be ſeen, whether execution was delivered of the ſame thing of which judgment was given; and therefore if there was no execution appearing on the roll, a ſcire facias iſſued to ſhew cauſe, why execution ſhould not be. 2 Inſt. 471. 5 Co. 88. Cro. Eliz. 416. 6 Mod. 288.

But if the plaintiff, after he had obtained judgment in any perſonal action, had lain quiet, and had taken no proceſs of execution within the year, he was put to a new original upon his judgment, and no ſcire facias was iſſuable at law on the judgment, becauſe there was not a judgment for any particular thing in the perſonal action, with which the execution could be compared; therefore after a reaſonable time, which was a year and a day, it was preſumed to be executed, and therefore the law allowed him no ſcire facias to ſhew cauſe why there ſhould not be execution; but if the party had ſlipped his time, he was put to his action on the judgment, and the defendant was obliged to ſhew how that debt, of which the judgment was an evidence, was diſcharged. 2 Inſt. 469. Carth. 30, 31. 1 Sid. 351.

To remedy this, and to make the forms of proceeding more uniform in both actions, the ſtatute of Weſtm. 2.

cap. 45. gave the ſcire facias to the plaintiff to revive the judgment, where he had omitted to ſue execution within the year after judgment was obtained: The words of the act are; "Becauſe that of ſuch things as be recorded before the Chancellor and the juſtices of the King that have record, and be inrolled in their rolls, proceſs of a plea ought not to be made by ſummons, attachments, eſſoin, view of land, and other ſolemnities of the court, as hath been uſed to be done of bargains and covenants made out of the court; from henceforth it is to be obſerved, that thoſe things which are found inrolled before them that have record, or contained in fines, whether they be contracts, ſervices, or cuſtoms knowledged, or other things whatſoever inrolled, wherein the King's courts, without offence of the law and cuſtom, may execute their authority, from henceforth they ſhall have ſuch vigour, that hereafter it ſhall not need to plead for them. But when the plaintiff cometh to the King's court, if the recognizance or fine levied be freſh, that is to ſay, levied within the year, he ſhall forthwith have a writ of execution of the ſame recognizance made. And if the recognizance were made, on the fine levied of a further time paſſed, the ſheriff ſhall be commanded, that he give knowledge to the party of whom it is complained, that he be afore the juſtices at a certain day, to ſhew if he have any thing to ſay why ſuch matter inrolled or contained in the fine ought not to have execution. And if he do not come at the day, or peradventure do come, and can ſay nothing why execution ought not to be done, the ſheriff ſhall be commanded to cauſe the thing inrolled or contained in the fine to be executed."

It hath been doubted, whether a ſcire facias lay to revive a judgment in ejectment after a year and a day, either by the Common law, or by force of this ſtatute; for at Common law this was looked upon as a perſonal action, and it was thought that the ſtatute extended only to ſuch perſonal actions in which debt or damages are recovered, and not to provide a remedy in this caſe, when at the time of making the act, the poſſeſſion was not recovered in this action; but it ſeems now ſettled and confirmed by daily practice, that a ſcire facias lies on a judgment in ejectment, for the words of the act are, Sive ſervitia ſive conſuetudines ſive alia quæcunque irrotulata, which comprehend all judgments, and give the like remedy on them by ſcire facias, as the demandant had on a judgment in a real action at Common law. 1 Sid. 351. 2 Salk. 600.

Here alſo it may be proper to diſtinguiſh between taking out execution on judgments and recognizances at Common law, and on ſtatutes merchant and ſtaple; that on the firſt, ſcire facias after the year and day is abſolutely neceſſary; but as to ſtatute merchants, &c. the conuſee may at any time ſue execution on them, without the delay or charge of a ſcire facias. Co. Lit. 291. a. 2 Inſt. 469. F. N. B. 296. Bro. Recog. 17.

The reaſon, why the plaintiff is put to his ſcire facias after the year, is becauſe where he lies quiet ſo long after his judgment, it ſhall be preſumed he hath releaſed the execution, and therefore the defendant ſhall not be diſturbed without being called upon, and having an opportunity in court of pleading to the releaſe, or ſhewing cauſe if he can, why the execution ſhould not go. 2 Inſt. 470.

Alſo it is ſaid in Salkeld, that if a judgment be above ten years ſtanding, the plaintiff cannot ſue a ſcire facias without motion in court; and if it be under ten, but above ſeven, he cannot have a ſcire facias without a motion at the ſide-bar; and a note is added, that if after ſuch motion and judgment revived by ſcire facias, the defendant dies before execution, the plaintiff muſt ſue a new ſcire facias, but may have it without motion, for the judgment was revived before. 2 Salk. 598.

But tho' the general rule be, that the plaintiff cannot take out execution after the year and day without a ſcire facias, yet the rule muſt be underſtood with theſe reſtrictions.

That if the defendant brings a writ of error, and thereby hinders the plaintiff from taking his execution within the year, and the plaintiff in error is nonſuit, or the judgment affirmed, the defendant in error may proceed to execution after the year without a ſcire facias, becauſe the writ of error was a ſuperſedeas to the execution, and the plaintiff muſt acquieſce till he hears the judgment above; beſides, while the cauſe is depending on the writ of error, the cauſe is ſtill ſub judice, whether the plaintiff ſhall recover, or not, and the year for the execution ought to be accounted from the final judgment given. Cro. Jac. 364. Yelv. 7. 1 Rol. Abr. 899. 4 Leon. 197. 5 Co. 88. Carth. 236-7. 6 Mod. 288.

So if the plaintiff hath a judgment, with ſtay of execution for a year, he may, after the year, take out his execution without the ſcire facias, becauſe the delay is by conſent of parties, and in favour of the defendant; and the indulgence of the plaintiff ſhall not turn to his prejudice, nor ought the defendant to be allowed any advantage of it, when it appears to be done for his advantage, and at his inſtance. 6 Mod. 288. 1 Rol. Rep. 104.

Alſo if the plaintiff enters, on the roll of the judgment, an award of an elegit of the ſame term with the judgment, and continues it down with vicecomes non miſit breve, he may take out that writ at any time afterwards, without ſuing out any ſcire facias; tho' upon debate of this matter, the judges at firſt inclined that the elegit ſhould be actually taken; otherwiſe ſuch an award as this might be entred at any time, paying only for the continuances, and the party thereby tricked out of the benefit which the law gives him of pleading any matter poſt factum upon the ſcire facias; but upon examination of ſeveral of the ancient practiſing clerks then in court, this appeared to have been the conſtant practice amongſt them for many years; and therefore the court conſidering the inconveniency of opening a gap to deſtroy ſo many executions for this irregularity, and becauſe the practice had prevailed ſo long, that it was become the law of the court, ordered that the execution ſhould ſtand good. Carth. 283-4. 1 Rol. Rep. 104. 2 Show. 235. Comb. 346.

But if the defendant had been tied up by an injunction out of Chancery for a year, yet he cannot take out execution without a ſcire facias, becauſe the courts of law do not take notice of Chancery injunctions, as they do of writs of error; beſides, in that caſe it had been no breach of the injunction to have taken out the execution within the year, and continued it down by vic' non miſit breve, which cannot be done in the caſe of a writ of error, becauſe that removes the record out of the court where the judgment was; and therefore there can be no proceedings below till it be affirmed, and returned to the inferior courts. 1 Salk. 322. 6 Mod. 288. S. C.

6. Of the ſheriff's duty, and authority in doing execution; and the remedy againſt him for neglect of duty.

The ſheriff or officer, who has proper authority to begin an execution, is compellable to proceed in the ſame. 1 Salk. 323.

Hence it hath been adjudged, that if a ſherlff on a fieri facias ſeizes goods in his hands to the value of the debt, and pays part of the debt, and is diſcharged, without having ſold the reſt of the goods, or having returned his writ, that notwithſtanding ſuch diſcharge, and without any writ of venditioni exponas, he may ſell the goods remaining in his hands, and ſuch ſale and execution ſhall be good by force of the writ of fieri facias. Cro. Jac. 73. Mo. 757. S. C.

If a fieri facias be delivered to an under-ſheriff, 9th of November 34 Eliz. on which he levies part of the debt; and on the ſame day, a writ of diſcharge is delivered to him, dated 6th of November; yet if it be not proved, that he had notice of this diſcharge prior to his commencing the execution, he ſtill remains under-ſheriff, and liable to the plaintiff's action for the money levied by him. Cro. Eliz. 440.

As the authority of the old ſheriff continues, ſo the law has provided a remedy to oblige him to proceed in the execution, which is by diſtringas nuper vicecomitem, which is, either to diſtrain the old ſheriff to ſell and bring bring in the money, or to ſell and deliver the money to the new ſheriff to bring into court. 1 Salk. 323.

It is laid down as a general rule in our books, that the ſheriff in executing any judicial writ, cannot break open the door of a dwelling-houſe; this privilege which the law allows to a man's habitation, ariſes from the great regard the law has to every man's ſafety and quiet, and therefore protects them from the inconveniencies which muſt neceſſarily attend an unlimited power in the ſheriff and his officers in this reſpect; and hence it is, that every man's houſe is called his caſtle. 5 Co. 91, &c. 3. Inſt. 162. Moor. 668. Yelv. 28. Cro. Eliz. 908. Dalt. Sher. 350.

But yet in favour of executions, which are the life of the law, and eſpecially in caſes of great neceſſity, or where the ſafety of the King and Commonwealth are concerned, this general caſe hath the following exceptions:

That whenever the proceſs is at the ſuit of the King, the ſheriff or his officer may after requeſt to have the door opened, and refuſal, break and enter the houſe to do execution, either on the party's goods, or take his body, as the caſe ſhall be. 5 Co. 91. b.

2. So in a writ of ſeiſin or habere facias poſſeſſionem in ejectment, the ſheriff may juſtify breaking open the door if he be denied entrance by the tenant; for the end of the writ being to give the party full and actual poſſeſſion, conſequently the ſheriff muſt have all power neceſſary for this end; beſides, in this caſe the law does not, after the judgment, look upon the houſe as belonging to the tenant, but to him who has recovered. 5 Co. 91.

3. Alſo this privilege of a man's houſe relates only to ſuch execution as affects himſelf; and therefore if a fieri facias be directed to the ſheriff to levy the goods of A. and it happen that A.'s goods are in the houſe of B. if after requeſt made by the ſheriff to B. to deliver theſe goods, he refuſes, the ſheriff may well juſtify the breaking and entring his houſe. 5 Co. 93. a. 1 Sid. 186.

4. Alſo this privilege extends to a man's dwelling-houſe, or out-houſe adjoining thereto, and therefore it hath been adjudged, that the ſheriff, on a fieri facias, may break open the door of a barn, ſtanding at a diſtance from the dwelling houſe, witout requeſting the owner to open the door, in the ſame manner as he may enter a cloſe, &c. 1 Sid. 186. 1 Keb. 698. S. C.

5. So on a fieri facias, when the ſheriff or his officers are once in the houſe, they may break open any chamber-door or trunks for the compleating the execution. 2 Show. 87.

6. So if the ſheriff's bailiffs enter the houſe, the door being open, and the owner locks them in, the ſheriff may juſtify breaking open the door, for the inlarging and ſetting at liberty the bailiffs; for if in this caſe he were obliged to ſtay till he could procure a homine replegiando, it might be highly inconvenient; alſo it ſeems, that in this caſe, the locking in the bailiffs is ſuch a diſturbance to the execution, that the court will grant an attachment for it. Palm. 52. Cro. Jac. p. 555. S. C. 2 Rol. Rep. 132. S. C.

7. That if the ſheriff in executing a writ, breaks open door, where he has no authority for ſo doing by law, yet the execution is good, and the party has no other remedy but an action of treſpaſs againſt the ſheriff. 5 Co. 93. a.

If the ſheriff refuſes to execute any judicial writ; this is a contempt to the court, for which an attachment will be granted. 1 Salk. 323.

So if he executes the writ, and makes a falſe return, the party injured may have an action on the caſe againſt him. 1 Salk. 323.

If a fieri facias be directed to the ſheriff, and he returns that he levied goods to ſuch a value, he muſt anſwer goods to that value, and in ſuch caſe, if he returns, that they remain in his hands for want of buyers a venditioni exponas ſhall be awarded; upon which, if he refuſes to ſell the goods, a diſtringas iſſues to the coroner. Fareſt. 118. 6 Mod. 299. 1 Salk. 323,

But if to a fieri facias the ſheriff returns, that he ſeiſed goods to ſuch a value, and that they were reſcued out of his hands; in this caſe he makes himſelf liable to an action of debt, or a ſcire facias may be brought againſt him by the plaintiff, for the ſheriff having levied the goods, he can have no remedy againſt the defendant; alſo in this caſe there can be no venditioni exponas to the ſheriff, becauſe by his own ſhewing it appears, that he has got the goods in his hands. See Cro. Jac. 514. Godb. 276. 2 Rol. Rep. 57. Bridg. 53. Cro. Jac. 556. Cro. Car. 53. 2 Saund. 343.

7. Of obſtructing an execution, and the party's remedy when the execution is irregular.

There were anciently caſtles, fortreſſes and liberties, where they reſiſted the ſheriff in executing the King's writs, which creating great inconvenience, the ſtatute of Weſtm. 2. cap. 39. (13 Ed. 1.) hindered the ſheriff from returning reſcuers to the King's writ of execution. 2 Bac. Abr. 368. The words of which ſtatute are: "The ſheriffs make alſo many times falſe anſwers, returning that they could not execute the King's precept for the reſiſtance of ſome great man; wherefore let the ſheriff beware from henceforth, for ſuch manner of anſwers redound much to the diſhonour of the King. And as ſoon as his bailiffs do teſtify that they found ſuch reſiſtance, forthwith all things ſet apart (taking with him the power of the ſhire) he ſhall go in proper perſon to do execution; and if he find his under bailiffs falſe, he ſhall puniſh them by impriſonment, ſo that other by their example may be reformed; and if he do find them true, he ſhall puniſh the reſiſters by impriſonment, from whence they ſhall not be delivered without the King's ſpecial commandment. And if it percaſe the ſheriff when he cometh do find reſiſtance, he ſhall certify to the court the names of the reſiſters, aiders, conſenters, commanders, and favourers, and by a writ judicial they ſhall be attached by their bodies to appear at the King's court; and if they be convict of ſuch reſiſtance they ſhall be puniſhed at the King's pleaſure. Neither ſhall any officer of the King's meddle in aſſigning the puniſhment, for our Lord the King hath reſerved it ſpecially to himſelf, becauſe that reſiſters have been reputed diſturbers of his peace, and of his realm."

The judges conſtrued theſe words only to executions, and not to writs on meſne proceſs, that the ſheriff was not obliged to carry the poſſe comitatus where the man was bailable, for they did not preſume, that in ſuch caſes the King's writ would be diſobeyed. 2 Bac. Abr. 368.

The original of commitment for contempts ſeems to be derived from this ſtatute; for ſince the ſheriff was to commit thoſe who reſiſted the proceſs, the judges who awarded ſuch proceſs muſt have the ſame authority to vindicate it; hence, if any one offers any contempt to his proceſs, either by word or deed, he is ſubject to impriſonment during pleaſure, viz. from whence they ſhall not be delivered without the King's ſpecial commandment; ſo that, notwithſtanding the ſtatute of Magna Charta, that none to be priſoned without judgment of their peers, or by the law of the land, this is one part of the law of the land to commit for contempts, and confirmed by this ſtatute. 2 Bac. Abr. 368.

But though the court will on affidavit grant an attachment againſt the party, whether he be the defendant or a ſtranger, who diſturbs the execution; yet where the ſheriff delivered poſſeſſion by virtue of an habere facias poſſeſſionem in the morning, and ſome hours after the ſheriff was gone, and the party in poſſeſſionem, the defendant came and turned him out again; and the court held, that if the plaintiff had been turned out immediately after he was put into poſſeſſion, or while the ſheriff and his officers were there, an attachment might have been granted, for this had been a diſturbance to the execution, and a contempt, but being ſeveral hours after, they doubted; but it was agreed in this caſe, that the court might grant a new habere facias poſſeſſionem, if the firſt was not returned. 1 Salk. 321. 6 Mod. 17. S. C.

Alſo

Alſo though the court will grant an attachment, yet if A. be taken on a capias ad ſatisfaciendum at the ſuit of B. and reſcued by J. S. B. may bring an action on the caſe againſt J. S. for the reſcue, or the ſheriff may have ſuch action againſt the reſcuer, becauſe he is liable to B. but his being liable does not prevent B. from bringing his action againſt which of them he pleaſes. Cro. Car. 109.

If upon an elegit the ſheriff delivers all the party's lands, or a third part, or more than a moiety, the extent is void; but in this caſe it can only be made void by writ of error, or audita querela. 1 Sid. 91. Carth. 453.

But if upon an elegit the ſheriff delivereth a moiety of an houſe without metes and bounds, ſuch return is ill, and ſhall be quaſhed for incertainty, on motion, without a writ of error, or audita querela, Carth. 453.

So if a fieri facias be not warranted by the judgment upon which it is awarded, though the ſheriff ſhall be excuſed, yet it is merely void as to the party. 1 Vent. 259.

Hence it has been held, that in treſpaſs againſt the ſheriff, it is enough for his juſtification, to ſhew a writ; ſo it is in the caſe of his bailiff or officer, with this difference, that the ſheriff muſt ſhew the writ was returned, if returnable; but the bailiff need not, becauſe it is not in his power; but in treſpaſs againſt the plaintiff himſelf or a mere ſtranger, they cannot juſtify themſelves, unleſs they ſhew there was a judgment as well as an execution, for the judgment may be reverſed, and it ought to be at their peril, if they take out execution afterwards; but it ſeems, that if one comes in aid of the officer, at his requeſt, he may juſtify as the officer may do, but ſuch requeſt or command of the officer is traverſable. 1 Salk. 409.

So where a man had judgment, and execution executed, and afterwards the judgment was vacated for being unduly obtained, and reſtitution awarded, and afterwards the defendant brought treſpaſs againſt the plaintiff in the firſt action for the taking of the goods; and it was adjudged, that it well lay againſt the party, for by the vacating of the judgment it is as if it never had been, and is not like a judgment reverſed by error; but in this caſe it was held, that no action would lie againſt the ſheriff, who had the King's writ to warrant what he did. 1 Lev. 95, Raym. 73, S. C.

If upon his judgment the plaintiff takes out a fieri facias, and thereupon the ſheriff ſells a term for years to a ſtranger, and the judgment is afterwards reverſed, the defendant ſhall only be reſtored to the money for which the term was ſold, and not to the term itſelf; for by the writ the ſheriff had authority to ſell; and if the ſale may be avoided afterwards, few would be willing to purchaſe under executions; which would render writs of execution of no effect. 1 Rol. Abr. 778. 8 Co. 19, 143. Cro. Eliz. 278. Moor. 273. 1 Leon. 96. 3 Leon. 189. Cro. Jac. 246. Godb. 27.

But if the plaintiff takes out an elegit on his judgment, and the ſheriff, upon this writ, delivers a leaſe for years, of the defendent's, to the value of 50 l. to the plaintiff per rationabile pretium & extentum, to have as his own term, in full ſatisfaction of 50 l. part of the ſum recovered, and after the defendant reverſes the judgment, he ſhall be reſtored to the ſame term, and not to the value; for though the ſheriff might have ſold the term on this writ, yet here is no ſale to a ſtranger, but a delivery of the term to the party that recovered by way of extent, without any ſale, and therefore the owner ſhall be reſtored. 1 Rol. Abr. 778. Cro. Jac. 246. Yelv. 179. 1. Brownl. 107, 108.

And for this reaſon, if perſonal goods were on this writ delivered to the party per rationabile pretium & extentum, upon the reverſal of the judgment he ſhall be reſtored to the goods themſelves. 1 Rol. Abr. 778.

So if the goods of an outlawed man are ſold by the ſheriff on a capias utlagatum, and after the outlawry is reverſed by writ of error, he ſhall be reſtored to the goods themſelves, becauſe the ſheriff was not compellable to ſell theſe goods, but only to keep them to the uſe of the King. 5 Co. 90. 1 Rol. Abr. 778. Cro. Eliz. 278.

So upon a fieri facias on a judgment againſt B. the ſheriff takes the goods of B. into his hands; but before any ſale of them, B. delivers to the ſheriff a ſuperſedeas on a writ of error, B. ſhall have the goods again, for by this ſeizure no property is altered. 2 Rol. Abr. 491. See 1 Rol. Abr. 492. Cro. Eliz. 597. Moor 542. Style 159. 1 Vent. 255. Comb. 389.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 10 & 11 Vin. Abr. and 2 Bac. Abr. tit. Execution.

Execution for the King's debt, or prerogative execution, Is always preferred before any other executions. See Prerogative.

Execution of criminals, Muſt be according to the judgment, and the King cannot alter a judgment from hanging to beheading, becauſe no execution can be warranted, unleſs it be purſuant to the judgment. 3 Inſt. 52, 211.

The following particulars are obſerved by Mr. ſerjeant Hawkins with reſpect to the execution of criminals; 1ſt, That the court of King's Bench hath not only power to award execution againſt perſons attainted there, but alſo againſt perſons attainted in parliament, or any other court; the record of their attainders or tranſcript thereof being firſt removed into the court of King's Bench, and themſelves brought thither by habeas corpus. 2dly, That execution ought not to be awarded into a different county from that wherein the party was tried and convicted, except only where a record of attainder is removed into the court of King's Bench, which may award the execution in the ſame county wherein it ſits. 3dly, That where a perſon attainted hath been at large after his attainder, and afterwards is brought into court, and demanded why execution ſhould not be awarded againſt him, if he deny that he is the ſame perſon, it ſhall be immediately tried by a jury returned for that purpoſe. 4thly, That the court may command execution to be done without any writ. 5thly, That it is holden by Coke and Hale, that no execution can be warranted unleſs it be purſuant to the judgment, and therefore that it cannot be altered by the King, as from hanging to beheading. Yet ſince there is a great number of precedents, where men condemned to be hanged for felony, and women condemned to be burnt for treaſon, have been beheaded by force of a ſpecial warrant from the King for that purpoſe; and ſince Bracton and Staunforde, and the year book of 35 H. 6. ſpeaking of this matter, are not ſo expreſs as Coke and Hale, but ſay only in general, that the ſheriff cannot lawfully behead a man who is only condemned to be hanged, by which they perhaps intend no more than that he cannot lawfully do it of his own authority; I ſhall leave this matter to be farther conſidered. However it is agreed, that where beheading is part of the judgment, as in caſe of high treaſon, the King may pardon all the reſt, and conſequently in ſuch caſe the judgment will be well executed by beheading only. 6thly, That it ſeems agreed at this day, that an execution cannot be lawfully executed by any but the proper officer. 7thly, That it is clear, that if a man condemned to be hanged, come to life after he be hanged, he ought to be hanged again; for the judgment was not executed till he was dead. 8thly, That it ſeems agreed, that every court which has power to award an execution, has alſo of common right a diſcretionary power of granting a reprieve; as where a perſon pleads a pardon defective in point of form, but ſufficiently ſhewing the King's intention of mercy; or where it is doubtful whether the offence be not included in a general ſtatute pardon; or whether, as it is laid in the indictment, it amounts to ſo high a crime as that with which the priſoner was charged. And it ſeems agreed at this day, that judges continue to have this power after their commiſſion is determined. 9thly, That it is clear, that if a woman quick with child be condemned either for treaſon or felony, ſhe may allege her being with child in order to get the execution reſpited, and thereupon the ſheriff or marſhal ſhall be commanded to take her into a private room, and to impanel a jury of matrons to try and examine whether ſhe be quick with child or not; and if they find her quick with child, the execution ſhall be reſpited till her delivery. But it is agreed, that a woman cannot demand ſuch reſpite of execution by reaſon of her being quick with child more than once; and that ſhe can neither ſave herſelf by this means from pleading upon her arraignment, nor from having judgment pronounced againſt her upon her conviction. Alſo it is ſaid, both by Staundford and Coke, that a woman can have no advantage from being found with child, unleſs ſhe be alſo found quick with child. 2 Hawk. P. C. 462, 463, 464.

to

By ſtatute 25 Geo. 2. c. 37. Murderers are to be executed the next day but one after ſentence, and their bodies to be delivered to the hall of the ſurgeons company. See Murder.

Execution of ſtatutes. The court of Star-Chamber erected in the reign of King Henry VII. was ſaid to be for the execution of ſtatutes, &c. Stat. 3 Hen. 7. c. 1.

Executione faciendâ, Is a writ commanding execution of a judgment; the divers uſes whereof ſee in the Table of the Regiſter Judicial.

Executione faciendâ in withernamium, Is a writ that lies for taking his cattle, who formerly had conveyed out of the county the cattle of another: So that the bailiff, having authority from the ſheriff to replevy the cattle ſo conveyed away, could not execute his charge. Reg. of Writs, fo. 82. b.

Executione judicii. Writ de executione judicii lieth where judgment is given in the court of any lord upon a writ of right patent, or upon a plea of debt or treſpaſs in the ſame court, or in the hundred, county, court-baron, or in any court of record; and if the ſheriff or the bailiff will not do execution of the judgment, then the party ſhall have this writ directed unto the ſheriff or the bailiff, in which court the execution ought to be; and if they will not do execution, he ſhall have an alias and pluries, with this clauſe in the writ of pluries, or ſignify to us the cauſe why, &c. And if they do not execution upon this writ, or return not ſome reaſonable cauſe wherefore they delay the execution, the party ſhall have an attachment againſt him who ought to have done the execution returnable into the King's Bench, or into the Common Pleas. And if the plea be in the lord's court baron, then the writ of execution ſhall be directed unto the bailiff of the court. But if the plea and the judgment be given in the ſheriff's court, as in the county court, then the writ ſhall be directed unto the ſheriff himſelf to do execution, and the alias and pluries ſhall be to the ſame ſheriff; and if they will not do execution of the judgment, then an attachment againſt the ſheriff ſhall be directed unto the coroners, returnable as aboveſaid, to anſwer, &c. And ſo if the writ de executione judicii be directed to the bailiffs of any court of any lord, or unto the bailiffs of a hundred, to do execution, and at the alias and pluries they will do nothing, the attachment ſhall be to the ſheriffs againſt the bailiffs, returnable as aforeſaid, to anſwer, &c. And if the judgment be in a court of record, then it ſeemeth that the writ de executione judicii ſhall be directed unto the juſtices of the ſame court where the judgment was given, to do execution, and not unto the officer of the court. For if the officer of the court will not execute the writs directed unto him, nor return them as he ought, the judges of the courts may amerce him. New Nat. Brev. 43, 44.

Executor, (Executor,) Is he that is appointed by any man in his laſt will and teſtament, to have the diſpoſing of all his ſubſtance, according to the contents of the ſaid will. This executor is either particular or univerſal; particular, as if this or that thing only be committed to his charge; univerſal, if all. And this is in the place of him whom the Civilians call Hæredem deſignatum, or Teſtamentarium; and the law accounteth him one perſon with the party whoſe executor he is, as having all the advantage of action againſt men that he had, ſo likewiſe being ſubject to every man's action as himſelf was. This executor had his beginning in the Civil law, by the conſtitutions of the Emperors, who firſt permitted thoſe that thought good by their wills to beſtow any thing upon godly and charitable uſes, to appoint whom they pleaſe to ſee the ſame performed: And if they appoint none, then they ordained, that the biſhop of the place ſhould have authority of courſe to effect it. Lib. 28. cap. de Epiſcopis & Clericis. And hence probably grew the uſe of univerſal executors, and alſo brought the adminiſtration of their goods, that die inteſtate, unto the biſhop. Cowell.

According to the Civil and Canon law, there are three perſons who are called executors, and who have to do with the execution of a perſon's goods after his deceaſe; the firſt is the ordinary, or biſhop of the dioceſe, and is called Executor a lege conſtitutus. 2dly, Executor a teſtatore conſtitutus, being appointed by the laſt teſtament of the party. 3dly, Executor ab epiſcopo conſtitutus, who in the Civil law is called Executor dativus, and in our law, an adminiſtrator. Godolph. 75. Swinb. 360.

1. Who may be executors; and of appointing the King, aliens, corporations, creditors, criminals, debtors, femes covert, ideots and lunaticks, infants, and poor perſons, executors.

2. Of the different kinds of executors and adminiſtrators, viz. an executor de ſon tort, adminiſtrator during the minority of an infant executor, and adminiſtrator de bonis non.

3. Of the manner of appointing an executor, and of appointing co-executors; where they muſt anſwer for each other's acts, and where they muſt jointly ſue and be ſued.

4. Of the probate of wills, and juriſdiction for that purpoſe; form of proving a will, and of entring a caveat.

5. What ſhall be deemed a devaſtavit in executors; order of paying debts and legacies; and in what caſes an executor may make himſelf liable de bonis propriis.

6. Of actions and remedies againſt executors.

1. Who may be executors; and of appointing the King, aliens, corporations, creditors, criminals, debtors, femes covert, ideots and lunaticks, infants, and poor perſons, executors.

It ſeems to be admitted, that the King may be appointed executor; but as he is preſumed to be ſo far engaged and taken up with the publick and arduous affairs of the kingdom, as not to have leiſure to attend to the private concerns of any particular perſon, ſo the law allows him to nominate ſuch perſons as he ſhall think proper, to take upon them the execution of the truſt, againſt whom all perſons may bring their actions; alſo the King may appoint others to take the accounts of ſuch executors. 4 Inſt. 335. Godol. 76.

Accordingly we find, that Katherine Queen Dowager of England, mother of Henry 6. who died June 2, 1436, made her will, and thereof appointed Henry 6. ſole executor, and that the King appointed Robert Rolleſton keeper of the wardrobe, John Merſton and Richard Alreed to execute the ſaid will, under the inſpection of the cardinal, the duke of Glouceſter and the biſhop of Lincoln, or any two of them, to whom ſuch executors ſhould account. 4 Inſt. 335.

It ſeems agreed, that by our law, an alien, or one born out of the allegiance of our King, may be an executor or adminiſtrator; alſo it hath been adjudged, that ſuch a one ſhall have adminiſtration of leaſes as well as perſonal things, becauſe he hath them in auter droit, and not to his own uſe. Off. of Ex. 17.

But it has been long doubted, whether an alien enemy ſhould maintain an action as executor, for on the one hand it is ſaid, that by the policy of the law, alien enemies ſhall not be admitted to actions to recover effects, which may be carried out of the kingdom to weaken ourſelves and enrich the enemy, and therefore publick utility muſt be preferred to private convenience; but on the other hand it is ſaid, that thoſe effects of the teſtator are not forfeited to the King by way of repriſal, becauſe they are not the alien enemy's, for he is to recover them for others; and if he allows ſuch alien enemies to poſſeſs the effects as well as an alien friend, he muſt allow them power to recover, ſince in that there is no difference, and by conſequence he muſt not be diſabled to ſue for them; if it were otherwiſe, it would be a prejudice to the King's ſubjects, who could not recover their debts from the alien executor, by his not being able to get in the aſſets of the teſtator. Cro. Eliz. 683. Moor 431. Carter 49, 191. Skin. 370.

It ſeems that aggregate corporations conſiſting of divers perſons cannot be executors: 1ſt, Becauſe they cannot be feoffees in truſt for the uſe of others. 2dly, Becauſe they are a body framed for a ſpecial purpoſe. 3dly, Becauſe they cannot come to prove a will, or at leaſt to take an oath, as others do. Wentw. Off. Ex. 17.

A debtor may make his creditor executor, and in ſuch caſe the executor may retain ſo much of the teſtator's aſſets, as will ſatisfy himſelf; but this muſt be underſtood where his debt is in an equal degree with other creditors; for if he be a ſimple contract creditor, he cannot retain againſt a creditor by ſpecialty, or any other of a ſuperior nature. Plow. 185. Hutt. 128. Offic. of Ex. 31. Godolph. 115. 1 Salk. 304. Godb. 216. Hob. 10. Cro. Car. 372. 1 Jon. 345.

So if adminiſtration be granted to a creditor, he may retain ſo much of the inteſtate's aſſets, as will ſatisfy himſelf; but this alſo muſt be underſtood as to creditors in equal degree. Godol. 115. Off. of Ex'.

Alſo ſuch adminiſtrator who is a creditor by ſpecialty, may bring an action againſt one who poſſeſſes himſelf of the inteſtate's goods as executor de ſon tort, with an averment, that none of the goods came to his hands to ſatisfy the debt; for tho' he may bring trover or treſpaſs againſt him as adminiſtrator, yet as againſt a ſtranger he is not deprived of this other remedy; for the reaſon why the debtor's making the creditor executor, or his taking out adminiſtration, is ſaid to ſuſpend or extinguiſh the action is on ſuppoſition of aſſets. 1 Rol. Abr. 940. Style 384.

So if there are no aſſets, he may ſue the heir of the obligor, where the heir is bound. 1 Salk. 304. 1 Rol. Abr. 940.

So if A. and B. be jointly and ſeverally bound to C. and A. makes C. his executor (or as the caſe was) makes D. his executor, who makes C. his executor; in this caſe, if C. has not received ſatisfaction of the aſſets of A. he may ſue B. for, being jointly and ſeverally bound, he may ſue which of them he pleaſes. 2 Lev. 73.

There are few or none, who, by our law, are diſabled, on account of their crimes, from being executors; and therefore it hath been always holden, that perſons attainted or outlawed may ſue as executors or adminiſtrators, becauſe they ſue in auter droit, and for the benefit of the party deceaſed. Co. Lit. 128. Cro. Car. 8, 9. 1 Rol. Abr. 914. 1 Vern. 184.

Alſo a villain may be an executor, and the lord cannot ſeize thoſe goods which he has to the uſe of the deceaſed; nay, where a villain was made executor, he might ſue his own lord for a debt due to the teſtator. 1 Rol. Abr. 915.

But an excommunicated perſon cannot be an executor or adminiſtrator, for by the excommunication he is excluded from the body of the church, and is incapable to lay out the goods of the deceaſed to pious uſes. Co. Lit. 134. Swinb. 349. Godolph. 85.

It is laid down as a general rule, that if a creditor makes his debtor executor, it is an extinguiſhment of the debt, for he cannot ſue himſelf. 1 Rol. Abr. 920-1. 5 Co. 30. Offic. of Ex. 30. Godolph. 113.

But if a perſon dies inteſtate, and the ordinary commits adminiſtration to a debtor, the debt is not thereby extinguiſhed, for he comes into the adminiſtration by the act of law, whereas the other is the act of the party. 5 Co. 136. 1 Salk. 306. Offic. of Ex. 31.

If the debtee makes the debtor and another co-executors, and one of them makes his executor, and dies, the ſurviving co-executor ſhall not have an action to recover the debt againſt the executor of the debtor, becauſe the debt was once extinct; for it could not be brought but in the names of both the co-executors, notwithſtanding one alone adminiſtred; and it could not be brought in both their names, becauſe the debtor could not ſue himſelf. Plow. 264. 1 Leon. 320.

So where A. being bound in an obligation to B. B. makes A. his executor, who adminiſters ſeveral of the goods, but dies before probate of the will, and adminiſtration to B. being granted to J. S. he brought his action againſt the heir of A. but it was held, that the debt was releaſed in this caſe, though A. never proved the will; for by adminiſtring as executor, he was complete executor for this and ſeveral other purpoſes. 1 Salk. 299.

But all theſe caſes of extinguiſhments by making debtors executors, muſt be underſtood where there are aſſets ſufficient to diſcharge and ſatisfy the teſtator's debts and legacies. Cro. Car. 373. Offic. of Ex. 30.

Therefore, where a debtor and another were made executors by the debtee, who by his will appointed, that out of that debt due to him they ſhould pay a certain legacy, it was adjudged, that as to the legatee, this debt was not extinct, but that it remained aſſets to pay legacies as well as debts; and this being a legacy, and properly recoverable in the ſpiritual court, the court of B. R. refuſed to grant a prohibition to a ſuit for it there, and the rather in this caſe, becauſe it was expreſsly deviſed to be paid out of the debt. Yevl. 160.

So in a caſe, where the teſtator deviſed ſeveral legacies, and amongſt the reſt gave conſiderable legacies to his two executors, to whom alſo he deviſed the ſurplus of his eſtate; and there being a debt of 3000*l.* due by bond to the teſtator from one of the executors, he inſiſted, that there being ſufficient aſſets to ſatisfy all the legacies, that this 3000*l.* ſhould not be brought into the ſurplus of the teſtator's eſtate, but that the ſame was extinguiſhed for his benefit by his being made co-executor; and that though the ſurplus of the eſtate was deviſed to them both, yet that this debt could not be taken to be part of that ſurplus being before extinguiſhed; but it was decreed, that the 3000*l.* ſhould be taken as part of the ſurplus of the teſtator's perſonal eſtate, and both executors equally intitled to the ſame; for though in ſome books the teſtator's making a debtor executor is ſaid to be an extinguiſhment of the debt, becauſe an executor cannot ſue himſelf; yet it was never doubted, but that ſuch a debt remained aſſets to ſatisfy creditors, and was alſo reſolved to be aſſets to ſatisfy legacies; and this deviſe of the ſurplus, and reſidue of the teſtator's eſtate being as much a legacy, and as well recoverable in the ſpiritual court, as any particular legacy, it was but fitting, that ſince the courts of equity claim now a concurrent juriſdiction with the eccleſiaſtical courts in matters of this nature, that there ſhould be the ſame meaſure of juſtice in both theſe courts. 2 Bac. Abr. 380. Selwin and Brown, decreed and affirmed in the houſe of Lords, March 21, 1734.

If the debtee makes the executrix of the debtor his executrix, and dies, this is no extinguiſhment of the debt, becauſe the executrix is intitled to the ſame, not in her own right, but in right of another. Cro. Car. 372. 1 Jon. 345.

Under this head of making debtors executors, it may be proper to obſerve, that if a debtor be in execution, and the plaintiff dies, by which the right of adminiſtration deſcends upon the debtor; in this caſe he cannot be diſcharged upon a habeas corpus, becauſe non conſtat de perſona; neither can he give a warrant of attorney to acknowledge ſatisfaction; and therefore it ſeems moſt adviſeable to renounce the adminiſtration, and get it granted to another, and then he may be diſcharged by a letter of attorney from ſuch adminiſtrator. 2 Mod. 315.

If a debtor be mede executor, the debt is totally extinguiſhed, otherwiſe if he be appointed adminiſtrator; for it is no extinguiſhment of the debt, but a ſuſpenſion of the action, and his repreſentative is chargeable at the ſuit of the adminiſtrator de bonis non, &c. of the firſt inteſtate. Atkyns 461.

A feme covert may be appointed executrix, and in the ſpiritual courts ſhe is conſidered as feme ſole, capable of ſuing and being ſued without her huſband; and therefore

therefore it ſeems, that according to their law ſhe may take upon her the probate of the will without the aſſent of the huſband, who hath no right to interpoſe or meddle in the affair. Offic. of Ex. 202. Godolph. 110.

But by our law, huſband and wife are conſidered but as one perſon, and as having but one mind, which is placed in the huſband, as moſt capale to rule and govern the affairs of the family, and therefore the wife can do no act, which may prejudice the huſband without his conſent and concurrence: Hence the huſband muſt be joined in all actions by or againſt his wife; and conſequently a wife cannot, by our law, take upon her the office of executorſhip, without the conſent of her huſband. Keilw. 122. 1 And. 117. Offic. of Exec. 203.

Therefore it ſeems, that if a wife, who is made executrix, is cited in the ſpiritual court to take upon her the executorſhip, and the huſband appears, and refuſes his conſent thereto, if afterward they proceed to compel her, a prohibition will be granted. Offic. of Exec. 203.

Alſo a wife cannot, againſt her conſent, though her huſband is willing, be compelled to take upon her an executorſhip; but if the huſband adminiſters, ſhe will be bound by it during the coverture. Godol. 109, 110.

So if a wife adminiſters, though againſt the conſent of the huſband, and an action is brought againſt them, they are eſtopped to ſay, that the wife was not executrix. Godol. 110.

So if a feme ſole be made executrix, and ſhe marries before ſhe intermeddles with the eſtate, and her huſband adminiſters; this is ſuch an acceptance as will bind her, and ſhe can never afterward refuſe it. Bro. Execut. Godolph. 110.

It is ſaid, that a feme covert executrix may, without the conſent of her huſband, make a will, and appoint an executor as for thoſe things which ſhe hath as executrix, for ſhe has them in auter droit. Off. of Ex. 198-9.

By our law, as well as by the Civil law, ideots and lunaticks are incapable of being executors or adminiſtrators, for theſe diſabilities render them not only incapable of executing the truſt repoſed in them; but alſo by their inſanity and want of underſtanding they are incapable of determining whether they will take upon them the execution of the truſt, or not. Godolph. 86.

Therefore it hath been agreed, that if an executor became non compos, that the ſpiritual court may, on account of this natural diſability, commit adminiſtration to another. 1 Salk. 36.

An infant may be appointed executor, but he cannot adminiſter till he is of the age of ſeventeen, during which time adminiſtration is to be granted to ſome friend of his. Godolph. 103. Off. of Ex. 208.

So a child in ventre ſa mere may be appointed, and if the mother is delivered of two or more children at the birth, they ſhall be all executors. Godolph. 102. Off. of Ex. 213.

As to acts done by an infant in execution of the office of an executor, it ſeems agreed, that regularly all acts done by him in this reſpect, before the age of ſeventeen, are not binding, as if he ſells the teſtator's goods, aſſents to a legacy, receives debts due to the teſtator, &c. Off. of Ex. 213, 214.

But all things, that an infant executor doth after he attains the age of ſeventeen, though before the age of twenty-one, if done according to the office and duty of an executor, will hold good, and ſhall bind him; as paying of debts, ſuing for and recovering debts, ſelling the teſtator's goods, &c. Offic. of Ex. 215, 216. Cro. Car. 490. 1 Jon. 400. Moor 852. 1 And. 177. 5 Co. 27.

But if an infant executor after the age of ſeventeen, but before the age of twenty-one, gives an acquittance or releaſe for a debt or duty owing to the teſtator, ſuch a releaſe, without an actual payment to the infant is void; for if this ſhould be conſtrued good, it would be taking away the privilege which the law allows infants to avoid their acts, when they are apparently to their diſadvantage; and this, which is in prejudice both to the infant and to the eſtate of the teſtator, cannot be ſaid to be done according to his office as an executor. 5 Co. 27. Co. Lit. 172. Off. of Ex. 215. S. C.

If an infant executor ſues or is ſued, he muſt regularly appear by his guardian, and not by attorney, for by law he is diſabled to make an attorney, for if he ſuffers by the neglect or falſe pleading of his attorney, he has no remedy againſt him. 2 Bac. Abr. 378.

It ſeems to be now agreed, that the ſpiritual court cannot refuſe to grant the probate of a will to a perſon appointed executor, on account of his poverty or inſolvency; for, as he is but a truſtee for the deceaſed, and ſuch a perſon, as the teſtator thought proper to appoint for that office, without any previous qualification, the refuſing to admit him executor would be attended with theſe inconveniencies: 1ſt, That though he has a temporal intereſt, yet he cannot ſue for the debts of the teſtator before probate, which may be a conſiderable detriment to the teſtator's eſtate, and conſequently to creditors and legatees. 2dly, That whilſt this affair is in controverſy, there will be neither executor or adminiſtrator againſt whom an action may be brought to recover debts or legacies. 3dly, That if adminiſtration ſhould be granted to another, it would be a good plea at law to an action brought by ſuch a one, that there was a will, and an executor appointed. 1 Salk. 36, 299. Carth. 457. 1 Show. 293.

Therefore, where to a mandamus to the judge of the prerogative court, to grant the probate of a will to a perſon named executor therein, the ordinary returned, that he was an abſconding perſon and inſolvent, and that he refuſed to give caution to pay legacies bequeathed to ſome of the teſtator's infant relations; and a peremptory mandamus was granted; for the ordinary has no authority to interpoſe and demand caution of the executor, when the teſtator himſelf required none. Carth. 457. 1 Salk. 299. S. C.

So where after probate of the will the executor became a bankrupt, and there being a ſuit commenced in the eccleſiaſtical court to revoke the probate, and grant adminiſtration to another, the court of King's Bench granted a prohibition. 1 Show. 293. 1 Salk. 36. S. C.

But as an executor is conſidered but as a bare truſtee in equity; ſo if he be inſolvent, the court of Chancery will oblige him, as they will any other truſtee, to give ſecurity before he enters upon the truſt. Carth. 458. 1 Show. 294.

As where the teſtator deviſed a legacy to J. S. payable at the age of twenty-one years; on a bill ſuggeſting that the executor waſted the eſtate, and praying that he might give ſecurity to pay the legacy when due, it was decreed accordingly. 1 Cham. Ca. 121.

So where the teſtator deviſed a legacy to his child, an infant, payable at the age of twenty-three, and made his wife executrix and reſiduary legatee, and ſhe married a ſecond huſband, and died, and he took out adminiſtration de bonis non, with the will annexed, (his wife being reſiduary legatee) and upon ſuggeſtion of inſolvency, the court decreed him to give ſecurity to pay the legacy when it ſhould become payable. 2 Vern. 249.

2. Of the different kinds of executors and adminiſtrators, viz. an executor de ſon tort, adminiſtrator during the minority of an infant executor; and adminiſtrator de bonis non.

An executor de ſon tort is a perſon, who, without any authority from the deceaſed or the ordinary, does ſuch acts as belong to the office of an executor or adminiſtrator. Swinb. 448. Office of Execut. 171.

There are variety of acts which will make a man executor de ſon tort, ſuch as poſſeſſing and converting the deceaſed's goods to a man's own uſe, paying the deceaſed's debts out of his aſſets, ſuing for and receiving debts due to him; and it is ſaid in general, that all acts of acquiſition, transferring, or poſſeſſing of the deceaſed's eſtate, will make an executor de ſon tort, becauſe theſe are the only inditia, by which creditors can know againſt whom to bring their actions. 5 Co. 33. b. Offic. of Exec. 171.

Godol.

Godol. 171. Dyer 105, 157. Kelw. 59. 1 Rol. Abr. 918. 2 Leon. 224. 3 Leon. 57. Hob. 49.

Alſo a perſon may be executor de ſon tort, by releaſing debts due to the teſtator, by paying legacies with the deceaſed's effects, by entring on a ſpecifick legacy without the executor's aſſent, by paying and diſcharging the deceaſed's mortgages with his money or goods, by delivering to the deceaſed's wife more apparel than are ſuitable for her, or by anſwering as executor to any action brought againſt him, or by pleading any other plea than ne unques executor. Godolph. 91, 92. Off. of Ex. 174.

So if a perſon is appointed by the ordinary ad colligendum bona defunct', tho' his acting in obedience to ſuch authority will not make him an executor de ſon tort; yet if he proceeds further, and ſells bona peritura, &c. he becomes executor de ſon tort; ſo if the ordinary had given him expreſs authority to ſell the goods, yet this would not free him from being executor de ſon tort, for the ordinary himſelf cannot give any ſuch authority. 1 Rol. Abr. 918. Dyer 256.

And by the 43 Eliz. cap. 8. it is enacted, "That every perſon and perſons, that hereafter ſhall obtain, receive, and have any goods or debts of any perſon dying inteſtate, or a releaſe or other diſcharge of any debt or duty that belonged to the inteſtate upon any fraud, or with ſuch valuable conſideration as ſhall amount to the value of the ſame goods or debts, or near thereabouts (except it be in or towards ſatisfaction of ſome juſt and principal debt of the value of the ſame goods or debts to him owing by the inteſtate at the time of his deceaſe,) ſhall be charged and chargeable as executor of his own wrong, and ſo far only as all ſuch goods and debts coming to his hands, or whereof he is releaſed or diſcharged by ſuch adminiſtrator, will ſatisfy, deducting nevertheleſs to and for himſelf allowance of all juſt, due, and principal debts, upon good conſideration, without fraud, owing to him by the inteſtate at the time of his deceaſe, and of all other payments made by him, which lawful executors or adminiſtrators may and ought to have and pay by the laws and ſtatutes of this realm."

But notwithſtanding this, there are ſeveral acts which a ſtranger may do without running the hazard of making himſelf an executor de ſon tort; ſuch as taking care of the deceaſed's funeral, feeding his cattle, taking an inventory of his eſtate and effects, paying or diſcharging his debts or legacies with his own proper money, repairing his houſes in decay, providing neceſſaries for his children, &c. for theſe are to be eſteemed offices of kindneſs and charity, and not ſuch as involve him in an executorſhip. Godol. 91.

Alſo here we muſt obſerve, that regularly there cannot be an executor de ſon tort where there is a rightful executor, or when adminiſtration has been duly granted; for if after probate of the will, or adminiſtration granted, a ſtranger gets poſſeſſion of the deceaſed's goods, he is a treſpaſſer to ſuch executor or adminiſtrator, and may be ſued as ſuch. 5 Co. 33. 1 Chan. Co. 33. 1 Salk. 313.

But if a ſtranger gets poſſeſſion of the deceaſed's goods before probate of the will, he may be charged as executor de ſon tort, becauſe the lawful executor can be no further charged than for the aſſets that came to his hands. 5 Co. 33. b.

So altho' there be a rightful executor who adminiſtred, yet if a ſtranger takes the deceaſed's goods, and claiming to be executor, pays debts or receives debts, or pays legacies, or otherwiſe intermeddles as an executor, he becomes an executor de ſon tort. 5 Co. 34. a.

As to thoſe things on which ſtranger enters and takes poſſeſſion, and which will make him an executor de ſon tort, it is now clearly agreed, that a perſon may be an executor de ſon tort, by entring on a leaſe or term for years, eſpecially if, according to the old books, he enters in right of the deceaſed, and does acts upon the land, which belong to the office of an executor or adminiſtrator; as ordering the deceaſed's cattle to be fed on the land, &c. by meddling with the inteſtate's goods, &c. he is then a diſſeiſor, and not an executor de ſon tort. Moor. 126. Style 407. 2 Mod. 174.

But this matter will be beſt explained by inſerting the two following reſolutions: In an action of debt in the debet and detinet againſt an executor upon a leaſe for years, it was found by ſpecial verdict, that the plaintiff leaſed to Simon Taylor, father of the defendant, for years, rendring 180 l. per annum rent; Simon died inteſtate, and the defendant entred, and uſed the inteſtate's cattle, and fed them upon the land for three months, and that he fed the cattle with the inteſtate's hay upon the ground, and three days before the rent became due, the defendant drove the cattle off the land, and afterwards took out adminiſtration of all but this leaſe; and whether he ſhould be chargeable, or not, for the rent, was the queſtion; and all the court were of opinion, and ſo gave judgment, that he ſhould be charged; and in this caſe theſe points were reſolved: 1ſt, That the action was well enough laid in the debet and detinet. 2dly, That an executor cannot waive a term, but ſhall be charged as far as he hath aſſets, though the rent be greater than the value of the land. 3dly, That adminiſtration may be granted by the ordinary for part, as in this caſe, adminiſtration granted, excepting the leaſe. 4thly, That if an executor de ſon tort takes out adminiſtration, this does not purge the wrong ſo but that a creditor may charge him as executor de ſon tort. 5thly, An executor de ſon tort of a term ſhall be chargeable for the receipt of the profits till there be a rightful executor or adminiſtrator to charge, as in Read's caſe, 5 Co. 34. a. After adminiſtration or probate, the ſtranger that meddles with goods ſhall not be chargeable as executor de ſon tort unleſs he pretending and claiming to be adminiſtrator, pays debts and does other things as executor; now there being no rightful adminiſtrator of this term, his meddling, has charged himſelf as executor de ſon tort thereof. 2 Bac. Abr. 388, 389. cites Paſch. 31 Car. 2. in C. B. between Garth and Taylor, and ſeveral other authorities.

In an action of waſte, the plaintiffs declared that they made a leaſe to J. S. of a barn for thirty-one years, who died inteſtate, and that the defendant entred claiming terminum prædict' as executor, and committed waſte by pulling down the ſaid barn; and on demurrer it was urged for the defendant, 1ſt, That there could not be an executor de ſon tort of a term, for no man can qualify his own wrong, by alledging, when he enters generally, that he took only a particular eſtate, and therefore muſt be a diſſeiſor in fee. 2. Admitting there may be an executor de ſon tort of a term, yet there is no privity between the leſſor and him, to charge him in an action of waſte; for at Common law, and alſo by the ſtatute of Glouceſter, waſte lies only againſt tenant by curteſy, dower, for life or years, neither of which is this tenant; beſides, in this action the place waſted is to be recovered with treble damages, which will be an injury to the rightful adminiſtrator, as alſo to the creditors of the deceaſed. As to the firſt objection the court was of opinion, that there might be an executor de ſon tort of a term; and as to a wrong doer's qualifying his own wrong, the difference in theſe caſes they ſaid was, that where a perſon enters generally upon lands of which there is no term in being, there he cannot qualify his wrong, by ſaying that he claims only a particular eſtate, but muſt be a diſſeiſor in fee; ſo where there is a term in being, as in this caſe, he cannot inlarge his eſtate by claiming a fee, and it is no objection, that the leſſor did not charge as a diſſeiſor, when he had it in his election to charge him either way, which is the diſtinction taken in the books. As to the ſecond objection, it was held, that the want of privity was not material, and that ſince the ſtatute of Glouceſter, which is rather a remedial than a penal law, privity is not requiſite, for waſte will lie againſt the lord of a villain, who enters upon the land leaſed to the villain for life, or years; it will lie alſo againſt an occupant, who is a mere ſtranger, as well as againſt a ſpecial occupant, who comes in by the limitation of the leſſor. So if tenant for life commits treaſon, and the King grants over the eſtate, waſte will lie againſt the grantee; ſo if a reverſion eſcheats, waſte will lie for the lord; in all which caſes there is no privity; and it would be a manifeſt injury to the leſſor in this caſe, if he ſhould be delayed of his action till adminiſtration was taken out; and as to the objection, that this will be an injury to the rightful adminiſtrator, the court held, that the rightful adminiſtrator might falſify the recovery, for a recovery againſt one, that has not right, ſhall not bind him that has, and after adminiſtration granted he is paramount the recovery, viz. from the death of the inteſtate. 3 Lev. 31, 35. Mayor and Commonalty of Norwich v. John. 3 Mod. 90. S. C. adjudged for the plaintiff in C. B. and affirmed in B. R.

be

As to the value of the things taken by a ſtranger, ſo as to make him an executor de ſon tort, it ſeems not to be material; and therefore where an action was brought againſt ſuch a one, who pleaded ne unques executor, and it was found that a bedſtead only came to his poſſeſſion, he was charged with a debt of 60 l. Noy 69. Goulſ. 116.

So where on a like plea it was found, that the defendant took only a bible, he was charged with a debt of a hundred pounds. Noy 69.

So where the jury found, that the defendant detained bonum partem bonorum, and ſold them, tho' it was objected, that bona pars was very uncertain; yet the court held, that he ſhould be chargeable, for he cannot detain any part, and if he does, let it be of ever ſo ſmall value, he is liable as an executor de ſon tort. Cro. Eliz. 472.

But in theſe caſes, where the things are of a very inconſiderable value, it is ſaid that there may be relief in equity, as where on a plea of ne unques executor, the plaintiff proved that a chimney-back came to the defendant's hands, or that the defendant took money for a pot of ale ſold by the teſtator; in theſe caſes the defendant was relieved in equity. 2 Vern. 147, 148.

An executor de ſon tort may do ſeveral acts which a lawful executor may do, and which ſhall be as binding as if done by a rightful executor. Off. of Exec. 179.

Therefore if he pays juſt debts, and an action is brought againſt him by a creditor, he may plead plene adminiſtravit. 5 Co. 30.

But if an action of trover be brought by a rightful executor or adminiſtrator againſt an executor de ſon tort, he cannot plead payment of debts to the value, &c. or that he hath given the goods, &c. in ſatisfaction of the debts, becauſe no man ought to obtrude himſelf upon the office of another; but yet upon the general iſſue pleaded, ſuch payments ſhall be recouped in damages. Carth. 104. Skin. 274. For this would take from the rightful executor the liberty which the law gives him of preferring one creditor to another; nay, of preferring himſelf to other creditors which are equal in degree with him. Off. of Ex. 181.

Alſo it is clearly agreed, and hath been ſolemnly adjudged, that an executor de ſon tort cannot retain any part of the deceaſed's effects, in ſatisfaction of a debt due to himſelf, either againſt a creditor whoſe debt may be inferior to his, or againſt the rightful executor or adminiſtrator; for if it were permitted every man to be his own carver, it would occaſion endleſs ſtrife and confuſion, and would in effect be allowing him to take advantage of his own wrong. 5 Co. 30. Cro. Eliz. 630. 1 Rol. Abr. 922. Moor 527. 1 Brownl. 103. Yelv. 137. 2 Mod. 51. Carth. 104.

If an executor de ſon tort pays 100 l. of the teſtator's in a bag to a creditor, the rightful executor ſhall not have trover and converſion againſt the creditor. Ld. Raym. 661.

An executor de ſon tort makes himſelf liable as far as he hath aſſets, to all the debts due by the deceaſed, as alſo to his legacies, and ſubjects himſelf to the action of the rightful executor or adminiſtrator, and may by his own falſe plea (as if an action is brought againſt him by a creditor, and he pleads ne unques executor, which is found againſt him) ſubject himſelf to the payment of the whole debt, tho' the goods which came to his hands be of ever ſo ſmall value. 5 Co. 30. Hob. 49. 1 Rol. Abr. 919.

And tho' an executor de ſon tort does afterwards take out letters of adminiſtration, yet it is ſtill in the election of a creditor to charge him as executor or adminiſtrator; for having once made himſelf liable to the action as executor de ſon tort, he ſhall never afterwards diſcharge himſelf by a matter ex poſt facto. Godb. 217. 3 Leon. 198. Cro. Eliz. 102, 365, 810.

But this it is ſaid muſt be ſo underſtood, that the defendant cannnot by this plea abate the plaintiff's writ, by alledging himſelf adminiſtrator; but that yet to other purpoſes a ſubſequent adminiſtration purges the firſt wrong, and hath relation to the death of the party; as if one poſſeſſeth himſelf of the goods of an inteſtate, and pays as much money as the goods are worth, and then takes out letters of adminiſtration; in this caſe he may plead plene adminiſtravit, and ſhall retain the goods in ſatisfaction of what he paid. 1 Rol. Abr. 923. Style 337, 1 Sid. 76. Raym. 58. 1 Lev. 254. 2 Vent. 180.

So where an executor de ſon tort enters, and takes poſſeſſion of the goods, and ſells them, and afterwards takes out adminiſtration, yet the ſale is good by relation; but if the inteſtate was intitled to a leaſe for years in reverſion, and ſuch an executor de ſon tort had ſold the term, and afterwards had taken out adminiſtration, and had ſold it again to another, the ſecond vendee muſt have enjoyed it, becauſe there can be no executor de ſon tort of a reverſion; beſides, no entry can be made on a term in reverſion. Moor 126.

If a widow takes poſſeſſion of her huſband's goods, and with the aſſent and direction of her ſon ſells thereof to the value of 400 l. and afterwards the ſon takes out adminiſtration, and diſcharges all the debts of the inteſtate, not only to the value of this 400*l.* but of all the aſſets which the inteſtate died poſſeſs'd of, and an action is brought againſt her by a creditor, ſhe may plead plene adminiſtravit, and ſhall be diſcharged upon this evidence; for the action being brought againſt her after adminiſtration taken out, it is unreaſonable that ſhe ſhould be liable both to the creditor and adminiſtrator, or that creditors ſhould have ſatisfaction for more than the party dies poſſeſſed of. Cro. Car. 88.

If one makes an infant his executor, or dies inteſtate, and the right of adminiſtration devolves upon an infant, in theſe caſes the ordinary is to grant adminiſtration during the minority of the infant, i. e. in the firſt caſe, till he arrives at the age of ſeventeen, and in the latter till he arrives at the age of twenty-one, becauſe an infant cannot, before his full age, give bond to adminiſter faithfully. Godolph. 102. 5 Co. 29. Hob. 250. Yelv. 128.

And as ſuch an adminiſtrator is but in nature of a curator for the infant, and has no intereſt or benefit in the teſtator or inteſtate's eſtate, but in right of the infant, it has been always held diſcretionary in the ordinary to whom to grant it, and therefore it hath been frequently adjudged, that he is not obliged within the ſtatute 21 H. 6. to grant it to the next a-kin either of the deceaſed, or the infant. Hob. 250. 1 Vent. 219. 1 Keb. 549. 3 Mod. 24. 5 Mod. 395.

If A. makes B. his executor, and B. makes C. an infant executor, and letters of adminiſtration are granted to J. S. during the minority of C. J. S. cannot bring an action againſt a debtor of the firſt teſtator by virtue of this adminiſtration. Cro. Eliz. 211.

If an infant, and one of full age, are made executors, he who is of full age may take out adminiſtration durante minoritate of the infant, and may declare as executor or adminiſtrator durante minoritate; and there is no abſurdity in this caſe, that there ſhould be an executor and adminiſtrator to the ſame party. 2 Lev. 239, 240.

It ſeems to be agreed, that though an adminiſtrator durante minoritate hath but a limited and ſpecial power in the eſtate of the deceaſed, yet he may do all acts which are incumbent on an executor, and which are for the advantage of the infant and eſtate of the deceaſed, and therefore he may ſell bona peritura, ſuch as fat cattle, or any thing elſe which may be the worſe for keeping; ſo he may aſſent to a legacy, and may ſue and be ſued. 1 Rol. Abr. 910. Owen 35. 5 Co. 29. Cro. Eliz. 717-8. Godb. 104.

But cannot do any thing to the prejudice of the infant, and therefore he cannot ſell the goods of the deceaſed any farther than they are neceſſary for the payment of the debts, nor can he ſell a term for years during the minority of the infant, for the words of his authority are, We commit adminiſtration of all and ſingular the goods, for the uſe, benefit and advantage of the executor during his minority, and not otherwiſe, nor in any other manner, &c.

If adminiſtration durante minoritate be granted to A. and afterwards repealed and granted to B. who obliges A. to account to him, and afterwards gives him a releaſe; this releaſe will not bind the infant, for this does not appear to be for the benefit or advantage of the infant. 1 Rol. Abr. 910, 911.

If an adminiſtrator durante minori ætate waſtes the aſſets, the more proper way to charge him is by action on the caſe by the infant when he comes of age; alſo by ſome opinions he may bring detinue againſt him for thoſe goods which he ſtill continues in his poſſeſſion, or he may oblige him to account in the ſpiritual court, but cannot bring a writ of account againſt him at law; neither is he chargeable in any action at the ſuit of a creditor, after the infant comes of age; but ſuch creditor may ſue the infant, who has his remedy againſt the adminiſtrator. Latch. 160, 267. Noy 86. 1 And. 34. 1 Mod. 174. 1 Sid. 57. 6 Co. 18. b.

If an admniſtratrix durante minori ætate of her infant daughter executrix, gives ſeveral bonds to the teſtator's creditors for their debts, and takes a ſecond huſband, the huſband may retain as his own, ſo much of the goods of the teſtator as amounted to the value of the debts paid and undertaken by the wife. Hob. 250. But a quære is added, how the caſe would be if the wife died, by which the huſband would be no longer chargeable, and ſee Raym. 484.

So if an action be brought againſt a ſpecial adminiſtrator, and the adminiſtration determines pending the action, he ought to retain aſſets to ſatisfy the debt which is attached on him by the action. Comb. 465.

It has been already obſerved, that there is an eſtabliſhed difference, where adminiſtration is granted to one as guardian to an infant, who hath a right to adminiſter, but is incapable to take it by reaſon of his minority, and where an adminiſtration is granted during the minority of an infant executor; that in the laſt caſe the adminiſtration determines as ſoon as the executor attains the age of ſeventeen years; but in the other caſe it continues till the infant attains his full age. 5 Co. 29. Hob. 251. Cro. Eliz. 602. Cro. Car. 516. Carth. 446. Comb. 475. 1 Salk. 39. 5 Mod. 395.

Alſo it ſeems agreed, that if adminiſtration be granted during the minority of ſeveral infants, that it determines upon the coming of age of any of them; and it is laid down by my Lord Coke, that adminiſtration granted during the minority of an infant executrix ceaſes upon her marriage. 5 Co. 29.

One made his will, and thereby, after ſeveral ſpecifick and pecuniary legacies, gave and deviſed the reſidue and remainder of his perſonal eſtate to his four nieces, and made J. S. his executor, and died; and the executor proved the will, and afterwards died inteſtate, and thereupon adminiſtration de bonis non, &c. cum teſtamento annexo was granted to the plaintiff during the minority of the four nieces; the reſiduary legatee, one of the nieces, married a perſon who was of full age, but ſhe herſelf was an infant, under the age of twenty-one years, though above ſeventeen; and Sir Henry Johnſon, in the year 1606. having given the teſtator a promiſſory note for the payment of 890*l.* and upwards, by his will, in 1719, gave and deviſed all his real and perſonal eſtate to William Guidott, Eſq; for the payment of his debts, legacies, and ſubject thereto, in truſt for ſuch children, as the defendant, the Lord Strafford, ſhould have by his Lady, who was the only daughter and heir of Sir Henry Johnſon, to whom he had been married about ſix or ſeven years; and in the ſame year 1719, Sir Henry Johnſon died, Mr. Guidott, the executor, renounced, and the Lord Strafford's children being infants of tender years, the Lord Strafford took out letters of adminiſtration cum teſtamento annexo, during the minority of his children, to Sir Henry Johnſon; and there being likewiſe a bond given by Sir Henry Johnſon to the ſame perſon, for payment of a further ſum of money, the plaintiff Jones brought an action of debt upon the bond in the court of Exchequer, to which the defendant, the Lord Strafford, pleaded ſolvit ad diem; and alſo by leave of the court pleaded further as a double plea, purſuant to the act for amendment of the law, that he had fully adminiſtred, præterquam ſuch and ſuch judgments to ſeveral perſons, and that he had not aſſets ultra ſufficient to pay and ſatisfy thoſe judgments; upon this plea the plaintiff Jones brings his bill for a diſcovery, and account of aſſets, and the three nieces, who were infants, and unmarried, and likewiſe the married niece, who was alſo an infant, and her huſband, were co-plaintiffs in the bill. To this bill, which was not only for a diſcovery of aſſets of Sir Henry Johnſon, but likewiſe for payment and ſatisfaction both of the bond-debt, and likewiſe for the ſimple contract debt due on the note, the defendant the Lord Strafford put in a demurrer, which was that of the plaintiff's own ſhewing, in their bill it appeared, that one of the nieces was married, and therefore having a huſband capable of acting for her, the adminiſtration granted to the plaintiff Jones, during the minority of the four nieces, was determined; and the queſtion was, whether one of the four nieces being married, and her huſband of full age, whether the adminiſtration granted to the plaintiff Jones, during the minority of the four nieces, determined; tho' ſhe herſelf was ſtill under the age of twenty-one years; it was agreed on all hands, that where an infant is made executor, and adminiſtration is granted during his minority, that ſuch adminiſtration ceaſes ipſo facto, when he attains the age of ſeventeen years; and the opinion of Lord Coke, 5 Co. in Prince's caſe was cited, that ſo it would likewiſe, if ſuch infant executrix, being under ſeventeen, ſhould marry, becauſe her huſband was capable of acting for her; and it was argued for the defendant, that if this were ſo in caſe of an infant executrix, there was the ſame reaſon for it in the preſent caſe, where one of the four nieces, during whoſe minority adminiſtration cum teſtamento annexo was granted, was married; that it was agreed on the other hand, that whenever any one of the four nieces attained the age of twenty-one years, that the adminiſtration ceaſed, and there was the ſame reaſon when one of them married, and had a huſband capable of acting for her; that this was to be reſembled to the caſe of a guardian at Common law, and that if an infant feme married, the guardianſhip was determined, becauſe the huſband was immediately on the marriage become her guardian; and it would be inconſiſtent that ſhe ſhould at the ſame time be under the power of another guardian; ſo here ſhe, from her marriage, became under the care and guardianſhip of her huſband, and he was capable of acting for her, and conſequently the adminiſtration granted during the minority of the four was then determined in the ſame manner as if ſhe had attained her age of twenty-one years; and then the plaintiff Jones, during the minority of the four, had no right to bring this bill, and that the demurrer was good; and for this were cited 5 Co. 29. Prince's caſe, 6 Co. Sir Moyle Finch's caſe, 1 Salk. 39. and that the only caſe againſt it was 2 Jon. 48. and they alſo cited the opinion of Juſtice Twiſden, 1 Vent. 103. But on the other ſide it was argued, that the court was clear of opinion, that the adminiſtration in this caſe did not determine by the marriage of one of the four nieces; they ſaid, that it was by no means clear, even in the caſe of the infant executrix, that if ſhe married under the age of ſeventeen, that the adminiſtration granted during her minority was thereby determined; that this was not the principal point in Prince's caſe, but only the opinion of, or an obiter caſe put by my Lord Coke; and the ſame caſe was reported in Cro. Eliz. 718. and 1 And. and there nothing ſaid of it; that in the office of executors, ſuppoſed to be written by Juſtice Doderidge, he much marvels at this opinion of the Lord Coke; that in the ſpiritual courts where theſe adminiſtrations are granted, they take no notice of the huſband, nor will in ſuch caſe grant probate of the will or adminiſtration, but look upon the wife as to this purpoſe as a feme ſole and that the only power, which the huſband has in theſe caſes, is derived to him from the Common law, by which he is in many caſes enabled to pay and receive, and to act for his wife; but the property of none of the goods or chattels, which the wife has as executrix or adminiſtratrix, is veſted in him; for if ſhe ſurvive, they likewiſe ſurvive to her, and if ſhe dies firſt, there muſt be an adminiſtration de bonis non of her teſtator granted to another; and if this be ſo in the caſe of an infant feme executrix, that the adminiſtration granted during her minority does not ceaſe by her marriage, much leſs in the preſent caſe; for here the adminiſtration is granted to the plaintiff Jones, donec una earum quatuor vigeſimum primum ann' ætatis attigerit; ſo that by the expreſs words of the adminiſtration, 'tis not to determine ſooner; and though it does then determine, when any one of the four attains her age of twenty-one years, that is not the preſent caſe; for here, though ſhe is married, yet ſhe is under twenty-one; and the huſband has nothing to do with it; he, by his marriage, is not become next of kin to the teſtator, nor will the ſpiritual court grant adminiſtration to him; and if the marriage were to be a determination of the firſt adminiſtration, he could not ſucceed to it, for in that caſe the adminiſtration could only be granted to the wife; nay, they would not grant it to the huſband and wife jointly; that the wife, in this caſe was not intitled to the whole perſonal eſtate as an infant executrix is, but only to her own undivided fourth part; and tho' the ſpiritual court may grant adminiſtration as to a particular thing, or in a particular place, yet they never grant adminiſtration as to an undivided third or fourth part of the ſame thing, for then who ſhould bring the action for it, as of a horſe, or other intire thing? The huſband in this caſe would be intitled but to a fourth part of it in right of his wife; and muſt there be ſeveral adminiſtrations granted for one and the ſame thing? This would be abſurd, as well as to actions to be brought by them, as to actions brought againſt them; that if the adminiſtration is determined by the marriage, it will be to no manner of purpoſe to make application to the ſpiritual court, they will not grant it to the huſband, and the wife being ſtill under age, they muſt grant it to ſome other perſon during the minority of her and her three ſiſters, as it was before; and then it would be a vain thing to determine it; that the ſpiritual court by 31 Ed. 3. is to grant adminiſtration to the next of kin, which the huſband is not in this caſe; that the law takes notice of an executor before probate, and he may do ſeveral things before probate; but the power of an adminiſtrator is derived to him only by the letters of adminiſtration; that if the huſband has no right to claim the adminiſtration in this caſe, no more has the wife; for ſhe being ſtill under age, as well as the other nieces, the court will grant adminiſtration to none of them; or if they would, might grant it to any of the others as well as to her; it being in the diſcretion of the ordinary; and if the ſpiritual court ſhould grant adminiſtration to the huſband, that is not de jure, that he is intitled to it, but they may grant it to him as they would to any other perſon. So the court was of opinion, that Jones ſtill continued adminiſtrator during the minority of the four nieces, notwithſtanding the marriage of one of them, and that ſuch adminiſtration did not determine till one of them came to the age of twenty-one years, and ſo over-ruled the demurrer. 2 Bac. Abr. 382, 383, 384. Hill. 1730. Jones v. Ld. Strafford.

wife

Although it ſeems clear, that the authority of an adminiſtrator durante minoritate of an infant executor determines at ſeventeen, and that of an adminiſtrator durante minoritate of an infant who is intitled to adminiſtration, at the age of twenty-one; yet if an action be brought againſt ſuch an adminiſtrator, the plaintiff in his declaration need not aver, that the infant is ſtill under thoſe ages; for this is a matter more properly within the conuſance of the defendant, and if his power be determined, he ought to ſhew it; but he cannot object it, eſpecially after he has taken iſſue on another point, which is an admiſſion that his authority ſtill continues. Hob. 251. Cro. Jac. 590. 1 Rol. Rep. 400. 5 Co. 29. a. 1 Rol. Ab. 910.

But it is ſaid, that if ſuch an adminiſtrator brings an action, he muſt aver, that the infant is ſtill under age, becauſe it is a matter within his conuſance, and the thing that intitles him to the action; but in this caſe alſo it hath been adjudged, that the defendant muſt take advantage of this omiſſion by way of plea or demurrer, and cannot object it after he has joined iſſue with him on another point, which admits the continuance of his authority. Hob. 51. Cro. Jac. 590. Cro. Car. 240.

But if an action of debt be brought againſt an adminiſtrator generally, and the defendant pleads in abatement, that adminiſtration was granted to him during the minority of his wife, he muſt aver, that the wife is ſtill living, for though he was a ſpecial adminiſtrator at firſt, yet if his wife were dead, he might be adminiſtrator generally, as the declaration ſuppoſeth. Comb. 465.

It ſeems to be clearly ſettled, that if an adminiſtrator durante minoritate brings an action and recovers, and then his time determines, that the executor may have ſcire facias upon that judgment. 1 Rol. Abr. 888-9. Cro. Car. 227. 2 Brownl. 83. Godb. 104. 1 Lev. 181. 1 Keb. 750. 1 Vern. 25.

Alſo it hath been held, that if ſuch an adminiſtrator obtains judgment, he may bring a ſcire facias againſt the bail, and they cannot object, that the infant is of full age; for the recognizance being to the adminiſtrator himſelf by name, tho' he be adminiſtrator durante minore ætate tantum, yet he may have a ſcire facias againſt the bail. 2 Lev. 37.

Adminiſtrations de bonis non are granted in the following inſtances: 1. If a perſon dies inteſtate, and adminiſtration is granted to J. S. who dies without having adminiſtred all the inteſtate's goods, in this caſe the ordinary muſt grant adminiſtration of the goods unadminiſtred to another; for the firſt adminiſtrator cannot continue the truſt repoſed in him to his executor or adminiſtrator, becauſe he has no intereſt but what he derives from the act of the ordinary. Swinb. 396. 1 Rol. Abr. 907. Vaugh. 182.

So if an executor dies inteſtate, adminiſtration de bonis non cum teſtamento annexo of the teſtator muſt be granted by the ordinary, for they are not devolved on the adminiſtrator of the inteſtate, becauſe he had them in auter droit, in order to diſcharge the truſt repoſed in him; but if the executor makes his executor, then the truſt is devolved on him; and after payment of the debts and legacies of the firſt teſtator, he has an abſolute property in the goods. 1 Rol. Abr. 907. Vaugh. 182.

If the executor dies before probate, tho' he adminiſtred in part by diſpoſing of the teſtator's goods, &c. yet his executor cannot be executor to the firſt teſtator; but in this caſe there is not an adminiſtration de bonis non adminiſtrat' granted, but an immediate adminiſtration, becauſe the executor died ante onus executionis teſtamenti ſuper ſe ſuſceptum, which is the foundation the ſpiritual courts proceed upon. 1 Rol. Abr. 907. 1 Salk. 305. Dyer 372.

So if an executor refuſes adminiſtration with the will annexed, it is to be granted to another. 9 Co. 37.

In theſe caſes adminiſtration is to be granted to the next of kin to the firſt teſtator or inteſtate; but if the teſtator appoints a reſiduary legatee, ſuch legatee is intitled to adminiſtration. Dyer 372. a. 1 Show. 25. 3 Mod. 59. 1 Vern. 200.

An adminiſtrator de bonis non is intitled to all the goods and perſonal eſtate, ſuch as terms for years, houſhold goods, &c. which remain in ſpecie, and were not adminiſtred by the firſt executor or adminiſtrator, as alſo to all debts due and owing to the teſtator or inteſtate. 1 Salk. 306. Skin. 143.

Alſo it is held, that if an executor receives money in right of the teſtator, and lays it up by itſelf, and dies inteſtate, that this money ſhall go to the adminiſtrator de bonis non, being as eaſily diſtinguiſhed to be part of the teſtator's effects, as goods in ſpecie. 1 Salk. 306.

But

But if A. dies inteſtate, and his ſon takes out adminiſtration to him, and receives part of a debt, being rent arrear to the inteſtate, and accepts a promiſſory note for the reſidue, and then dies inteſtate; this acceptance of the note is ſuch an alteration of the property as veſts it in the ſon, and therefore on death it ſhall go to his adminiſtrator, and not to the adminiſtrator de bonis non. 1 Vern. 473. See 2 Vent. 362. 1 Rol. Abr. 380.

If a feme executrix to J. S. takes a huſband, and the huſband and wife bring an action of debt upon an obligation in right of the wife, as executrix to J. S. and they have judgment to recover the debt with damages and coſts; if the wife dies, the huſband cannot take out execution, for he is not intitled to the thing recovered, but it ſhall go to the ſucceeding adminiſtrator of J. S. 1 Rol. Abr. 889.

But yet in theſe caſes, tho' the adminiſtrator de bonis non was intitled, yet he could not ſue out execution, becauſe he was not privy to the judgment, and therefore was driven to a new action. Yelv. 83. Cro. Car. 4. Latch 140. Palm. 443. 1 Saund. 149. 1 Sid. 29. But this being very inconvenient, by ſtat. 17 Car. 2. c. 18. (made perpetual by 1 Jac. 2. c. 17.) it is enacted, "That were any judgment after a verdict ſhall be had by or in the name of any executor or adminiſtrator, in ſuch caſe an adminiſtrator de bonis non may ſue forth a ſcire facias, and take execution upon ſuch judgment.

3. Of the manner of appointing an executor, and of appointing co-executors; where they muſt anſwer for each other's acts, and where they muſt jointly ſue and be ſued.

Here we muſt firſt obſerve, that the appointing an executor is an eſſential part of a will; for if a man makes ſeveral deviſes, &c. and appoints no executor, he dies inteſtate as to his goods and chattels; but though ſuch a ſignification of the teſtator's mind as to the diſpoſition of his goods, &c. be no more properly to be called a teſtament, than every deed, wherein he expreſſes his mind to grant ſuch and ſuch things, may be called a teſtament; yet it is not altogether of no force and validity; for ſince there is an expreſſion of the teſtator's mind for the diſpoſition of his goods in this or that manner; ſo far it ſhall be of effect, that the diſpoſition ſhall be made according as he hath expreſſed his mind, and therefore ſhall adminiſtration be granted to the next of kin cum codicillo annexo, as it is where a perfect will is made, and an executor refuſes. Godolph. 76. Off. of. Ex. 3. Noy 12.

On the contrary, the bare naming an executor in the will, without giving any legacy, or appointing any thing to be done, is ſufficient to make it a will, and as a will it is to be proved, for the naming of executors is by implication a gift or donation to them of all the goods, chattels, credit, and perſonal eſtate of the teſtator, and the laying upon them an obligation to ſatisfy the teſtator's debts to the juſt value of his goods and chattels. Godolph. 82. Off. of Exec. 3.

But altho' the appointing an executor be an eſſential part of a will, yet it is not neceſſary, that the teſtator ſhould make uſe of the word executor in conſtituting him, for any words which ſhew his intention, that ſuch a one ſhould be executor, are ſufficient; for a man's will, being ſuppoſed his laſt act, and made when he is inops conſilii, and is to receive a favourable interpretation. Off. of Ex. 8. Godolph. 82, 83. Dyer 90.

Therefore if the teſtator ſays, that he commits all his goods to the adminiſtration, or to the diſpoſition of A. B. in this caſe A. B. is as effectually made executor, as if the teſtator had made uſe of the word executor; ſo if the teſtator appoints that A. B. ſhall diſpoſe of the goods in his cuſtody, he is thereby made executor of theſe goods; or if he ſays, I make A. B. lord of all my goods, or, I leave all my goods to him, or, I make A. B. legatory of all my goods, or, I leave the reſidue of my goods to him. Godolph. 83.

So if the teſtator ſaith, I will that A. B. be my executor if C. D. will not; in this caſe C. D. is appointed executor, and may if he pleaſes be admitted to the executorſhip, and exclude A. B. Godolph. 83.

So if the teſtator, ſuppoſing his child, his brother, or his kinſman to be dead, ſays thus in his will, Foraſmuch as my child, my brother, &c. is dead, I make A. B. my executor; in this caſe, if the perſon, whom the teſtator thought dead, be alive, he ſhall be executor. Godolph. 83.

Alſo if the teſtator being aſked by another; whether he doth make A. B. his executor, doth anſwer, yea, I do, or what elſe, or why not? or, whom elſe ſhould I make executor? or, I cannot deny it, or other words to that purpoſe, animo teſtandi, this amounts to an aſſignation of A. B. executor. Godolph. 83.

So if the teſtator make A. B. or C. D. his executor; in this caſe they ſhall both of them be executors, for or ſhall be here conſtrued and, rather than the party for this uncertainty ſhould be ſaid to die inteſtate. Godolph. 84.

But if A. be made an executor, and B. a co-adjutor, without more, he is not by this an executor with A. nor hath ſuch co-adjutor or overſeer any power to adminiſter, or to intermeddle otherwiſe than to counſel, perſuade and adviſe. Off. of Execut. 9. 1 Rol. Abr. 914.

It is ſaid, that an appointing him executor who is named in ſuch a note left with C. D. is not a ſufficient making of him an executor at all; but according to Godolph. this muſt be underſtood, that it is no ſufficient appointing of an executor to make it a written will, becauſe the appointing en executor is left out of the will; but ſurely it will be a good nuncupative will, if not a good written will; for why ſhould not ſuch an appointment be good in caſe where the teſtator had made a diſpoſition by writing, as well as if he appointed an executor by word of mouth, where he hath made diſpoſition by writing of his goods and chattels. Godolph. 76.

If one appoint my executor to be his executor, and die, if the will be not void for uncertainty; yet he is dead inteſtate until I die, and die teſtate; but if I die inteſtate, then he is inteſtate alſo. Godolph. 78.

If there be demonſtration in a will, that is only added as deſcriptio perſonæ, and that is falſe; yet if the perſon be well enough known with it, that is ſufficient; as if the teſtator appoints his ſon Thomas, who was lately married, to be his executor, that is well enough, though he be not married. Godolph. 85.

Any word in a will, that ſuſpends the aſſignation of an executor in expectation of ſome further events, makes the executorſhip conditional; but if the condition be contrary to the former part of the will, it is void; and if one makes two executors, provided that one ſhall not adminiſter, this is void. Off. of Ex. 10. Godolph. 40.

A condition ought properly to relate to ſomething in contingency, that may, or may not be; for if it be ſubject to no contingency either in ſubſtance or circumſtance, it is no condition; as if A. makes B. his executor, upon condition that the ſun riſe ten days after his death, he is executor abſolutely, for there is no contingency to ſuſpend his being ſo. So if the teſtator makes A. his executor, upon condition the teſtator's wife and daughter be alive at the time of the death of the teſtator and he never had any daughter, the will is abſolute, for there is nothing poſſible to overthrow it; and in ſuch caſe, where there is nothing to be a contingency, the adding of a condition can be interpreted nothing but the making an illicitous grant. So captious conditions, that are contrary to the diſpoſition made, are void, becauſe they cannot be ſuppoſed to be made with any other deſign, than that a man ſhould avoid his own grant. Godolph. 43.

Neceſſary conditions, either in reſpect of fact or law, are of no manner of force; for it is in vain to require that which muſt neceſſarily be; impoſſible conditions in reſpect of law, perſons, nature, or contrariety, are in themſelves void, and therefore never hinder an executorſhip. Godolph. 44.

If an executor is appointed, upon condition that he gives ſecurity before ſuch a day to perform the will, or before he takes upon him the adminiſtration, he muſt in thoſe caſes perform the condition before he is complete executor. Offic. of Execut. 11.

But in caſe of arbitrary conditions, the executor hath time, during his life, to perform the condition in, and may enjoy the executorſhip in the mean time, unleſs the judge appoints a time for him to perform the condition in; but if the judge appoints time and place, and the executor do it not, then is the condition broken, and the perſon inteſtate, and ſo adminiſtration is to be granted to the next of kin. Godolph 43, 78.

The time may be limited when the executorſhip ſhall begin, and that either certainly, or with reference to contingency; for by our laws it is lawful for a teſtator to appoint his executor, either from a certain time, or until a certain time, and in the mean time adminiſtration may by committed to the next of kin, or to the widow; and the act done by ſuch adminiſtrator cannot be avoided by the executor afterward; and in this ſenſe the ſame perſon may be ſaid to die partly teſtate, and partly inteſtate, which by the ſtrictneſs of the Civil law is not allowable. Godolph. 77. Hob. 265-6.

So a perſon may appoint, that J. S. ſhall be executor till his ſon comes of age, or for any limited time he pleaſes. Off. of Ex. 10.

The teſtator may limit and divide the power of his executors in the following manner: 1ſt, He may make A. his executor for his plate and houſhold ſtuff, B. for his ſheep and cattle, C. for his leaſes and eſtates by extent, and D. for the debts due to him; or, 2dly, He may appoint A. executor for his goods in the county of S. B. for his goods in the county of N. and C. for his goods in the county of H. Off. of Ex. 12. Godolph. 78. 1 Rol. Abr. 914.

And though ſeveral executors are appointed with ſeparate and diſtinct powers; yet is the will but one will, and needs only one probate. Off. of Ex. 13.

But if a perſon is made executor without any limitation or reſtriction, he cannot take out adminiſtration for part, but muſt renounce the executorſhip in toto, or not at all. 1 Salk. 297.

Therefore if an executor has a term, and the premiſſes are of leſs value than the rent reſerved thereon; in an action brought againſt him in the debet and detinet, he muſt plead ſpecially, that he has not aſſets, and that the land is of leſs value than the rent, and demand judgment, if he ought to be charged in the detinet tantum; and this will free him from being charged de bonis propriis; for otherwiſe the premiſſes ſhall be preſumed to be of greater value than the rent. Yelv. 103. Cro. Jac. 549. 1 Mod. 185. 1 Salk. 297.

If a man appoints ſeveral executors, they are eſteemed in law but as one perſon, repreſenting the teſtator, and therefore the acts done by any one of them, which relate either to the delivery, gift, ſale, payment, poſſeſſion, or releaſe of the teſtator's goods, are deemed the acts of all, for they have a joint and intire authority over the whole. Godolph. 134. Off. of Execut. 95. 1 Rol. Abr. 924.

Hence it hath been adjudged, that if the teſtator dies poſſeſſed of a leaſe for years, and having made two executors, one of them grants all his intereſt to a ſtranger, that the whole term paſſes, for each had an intire authority and intereſt different from other joint-tenants. Dyer 23. b. pl. 146. Cro. Eliz. 347.

And for this reaſon it is held, that if one executor grants or releaſes his intereſt in the teſtator's eſtate to the other, that nothing paſſes thereby, becauſe each was poſſeſſed of the whole before. Godolph. 134.

Alſo it hath been adjudged, that if an obligee makes two executors, and dies, and one of them delivers the obligation to a ſtranger in ſatisfaction of a debt due from himſelf, and dies, that though the debt does not paſs by the aſſignment, being a choſe in action, and not properly aſſignable; yet by this delivery the party hath ſuch an intereſt in the paper and wax, that he may juſtify the detainer in an action of detinue brought againſt him by the ſurviving executor. 2 Rol. Abr. 46. Dyer 23. b. Cro. Eliz. 478.

It is clearly agreed, that one executor ſhall not be charged with the wrong or devaſtavit of his companion, and ſhall be no farther liable than for the aſſets which came to his hands; and therefore where an action was brought againſt two executors, and the jury found that the two and another were made executors, and that the third waſted the aſſets to the amount of 600*l.* and died, and that only ſixteen pounds came to the hands of the two others; the court held, that they ſhould be chargeable for no more than the 16*l.* for that it was the teſtator's folly to truſt ſuch a perſon, which muſt not turn to the prejudice of the other executors. Godolph. 134. Off. of Ex. 100. Cro. Eliz. 318.

Alſo it hath been held in Chancery, that if there be two executors, and they join in a receipt, and one only receives the money, as to creditors, who are to have the utmoſt benefit in law, each is liable for the whole, tho' one executor alone might give a diſcharge, and the joining of the other way unneceſſary; but as to legatees, and thoſe claiming diſtribution, who have no remedy but in equity, the receipt of one executor ſhall not charge the other, for the joining in the receipt is only matter of form, the ſubſtantial part is the actual receiving, and this only is regarded in conſcience. 1 Salk. 318.

If A. deviſes legacies, and makes B. and C. his executors, and B. makes C. and D. his executors, and dies, and they poſſeſs themſelves of the eſtate of A. they may be both charged in equity; for though in point of law the executorſhip ſurvived to C. and D. is not privy, yet the eſtate of A. in whoſe hand ſoever, ought to be liable. 1 Chan. Ca. 57.

One executor cannot regularly ſue another of his co-executors touching any thing relating to their teſtator's will, or that is within the power, duty, or office of an executor. Off. of Ex. 99. Godolph. 135.

But if the reſidue of the perſonal eſtate, after debts and legacies, be deviſed to both the executors, one of them may ſue the other in the ſpiritual court for a moiety; for this is in the nature of a gift, or legacy to him, and he may bring treſpaſs againſt the other executor, if he takes it out of his poſſeſſion, or detinue, if he detains it from him. Off. of Ex. 99. Godolph. 135.

A joint executor was charged with payment of a legacy out of his moiety of the ſurplus, though he had left the money in the hands of the other executor, from whom the legatee had received intereſt, as well as a divivend out of his eſtate after he became bankrupt. Lord Raym. 1320.

As executors in repreſenting the teſtator make but one perſon, they are all regularly to ſue and be ſued. Off. of Ex. 95. Godolph. 134.

But if debt be brought againſt an executor, and he pleads that J. S. is co-executor with him, and he is not named in the writ, without averring that J. S. had adminiſtred, the plea will be ill; for although when an executor ſues, the defendant may plead another executor not named, without ſhewing that the other hath adminiſtred, becauſe he cannot know, whether the other hath adminiſtred, or not; yet when an executor is ſued, if he pleads another executor not named, he ought to go forth and ſay that he has adminiſtred, for that lies in his own conuſance. 1 Lev. 161. 1 Sid. 242.

Alſo if an action be brought againſt one executor, where there are more, if that one executor doth not plead that matter in abatement, but plead to the action, he ſhall never have the advantage of ſuch a plea afterwards. Carth. 61.

If two executors ſue, and ſet forth themſelves to be executors, and that they proved the will, but upon the probate ſet forth it appears that one proved the will; and the defendant pleads this in abatement, a reſpondeas ouſter will be awarded, for both have the right in them; and he that did not prove may come in when he pleaſes, but cannot refuſe during the life of him that has proved. 1 Salk. 3.

If a man appoints two executors, there ſhall be ſummons and ſeverance, becauſe one of the executors may releaſe, yet ſuch a releaſe is a devaſtavit in him; but if he will not proceed at law, it is no devaſtavit in him, and therefore both executors being only truſtees for the perſon deceaſed, they ſhall not be compelled to go on together; but if one refuſes, the other may bring his action in the name of both, and have ſummons and ſeverance; for otherwiſe each co-executor might, by colluſion with the debtor, and not proceeding, keep the other from recovering aſſets, and not create a devaſtavit in himſelf; but after ſuch ſummons and ſeverance he does not proceed for a moiety, but as repreſentative of the teſtator proceeds for the whole the teſtator was intitled to. Cro. Car. 420. 2 Rol. Abr. 98. Off. of Exec. 96, 104.

Therefore if there be two executors, and they bring an action of debt, and one of them is ſummoned and ſevered, and the ſevered perſon dies, the writ ſhall not abate. Cro. Eliz. 652. Co. Lit. 139.

If debt be brought againſt ſeveral executors, and one appears, and the other makes default upon the grand diſtreſs, the court may proceed againſt him that appears; and if the plaintiff recover, judgment ſhall be againſt all the executors for the goods of the teſtator; and the 25 Ed. 3. cap. 17. which gives a capias in debt, has been always conſtrued within the equity of the 9 Ed. 3. ſo that if there be ſeveral executors defendants, and cepi is returned as to one, and a non eſt inventus as to the reſt, the plaintiff ſhall proceed againſt him that appears, and ſhall have judgment againſt all, for the default upon a capias is the ſame as upon the grand diſtreſs. 1 Salk. 312.

If one executor hath the poſſeſſion of the teſtator's goods, which are taken from him, both muſt join in an action of treſpaſs; for the poſſeſſion of one is the poſſeſſion of the other; and if one only ſhould bring the action and the other ſhould releaſe it, ſuch releaſe would be good. 19 Hen. 6. 65. 16 Hen. 7. 4. 3 Leon. 209. S. P. per Coke; but in Godolph. 134. and Off. of Ex. 104. it is ſaid, that if goods he taken out of the poſſeſſion of one executor, he alone may maintain an action for the ſame, and that without naming himſelf executor, for which is cited 38 Ed. 3. 9.

It is ſaid, that executors, when ſued, cannot plead diſtinct pleas, becauſe they repreſent but one perſon, who could have but one plea, if he was living; but it is ſaid to be holden by others, that executors may plead diſtinct pleas, and that ſhall be tried which is beſt for the teſtator, and moſt peremptory to ſettle the controverſy. Off. of Execut. 98. Godolph. 136.

4. Of the probate of wills, and juriſdiction for that purpoſe; form of proving a will, and of entring a caveat.

It appears to have been a matter of great controverſy, to whom the probate of wills and granting adminiſtration did originally belong, and whether theſe were matters intirely of eccleſiaſtical cognizance; but it ſeems now to be the better opinion, that the probate of teſtaments did not originally belong to the eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction, but to the reſpective lords of manors where the teſtator died, as all other matters did. 2 Bac. Abr. 397, 398.

Lindwood 174. verbo Approbatis ſays, That the juriſdiction of the eccleſiaſtical court touching teſtamentary matters, is by the cuſtom of England, and not by the eccleſiaſtical law.——Wilkins 78. Lamb. Saxon Laws 64. make it appear, that the biſhop and ſheriff ſat together in the county-courts; and by the Saxon laws, which they give us, it plainly appears, that the probate of teſtaments was in the county-courts.—— Seld. Eadmerus 167. gives the charter of William the Conqueror, which firſt ſeparated the Eccleſiaſtical court from the Civil; but this charter does not mention matters teſtamentary, or the probates of wills, to be of eccleſiaſtical conuzance, but only ſays, that the crimes that were to be proſecuted pro ſalute animæ, were to be of that conuſance.———And therefore, according to Selden, Eatlmerus 168. the eccleſiaſtical juriſdiction did not prevail herein till the time of Rich. 2. at which time the clergy got the King to publiſh the law of William the Conqueror, and confirm the ſame, and that no matters of eccleſiaſtical conuſance ſhould be tranſacted in the county court; this is the charter of 2 Rich. 2. Membrano 12. No. 5. and is mentioned in Selden's Eadmerus 168. From henceforward the clergy had the whole juriſdiction of wills, becauſe the county court could not receive the probate, and the King's court could not intermeddle with it, becauſe by a charter in Henry the Firſt's reign, the King's tenants who owed ſuit to it, were enabled to diſpoſe of their perſonal eſtate for the good of their ſouls, and of this the clergy were thought to be the propereſt perſons to take care. Plow. 179. in the caſe of Gregs and Fox.——Hence in Fitz. Abr. tit. Teſtament 148. it is ſaid by Fairfax, that it was but of late the church had the probate of wills, and he ſuppoſes that it was given to them by ſome act of parliament.——And in the 11 H. 7. Fineux aſſerts that the probate of wills did not belong to the ſpiritual court by the eccleſiaſtical law, but came to them by cuſtom and uſage.——And with theſe opinions Lord Coke agrees in Henſlow's caſe, 9 Co. 38. and on theſe foundations concludes, that when the will is proved in the eccleſiaſtical court, the court has executed its authority, but the executors are to ſue in the temporal courts to get in the eſtate of the deceaſed.

But however it might have been formerly, it is now certain, that the ſpiritual court is the only court, except in very few inſtances, (ſee Off. Ex. 43.) that has juriſdiction of the probate of wills, and as incident to ſuch juriſdiction, hath power to determine all thoſe matters that are neceſſary to the authenticating of them. Hence it hath been adjudged, that if the ſeal of the ordinary appears to the probate, it cannot be ſuggeſted or given in evidence in the Common law courts, that the will was forged, or that the teſtator was non compos, or that another perſon was executor; but it may be given in evidence, that the ſeal was forged, or the will repealed, or that there were bona notabilia, becauſe theſe are not in contradiction to the real ſeal of the court, but admit the ſeal and avoid it. Raym. 405, 406. 1 Sid. 359. 1 Lev. 235. Vaugh. 207. 1 Show. 293. Hard. 131. 2 Rol. Abr. 299. Carth. 143.

But if the ſpiritual court do admit a will, but yet will not give the probate thereof to the executor, becauſe he cannot give ſecurity for a juſt adminiſtration, the temporal courts will grant a mandamus; for though they are to determine whether there be a will or not, yet if there be a will, the executor has a temporal right, and they cannot put any terms on him but what are mentioned in the will. Skin. 299. 1 Salk. 36.

As to the diſpoſition of inteſtates eſtates, and granting adminiſtration, ſee title Adminiſtrator.

The judge may, ex officio, or at the inſtance of the party intereſted, call the executor to prove the will; ſome ſay he may be cited at the inſtance of any perſon, to know whether the party inſtancing hath any legacy left him, or no. Godolph. 60.

If the executor appears not to prove the will upon the ordinary's proceſs, but ſtands in contempt, he is excommunicable; but if he appears and makes oath, that the teſtator had bona notabilia in divers dioceſes, or within ſome peculiar juriſdiction than that wherein he died, he is to be diſmiſſed to prove the will in the archbiſhop's court, and to exhibit the ſame under ſeal within forty days next after. Godolph. 58, 59.

Alſo the ordinary or metropolitan, as the caſe ſhall require, may ſequeſter the teſtator's goods until the executor proves the will. Godolph. 63.

If it be uncertain, whether the teſtator be dead or alive, it muſt be left to the diſcretion of the judge, whether he thinks him ſo or not; and if there be good preſumptive evidence in law to think him dead, then he muſt prove the will, as if he be beyond ſea in remote parts, and it's common and conſtant fame, that he is dead, eſpecially if the executor of ſuch perſon be honeſt, and the goods are bona peritura, and the teſtament itſelf in favour of children, or to pious uſes. Godolph. 61, 62.

The time of proving a will is left to the diſcretion of the judge, according as the circumſtances of the caſe ſhall require or admit; but regularly it ought to be inſinuated or brought in to be proved within four months after the teſtator's death. Godolph. 61.

Teſtaments may be proved either in common form, as where there is no conteſt about the will; but the executor preſenting the will before the judge, without citing the parties intereſted, doth depoſe the ſame to be the true, whole, and laſt will of the teſtator, and thereupon the judge does allow the will, and fixes his ſeal and probate to it. Godolph. 62. Or a will may be proved in form of law, as were it is exhibited before the judge in preſence of the parties intereſted, as the widow and next of kin, and then the proof examined and fully heard, and at laſt allowed. Godolph. 62.

to

The difference between the two probates is this; Where a will is proved in common form, it was, at any time afterwards within thirty years, to be queſtioned and called in debate; which it cannot be in caſe it be proved in form of law. Godolph. 62.

If the executor refuſes to prove the will, or if there be a will and no executor named, the ordinary is to commit adminiſtration cum teſtamento annexo to ſome proper perſon, from whom he may take bond for a faithful adminiſtration; but in caſe there be no will, then he is to grant adminiſtration to the next of kin of the deceaſed; and in caſe of their refuſal, he may grant it to a creditor, or any other perſon deſiring the ſame; and if no-body will take adminiſtration, the ordinary may grant letters to collect the goods of the deceaſed. Godolph. 61.

It is uſual, when there is a conteſt about a will, or when the right of adminiſtration comes in queſtion, to enter a caveat in the ſpiritual court, which by their law is ſaid to ſtand in force for three months. Godolph. 258. Goldſb. 119. 2 Rol. Rep. 6. Cro. Jac. 463-4.

But it is ſaid, that our law takes no notice of a caveat, and that it is but a mere cautionary act done by a ſtranger, to prevent the ordinary from doing any wrong, and that therefore if adminiſtration be granted pending a caveat, this is valid in our law, tho' by the law in the ſpiritual court, it may be ſuch an irregularity as will be ſufficient to repeal it. 1 Rol. Rep. 191. Cro. Jac. 463. 2 Rol. Rep. 6.

In the caſe of one Offley, where adminiſtration was granted to him pending a caveat, and no notice taken of it, or of the party that entred it, and for this cauſe there was a citation to have this adminiſtration repealed; and on a motion for a prohibition in behalf of Offley, it was urged, that the ſpiritual court having once granted adminiſtration, they had executed their authority, and have no power over the adminiſtrator afterwards, and a caveat is only for private information of the judge, but does not ſuſpend their juriſdiction; it is conſilium, but not præceptum; no countenance was ever given to it by the law; that to give them liberty to repeal adminiſtration for this cauſe, were to give it them in all caſes, and then all the inconveniencies of compelling diſtributions will follow; for they may leave out ſome formality on purpoſe to preſerve power over the adminiſtrator, or they may make it cauſe of repeal, becauſe adminiſtration is granted to a child already preferred, or the like; and by 21 Hen. 8. they have an election, which when it is once made, no man can complain; for none have any right or title precedent; and for theſe reaſons a prohibition was granted. But on another day, on motion for a conſultation, the court ſaid, that to take from the ſpiritual court all power of examining the formality of granting letters of adminiſtration, would occaſion undue catching of adminiſtrations, and confound and deſtroy all their form, and courſe of proceedings, which are in ſome caſes neceſſary; and it was not the intention of the ſtatute, to alter the courſe of granting adminiſtrations, and to eſtabliſh irregular adminiſtrations, but only to direct the ordinary, and to ſtreighten the liberty they took upon them before; and for the matter of the caveat, we know not what weight and regard it may have in their law; it may be eſſentially neceſſary, that where there is a conteſt and competition, both parties ſhould be heard before any thing be done, or the caveat diſmiſſed; they have a rule, that no adminiſtration ſhould be granted within fourteen days, that no party may be ſurprized, and we have known an adminiſtration granted againſt this rule repealed, tho' no-body elſe could pretend any right; but the ſame day a new adminiſtration has been granted to the ſame party, and in theſe kind of queſtions creditors are concerned; and it may be very miſchievous to throw off and ſlight all their forms; wherefore the court would adviſe, and according to the report of this caſe in 1 Lev. Moreton and Windham, at another day, were for diſcharging the rule for a prohibition; and they held, that granting adminiſtration, pending a caveat, was ſufficient cauſe to revoke, and that was like a ſuperſedeas in our law, which made a judgment given afterward erroneous; but Kelynge and Twiſden held, that the caveat was of no force to hinder the grant of the adminiſtration; for it is not a judicial act of the court, but only an entry of a memorandum by a clerk in court, for the giving of caution; and being no judgment or record of the court, the court of B. R. are as proper judges of the force and effect of it as the ſpiritual courts, and are likewiſe to ſee, that they grant adminiſtration according as they are impowered by the ſtatutes; and the court being thus divided, there could be no rule for diſcharging the prohibition. 1 Lev. 186. 1 Sid. 293. and 2 Keb. 63, 72. S. C.

5. What ſhall be deemed a devaſtavit in executors, and pleadings therein; order of paying debts and legacies; and in what caſes an executor may make himſelf liable de bonis propriis.

A devaſtavit is a miſmanagement of the eſtate and effects of the deceaſed, in ſquandering and miſapplying the aſſets, contrary to the truſt and confidence repoſed in them, and for which executors and adminiſtrators ſhall anſwer out of their own pockets, as far as they had, or might have had aſſets of the deceaſed. Off. of Ex. 156. Godolph. 203.

Executors may be guilty of a devaſtavit, not only by a direct abuſe by them, as by ſpending and abuſing the effects of the deceaſed, but alſo by ſuch acts of negligence and wrong adminiſtration as will diſappoint creditors of their debts. Off. of Execut. 157.

Therefore it hath been held, that if the executor ſells the teſtator's goods at an under value, eſpecially if he might have got more for them; or if this were done by him for his own advantage, and to defraud creditors, that is a devaſtavit, and he ſhall anſwer the real value. Off. of Ex. 157. Kelw. 59. 3 Leon. 143.

So if an executor omits to ſell the goods at a good price, and after they are taken from him, there the value of the goods ſhall be aſſets in his hands, and not what he recovers, for there was a default in him. 6 Mod. 181-2.

But if, without any omiſſion of his, goods are taken out of his poſſeſſion, and he does not recover ſo much in damages as the goods were really worth, and that happens not through any default of his, he ſhall anſwer for no more than he recovers: ſo if the goods be periſhable goods, and before any default in him to preſerve them, or ſell them at due value, they are impaired, he ſhall not anſwer for the firſt value, but ſhall give that matter in evidence to diſcharge himſelf; but if one takes goods out of his poſſeſſion, he muſt ſue him that took them, to have an opportunity of diſcharging himſelf of anſwering more in aſſets than he recovers. 6 Mod. 181.

If the executor releaſes debts due to the teſtator, this ſhall charge him to the value of the debt, though perhaps he did not receive near ſo much as was due: ſo if he releaſes a cauſe of action, accruing either in the lifetime of the teſtator, or in his own time, in the right of the teſtator, this will be a devaſtavit. Off. of Ex. 158. Hob. 66. 1 And. 138. Cro. Eliz. 43. 4 Leon. 102. Godb. 29.

Alſo it is ſaid, that if an executor pays money in diſcharge of an uſurious bond, entred into by his teſtator, that this is a devaſtavit. Hob. 167. Noy 129.

It is holden, that if an executor to an obligee in a penal bond, after the bond is forfeited, releaſes the penalty on receipt of principal and intereſt, that this is a devaſtavit; but the contrary hereof his holden by three judges in Cro. Car. for that the executor in this caſe does no more than what in equity and conſcience he ought to do; but if an infant executor gives ſuch a releaſe, it is void; but this it ſeems ariſes from the privilege of infancy. Off. of Ex. Cro. Car. 490.

If an executor takes an obligation in his own name, for a debt due by ſimple contract to the teſtator, this ſhall charge him as much as if he had received the money; money; for the new ſecurity hath extinguiſhed the old right, and is quaſi a payment to him. Off. of Ex. 158. Yelv. 10. 2 Lev. 189.

So if the executor ſues a perſon by trover and converſion, in which he has a right to recover; and afterwards he and the defendant come to an agreement, that he ſhall pay the executor ſuch a ſum at a future day, and the party fails, this is a devaſtavit; and he ſhall anſwer ad valorem. 2 Lev. 189. 2 Jon. 88. S. C. 1 Vern. 474. S. C.

So if an executor ſubmits the debts, or whatever he is intitled to in right of the teſtator, to arbitration, and the arbitrators award him leſs than his due; this being his own voluntary act ſhall bind him, and he ſhall anſwer for the full value. Off. of Ex. 71, 159. 3 Leon. 51.

If an executor neglects to pay intereſt, and afterwards acknowledges a judgment for principal and intereſt, this is a devaſtavit. 2 Lev. 40.

If an executor ſells at great under value the goods of the teſtator, 'tis no devaſtavit; per Frowicke Ch. J. Kelw. 51. a. pl. 5. Trin. 18 H. 7. Anon'.

If executor ſells goods worth 10*l.* for a penny, all the ſurpluſage ſhall be adjudged a devaſtavit; per Frowicke Ch. J. Kelw. 59.——The plaintiff may aver the under value, and it ſhall be tried by jury; per Frowicke Ch. J. 63. 6.—But it is better to ſell under the value than to loſe the whole by a total forfeiture, as in caſe of a leaſe for years, which comes to the executor ſubject to a condition for payment of rent, or of a ſum in groſs, and no profits accrue to him to enable him to pay it. Went. Off. of Ex. 114, 115.

Adminiſtration durante minore ætate of two infants executors was granted to another, who poſſeſſed himſelf of the goods of the teſtator to the value of 400*l.* and when the infant executors came of age they releaſed to the adminiſtrator all demands. Adjudged this was a devaſtavit, though the goods never were in their poſſeſſion, and the releaſe of the infants executors was aſſets. Godb. 29. pl. 39. 27. Eliz. C. B. Kitley's caſe.

Surrender of a term by executor, which was deviſed by A. adjudged a devaſtavit, yet it ſeems A. may have this as a legacy notwithſtanding this ſurrender. Mo. 358. pl. 487. Trin. 36 Eliz. Carter v. Love.

If one ſues the adminiſtrator, and gives notice, yet he may confeſs the action of another that commences his ſuit after if there is no fraud; but if adminiſtrator is ſued on a bond, and pays another debt on bond without ſuit, there if he had notice of the ſuit it is a devaſtavit. The notice is material. Mo. 678. pl. 926. Trin. 44 Eliz. C. B. Searleſs's caſe.

In a ſci. fa. on a judgment, 'tis ſuggeſted, that defendant bona, &c. ad valentiam, &c. elongavit, vendidit, & in uſum ſuum proprium convertit, & diſpoſuit ea intentione quod dicta executio non fieret. The ſheriff found that diſpoſuit in uſum proprium, and defendant appeared and traverſed, and 'tis found by verdict againſt him; the court will not doubt the ea intentione, and ſo he has done a tortious act in contriving and endeavouring to defraud the plaintiff of his debt, which amounts to a devaſtavit. Saund. 307. Mich. 21 Car. 2. Merchant v. Driver.

An executor in caſe of a devaſtavit is in nature of a truſtee of an eſtate. Chanc. Caſes 304. Mich. 29. Car. 2. in Vanacre's caſe.

The penalty of a bond is but 40*l.* but the condition is for 200*l.* the executor cannot pay it without a decree, without a devaſtavit to other creditors; but the payment was decreed. 2 Chanc. Caſes 225. Hill. 28 & 29 Car. 2 Sims v. Urry.

Execution againſt the goods of the executor for a debt in jure proprio is a devaſtavit nolens volens, 3 Keb. 839. in pl. 1. Hill. 29 & 30 Car. 2. cites it as held by Rainsford Ch. J. in the laſt term in Norden's caſe.

It is a devaſtavit to permit intereſt to run in arrear, and then ſuffer judgment for it; and want of aſſets to pay before the incurring of it by the adminiſtrator ſhall not be intended unleſs it be expreſsly pleaded. 2 Lev. 40. Hill. 23 & 24 Car. 2. B. R. Seaman v. Dee.

Executor confeſſes judgment in aſſumpſit when there is another debt upon bond, he muſt pay both, for he might have pleaded the bond in bar of the contract debt, which not having done, his not having aſſets to pay both is no excuſe. 3 Lev. 114. Paſch. 35 Car. 2. C. B. Britton and Bathurſt.

Place waſted recovered againſt an executor de ſon tort is a devaſtavit, and if there happen to be a rightful executor or adminiſtrator, he ſhall recover againſt the executor de ſon tort, but he cannot get the land from the reverſioner again. 2 Show. 457. Hill. 1 & 2 Jac. 2. B. R. City of Norwich v. Johnſon.

Executor of an obligee takes a goldſmith's note, who fails; it is a devaſtavit; cited as adjudged by Pemberton Ch. J. Vern 474. Mich. 1687. in the caſe of Barker v. Talcot and Shaw.

Executor loſes a bond due to teſtator. The court inclined to charge defendant with the debt, but for the preſent directed only that defendant proſecute with effect a ſuit brought by him againſt the obligor, in order to recover the money on the loſt bond, and reſpited judgment in the mean time. 2 Vern. 299. Trin. 1693. Goodfellow v. Burchet.

A recovery by baron of a feme executrix amounts to a devaſtavit at law pro tanto, ſo as to charge huſband and wife in their own right. Per Holt Ch. J. but per Rookby J. it is direct aſſets at law. Carth. 463. Mich. 10 W. 3. B. R. Yard v. Ellard.

Executor appoints another to receive a debt of teſtator's, who will not repay; it is a devaſtavit. 6 Mod. 93. Hill. 2 Ann. B. R. in the caſe of Jenkins v. Plume.

A term aſſigned by an executor in truſt to attend the inheritance, ſhall in equity follow all the eſtates created out of it, and all incumbrances ſubſiſting upon it; but the term being by this means become not aſſets at law, the executor who aſſigned the ſame is liable to the creditors as for a devaſtavit. Per Lord Chancellor. 3 Wms's Rep. 330. Mich. 1734. in the caſe of Charlton v. Low.

A. is a creditot by ſtatute 100*l.* and B. C. and D. by bond 100*l.* and the aſſets in the executor's hands are only 100*l.* executor pays the 100*l.* to D. this is a devaſtavit only as to A. and he is not liable to B. or C. Went. Off. Ex. 163.

But if he had only paid a legacy or debt by contract, leaving nothing to ſatisfy the debts by ſpecialty, then he had been equally liable to each of the other creditors, viz. to him who could firſt recover, or by the voluntary act of the executor could obtain payment, who muſt be preferred if the ſum would reach no farther, and there being no creditor by record. Went. Off. Ex. 163.

R. brought debt againſt A. as executor, and upon plene adminiſtravit and iſſue upon that, aſſets are found, and judgment for the plaintiff, and upon a teſtat' execution was awarded to the ſheriff in another county than where the trial was; that ſheriff may return a nihil, and is not eſtopped by the verdict and judgment; otherwiſe it is of the ſheriff of that county where the action was brought, for he cannot return a nihil, &c. but he ought to return a devaſtavit. Noy 69. Robbin's caſe, cites 9 H. 6. 9.

If judgment be given againſt an executor on demurrer, and execution be awarded, the ſheriff cannot return nulla habet bona teſtatoris, but is to return a devaſtavit, as if it had been found againſt the executor by verdict; for per cur. he has charged himſelf by his own plea. Cro. E. 102. pl. 9. Trin. 30. Eliz. B. R. Stubbs v. Rightwife.

Sheriff of the county where the writ is brought ought to return devaſtavit, &c. and thereupon the plaintiff ſhall have proceſs in another county; but a further queſtion was, If a ſci. fa. upon teſtatum ſhall iſſue into another county before the ſheriff of the county where the writ was brought had returned a devaſtavit? For ſome conceived that devaſtavit where the writ was brought ought firſt to be returned, and then upon a teſtatum, proceſs ſhould iſſue into any county in England. Others conceived that ſo it might, though no devaſtavit was returned on a teſtatum. 2 Lee 67. pl. 90. Trin. 31 Eliz. in the Exchequer. Noon's caſe.

Sci. fa. againſt an executor, why the plaintiff ſhould not have execution de bonis propriis, is not to be awarded on the ſurmiſe of the party upon a devaſtation, nor in any caſe where the judgment is de bonis teſtatoris, unleſs it be upon return of the ſheriff where he returns a devaſtavit. Cro. E. 530. pl. 61. Mich. 38 & 39 Eliz. C. B. Aldworth v. Peel.

The defendant is not concluded by the inquiſition and return of the ſheriff, but that he well may traverſe it. For otherwiſe he ſhould be without remedy. Cro. E. 860. Gibſon v. Brook.

In caſe of a devaſtavit by one executor, judgment ſhall be general againſt all for the principal de bonis teſtatoris, & ſi non, de bonis of him only againſt whom the devaſtavit is returned. D. 210. Marg. pl. 23. cites Mitford's caſe.

In ſcire facias againſt an executor upon a devaſtavit returned: he pleaded that he had no aſſets at the time of the iſſuing of the ſcire facias, obſque hoc that he had waſted, &c. And this was adjudged to be an ill traverſe; for his having waſted is but inducement; and the ſubſtance is, whether or no he had aſſets at the time of the firſt action brought. Hardr. 70. pl. 6. Trin. 1656. in Scacc. The Protector v. Holt cites Mich. 22 Car. B. R. Lord Roberts v. Luxton.

An action of debt lies not on a devaſtavit, unleſs there be a judgment too. Cart. 2 Mich. 16 Car. 2. C. B. Burrel v. Richmond.

In a judgment againſt an executor a fieri facias iſſued out to the ſheriff, with a ſcire fieri inquiry, and a devaſtavit was found according to the common courſe, the return whereof was, Quod diverſa bona quæ fuerunt teſtatoris, &c. habuit, quæ elongavit & in uſum ſuum proprium convertit; it was objected againſt this return, that it was not ſaid devaſtavit, for in caſes an executor may juſtly convert the goods to his own uſe.

Hale ſaid, Anciently when the ſheriff returned a devaſtavit, which was not found by any inquiſition, and to which there was no anſwer, it was neceſſary to inſert the word devaſtavit, but otherwiſe in a return upon this ſpecial writ; for if the caſe be, that he hath not waſted the goods, but only eloigned them ſo as the ſheriff cannot come at them, the executor is chargeable upon the writ de bonis propriis, and this return anſwers the writ. Vent. 221. Trin. 24 Car. 2. B. R. Blackamore v. Mercer.

In a ſcire facias, with inquiry of aſſets, and waſte found and returned, to which the defendant pleads a former judgment, ultra quod, &c. ſo plene adminiſtravit, to which the plaintiff demurred, eſpecially becauſe the waſte is not traverſed, which is the point of the inquiſition; per cur. it ought to be traverſed, albeit on a ſcire facias on a judgment plene adminiſtravit be a good plea without traverſe of the ſuppoſed waſte in the count; but here the waſte being returned it is otherwiſe. Sed adjornatur. 3 Keb. 187, 188. pl 45. Trin. 25 Car. 2. B. R. Bold v. Rice.

If feme executrix ſurvives her baron, ſhe ſhall be charged for waſte committed by the baron, but not for the coſts returned againſt the baron de bonis propriis. 2 Lev. 161. Hill. 27 & 28 Car. 2. B. R. Horſey v. Daniel.

In a devaſtavit, an inventory, though not exhibited by the party defendant, but by commiſſioners on a commiſſion out of the ſpiritual court, &c. was allowed for evidence, and if defendant do not, or will not exhibit an inventory, it ſhall be taken pro confeſſo that he has aſſets; per Pemberton Ch. J. 2 Show. 163. pl. 152. Trin. 33 Car. 2. B. R. Anon'.

On a ſpecialiſſue after verdict it was held ill for defendant to ſay, Non devaſtavit ad valorem as the plaintiff had alledged, becauſe he did not ſay, Nec aliquam inde parcel'; for if part were waſted the plaintiff ſhall recover ſo much, as well as on a plene adminiſtravit, if aſſets be found to part of the debt. 2 Show. 447. pl. 414. Mich. 1 Jac. 2. B. R. Blanch v. Gabard.

Debt on bond againſt an adminiſtrator who waſtes goods, and dies inteſtate, leaving goods worth 500 l. and debts of his own of that value; ſcire facias is brought on the new ſtatute againſt his adminiſtrator, and he pleads payment of the 500 l. for ſimple contract debts of the waſting adminiſtrator, and held good; for the waſting is the charge, and that is of no higher nature, and by that ſtatute he is to be in the ſame caſe with his inteſtate, and he might have paid his own debt with it. 2 Show. 485. pl. 447. Mich. 2 Jac. 2. B. R. Britton v. Buckworth.

An adminiſtrator ſhall not be compelled to find ſpecial bail upon a bare ſuggeſtion of a devaſtavit; but in a debt upon judgment where a devaſtavit is actually returned by the ſheriff he ſhall. Cumb. 206. Paſch. 5 W. & M. Dubray v. ———.

Upon a writ awarded to the ſheriff upon a devaſtavit ſuggeſted againſt two executors, to inquire of a waſting by both; the ſheriff returned a devaſtavit as to one, but ſaid nothing as to the other; this being aſſigned for error after judgment upon a verdict was held to be aided by the verdict, being but an inſufficient return, or a miſreturn, by reaſon of the omiſſion; but it would have been otherwiſe if no return at all had been made. 1 Salk. 363. pl. 1. Paſch. 5 W. & M. in B. R. Brook v. Ellis.

The better to conſider the order which the law preſcribes for the payment of debts, and the duty injoined executors and adminiſtrators in diſcharging themſelves of the aſſets of the deceaſed, and which they muſt obſerve at their peril, it is neceſſary to take notice, that theſe debts are divided into three ſorts; 1. Debts by record. 2. Debts by ſpecialty. 3. Debts by ſimple contract Off. of Ex. 131.

Debts by record, which are to have the firſt precedency, are again divided into debts due to the crown, debts by judgments obtained in any court of record, and debts by recognizances, ſtatutes merchant or ſtaple. Off. of Ex. 131.

Of theſe the higheſt in its nature is the King's debt, and his prerogative to be preferred, other creditors ariſes from the regard the law has to the publick good beyond any private intereſt. 2 Inſt. 32 Off. of Ex. 132. Cro. Eliz. 793.

Therefore if an executor, whoſe teſtator was indebted by matter of record to the King, be ſued by judgment, or any other creditor, he may plead in bar, that his teſtator died ſo much indebted to the King, ſhewing how; and that he hath not aſſets above the value of that debt; and this will be a good plea: ſo if a creditor purſues his remedy by ſuing out execution upon a ſtatute merchant or ſtaple, the executor upon ſetting forth this matter will be relieved on an audita querela. Off. of Ex. 132.

But the debts due to the crown, which are to have a precedency, muſt be underſtood of debts of record; and therefore ſums of money due to the King upon wood-ſales, ſales of tin, or other his minerals, and for which no ſpecialty is given, are not to be preferred to the ſubject's debt by matter of record. Off. of Execut. 133.

So of amercements in the King's courts baron, courts of his honours which be not of record; alſo of fines for copyhold eſtates, or money for which ſtrays within the King's manors, or liberties, are ſold; theſe are not debts by record. Off. of Ex. 133.

Alſo whatever accrues to the King by an attainder or outlawry, is to be conſidered as a debt by ſimple contract before office found; for though the debts due to the perſon out-lawed, or attainted, were by matter of record, and although the outlawry and attainder are upon record, yet the King's title alſo muſt appear on record, which can't be before office found. Off. of Execut. 133.

Alſo it is ſaid that the arrearages of rent due to the King, whether it be a fee-farm rent, or rent reſerved on a leaſe for years, is to be conſidered as a debt by ſimple contract. Off. of Ex. 134.

Next to the King's debts on record are judgments to be paid, for theſe in regard to the ſolemnity of them are of greater notoriety than recognizances, or ſtatutes; for though theſe likewiſe be of record, yet as they are entred into by the private conſent and agreement of the parties, they are not eſteemed ſecurities of as high a nature in the eye of the law as judgments which are preſumed to be given invitè, though voluntarily acknowledged by the party. Off. of Ex. 135. 1 Rol. Abr. 926. Cro. Eliz. 793.

Therefore if a ſcire facias be brought againſt an executor on a judgment entred into by his teſtator, he can't plead plene adminiſtravit; for a judgment being to be paid next to the King's debt, the executor ought to ſhew, that he laid out the aſſets in the diſcharging the King's debt, or in ſatisfying ſome other judgment; otherwiſe it might be that he adminiſtered the aſſets in diſcharging ſtatutes, recognizances, or debts in ſpecialty; which he could not do before a debt on a judgment. Cro. Eliz. 575. Allen 48. Moor 858. Raym. 230. 3 Keb. 258. 2 Keb. 736. Comb. 298.

But if the judgment be ſatisfied, and only kept on foot to wrong other creditors; or if there be any defeazance of the judgment yet in force, the judgment will not avail to keep off other creditors from their debts. Off. of Ex. 136.

It hath been holden, and ſeems now agreed, that a decree in a court of equity is equal to a judgment at law; and that the filing of a bill in equity is of equal force to the filing of an original at law, to prevent the alienation of aſſets; and therefore where an executor, tho' without notice of a decree, paid a debt due by ſpecialty, he was decreed to pay it over again out of his own pocket. 1 Vern. 143. 3 Lev. 355. 2 Vern. 37, 88.

As to ſtatutes and recognizances they are of an equal degree, and to be paid next to judgments; and therefore the executor, where there are ſeveral conuzees, may prefer a ſubſequent ſtatute to a prior; for each ſtatute equally affects the perſonal eſtate, though as to lands the firſt ſhall have precedence. Off. of Exec. 138. Dyer 80. 1 Rol. Abr. 925. Bridg. 70, 80.

But if the teſtator had entred into a ſtatute for performance of covenants, and none of them were broken, in an action of debt againſt the executor on a ſpecialty, he can't plead this ſtatute; for perhaps the covenants may never be broken, and it would be unreaſonable to allow the executor to ward off a juſt debt upon a contingency that may never happen. 5 Co. 28. 1 Rol. Abr. 925. Cro. Jac. 8. Cro. Car. 362.

Debts by ſpecialty, as thoſe by bonds, &c. ſealed by the teſtator, are next to be paid. Off of Ex. 141.

Alſo it hath been adjudged, that if an action be brought againſt an executor on a ſimple contract of his teſtator's that he may plead, that his teſtator entred into a bond payable at a future day, and this will be a good bar. Cro. Eliz. 315. 3 Lev. 57. S. P.

Alſo rent arrear, and unpaid by the teſtator, is equal to a debt by ſpecialty; for this ſavouring of the realty, the executor can no more wage his law againſt ſuch a debt, than he can a debt by ſpecialty. Off. of Ex. 145. 1 Rol. Abr. 927.

So where debt was brought againſt an executor for rent reſerved on a parol-leaſe, after the leaſe was determined, and the executor pleaded, that the teſtator entred into an obligation, and that he had not aſſets ultra 5 l. which were not ſufficient to diſcharge this obligation; and on demurrer it was reſolved, that this rent, though reſerved on a parol-leaſe, was yet equal to an obligation; and that it ſtill remained in the realty, though the term was determined. 3 Lev. 267. 4 Mod. 44. 2 Vent. 184. S. C. Comb. 183. 1 Vern. 490.

Alſo by the cuſtom of London, if a citizen of London dies indebted by ſimple contract, ſuch debt is equal to a debt by ſpecialty. Cro. Eliz. 409. Noy. 53. 1 Rol. Abr. 557.

Debts by ſimple contract are poſtponed to all others, being debts of an inferior nature; yet an executor is bound, as far as he has aſſets, to pay them, as much as any other debt; and therefore a ſimple contract creditor need not allege, that the executor had aſſets to ſatisfy debts of a ſuperior nature, and his alſo; but if the truth be, that the executor has only aſſets ſufficient to ſatisfy ſuch ſuperior debts he muſt plead it. 9 Co. 88. Off. of Ex. 155. 1 Rol. Abr. 921. 5 Co. 82.

But though the law requires that debts ſhould be paid according to their ſuperiority, as herein ſet forth; yet may an executor pay a debt on a ſimple contract before a ſpecialty, if he has no notice of ſuch ſpecialty; for otherwiſe it might be in the power of the obligee to ruin the executor by keeping his bond in his pocket, until he had paid away all the aſſets in diſcharging ſimple contract debts. Keilw. 51. Plow. 279. 2 And. 157. 1 Sid. 230. 2 Shaw. 492. 3 Lev 113-4. Vaugh. 94.

Alſo where there are ſeveral creditors in an equal degree, the executor may prefer which he pleaſes. See Off. of Ex. 142. Dyer 22. 1 Rol. Abr. 926. 1 Sid. 21. And an executor may, when a creditor himſelf, retain aſſets againſt thoſe who are in an equal degree with him. 1 Rol. Abr. 922. Hob. 127, 250. Godb. 217. Cro. Eliz. 135, 120. 1 Leon. 111. Moor 260.

Debt; the defendant pleaded fully adminiſtred; the plaintiff replied, that at another time he brought an action of debt againſt the now defendant, whereupon ſhe was outlawed upon mean proceſs, and ſhe brought error and reverſed the outlawry, whereupon he freſhly brought this action, and that at the time of the firſt action brought ſhe had aſſets, & hoc petit quod inquiratur per patriam, & defendens ſimiliter; and thereupon a verdict found for the plaintiff, and judgment; error was brought, and inſiſted upon, that here is not any plea; for though ſhe had aſſets at the time of the firſt action brought, yet ſhe afterwards might have well adminiſtred it by reaſon of a lawful recovery, or lawful payment after; ſed non allocatur; for it ſhall not be intended without ſpecial matter ſhewn; and it ſuffices if there was enough at the time of the firſt action brought, unleſs ſhe ſhews ſufficient cauſe of diſcharge after that time. Cro. J. 579. pl. 9. Trin. 18 Jac. B. R. Aldrich v. Walthal.

A. mortgaged land to J. S. and gave a bond to perform covenants, and about ſix years after died inteſtate; M. poſſeſſed herſelf of the goods without taking letters of adminiſtration, and pays away all the aſſets in diſcharge of debts on ſimple contract. About ſeven years after A.'s death an old dormant intail was diſcovered, and the heir in tail brought ejectment and recovered poſſeſſion, whereupon the executor of J. S. ſued M. on the bond; M. prays an injunction, ſhe having paid all away, and never having any notice given her of the bond. Defendant demurred and was allowed, the bill being an attempt to alter the courſe of law; but if any fraud had been charged on defendant, by which ſhe was deceived, or inducing her to pay away the aſſets, it might have varied the caſe. Chanc. Prec. 524. pl. 329. Trin. 1720. Greenwood v. Brudniſh.

Bond to ſecure 400 l. borrowed, was made in quadraginta libris, where the ſum borrowed amounted to quadringent, 120 l. of the 400 l. was paid; decreed the bond to ſtand as a good bond of the penalty of the 400*l.* for the ſecuring the 280 l. due, and that this bond takes place of any other bond on which judgment has not been obtained. Trin. Rep. 413. Hill. 31 Car. 2. Simms v. Barry.

A freeman of London having three baſtards by B. confeſſes a judgment to B. of 1000*l.* defeaſanced for payment of 500 l. in three months after his death; decreed that this, being a voluntary judgment, ſhall not prevail againſt debts by ſimple contract, nor againſt the widow of the freeman, but that ſhe muſt have her ſhare according to the cuſtom of the city, without any regard had to this judgment; but his debts being paid, the judgment would bind the legacy-part. 2 Vern. 202. pl. 186. Hill. 1690. Fairbeard. v. Bowers.

Legacies are properly recoverable in the ſpiritual court, yet if an executor pays legacies before debts, though by ſimple contract, it is a devaſtavit in him. Off. of Ex. 26. Keilw. 128. Dyer 254

And as the law makes it a devaſtavit in the executor to pay legacies before debts; ſo it prohibits the legatee from meddling with the legacy without the aſſent of the executor; and therefore it hath been holden, that if a legatee takes poſſeſſion of the thing deviſed, without the aſſent of the executor, that he may have an action of treſpaſs againſt him. Godolph. 148, 149. Off. of Ex. 27.

But

But as it is the will of the teſtator which gives the intereſt to the legatee; ſo this matter of aſſent ſeems only a perfecting act for the ſecurity of the executor; and therefore the law does not require any exact form in which it is to be made. Hence any expreſſion or act done by the executor, which ſhew his concurrence to the thing deviſed, will amount to an aſſent. Off. of Ex. 29. Godolph. 148. Plow. 525.

If A. deviſes a term to B. for life, remainder to C. and the executor aſſents to the deviſe to B. this will amount to aſſent to the deviſe over to C. and veſt the intereſt in him accordingly. 4 Co. 28. 3 Co. 96.

If one is himſelf both the executor and deviſee, and he enters generally without claim or demonſtration of election, he ſhall have the thing deviſed as executor, which is his firſt and general authority. 10 Co. 47. Plowd. 520. a. Dyer 367. Cro. Eliz. 223. 2 Co. 37. b.

So where a man poſſeſſed of a long term deviſed it to his wife for life, remainder to truſtees for his ſon's life, &c. and made his wife executrix; and it was held, that the wife took the term wholly as executrix in the firſt place, till ſhe agreed to the deviſe; but it being proved, that ſhe ſaid ſhe would take the term according to the will, it was held by the court to be a ſufficient aſſent. 1 Lev. 25.

So where in a like caſe, where the wife ſaid, that the ſon was to have the eſtate after her; and this was reſolved to be a ſufficient aſſent. 1 Lev. 25.

Hence it hath been held, that if a ſpecifick legacy be deviſed, as three gowns, &c. and the legatee takes money in ſatisfaction of them, that this amounts, 1ſt, to a conſent of the executor to the legacy or deviſe of them; and then it is a ſale of them by the legatee or deviſee to the executor for the money eo inſtanti. 2 Bac. Abr. 435. cites Hil. 5 Ann. Becket and Ball.

An executor may lay out ſo much of the teſtator's aſſets, as are neceſſary for defraying his funeral expences, before he has paid any of his debts or legacies. 1 Rol. Abr. 926.

And herein the executor is to be careful that the expences be moderate, and not exceeding the decree and circumſtances of the deceaſed, otherwiſe he may be guilty of a devaſtavit. Off. of Ex. 129, 130. Comb. 342.

And in ſtrictneſs it is ſaid, that no funeral expences are allowable againſt a creditor, except for the coffin, ringing the bell, parſon, clerk, and bearers fees; but not for pall or ornaments. 1 Salk. 296.

Executors are no farther chargeable than they have aſſets, unleſs they make themſelves ſo by their own act; as by pleading a falſe plea, i. e. ſuch a plea as will be a perpetual bar to the plaintiff, and which of their own knowledge they know to be falſe. 1 Rol. Abr. 930. Godolph. 198.

Therfore if an executor being ſued pleads ne unques executor, and it is found againſt him, the judgment ſhall be de bonis teſtatoris ſi, &c. ſi non, de bonis propriis; for thereby he eſtrangeth himſelf from the teſtator, and by his own falſity and folly hath made his own goods chargeable. 1 Rol. Abr. 930, 933.

So if to an action brought againſt him he pleads a releaſe made to himſelf, and it is found againſt him, this ſhall charge him de bonis propriis; for it is a falſity which falls within his own knowledge. Cro. Jac. 671. 2.

So where an action of debt upon an obligation was brought againſt an adminiſtrator for 14 l. and he pleaded, that before notice of the action his adminiſtration was revoked; and that likewiſe before notice he delivered over 200 l. which he had of the inteſtate's, to the new adminiſtrator; the plaintiff replied, that the revocation was by covin and fraud, which being found for him, it was held, that he ſhould recover abſolutely from the adminiſtrator. Yelv. 219. 1 Bulſt. 187. S. C.

But if an executor pleads, that ſuch a deed is not the deed of his teſtator, or that a releaſe was given to the teſtator; tho' theſe prove falſe, yet the judgment ſhall be de bonis teſtatoris, for of theſe the executor cannot be preſumed to have ſo perfect a knowledge. 1 Rol. Abr. 931. Cro. Jac. 672.

So in debt upon a bond againſt baron and feme as adminiſtratrix, the defendant pleaded payment by the feme, after the death of the inteſtate, and it was found againſt him, and the judgment was, that he recover againſt them, de bonis teſtatoris, ſi tantum habent in manibus, & ſi non, pro miſis de bonis propriis, and held well enough; for though the plea is falſe, yet the huſband was a ſtranger to the inteſtate, and might not know whether the wife had paid it to the plaintiff, or not. Cro. Jac. 191.

So if an action of covenant be brought againſt an executor, and the breach aſſigned be in the time of the executor; yet the judgment ſhall be de bonis teſtatoris, for it is the teſtator's covenant which binds the executor, as repreſenting him, and therefore he muſt be ſued by that name. Hob. 188. Cro. Jac. 647, 671. Hutt. 35. 1 Brownl. 24. 1 Rol. Abr. 931, 932.

It is holden in Shipley's caſe, that if an action of debt on an obligation of 200 l. be brought againſt an executor, who pleads fully adminiſtred; and the plaintiff replies aſſets, which are found by the jury to the value of 172 l. that a judgment to recover the intire debt and damages, and coſts of the goods of the teſtator, ſi, &c. & ſi non, tunc the damages of his proper goods, is good, for that the defendant's bar being in effect, that he had not aſſets, the ſame amounted to a confeſſion of the debt, on which the plaintiff may take judgment immediately, tho' he cannot have execution until aſſets come to the hands of the executor. 8 Co. 134.

But in the caſe of Dorcheſter and Webb it ſeems to be holden, that the plaintiff, upon a plea of plene adminiſtravit, cannot have judgment of aſſets in futuro; for that this is ſuch an acknowledgment of the want of aſſets, as will bar him in the ſame manner as if the plaintiff had denied, that he had fully adminiſtred, which being found againſt him will bar him, and on which the plaintiff muſt alſo pay coſts. Cro. Car. 373.

But this matter came to be fully conſidered in the caſe of Woel and Nelſon, where in debt againſt an executor he pleads fully adminiſtred, whereupon the plaintiff prays judgment of aſſets in futuro, and it was ſo entred; and after, upon a ſuggeſtion of aſſets, the plaintiff ſues forth a ſcire facias, to which he pleads no aſſets, and it is found againſt him, and judgment accordingly; and it was urged for error, that the plaintiff hereby has confeſſed the plea of fully adminiſtred, and then it is as ſtrong againſt him as if there had been a verdict, in which he ſhould have been barred for ever; but it was reſolved for the plaintiff, for he had a good cauſe of action, and probably did not know that there were aſſets, and hath done nothing amiſs; for as ſoon as the executor denies aſſets by his plea, he reſts ſatisfied, and makes only a reſonable prayer, that he may be paid when aſſets come, as it is fit he ſhould, and therefore they agreed Shipley's caſe to be good law; for when the executor pleads riens en mains, he confeſſes the debt, which is a good foundation for the judgment; but the want of aſſets at preſent hinders execution, which is therefore ſtayed till aſſets ſhall come. 1 Lev. 286. 2 Saund. 214. 1 Sid. 448. 2 Keb. 606, 671. 1 Vent. 94.

If an executor, in conſideration that a creditor to the teſtator will forbear to ſue him for a certain time, promiſes to pay him his debt, this ſhall bind him; and an aſſumpſit lies againſt him on this promiſe, without alleging that he hath aſſets. Cro. Jac. 47. 1 Rol. Abr. 921.

So where in aſſumpſit the plaintiff declared, that J. S. deviſed a legacy to him, and made the defendant executor, and the plaintiff intending to ſue him for the legacy, the defendant, in conſideration of forbearance, promiſed to pay him: the defendant pleaded divers bonds and judgments, and nul aſſets ultra, upon which the plaintiff demurred, and had judgment without argument; for it is not material whether he had aſſets or no, for he is charged upon his own promiſe, in conſideration of forbearance; and a forbearance of ſuit for a legacy is a ſufficient conſideration. 2 Lev. 3. 1 Vent. 120.

So if A. together with B. is bound to C. for the proper debt of B. and A. pays the money, and B. dies, and makes D. his executor, and D. in conſideration that A. will will forbear to ſue him till ſuch a time, aſſumes and promiſes to repay him; this conſideration is good, though D. was liable in equity only. 1 Sid. 89. 1 Lev. 71. S. C.

6. Of actions and remedies againſt executors, and pleadings.

It is clearly agreed, that executors and adminiſtrators ſtanding in the place of thoſe they repreſent, ſhall be anſwerable for all their debts, covenants, &c. as far as they have aſſets, and that the teſtators covenants ſhall extend to them, though not expreſsly mentioned. Off. of Exc. 117. Cro. Car. 187. 1 Jon. 223. Yelv. 103.

And therefore, where a man covenanted that A. ſhould ſerve B. as an apprentice for ſeven years, and died, it was held, that if A. departs within the term, a writ of covenant lies againſt the executor of the covenantor without naming. Bro. Covenant, 12.

If a man be bound to inſtruct an apprentice in a trade for ſeven years, and the maſter dies, the condition is diſpenſed with, for it is perſonal; but if he were likewiſe bound to find him with meat, drink, cloaths and lodging; this the executors are obliged to perform. 1 Sid. 216 1 Keb. 761, 820. 1 Lev. 177. S. C.

If A. leaſes to B. and B. covenants to repair, &c. and he aſſigns to J. S. who dies inteſtate; the premiſes being out of repair, the leſſor may bring covenant againſt his adminiſtrator as aſſignee, and declare, that he made a leaſe to B. &c. cujus ſtatus & reſiduum termini anorum, &c. devenit, &c. per aſſignationem to the adminiſtrator. Carth. 519. 1 Salk. 309. S. C.

The executor of a leſſee for years muſt pay the rent reſerved, though the rent be of greater value than the land, Off. of Execut. 1 Salk. 296.

And if an action of debt be brought againſt an executor, for the arrearages of a rent reſerved upon a leaſe for years, and incurred after the death of the teſtator, the writ ſhall be in the debet and detinet, becauſe the executor is charged of his own poſſeſſion. 1 Rol. Abr. 603. Cro. Eliz. 711. Moor 566. 1 Brownl. 56. Cro. Jac. 411, 546. 1 Bulſt. 23.

But though he is to be charged in the debet and detinet, yet the executor may plead that he has not aſſets, and that the land is of leſs value than the rent, and demand judgment, if he ought not to be charged in the detinet only; but ſo long as he hath aſſets he can't wave the term, or ſay, that it is of leſs value than the rent; but after he hath diſcharged himſelf of the aſſets, he may waive the poſſeſſion by giving notice to the reverſioner. 1 Salk. 297. Off. of Exec. 119.

Alſo in all actions againſt executors and adminiſtrators, the charge muſt be in the detinet only; for they are only chargeable in reſpect of the aſſets. 8 Co. 159, 536. But it hath been held, that if debt be brought againſt an adminiſtrator in the debet and detinet, for rent due before his time, where it ſhould be only in the detinet, that this is aided after verdict, by 16 & 17 Car. 2. 1 Sid. 379.

But if an executor obliges himſelf to pay a debt due by contract by the teſtator, in debt upon this obligation the writ may be in the debet and detinet, becauſe the obligation makes it his own debt. 1 Rol. Abr. 603.

So after a judgment againſt an executor, one may in a new action of debt in the debet and detinet ſuggeſt a devaſtavit, and thereby charge him de bonis propriis. 1 Sid. 397.

The taking up an executorſhip is an engagement to anſwer all debts of the deceaſed, and all undetakings that create a debt, as far as there are aſſets; but doth not embark him in the perſonal truſts of the deceaſed; nor is he obliged to anſwer for his ſeveral injuries, which none can tell how they might have been diſcharged or anſwered by the teſtator himſelf. Plow. 181. Off. of Execut. 120.

Hence it hath been eſtabliſhed as a maxim, that actio perſonalis moritur cum perſona; and on this foundation it was formerly held, that there was no remedy for the recovery of debt due by ſimple contract by the teſtator, eſpecially by action of debt; for herein the teſtator might have waged his law, of which benefit his executor is deprived. 1 Rol. Abr. 21, 25. 9 Co. 86. 4 Co. 23. Cro. Eliz. 121, 302.

But it is now agreed, that an action lies againſt executors, where there is a duty as well as a wrong; and that they are anſwerable in thoſe perſonal actions which ariſe ex contractu, and not ex malificio; for that every contract implies a promiſe to perform it, in which the teſtator himſelf could not wage his law, becauſe he could not make oath that he had diſcharged the duty before the quantum had been aſcertained by a jury. 9 Co. 87. 10 Co. 77. b. Cro. Jac. 293. Vaugh. 101.

So where in caſe againſt an executor the plaintiff declared, that he proſecuted an attachment of privilege againſt the teſtator; and that the teſtator, in conſideration that he would forbear any further proceedings, promiſed to pay him 50 l. and it was held, that the action lay againſt the executor, this being ſuch a contract as bound the teſtator himſelf. Hob. 216.

Alſo it hath been reſolved, that there is no difference between a promiſe to pay a debt certain, and a promiſe to do a collaterial act, which is uncertain, and reſts only in damages; as a promiſe to give ſuch a fortune with his daughter, to deliver up ſuch a bond, &c. and that whenever in thoſe caſes the teſtator himſelf is liable to an action, his executors ſhall be liable alſo. Cro. Jac. 405. 417, 571. 1 Jon. 16. Palm. 329.

So where a prohibition was prayed, becauſe a parſon libelled in the ſpiritual court for tithes, ſubſtracted by teſtator, againſt an executor, upon this ground; that it was a perſonal tort, that died with the perſon; at leaſt the penalty given by the ſtatute ſhould not be recovered after the party's death who offended; but the court denied the prohibition, and held, that the rule, that quod oritur ex delicto & non ex contractu ſhould not charge the executor, did not extend to the caſe of tithes. Raym. 95. 1 Sid. 181. 1 Keb. 692. S. C. 1 Lev. 39. S. P.

Trover lies againſt executors, for this action is not merely ex maleficio, which dies with the perſon, but here there is ſuppoſed an intention in the teſtator to reſtore the goods to the right owner, for the law will not preſume an intention of injury in any perſon; and therefore the maleficium is in the executors, in not making reſtitution accordingly. 2 Bac. Abr. 445.

And tho' the rule at common law, that a perſonal action dies with the perſon, hath been conſtrued equally to extend to wrongs and injuries done by or to the teſtator; ſuch as aſſaults and batteries, breaches of truſt, &c. yet it ſeems, that an executor in ſome caſes may, within the equity of 4 Ed. 3. cap. 7. de bonis aſportatis in vita teſtatoris, maintain an action for an injury done to his teſtator; whereas if it had been done by the teſtator, it would have come within the rule of actio perſonalis moritur cum perſona. 4 Mod. 403. 1 Salk. 314.

And therefore it hath been held, that if a ſheriff ſuffers a perſon in his cuſtody on mean proceſs to eſcape, that the executor of the party, at whoſe ſuit he was in cuſtody, may maintain an action againſt him; becauſe the body of the priſoner being a pledge for the debt, the executor might be otherwiſe without any remedy, which is an injury to the goods and not to the perſon of the teſtator: but in this caſe, if the ſheriff died, the party could have no remedy againſt his executor. 1 Jon. 173. Poph. 189. Latch 167. Noy 87.

So where to a fieri facias the ſheriff made a falſe return, viz. that he levied only ſo much, when in truth he had actually levied more; and the executor of the party brought an action for this falſe return, and adjudged, that it lay; for this was not properly an injury done to the perſon of the teſtator, for then moritur cum perſona, but it was an injury to his eſtate. 4 Mod. 403. 1 Salk. 12.

It ſeems agreed, that executors or adminiſtrators of executors or adminiſtrators, were not at Common law liable to the devaſtavits of thoſe they repreſented, becauſe they could not be ſuppoſed to know how their teſtators or inteſtates had diſpoſed of the goods; and therefore this was eſteemed actio perſonalis quæ moritur cum perſona.

1 Rol.

1 Rol. Abr. 920. 2 Lev. 110, 133. 3 Keb. 462, 530. 1 Vent. 292.

But it being found very inconvenient, that where an executor de ſon tort died, there could be no remedy at law againſt his executors or adminiſtrators; or that where a lawful executor made an alteration of the goods of the teſtator, and died, that creditors to the firſt teſtator ſhould be diſappointed of their debts, though ſuch executor left ſufficient aſſets: therefore by an act of 30 Car. 2. creditors were enabled to recover their debts of the executors and adminiſtrators of executors in their own wrong; and this act by the 4 & 5 W. & M. cap. 24. is made perpetual; and alſo by the laſt mentioned act reciting, that it had been doubted, whether the 30 Car. 2. extended to any executor or executors, adminiſtrator or adminiſtrators of any executor or adminiſtrator of right, who for want of privity in law were not before anſwerable; it is enacted and declared, "That all and every the executor and executors, adminiſtrator or adminiſtrators of ſuch executor or adminiſtrator of right, who ſhall waſte or convert to his own uſe goods, chattels or eſtate of his teſtator or inteſtate, ſhall from thenceforth be liable and chargeable in the ſame manner, as his or their teſtator or inteſtate ſhould or might have been."

Executors and adminiſtrators, when plaintiffs, pay no coſts; for they ſue in auter droit, and are but truſtees for the creditors, and are not preſumed to be ſufficiently conuzant in the perſonal contracts of thoſe they repreſent; and therefore are not comprehended within the ſtatutes 23 H. 8. cap. 15. 4 Jac. 1. cap. 3. or 8 & 9 W. & M. cap. 10. which give defendants coſts. Cro. Jac. 228. Yelv. 168. 1 Brownl. 107. Keilw. 207. Hutt. 69, 79. Cro. Eliz. 69, 503. Cro. Car. 289. Winch. 10. 70.

But if executors or adminiſtrators bring an action in their own right, as for a converſion or treſpaſs in their own time, they ſhall pay coſts, although they name themſelves executors, for this is but ſurpluſage. Sav. 134. Hutt. 79. Latch. 220. 1 Vent. 92. 6 Mod. 94. 181.

So an executor defendant ſhall pay coſts in all caſes, and the judgment is de bonis teſtatoris, ſi, &c. & ſi non, tunc de bonis propriis; alſo when he is defendant, and there is judgment for him, he ſhall have his coſts. Plow. 183. Hard. 165. Cro. Eliz. 503. Hutt. 69.

Where judgment againſt an adminiſtrator for coſts de bonis propriis, and error brought, that it ought to have been de bonis teſtatoris, & ſi nulla bona, then de bonis propriis, and this was agreed to be error; but whether this judgment for the coſts might not be reverſed without affecting the principal judgment was the queſtion, they being diſtinct judgments; and it was held by Holt Chief Juſtice, that if judgment be given for recovery of dower and meſne profits in damages, it may be reverſed for the one, and ſtand for the other; and he took this difference; if one part of the judgment be warranted by act of parliament, and the other by Common law, this may be reverſed for part, and ſtand for the other; but if all be at Common law, it muſt ſtand or be reverſed in all; and in this caſe the judgment for the coſts was reverſed, and the principal judgment affirmed. 2 Bac. Abr. 446. Trin. 6 Ann. in B. R. Hickman and Weſtbrook.

Executors and adminiſtrators are not to be held to ſpecial bail; for the demand is not on the perſons, but on the aſſets of the deceaſed; and it would be unreaſonable to ſubject their perſons to an execution for the debt of another. Cro. Jac. 350. Yelv. 53. Cro. Car. 59. Lit. Rep. 2.

Hence it hath been held, that if there be a judgment againſt an executor for the debt de bonis teſtatoris, and for the damages only de bonis propriis, he may bring error, and have a ſuperſedeas, without giving ſureties, according to 3 Jac. 1. cap. 8. For though the words of the ſtatute are general, yet it muſt be intended where judgment is againſt the defendant himſelf upon his own bond, or where the judgment is general againſt executors; for it would be unreaſonable thy ſhould find ſureties to pay the whole out of their own eſtate. Cro. Jac. 350. Cro. Jac. 59. S. P. Lit. Rep. 2. S. P. 1 Keb. 716. S. P.

But upon a devaſtavit, executors ſhall be held to ſpecial bail; and herein the difference is, that upon a bare ſuggeſtion of a devaſtavit, an executor ſhall not be held to ſpecial bail; but where upon a judgment againſt him execution is taken out, and the ſheriff returns a devaſtavit, upon an action of debt upon this judgment, the executor ſhall be held to ſpecial bail. 1 Lev. 145. 1 Sid. 63. 1 Salk. 95. Carth. 264. Comb. 206.

A. was accountable to J. S. and afterwards J. S. was outlawed in an action perſonal. A. died. The Queen by her letters patents granted unto B. omnia bona & catalla, exitus, proficua, forisfactur' & advantagia quæcunque which came to her, or accrued by reaſon of the outlawry of the ſaid J. S. and now B. brought an action of account againſt the executors of the ſaid A. as executors of their own wrong. The defendants plead, that they had letters of adminiſtration committed to them by the ordinary, and demanded judgment of the writ. The plaintiff in maintenance of his writ replied, that the defendants adminiſtred of their own wrong before that adminiſtration was granted unto them. Upon which the defendants did demur in law. It was the opinion of ſome of the juſtices, that the wrong is purged by taking of letters of adminiſtration, and now they are to be charged as adminiſtrators only, and not otherwiſe. Ley 197. pl. 250. Hill. 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer. Anon' cites 50 Ed. 3. 9. 20 H. 6. 1. 3.

Aſſumpſit againſt an adminiſtrator, who pleaded that on Saturday the inteſtate entred into a bond to J. S. to pay 40*l.* at Michaelmas next enſuing, and that plene adminiſtravit all the goods of the ſaid inteſtate præterquam to ſatisfy that 40*l.* and upon a demurrer the court held it a good plea; for debts on bonds are to be paid before debts on contract. Cro. E. 315. Hill. 36. Eliz. B. R. Buckland v. Brooke.

Debt was brought againſt an executor upon a bond of his teſtator. The defendant pleaded non eſt factum ſuum. It was inſiſted for the plaintiff that this plea was ill, becauſe the relative ſuum muſt refer to the defendant, and not to the teſtator, there being no mention of teſtator in all the bar. But three juſtices held e contra, for it ſhall be referred to that to which it may reaſonably relate to make the plea good; but Whitlock doubted. Latch 125. Trin. 1 Car. Baker's caſe.

Debt againſt an executor who pleaded plene adminiſtravit. It was held no good evidence to prove the defendant had promiſed to pay J. S.'s debt due by the teſtator before this action brought; but otherwiſe if he had given his bond for it; and if an executor renew a bond which teſtator had entered into as ſurety only, this is no ſuch adminiſtration as will make this plea good againſt other creditors by ſpecialty. Clayt. 88. pl. 148. July 16 Car. before Foſter J. Arluſh v. Colliſon.

In debt on bond againſt an executor who pleads plene adminiſtravit, and gave in evidence bonds cancelled and taken in, and acquittances for money; this was held not good without proof of real payments made, or new ſecurity given. Clayt. 112. pl. 193. March 24 Car. Sot's caſe.

Adminiſtrator may have treſpaſs or trover for goods taken before adminiſtration granted to him, for that relates to the death of the inteſtate, and not to the time of the granting it. Sty. 341. Mich. 1652. Long. v. Hebbs.

Where the creditor adminiſters to the inteſtate debtor, he may retain the goods to ſatisfy his debts, and where the goods are taken away before adminiſtration granted to him, ſo that he hath none to retain, in ſuch caſe he may have treſpaſs or trover, or debt againſt the perſon who took them, for the action is not ſuſpended by the adminiſtration. Sty. 384. Trin. 1653. Aſhly v. Child.

Debt againſt an executor who imparled, and afterwards pleaded a miſnomer in bar, viz. that he was adminiſtrator, with the will annexed, and not executor, and therefore ought to be named adminiſtrator; but upon demurrer judgment was for the plaintiff niſi, &c. for he cannot plead a miſnomer after imparlance. Sty. 385. Trin. 1653. B. R. Fiſher v. Jefferies.

Riens enter mains pleaded by an executor is an affirmative plea in ſubſtance, though it ſounds ſomewhat in the negative, for it is in effect the ſame with plene adminiſtravit, and ſuch plea muſt be averred; per Roll Ch. J. Sty. 405. Hill. 1654. Anon'.

If an action of debt be brought againſt an executor upon a ſimple contract of the teſtator, and he appears and pleads nil debet, and found againſt him, the plaintiff ſhall have judgment becauſe he has diſpenſed with his advantage. Freem. Rep. 6, 7. in pl. 5. Mich. 1670.

In aſſumpſit againſt executor the defendant pleaded a recognizance not ſatisfied, and alſo a judgment in debt for 5000*l.* upon a goldſmith's note, payable with intereſt upon demand, which not being paid till ſuch a time after, and the intereſt amounted to 1700*l.* the judgment againſt him was found for 7600*l.* [6700] and that he had not ultra 40*l.* chargeable to this recognizance and judgment; adjudged that this plea was ill, becauſe pleading a judgment for intereſt, which is devaſtavit to permit it to run in arrear, and then to ſuffer judgment for it, and it ſhall not be intended that there was a want of aſſets to pay it before the incurring of it by the adminiſtrator, the ſame not being expreſsly pleaded. 2 Lev. 39. Hill. 23 & 24 Car. 2 B. R. Seaman v. Dee.

Aſſumpſit by the plaintiff as adminiſtrator, but at the end of the declaration the profert hic in curia literas teſtamentarias was omitted. There was a frivolous plea, on which the plaintiff demurred, the defendant joined in demurrer and inſiſted on this fault; but it was ruled by Hale, cæteris tacentibus, that it was only matter of form, becauſe it was not a fault in the declaration itſelf, but an omiſſion of what ought to be inſerted after the end of the declaration; and therefore on a general demurrer no advantage can be taken of it. It was urged, that there are 20 books that prove it to be matter of ſubſtance, which Hale confeſſed, but ſaid that the opinion had been otherwiſe for 10 years paſt, (but the Reporter thinks that he intended his own opinion); and thereupon judgment for the plaintiff. 2 Saund. 402. Paſch. 24 Car. 2. Slow v. Wilmott.

Sci. fa. by an adminiſtrator upon a judgment of 1000*l.* the defendant pleaded, that ſuch a day before adminiſtration was granted to the plaintiff it was granted to J. N, who is ſtill alive at B. and demanded judgment of the writ. The plaintiff replied, that J. N. was dead, and concludes to the country. The defendant demurred, for that the plaintiff ſhould have traverſed, abſque hoc that he is alive. This plea was held ill, for though it contradicts the declaration, the one affirming that adminiſtration was granted to him, and the other that it was granted to J. N. yet an apt iſſue is not formed without an affirmative and a negative. Vent. 213. Trin. 24 Car. 2. B. R. Forteſcue v. Holt.

Aſſumpſit againſt executor; the defendant pleads four judgments, and that he had but 5*l.* aſſets to ſatisfy thoſe judgments (each of the judgments being for a greater ſum); the plaintiff replies to one of the judgments, that it was kept on foot by fraud and covin, &c. and demands judgment whether he ought to have his debt. It was objected, that he ought not to anſwer only to one, but to all; as if a man pleads outlawries in bar, and the plaintiff reverſes one of them, this will not ſerve his turn, but he muſt reverſe them all. Vaughan ſaid, the defendant hath four ſtrings to his bow, whereof each of them will ſerve his turn; though you have caſhiered one, yet he has three left; and the moſt proper replication would have been, that he had aſſets above 5*l.* and then if iſſue had been taken, and it had been found for the plaintiff, he ſhould have judgment de bonis teſtatoris, as if iſſue had been taken upon a plene adminiſtravit, and aſſets had been proved. This was referred to ſerjeant Turner, who made an end of it. Freem. Rep. 28. pl. 35. Hill. 1671. Chamberlain v. Pickering.

An action of debt was brought on a bond againſt the defendant as heir of the obligor, who pleaded that his anceſtor died inteſtate, and that adminiſtration, &c. was granted to J. S. who gave the plaintiff another bond in ſatisfaction of the firſt; adjudged a good plea, becauſe by this bond given by the adminiſtrator the plaintiff's ſecurity was bettered, and the adminiſtrator is now chargeable de bonis propriis. Mod. 225. pl. 14. Trin. 28 Car. 2. C. B. Blythe v. Hill.

Three ſeveral actions were brought at one time for 100*l.* each, he pleaded riens enter mains ultra 100*l.* to each action, and ſo upon each action there was a judgment againſt him for 100*l.* and upon a motion for an injunction, it was denied by Lord North. In caſes proper for law a man may defend himſelf by legal pleadings, and every executor ought to be careful to cover all his aſſets with a judgment. Vern. 119. pl. 108. Hill. 1682. Anon.

Judgment upon a ſci. fa. againſt an executor, and an inquiry, and returned that he diverſa bona teſtatoris diſpoſuit, elongavit, & ad proprium uſum convertit; he comes and pleads that he was never executor, or adminiſtred as executor, and traverſes, abſque hoc that he bona teſtatoris diſpoſuit, &c. whereupon iſſue joined, and found againſt him, and judgment, which was held good upon a writ of error, for he having gone off from his plea of ne unque executor, and traverſed the converſion, it ſhall be intended a converſion as executor. Skin. 85. pl. 3. Hill. 35 Car. 2. B. R. Bird v. Harriſon.

The probate of a will is not traverſable. 2 L. P. R. 587. tit. Traverſe, cites Raym. 406, 407. Chicheſter v. Philips.

An executor has 20*l.* aſſets, and he is ſued by two obligees for 20*l.* at the ſame time, and pleads plene adminiſtravit, both ſhall have judgment for that aſſets; but had he paid it to one on the firſt ſuit, or confeſſed judgment to one, he might plead it to the other. Arg. 2 Show. 503. Mich. 2 Jac. 2. B. R.

Debt againſt an executor, who pleaded that his teſtator entred into a bond of ſuch a penalty to T. S. conditioned to pay ſo much money, which was not yet paid, beyond which he had not aſſets. To this plea the plaintiff demurred ſpecially, and ſhewed for cauſe, that the defendant did not aver (as he ought) that the bond was entred into by the teſtator pro vero & juſto debito. But the court held the plea good without ſuch averment, for it ſhall be intended the bond was given for a juſt debt, and the obligation itſelf ſhall be ſufficient to diſcharge the executor, though he had not received any money of teſtator's. Carth. 8. Trin. 3 Jac. 2. Lake v. Raw.

Action againſt an executor who pleads ſeveral judgments, the plaintiff may reply to them ſeverally, or generally, that they were kept on foot by fraud; per Holt Ch. J. Adjornatur. Show. 289, 290.

If executor ſuffers judgment to go againſt him by default, it is an admiſſion of aſſets, and the ſheriff may on the fi. fa. return a devaſtavit. 12 Mod. 411. Trin. 12 W. 3. Rook v. Sheriff of Saliſbury.

In an action againſt an executor or adminiſtrator, if he pleads 20 judgments, he confeſſes aſſets for above 19 of them; and yet they muſt at their peril plead all the judgments in force againſt them, for if they fail in one of them, they ſhall never take advantage of it, for the creditor ſhall have judgment to execute when aſſets came, and if the executor plead not all his judgments, he loſes the right of preferring them, and may be charged in a devaſtavit for thoſe judgments he has omitted to plead, of which ſee a caſe well reported in Hutton; for the pleading of the judgment is a protection of the aſſets which you have or may have until the judgment be ſatisfied; and if one pleads 5 judgments, and one of them be falſe or fraudulent, you are ſaddled with the whole debt. Per Holt Ch. J. and Gould J. 12 Mod. 196. Trin. 13 W. 3. Aſfield v. Parker.

When an executor pleads to a recognizance, he muſt ſet it forth to the court, that the court may ſee whether it be performed or not, but if it be a debt, they need only ſay that a judgment was obtained againſt him in ſuch a court, if it be in any of the courts of Weſtminſter; but if it be in any inferior court, they muſt give it juriſdiction, and ſay taliter proceſſum fuit, &c. Here the plaintiff had judgment upon the firſt exception; per Holt. Ch. J. 12 Mod. 613. Hill. 13 W. 3. B. R. in the caſe of Ingram v. Foot.

Adjudged,

Adjudged, that where an executor ſuffers judgment to go againſt him by default, upon the writ of inquiry, he ſhall not give in evidence want of aſſets, becauſe he is now eſtopped; for he ought to have pleaded plene adminiſtravit, or ſpecially what aſſets he had. 6 Mod. 308. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R.

In debt againſt an executor for rent incurred after his entry, he cannot plead plene adminiſtravit, for that confeſſes miſapplication, ſince no other payment out of the profits can be juſtified till the rent be anſwered. 1 Salk. 317. pl. 25. Trin. 9 Ann. B. R. Buckley v. Pink.

An executor cannot plead riens en ſes mains in any caſe but to a ſcire facias upon a judgment, for he may commit a devaſtavit by a releaſe, though he had never the goods in his hands. Trin. 9 Ann. B. R. Peck v. Peck.

Executor promiſed to pay a debt of teſtator's on a certain future day, and the action was againſt him as executor; but Parker Ch. J. held, that the naming him executor was ſurpluſage, becauſe it appears on the face of the record, that the demand was a demand upon him upon his own contract. In effect the forbearance is the conſideration of this promiſe, becauſe without forbearance no advantage can be taken of this promiſe; cites 1 Salk. 117. Yard. v. Ellard; and to this opinion the reſt of the court inclined. Sed adjornatur. 10 Mod. 254. Trin. 13 Ann. B. R. Johnſon v. Gardiner.

In debt upon bond againſt an executor, who pleaded ſeveral judgments in bar to the action, ultra quod he had not aſſets; the plaintiff replied, that (placitum) prædict' eſt minus ſufficiens to bar him, becauſe ſatisfaction was acknowledged on ſuch an one of the judgments, and all the other were kept on foot by fraud, and hoc parat' eſt verificare, but did not ſay per recordum; and upon demurrer to this replication, if was adjudged for the plaintiff, becauſe hoc parat' eſt verificare ſhall be taken reſpectively, and ſhall be good on a general, though otherwiſe on a ſpecial demurrer, and the word placitum is not but one bar, viz. all the judgments make but one bar, and therefore placitum in the replication anſwers the whole. Sid. 429. pl. 16. Mich. 21 Car. 2. B. R. Hancock v. Prowt.

If an executor pleads ſeveral judgments, the plaintiff may reply diſtinctly to each of them, that they were obtained by fraud; or you may ſay ſeparalia judicia, &c. obtent' per fraudem, but in the laſt pleading if one is found to be a true debt, the plaintiff muſt have judgment. Per Twiſden. 2 Mod. pl. 79. Hill. 21 & 22 Car. 2. B. R. Anon'.

In debt againſt an executor, he pleaded judgments, and that he had not aſſets ultra; the plaintiff replied, that the judgments were kept on foot by fraud and covin. The defendant rejoined, that he did not keep them on foot by fraud; and exception was taken, becauſe he did not ſay the judgments or any of them. Vaugh. Ch. J. held the exception good, for the rejoinder is a negative pregnant; and judgment per tot. cur. for the plaintiff. Cart. 221. Paſch. 23 Car. 2. C. B. Warcupp v. Symonds.

Debt againſt an executor upon a bond of his teſtator; the defendant pleaded two judgments had againſt the teſtator, and ſet them forth, and that he had not aſſets ultra 40*s.* towards ſatisfaction. The plaintiff replied, that the defendant paid ſo much upon the firſt judgment, and ſo much upon the other; yet kept on foot by fraud; and upon demurrer it was inſiſted, that the replication was ſo complicated, that no diſtinct iſſue could be taken upon it, for the plaintiff put them both together, when he alleges they were kept on foot by fraud; but the replication was held good, and the plaintiff had judgment. 2 Mod. 36. Paſch. 27 Car. 2. C. B. Maſon v. Stratton.

Debt on bond againſt an executor, who pleaded a judgment obtained againſt him upon another bond of the teſtator, but did not ſay prout patet per recordum; then he pleaded ſeveral other judgments, and that plene adminiſtravit all the goods of the teſtator præterquam 10*s.* which was charged with the ſaid judgments, and not ſufficient to ſatisfy them; the plaintiff replied proteſtando, that all the judgments were obtained by fraud, pro placito dicit, that the day of the writ there was no more than 100*l.* due on all the judgments, and that the defendant then had ſufficient aſſets to ſatisfy the judgments, and likewiſe the debt due to the plaintiff, but that he ſuffered the judgments to remain in force to defraud him; upon demurrer, it was reſolved, that this general pleading of aſſets to ſatisfy all the judgments, and the plaint was good; but becauſe no venue was laid where he had aſſets, ſo that it was not triable, it was an incurable fault. 3 Lev. 311. and 368. Trin. 2 W. & M. in C. B. Knighton v. Moreton.

A. brought action againſt an adminiſtrator, who pending that ſuit, let judgment be had againſt him by B. and did not plead that judgment in bar to the firſt action, but ſold the goods of the inteſtate to pay B. A. likewiſe got judgment, and brought a fieri facias, on which the ſheriff levied part, and as to the reſt returned a devaſtavit. In an action brought againſt the ſheriff for a falſe return, it was inſiſted for the plaintiff, that the ſuffering judgment upon default was no confeſſion of aſſets, and that the ſheriff ought not to have returned a devaſtavit, but a nulla bona, and upon that there ought to have been a ſcire fieri inquiry; but adjudged, that he may return a devaſtavit on the firſt fieri facias, if he will run the riſque of its being true or not, and that the inquiry is only for his ſafety; that if an executor ſuffer judgment to go by default, or confeſs it, he admits aſſets; that he might have pleaded the firſt judgment obtained by B. againſt the action of A. & riens ultra; but not having done it, it is an admiſſion of aſſets, to anſwer the judgment in this as well as to the firſt action, and he is eſtopped to ſay the contrary upon a devaſtavit returned. 1 Salk. 310. pl. 14. Mich. 12 W. & M. B. R. Rock v. Leighton.

If there are three judgments againſt the teſtator, each one for 20*l.* and the executor has aſſets but to the value of 20*l.* if he pleads theſe three judgments, and one of them is ill pleaded, or upon iſſue joined, one of them is found againſt the executor, (though in fact perhaps he has but 20*l.* which will not be ſufficient to ſatisfy the other two judgments of 20*l.*) yet by pleading the three, it is an implicit confeſſion of aſſets for more than the two judgments, and therefore in ſuch caſes judgment ſhall be againſt him for the value of the ſaid judgments; per Holt Ch. J. which Gold J. agreed. Ld. Raym. Rep. 678, 679. Trin. 13 W. 3. caſe of Parker v. Atfield.

The teſtator left a perſonal eſtate to the value of 2000*l.* and owed 500*l.* on ſpecialties, and 500*l.* more upon ſimple contract, and diſpoſed of 400*l.* in legacies, and made the defendant executor durante minore ætate of his ſon; the executor paid 1400*l.* in diſcharge of the ſaid debts and legacies, and accounted with the infant executor when he came of age, and upon payment of 91*l.* reſiduum to him he releaſed to him all actions. Afterwards an action was brought againſt him by an executor of one of the creditors of his teſtator, and upon pleading plene adminiſtravit, the jury found that he had paid ſuch and ſuch debts and legacies, and had delivered up all the reſidue of the perſonal eſtate of the teſtator to the infant executor when he came of age; it was objected by Atkins J. that this verdict did not maintain the plea of plene adminiſtravit; for that cannot be pleaded, unleſs all debts, &c. are diſcharged, as far as the aſſets will reach; whereas here the reſiduum is delivered over, and that is liable to the payment of this debt which is yet undiſcharged; but the three juſtices held, that howſoever he diſcharges himſelf of the teſtator's eſtate, he may plead this plea, and that it is his ſafeſt plea. Mod. 174. pl. 10. Paſch. 26 Car. 2. C. B. Brooking v. Jennings.

On a ſcire facias againſt the executors of the plaintiff in replevin to know why he ſhould not have execution of ret' habend', adjudged on verdict againſt the teſtator; the defendant pleaded fully adminiſtred all but one cow; to which the plaintiff demurred. And by Rainſford and Wild, this cow being in cuſtodia legis is in his hands, and ſo aſſets; and if an averia elongata be returned, a writ of withernam ſhall be de bonis teſtatoris; and if the ſheriff return the teſtator had no goods, on a ſcire facias with a fieri facias, there remains no remedy, but but as on devaſtavit; and judgment for the plaintiff niſi. 3 Keb. 463. pl. 4. Paſch. 27 Car. 2. B. R. Green v. Sutcliffe.

Aſſumpſit againſt an executor, who pleaded ſeveral bonds owing by the teſtator not ſatisfied, and that plene adminiſtravit all the goods which the teſtator had at the time of this death, præterquam bona, &c. ad valentiam 10*l.* upon demurrer to this plea it was adjudged ill, becauſe the plea relates to the time when it was pleaded; and if iſſue had been joined upon it, the defendant might give in evidence at the trial, that after the writ brought, and before the plea pleaded, he had paid debts upon contract without ſuit; and for want of the intervenient clauſe, Et quod ipſe nulla habet bona et catalla teſtatoris, vel habuit die impetrationis brevis præd' vel unquam poſtea, præterquam goods and chattels to the value of 10*l.* which are not ſufficient to ſatisfy the debts due on the bonds with which they ſtand charged, and this would have made the plea good; but as the pleading is, the plaintiff had no remedy but to demur, and therefore judgment was given for the plaintiff. 3 Lev. 28. Mich. 33 Car. 2. C. B. Heblet v. Framingham.

Adjudged upon demurrer, that plene adminiſtravit is no good plea in an action of debt brought againſt an executor or adminiſtrator in the debet and detinet as for rent. Sid. 334. pl. 19. Paſch. 19 Car. 2. B. R. Auſtin. v. Miller.

Caſe, &c. againſt an executor upon plene adminiſtravit pleaded; Holt Ch. J. declared, that the plaintiff muſt prove his debt, or elſe he ſhall recover but a penny damages though there be aſſets, becauſe this plea only admits the debt, but not the quantum; that all ſeperate debts mentioned in the inventory ſhall be accounted aſſets in the executor's hands; for it is as much as to ſay that they may be had on demand, unleſs a demand and refuſal is proved. 1 Salk. 296. pl. 3. Trin. 5 W. & M. in B. R. Shelley's caſe.

Upon a plene adminiſtravit Holt ſaid, If an inventory be produced where there is one particular of good and bad debts, the defendants ſhall be charged with the whole, becauſe he doth not diſtinguiſh them, unleſs he can diſcharge any part of it by ſpecial evidence. Comb. 342. 7 W. 3. B. R. Anon'.

At Guildhall, upon plene adminiſtravit the queſtion was, if the defendant ſhall be allowed the payment of a quarter's rent accrued due within four or five days after the death of the inteſtate, he having received all the profit of the land till within ſuch a ſmall time; it was objected, that this was not a debt due tempore vitæ of the inteſtate, and therefore it not being his debt, it ought not to be allowed to be paid out of his eſtate. On the other ſide 'twas ſaid, that it will be hard that an executor or adminiſtrator ſhall pay a rent out of his own eſtate when the inteſtate, &c. had received all the profits, except for two or three days; and Holt Ch. J. ſeemed to incline, that if this was a term continuing after the death of the inteſtate, that the adminiſtrator ſhall be allowed for the rent; otherwiſe if it be determined by his death. Skin. 649, 650. pl. 8. Trin. 8 W. 3. B. R. Mitchel v. Meeſe.

In debt by huſband and wife againſt an executor who pleaded plene adminiſtravit; and upon iſſue it was proved, that the executor had diſcharged a debtor of the inteſtate out of Ludgate taking a bond from him for the debt, and it appeared that he was ſo extreme poor that he was down-right ſtarving; yet the debt was adjudged aſſets in the executor's hands. 12. Mod. 346. Mich. 11 W. 3.

It was moved to plead double, non aſſumpſit and plene adminiſtravit, but was denied by the court, no affidavit being produced that defendant had fully adminiſtred. Notes in C. B. 234. Mich. 8 Geo. 2. Heathfield v. Allen.

On motion to plead double, ſolvit ad diem and riens per deſcent, it was objected, that an affidavit of the fact as to riens per deſcent ought to be produced from the heir, as from an executor or adminiſtrator in a plene adminiſtravit, and the objection was held good. No rule. Notes in C. B. 234. Mich. 8 Geo. 2. The Burgeſſes of Wiſbetch v. Frier.

For more learning on this ſubject, ſee 11 Vin. Abr. and 2 Bac. Abr. tit. Executors.

Executory, Is where an eſtate in fee, created by deed or fine, is to be afterwards executed by entry, livery, writ, &c. And leaſes for years, rents, annuities, conditions, &c. are called inheritances executory. Wood's Inſt. 293. Eſtates executed, are when they paſs preſently to the perſon to whom conveyed, without any after-act. 2 Inſt. 513.

Executory deviſe. An executory deviſe is defined a future intereſt, which cannot veſt at the death of the teſtator, but depends upon ſome contingency which muſt happen before it can veſt. Abr. Eq. 186.

There are three ſorts of executory eſtates; one where the deviſor parts with his whole fee-ſimple, but upon ſome contingency qualifies that diſpoſition, and limits another fee upon that contingency, which is altogether new in law, as appears by the 1 Inſt. 18. a fee cannot be limited upon a fee. The ſecond ſort is, where he gives a future eſtate to ariſe upon a contingency, and does not part with the fee at preſent, but retains it; theſe are not againſt law; for by Common law one might deviſe, that his executor ſhould ſell his land, and in ſuch caſe the vendee is in by the will, and the fee deſcends to the heir in the mean time. A third ſort of executory deviſes is of terms, which are well ſettled in Matthew Manning's caſe; and it is dangerous to extend the boundary of theſe executory deviſes, which at preſent is a life or lives. Per Powell J. 1 Salk. 229, 230. Trin. 9 W. 3. C. B. in the caſe of Scatterwood v. Edge.

1. Of executory deviſes of lands of inheritance.
2. Of executory deviſes of terms for years.

1. Of executory deviſes of lands of inheritance.

To underſtand this doctrine, it muſt be obſerved as an eſtabliſhed rule, that a fee cannot be limited on a fee, as if lands are limited to one and his heirs, and if he dies without heirs, that ſhall remain over to another, this laſt limitation is void; ſo if lands are given by deed to one and his heirs, ſo long as J. S. hath iſſue, and after the death of J. S. without iſſue, to remain over to another, this remainder is likewiſe void, becauſe the firſt deviſee had a fee, tho' it was a baſe and determinable fee. Dyer 41. 1 Co. 85. Plow. 29. 2. Leon. 69. Co. Lit. 19. Poph. 34. 2 Rol. Rep. 220. Godolph. 355.

Yet, in a will ſuch limitations may be good upon a contingency, that may happen within the compaſs of a life or lives in eſſe, or nine months after the expiration of a life, or reaſonable number of years; for theſe tend not to a perpetuity, which is ſo odious in law; but this not by way of direct remainder, but by way of executory deviſe. Cro. Eliz. 205. 1 Rol. Abr. 626. Dyer 124.

As if tenant in fee-ſimple deviſes his land to A. and his heirs, and if he dies without iſſue in the life of B. then to B. and his heirs, tho' this be a limitation of a fee-ſimple upon a fee; yet, becauſe the remainder to B. muſt veſt upon a contingency, which will fall in a life, it has been held good as an executory deviſe. 3 Chan. Ca. 9.

So in the celebrated caſe of Pell and Brown, where one having three ſons A. B. and C. by his will in writing deviſes lands to B. his ſecond ſon, and his heirs for ever, paying 20*l.* and if B. dies without iſſue, living A. then A. to have thoſe lands to him and his heirs for ever; B. enters and ſuffers a common recovery to the uſe of himſelf and his heirs, and then deviſes thoſe lands to J. S. and his heirs, and dies without heirs, living A. and it was adjudged, firſt that B. had a fee-ſimple, and yet the limitation to A. good, as an executory deviſe in fee; for it was to happen within the compaſs of a life; and therefore if B. died with iſſue, living A. or without iſſue, after the death of A. then this future intereſt was never to ariſe. Secondly it was adjudged, that this being a mere collateral poſſibility was not bound by the recovery; for it had not exiſtence at all when the recovery was ſuffered; and therefore the recompence in value could not extend to it; beſides, to allow the particular tenant to deſtroy any ſuch future intereſt, would be the means of fruſtrating the moſt commendable commendable intentions of a deviſor, providing for his younger children, or for the payment of his debts, &c. Cro. Jac. 590. 1 Rol. Abr. 611. Palm. 131. 2 Rol. Rep. 216. 2 Leon. 111. Vaugh. 272.

One by will deviſes lands to his mother for life, and after her death to his brother in fee; provided that if his wife (being then enſient) be delivered of a ſon, that then the land ſhall remain to him in fee, and dies, and the ſon is born; and it was held, that the fee of the brother ſhould ceaſe, and veſt in the ſon by way of executory deviſe upon the happening of the contingency. Dyer 127. in marg.

One having iſſue A. his only daughter and heir apparent, by will deviſes lands in D. to her and her huſband, and her heir, upon condition that they ſhould aſſure lands in fee to his executors and their heirs to perform his will; and if they failed, then he deviſed the ſaid lands in D. to his executors and their heirs, and died; and it was adjudged to be no condition, for then by the deſcent to the daughter being heir, it would be deſtroyed; but it was held a limitation, or an executory deviſe in his executors, in caſe the aſſurance was not made, and that they might, for breach thereof, enter and ſell; for tho' a fee cannot be limited upon a fee abſolute, yet upon a fee determinable it may, and enures as a new original deviſe to take effect when the firſt deviſee failed to make the aſſurance. Palm. 135. Dyer 33. in marg. Cro. Eliz. 359. Cro. Jac. 592.

If A. deviſes lands to B. for five years from Michaelmas following, the remainder to C. and his heirs, this is a good remainder, altho' it cannot veſt before the particular eſtate begins, and the freehold cannot be in expectancy, for in the mean time the fee ſhall deſcend to the heir. Cro. Eliz. 878.

One deviſes lands to his wife till his ſon came to the age of 21 years, and then that his ſaid ſon ſhould have the land to him and his heirs, and if he dies without iſſue before his ſaid age, then to his daughter and her heirs; this is a good contingent or executory deviſe to the daughter, if the contingency happens, and in the mean time the fee deſcends to the ſon as heir; and if he lives to 21, tho' he after die without iſſue, or leaves iſſue, tho' he die before 21, yet the daughter is not to have the land, becauſe he is to die without iſſue, and before 21, or elſe the daughter cannot take. 2 Rol. Rep. 197. Palm. 132.

But where one having iſſue three ſons, A. B. and C. deviſes to his ſon A. after the death of his wife, to him and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten in fee-ſimple; and if he die in the life-time of my wife, that then my ſon C. ſhall be his heir, and dies; A. hath iſſue and dies in the life-time of the wife; and it was adjudged that the iſſue ſhould have the land after the death of the wife, and not C. for it was in effect a deviſe to the wife for life, remainder to A. in tail, remainder to C. in fee, upon the contingency of A.'s dying in the life of the wife, and does not abridge the eſtate-tail, expreſsly given A. by his dying in the life of the wife. Cro. Car. 185.

Baron and feme being ſeiſed of a copyhold, to them and the heirs of the baron; he ſurrenders it to the uſe of his will and then deviſes it to the heirs of the body of the feme, if they attain the age of 14, and dies without iſſue, and then ſhe marries a ſecond huſband and has iſſue that attains the age of 14, and then ſhe dies; and whether this was a good deviſe by reaſon of the double contingency, ſcilicet, the having heirs of her body, and that ſuch heir ſhould live till 14, was doubted; but it was admitted, that if the deviſe was good, it muſt be by way of executory deviſe, which is allowable, when to take effect within the compaſs of a life, but not after a dying without iſſue; for that tends to a perpetuity, and it cannot take effect by way of remainder; for it is a new deviſe to take effect after her death, and is not a remainder joined to her eſtate; but the court being divided upon the point of the contingency, it was agreed to be adjourned into the Exchequer Chamber, and the Reporter ſuppoſes the parties agreed afterwards, for he heard no more of it. 1 Lev. 135.

If A. hath iſſue two ſons, viz. B. and C. and deviſes lands to B. for life; and if he dies without iſſue living at his death, that then the fee ſhall remain to the heirs of B. for ever, by which deviſe B. has only an eſtate for life, the remainder to his heir not executed; and tho' the reverſion deſcended in B. as heir of A. yet it drowned not the eſtate for life, againſt the expreſs deviſe and intention of the will, but left an opening, as it was termed, for the interpoſition of the remainder, when it ſhall happen to interpoſe between the eſtate for life and the fee; and that this being a contingent remainder, and not an executory deviſe, was barred by the recovery ſuffered by B. 1 Lev. 11.

If one deviſes lands to his wife for life, and if ſhe hath a ſon, and cauſes him to be called by the Chriſtian and ſurname of Sampſon Shelton, then after her death deviſes the ſame to her ſon, and if he die before 21, to the right heirs of the deviſor, and dies; and after the wife marries Broughton, by whom ſhe has a ſon, which ſhe cauſed to be chriſtened Sampſon Shelton, &c. the deviſe is good by way of contingent remainder, but not by way of executory deviſe, for when a contingent eſtate is limited, and depends upon a freehold, which is capable of ſupporting a remainder, it ſhall never be conſtrued an executory deviſe but a contingent remainder, adjudged; and that the reverſion deſcending to the heir of the deviſor till the contingency happened by the bargain and ſale, and fine thereof, by the heir of the deviſor to B. and his wife, and their heirs, before the birth of their ſon, the contingent remainder was deſtroyed. 2 Sand. 380.

If a man having only one ſiſter and heir, who had iſſue A. and after married B. by whom ſhe had iſſue C. and D. deviſes lands to his ſiſter until C. attains 21, and after C. attains that age, to C. and his heirs; and if C. dies before 21, then to the heirs of the body of B. and their heirs, as they ſhall attain their reſpective ages of 21, and dies; C. dies before 21, living B. and after B. dies, D. either as heir to C. in whom the fee was veſted, or as heir of the body of B. (though he could not be ſo during the life of B.) being of age after the death of B. ſhall have the eſtate by way of executory deviſe, and not the right heir of the deviſor. 2 Mod. 289.

A man deviſed lands to his executors till his ſon ſhould come of age, and when his ſon ſhould come of age, then he ſhould enjoy it for him and his heirs, this is a remainder executed in the ſon and not in contingency, for the words when and then in this caſe only denote the time when the remainder is to execute, and will no more make the remainder contingent than in the common caſe, when a leaſe is made for life or years; and after the deceaſe of the tenant for life, or the expiration of the term for years, then to remain to another; for tho' the words be after the term it ſhall remain, yet it is a preſent and not a contingent remainder; for where words refer to that which muſt needs happen, there ſhall be no contingency. 3 Co. 19.

A. having iſſue five ſons (his wife being enſient with a ſixth) deviſed two thirds of his lands to his four younger ſons, and the child in ventre ſa mere, if it were a ſon, and their heirs; and if they all die without iſſue male of their bodies, or any of them; that the land ſhall revert to the right heirs of the deviſor; by this deviſe the younger ſons are tenants in tail in poſſeſſion, with croſs remainders over to each, and no part ſhall revert to the heir of the deviſor, till all the younger ſons be dead without iſſue male of their bodies. Dyer 303. Hob. 33.

A. having two ſons, B. and C. deviſed lands to B. for 50 years, if he ſhould ſo long live, and for my inheritance after the ſaid term I deviſe the ſame to the heirs males of the body of B. and for default of ſuch iſſue then to C. and the court reſolved, 1ſt, That B. had not an eſtate-tail by implication upon the words without iſſue, becauſe the deviſor had given him an eſtate for years by expreſs words, and the court cannot make ſuch a conſtruction againſt expreſs words, when thereby they would drown the eſtate for years, and make an eſtate of inheritance. 2dly, The court held this deviſe to the heirs males of the body of B. to be void in its creation for want of an eſtate of freehold to ſupport it; and they ſeemed not to think it an executory deviſe, becauſe it was limited as a remainder, and becauſe it was limited per verba in præſenti; for if one deviſes his eſtate to the heir of J. S. and J. S. is living, the deviſe ſhall not be conſtrued an executory deviſe, and ſuch deviſe is therefore void; but if it were to the heir of J. S. after the death of J. S. that is good as an executory deviſe. 3dly, The court held the limitation to the heirs of B. was become void by the event, whatever it was in its creation, becauſe John is now dead without iſſue. 4thly, The court held, that if the remainder to the heirs males of B. was void in point of limitation, then the next remainder limited to C. took effect preſently, 1 Salk. 226. 4 Mod. 255. S. C.

A. ſeiſed in fee, deviſed to truſtees for 11 years, and then to the firſt ſon of A, and the heirs males of his body, and ſo on to the ſecond, third, &c. ſons in tail male, provided they the ſaid ſons ſhall take on them my ſurname; and in caſe they, or their heirs, refuſe to take my ſurname, or die without iſſue, then I deviſe my land to the firſt ſon of B. in tail male, provided he take my ſurname; and if he refuſe, or die without iſſue, then to the right heirs of the deviſor; A. had no ſon at the time of the deviſe, and died without iſſue, and B. had a ſon who was living at the time of the deviſe, who took the ſurname of the deviſor; the whole court agreed, that the deviſe to B. was not a contingent remainder, becauſe of the precedent eſtate for years, which could not ſupport it; it appears likewiſe by the caſe, to be the opinion of Treby Ch. J. and J. Powel, that it could not be good as an executory deviſe, if it were conſidered as a deviſe to the heirs of A. being limited per verba in præſenti; but Blencow Juſt. held, that the deviſe to the ſon of A. was future, for he ſuppoſed the teſtator knew that A. had no ſon, and the rather becauſe he does not name him; but it was adjudged in C. B. and affirmed in B. R. that the remainder to C. was good, and veſted in him. 1 Salk. 229.

A man having two ſons, deviſed part of the lands to one of them and his heirs, and the reſt to the other and his heirs, and further wills that the ſurvivor ſhall be heir to the other, if either dies without iſſue; by this the deviſees are tenants in tail, with remainder in fee; executed of each other's part. Cro. Jac. 695.

But were a man having three ſons, and ſeiſed of three houſes, deviſed a houſe to each ſon and his heirs, with this proviſo, that if all his ſaid children ſhall die without iſſue of their bodies lawfully begotten, that then all his ſaid meſſuages ſhall remain over, and be to his wife and her heirs; and it was held in this caſe, that theſe words did not raiſe any croſs remainders, but that at the death of any of the ſons his houſe ſhould go immediately to the wife; and though a croſs remainder may be by implication where lands are limited to two, yet they cannot riſe where three or more houſes are limited to three, without expreſs limitation. Cro. Jac. 655.

A. being ſeiſed of two meſſuages, and having a ſon and two daughters by ſeveral venters, deviſed one meſſuage to B. his daughter in fee, and another meſſuage to C. his daughter in fee; and if C. died before her age of 16 years, B. then living, then her part to go to B. in fee, and if B. died without iſſue, then both the meſſuages ſhall go to his ſon in fee; B. died without iſſue, and her part went to the ſon, and not to the ſurviving daughter, becauſe the laſt clauſe created no croſs remainders. Bendl. 212. Dyer 330. Vaugh. 267.

Deviſe to A. in tail, remainder to B. in tail, remainder to C. in tail, and if C. dies without iſſue, A. and B. being dead, then to D. in tail; this is a remainder veſted in D. and not contingent. Lord Raym. Rep. 523. Hill. 11 W. 3 B. R. Badger v. Lloyd.

If deviſe be made to the heir at law, paying ſuch and ſuch legacies, &c. and for default thereof remainder over; the heir, till default, is in by deſcent, and the other's intereſt is by way of executory deviſe. It is hard to maintain, either by uſe or deviſe, a remainder to a ſtranger after a preſent fee to one that is not heir at law. 6 Mod. 241. Per Holt Ch. J. Mich. 3 Ann. B. R. Anon'.

Deviſe was of lands to his wife for life, remainder to C. his ſecond ſon in fee, provided if D. his third ſon, ſhall within three months after the wife's death pay 500 l. to C. his executors, &c. then he deviſed them to D. and his heirs; D. died, living the wife; then the wife dies; the heir of D. may enter upon the lands upon payment or tender of the 500 l. It is not a condition, but an executory deviſe. 10 Mod. 420. Mich. 5 Geo. 1. Marks v. Marks.

J. C. being tenant for life, with remainder to his wife for life, remainder to his own right heirs, 20*th October* 1683. made his will, viz. Item, My land at W. my wife Mary is to enjoy for her life, after her death it of right goes to my daughter Eliz. for ever, provided ſhe has heirs; but if my ſaid daughter dies before her mother or without heirs, and my ſaid wife Mary ſhall marry again and ſhould have heirs male, I bequeath all my ſaid right in W. &c. to her heirs male by her ſecond huſband, thinking I can never ſufficiently reward her love; provided, if my ſaid wife ſhould marry again, and fail of heirs males, and my daughter ſhould fail of heirs, then I deviſe 50 l. annuity out of W. &c. to my brother Joſ. C. and deviſed ſeveral other annuities charged on the land to ſeveral perſons who were his heirs at law, but he made no deviſe of the land to any one. Mary the wife died before Elizabeth the daughter, who died without heirs, but Mary married a ſecond huſband and had iſſue male. In ejectment, leſſors of the plaintiff were heirs at law, and the defendant was the heir male of the wife by the ſecond huſband. On trial a caſe for the opinion of the court.

The firſt objection was, that the firſt clauſe was a deviſe to the daughter in fee, but yet that was afterwards controuled and qualified by ſubſequent words, and it was intended to be hers, and the heirs of her body only. Said per cur. The perſon to whom the deviſe over is, i. e. heir male of the body of the wife by a ſecond huſband, he is a ſtranger, and where the deviſe over is to a ſtranger, that will not alter the conſtruction of the will from what it would have been without it; ſo it will continue a deviſe to Eliz. in fee-ſimple. So is Cro. 415. and it is law now, and not to be drawn in queſtion, though it was once diſputed. A deviſe to a ſtranger will not alter a poſitive deviſe to a perſon and his heirs. But when this deviſe is over of a rent-charge, or anuities charged on the land to the heirs at law, that ſhews what was meant by heirs in the firſt place, and then it will be a deviſe to Eliz. and the heirs of her body; remainder to the heirs males of the body of the wife, with a deviſe over to theſe annuitants, and there is no difference whether the deviſe over be of the lands, or of an annuity charged on them, becauſe in the laſt caſe he could never intend the lands themſelves ſhould paſs to the perſon to whom he had given the annuities. 2dly, But per cur. the firſt clauſe is not a deviſe to the wife, or to Eliz. for they were ſettled upon her for life, and what is ſaid as to the dauhgter is only a declaration of the deviſor, what the eſtate and condition of the eſtate was, and how ſhe was to enjoy it, and he could not ſay of right, ſhe were to enjoy them, if ſhe claimed under the will. The conſequence of this is, that the lands deſcended to Eliz. as heir at law, and the deviſe to heirs males if the wife by the ſecond huſband will be contingent; firſt, whether Eliz. ſhould die in the life-time of the wife, which muſt happen within the compaſs of a life; next contingency, if the wife ſhould marry, &c. and have heirs of her body by a ſecond huſband. But though as in Lloyd and Carey's caſe, ſhe might have heirs after his death, and not within the compaſs of a life, yet ſo near as there could be no inconvenience if it ſhould take effect as an executory deviſe in ſuch a caſe. But this is not ſo here; for if the words are taken disjunctively, (if my daughter dies in the life of her mother, or without heirs) the contingency never happened, becauſe the daughter ſurvived the mother, ſo the deviſe could never take effect, but will be void; if taken copulatively, and (or) taken for (and) here it will be hard to turn words out of their natural ſenſe and import, unleſs there be a plain intimation of the intent of the deviſor ſo to do. How doth the deviſor intend it (copulative?) What occaſion is there for it? For if the daughter ſurvived the mother, he might intend it for her in fee; why ſhould it be taken, if my daughter dies without heirs in the life-time of Eliz 3dly, But if it were ſo, the deviſe over cannot take effect, becauſe the contingency never happened. 4thly, But the death of the daugther without heirs is too remote, and the deviſe over is void. The deviſe of the annuities is to take effect in nature of a remainder, and if the firſt cannot take effect in nature of a remainder, all that comes after cannot take place, it being not to take effect, but as a remainder, and then not at all. Next (if the wife ſhould marry again, and have a ſon, and ſhould die without heirs males) this is alſo too remote, and ſo the deviſe over is void, becauſe to commence upon a contingency too remote, and if it cannot be good by way of executory deviſe, then it muſt be by way of remainder, and it cannot be good as a remainder, becauſe there is no particular eſtate to ſupport it to any one; for there was no particular eſtate at all, what went before being only a declaration of what did belong to the daughter, and as this contingent remainder had no particular eſtate antecedent to it, it is void. Not good as an executory deviſe, becauſe the contingency never happened, or if it did happen, it was too remote, and ſo void, and therefore the heirs at law have good title. 5thly, If the ſon of the wife by the ſecond huſband could take, he would take fee-ſimple, ſo that the teſtator was miſtaken in the law; for he thought he had deviſed to him but an eſtate-tail. Judgment for the plaintiffs. MS. Rep. Paſch. 7. Geo. B. R. Wright v. Hammond. 8 Vin. Abr. 110.

for

A term for years was deviſed to A. for life, remainder to B. this is an executory deviſe. 9 Mod. 101. Mich. 9 Geo. Theobald v. Duffay.

A deviſe of lands to R. B. and his heirs for ever, upon condition he pay all my debts, and legacies and funerals, and if he do not pay them, then I deviſe the premiſſes to E. F. (the defendant) and her heirs for ever. And as to all the reſt and reſidue of my real and perſonal eſtate whatever, not before herein bequeathed, I give to E. F. and her heirs; the deviſee R. B. died before the deviſor, ſo it was a lapſed legacy; and the firſt queſtion counſel made was, whether this was an executory deviſe to E. F. By Ch. J. Eyre, & tot' cur. This cannot be an executory deviſe to E. F. unleſs it were an original deviſe, here is no firſt deviſee, for he is dead, and that deviſe is void. Forteſcue's Rep. 184, 185. Paſch. 2 Geo. 2. C. B. Roe. v. Fludd.

A. having the reverſion in fee of lands ſettled upon the mrrriage of B. his ſon, in the uſual manner, deviſed all the lands in the ſettlement on failure of iſſue of the body of B. and for want of heirs male of his own body, to his daughter F. and the heirs of her body. This will does not give an eſtate-tail by implication to B. the deviſe to F. is executory and is void, as being on too remote a contingency. Caſes in Equity in Lord Talbot's time, 262. Paſch. 1733. Laneſborough v. Fox.

2. Of executory deviſes of terms for years.

If a farmer deviſes his term to A. for life, the remainder to another, though A. has the whole eſtate, (for that is in him during his life) and ſo no remainder can be limited over at Common law, yet it is good by way of executory deviſe. Cro. Car. 198. 1 Rol. Abr. 610. 8. Co. 94.

The great queſtion in theſe caſes was, Whether the diſpoſition of the term to a man for his life was not ſuch a total diſpoſition of it, that no remainder could be limited over, it being in the eye of the law a greater eſtate than for any number of years; and this was reſolved in the affirmative in the reign of Ed. 6. Dyer 74. by all the judges of England; but this reſolution ſeeming very ſevere, and againſt natural juſtice, that a man ſhould be hindered from making proviſion for his family, and the contingencies of it, occaſioned a contrary reſolution. 19 Eliz. Co. Lit. 46. Dyer 35. For the judges obſerving the good effect ſuch limitations by way of truſt had, which were allowed in Chancery, permitted farmers to diſpoſe of their leaſes in the ſame manner by laſt will; and then the Chancery, the better to fix them in it, allowed of bills by the remainder man, to compel the deviſee of the particular eſtate to put in ſecurity, that he in the remainder ſhould enjoy it according to the limitation; but when they perceived that this multiplied Chancery ſuits, they reſolved that there was no need of that way. 10 Co 47. a. 52. b. 1 Sid. 451. But that the particular deviſee ſhould not have power to bar the remainder man; ſo that the law has been long ſettled, that executory deviſes of terms for years are good, provided the contingency is to happen within a life, or 20 lives, all in eſſe; for then there can be no tendency to a perpetuity, which was the great miſchief apprehended from theſe kinds of limitations. Abr. Eq. 191.

So if A. poſſeſſed of a term for years deviſes it to B. his wife for 18 years, and after to C. his eldeſt ſon for life, and after to the eldeſt iſſue male of C. for life, though C. had not an iſſue male at the time of the deviſe, and death of the deviſor; yet if he had iſſue male before his death, this iſſue male ſhall have it as an executory deviſe; for although it be a contingency upon a contingency, and the iſſue not in eſſe at the time of the deviſe; yet inaſmuch as it is limited to him but for life it is good, and all one with Manning's caſe. 1 Rol. Abr. 612.

But if A. deviſes his term to his wife for her life, and after her deceaſe to B. his ſon; and if B. die without iſſue, then to C. adjudged, that this deviſe to C. after the death of B. without iſſue was void; for ſince it could not veſt while B. had iſſue of his body, the deviſe is no more than to B. and the heirs of his body, which without doubt had been void; for though men preſumed on the judges when they firſt allowed of remainders of terms after eſtates for lives, and endeavoured to bring remainders upon eſtates-tail within the reaſon of theſe reſolutions and conceſſions; yet the courts would never endure thoſe remainders, becauſe 'tis too foreign and diſtant to expect them after the man's death, without iſſue, and if they were allowed of would make a direct perpetuity, which is an undeniable reaſon againſt any ſettlement; for 'tis againſt the nature of human affairs ſo to ſettle an eſtate in a family, that upon no contingency, or revolution of fortune, the owner ſhall have power over it. Cro. Car. 167. 1 Rol. Abr. 610. 1 Sid. 450. Cro. Jac. 461. 4 Inſt. 87. 3 Chan. Ca. 6. 10.

Therefore the deviſe to B. in the above caſe is an abſolute diſpoſition of the term to him, and veſts it totally in him, and at his diſpoſal, and ſhall go to his executors during the continuance of it, and ſhall never for default of iſſue of his body revert to the executors of the deviſor. 1 Sid. 451. 1 Rol. Abr. 611, 831. But ſee 10 Co. 87, and 1 Sid. 37. which ſeem contra, but have been denied to be law. 3 Chan. Ca. 6, 10.

If one poſſeſſed of a term deviſes it to his wife for life, the remainder to his firſt ſon for life; and if he dies without iſſue, to his ſecond ſon, &c. the remainder to the ſecond ſon is void, for the remainder of a term cannot depend upon a poſſibility ſo remote, as the dying without iſſue; altho' it was objected, that the deviſe was not to the firſt ſon and his iſſue (in which caſe it was agreed it ſhould go to his executor) but it was given to him for life only, with an executory deviſe to the ſecond ſon, upon the contingency of the firſt not having iſſue at the time of his death. 1 Lev. 290. 1 Chan. Rep. 14. S. C.

A. having iſſue ſeveral ſons (the eldeſt non compos) created a term for years, and by another deed declared the truſt thereof to his ſecond ſon, and the heirs males of his body, remainder to his other ſons; provided that if his eldeſt ſon died without iſſue, or not leaving his wife enſient with a child, living the ſecond ſon; ſo that the Earldom of——deſcended on the ſecond ſon, then the ſaid term to remain to the third ſon and the heirs males of his body, with like limitations to the other ſons; the eldeſt ſon died without iſſue, living the ſecond, and this limitation to the third ſon was held good. 3 Chan. Ca. 1, 2, &c. Decreed by Lord Nottingham, but reverſed by North Lord Keeper, 1 Vern. 163. But upon an appeal to the Houſe of Lords, North's decree was reverſed, and Nottingham's eſtabliſhed, 1 Chan. Ca 53. and has been ever ſince admitted to be law; and note, that executory deviſes and limitations of the truſt of a term are governed alike. 1 Vern. 234. Pollex. 15 to 20.

eldeſt

If a term is deviſed to A. and the heirs of his body; and if A. die without iſſue, living B. this is a good limitation, the contingency ariſing within the compaſs of a life. 1 Salk. 225. Carth. 266. S. C.

A. deviſes to his ſon, his executors, adminiſtrators and aſſigns for ever, a leaſehold eſtate; but if he die before 21 without iſſue, in that caſe he deviſes it over to his brother; and the queſtion was, whether the remainder over was good; it was objected that it was a perpetuity, for that the remainder depends on the ſon's dying without iſſue; for if he die before 21, tho' he leaves a child, and that child afterwards dies without iſſue, the ſon may be ſaid to be dead before 21 without iſſue, yet the court held the remainder good. 2 Vern. 151. Martin and Long.

One F. being poſſeſſed of a term for years, deviſes it to his wife for life, and after her death to R. F. for her life, and after her death to T. F. and his children, and then deviſes in this manner, and if it ſhall happen that the ſaid T. F. die before the expiration of the ſaid term, not having iſſue of his body then living, then to go over to the plaintiffs for the reſidue of the term; the defendant's title was by an aſſignment of R. F. and T. F. of all their eſtate, right, title, and intereſt; R. F. was dead, and T. F. died without iſſue; and the plaintiff brought his bill to have an aſſignment of the term purſuant to the will; all that was inſiſted upon, for the defendant to difference this caſe from the Duke of Norfolk's of a term, and Pell and Brown's caſe of a fee, was, that this contingency of his dying without iſſue was not confined to his own death; but that the words then living ſhould relate to the words before the expiration of the term, and ſo this went farther than any of the caſes had ever yet been carried; for he might have iſſue for ſeveral generations; and yet if ſuch iſſue failed at any time before the expiration of the term, then it was to go over, and this in a long term tended plainly to a perpetuity; and therefore ought not to be allowed but by the deviſe to T. F. and his children; and the ſubſequent words, and if he die without iſſue, the whole term and intereſt was veſted in him, and he may diſpoſe thereof as he thought fit, and it could not be reſtrained by the words then living, which related only to the words before the expiration of the term, and ſo the remainder over to the plaintiff void. But for the plaintiffs it was argued and decreed, that the remainders to them were good by way of executory deviſe, and that the words then living muſt relate to the time of his death; for otherwiſe there would be no difference between this and the common limitations of a term to one, and the heirs or iſſue of his body; and if he dies without iſſue, the remainder to another, which is void; for there it muſt likewiſe be intended if he die without iſſue before the expiration of the term, or during the term; ſince after the expiration of the term he can limit no remainders over, becauſe nothing remains then to be limited; but here it being limited over upon this contingency, if he die without iſſue then living, viz. at the time of his death, it is good, becauſe this contingency muſt happen within one life, or not at all; for upon his death it will be certainly known whether he leaves iſſue or not; if he does, the contingency cannot take place; if he does not, then it may; and this being to happen within the compaſs of a life, is good as an executory deviſe, and differs in nothing from the Duke of Norfolk's caſe, ſave only that there it was by proviſo; and alſo upon the death of another perſon without iſſue then living; and here it is upon his own death, which makes no manner of difference. Abr. Eq. 193.

A man poſſeſſed of a term for 31 years, deviſes it to his ſon H. during his minority; and if he attains to his age of 21 years, then to him during his life, if the term ſhall ſo long continue, and no longer, and after his death, to ſuch of his iſſue to whom he ſhall deviſe it; but if he die without iſſue, then to his other ſon G. for the reſidue of the term; H. afterwards died without iſſue, or without making any diſpoſition of the reſidue of the term; and the only queſtion was, whether by the words of this will the whole term did not veſt in H. and it was decreed, that it did not; for the words die without iſſue have a two-fold meaning, either without iſſue at the time of his death, or without, whenever the iſſue fails; and though in caſe of an inheritance, if lands are deviſed to one, and if he die without iſſue, the firſt deviſee takes an eſtate-tail by implication, which ſhall go to his iſſue, and they ſhall take in a courſe of deſcent to all ſucceeding generations; but to make ſuch a conſtruction in the caſe of a term, which cannot come to the iſſue by deſcent, is unneceſſary; and therefore in ſuch caſe the other conſtruction of the words, which is moſt natural and obvious, ſhall take place; and it ſhall be intended only, if he die without iſſue, living at the time of his death; and conſequently the dying without iſſue, being confined within the compaſs of a life, hinders not the remainder over, but it may well take place by way of executory deviſe, according to former reſolutions. Abr. Eq. 193, 194. See 2 Vern. 43. 195, 668. and Abr. Eq. 362.

Exemplification of letters patent, Is a copy or duplicate of letters patent made from the inrolment thereof, and ſealed with the Great Seal of England; which exemplifications are as effectual to be ſhewed or pleaded, as the originals themſelves. Nota, Nothing but matter of record ought to be exemplified. 3 Inſt. fol. 173. See Co. 5 Rep. Page's caſe.

Exemplifications of deeds deſtroyed by rebels in the reign of Ric. 2. made of the ſame force as the deeds themſelves. 5 Ric. 2. ſt. 1. c. 9. 6 Ric. 2. ſtat. 1. c. 4.

Where judgment ſhall not be reverſed for error in record contrary to exemplification, 8 Hen. 6. c. 12. ſ. 4.

Fines and recoveries how exemplified in Wales, and the counties palatine, 27 Eliz. c. 9.

Exemplificatione, Is a writ granted for the exemplification of an original. See Reg. Orig. fol. 290.

For other matters, ſee Patents.

Exemplum and Exemplata terra, The ſame with Aſſart, and lands aſſarted.

Exemption, Is a privilege to be free from ſervice or appearance; and therefore a baron and baroneſs, dignitatis cauſa, are exempted to be ſworn on any inqueſt. Co. lib. 6. fol. 53. Alſo knights, clerks, and women are exempted to appear at the ſheriff's turn, by the ſtatute of Marl. cap. 10. And a man may be exempted from being put upon inqueſts and juries by the King's letters patent, as the college of Phyſicians, London, were by letters patent of Hen. 8. Co. lib. 8. fol. 108. In what caſe thoſe that have charters of exemption are compellable to be ſworn on juries. St. Marlb. 52 Hen. 3. c. 14.

Exenium, A reward or gift, or any payment in the name of a gift. Bracton, lib. 5. tract. 5. c. 4. Fleta, lib. 2. c. 71.

Exercituale was anciently uſed for a heriot, exercituale vironis ſive baronis Regis, qui erit proximus ei, quatuor equi. LL. Edw. Conf. 1.——This demonſtrates the derivation of heriot or heregate, from here, exercitus, becauſe the old Feudal heriot was paid only in arms or military accoutrements. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Exeter. The corporation of merchant adventurers there, not prejudiced by 3 Jac. 1. c. 6. 4 Jac. 1. c. 9. Its neighbouring gaol and workhouſe provided for, 19 Car. 2. c. 4. ſect. 4. 5. The Queen enabled to grant the ſite of the caſtle of Exon for 99 years, for the benefit of the county of Devon, 9 Ann. c. 19. Taxes aſſeſſed on the water-works at Exon, are chargeable on the perſons collecting them, 4 Geo. 3. c. 2. ſect. 94. For the regulation of ſilver in Exeter, ſee Gold.

Exfrediare, To break the peace, to commit open violence; from the Saxon frede, frith, peace. Frithian, to protect.——Si quis profiliat, & domum exfrediet, nec tamen aliquem percutiat dimidio forisfacto culpa consistat.—— Leges H. 1. cap. 31.

Ex gravi querela, Is a writ that lieth for him to whom any lands or tenements in fee within a city, town, or borough, being deviſable, are deviſed by will, and the heir of the deviſor entreth into them, and detaineth them from him. Reg. Orig. fol. 244. Old Nat. Brev. fol. 17. See F. N. B. fol. 198.

Exhenium, or Exennium, A gift, a preſent, a token, more properly a new year's-gift.—— In expenſis Domini Regis & exhenniis eidem factis apud Farendon centum ſol. ſex denar. in expenſis Dominæ Reginæ ibidem pernoctantis, & exhenniis, eidem factis lxxv ſol.——Ex compoto domus de Farendon. MS. Penes W. Kennet. fol. 31. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Exhibit, (Exhibitum,) When a deed, acquittance, or other writing is in a Chancery ſuit exhibited to be proved by witneſſes, and the examiner writes on the back that it was ſhewed to ſuch a one at the time of his examination; this is there called an exhibit. The word is mentioned 14 Car. 2. c. 14. Exhibits cannot be inſpected before hearing. Stran. 764. 2 P. Will. 410.

Exhibitio, An allowance for meat and drink, ſuch as the religious appropriators made to the poor depending vicar. So in all churches appropriated to the abbey of Oſeney.—— Vicarius habebit ſufficientem exhibitionem, ſicut canonici quoad victualia in menſa canonicorum, ubi canonici moram faciunt.——Paroch. Antiq. pa. 304. The benefactions ſettled for maintaining of ſcholars in the univerſity, not depending on the foundation, are now called exhibitions.

Exigendary of the Common Bench, Exigendarius de Banco Communi, Is otherwiſe called exigenter, 10 H. 6. c. 4. and is an officer belonging to that court, for which ſee Exigenter.

Exigent, (Exigenda,) Is a writ that lieth where the defendant in an action perſonal cannot be found, nor any thing within that county, whereby he may be attached or diſtrained; and is directed to the ſheriff, to proclaim and call him five county-days one after another, charging him to appear under the pain of outlawry. Terms de la ley. This writ lieth alſo in an indictment of felony, where the party indicted cannot be found. Smith de Rep. Ang. lib. 2. c. 19. It ſeemeth to be called an exigent, becauſe it exacteth the party, that is, requireth his appearance, to anſwer the law: for if he come not at the laſt day's proclamation, he is ſaid to be quinquies exactus, and then is outlawed. Crom. Juriſd. fol. 188. And this Manwood alſo ſetteth down for the law of the Foreſt, c. 18. See Outlawry.

Exigenter, Exigendarius, (18 H. 6. c. 9.) Is an officer of the court of Common Pleas, of whom there are four in number: They make all exigents and proclamations in all actions, where proceſs of outlawry doth lie, and writs of ſuperſedeas, as well as the prothonotaries, upon ſuch exigents as were made in their offices. But the making writs of ſuperſedeas, is ſince taken from them by an officer in the ſame court, created by King James by letters patent, towards the latter end of his reign.

Exile, A baniſhment: And this exile is either by reſtraint, when the government forbids a man, and makes it penal to return; or it is voluntary, where he leaves his country upon diſguſt, but may come back at pleaſure. 2 Lev. 191.

No freeman ſhall be exiled but by lawful judgment of his peers, or by the law of the land. 9 Hen. 3. c. 29.

Exilium, Waſte, deſtruction, as in the ſtatute of Marlebridge under Henry 3. cap. 25.—— Firmarii tempore firmarum ſuarum vaſtum, venditionem vel exilium non facient de domibus, boſcis, vel hominibus—where exilium relating to hominibus, ſeems to be the injury done to an eſtate in reſpect of the tenants, by altering their tenure or conditions, by ejecting, advancing, remitting, &c. And this indeed is the ſenſe that Fleta does expreſsly determine. Vaſtum & deſtructio fere æquipollent, & convertibiliter ſe habent in domibus, boſcis & gardinis, ſed exilium dici poterit, cum ſervi manumittuntur & a tenementis ſuis injurioſe ejiciuntur. Fleta, lib. 1. c. 11.

Exitus, Iſſue, child or children.——Qui genuit Robertum de Alfreton baronem—qui per Agnetem uxorem ejus habuit exitum Thomam filium & hæredem. Mon. Angl. tom. 2. p. 607. The word is frequent in our old law writings, and in ſome epitaphs, as on a ground-ſtone in the chancel of the pariſh-church of Amerſden, in the county of Oxford.——Sepultus eſt hic Johannes Denton, filius primogenitus Johannis Denton & Magdalenæ uxoris ejus, nuptus Theodoretæ Blundell uni filiarum Johannis Blundell, & moriebatur ſine exitu e corpore ejus exeunte in vita prædicti Johannis ſeptimo die Septemb. 1566.

Exitus, Iſſues; the rents or profits of lands or tenements: Et ſciat vicecomes quod redditus, blada in grangia, & omnia mobilia præter equitaturam, indumenta, & utenſilia domorum continentur ſub nomine exituum. Stat. 11 Weſtm. cap. 43.

Exlegalitus, (Calumniari de exlegalitate) Is he who is proſecuted as an outlaw. 'Tis mentioned in Leg. Ed. Confeſſ. c. 38.

Ex mero motu, Are words formally uſed in any charter of the Prince, whereby he ſignifieth, that he doth that which is contained in the charter of his own will and motion, without petition or ſuggeſtion made by any other; and the effect of theſe words are to bar all exceptions that might be taken unto the inſtrument, wherein they are contained, by alledging, that the prince in paſſing that charter was abuſed by any falſe ſuggeſtion. Kitchin, fol. 152. Co. lib. 1. fol. 45.

Ex officio, By virtue of a branch of the ſtat. 1 Eliz. cap. 1. the Queen by her letters patent might authorize any perſon or perſons, &c. to adminiſter an oath ex officio, (ſo called, becauſe the eccleſiaſtical judge did it ex officio ſuo,) whereby the ſuppoſed delinquent was compelled to confeſs, accuſe, or purge himſelf of any criminal matter, and thereby be made liable to cenſure or puniſhment, &c. The branch of which ſtatute relating to the ſaid oath is repealed, 17 Car. 1. cap. 11.

Exoneratione ſectae, Is a writ that lay for the King's ward, to be diſburthened of all ſuit, &c. to the county hundred, leet, or court baron, during the time of his wardſhip. F. N. B. fol. 158.

Exoneratione ſectae ad curiam com' vel baron'. This writ lieth where the tenant holdeth his land to do ſuit at the county-court, hundred, or court-baron, or wapentake or leet, and he who ought to do the ſuit is in ward unto the King, or his commitee; and the lord of whom he holdeth by ſuch ſervice, will diſtrain him to do his ſuit at his court during the time he is in ward unto the King or his committee; his guardian ſhall ſue this writ unto the ſheriff, or bailiffs of the court, that they do not deſtrain him, &c. to do ſuit, during the term he is in ward to the King or his committee. See N. Nat. Brev. 370, 371.

Exoſſatus ager, A field without ſtones. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Expalmare, To ſtrike with the palm of the hand. Vide eum in horto ligatum, in atrio pontificis expalmatum, i. e. buffetd. Petre. Bleſenſis. Sermon. 18 de Chriſto.

Ex parte, (Lat.) Partly, or of one part. In the court of Chancery it hath this ſignification: A joint commiſſion is that wherein both plaintiff and defendant join. A commiſſion ex parte is that which is taken out and executed by one party only.

Ex parte talis, Is a writ that lieth for a bailiff, or receiver, that having auditors aſſigned to hear his account, cannot obtain of them reaſonable allowance, but is caſt into a priſon by them. F. N. B. fol. 129. The courſe in this caſe is, to take this writ out of the Chancery directed to the ſheriff, to take the four mainpernors, to bring his body before the barons of the Exchequer at a day certain, and to warn the lord, to appear at the ſame time. Cowell. edit. 1727.

Expectant, Is uſed in the Common law with this word fee, and thus it is oppoſite to fee-ſimple. For example; ample; Lands are given to a man and his wife in frank-marriage, to have and to hold to them and their heirs; in this caſe, they have fee-ſimple; But if it be given to them, and the heirs of the body, &c they have tail and fee expectant. Kitchin, fol. 153.

Expedimentum, Bag and baggage. Dixit ſe non habere literas præ manibus, quia miſerat eas cum expedimento ad Wintoniam. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Expeditate, (Expeditare vel expealtare,) In the foreſt-laws, ſignifies to cut out the ball of dogs forefeet, for the preſervation of the King's game. Every one that keeps any great dog not expeditated, forfeits three ſhillings and four pence to the King. The ball of the foot of maſtiffs is not to be cut out, but the three claws of the forefoot to the ſkin. 4 part Inſt. fol. 308.——Nullus dominicos canes abbatis, & monachorum expealtari cogat. Charta Hen. 3. Abbati de Rading,——Et ſint quieti de expeditamentis canum. Ex Magno Rot. Pipæ, de anno 9 Ed. 2. This relates not only to maſtiffs but to every man's dog who lived near the foreſt, and to the dogs of the foreſter's themſelves. And this expeditation was to be done once in every three years. Du Freſne.

Expeditatae arbores, Trees rooted up, or cut down to the roots.—— Inquiratur de quercubus & aliis arboribus expeditatis in foreſta — vel ſi aliquò ingenio alio dictas quercus cadere facerint. Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 41. ſect. 31.

Expenditors, Are the perſons appointed by commiſſioners of ſewers to pay, diſburſe, or expend the money collected by the tax for the repairs of ſewers, &c. when paid into their hands by the collectors, on the reparations amendments and reformation ordered by the comiſſioners, for which they are to render accounts when thereunto required. Laws of ſewers 87, 88. Theſe officers are mentioned in the ſtatute 37 Hen. 8. c. 11. and other ſtatutes. The ſteward or ſworn officer, who ſuperviſes the repair of the banks and water-courſes in Romney Marſh, is now called The expenditor. See Sewers.

Expenſis militum levandis, Is a writ directed to the ſheriff, for levying the allowance for knights of the parliament. Reg. Orig. fol. 191.

Expenſis militum non levandis ab hominibus de dominico, nec a natibis, Is a writ to prohibit the ſheriff from levying any allowance for the knights of the ſhire, upon thoſe that hold in ancient demeſne, &c. Reg. Orig. fol. 261.

Explees. Some are of opinion, that becauſe explees are the full profits of the land, therefore the word muſt be derived from the Lat. expleo; but rather ex placito, viz. from the agreement made with the lord to pay him ſo much ex proventibus terræ. For expletum ſignifies thoſe lands or farms, the profits whereof are taken by the lord. Cowell, edit. 1727. See Eſplees.

Explitia, Expletia, Expleta, The rents or mean profits of an eſtate in cuſtody or truſt.—— Capiendo inde explitia ad valentiam quinque ſolidorum & amplius.—— Paroch. Antiq. pag. 414.

Explorator, A ſcout,—In memoriam Henrici Croft equitis aurati, exploratoris in Hibernia generalis, qui obiit anno 1609. where explorator generalis ſignifies ſcout maſter general. Sometimes alſo it is uſed for a huntſman, as Idem abbas habens exploratores ſuos (his huntſmen) ponere fecit retia, &c. In Itin. Pickering, 8 Ed. 3. Rot. 4.

Exportation, Is the ſhipping or carrying out the native commodities of England for other countries; mentioned in the ſtatues relating to the cuſtoms. Jacob.

Three years from the time of importation of goods allowed for their exportation. 7 Geo. 1. ſt. 1. c. 21. ſ. 10. See Importation.

Expoſition of deeds. In the conſtruction of deeds it muſt be conſidered firſt, How a deed in the groſs ſhall be taken and enure; and ſecondly, How it ſhall be taken and expounded in the ſeveral parts and pieces of it. And as to the firſt, theſe rules are to be known: 1. If ſeveral join in a deed, and ſome are able to make ſuch a deed, and ſome are not, this ſhall be ſaid to be the deed of thoſe alone who are able. And ſo e converſo, if a deed be made to one that is uncapable, and to others that are capable; in this caſe it ſhall enure only to him that is capable. Co. Lit. 302. Perk. ſ. 66.

2. It ſhall enure as much as may be according to the apparent intent of the parties. Finch's Law 58.

3. A deed that is intended and made only to one purpoſe may enure to another; for if it will not take effect that way, it is intended it may take effect another way. See Dyer 251. 2 Co. 35. Co. Lit. 49.

Where a conveyance will not take effect the way it was intended, there rather than it ſhould have no effect, it ſhall paſs by another way than what the parties deſigned. Lucas 35. And ſhall never be void where the words may be employed to ſome intent. Plow. 160. b.

4. When a deed is made it ſhall enure as it may, and ſo as it may have and take the moſt and beſt effect that may be according to reaſon. See Plow. 140, 59. Co. Lit. 302.

In conveyances we are to reſpect two things, the form and effect of them; and in all caſes where the form and effect cannot ſtand together, the form ſhall be rejected, and the effect ſhall ſtand. 2 Leon. 25. p. 17.

5. When a deed may enure to divers purpoſes, he to whom the deed is made ſhall have election which way to take it, and he may take it that way as ſhall be moſt for his advantage. Co. Lit. 301. Dyer 251.

6. The words of an indenture are the words of both parties. Cro. Jac. 398. pl. 4. Lucas 47, 48. Tho' they are ſpoken as the words of one party, yet they are not his words only, for he has the conſent of the other party to every one of theſe words. Plow. 134.

But not ſo in a deed poll, for they are only of the grantor, and ſhall be taken moſt ſtrongly againſt him. 1 Plow. 134. a. 2 Rol. Abr. 65. Co. Lit. 146. Lucas 47.

7. If one has divers eſtates in land, and he makes any charge or grant upon or out of it; this ſhall iſſue out of all his eſtates. And if one has a poſſeſſion and an ancient right, and grants a rent-charge out of the land, or makes a leaſe of the land; this ſhall iſſue out of both the eſtates and it ſhall enure from him having ſeveral eſtates, as it ſhall enure from ſeveral perſons having the ſame eſtates. Quando duo jura concurrant in una perſona æquum eſt ac ſi eſſent in diverſis. See Perk. ſ. 592.

Expoſition of words and ſentences. Pleading of notice given to J. T. will be intended of the ſame J. T. that was named before, otherwiſe of cuidam J. T. Lord Raym. 119.

The words ibidem invent. in treſpaſs, refer to the vill, and not to the cloſe. Lord Raym. 122.

The word adtunc in the award of releaſes ſhall refer to the time, and not to the performance of the other parts of the award, which may be void. L. Raym. 124.

The words ante tertiam horam, without ſaying poſt meridiem, bad pleading, but made good by pleading over. Ld. Raym. 124.

Words tending to enlargement ſhall not be conſtrued a reſtraint of a former clauſe. L. Raym. 269.

The words juxta tenorem ſequentem are ſufficient in an indictment for a libel; otherwiſe of ad effectum ſequentem. Ld. Raym. 415.

The words adtunc et ibidem refer to the laſt time and place. L. Raym. 576.

The words ea occaſione will ſupply the want of coram ipſo rege in the deſcription of the priſon of the King's Bench in a ſcire facias againſt bail. Lord Raym. 805.

An agreement to pay ſo much for every hundred ſtacks of wood, will not make any thing due for fifty ſtacks, without the words ſecundum ratam. Ld. Raym. 815.

A viz. rejected in a reddendum, becauſe repugnant. Lord Raym. 819.

Where a viz. ſhall be axplanatory, and may contain an averment. Lord Raym. 1271.

The word prædict. in an information relating to the county, where ſeveral counties are mentioned before, is uncertain. Ld. Raym. 886.

The word prædict. ſhall refer to the perſon named before, that is meant in common underſtanding, though there is another of the ſame name. Lord Raym. 1095.

The

The word prædict. in an order or indictment does not refer to the county mentioned in the margin, as it does in a declaration. Lord Raym. 1304.

Treſpaſs for breaking the plaintiff's cloſe, and taking goods there found, and alſo taking and carrying away ſo much ground wheat of the plaintiff's; after intire damages, judgment arreſted, becauſe it did not ſufficiently appear, that the firſt goods were the plaintiff's. Lord Raym. 890.

Proclamation made the 4th of December, that an election would be made on the 9th of December then next following; the word next refers to the day, and not to the month. Lord Raym. 905.

Gilda mercatoria, is a corporation. Ld. Raym. 1134.

Expreſſio eorum quæ tacite inſunt will have no operation upon the clauſe wherein it is expreſſed, but may control a ſubſequent clauſe. Lord Raym. 1154.

In a declaration againſt a priſoner in cuſtody of a ſheriff by virtue of a latitat, de placito quod reddat ei, &c. Theſe laſt words ſhall be referred to the latitat, ſo as to ſhew it to be at the ſuit of the plaintiff according to the act of parliament. Lord Raym. 1362.

Articles of a horſe race to ride ſine flagello & baculo vel aliis armis, the whole ſentence is disjunctive. Lord Raym. 1367.

Quoddam, the ſame as aliud. Ld. Raym. 1522.

The writing croſs the face of a bank note, is properly called an indorſement. Stran. 18.

To pay on ſuch a day next, in a note, refers to the date. Stran. 394.

Barratry in a policy, the ſame as fraud. Stran. 581.

The word et taken disjunctively after a verdict. Stran. 594.

Reſervations or powers at the end of a ſentence, refer to all the members of the ſentence. Stran. 965.

The word quamplurimi does not import the greater part. Stran. 1097.

Curia de Banco noſtro, in a writ, means the King's Bench. Stran. 302.

Indentura facta inter, &c. imports ſealing by both parties. Stran. 512.

N. H. by will gives to Elizabeth his wife all his eſtate, leaſes, and intereſt in his houſe in Hatton Garden, and all the goods and furniture therein at the time of his death, and alſo all his plate, jewels, &c. but deſired her, at or before her death, to give ſuch leaſes, houſe furniture goods, plate, and jewels unto and amongſt ſuch of his own relations, as ſhe ſhould think moſt deſerving and approved of, and made her executrix. Elizabeth by her will gave all her eſtate and intereſt to H. S. in the ſaid houſe in Hatton Garden, and after ſeveral legacies, the reſidue of her perſonal eſtate to the defendant, and two other perſons, and made them executors; but neither gave, at or before her death, the goods in the ſaid houſe, or her huſband's jewels to his ſaid relations. The Maſter of the Rolls was of opinion, that Elizabeth, under the will of N. H. took only beneficially during her life, and that ſo much of the houſhold goods in Hatton Garden, as were not diſpoſed of by her according to the power given her by the will of N. H. in caſe the ſame remain in ſpecie, or the value thereof, ought to be divided equally among ſuch of the relations, as were, &c. at the time of her death. Atkyn's Rep. 469.

The words willing or deſiring in a will, have been frequently conſtrued to amount to a truſt. Atkyn's Rep. 470.

Where the uncertainty is ſuch that the court cannot poſſibly determine who are meant in a will, it may be conſtrued only as a recommendation to the firſt deviſee, and make it an abſolute gift to him. Atkyn's Rep. 470.

Where there is a deviſe to relations in a will, the ſtatute of diſtributions is a good rule to go by, in conſtruing who are meant by that word. Atkyn's Rep. 470.

Sir J. L. gives by a codicil to his will to E. M. during her natural life, his houſe in Greenwich, with all the houſhold goods that ſhall be found therein at the time of his deceaſe: the word with ſo conjoins the deviſe of the houſe and houſhold goods, that the deviſee can have no larger intereſt in the latter than was limited as to the former. Atkyn's Rep. 470. The word with would have had the ſame effect in the caſe of a grant. Ibid.

A tenant for life of goods, is not obliged to give ſecurity for the goods, but to ſign an inventory only to the perſon in remainder. Atkyn's Rep. 471.

A. deviſes ſeveral leaſehold eſtates to two truſtees, in truſt; if his grand-daughter married without their conſent to convey the premiſſes to two other truſtees, in truſt for her ſeparate uſe during the huſband's life, and after her death, for the uſe and benefit of her iſſue: though ſhe has no children by the firſt huſband ſhe has only a right for her life, for the iſſue by any huſband are provided for by this ſettlement. Atkyn's Rep. 472.

Ex poſt facto, Is a term uſed in the law, ſignifying ſomething done after another thing that was committed before. And an act done, or eſtate granted, may be made good by matter ex poſt facto, that was not ſo at firſt, by election, &c. as ſometimes a thing well done at firſt, may afterwards become ill. 8 Rep. 146. 5 Rep. 22.

Extales, The entrials. Mures qui extales corrodunt. Petrus Bleſenſis, Epiſt. 100.

Extend, Extendere, In a legal ſenſe denotes to value the lands or tenements of one bound by ſtatute, &c. that hath forfeited his bond, to ſuch an indifferent rate, as by the yearly rent the creditor in time be paid his debt. The courſe and circumſtances hereof, ſee F. N. B. fol. 131.

Extendi facias, Is a writ ordinarily called a writ of extent, whereby the value of land, &c. is commanded to be made and levied in divers caſes; which ſee in the table of the Reg. Original.

Extent, Extenta, Hath two ſignifications, ſometimes ſignifying a writ or commiſſion to the ſheriff, for the valuing of lands or tenements. Reg. Judic. in Tabula. Sometimes the act of the ſheriff, or other commiſſioner upon this writ. Bro. tit. Extent, f. 313. 16 & 17 Car. 2. cap. 5. And it more frequently ſignified the eſtimate or valuation of lands, which when done to the utmoſt value, was ſaid to be to the full extent; whence our extended rents or rack-rents. Hæc eſt extenta terrarum ——de terris & tenementis prioris de Durhurſte——quantum valeant inſtaurare, & quantum deinſtaurare. Mon. Angl. tom. 1. p. 548. and in 2 tom. fol. 321. Ad inquirendum Æſtimationem & extentam per probos viros. Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 71. See Statute.

Extinguiſhment, In our laws ſignifies, an effect of conſolidation: for example, If a man have due to him a yearly rent out of any lands, and afterwards purchaſe the ſame lands, now both the property and rent are conſolidated or united in one poſſeſſor; and therefore the rent is ſaid to be extinguiſhed. In like manner it is, where a man hath a leaſe for years, and afterwards buyeth the property; this is a conſolidation of the property and the fruits, and is an extinguiſhment of the leaſe. See Terms de la Ley. So if a man have an highway appendant, and after purchaſe the land wherein the highway is; then the way is extinct: and ſo it is of common appendant. But if a man have an eſtate in land but for life or years, and hath fee ſimple in the rent; then the rent is not extinguiſhed, but in ſuſpenſe for the time; and after the term, the rent ſhall be revived. And if there be lord, meſne, and tenant, and the lord purchaſe the tenancy, then the meſnalty is extinct; but the meſne ſhall have the ſurpluſage of the rent, if there be any, as rent-ſeck. Terms de Ley. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Wherever a right, title or intereſt is deſtroyed, or taken away by the act of God, operation of law, or act of the party; this in many books is called an extinguiſhment. Co. Lit. 147. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 933.

1. Of the extinguiſhment of rents.
2. Of the extinguiſhment of copyholds, common, and debts.

1. Of the extinguiſhment of rents.

If a leſſor purchaſes the tenancy from his leſſee, the leſſor can't have both the rent and the land, nor can the tenant tenant be under any obligation to pay the rent when the land, which was the conſideration thereof, is reſumed by the leſſor into his own hands; and this reſumption or purchaſe of the tenancy, makes what is properly called an extinguiſhment of the rent; that is, the rent can never become due or payable by the tenant, by virtue of the donation which created the tenancy, when the land or tenancy is conveyed to the leſſor in as abſolute a manner as he was ſeiſed of the rent. Pollex. 142.

But if the conveyance to the leſſor was not abſolute, but upon condition; or if it were only of a paricular eſtate, of ſhorter duration than the eſtate which the leſſor had in the rent; in theſe caſes, though there be an union of the tenancy and the rent in the ſame hand, yet becauſe that union is but temporary, for upon the performance of the condition, or determination of the particular eſtate, the tenant is reſtored to the enjoyment of the land, and conſequently the obligation to pay the rent revives; therefore the rent in ſuch caſe is only ſuſpended, and not extinguiſhed. Bro. Extinguiſhment 17. Vaugh. 39, 199. Pollex. 142.

Alſo if the lands demiſed be evicted from the tenant, or recovered by a title paramount, the leſſee is diſcharged from the payment of the rent from the time of ſuch eviction; and this is alſo called an extinguiſhment of the rent. But notwithſtanding ſuch recovery or eviction, the tenant ſhall pay the rent which became due before the recovery; becauſe the enjoyment of the land being the conſideration for which the tenant was obliged to pay the rent, ſo long as the conſideration continued, the obligation muſt be in force; there being the ſame reaſon that the tenant ſhould pay the rent for part of the time contracted for, as for the whole term, if he had enjoyed the land ſo long. 2 Rol Abr. 429. Hob. 82. Cro. Eliz 47. Co. Lit. 148. b. 201. b.

For the ſame reaſon, if part only of the land letten be evicted from the tenant, ſuch eviction is a diſcharge of the rent, in proportion to the value of the land evicted. 10 Co. 128. 1 Rol. Abr. 135. Dyer 56.

Covenant upon indenture for non-payment of rent; the plaintiff declares, that he was ſeiſed of tithes, and by indenture demiſed them to the defendant, rendring rent, and the defendant covenanted to pay it, and he aſſigned his breach in non-payment of ſo much; and the defendant pleaded eviction. The plaintiff demurred; and judgment was given for the defendant, becauſe it is a rent, and the eviction is a ſuſpenſion of it, and therefore a good plea. Lord Raym. Rep. 77. Paſch. 8 W. 3. Dalſton v. Reeve.

If a man who hath a rent-ſervice, purchaſes part of the land out of which the rent iſſues, the rent-ſervice is not extinguiſhed, but ſhall be apportioned according to the value of the land; ſo that ſuch purchaſe is a diſcharge to the tenant for ſo much of the rent only as the value of the land purchaſed amounts unto. Lit. ſ. 222.

But if a man has a rent charge, and purchaſes part of the land out of which the rent iſſues, the whole rent is extinguiſhed, and conſequently the tenant diſcharged from the payment of it. Lit. ſect. 222, 223. 8 Co. 105.

But in this caſe if the grantor by deed reciting the purchaſe had granted that the grantee ſhould diſtrain for the ſame rent in the reſidue of the land, the whole rent-charge had been preſerved; becauſe ſuch power of diſtreſs had amounted to a new grant. Co. Lit. 147.

But the law has carried this notion of extinguiſhment only to ſuch caſes, where the grantee of the rent wilfully by his own act prevents the operation of the grant, according to the orignal intention thereof; for if part of the land deſcends to the grantee of the rent-charge, the rent ſhall be apportioned according to the value of the land, for the grantee in this caſe is perfectly paſſive, and concurs not by any act of his to defeat the intention of the grant; and therefore it would be unreaſonable and ſevere, that he ſhould be puniſhed without his default, or concurring in that act which extinguiſhes the rent. Lit. ſect. 224. Co. Lit. 149. b. 1 Rol. Abr. 236.

Hence likewiſe it is, that if a man grants a rent-charge out of two acres, and afterwards the grantee recovereth one acre by title paramount the grant, the whole rent ſhall not be extinguiſhed, becauſe the law, that gives the remedy for the recovery of a man's right, will not prevent the proſecution of ſuch right, by depriving the proſecutor of a greater profit than the thing recovered may amount to; but in this caſe there ſhall be no apportionment, but the grantee ſhall have the whole rent after he has recovered the one acre, becauſe by the grant each acre is charged with the whole rent; and upon the recovery it appears, that the grantor had no intereſt in one acre, and conſequently could not charge it; and therefore the grant being to be taken moſt ſtrongly againſt him, the whole rent ſhall continue after the recovery, becauſe the grant was originally for ſo much, and therefore ſhall iſſue out of that land which he had power to charge; whereas in the former caſe the grantor had, at the time of the grant, power to charge all the land, and therefore when part of the land, ſubject to ſuch charge, comes to the grantee by act of law, 'tis reaſonable at leaſt that the charge ſhould be apportioned. Co. Lit. 148. b.

Alſo a rent-charge may in ſome caſes be apportioned by the act of the party; as if the grantee releaſes part of his rent to the tenant of the land, ſuch releaſe does not extinguiſh the whole rent; ſo if the grantee gives part of it to a ſtranger, and the tenant attorns, ſuch grant ſhall not extinguiſh the reſidue, which the grantee never parted with, but ſuch releaſe or diſpoſition makes no alteration in the orignal grant, nor defeats the intention of it, as the purchaſe of part of the land does; for the whole rent is ſtill iſſuable out of the whole land, according to the orignal intention of the grant. Co. Lit. 148. a. But Cro. Eliz. 742. ſeems cont'.

Here alſo, as to the apportionment of a rent-ſervice, by the purchaſe of the leſſor of part of the tenancy, we muſt diſtinguiſh between ſervices diviſible in their own nature, as a rent, and ſuch as are indiviſible, as a horſe, a hawk, &c. for in the laſt caſe, if the lord purchaſe part of the tenancy, there can be no apportionment of the ſervice from the nature of the thing; and therefore ſuch ſervice is extinct, and the tenant diſcharged from the payment of it; for the whole tenancy being equally chargeable with the payment of ſuch ſervice, the lord by his own act ſhall not diſcharge part, and throw the whole burthen upon the reſidue for his own private benefit and advantage. 6 Co. 1. Co. Lit. 149. a. 8 Co. 105. Moor 203.

But if ſuch intire ſervices were for the benefit of the publick, as knight-ſervice and caſtle-guard, for the defence of the realm, or for the adminiſtration of juſtice; or if ſuch intire ſervice were a work of charity or piety; in all ſuch caſes the tenant is ſtill chargeable with the whole ſervice; for their can be no apportionment, becauſe the thing in its nature is indiviſible, and the whole ſhall not be extinguiſhed becauſe the publick has an intereſt in ſuch ſervices, and therefore ſhall not be prejudiced by the private tranſactions of the parties 6 Co. 1, 2. Co. Lit. 149.

So where the tenure is by a ſervice in its nature indiviſible, as a horſe, or a hawk, &c. which are only for the private benefit or pleaſure of the lord; yet if part of the tenancy comes to the lord by deſcent, the ſervice is not extinguiſhed; becauſe here is no conſent or concurrence of the lord to the diviſion. Co. Lit. 149. a.

It was formerly doubted, whether a rent-ſervice incident to a reverſion could be apportioned, or was not utterly extinguiſhed by a grant of part of the reverſion; for ſince the reverſion and rent incident thereto were intire in their creation, they thought it hard that by the act of the leſſor they ſhould be divided, and thereby the tenant made liable to ſevereal actions and diſtreſſes for the recovery of them; but it was at length reſolved, that the reverſion being a thing in its nature ſeverable, the rent as incident to it may be divided too, becauſe that being made in retribution for the land ought, from the nature of it, to be paid to thoſe who are to have the land upon the the expiration of the leaſe; and hence it is that the rent paſſes incidently with the reverſion, without any expreſs mention of it in the grant; beſides the tenant has really no prejudice from ſuch grant, becauſe it is in his power, and his duty to prevent the ſeveral ſuits and diſtreſſes by a punctual payment of the rent; and therefore he ought not to complain of a miſchief which he wilfully brings upon himſelf; beſides that, formerly (viz. before the 4 & 5 Ann.) ſuch grants could not take effect without the attornment and conſent of the tenant; but on the other hand it would be extremely prejudicial, if upon ſuch grants the rent ſhould not be apportioned, becauſe then the leſſor could not out of his eſtate make a proviſion for his younger children, or anſwer the contingencies of his family which are in view. 2 Inſt. 504. 1 Rol. Abr. 234. Cro. Eliz. 651, 851. Co. Lit. 148. 8 Co. 79. Dyer 326. Hob. 177. 13 Co. 57, 58. Moor, pl. 255, 256.

If leſſee for life or years ſurrenders part, or if he commit a forfeiture of part by making a feoffment, or doing waſte, there can be no colour to conſtrue theſe acts an extinguiſhment of the whole rent; but in theſe caſes the rent ſhall be apportioned, becauſe the rent is retribution for the land, and therefore muſt neceſſarily ceaſe according to the proportion of the land reſumed by the leſſor; for it were abſurd, that the leſſor ſhould have the land and retribution for it; but the whole rent is not extinguiſhed, becauſe from the nature of the contract the rent is to be paid in conſideration of the enjoyment of the land, and therefore the tenant ſhall be obliged to pay the rent in proportion to the land which he enjoys; ſo if the leſſor grant the reverſion of part to the leſſee, the rent ſhall be apportioned. Co. Lit. 148. a. 1 Rol. Abr. 235. Dyer 5. a. 13 Co. 58. Moor, pl. 255.

There ſeems to have been variety of opinions, whether the leſſor's entring wrongfully into part of the lands demiſed, did not ſuſpend the whole rent during ſuch tortious entry, or whether the rent ought not to be apportioned; and it is now ſettled, that ſuch tortious entry ſuſpends the whole rent; for if any apportionment were allowed in this caſe, it would be in the power of the lord or leſſor to reſume any part of the land againſt his own engagement and contract, and ſo, by taking that which lies moſt commodiouſly for the tenant, render the remainder in effect uſeleſs, or put him to the expence to reſtore himſelf to ſuch part by courſe of law; and therefore to prevent theſe inconveniencies, and that no man might be encouraged to injure or diſturb his tenant, whom he ought to protect and defend, it hath been reſolved, that ſuch diſſeiſin or tortious entry ſuſpends the whole rent, and that the tenant or leſſee is diſcharged from the payment of any part of it till he is reſtored to the whole poſſeſſion. Co. Lit. 148. b. Bro. tit. Extinguiſhment 48. 1 Rol. Abr. 938. 4 Co. 52. 9 Co. 135. 3 Keb. 453, 497. Pollex. 142, 144. 1 Vent. 277.

2. Of the extinguiſhment of copyholds, commons, and debts.

As to the extinguiſhment of copyholds, it is laid down as a general rule, that any act of the copyholder's which denotes his intention to hold no longer of his lord, and amounts to a determination of his will, is an extinguiſhment of his copyhold. Hutt. 81. Cro. Eliz. 21. 1 Jon. 41.

As if a copyholder in fee accepts a leaſe for years of the ſame land from the lord, this determines his copyhold eſtate; or if the lord leaſes the copyhold to another, and the copyholder accepts an aſſignment from the leſſee, his copyhold is extinct. Moor 184. 2 Co. 16. b. Godb. 11. 101.

So if a copyholder bargains and ſells his copyhold to the leſſee for years of the manor, his copyhold is thereby extinguiſhed; or if he joins with his lord in a feoffment of the manor, his copyhold is thereby extinct, for theſe are acts which denote his intention to hold no longer by copy. Hutt. 65. 1 Jon. 41. S. C. Godb. 11.

So if a copyholder accepts to hold of his lord, by bill under the lord's hand, this determines his copyhold; ſo if he accepts an eſtate for life by parol, if livery, this is an extinguiſhment; otherwiſe not; for without livery nothing but an eſtate at will paſſes, which cannot merge or extinguiſh an eſtate at will. 1 And. 199. Latch 213.

If one ſeiſed of a manor in right of his wife lets lands by indenture for years; this doth not deſtroy the cuſtom as to the wife; for after the death of her huſband ſhe may demiſe it again by copy. Cro. Eliz. 459.

So if a copyhold is in the hands of a ſubject, who after becomes King, the copyhold is extinct, for it is below the majeſty of a King to perform ſuch ſervile ſervices; yet after his deceaſe the next that hath right ſhall be admitted, and the tenure revived. 2 Sid. 82. 4 Co. 24. Cro. Eliz. 252. See 2 Leon. 208. 4 Co. 26. b. Cro. Eliz. 103.

If a commoner, who hath common appurtenant, purchaſes part of the land in which he hath ſuch common, this is an extinguiſhment of the common; but if ſuch purchaſe had been made by one who had common appendant, this being of common right muſt be apportioned; alſo both common appendant and appurtenant ſhall be apportioned by alienation of part of the land to which the common is appendant or appurtenant. Co. Lit. 122. Hob. 235. 8 Co. 78. Owen 122. 4 Co. 37.

It ſeems to be agreed as a general rule, that a creditor's accepting a higher ſecurity than he had before, is an extinguiſhment of the firſt debt; as if a creditor by ſimple contract accepts an obligation, this extinguiſhes the ſimple contract debt. 1 Rol. Abr 470, 471, 604. 6 Co. 44.

So if a man accepts a bond for a legacy, he cannot after ſue for his legacy in the ſpiritual court; for by the deed the legacy is extinct, and it is become a mere debt at Common law. Yelv. 38.

So if a bond creditor obtains judgment on the bond, or has judgment acknowledged to him, he cannot afterwards bring an action on the bond; for the debt is drowned in the judgment, which is a ſecurity of a higher nature than the bond. 6 Co. 44. b.

But theſe caſes muſt be underſtood where the debtor himſelf enters into theſe ſecurities; and therefore if a ſtranger give bond for a ſimple contract due by another, this does not extinguiſh the ſimple contract debt; but if upon making the contract, a ſtranger gives bond for it, or being preſent, promiſes to give bond for it, and after does ſo, the debt by ſimple contract is extinguiſhed, the obligation being made upon, or purſuant to the contract. 2 Leon. 110.

But the accepting a ſecurity of an inferior nature is by no means an extinguiſhment of the firſt debt; as if a bond be given in ſatisfaction of a judgment. Cro. Jac. 579. 2 Brownl. 29. Cro. Jac. 649, 650.

Alſo the accepting a ſecurity of equal degree is no extinguiſhment of the firſt debt; as where an obligee has a ſecond bond given to him; for one deed cannot determine the duty upon another. Cro. Eliz. 304, 716, 727, 1 Brownl. 74. Lit. Rep. 58. Cro. Car. 86.

Alſo it is ſaid to have been adjudged, that if the condition of an obligation be to pay ten pounds at a day, which is not paid at the day, but after the day the obligee accepts a ſtatute-ſtaple from the obligor for the ſame debt, in full ſatisfaction of the obligation; yet this is not any ſatisfaction, for tho' the ſtatute be a matter of record and higher than the obligation, yet the obligation remains in force, and the obligee hath his election to ſue the one or the other. 6 Co. 44. 1 Rol. Abr. 470. Cro. Car. 86. S. C. cited.

If an infant becomes indebted for neceſſaries, and the party takes bond of the infant; this ſhall not extinguiſh the ſimple contract, for the bond has no force. Cro. Eliz. 920.

Though a bond is taken for a ſimple contract debt, yet if it is after an act of bankruptcy, the ſimple contract is not extinguiſhed. Stran. 1042.

Extinguiſhment of ſervices. The lord purchaſes or accepts parcel of the tenancy, out of which an intire ſervice is to be paid or done; by this the whole ſervice will will be extinct: but if the ſervice be pro bono publico, then no part of it ſhall be extinguiſhed; and homage and fealty are not ſubject to extinguiſhment, by the lord's purchaſing part of the land. 6 Rep. 1, 105. Co. Lit. 149. If the lord and another perſon do purchaſe the lands, whereout he is to have ſervices, they are extinct: Alſo by ſeverance of the ſervices, a manor may be extinguiſhed. Co. Lit. 147. 1 And. 257.

Extinguiſhment of ways. If a man hath a highway as appendant, and after purchaſes the land wherein this way is, the way is extinct. Terms de la ley. Though a way of neceſſity to market or church, or to arable land, &c. is not extinguiſhed by purchaſe of grounds, or unity of poſſeſſion. 11 H. 7. 35. 1 Inſt. 155.

Exterpare, To ſpend or loſe. In the laws of Edward the Confeſſor, cap. 6. 'tis provided, That if a thief take any thing unlawfully, and is near at hand, let him reſtore it; Et ſi illud penitus extirpaverit, let him make the owner full ſatisfaction. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Extirpatione, Is a writ judicial, that lieth againſt him, who after a verdict found againſt him for land, &c. doth maliciouſly overthrow any houſe upon it, &c. and it is two-fold, one ante judicium, the other poſt judicium. Reg. Jud. fol. 13, 56, 58.

Extocare, To ſtock up, to grub wood-land, and reduce it to arable or meadow.——Dedi etiam eis pratum quod Rogerus de Tocheham de grava quadam extocavarat. Mon. Angl. tom. 2. p. 71.

Extortion, (Extortio,) Is an unlawful or violent wringing of money or money-worth from any man: For example, If any officer, by terrifying any of the King's ſubjects in his office, take more than his ordinary duties or fees, he committeth this offence, and is indictable for it. To this may be referred the exaction of unlawful uſury, winning by unlawful games; and in one word, all taking of more than is due, by colour or pretence of right, as exceſſive toll in millers, exceſſive prices of ale, bread, victuals, wares, &c. Weſt. Symbol. part 2. tit. Indictment, ſect. 65. Manwood ſaith, that extortion is colore officii, and not vertute officii. Crompton in his Juſtice of Peace, fol. 8. hath theſe words; Wrong done by any man, is properly a treſpaſs, but exceſſive wrong by any man is called extortion; and this is moſt properly in officers, as ſheriffs, mayors, bailiffs, eſchetors, and the like, that by colour of their office do great oppreſſion, and exceſſive wrong unto the people, in taking exceſſive rewards or fees for the execution of their office: Great diverſity of caſes touching extortion, you may read in Crom. Juſtice of Peace, fol. 48, 49, 50. See the difference between colore officii, and virtute vel ratione officii, Plow. fol. 64. Dive's caſe. This word is uſed in the ſame ſignification in other countries; for Cavalcanes de Brachio Regio. part 5. num. 21. thus deſcribeth it,—Et extortio dicitur fieri, quando Judex cogit aliquid ſibi dari quod non eſt debitum, vel quod eſt ultra debitum, vel ante tempus petit id, quod poſt adminiſtratam juſtitiam debetur. Cowell, edit. 1727.

Extortion is ſaid by Lord Coke to ſignify any oppreſſion by colour or pretence of right, and in this reſpect it is ſaid to be more heinous than robbery itſelf, as alſo, that it is uſually attended with the agravating ſin of perjury. Co. Lit. 268. b. 10 Co. 102. a. 2 Haw. P. C. 170. Cro. Car. 438, 448.

But in a ſtrict ſenſe it is defined, the taking of money by any officer, by colour of his office, either where none at all is due, or not ſo much is due, or where it is not yet due. Co. Lit. 368. 10 Co. 102.

1. Who may be guilty of extortion.

2. How puniſhable, and pleadings.

1. Who may be guilty of extortion.

By the Common law, as alſo by the ſtatute of Weſtm. 1. cap. 26. it is declared and enacted to be extortion, for any ſheriff, or other miniſter of the King, whoſe office any ways concerns the adminiſtration or execution of juſtice, or the common good of the ſubject, to take any reward whatſoever, except what he received from the King. 2 Inſt. 209. Co. Lit. 368.

And this inſtitution hath been thought ſo conducive to the good of the publick, that all preſcriptions whatſoever, which have been contrary to it, have been held to be void: as where the clerk of the market claimed certain fees as due time out of mind, for the examination of weights and meaſures; and this was adjudged to be void. 2 Rol. Abr. 226. Moor 523. 2 Inſt. 209. 4 Inſt. 274.

But the ſtated and known fees, allowed by the Courts of juſtice to their reſpective officers for their labour and trouble, are not reſtrained by the Common law, or by the ſaid ſtatute of Weſtm. 1. and therefore ſuch fees may be legally demanded and inſiſted upon, without any danger of extortion. Co. Lit. 368.

And for this reaſon it is held, that the fee of 20 d. called the bar fee, taken time out of mind by the ſheriff for every priſoner that is acquitted, and the fee of a penny claimed by the coroner from every viſne, when he came before the juſtice in eyre, are not within this ſtatute; as alſo becauſe they are due of courſe as perquiſites, whether any thing be done by ſuch ſherff or coroner, or not. 2 Inſt. 176, 210. Staund. P. C. 49.

Alſo it ſeems that an officer, who takes a reward which is voluntarily given to him, and which has been uſual in certain caſes, for the more diligent or expeditious performance of his duty, cannot be ſaid to be guilty of extortion; for without ſuch a premium it would be impoſſible in many caſes to have the laws executed with vigour and ſucceſs. 2 Inſt. 210. 3 Inſt. 149. Co. Lit. 368.

But it has been always held, that a promiſe to pay an officer money for the doing of a thing, which the law will not ſuffer him to take any thing for, is merely void, however freely and voluntarily it may appear to have been made. 1 Rol. Abr. 16. 1 Rol. Rep. 313. Noy 76. 1 Jon. 65. Cro. Eliz. 654. Moor 468. Cro. Jac. 103.

Churchwardens of St. Martins were indicted for extortiouſly taking of one Reynel a ſilver cup for making him gallery-keeper in the church: Keeling ſaid this was no offence, nor ſuch an offence whereupon extortion can be grounded, but a bare employment. But the court would not quaſh it without a trial; for then it will appear whether the cup were great or little, exacted or freely given; and per Keeling, if the churchwardens have accounted, it ſhall be quaſhed, but not elſe. 2 Keb. 100. pl. 27. Mich. 18 Car. 2. B. R. The King v. Ayres & al'.

Bailiffs taking exceſſive bail, as 40 l. where the plaint was but of 30 s. an information was ordered againſt them for this extortion. 1 Keb. 873. pl. 23. Paſch. 17 Car. 2. B. R. Randal v. Keise.

Every ſeveral taking is a ſeveral extortion, and it is not good to lay too many extortions together; per Holt Ch. J. Cumb. 194. Paſch. 4 W. & M. in B. R. The King v. Roberts.

Under-ſheriff refuſing to execute proceſs till he had his fees, if the party pays him the fees ſo before-hand, he may after indict him of extortion. 1 Salk. 330. pl. 3. Mich. 6 W. & M. in B. R. Heſcot's caſe.

An indictment for extortion againſt an officer for taking money for not carrying his priſoner to a ſpunging houſe; the court looked upon it to be ſo ill a practice, that they would not hear a motion to quaſh it. 12 Mod. 253. Mich. 10 W. 3. The King v. Beechcroft.

An indictment was againſt ſeveral for intending to defraud A. of his money, and that they threatned to ſend him to Newgate by colour of a warrant, and to indict him of perjury, unleſs he would give them money, and a note, which he did by reaſon of their threats; and judgment for the Queen. 11 Mod. 137. Mich. 6 Ann. B. R. The Queen v. Woodard.

Judge of a biſhop's court convicted of extortion, for compelling probate of a will proved in the Prerogative court. Stran. 74.

If

If the defendant erects ſeveral ſtalls, and does not leave ſufficient room for the market people to ſtand and ſell their wares, ſo that for want of room they are forced to hire the ſtalls of the defendant, the taking of money for the uſe of the ſtalls in ſuch caſes is extortion. Ld. Raym. 149.

2. How puniſhable, and pleadings.

This offence of extortion is puniſhable at Common law by fine and impriſonment, and alſo by a removal from the office in the execution whereof it was committed; and there is a farther additional puniſhment by the ſtatute of Weſtm. 1. with regard to the perſons to which the ſtatute extends, by which it is enacted, "That no ſheriff, nor other King's officer, ſhall take any reward to do his office, but ſhall be paid of that which they take of the King, and that he, who ſo doth, ſhall yield twice as much, and ſhall be puniſhed at the King's pleaſure." 2 Rol. Abr. 32, 33, 37. Raym. 315. 2 Inſt. 209.

Juſtices of the peace at ſeſſions have conuſance of extortion. Stran. 75.

If an indictment of extortion charges J. S. with the taking of 50*s.* as bailiff of an hundred colore officii, without ſhewing for what he took it; this is good, at leaſt after verdict, for perhaps he might claim it generally, as being due to him as bailiff, in which caſe the taking could not be otherwiſe expreſſed. 1 Sid. 91.

This term Nelme, a bailiff, in Whitechapel, being indicted, and convicted of extortion, was fined 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* to be impriſoned one week without bail, and then till he found ſureties for his good behaviour, and diſabled for ever to execute the office of bailiff or under bailiff. MS. Rep. (ſaid to be a copy of Lord Ch. J. Keyling's) Mich. 15 Car. 2. B. R. Nelme's caſe.

The governor of the Gatehouſe priſon in Weſtminſter, was found guilty of extortion and hard uſage of the priſoners in a moſt barbarous manner, and was fined 100 marks, and removed from her office. Raym. 216. Mich. 24 Car. 2. B. R. The Lady Broughton's caſe.

An action lies againſt a ferryman for extorting money for paſſage of one that is toll-free by cuſtom, contrary to the cuſtom, becauſe there is no other remedy. Carth. 194. Trin. 3 W. & M. in B. R. in caſe of Pain v. Patrick.

It is againſt the courſe of the court to quaſh an indictment for oppreſſion or extortion; per cur. We cannot do it. Demur to it. 5 Mod. 13. Mich. 6 W. & M. The King v. Wadſworth.

Upon affidavit of extortion, though the courſe is to take a recognizance to anſwer interrogatories, yet in caſe of great oppreſſion the court may commit the party, and he muſt anſwer in vinculis; per Holt Ch. J. Cumb. 448. Trin. 9 W. 3. B. R.

Indictment was againſt A. and others, for that being receivers of the Queen's tax, they colore officii extorted money from ſeveral perſons. On motion in arreſt of judgment it was held, that two men may be indicted jointly for a battery or extortion, becauſe it is a crime at Common law, or they may be jointly or ſeverally guilty. 1 Salk. 382. pl. 32. Paſch. 5 Ann. B. R. The Queen v. Atkinſon.

The place where the extortion was committed ſhould be ſet down in the declaration. See Pl. C. 200. Stradling v. Margan.

The ſum certain extorted muſt be particularly ſet forth, and he cannot ſay, that the defendant did extort divers ſums from divers men generally; and ſo it was adjudged in Reignolds caſe in this court; per Richardſon Ch. J. Godb. 438. pl. 583. Mich. 4 Car. in the Star-Chamber; Floyd v. Cannon.

If the charge is for oppreſſing A. B. and C. particularly, and 100 men generally, the proof muſt be firſt to A. B. and C. before any be given as to the others. Godb. 438. pl. 583. Mich. 4 Car. in the Star-Chamber; Floyd v. Cannon.

It was moved to quaſh an indictment againſt a miller for taking too great toll, becauſe it was not ſaid jurat', nor onerat', nor the jurors named. But per curiam, it is againſt the courſe of the court to quaſh an indictment againſt extortion or oppreſſion, and we cannot do it; and bid them demur to it. 5 Mod. 13. Mich. 6 W. & M. The King v. Wadſworth.

A complaint and charge of extortion ought to be particular, and that the defendant took it extorſive, & colore officii. 2 Salk. 680. pl. 2. Paſch. 5 Ann. in Cam. Scacc. The Queen v. Baynes.

If a man be indicted for taking extorſively 20*s.* and there is but proof of one ſhilling, yet the defendant is guilty. Ld. Raym. 149.

Extracta curiae, The iſſues or profits of holding a court ariſing from the cuſtomary dues, fees, and amercements.——Cumputant de tribus denariis receptis de extractis unius curiæ tentæ apud Burceſter.—— Paroch. Antiq. p. 572.

Extracts or Extreats. See Eſtreats.

Extrajudicial, Is when judgment is given in a cauſe or caſe not depending in that court, where ſuch judgment is given, or wherein the judge has not juriſdiction.

Extraparochial, Out of any pariſh privileged or exempted from the duties of a pariſh. Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2.

If a place is extraparochial, and has not the face of a pariſh, the juſtices have no authority to ſend any poor perſon thither; poſſibly a place extraparochial may be taxed in aid of a pariſh, but a pariſh ſhall not in aid of that; per Holt. 2 Salk. 486. pl. 44. Hill. 11 W. 3. B. R. Precinct of Bridewell v. Clerkenwell.

If a place be a reputable pariſh, and have churchwardens and overſeers of the poor, it is within 43 Eliz. though in truth it be no pariſh; but if it be merely extraparochial, as the juſtices cannot ſend to ſuch a place, ſo they cannot ſend from it; as it is exempt from receiving, ſo it ſhall not have the benefit of removing, for they have not proper perſons to complain; perſons in extraparochial places muſt ſubſiſt on private charity, as all perſons did at Common law before 43 Eliz. which enacts, that every pariſh ſhall keep their own poor; and that act does not extend to extraparochial places. Per Holt Ch. J. 2 Salk. 487. pl. 48. Trin. 12 W. 3. B. R. Inhabitants of the Foreſt of Dean v. The Pariſh of Linton.

One ſettled in a pariſh removes into an extraparochial place, where he gains a ſettlement, and then removes into another pariſh where he becomes chargeable. The queſtion was, what this laſt pariſh can do with him; whether by the ſtatute, that enables them to ſend ſuch a one to the laſt pariſh where he was laſt legally ſettled, they may ſend him to the pariſh he lived in before he removed to the extraparochial place? for ſend him to the extraparochial place they cannot, for want of proper officers to receive him. Powell J. took this to be caſus omiſſus, and what ought to be moved in parliament, theſe extraparochial places being many in number and of great extent. 10 Mod. 81. Hill. 10 Ann. B. R. The Queen v. Doughton.

By virtue of 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 12. ſect. 21. The juſtices may exerciſe the powers given by 43 Eliz. and that act, in all extraparochial places containing more houſes than one, ſo as to come under the denomination of a vill or townſhip. Adjudged by Parker Ch. J. and tot. cur. 2 Salk. 486. pl. 44. in Marg. cites 11 Ann. B. R. Stoke-Lane Inhabitants v. Dolting.

The ſtatute of 43 Eliz. 2. extends to extraparochial places, and ſo do all poor acts, when ſuch places are within the ſame miſchief as other pariſhes, and ſhall be ſubject to the controul of the juſtices of peace, and the penalty for not meeting in the church ſhall never be inflicted on the overſeers of the poor, becauſe the inhabitants of ſuch places have no church to meet in. Moſt of the foreſts in England are extraparochial, and ſo is Chriſt-Church in Oxford; but they ought to maintain their own poor. 8 Mod. 39. Paſch. 7 Geo. Rufford pariſh's caſe.

Extraria, The ſame with Eſtray.

Extravagants, Theſe are certain conſtitutions of popes, and are ſo called, becauſe they are extra corpus canonicum Gratiani, ſive extra decratorum libros vagantur, Du Freſne.

Extumae, Relicks.——Abbas igitur & conventus accipientes eorum extumas cum gaudio in majorem tranſtulerunt eccleſiam in Mauſoleo nobiliter exculpto.——Cartular. Abbat. Glaſton. MS. penes virum Rev. Dom. Clarges, f. 15.

Exuperare, To overcome. It ſometimes ſignifies to apprehend or take; as, Exuperare alium vivum vel mortuum. Leg. Edm. cap. 2. So in the laws of King Alfred apud Brompton, cap. 7. Exuperetur & in epiſcopi judicio reſervatur.

Ey, Inſula, An iſland. Domeſday.

Eyery of hawks. See Aery.

Eyet, Inſuletta, A ſmall iſland or iſlet: it is corruptly called by the moderns vulgarly an eyght.

Eyrar, An ey, eyrie, brood, neſt: Sir Thomas Havyll his ſon and heir entred to the ſaid ccc. acres of paſture, which Thomas releaſed his title to the ſaid poor, to have IIII. couples of eyrare ſwannys (i. e. brood-ſwans) in the water, with all iſſue and profits.———Munimenta Hoſpital. SS. Trinitat. de Pontefracto. MS. fol. 53.

Eyre. See Eire.

Eyrendale, An old meaſure of corn. Willielmus de Longo Campo epiſcopus Elienſis ordinavit, ut in die anniverſarii ſui dentur pauperibus xiii. eytendeles de frumento. Hiſtor. Elien. apud Whartoni Angl. Sacr. P. 1. p. 633.

The END of the FIRST VOLUME.

FH
MVSEVM
BRITANNICVM